VIERKOETTER IS WINNER IN FINE TIME OF 11.45

Only Three Completed 21-Mile Marathon Off - Toronto Exhibition

NO WOMEN FINISHED

200,000 People Give New Champion Tremendous Ovation At Finish

Toronto, Sept. 1. — The record official time of Vierkoetter winner of the lower lakes swimming marathon here yesterday was 11 hours, 42 mins. and 8 2-5 seconds.

Toronto, Ont., September 1.—Ernest Vierkoetter triumphed over twenty-one miles of icy cold Lake Ontario waters last night and is the winner of $20,000. The big German did the trick in fine condition and was four miles ahead of George Michel, English Channel record holder, when he crossed the finishing line of the Canadian National Exhibition swimming marathon.

Only two men finished beside Ernest Vierkoetter who was in at 8.15 p.m., but George Michel, Frenchman, who was second prize, did not finish until 12.45 this morning, while William Brickson ended the long grind in 2.31 a.m. and there were still thousands waiting to cheer him.

Every other swimmer but these three had dropped out. The last woman to give up was Marilla Swager of Portland, Oregon, taken out of the water at 12.08 this morning.

Starting at eight-thirty, Eastern Daylight time, yesterday morning, Vierkoetter ploughed his way around the course, the last the lead from George Young, youthful Torontonian, who was favored to win, at the five mile mark, and from then on was never headed. Young was taken from the water unconscious shortly after the Rhinelander had passed him.

Vierkoetter swam a beautiful race.

Vierkoetter swam the twenty-one mile triangular course in 11 hours and 45 minutes. He was given a tremendous ovation when he crossed the line by more than 200,000 people who jammed the waterfront. He finished companionless, fresh and held his hands high out of the water in jubilation as the hundreds of watercraft which concentrated at the finish line let loose their sirents in a paean of applause.

LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL MEETS

Geneva, Sept. 1.—The forty-sixth session of the League of Nations council was opened here this morning by Gentry of Enrique Villegas, Chilean ambassador to Italy. Paul Boncour, France, Sir Austen Chamberlain, British Foreign minister, Stresseman of Germany and Dr. Benes, of Czechoslovakia were present. Administrative questions occupied the meeting, which was held in private. Assembly opens next Monday with disarmament the main problem.

STRANGE TALES FROM OFFICERS

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—The opening day of the final session of the Customs Conference brought further information about liquor operations on the Atlantic Coast. J. B. Mitchell of Halifax was interrogated by Hon. Mr. Rowell, commission counsel, with respect to forged United States revenue stripe sold denied any knowledge of them. Capt. Alfred LeCouvre, Master of the Canadian customs protective cutter Margin told of liquors seized and then reported on instructions from Ottawa, which he was at a loss to explain. Later he had been instructed to place liquor on board a rum runner in Halifax harbour.

SCHOOLS READY FOR NEW TERM OPENING TUESDAY

The High, Public and Separate Schools of the city are all in readiness for the reopening which takes place on Tuesday of next week. Most of the schools have been renovated on the interior during the summer vacation.

The High School will be little less than an emergency building for the coming year. There will be practically no light in the classrooms on the east side at the walls of the new building will be only about three feet away from the windows. Artificial light will be necessary in those rooms all day. The playground, as well, will be handicapped at the coming school term by the piles of building supplies, clay on the campus and workmen and trucks moving around. There will be five new teachers on the personnel of the High School staff.

The public schools will have no new teachers. Miss Frances Sullivan has resumed her duties at Queen Mary School after six months' leave of absence during which time she took a domestic science course in Toronto. The teacher who was engaging in her place has been appointed to Queen Victoria School to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Miss Greta Madden.

There are three new teachers at St. Michael's Academy to replace those transferred to other school missions in the diocese. Sister Mary Edward is again principal of the school this year.

OVERDUE PLANE CAUSES ANXIETY AMONG FRIENDS

PRINCESS ON BOARD

English Officers Expected Over Newfoundland This Morning

At 1.15 p.m. eastern daylight saving time, no word had been received of the progress of the British monoplane St. Raphael, with the aged Princess Werthmin at a passenger and captains Hamilton and Michlu as pilots. Anxiety was beginning to be felt in London and Ottawa at the continued silence regarding the attempt to fly from England to Canada.

Ottawa, Sept. 1.—Great excitement aroused by the report that the "St. Raphael" plane had been sighted in Quebec Province was quashed when it was found that the plane belonged to Capt. Sander flying from Lake St. Johns. He reported strong east winds and fog, thousand feet high along the course to be followed by the English plane. Up to noon no word had been received of the plane.

St. John, Nfld., Sept. 1.—Up to five thirty this morning Standard time this morning nothing had been reported of the British monoplane "St. Raphael," in which Capt. Leslie Hamilton and Lt. Pr. F. Minchin started out from Newfoundland yesterday with Princess Werthern as passenger, in an attempt to fly to Canada. Last seen of the plane was when it took over over the Atlantic from the Irish coast.

A light northwest wind was blowing here with fog, but indications were that weather would clear. An unofficial statement at midnight said the plane was still going strong.

The monoplane's strong had kept ceasless vigil throughout the night, but they received their efforts as the hour approached 5 o'clock when the monoplane should be sighted as it raced towards the mainland from the Atlantic vastes.

MERRY PARTY WAITS FOR RELIEF SHIP

Wrangell, Alaska, Sept. 1.—The aftermath of the shipwreck was turned into a picnic today as 270 tourists from the steamer "Princess Charlotte," rescued when the vessel struck a reef Tuesday night, plunged into a prosaic if a series of events while awaiting the arrival of a relief ship to take them to Vancouver.

81 CENTS A STROKE FOR VIERKOETTER IN BIG SWIM

Vierkoetter earned about 81 cents a stroke yesterday.

The swimmer varied his strokes between 56 and 51 to the minute. Taking an average of 53½ strokes a minute, Vierkoetter, in the 750 minutes he was in the water, made 39,855 strokes in all. He received a prize money $20,000, and the marathon association declares that that figure cut at 81 cents a stroke.

Another man with a weakness for calculation figured that the winner made 71 cents a second. That, of course, does not take into consideration the other remunerations which come to sudden fame.

CANADA'S FLIERS START ON LONG TRIP TO BRITAIN

London - To - London And Windsor-To-Windsor Flights

PASSED KINGSTON

Expect To Reach Objectives In About Forty Hours of Flying

P.M.—Canada's two transAtlantic fliers were reported early at this hour. The Sir John Carling, piloted by Lt. Leigh of Newfoundland, had travelled from London, Ontario to New York (New York and will on the St. Lawrence. The Royal Windsor, piloted by Flt. Englund started both later and further westward than the Carling but passed Kingston at 1.15 (Daylight Saving Time) this afternoon about five hours behind the Carling.

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 1.—Two Canadian attempts at trans-Atlantic crossing were under way today. From here Carling plane left London the plane "Royal Windsor" left Windsor at 9.55 eastern standard time this morning, bound for Windsor, England, Lieut.-Gr. A. Schiller and Flt. Hunt were on board. While the "Carling" is heavier than the Windsor machine it is believed the "Windsor" will attempt a non-stop flight to England.

At London the "Sir John Carling" took off perfectly under the hands of Lieut. Medcalfe and Capt. R. Tully despite a light ground haze. Warned by pessimistic skeptics, citizens of London were on hand in thousands at dawn to bid the two airmen bon voyage on their attempted 3,700 mile flight for the $25,000 prize.

Because of inadequate facility the Carling carries only about 380 gallons of gas. Because of this weight it was found impossible to carry enough fuel to attempt a non-stop flight to Ireland or Scotland as Green, Newfoundland, is the first objective of Tully and Medcalfe. There they will refill and cross the Atlantic immediately if weather permits.

It is expected everyone of the hundreds present seemed to realize that one of the biggest efforts of the 20th century was to get the "Royal Windsor" off the ground and away. Finally the fliers here pointed toward England. With Duke Schiller at controls and Phil Wood as navigator the Royal Windsor plane roared down the field attaining a speed of ninety miles an hour. About one mile from the start the plane first lifted and the flight was on. It was a perfect take off. After climbing the plane cleared low wires and trees at the end of the field. It flew due south for about two miles and then turned east on the course which is expected to take it to Ireland. Word from the start, on to Croveden Field after reaching Kingston, Sept. 1.—London-to-London plane "Carling" passed east of here at 1.15 p.m. standard time.

Making Good Speed

Philipsburg, Que., Sept. 1.—"Sir John Carling" plane is winging it's way truly and speedily toward Newfoundland. It passed here at 1.45 at 10.17 a.m. standard time and was sighted at Cowden Field and Malone N.Y. It flew past this village at 10.18 flying low and fast.

Residents Of College Hill Saw The "Royal Windsor" Pass

The "Royal Windsor" sailed Belleville on its way to Windsor Castle, England, at 1.10 this afternoon. Several residents of the College Hill section watched the giant yellow plane speeding over the northern end of the city. Mr. E. W. Creek, of the C.N.R. Telegraph Office, was one who watch ed the big plane wing its way swiftly eastward and disappear on its way down the St. Lawrence. It was travelling at a high rate of speed and flying high, he said.

15-YEAR-OLD GIRL DROWNED TODAY

Edna Maracle, Shannonville, Got Beyond Depth In Salmon River

Edna Maracle, fifteen year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Maracle, of Shannonville, was drowned at about 3 o'clock this afternoon in the Salmon River, which is close to the Shannonville Fair Grounds. She could not swim and got beyond her depth. The body was recovered about 5 o'clock this afternoon by Coroner Montreal, who is a draughtsman for W. T. Bishop & Son, a sawmill firm. It appears that Miss Maracle, with a couple of children, was bathing and got out of her depth and was unable to appear by the children who ran to a neighboring house for help.

Dr. Sargent, coroner of Shannonville, took charge of the body and at 7:30 this afternoon was undecided whether an inquest would be held or not. J. F. MacFarlane, undertaker and funeral director of Shannonville, has charge of the body.

Besides the parents, the deceased girl is survived by one sister, Mrs. Bessie Hill, employed at the Queen's Hotel, this city.

Vierkoetter Ready To Race George Young From 1 To 20 Miles

Toronto, Sept. 1.—As champion swimmer of the world Vierkoetter is willing to meet all comers. His manager made this statement on behalf of the big German swimmer this afternoon. Any challenge from George Young for any distance from one to twenty miles would be accepted he said.

Vierkoetter was up at 6.30 today walking in his garden showing no signs of the tremendous physical ordeal he endured. Congratulations were being received from all parts of the world was the first question. "Any congratulations on your great achievement" from George Young.

CHAMPION IS READY FOR THE BIG FIGHT

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Gene Tunney comes here tomorrow for final training for the bout of physical condition to meet the challenge of Dempsey. With sparring partners, trainers and newspaper men the champion motors from his camp at Speculator, N. Y. Tunney's physical condition is extraine for this fight.

Meanwhile Dempsey's chief aim in his camp near here, is to develop a defense against left jabs. Tunney's main left jab that champion, will use or draw in the fight, will make a world tour starting next month.

BLIND IN HIS RIGHT EYE BUT COULD SEE ENOUGH TO WIN

Vierkoetter is 26 years of age. He was born in Cologne, Germany. He is a baker by trade, and is married.

When he was six years of age his right eye was pierced by a baipin, which destroyed the sight. While living in a marathon usually pull to his right of the swimmer. Vierkoetter's right runs along on his left, because of the blindness of his right eye.

Vierkoetter is a fresh-water swimmer, first and foremost. His first real saltwater swim was when he conquered the English Channel last summer. In his first attempt he was forced out when within a mile of the English shore, his goal. Within four days he tried again and was successful.

Vierkoetter is a married man. His wife did not accompany him to Canada but awaits him in Cologne.

THOUSANDS SWARM GROUNDS FOR SECOND DAY OF CITY'S GREATEST FAIR IN SPITE OF BAD WEATHER

C. I. A. PICNIC GOES TO TORONTO

RACES STARTED

Track Soggy From Rain But Performance Up To Standard

When Belleville is pleasure-bent a little bit of rain will not stop her. Big thousand were hundred and fifty-nine visitors entered the gates of the Agricultural Society grounds yesterday afternoon from eight o'clock in the morning until late at night. This total represents twenty-nine hundred more than the same day last year and five hundred and forty-six more than that. The same day 1926 had six thousand six hundred and eighty visitors and four thousand two hundred and four in 1925.

Yesterday afternoon and last night the Rotary and Grandstand were jammed with pleasure seekers, young and old, rich and poor, male and female. The side shows and various trip-to-luck games did a land-office business, and the grandstand was taken, and the grandstand was taken.

Everything was orderly and quiet and the policemen scarcely had about the grounds had an easy time of it.

The success of the various Exhibition Building were a sea of humanity from the middle of the afternoon until late, the early dawn until late night there is not a minute of peace and serenity in the Secretary's office. More power to him!

When attending the Fair don't fail to see the marvelous agricultural exhibit of vegetables in the Agricultural Building. An artist could find inspiration in the tasteful and exacting pretty way in which the various products have been grouped.

Only one drunk has been arrested at the Fair this year to date, and he asked for a month in jail but got only this morning, so he evidently just wanted a good rest.

Now you tell one — "People have been observed all over the grounds carrying Navajo blankets that they won gambling at the various concessions."

The ladies of Holloway street church have complimented too much on the extremely excellent luncheon they provide for the directors of the fair every day. We ought to know—the Press ca.. there!

"Don't you dare, sir!" was what we heard one girl say to her affectionate boy friend as he tried to put his arm around her in the Whip. Shucks! What are those darn rides for, anyway?

Radios, the newest out, are to be seen in the midway booths everywhere. Even a one tube model to the latest super-het.

Chickens, millions of 'em, were judged yesterday at the Fair. Some entries were put in by that great chicken fancier, Mr. Govier.

ROUND-THE-WORLD FLIERS AT ALEPPO

London, Sept. 1.—Despatches report that the "Pride of Detroit" monoplane piloted by Capt. Left Constantinople today for Aleppo, Syria, with William Brock and Edward Schlee piloting. Previous direct despatches from Constantinople said today's hop had been postponed due to official delay.

SEEN AT THE FAIR

The arranging of the coops of water fowl and turkeys has been a great improvement this year over last. Exhibitors at the Fair all praise the settings to the py. They are made by Jack Truslach who is an ardent bird fancier himself.

"Dick" Ketchenon, Secretary, is still the hardest worked man about the whole Agricultural Exhibition. Yesterday dawn until late night there is not a minute of peace and serenity in the Secretary's office. More power to him!

C. I. A. PICNIC GOES TO TORONTO

On Saturday morning the annual outing of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company of this city will leave the Upper Canada Passenger Depot at 7.30 for the Toronto Exhibition with the employees, families and friends which will number about eight hundred. A special train has been chartered by the company for this trip.

Those taking in the trip have the option of either returning Saturday afternoon or remaining over until Monday night. The employees also from the company for this outing received a day's pay for Saturday which is now an annual event and eagerly looked forward to by the employees.

MR. T. F. GILL IS HEAVY EXHIBITOR

Among the many local poultry fanciers who have birds on exhibition at the Fair is Mr. T. F. Gill, 164 Coleman Street. Mr. Gill it will be remembered carried off numerous prizes last year with his famous White Swan pet poultry and this year is no exception. He has twenty birds on display and the judges placed them as follows: Four first; five seconds, three thirds, besides having the best pair in their class at the show. Mr. Gill has won many prizes with his poultry in this district and also his poultry have taken prizes at such shows as Toronto and Ottawa. Other Winter Fair, these birds are all his own breeding and much credit is due Mr. Gill for his fine showing at the Fair.

DELICACY

The Chinese may be addicted to the destructive pastime of internecine civil warfare but they can still teach the west something in certain departments of life. We ourselves can boast of some slight experience in returning advanced unsavageries to their senders, but we have now become acquainted with an example of consummate delicacy and tact on the part of a Chinese brother of our craft to which we tender the permission of this pale pink task. It leaves us ashamed of our own crude tactics of rejection and sums as follows:

"We have read thy manuscript with infinite delight. By the exalted talent of our ancestors we swear that we never before have revelled in so enthralling a masterpiece. If we gritted it little Mayonly the Emperor, our high and mighty mandel ordain us to refuse it as a model and never henceforth to print anything inferior to it. As it would be impossible to find its equal within 10,000 years we are compelled, though shaken with sorrow at our action, to return thy divine manuscript and for doing so we ask of thee a thousand pardons.

"In the minds of British journalism Anthony Trollope, the novelist who for a time occupied an editorial chair was famous for his tenderness to contributors whose manuscripts were unacceptable. The letters of Charles Dickens which have just been published reveal that when he once sent some of his early poems to Trollope he got them back with a note which said 'Forgive me if you do not agree with my decision.'"

WILL GERMANY PAY?

"All nations are concerned in the outcome of Germany's reparation obligations under the Versailles Treaty. Much academic and speculative discussion of the problem has already taken place; but we must at all stages look to the quarterly reports of the Agent-General under the Dawes plan for authentic information. The report of that office for the third quarter of the current fiscal year is, on the whole, stimulating. "Germany has continued," he says, "loyally and punctually to make the agreed mark payments." To this he adds: "Transfers have gone forward regularly and currently under the auspices of the Transfer Committee, without interfering with the "stability of German exchange." These transfers touch the core of the whole matter, since it was fundamental in the Dawes plan that Germany should not be called upon to pay at the expense of her solvency. In other words, advances to the reparation fund are required to be made only out of an actual surplus accruing to Germany on the exchange of goods and services with other countries. That was the safety valve provided in the plan now being carried out.

"Germany is now in the third annuity year under the Dawes plan. Payments have risen from 1,220,000,000 reichsmarks in the second year to 1,500,000,000 reichsmarks. Beginning on the first of next month, the payments will be further raised to 1,750,000,000 reichsmarks, and next year the maximum of 2,500,000,000 reichsmarks will be reached, to be increased only as Germany's prosperity may make increases possible. Among the sources from which the annuity comes are the transportation tax, interest on industrial debentures, railway bonds and the annual budget. The Agent-General has not, however, any control over the budget, although he must criticize its features. It is, therefore, worthy of note that Germany has had to borrow in order to balance her budget with income, and, as a further test, upgrade to the situation, it is announced that this year national experts will exceed imports.

An analysis of Germany's foreign trade figures, however, affords rather an important qualification to the superficial showing. Imports have consisted largely of foodstuffs and raw materials, and, while exports have been in the ascendant, they have not reached the point of countervailing purchases from other countries. It is a reasonable assumption that this is no more than a temporary condition, and grows unavoidably out of Germany's plan of industrial expansion. That is to say, the requisite time for the working up of a growing volume of raw materials into finished products. An increasing ability to pay can only come about through larger sales of these finished products abroad, and the factors of uncertainty are the capacity of German industries, the attitude of other countries as purchasers and the character of west competition. Making due allowance for the play of all these forces, the encouraging fact remains that Germany is actually living up to her obligations, and that, hard as will be the task, nothing has arisen to suggest a breakdown in the plan under which reparations will continue to be paid to the creditor nations.

BUSINESS SENSE

Modern business men have become so firmly convinced of the value of newspaper advertising to business that scarcely a week passes without the representative of some group expressing his convictions as to the part such advertising plays in the business life of this continent. The latest example of this occurred at the annual convention of the Famous Players Canadian Corporation, when Sam de Pass, the director of publicity for the corporation, said:

"I consider newspaper advertising the most valuable way of selling our pictures. There are, of course, several adjuncts, but there can be no question that the public looks to the advertisements in the newspapers for their amusements. The newspaper is the backbone of our business, and without it there is a large section of the public we could never reach."

What is true of the motion picture industry is true of every other line of business. The modern methods of merchandising are such that the public has come to look to the newspaper advertisements for guidance and instruction in the spending of money and the purchase of both necessities and luxuries. The newspaper is the backbone of more than the motion picture business. It is the backbone of every kind of business which depends on public patronage for success.

LIFE

The toiler toiling in the fields all day
Moves slowly on with downcast eyes,
Intent upon the task that near him lies,
Not letting any look beyond it stray;
Till, the day fading into evening gray,
He leaves his work to mark the light that gleams
Down in the dale from cottage windows with beams
That bid him welcome on his homeward way.
And in this life of ours we, too, must pore
Over the immediate task with straining sight;
And afloat not we, the long day's toil who bore,
Ripen from work to meet the enfolding night,
Oh, shall not we, with steadfast look before
—Fralk Morris.

It is one of the marvels of social life that, when a drunken man is convicted of a criminal offense or action, there is a very general disposition to take a jocular view of the situation and regard "drunkenness" as something like an excuse for his conduct instead of an aggravation for his offense. It is entirely within the power of every man to refrain from or moderate in the consumption of alcoholic beverages, and if he is convicted of being drunk when driving a car he should be deprived of his license and have his car impounded. PAINS ALL OVER BODY

Two More Cases of Feminine Illness Relieved by Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Barrington, N. S.—"I had terrible feelings, backache, back and side aches and pains all over my body. I would have to go to bed every night and nothing would do me good. My husband and my father got me word for me as I have two children and we have quite a few. So I read in the paper about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and then got a little book about it through the mail. I told my husband about it and he got me a bottle, and then we got more from the store. I am feeling fine now and do all my work and am able to go out around more. I tell my friends it is Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound that makes me feel so well."—Mrs. Victor Richardson, Barrington, Nova Scotia.

Dull Pains in Back

St. Thomas, Ont.—"I took four bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and found great relief from the dull, heavy pains in the small of my back and the headaches from which I suffered for five years after my boy was born. After taking the Vegetable Compound and using Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash I am feeling better than I have for the past seven years, and advise my friends to take it."—Mrs. P. Jonnson, 49 Moore Street, St. Thomas, Ont. 0

ONE DIFFICULT PROBLEM TO TAX MOTHER LOVE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Hester Pyrene wore her scarlet letter blazoned on the front of her gown. Here is a mother who has had a floriet Letter branded on her heart through many a searing year. And now she wonders if she should tell her daughter the and, dark secret of her birth.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am twenty years old and about my problem for a very long time.

Several years ago I became an outcast in my own home. I went away, determined to make good. Since then I have attained a good reputation and enviable status in a strange city.

But now I feel that the time has come to tell my daughter the story of her birth — and of my disgrace—for I feel that some day soon she will learn to love some man and be loved by him in return. Then when he finds out that she is a nameless girl, he will surely refuse to marry her and that will break her heart. At the same time, to tell her the story will ruin all her dreams and wreck her plans for the future. What shall I do?

MARY O.

Mary, dear, I cannot tell you what to do in such a serious crisis. But each conscience makes its own law and the thing that seemed right to the rabbi seem wicked to you. But I can tell you what I would do, if I were faced with your problem. ABSOLUTELY TELL HER.

You speak as if some taint had been transmitted to your daughter which unfits her for honorable marriage. That's a false, morbid idea, my friend. Your little girl is as clean and precious as the child of a legal union. We have long since put aside the savage, ignorant taboo which outlaws a child for the sins of a parent. We are even abolishing the stigma of illegitimacy.

This year the State of New York passed a law which permits an unmarried mother to give her child HER OWN NAME IN PLACE OF THE NAME OF THE FATHER. By such an act, that child assumes a legitimate standing in the eyes of the law. Your daughter is NOT a "nameless outcast."

"Then," why shouldn't I tell the whole story frankly?" you ask.

Why SHOULD you tell it frankly? The sin was yours. The pain was yours to bear. Why should you main another life with that pain? You have fought a splendid fight and you deserve the respect of everyone who reads your story. But you can serve no good end now by reviving all that old tragedy. I honor your honesty and your courage, but honesty and courage can be punished to morbid extremes.

Surely I would not tell. I would carry my cross in secret and trust my little girl's future to the great God who had been my partner over the long, hard way.

And yet, I repeat — I cannot make the law for you, Mary dear. You must do this thing which you think is right.

Here's a short letter with a big problem in it which concerns every one of us, whether we're seventeen or seventy.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am a girl of seventeen and have a girl friend with whom I travel a great deal and I love her very much.

She is going with a boy whom I dislike very much. He said something very mean to her and then stayed away from her for almost a month. Now, he is calling on her again and it's just near breaking my heart. She told me what he had said to her and it made me dislike him very much.

I've coaxed and coaxed her to stay away from him, but she still keeps on liking him, and she gets very cross at me for not liking him. She said she forgets the mean things he says to me—but I can't. Elsie, don't you think if she really liked me she would give him up, for he is far from a wonder and she can certainly get nicer fellows than her. Elsie I would do anything in this world for her. I have never been so attached to a girl friend as I have to her.

ANN.

Ann, dear, you'll save yourself a great deal of time and misery if you'll face two facts now — WE DON'T OWN THOSE WE LOVE, AND WE MUST LET THEM LIVE THEIR OWN LIVES.

This doesn't apply simply to your girl friend. It will apply to every one you ever may love — your sweetheart, your husband, your children, your heart, your husband, your children. last rule of love.

Women who serve on juries in the District Supreme Court in the United States must be hatless when they sit in the jury box.

CURSE OF LOVE

by Mildred Barbour

"Young lady, there's a lot here that I don't understand, so I might as well warn you that I'm going to camp right here till I do."

"But—you just said you were going to China to look for Philip."

"I'll go," he answered deliberately, when I have a satisfactory message to take him."

"Not I!" he laughed impudently. "I'll pass the time until you're ready to confide in me—by flirting with your re cowated widow."

CHAPTER 66

THE SUSCEPTIBLE HEART

Ada Lind was waiting in the lounge when Norma and King Carson emerged from the dining room after their rather unsatisfactory interview. Ada beamed upon them both.

"Well, I hope everything is nicely settled," she remarked.

"Far from it, Mrs. Lind," answered Carson deliberately. "For my part, I intend to remain here until Mrs. Kendall chooses to confide in me more fully."

Ada looked distinctly pleased. A personable young man and a friend of Norma's was just what she had been most ardently hoping for. She felt that at last she was to have a taste of youth and the chance to try her restored charms on a members of the opposite sex.

But Norma sighed and made a weary gesture.

"If you'll excuse me, I think I'll go to my room. I'm very tired," she murmured.

"Perhaps I can persuade Mrs. Lind to take a little stroll with me on the beach," suggested Carson.

"I should be delighted," Ada agreed with alacrity, "but I must get a wrap."

She came back presently with a black lace mantilla over her dinner gown. Carson offered her his arm and they went out together into the night.

"Norma — Mrs. Kendall's a perfect dear, isn't she?" Ada ventured, as they descended the steps to the beach.

"I'm not so sure of that as I'd like to be," Carson returned gravely. "You see, I don't know her as well as I know her husband. I admire her greatly, but you see without saying, but I'm not sure she hasn't treated my friend rather shabbily."

"Oh, no, youre quite mistaken," Ada protested hastily. "She is very, very unhappy because her marriage isn't well, hasn't been a success."

"See here," said Carson abruptly, "it may not be fair play to discuss her behind her back, but—has she confided in you at all?"

"Only to say that she and her husband had a misunderstanding and he went away."

"I'd give half I own to know what that misunderstanding was about," muttered Carson. "Women — I beg your pardon, but it's true — can play the very deuce with a chap's intelligence. When she's talking to me, she makes the story seem fairly lucid, but, when I stop to think it over—"

"Don't distrust her," she pleaded. "She's a dear, sweet, true girl."

He looked down at her audaciously as she trotted along beside him.

"You're a woman, never mine to the defense of another woman."

Ada sighed.

"It's a bit unusual — especially when the other woman is so much younger and prettier than yourself. But I've grown awfully fond of Norma. She's been very sweet to me and I'd like to be a friend to her."

"I can scarcely believe that," Carson replied gravely. "But—may I hope to count myself one?"

Ada was in perceptible flutter. It was a long time since a twenty-five years that she had strolled on a moonlit beach alone with an attractive young man. She blushed stammered like a schoolgirl when she attempted to speak and was grateful for the concealing darkness.

Carson, also irrepressible, grinned under cover of the darkness.

"I wonder what she'd do if I kissed her," he thought.

As it was, he drew her arm more closely through his and laid his hand lightly over hers.

"You're cold," he said solicitously. "Oh, no, I'm not," declared Ada hastily "Shall we turn back?"

—and was sure she had said the wrong thing, and become more flustered than ever.

"Let's stop for a soda here," he suggested, indicating a beach cafe, where gay lights beckoned.

They sat down and sealed themselves Ada ordered a limeade, but her gaze fastened longingly on a chocolate and marshmallow sundae. She sighed regretfully. The attempt at youth had its drawbacks.

"Why did Mrs. Kendall come here to the beach?" Carson finally asked.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Worth's collection for autumn shows much embroidery.

Pointed fox trimming is noted on the bottom of new coats.

Recently a popular cafe in the Latin Quarter, Paris, where great freedom is permitted, and where smoking by women is a regular custom, drew the line at the smoking of pipes by women patrons. Two girl students of the Sorbonne were ejected for lighting up their briars in the enclosure.

Women have a big future in aviation, in the opinion of Mrs. E. Lewis Campbell, president of the Women's Flying Club of Chicago. "It's no fad with them. They are trying for government flying licenses and it won't be long until they get them," she states.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my early teens. I am in love with a young man two years my senior. He was attentive to me for a time. Now he shuns me entirely. Ought I send back the letters and gifts he gave me?

BILLY.

BILLY:—There is no need to return the letters. If the gifts are valuable, it would be advisable to send them back. If they are just every day tokens, there is no need to return them

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE.

We are two girls in our teens. We are in love with two boys who say they love us. Do you think it would be proper to allow them to kiss us?

DOT AND PEGGY.

DOT AND PEGGY: Unless you are engaged to some young gentleman it is not to permit liberties of any sort

"I think it was because she was so unhappy at home. People asked questions about her husband. It was embarrassing for her. Poor little girl, I'm frightfully sorry for her."

"You approve of marriage, then? You found the institution successful."

"Ada hesitated.

"Not exactly, but I hope—" She paused and blushed.

"The next time, eh?" Carson smiled. He leaned across the table. "So do I — hope," he added significantly, and his mischievous eyes spoke volumes.

He knew he had made a conquest; at least, he had gained what he wanted—a staunch ally in Ada Lind.

Woman Song Writer Comes Back To Career

Grace LeBoy Who Gave Up Work for Marriage, On Job Again

New York City.—Ten years ago, when equal suffrage was a paramount issue in every woman's mind, Grace LeBoy, America's premiere feminine song writer, stepped down from her pedestal and in true woman fashion married her collaborator, Gus Kahn. New interests took the place of Tin Pan Alley in her heart, and she decided to give her entire attention to her home and family and put all her efforts behind her husband's work. He became the greatest lyric writer in America and probably in the world.

He has been paid more for word than any other writer. His lyrics seldom run over one hundred words, and sometimes those hundred dollars a piece. Composers have been known to come over from Europe just to get him to put words to their music.

So finally, ambition to share again with her husband the sweets of success outside the home impelled Grace LeBoy Kahn "go back." She has done it with a bang in "Just Wond'ring," which bids fair to be what is called a "natural" along Tin Pan Alley.

The song is one the talented couple started before they were married when Mrs. Kahn, then Grace LeBoy, was away on a trip. Kahn sent the lyrics to her in New York and she began to set them to music. The unfinished composition was put away with many others and was just completed.

"It's great fun to be back in the game," says Mrs. LeBoy Kahn. "I'm experimented and believe any woman can have a home and career, I shall be more companionable in the homework that I have other interests outside."

BLACKHEADS

Don't squeeze blackheads—fix. Blackheads go quickly by a simple method that just dissolves them. Get two ounces of peroxine powder from your druggist, rub this with a hot, wet cloth briskly over the blackheads—and you will wonder where they have gone.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MRS. HARRY B. LOCKWOOD

The funeral of the late Mrs. Harry Lockwood was held on Sunday afternoon from her late home, Cannifton Road, to Mission Church, Stoney Lonesome, where the Rev. J. S. McMullen conducted an impressive service in the presence of a legion of relatives and friends and also officiated at the committal at the cemetery, Belleville Cemetery.

The many in attendance at the obsequies together with the wealth of floral tributes silently testified to the sorrow caused by the passing of the deceased and the sympathy felt for the bereaved relatives.

The bearers were Messrs. Clarence Corby, Percy Ira Vanmeer, S. Collins, I. Butler and J. Hart.

NORMAN ROBERT FLEMING

The late Mr. Fleming was born in England 41 years ago and had resided in Canada for the past twenty-one years and was employed by the Hydro Electrical Power System as an operator. He was a member of Christ Church and of the Masonic Lodge, Moira Chapter.

Surviving are the sorrowing widow, two brothers, E. G. Fleming, London, England, Sergt.-Col. J.K.S. Fleming, Delhi, India, and three sisters, Mrs. Mitchell, Scotland, Mrs. J. Kimberley and Mrs. Patterson, of England.

A plague of horseflies is causing the women of Bristol, England, to abandon short sleeves. They are taking to longer sleeves, high necks and woolen stockings. The two notorious insects note on baregnecks and lengths of silk hose.

Wheat Soluge Up

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Wheat prices took an early swing upward here today owing largely to an advance at Liverpool. Ebbsides, unfavorable crop reports and sale of domestic wheat showed a satisfactal advance as compared with last months figures. Opening at 3 to 3-8 advance Chicago wheat soon made decided gains all around. Corn, oats and provisions were likewise firm. Corn started 1-4 at 1-2 to 3-4 and subsequently scoring general upturn.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sept. 1.—Wheat, Sept. 1.22 1-4; Dec. 1.27 3-4. Corn, Sept. 1.45 1-4; Dec. 1.08 5-8. Oats, Sept. 44; Dec. 43 1-4.

WINNIPEG GRAIN

Winnipeg, Sept. 1.—Wheat, Oct. 3-4c to 30c at 1.30 1-4; Dec. 1.34 1-4, to 38c higher at 136 to 137 1-8, May 1-4c to 3-4c high at 1.51 1-2 to 1.54 3-4; Oats 3-4c higher at 5-8 1-2, Dec. 1-4c to 1-4c higher at 52 5-8 to 78. May 55 5-8.

INCREASED SUPPORT

New York, Sept. 1.—Strong buying support made its appearance in today's stock market and Mrs. Fisher's tendencies which featured yesterday quickly disappeared as the market moved forward under the lead of first rails and then industrials.

Early gains in the Steel group took place in the face of disappointing July earnings statements. Speculative interest switched to the industrial United States Steel common and General Motors were in the vanguard of the advance. Sharp gains also took place in some of the heavy nine points and United States austrial specialties, Dupont soaring Cast Iron Pipe, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck mounted to new high levels.

50 to 60 miles, clearly the same as he used when he started. Going into the turn at the bat mile, he was escorted by pleasure craft, launches and other boats, and as his trainer steadily guided him, the swimmer showed not the slightest excitement. There was no quickening of pace, no splashing, no looking back; instead, Vierkoetter simply buried his head in the water with every stroke, as he had done throughout the long day, and plodded steadily on. It was perhaps the greatest example of self-control, discipline and obedience that had ever been seen publicly. As he took every stroke, spectators in the boats counted, while a crowd of well-wishers in a large sailboat sang "Show Me The Way To Go Home." Vierkoetter never smiled; he simply ploughed on. The throb of his powerful legs, which churned the water behind him, and which helped, to continue the momentum gained through his arm stroke, never faltered for an instant.

The only time he raised his head was when the trainer's commands were heard, and then only of the fact that a fleet of boats accompanied him and he was swimming through a lane of cheering enthusiasts.

Great Sporting Crowd

On the shore-line, as the swimmer neared the turn into the last mile, the greatest crowd that had ever witnessed an aquatic event in Canada had assembled to pay him homage. Just behind the turn, the new gates of the Canadian National Exhibition, which were opened yesterday by the Prince of Wales, were surrounded by a mass of humanity.

Every place from which the lake could be seen was packed; every roof, every tree and every vantage place held its quota. It was just sun set, and the one swimmer headed through the gap in the breakwater from which he had started so long ago. To Vierkoetter it must have seemed ages ago. For a period of time that was probably ages to the swimmer, he had been putting one hand in front of the other, while his feet kept up the churning. Then, for the last mile, he swam up the channel between the breakwater and the shore line.

To speak of the crowd — a crowd which included war veterans and others who had lost relatives and acquaintances in the Great War, and who had suffered at the hands of Germany years ago, and who were now watching a German swim his way into fame and fortune befoh their eyes, would be useless without some mention of the sportsmanship displayed. Not before in the history of Canada, because he was a German particularly; not because he had defeated this city's marathon hope; but because he had swum twenty-one miles in record-breaking time, and in icy cold water, did the crowd rise to its toes and cheer the swimmer to the echo. Had it been George Young himself, Toronto in that game would have exceeded the ovation he had passed him. 4 44 auths.

MEN'S CLOTHES
"For many years—indeed, for many centuries—men and women alike have worn too many clothes," writes Lady Diana Manners in the "Empire Review." "A mixture of bad taste, prudery, and ignorance of hygienic laws contributed to embolster and enfeeble the sex which submitted too long to modes invented by men. Now at long length women have seen the light and allowed the light to see them!"

"And what of man? He has adopted a yard where she has progressed for miles. His body is still supported by what someone once called 'two Doric columns whose industry he seeks in vain to mitigate by means of a trouser press.' He still puts his neck with a collar which he chokes daily with the help of a tie. When he has arrayed himself in such ab-normal articles as waistcoats, jackets, and collars, he pulls the sack-like arrangements tight about his neck with what he is pleased to call his necktie.

"That necktie is, perhaps, the symbol of his subjugation to convention far more rigid than the laws of Dame Nature which man is so prone to deride. Civilized, urbanized man has far to go before masculine attire attains to the high state of hygienic perfection so recently and happily achieved by the feminine. When will he have the courage to make suits for *g*rown to live in? Did ever an adult man in any age in any country cut so comic a figure as a golfer of today in his ear-splitting plusfours, which serve no conceivable purpose hygienic, athletic, or aesthetic! The functions of clothing, as someone has pointed out, are modesty, decency, and defence," and it should be chosen with these ends in view. Woman's motto in regard to this question is: 'How to be healthy, happy, and hand some, though dressed.'"

"It is an excellent motto, and she lives well up to it. No one can expect to be too conservative a creature to make any radical change in dress, and I imagine the day will be when the men will adopt such sensible and comfortable garments for evening wear as kilts and cricket shirts. If his trouser could be suspended by kilts (which will never occur), if neckties and detachable collars could be burned by the public hangman, and if the wearing of boots or hats could be made a penal offence, then his masculine section of the race would be healthier, and no; only health ier but happier.

REGENT THEATRE

"R. H. Rosie" doesn't mean "Royal Highness Rosie" but it does mean "Real Hot and Rough Rhum Rosie!" Clara Bow's new starring vehicle reaches the Regent Theatre today and features which reside it credit "Rough& House Rosie" with being the finest she has ever made.

The screen story, is that of Rosie O'Reilly, an ambitious cabaret dancer very much in love with Joe Hennessey, who in his own opinion, can't fail to be the next middleweight champion. Their love affairs runs along smoothly until Arthur Russell offers a little competition.

It seems that Lew McKay, a cafe banger-on, pays Rosie a diamond pin, and police promptly stuck her in jail. Then, Russell, looking for his stolen property, refuses to press charges when Rosie pleaded her innocence. Add to this the fact that Mr. Benefactor was rich, good looking and an admirer. Is it any wonder Joe soon found himself in trouble.

What does he do? You'll find out when "Rough House Rosie" is given its first screening.

BELLE THEATRE

The humour in "Womanpower" is pretty much spoiled by the inclusion of assorted pair of comedians, a dog and a duck who persistently temporarily deprive birth..They are very necessary members of the cast which includes such favorites as Belle Bennett, favorite as Ralph Graves, Kathryn Perry, Margaret Livingston, Tec Jilgerly, William Boyd, Jerry the Giant, William Davidson, Frank Hagney, Lee Shumway and others.

SOVIETS LEFT SOME VALUABLE CARPETS

Montreal, Que , Sept. 1. (C.P.)— When the Soviet Commissioners left Canada in a hurry a short time ago they hastily disposed of the Kazak rugs, which they had brought from the Caucasus, at emergency prices, and many of these "idyls of the Orient" art now adorning certain rooms in this province to own such treasures. A number of them are known to be one hundred years old. In the country of the Kazaks every daughter of the house was allowed to weave a rug for her "trousseau" composing her own designs and expressing her own individuality. But very religiously minded were the women of the Caucasus in their prayer rugs is the double hook, the bent hook by which the spirit finds its way to its seat, the meaning of this figure being, "Where my heart is pointing I may not be able to stick there." Another maid en, more cordially minded, might work into her prayer rug a symbolical tarantula, with numberless legs, a kind of mythical figure. A more religious symbol almost always found on

PIRATES DEFEAT PHILLIES TWICE

Cut Chicago Cubs' Lead To One Full Game

New York, Sept. 1.—The Pittsburgh Pirates cut the idle Chicago Cubs' lead to one full game yesterday by finishing their eastern invasion with a double-header triumph at Philadelphia. The Pirates won the first game, 3 to 2, by breaking up an overtime battle in the 13th inning, and took the second by a score of 7-2.

Vic Aldridge and Frank Ulrich took ed up in a hurling duel in the first game, the Phillies not scoring until the sixth inning, when Pesce Thompson hit a two-bagger that drove Wright-stone and Leach over the plate with the tying runs.

Aldridge was relieved in the tenth by Mike Cvengros, who retired one batter, and then gave way to Carmen Hill, who won the game in the eighth and recovered credit for the game, his 19th victory of the season.

The Pirates rammed Jack Scott for 10 hits in the second game, but did not assume a commanding lead until they scored four runs in the ninth inning.

The Cardinals concluded their last western trip with a 3 to 1 victory over the Robins yesterday, earning an even break in the four-game series, as well as drawing up half a contest on the Cubs. Flint Rhem pitched the distance for the world champions, holding Brooklyn to five. It was his first victory after seven successive setbacks.

O'Farrell's double in the second inning drove across the first St. Louis run. In the sixth Huttensby singled, went to third on Hafey's double and scored on an infield out. Heilmann tried to catch Hafey off third, but Frederick didn't cover the bag and the ball went into left field, Hafey walking home. Heilmie out the error.

Adolph Luque held the Braves to six scattered hits and the Cincinnati team took the last game they will play at Boston this season by a score of 1 to 0. A single by Hargrave Luque's sacrifice, Dessen's single and Walker's sharp bounder that nailed Fournier off first base accounted for the lone Red tally in the eighth.

George Lott of Chicago, conqueror of Lacoste, French champ, and new member of the United States Davies Cup team. Lott is a former Canadian champion. He affects the beret, a la Dorothy.

FINE TROPHY IS NOW ON DISPLAY

Beavers Challenge Ontarios To Play For City Championship

The trophy presented to the Belleville Industrial City League by Ernie Rowsome is on display in J. Bowyer's Jewelery Store window. This is one of the finest if not the best trophy ever donated in the City of Belleville, and is certainly a credit to the donor and should be a fine mark for teams to shoot at in the future. For this year the Alemite team will keep it home as the East End plant boys were fortunate enough to take possession by winning the play-off from the Moose after two games.

The Beavers will go to Toronto to play on Monday. The Beavers have challenged the Ontarios to play for the Senior City Championship.

KILKENNY CATS FIGHT NO MORE

Kilkenny, Irish Free State, August 27.—The cats of Kilkenny have practically given up fighting.

No one knows why but there is peace and in spite of their world wide reputation as the high explorers of the cat family, the Kilkenny cats no longer chase the dogs out of town.

A lieutenant of police said that while an occasional cat fight fills the neighborhood with noise and fur the Kilkenny cat has lost his reputation.

Nevertheless, the inhabitants of this cathedral town say the old cats fought enough for several generations before they quit. Tradition has it that after some of the old time fights only the claws remained to tell the tale.

2000 OFFICE HOLDERS WERE DISMISSED

Tarsus, Turkey, August 27.—President Mustpha Kemal's "black list" had brought tragedy to this ancient town where the Apostle Paul was born.

Turkey's warrior president recently listed about 2,000 office holders for replacement. Mahmoud Effeni, of Tarsus, was on the list and upon being notified that she was dismissed, he drew a revolver and shot Khedibir wife. Her boy who had been named to succeed him.

The "black list" is reported to consist of names of persons whom a special commission found guilty of anti-nationalist activities.

RUTH GETS HIS 43RD HOME RUN

Two Homers Also By Tony Lazzeri—Score 10-2

New York, Sept. 1.—There was not much to get excited over at the Yankee Stadium yesterday. The Red Sox were in town. The Yanks outbatted them, three homers to one, and accomplished better than that in run, with it to do it as a matter of course. Now, if the Red Sox had beaten the Yanks, that would be news. As it is, there's just a ball game to report.

There was a little stir among the patrons of the pastime when Tony Lazzeri put a home run into the left field bleachers in the third inning. There was a little more thrill to it when he hit another into the right field bleachers in the next. There was still more when Babe Ruth deposited another of Col. Rupert's baseballs in the right field circus seats in the eighth. But even these wicked wallops didn't make it an exciting afternoon exactly.

As the Yanks beat the Red Sox seven times in the Red Sox' ball yards, the result was a foregone conclusion. And when they pounced on Pete Jablonowski for 10 hits in the first inning, it was just a question of how many and how soon. The final count was 10 to 2.

The real interest was concentrated on the great American home run battle and which went on apace. Lazzeri set the pace with his two wallops, then Babe Ruth and Bush—Gehrig did their best to follow it. The Babe hit his forty-third of the season, but he repeated the Ruther could come was a long triple to deep center in the fifth. Pete returns show Ruth leading with 43, Gehrig second with 41 and Lazzeri third with 39.

Rothrock of the Red Sox also hit a home run with a man on first, but Ruth sauntered over to where it lay. Casually recovered it and tossed it nonchalantly toward the infield. In the mean time Rothrock was hustling and managed to circle the bases.

This blow was delivered in the ninth with new aboard the bases and by that time Ruth and the rest had lost more the count of the game, but were convinced that a home run would make any material difference. The only one to whom it mattered at all was Coerce Pipgras who had two more earned runs credited against him than were necessary.

SPANISH WOULDN'T DO WITHOUT SIESTA

Madrid, Spain, August 27.—Sleepy Spaniards would not forego their afternoon siestas long enough to support an endurance race, even for a week, so it had to close after 120 of its scheduled 144 hours.

The plankh showed the least power of resistance, as he was forced to give up after 36 hours. The youth judges are stuck to their tasks for the full time of the exhibition.

NEWARK BEARS WON TWO GAMES

Double-Header Ties Them With Leafs For Fourth Place

Toronto, Sept. 1.—Newark defeated Toronto twice yesterday, taking the first game 2 to 0 in thirteen innings, then Jean Doyle's support buckled on him, Burke losing a pop fly short center, Chick Davies was invincible with men on base, and kept the hits well scattered.

Fisher and Songer were batted hard in the second game, which was won by the Bears 11 to 2. Bentley was in difficulty in only one inning, a base on balls, a double and single giving them their lone runs in the third inning.

For disputing a decision in the tenth inning of the first game, Outfielder Conlon of Newark was banished by Umpire Clark.

Rochester closed its abbreviated series of two games with the Reading Keys by taking both ends of a double-header by scores of 4 to 2 and 4 to 1.

The Stars and Baltimore broke even in a doubleheader at Syracuse this afternoon. The Orioles took the first game, 10 to 8, while the Stars came back to win the seven-inning affair, 7 to 3. The Stars used 17 players in an effort to win the first contest. Manager Shotton and Bob Morrow were elected from the field by Umpire Gaston.

CANADA SOON TO BE INDEPENDENT

Montreal, August 26 (C.P.)—An English fuel expert has made the prediction that within seven years Canada will be independent of both American and British coal because of a patented process which will turn Canadian coal dust, lignite and even peat into fuel fit for domestic and industrial purposes" says the Montreal Gazette in an editorial. "The prediction is interesting whether or not the hopes expressed are wholly or partly realized in the time mentioned, or longer. In any event, Canada is better off as regards fuel supply than ever before. In industry the 'white coal' (or water power) is being developed that are being harnessed to bring put to more use every day, and additional waterfalls and rapids are being studied and their potentialities estimated in entrance of demands. A vast supply of steam coal is being mined and the coking industry is being enlarged and its product advertised.

"As for household fuel, the people in Canadian cities and towns are in an enviable position, for they have the domestic fuel source and both American and British supplied at their service. When there was a strike in the American mines, Canada was supplied with Welsh and Scotch coal, and soon Dutch and German fuel as well. When the British miners quit their jobs, Canada had American coal to fill the bins and feed stoves and furnaces.

"Prior to the great strike in the United States anthracite field in 1903, very little, if any, British coal entered the Canadian market, but since then the importations of coal have grown, and the last three or four years have seen a tremendous increase in the use of Welsh and Scotch coal in Eastern Canada. Montreal being a particularly heavy user of British hard coal. Amer ican anthracite is still the most used fuel here. The householder also has coke in plenty for his home if he prefers it.

"With domestic American and British coal available and coke into the bargain, there is less likelihood than ever of a fuel famine in Montreal, and competition should keep prices at a reasonable level. The fuel situation in that extent may be considered satisfactory."

Eighty arrests were made in July for violation of Pennsylvania blue sky law.

At least the ossified man has all the backbone he needs in his business.

"RABBLE" CAUSED RACCO RIOTS

New York, Sept. 1.—The Sacco-Vanzetti demonstrations in Paris were the most part the work of striking shoemakers ready to seize any opportunity to make a disturbance, said Paul Claudel, French Ambassador to the United States, who arrived on the liner Paris today. He asked for discrimination between the acts of Frenchmen and the acts of Communists in Paris, whom he characterized as "a foreign rabble."

SAGE TEA TURNS GRAY HAIR DARK

That beautiful, even shade of dark, glossy hair can only be had by brewing a mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When faded, turns gray, dull or streaked, this application or two of Sage and Sulphur enhances it appearance a hundred-fold. Don't bother to prepare the mixture; you can get this famous old recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients for only 75 cents all ready for use.

It is called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," and you always be depended upon to bring back the natural color and lustre of your hair.

Everybody uses "Wyeth's" Sage and Sulphur Compound now because it darkens so naturally and evenly that nobody can tell it has been applied. You simply dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair has disappeared, and after another application it becomes beautifully dark and appears glossy and lustrous.

ECZEMA SKIN IS HEALED BY THIS SULPHUR

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation instantly brings ease from skin irritation, soothes and heals the eczema right up and leaves the skin clear and smooth.

It seldom fails to relieve the torment without delay. Sufferers from pimples, rashes, should obtain a small jar of Rowles' Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist.

The Egyptians had boats big enough to carry 4,000 rowers, 400 sailors and 3,000 soldiers.

The Lydi Phoenicians were the first to use coins, in the fifth century B. C., or earlier.

Prince of Wales Says Good Bye to Canada --- Long Distance Fliers Causing Anxiety

PRINCE PRAISES CANADA AS HE BIDS FAREWELL

Sees Wonderful Future Ahead For Growing Country

GREAT WEALTH

Parting Speech At Canadian Club Addressed To All Dominion

Montreal, Sept. 2.—The Prince of Wales today bade farewell to Canada through the Canadian Club of Montreal, his words being addressed to the Association of Canadian Clubs and to all the Dominion.

"Canada," he said, "the possibilities of Canada, its radii of promise meet so vast in extent that no man living can value it, the deeper you go the more astounded you become at the wealth of material and wealth of character which you find there and the effect on one who leaves Canada is a feeling that here at any rate is a great country worthily fulfilling a very great destiny," Brig.-Gen. E. B. Paget, President of Canadian Club said also in charge of royal train, presided.

KILLED AFTER SHE ALIGHTED FROM BUS

Hamilton, Sept. 2.—Miss Margaret Fitzpatrick, 32, a domestic, was fatally injured early today through by a motor car on the highway after alighting from a bus. A Hamilton woman was driving the car. The victim died in hospital an hour after the accident.

WHOLE VILLAGE MOURNS TRAGEDY

Shannonville Sympathizes With Bereaved Family Of Edfa Maracle

In the humble home of her mother at Shannonville and with shades drawn the mortal remains of Edna Maracle, the fifteen-year-old girl who was drowned at two o'clock yesterday while bathing in the Salmon River lies in a white casket, banked with flowers as it waits her arrival from her mother, sorrowing sister and all her friends and neighbors gather to view the victim which will be resigned to Mother Earth tomorrow afternoon in All Saints' Cemetery following a service in All Saints' Church Mohawk Reserve. It is not known whether the sad message of his daughter's death will reach the father who is at present in the backwoods of Ontario to enable him to be present at the funeral.

The whole Village' of Shannonville today is feeling the effect of the gloom which has been cast over that peaceful settlement by the sad catastrophe of yesterday. Small groups of neighbors are congregating and discussing the sad affair; friends and relatives wind their way to the house where the cloud of gloom has so recently been cast and in their sympathetic, well-meaning manner, try to relate the sorrow of the mother and sister, who are heroically bearing up under their grief and sadness at this time.

Dr. Sargeant, of Shannonville, decided that an inquest was unnecessary, and had the body turned over to J. F. MacFarlane, funeral director, of that place who prepared it for burial.

THE WEATHER

Light winds fine, Saturday southwest winds, fair and warm.

GAMBLERS ON THE MIDWAY PAY $100 AND COSTS FINE

Adversity seems to make some people more cheerful than ever. Charles Taylor, Charles O'Brien and Thomas Murphy were arrested at the midway last night by local and Provincial Police on a charge of gambling, or running a gambling concession. They were promptly taken to the Police Station and their bonds locked up.

About nine o'clock this morning dog dancing, singing and a general air of merriment floated out of the cell-room as the three men walked away the weary hours before their trial. They no doubt feel a good deal less cheerful now after being fined $100 and costs by J. P. Walmsley and J. F. Newton, on a gambling charge.

PLANES GET LESS THAN EVEN BREAK OF LUCK

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Two planes missing, two in the air and four held to the ground by unfavorable weather was the status of long distance flight today.

The missing were the British St. Raphael and the Brunswick plane of Paul Redfern, both overdue at Canada and Brazil respectively.

In the air were Capt. Courtney with four others in the huge "whale" flying the boat from Southampton to Plymouth on the first leg of a trans-Atlantic flight and the round the world plane "Pride of Detroit," from Constantinople to Bagdad.

PROPOSE TO SUE COMPANIES WHO DEFRAUDED GOV'T

Civil Action To Be Recommended Against Montreal Concern

"CAMOUFLAGE"

Commission Council Believes Business Was Just a Blind

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Commission of Customs enquiry sent some time this morning endeavoring to have the minutes explain transactions in statement by the Canadian Tobacco By Products Company of Montreal.

According to R. L. Calder, K.C., Commission council, five men connect ed with this company have disappeared. They might be able to explain why thousands of gallons of alcohol were removed from the company bond, put through a denaturing process of some kind and then shipped out to parts unknown. According to Provincial Government today, it was quite possible to remedy the denaturants and have the alcohol in its potable form.

W. Teale Counsel for Crabbe said he was satisfied that the company was using the flavoring business as "camouflage" and that its real object was to sell the alcohol.

Sessions Until Suit

Ottawa, Sept. 3.—The Royal Customs Commission will be asked next week to recommend that a civil suit based on a charge of conspiracy to defraud the revenue be taken against the Compagnie Des Produits of Montreal. R. L. Calder, K.C., commission council gave notice of this application just before the noon adjournment today. He stated that the Canadian Tobacco By Products Company had vanished into thin air so no action against it would be active.

MARTHA RAISES A KICK AT DIVISION OF SPOILS

Toronto, Sept. 2.—The disposition of the secondary prize money in the Lake Ontario marathon swim, among the four whose performances were considered the most meritorious does not meet with the approval of Miss Martha Stager of Portland, Oregon, who stayed in the water the longest and who was to be the recipient this afternoon of $1500.

Miss Stager claims that the contest was above all one of endurance and as such she is of the opinion that the prize should be awarded to her alone. With some friends she will visit Elwood Hughes, director of the marathon, this afternoon, and it is possible the matter will be considered.

TOMORROW END OF BIGGEST FAIR EVER HELD HERE

Attendance Yesterday 3,000 More Than Same Day-Year Ago

FIVE DAY SHOW

Stock Men Guests Of The Directors At Today's Luncheon

Nine thousand, one hundred and ninety-nine visitors was the total that the Fair records show as visiting the Exhibition yesterday and last night. Six thousand, one hundred and eighty, last year's records show, which is just three thousand and nineteen less than the 1927 record.

Yesterday was a fine day at the Exhibition. No rain, nor any threatening of rain, perhaps helped to turn the citizens out in such good numbers and in such good spirits. Two incidents slightly marred a perfect day, the one being when the high jumper slipped from his kitty perch and hitting the ground cut on the ground necessitating the services of a doctor, and the other the raiding by police of a concession on the Midway on a charge of gambling. The last named offenders were fined $100 and costs in Police Court today.

Continued Saturday

The Fair will go on tomorrow with the majority of the exhibits in place. Nearly all the stock will have been removed by tonight and some of the fruits and vegetables, but the remainder of the exhibits will be in their places.

The Midways will shine in all it glory until late at night providing the Directors can get permission from the city officials to pack on Sunday morning. No change in prices of admission, now or tomorrow is likely.

By two o'clock this afternoon the grounds had begun to fill, but it is doubtful whether yesterday's record of over nine thousand visitors will be bettered.

Directors' Luncheon

The stock-breeders were the guests of the Directors at luncheon today, during which about twenty-five strong, Mr. George Gannon, president, welcomed the stockmen in a few brief words. The luncheon this noon was of short duration as the Directors had to attend a private meeting in the Secretary's office, later.

CANADIAN FLIERS TO ENGLAND ARE BOTH FORCED TO MAKE LANDINGS

"Sir John Carling" And "Royal Windsor" Safe And Will Continue

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 2.—"Royal Windsor" safe enough to reach Windsor Castle, England, from here, which was forced down in a field before St. John's Quebec last night, today awaited an opportunity to take off for Britain according to the statement of Pilot Jack Miller.

Miller Skilful

Miller, pilot of the plane, piloted Mr. Miller that the blaze in the plane's wing did no damage but that the fuel tank loosened. This was repaired by a blacksmith and the ship is ready for its second hop.

Schiller and Phil Wood spent the night in a farmhouse and are all set to take the field in the plane here which provides a fine emergency flying field and they hope to abandon the little difficulty in their second take-off.

Weather Caused Delay

Caribou, Maine, Sept. 2.—Adverse weather conditions threatened today to delay the take off for St. Johns, Hill of the London-to-London plane, "Sir John Carling, which came down here last night. Heavy mist was close to the ground and flying conditions poor.

Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalf, pilots, rose after a sound sleep to find that unsatisfactory conditions which had caused them to abandon the first leg of their flight had not changed materially. They expressed doubt of being able to get away. They said they might stay over until to-morrow.

"We don't mind that but it looks as if we would run into the same fog that forced us back yesterday if we tried to take off today" Tully said. "I figure we covered nine hundred miles in the two hundred and fifty odd of that time we were trying to dodge the fog. We have about 16 gallons of gis left and I don't think we'll have to take on any more here."

LEFT CAR IN GEAR AND BROKE WINDOW

Two minor accidents occurred on the streets of Belleville yesterday. Harry Lee, proceeding east on Bridge Street, was smashed into by William Hanthorn going west on the same street. Damage was done and suffered by Lee's car.

About 11:45 last night William Rose, a coal dealer, parked his car in front of Earle and Cook's store, when he returned about twenty minutes a few minutes later, the car was evidently in gear for it mounted the sidewalk and smashed through the plate glass in the door of the store. Mr. Rose will pay for the damage.

13 DIE IN INDIAN RIOTS

Bareilly, India, Sept. 2.—Thirteen persons were killed and 46 injured in a communal flot during a Hindu festival here last night. A Hindu procession with bands passing before a Mohammedan mosque led to the fighting. Although no arrests on the police fired sixteen rounds into the rioters. Strong reinforcements had to be called before the crowds were dispersed.

ANOTHER SWIM

Californian To Hold 30 Mile Marathon In Lake Elsinore At Christmas

Twenta, Sept 2—David Cooley, of Long Beach, California, who financed his fellow citizen Kyle Leonard in the Lake Ontario marathon swim stated today that he proposed organizing another swim in a lake in Lake Elsinore, Calif., for a prize of $10,000.

"I am accepting Vierkoetter's challenge literally," said Mr Cooley, and his statement was genuine. By the terms of the challenge, that the German made yesterday, I can name the distance and it will be for thirty miles. Christmas will be the date and there is room at Lake Elsinore for all swimmers."

AFRAID ENGLISH FLIERS ARE LOST

Authorities Think That "St. Raphael" Never Reached This Continent

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Opinion prevails in official circles here that the monoplane "St. Raphael" never reached the shores of the North Atlantic continent after starting from Upavon, England, for Ottawa. The fate of the plane and its occupants, Frazen Wertheim, Col. Idmchin and Capt. Hamilton, remained unknown at a late hour this morning.

"We have pretty well combed the North Atlantic," Commander C. P. Edwards, director of radio said today, "and have found nothing of the plane, but our efforts will be continued."

Anxious in London

London, Sept. 2.—As hours passed without definite news of the British Atlantic plane "St. Raphael," anxiety deepened for the safety of Captains Hamilton and Frazer and Father Messenger Princess Wertheim. If the plane landed at sea whatever hope there was for the three lied with which they carried.

Plan to Aid Search

Roosevelt Field, New York, Sept. 3.—The Pokker monoplane "Old Glory" which has been held here by bad weather for a flight to Rome, may take off for Newfoundland late today to search for the missing British plane "St. Raphael," unless definite word is received that the monoplane Lloyd Bertaud and James Hill, pilots will take things over others and make an extended search.

Contrary winds which refused to blow from the west as long as "Old Glory" was waiting for a west wind for their flight, suddenly swung to that direction after the airmen had had temporarily abandoned the flight in favor of a search for the missing St. Raphael. As a result preparations were made for a getaway on the flight late this morning or this afternoon The fliers, however, intend to follow the reverse course of the St. Raphael.

PRINCE WINS AWARDS

London, Sept. 2.—The Prince of Wales won first and second money with bulls of any age at the Melton Mowbray Agricultural Show today The trophies awarded in connection with the show include cups given by the Prince of Wales and the Duke o York and Prince Henry.

MIKEL HONORED

Belleville's Popular Magistrate Honored At Annual Meeting

Kingston, Sept 2 —A. O. Langley, of Peterboro, was today elected President of the Ontario Magistrates' Association at their annual convention here. W C Mikel, Belleville, was elected vice president. The next meeting will be on record favoring the establishment of clinics for examination and treatment of narcotic addicts and chronic alcohol cases

SEEN AT THE FAIR

The gentleman who does the high-dive in front of the grand stand at the Agricultural Exhibition apparently enjoyed himself in his peculiar way yesterday afternoon, falling into the net and bounding out on the ground. The question is, was the fall real, or did he merely desire some publicity?

Police raided the Midway at the Fair last night, closing two or three booths and taking the operators down to the police station. They were fined $100 and costs apiece on a charge of gambling.

Exquisite lingerie is on display in the Walker Store today. Miss Lavender, in the person of Miss Evelyn Whales, invites everybody interested to the stall without the lingerie being there at all.

The only thing the matter with Captain Hugo's marvellous jump through space, Pat Hanna, etc., is that he only does it once.

No matter how short skirts are these days, children manage to grasp them pretty firmly. No little lost children have been observed running around looking for their mothers this year.

Now You Tell One—The "Through the Orient Show" with its snappy band in the Midway and the fascinating Seven Veils dance is losing money from the large local patronized show in the Midway!

(With apologies to Kipling)
"What are the coppers raiding for?"
said Easy Mark McCabe,
"For gambling work, for crooked work,"
the Police Sergeant said.
"And is it worth the price at that right up," said Easy Mark McCabe.
"You bet they will, you bet they will."
the Police Sergeant said.
"For they're raidin' all the Sideshows,
Who don't run just quite right,
And the victims and the easy marks
Will be quite safe tonight."
And the operators fined in the court-room today
For they're shutting down on gambling in the morning!

We heartily recommend that you don't fail to take a good look at the home-cooking exhibit, but don't go in the building hungry or you might be tempted.

THE "WHALE" MAKES MOVE

Southampton, Eng., Sept. 3.—Capt. Courtenay hopped off in his big flying boat "The Whale" for Plymouth, the first jump of a proposed trans-Atlantic flight, at 7:30 a.m. He had been waiting weeks for favorable weather.

$50,000 Offered In Great Swim Divided Among Gallant Athletes

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 2.—The huge grandstand at the Canadian National Exhibition was crowded to capacity this afternoon as the prizes in the swimming marathon of Wednesday were awarded to the winner, second and third men and to the four women who stayed in the water the longest.

Ernst Vierkoetter was all smiles as he was handed a small slip of blue paper representing $25,000 and he thanked the officials and the crowd, through amplifiers, briefly but warmly.

Miss Schoenman was in the water more than any other woman. She said she was going to make a try for "George and Ruthie" She remarked that her manager has entered into negotiations for a thousand mile swim down the Mississippi River.

George Michel, the runner up, received his $7,500 and Bluff...Bill Erickson, $2,500. Ethel Hertle, of New York, who received $2,000 says her money is going toward a home for her father and mother in the Long Island.

Edith Hedin, of Toronto, is going to send her $2,000 over to her mother in Finland.

FRENCH BIPLANE IS FORCED BACK

Empties 1500 Gallons Of Gas To Make "Bluebird" Lighter

Le Bourge, France, Sept. 2.—Capt. Arthur Rahn left here across the channel to New York, at 6.21 this morning, the biplane "Bluebird" returned and landed here at 9 a.m. Leon Givon, pilot, said he would hop off again tomorrow if conditions were no worse than today. Alterations will be made on the plane. A heavy fog halted today's flight. The trip occupied only ninety miles.

The biplane was back over Le-bourge about two hours after it started but for almost another hour the pilots circled in the fog before they have would lighten. When it remained light and clear they removed many his gas tank. By the ten the load had been emptied from 2,500 to 1,000 gallons. The heavier ship was taken up gracefully, the pilot and navigator bitterly disappointed over the delay. About $750 worth of gas had been dumped so that the ship could be lighter for the flight. Rahn stated he had dropped the least possible amount. The ship at the start weighed nine tons and it was difficult to fly above 1300 feet.

FRENCH WRECK KILLS FIVE

Tours, France, Sept. 2.—At least five persons, possibly more, were killed in the wreck of the Paris-Bordeaux express train here at midnight.

MADE LONG TRIP TO HELP BUT GOT LOST ON THE WAY

If a young man is asked to officiate as Best Man at his brother's wedding, and comes all the way from Montreal to Belleville to do this last act of kindness for him, buys a brand new suit and then gets lost on the way to the bride's house, should they delay the wedding until the anxious groomsman arrives or go on with the ceremonies on scheduled time?

Raymond (Chummy) Bullard came to Belleville on Thursday morning to support his brother, Harold (Buck) Bullard, at his marriage to Miss Hazel Bullard, daughter of Mrs. Bullard, north of Napanee. From this city the aspiring groomsman undertook to motor to the scene of the wedding but lost himself on the way and arrived about an hour late.

In the meanwhile as the Bride and the Bridegroom were both ready and waiting, a substitute groomsman was pressed into service and the ceremony proceeded. Mr. C. Walmsley and Mrs. Bullard and long trip were more or less wasted.

YOUNG ATHLETES SHOW FINE FORM

Toronto, Sept. 2.—Boys from the High Schools, Public and Separate Schools of the Province of Province of Ontario met this afternoon in the third annual track and field championship of the province, with nearly three hundred young athletes competing. Improvement in form and speed was noticed.

The meet is under the auspices of the Toronto Board of Education Commission. F. Waugh of Kingston was third in the twelve pound shot, latter medalist high schools being Messrs Moore and Zwaikin, both of Hamilton. E. Moore of Napanee was third in the pole vault, Obriech of Mount Forest winning and Leonard of Windsor being second.

TRUTH'S TRIUMPH

Truth is tough. It will not break, like a potato, at a touch; it will be tested and put to strain.

DRASTIC ACTION

Premier Ferguson has announced new measures for dealing with stupid and reckless motorists and restoring law and order to the highways. The matter of traffic offenses is being doubted and instruction have been given all provincial officers rigidly to enforce the provisions of the Highway Traffic Act.

Mr. Ferguson pointed out that the Government had urged "all people to use proper precautions" on the highways, but "the appalling toll of death and damage continues." Then he added:

"It is with regret that the government finds it necessary to resort to drastic measures, but it keeps obvious that a large proportion of people who drive cars give no consideration to the lives or safety of others, and it is felt that they are not entitled themselves to any consideration at the hands of the law."

The public will commend the Prime Minister's policy of increased severity towards highway offenders. We need have no sympathy for the careless or drunken driver who puts in peril not only his own life but the lives and property of other people. The law must see to that. And on such people, because gentleness towards them is interpreted as weakness and laxity and it is exercised at the expense of mortal drivers and innocent pedestrians.

Magistrates and police officers all over Ontario will take note of the Government's attitude, and no doubt govern themselves accordingly. Col. Price, the Attorney-General, made it plain in an address at a Toronto exhibition banquet that he was heartily in support of the Premier's policy and he intimated that possibly 1,000 chauffeurs' permits would be suspended this year.

No more important problem faces the provincial government today than the regulation of vehicular traffic, and Premier Ferguson has shown that he is fully alive to its difficulties and its importance. Under the test of mere pleasure, coupled with moderate penalties, he now has ordered drastic enforcement of the Traffic Act, and all drivers who value their liberty, their driving licenses, and their cash assets will do well to heed his pronouncement.

If the increased force of traffic officers now on the forces under the law should be an immediate improvement in conditions. It is no easy matter to catch the driver zimbling along with his family on a clear road at 30 miles an hour. Certainly it is not easy for the law, but he is not the real offender. The duties of these officers should be so arranged that they are patrolling the highways if not forces on Sundays and holidays, in the evenings hours when traffic is heaviest, and frequently at night. Those are the times when the live, possible headlights at the wheels of powerful cars do their deadliest work. Blind curves should have very special attention, the "cut in" artists should feel the rude hand of justice, and all the sentry who delight in taking chances ought to receive summary treatment. Officers will not encounter these people by patrolling the main roads during banking hours. They will find them in the thickest of traffic and at the most dangerous spots.

A dangerous speed is relative to the circumstances, and there are many offences, more serious than 50 miles an hour, committed at a much lower rate by a car cutting the corner or driving a straight road when no other traffic is endangered. For that reason the old-fashioned speed traps usually caught parties who were committing no real offence against the regulations, and nobody wants to see them treated so. The charged traffic force should concentrate on the reef of reckless drivers.

U. S. COLLEGES

In a recent number of the Atlantic Monthly, Mr. I. M. Rubinow presents an indictment of the American college system which challenges thoughtful consideration. The author cannot be accused of ignorance, since he himself is the holder of three high degrees, including a Ph.D., and has a daughter and two sons in attendance at typical colleges. Clarity and moderation characterize all he has to say on the subject. At the outset, the author makes it plain that adverse comments have nothing whatsoever to do with the technical schools, but apply solely to those institutions which confer scholastic degrees.

Mr. Rubinow's final objection is to the high cost of a college course, which he places at a minimum of $1,500 per annum. He shows that it costs many students a great deal more but only those who are able to earn and save money go along can properly get off with less. This, he says, is hard on middle-class parents, from whose homes a high proportion of the college population emanates. And he raises the question as to whether or not value is received. Before giving his answer, he draws a picture of the atmosphere of a more or less typical college. It reminds him, on his first visit, of a "summer hotel by the mountains or at the seashore. The exuberant youth, the loud, sporty clothes, the cars before the entrance, the meandering couples, the total absence of care, even the tone of the conversation, all smacked of vacation rather than vocation." That is his first indictment — that the whole thing lacks seriousness. In support of this contention he points to the hours given up to what might be called work. They do not exceed thirty or thirty-five per week, including the time allowed for reading. This he goes on to point out, means to parents and women at a time in their lives when millions of others of similar age are engaged in productive occupations. With Christmas, Easter, Thanksgiving, and other holidays to their parents at $10,000,000, and of more than $500,000,000 to the colleges over the above income. Bringing in all the factors, he places the final cost at something like two billions per year.

The defence for this huge outlay is said to be that these young people are in that way "receiving an education." Mr. Rubinow does not question the value of education; but he asks, "and could its work either as a necessary evil or "not at all." He then goes to the very roots of his objections by attacking the merits of the Bachelor of Arts degree as a cultural asset. He insists that it does not stand for any definite educational content. It means no more than 1,920 hours of classroom instruction; "and that," he concludes, "means nothing to me." Against any value which might be assumed to attach to it, he places the fact that "it delays entry into life's "work by four years," and contributes little in the way of worth while equipment to the holder. When he asks himself the reason why, then so many young men and women are sent to college, his answer is "a desire for the social "distinction conferred by a college degree" and "because everybody is doing it." Finally, he makes exception to the methods by which degrees are earned, on the ground that "the true desire for culture and knowledge does not need the stimulus of points, credits, examinations, certificates, degrees and parchments." In other words, the systematic education does not promote the artificial encouragement of academic parapherna-lia." Incidentally, he charges that the process now in vogue "makes for the type of junior who thinks that success is in spending a car and sponging on the governor"—the six-foot, clean-cut, energetic, athletic (but lazy) American flashboot our magazine fiction writers are so fond of."

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

What are known as "courtesy" mail boxes for the convenience of motorists are being placed on the streets of several American cities. The box is of those conveniences "so simple that it is a wonder someone did not think of it a long time ago." It is a regulation package receptacle such as is used on many street corners. The cover over the opening is fitted with a handle which may be turned by the autoist without getting out of his machine. He may open the box and drop his mail with a stop of less than a minute and be out of the way for the next patrol.—Vancouver Province.

"Getting back to the farm" is a pre sent day slogan. In spite of this, most of those on the farms, are steadily educating their sons and daughters and girls, who after a year or so at high school, positively refuse to return to farm work. It remains for some agriculturist with psychological training to find out why so many boys believe it is fun to lead a manure spreader on the south side of the barn on a sweltering hot day in June or July. After all, the work is not greater than that exerted in rowing a boat or paddling a canoe along the beach, where also the odor of stale fish is just as sweet as that of the barnyard while the sand-flies and other flies in the vicinity are more numerous than flies round a cow stable at milking time on a warm sultry evening. — Alymer Express.

LULLABY

Little brown feet that have grown so weary,
Plodding on through the heat of day.
Mother will hold you, mother will fold you
Safe to her breast; little feet rest;
Now is the time to cease from play.

Little brown hands that through day's long hours
Never rested, be still at last;
Mother will rest you; come, then and rest you
Here by her side, nestle and hide, fast
Creep to her heart and hold it fast.
Little brown head, on my shoulder lying,
Night is coming and day is dead;
Mother will sing you songs that shall bring you
Childhood's soft sleep, quiet and deep;
Sweet be your dreams, O dear brown head.

Husband — Oh — er my dear, it's dandruff.

HEAVY STORM IN PORTUGAL

Lisbon, Portugal, Sept. 2.—A thund erstorm with large hailstones and heavy rain, is reported to have destroyed crops, flooded fields and killed many cattle and sheep in northwest Portugal. The town of Leiria, north of Lisbon, is said to have been one of the hilary sufferers.

Here and There

Air mail service between Winnipeg and Fargo, North Dakota, has been inaugurated and the first mail for Winnipeg arrived in the United States Arrival recently.

The postage arrears items of the Dominion Atlantic Railway line is larger than last year and a 40 per cent. rise increase is noted for July. There will likely be 1½,000 barrels available for export as compared with 182,000 last year.

British Columbia's farms produced $71,387,209 this year; breaking all records and gaining $2,500,650 over the previous year, according to the final figures of the Provincial Statistician, G. H. Stewart. Lumbering leads with agriculture second.

A new world record is set—300 mile Leghorn baby chicks arrived from the University of British Columbia at Ottawa through the Canadian Pacific Express Company, safe, sound, and hungry, all of them. None had feed or water on the 3,000 mile journey and none died or suffered.

A Barred Plymouth Rock, owned by the University of Saskatchewan, has established a new record for the three Prairie Provinces, laying for 365 days egg her first year, after which there is still a month to go. The world's record for egg-laying production is held by No. 6, an Ancona hen, 7 pullets, which laid 351 eggs in 364 days.

Members of the newly-appointed Salvation Army Board of Missionaries, headed by Hon. W. E. Foster, recently concluded conference with Canadian Pacific officials at Montreal, Que., dealing with the proposed improvements in the grain shipping facilities of the ports. The chief object of the new commission, according to Mr. Foster, is the framing of a national idea of an All-Canadian route for grain through the Port of Saint John.

Scots in Canada are looking forward with keen interest to the coming Highland Gathering and Festival of Scottish music to be held in Banff September 2 to 5, the activities taking place on the grounds adjoining the Banff Springs Hotel. Through the generosity of the Canadian Pacific Railway, this festival has been made possible and is the first of the Canadian Folk Song Festival held at the Chateau Frontenac, Quebec, in May which was voted such an outstanding success.

The United States' interest in the development of the locomotive in Canada is seen in a contract by the Baltimore and Ohio Railway to the Canadian Pacific Railway to send one of its latest passenger types of engine to the centenary exhibit of locomotives, which will open at Baltimore on September 17th. The Pacific has arranged to ship one of its latest types of the "2800" class locomotives, complete with crew, for the occasion. This is the company's fastest and most powerful passenger locomotive.

One of the strangest attempts at fame as a census is now being made by Andrew Wilkden of Bella Coola, B.C., according to information received here. At the request of Harlan I. Smith of the National Museum of Canada, Mr. Wilsden is taking a census of the grizzly bear population of some eleven valleys along the Bella which are included in the "Norway of America" traversed on the roundabout journey between Prince Rupert and Vancouver. The coast line belongs to these two ports is a noted big game hunting region and attracts many hunters each year from all sections of the continent as well as from other parts of the world.

COFFEE IMPOST REMOVED

Ottawa, Sept. 2.—Beginning today, the roasting and grinding of coffee is not considered a manufacturing process and the sales tax will not apply, according to a notice from the Department of National Revenue. The notice states that under the Special War Revenue Act, the Commissioner-Council has ordered the change. Green coffee, will, however, be subject to sales tax on importation.

GRUDGE AGAINST FAIR SUSPECTED

Four Attempts Made To Dynamite Brockville Show Grounds

Brockville, Sept. 1.—Police are guarding all local fair buildings and all approaches to the Exhibition Grounds, following two attempts to dynamite bridges and blast craters in the race track. Little damage has been done, because the explosive was poorly placed, but authorities fear that a third attempt might be more successful.

Yesterday it was discovered that fifty pounds of dynamite had been stolen from the municipal quarry, and police fear that the vandals may still have some explosive on hand.

When attempts were made to blow up bridges on Park and Orchard Streets during the week-end, the outrages were not connected with the fair. It was not until two further charges were exploded at the Exhibition Park that it was realized that malice against the Exhibition was responsible for theatacks on roads leading to the fair.

Directors of the association are completely mystified. So far as they know they say, no one has a grudge against the association. The fair is now in progress.

NEW AUTO GEAR DEVICE

Washington, Sept. 2.—An automobile gear device which does away with the engine fly wheel, the clutch and differential has been devised by a British inventor at Newcastle-on-Tyne the Commerce Department was advised today by Vice-Consul Levis at that place. To change gears a rocking pedal is provided, the toe being used to increase the gear and the heel to reduce it. A small lever on the dashboard has forward, neutral, and reverse positions.

George P. Smith, aged 68, a farm bridges on Park and Orchard Streets during the week-end, the outrages were committed suicide by drowning.

MOTOR SHOW IS FEATURE OF FAIR

Many Of The Firms Have 1928 Models On Exhibition

The Automobile Committee of the Fair is enthusiastic over the success of its efforts to stage a real motor show at the Belleville Exhibition, something that would be one of the outstanding features of the Fair.

Mr. A. H. MacConnell, chairman of the Automobile Committee, of Belleville, places the credit entirely with the local car dealers, and while this may be stretching it just a little, yet there is no doubt that the excellent Motor Display at the Show has been made possible through the whole-hearted cooperation of the Dealers.

Almost all are represented. Belleville Fair Visitors, the those at the C.N.E. have been disappointed, of course, with the non-appearance of the much talked of New Ford. Belleville Motors, local Ford Dealers, are exhibiting the Fordson Tractor, and an interesting line of Oliver Plows and Modern Farm machinery, while, to give one an idea of just how the modern farmer is deriving constantly increasing profits from his motor.

The McLaughlin Motor Car Company is represented with a complete line of the light McLaughlin Buick and Pontiac Cars; in J. T. Warren's tent are found Chevrolet and the New Canadian Oakland; Quinte Motors, the Oldsmobile; Chandler Motor Sales, the Chandler line, including the Model Eight, seen for the first time in the city.

Dodge Bros cars are displayed by Messrs. Buckley & Legge, and the Hudson-Essex cars by Messrs. A. Boyce. They constitute an imposing array and the whole display is enthusiastic by the hundreds have examined closely since the Fair opening. Generally speaking the cars and lines in every make represent greater value to the buyer than ever before, and all at prices far below those which one has been accustomed to.

BRITISH SHIPS RAID PIRATE STRONGHOLD

Shanghai, Sept. 2.—British naval forces conducted a successful punitive expedition against bandit stronghold on Bias Bay near Hong Kong yesterday, an official statement issued here today said. Seven junks, but the correspondent of the London Westminster Gazette said several villages were destroyed as well as the junks, but that there were no trace of pirates.

No casualties occur to British or pirates resulted from the raid. Pirates back in hills watched the blue jackets destroy their stronghold in quietness and dynamite. The British used the aircraft carrier "Hermes," two cruisers and sloops in the attack.

STILL HOPING

Brunswick, Georgia, Sept. 2.—Repeated disappointments in the wait of groundless rumours concerning the fate of Paul Redfern, missing airman, have failed to dim the hope that the flier will be found alive soon. Although more than a week has passed since Redfern started his Brunswick-Havana flight, searchers were inclined to believe that reports of an unidentified plane being sighted off Florida coast indicated he has reached the south continent. A report that he had fallen at Alemquer was proved groundless.

The hostesses for the weekly tea at the Rowing Club Green yesterday, were Mrs. Houston and Mrs. Caverly. Mrs Houston presided at the tea table assisted by tea table and was assisted by Miss Campbell and Miss Brown. Mrs. Caverly rink, composed of Mrs. Callender, lead, Mrs. Aylesworth, second Mrs. Cook, third and Mrs. Houston, skip, won the weekly prize. At the tea hour a letter was read by the hostess Mrs. J. C. Caverly from Col. Conger, of Ottawa, a former resident of Belleville, and a keen supporter of the Rowing Club, together with Mr. Farrell, won the Scotch doubles in the tournament recently held here. He is presenting the ladies with a fine trophy to be played for each year con petitors to be single, and the trophy given to first, second and third year players. The first will begin play for the trophy on Tuesday, September 6th.

The marriage was solemnized yesterday at the home of A. Coulter, 280 Ann Street, when her second daughter, Ruth, became the bride of Mr. James McMinn, of this city, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. Wm. McIntosh, Perth Street. Rev. C. E. Cooke, Minister of Christ Church, officiating.

The bride was becomingly attired in a gown of white satin, with veil of tulle and carried a shower bouquet of roses and baby's breath. The happy couple were unattended. Following the ceremony a luncheon was served to about thirty guests.

Mr. and Mrs. McIntosh left on a motor trip to Muskoka and Georgian Bay and upon their return will reside on Coleman street.

Before choosing your new hat, call up and see Hubley's models at Harman's which she will be pleased to show.

WOULD NOT BAN SUNDAY MOVIES, REPORT SAYS

Quebec Commission Is Opposed To Proposal That Cinema Be Closed

Quebec., Que., Sept. 2.—The cinema, generally speaking is not immoral. The general public is against the banning of Sunday cinema shows. Child ren under 13 years of age should not be permitted to cinema performances in any account.

These are some of the conclusions of the report of the most comprehensive inquiry ever made into the morals of present-day movies and are contained in the report submitted at today's meeting of the Quebec cabinet by Judge Loui Boyer, president of the royal commission appointed by the government of Quebec to consider the Laurier Palace theatre tragedy in Montreal, in which 78 children lost their lives on January 9 last, following a fire panic. In his report on the tragedy itself Boyer declares that there was no criminal or civil responsibility on the part of any one, and that the tragedy was caused by panic occasioned by fire resulting from the negligence of some unknown person.

The commission, however, was given a wider scope than the tragedy. It was authorized to look into the whole question of movie performances in the province, and Judge Boyer's report is held to the principal cities of the province. The inquiry lasted seven weeks and 427 witnesses were heard.

Lengthy Report

The report submitted by Judge Boyer is about 14,000 words long and is divided into nine sections, covering the various phases of the inquiry. The question of cinema posters is dealt with in the report. One point brought out in this regard is the difference which exists in the province between the strict inspection of movie advertisement posters. In the metropolis it is in the hands of the police and 50 per cent. of the posters submitted are banned altogether. In Quebec city the consent of a body of responsible citizens appointed by the city council. In Quebec, 15 per cent. of the posters are refused for approval are banner.

The report concluded with the follow ing remarks:

"Sunday performances should not be prohibited.

"Citizens in general and the working class in particular are generally speaking, in favor of the exclusion of child ren under 18 years of age and against the banning of Sunday performances.

"The provincial and municipal laws are partly satisfactory but more inspectors should be employed by the provincial crown board and not by the municipal authorities.

"The cinema, generally speaking, is not immoral."

TWELVE OCEAN FLIERS MISSING IN SIX MONTHS

New York, September 1.— Tempor arily, at least, the name of Paul Redfern, Georgia pilot, has been added to the growing list of air navigators who combatting on ambitious flights, apparently sailed off into a mysterious void.

No less than 12 names have been added to the list in the last six months—added to that list which is analogous in aviation to the "disappeared at sea; unreported" of the merchant marine.

There were Si Roman and Monoreyes, who started from Georgia for Brazil last April; Nungesser and Coli, who followed a setting sun from France toward New York, in the current month were enrolled. Pedlar, Knox, Frost Scott and the British feminine name, Miss Mildred Doran, of Dole race entries. Seeking the same goal their disappearance, Erwin and Pichvaldt apparently found the same fate.

In the case of the names near the top of the list, months have passed without a clue to the fate of the men or machines, and the searches have been abandoned.

In more recent cases, lookouts on passing ships and nearby port guards, combing beaches and debris drifted ashore, and questioning visitors from outlying islands, however faint, have been depended upon to establish a clue to the fate of the missing. Scores of fishermen, natives and Houston again bore the brunt of the search for traces of the oil group. Gains of three to nearly four points were recorded by General Motors, Woolworth and several others.

MODERN GIRLS' SPEECH

Some Amusing Examples of Today Label of Exaggeration

A few of the figures of speech casually used by a woman student in college last May during one day were listed by a professor who noted them recently by an observing English professor. Among the students that the estimable young woman was apparently none the worse for the strenuous and harrowing experience through which she went. Some of the feminines remarked:

Do shut that window! I'm frozen stiff.

I'm so tired I can't move.

That boy drives me insane every time I see him.

I am starved to death.

He turned every color in the rainbow when I caught him.

It was perfect torture to get up this morning.

Speak louder; I can't hear a thing.

I was prickled on the spot.

I was perfectly delayed by that sprinkle this morning.

It's no use! I am burning up.

Everybody died in my tracks when I heard it.

ALL PRIZES ARE TO BE DIVIDED

HOME WITH BABIES FILLS THE PICTURE

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Alice, twenty-four and pretty, the mother of three babies asked a question recently—

Alice wanted to know who was getting more out of life—she, who had to stay home and scrub dirty little faces, and cook big bowls of mush and bake bumped places to make them well, and wear bungalow aprons most of the time—

Oh—

Her chum who is also young and pretty—and childless. Alice's chum thinks Alice is "missing a lot" because she is "tied down." The chum lives in a ritzy apartment—she wears pretty clothes and hasn't a thing to do but have a good time.

We talked it over with Alice and took her here was the glorious Pale-her chum's the Pate to be deplored—

And now Martha comes today. Martha who cried—

"WHAT IS POSITION, FREEDOM AND FINE CLOTHES IF THERE IS NOBODY TO CARE!"

DEAR ELSIE:

I am wondering if anything I could say would help Alice, the busy mother of little children, who wrote you the other day.

Alice spoke of her busy days and of the carefree days of her chum who hasn't any children. The chum seemed to think she was better off because she was independent. She isn't better off Elsie. I'm independent now and how I long for the old days.

My children are all grown and married and I'm alone in my little home. I would gladly go back to the time when I was busy keeping house for my little ones and their daddy. It was hard some times but what happiness I have!

What are position, freedom and fine clothes worth if there is nobody to care for you? They're just mockery, that's all. Oh, I do hope Alice will not cause to be glad that she has these happy days. She will yearn for them when they are gone.

MARTHA.

Remember lonely Rose. Rose's husband worked at night and slept during the day. And Rose never seemed to have any fun at all on account of the unusual hours observed in her household. So, one day, when she was feeling particularly blue and discouraged Rose wrote to us.

The days were such draggy, uninteresting things — the same the whole week through—and she was tired and bored—

WOULDN'T IT BE ALL RIGHT TO BRING UP THE FORMER SWEETHEART AND ASK HIM TO TAKE HER OUT AGAIN!

Betty read Rose's letter — Betty whose hours are similar to Rose's Betty who might have been lonely and But Betty found lots of ways to GOODBY my O WAYS! BO IO keep herself busy and happy. The best way of all is the one she told about in the last paragraph of her letter—

BETTY DIDN'T RING UP THE OLD SWEETHEART—

BETTY HAD A BABY—

DEAR ELSIE:

I read about Rose the other day. Rose was the young woman whose husband worked at night and slept in the day time and Rose complained that she never could have fun because they could never go anywhere on account of her husband's work hours. I was in the same fix as Rose once. But I didn't ring up any former sweethearts. And I want to tell Rose NOT to do it. There are lots of other ways to have a good time.

I married when I was only fifteen. I married a man who worked nights. He was a railroad man ten years my senior. Well, here's how I managed.

I let my husband sleep half the day until about one o'clock. Then we would go to a show and if he didn't feel like getting up to go, I'd slowly and unnoticeably get him to do. I would try a new dish or make some home-made candies or sew or read or go out by myself.

Now, I've been married for four years and I have a dear little boy who certainly keeps me well occupied and busy while Daddy sleeps. And when my husband doesn't feel like going out I just dress my little boy and away we go for a good time.

BETTY.

Atta girl, Betty! Here's three cheers and a tiger for you and all the love in the world for the three of you!

A man is seldom a cynic unless he has something wrong with his digestive apparatus.

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 47
A QUANDARY

When Norma left Ada Lind and Ben Carson in the lounge, she went up to her room and seated herself at the open window overlooking the park.

The cool night breeze blew across her flushed and troubled face. She leaned her elbow on her crossed arms on the window-sill and stared out over the undulating waters, lost in thought, at the Orient. The Orient that sheltered somewhere, some place that night, the man she loved and wanted with all her soul.

But her mind was in a quandary. She longed to say to King Carson: "Go, go and bring my husband back to me!" And yet her pride held her back. To send for Phillip, after he had left her deliberately, taking only one thoughtlessly uttered phrase of hers as his compe, seemed unthinkable.

Suppose, she thought, that Carson found him and forced him to return, whether he wished to or not. What a horrible situation for them all! And all her life she would doubt and would never be quite sure whether Phillip came back of his own free will or because his friend made him believe that he should do so.

It seemed to her that it was better to suffer as she was doing now than to have that later torture—the more poignant suffering. The suffering that would come from living day after day, year after year, in doubt. She would, perhaps, ease her pain, but time would only add to the pain that would be her lot if Phillip returned. Added to that would be also her doubt—indeed her conviction—that her husband had never loved her, but he had married her for her money.

Her face burned anew with shame at that last thought, and she resolved that never, never, would she confess to King Carson, or to any one else, what she had learned from Stephen Stokes that bitter afternoon so many months before. Let Carson wait stub bornly, as he'd sworn to do, for her to send a message to Phillip. She couldn't she wouldn't do it!

But her resolve brought her no peace. She rested her forehead on her arms and cried. Her sense of loneliness, of having no one in all the world with whom to share her secret, brought her hot tears trickling over her soft bare arms and dropping, one by one, on the window-ledge.

She didn't know how long she sat there, crying quietly in the darkness. But a timid knock at the door brought her to her feet, and she found that she was quite chilled.

"Who is it?" she called, dabbing futilely at her eyes before she went to the door.

"It's I—Ada."

Norma opened the door and stood back in the shadow, lest Ada see her tear—streaked face.

"Oh, you're not ready to go to bed, yet?" asked Ada. "I thought I saw a light in your room and I—I just wanted to say good night and tell you how—how very much I like your Mr. Carson. He's a fine, splendid man."

"In spite of her own unhappiness, Norma could not help but feel sorry for the little widow's plump arm.

"I'm so glad. He is very, very charming," she said aloud. "I'm glad he's in love with you," she added, "because he's a splendid man in every way. He's not alone who goes around the world breaking hearts, I firmly believe, although he's had plenty to break, I'm sure."

Even in the dim light from the corridor, Norma could see Ada blush at the flattery of the suggestion.

"I'm glad you're in love with any man who's years and years younger than myself!" Ada laughed self-consciously.

"Oh, my dear, you're so sweet, and you've given me such a great time, letting me pretend I'm young again, that life hasn't really passed me by. I know I'm fooling, and I ought to be sitting quietly by a fireside, knitting, but, if you will, you are, and I really never lived at all, you'd understand."

"I think I do understand," Norma assured her. "I'm sure I do."

"One thing more," Ada wrapped her mantilla more closely around her and prepared to say good night. "Don't make a mistake about Mr. Carson, Tarzan him. He wants to help you, and I know that he can. What this whole affair's about I don't quite understand, but take my advice, my dear, and don't wreck your life through a sense of pride or jealousy. Love is too precious and comes too seldom to be ruined.

She made a little gesture of farewell and went on down the corridor to her own room, and Norma dropped wearily into bed, but not to sleep.

On the verandah below, King Carson smoked a last cigarette and stared out across the moonlit ocean toward the Orient. He longed to be on the move; to start again upon his restless wanderings.

And, while he smoked, his thoughts returned to another night no long ago when a girl had come briefly into his life and as quickly passed out of it—a girl who knew what she wanted and had the courage to ask for it and take it.

If he had only known it, that very night that same girl, Cynthia Greer, was listening to the sound of marching all unaware that she already had a husband and that he was not very many miles away.

CHAPTER 48
AN UNPOPULARITE ENCOUNTER

The following Sunday morning, King Carson, after a hearty breakfast was sauntering through the hotel lobby, smoking a cigarette, when he heard a man say to the clerk at the desk.

"Will you send my card up to Mrs. Kendall and ask if I may see her?"

Carson swung around and stared at the man who was making the request. He recognized instantly that shock of pale blond hair, the features, the curious green eyes of Sydney Stokes. Phillip Kendall once had pointed him out to Carson and mentioned that he was an unsuccessful suitor for Norma's Carson never forgot a face, and subsequent events, linking Stokes with the episode preceding Phillip's indebtedness on Carson's memory.

Carson busied himself at the news stand and waited until the bell-boy came back with a message for Stokes.

"Mrs. Kendall will be down presently. Will you wait in the reception room across the lobby?"

Carson followed him deliberately. His eyes had narrowed dangerously and when he overheard Norma's message to Stokes.

So, that was it, after all! He had hoped Norma would refuse to see Stokes. But her willingness to receive him would seem to indicate that she was not resentful. Perhaps Stokes was in the habit of dropping down to the Beach on Sundays to spend the day with Norma.

Burying himself behind the concealing folds of a newspaper, Carson seated himself just outside the tiny reception room. He felt no scruples what ever about eavesdropping in this matter that so vitally concerned his friend's future.

Presently Norma came down, looking pale and weary. She was a trifle fie breakfast she greeted Stokes with

"Sydney! Why did you come?"

"I couldn't stay away any longer," Stokes replied, in a low voice that Carson could barely catch. "Norma, you're targeting me."

Carson could hear her sigh.

"Why do you always make everything such a hopeless affair? I've told you—"

"Yes, you've told me often enough, Heaven knows," he broke in, "but I wont accept it until—"

"Until what?" she asked wearily.

"Until I see Philip Kendall back here with you."

"That will never be!" said Norma, in a low voice. "I—"

Carson waited to hear no more. He got to his feet and strode wrathfully away, hating Norma with all his heart for the traitorous little wretch he was thinking!

Phillip was well rid of her Here she was, palably carrying on a love-affair with Stokes—or, at least, not discouraging his attentions—while his friend probably was eating his heart out in loneliness and bitterness, somewhere beyond the sea.

Carson had a sudden inspiration to call his ally, Ada Lind, and ask her whether Stokes was a frequent visitor to the hotel. He felt that Norma, under the circumstances, deserved no consideration, and he wanted to be assured of his own people's doubt before he went to find Kendall.

But Ada, unfortunately, was laid up with a headache and couldn't come down. Decidedly nettled at the way things were turning out, Carson went for a long walk on the beach. He lunched at a little road-house far from the fashionable throng. Said was returning in the late afternoon, when on a sandy path between him, he saw a figure of a solitary stroller. Going closer, he perceived it to be Sydney Stokes.

SINCLAIR'S

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a high-school girl and very much in love with a young man of twenty-one.

When he went away he promised to write to me. It has been over a month since I have seen him and he has not written. I am almost, desperate.

He has a job two hundred miles away from here and comes home only six times a month, on holidays.

I have his address but I won't write because I told Him to write first and that I would answer.

He promised me he would go with no other girls and made me promise to not go with any other boys.

JOHNNIE O.

JOHNNIE O.: You are far too young to take problems of love and love itself, too seriously. It will be a long time before you find a real and lasting love.

Forget the young man and by no means write to him until he has written to you. In the meantime g'k out with your friends. It is your right to go out with as many of the opposite sex as you choose. No one wrong to have exacted any promises from you. Forget them. And forget him. Surely your pride should help you do that.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

A live ostrich recently figured in a list of wedding presents received by a bride and groom in London.

Skullcaps and off-the-face models, bedecked like turbans with the "rooster" hat, summarize the specific new millinery types mentioned for the early fall season. Little resemblance to outstanding the pinches and tucks so well liked heretofore, are particularly mentioned.

In addition to the jersey and metal mixtures which have been reported there are now combinations with metal also has its place in the showings of the couture this season.

The endorsement of velveteen and plaid fabrics is the salient feature, of the window displays in New York shops, and the combination of the two fabrics is promising.

"The growing favor of vivid purple ruby red and electric blue in evening frocks as a departure from the long-favored pastel tints has already been noted.

At the women's national championship tournament at Forest Hills during the past week observers have been impressed with the tendency for partners to wear matching accessories. The colors are introduced in the blouses in sleeveless sweaters, which the cool weather has necessitated, and sometimes in short socks, rolled down over the shoes.

Agnes is using autumn leaves for an entire turban. The turban in question has been made of pumpkin and of velvet cut out from the materials with the same effects given by pinking and the leaves overlapped over the entire turban and hung down the side in cascades.

Not just little tufts of ostrich, but thick, luscious plumes fully a foot long on the shoulder, or at the waistline, or at both points, provide a feature of new evening frocks, altogether in keeping with the floating, almost ragy silhouette that now is fostered.

Radio Will Change Trend of Music and Thinking

Orchestra Leader Finds Aerial Audiences Growing Intelligent

New York City.—Just as the war and later jazz have been blamed for everything that has gone wrong in the world in the last decade and a half, so now radio is fast being credited with all the improvement that comes about in modern life.

"Of course, it is nonsense to say that radio will produce a millennium," declares Frank Cornwall, orchestra leader and radio fan, "yet I believe it is safe to say that in a few years radio will entirely have changed modern music. The radio demand is for straight music, well played, rather than fore-comedy personalities. There are plenty of these in the night clubs and they are all right when you can see the faces and actions of those who put over so-called 'character' songs.

"The truth is, I'm inclined to think that we might never have invented sooner. Loud noises don't register over the radio any more than do facial contortions and gesticulations. Pure music without comedy interruptions, often done by the singing orchestras, is what the public seems to want. 'It Made You Happy When You Made Me Cry' is an example of the kind of song that goes well for a singing orchestra.

Mr. Cornwall defends his favorite institution against the accusation that the radio will produce a mechanical people. If it does, he believes it will be good mass thinking.

"If the radio creates a mental lockstep, it will still have raised the standard of thinking," he declares. "People who never read newspapers in their lives are talking about public events because they hear about them over the radio. Surely that is a step in the right direction. I am convinced that radio as an educational force will in ten years mean something almost like a miracle to the country."

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Heavy crochet cotton is the best thing to use for sewing on the buttons on son's suits or daughter's underwear. It will stand any amount of resistance before it will give way.

Lay a piece of strong string, about six inches long, over the top of each jar of jam you put away for the fall affair. Then pour in the paraffin and let it harden over the cord. When you use the jam, just pull the ends of each end of the string and pulling, the paraffin will slip out easily.

A bag of cotton flannel large enough to fit over the sole of a man's foot and stitch in the world to clean ceilings and high walls. As soon as it is the least bit soiled it can be removed, washed and put back again. One would never wash a regular wall brush as frequently.

If windows were dusted more often just as furniture is dusted, they would require far less washing.

NEW ALTITUDE RECORD IS SET BY FRENCHMAN

J. Callizo Reaches Height Of 42,661 Feet Beating Own Record

Paris, Sept. 2.—Aviators intent on breaking the world's altitude record must climb higher than 42,651 feet in consequence of the feat of Jean Callizo, who yesterday topped his own record by almost 1,700 feet. Callizo's former altitude record was 13,432 metres, and the new mark is 13,000 metres.

"Never again. I don't want to fall off the earth," exclaimed the diminutive Frenchman when informed today that he had attained a height never before reached by a human being.

"Progressively as one soars the sky it becomes more and more an intense blue—yes, inutilmy blue.

"My climb was rather commonplace at first, reaching 5,000 meters in 16 minutes, then 10,000 meters after 41 minutes. The sensation of despondency and isolation is terrible. The eye sees nothing; the ear is paralyzed. That is the altitude record. Then comes the drop back to earth."

The paragraph which recorded the feat is in the hands of officials who are expected to confirm the mark within a couple of days, but the new record is already accepted as far outdoing the old mark.

Pride of Detroit at Belgrade

Belgrade, Jugo-Slavia, Sept. 2. — Five hundred miles were added to the record of the Pride of Detroit today when the aviators, William S. Brock and Edward F. Schlee, landed in the airdrome near Belgrade at 12:01 o'clock. They went into the air at 6.25 in the morning at Munich, intending if conditions were favorable to fly to Constantinople, 1,000 miles away. But they encountered rain and fog which delayed progress and they decided to come down at Belgrade.

A warm welcome awaited them and the airmen remarked smilingly that they did not regret the stopover, even at the expense of a little time. They navigated by earth inductor compass and also followed the Danube river when visible.

One of the needs of the airmen is good maps, and these will be provided by Capt. Sondermayer, Jugo-Slav ace, who made a Belgrade-to-Bombay flight this year. He stores there much valuable information concerning air currents and atmospheric conditions.

Altogether, Brock and Schlee feel that they have made good time. From America to Belgrade in four days is a world's record, and they hope to continue their record-making voyage. Their speed at times today was well over a hundred miles an hour, but on occasion they slowed down because of the fog to make certain of their bearings. When informed that severe thunderstorms prevail over Bulgaria they decided to stay for the night at Belgrade and start for Constantinople early tomorrow morning.

A motorboat conveyed the fliers from the airdrome to the city, where they paid a visit to the United States legation and were entertained at dinner by the Jugo-Slav Aero club.

Michel finished his swim of 21 miles in about 16 hours, but Erickson was some hours later. They and Ernst Vierkoetter, winner of the race were the only three to finish the course. The LOWER picture shows a section of the crowd which remained to see the last two swimmers finish.

CHARIVARI ENDED QUITE DISASTROUSLY

St. Thomas, Sept. 2.—The aftermath of a charivari that didn't end a charivari quietly and was heard in police court today when Angus McIntosh, a young Southwold township farmer, appeared and was bailed over to the general sessions in $2,000 on a charge of assaulting Donald McKay, another Southwold young man, on the night of June 17.

McKay went in the preliminary hearing today that after he and nine other young men had shot off guns and shouted around McIntosh's home for about half an hour on the night in question, McIntosh stepped out of the side door and struck him on the mouth with such force as to break off two teeth and loosen a third and cut and bruise his lips. He told the court that he was knocked down by the blow and believe he was unconscious for a short period.

The complainant said his companions swore that they received no warning that they were unwelcome at the house until the bridegroom appeared and committed the alleged assault. Asked why he had waited so long to lay the charge, McKay said he wanted to give the accused an opportunity to appear and to assume his dental bill, which he estimated will cost $50 or $60.

Counsel for the accused intimated that counter-charges of unlawful assembly and the illegal carrying of firearms might be laid.

HARRY RAYNOR LITTLE KNOWLED

Appeared To Think That Multiplied Losses Would Make a Profit

RETAINS CONFIDENCE

Prince Edward County Still Seems To Believe In Motor Dealer

Harry Raynor banked on prosperity. Adversity butted in.

Sitting in his cell in Picton jail the other day he told his best friend: "If they had only let me alone, they would all have got their money."

There is not a chance in the world but that Harry Raynor, nearly a quarter of a million dollars shy, faced with criminal charges, and almost absolutely out of luck, believes that in his innermost heart of hearts.

More than that, there are hard-working farmers in the County of Prince Edward who have lost money by reason of the Pound finance of Harry Raynor, who think that Harry Raynor is all right.

An old lady sold shoe laces outside of an English railway station, who was not altogether unfamiliar to Canadian troops, at a price slightly lower than what she paid for them. When a gentleman of friendly interest kindly enquired how she was able to do this and still hope to make a living, the old lady replied: "Oh, it's the quantity I sell." Harry Raynor, so far as mortal man is able to ascertain, sold automobiles on the same basis. Harry Raynor did business under what he finally himself became to be convinced were darkened circumstances, but he basked on a cruel and glorious dawn. He is in jail.

Didn't Own His Farm

Less than six years ago he was working on a farm which, in a county where most men own their farms, he didn't own. Sans office experience sans commercial training, sans everything but such knowledge of barter as was known in the world twenty centuries ago he set out "to show the world." Harry Raynor chased a rainbow, in search of a pot of gold, and Harry Raynor is in jail.

The story of how he from his youth up traded horses and buggies, is now an ancient history. Prince Edward County figured him a world-beater, although Prince Edward County never rewarded him any gilt, gold or dog when a Prince Edward County man is supposed to be able to do—farm.

Raynor in keeping with the spirit of the age, decided he could make money selling autos. Maybe there was money in "selling autos." But autos can't be traded, profitably like horses and cattle. It report be correct, Harry Raynor had to borrow money to secure the first car which he was necessary for him to own in order that he might hold an agency.

To quote from an English music hall artiste, the whole history of Harry Raynor's career as an automobile salesman may be summed up: "He trod on a slat that wasn't there, "And his day's work was done."

Arzel Lemon, who has been one of his staunchest friends through thick and thin, and who was out in Western Canada when men sold 640 acres for I.O.U.'s and where if men only had a roll of wall paper they could write out notes with which to pay for quarter sections by the score, remarked today: "If Harry Raynor had only been out west in 1907 he would have been a millionaire today."

Bad, Palpably Bad

Raynor appears to have been of the type of business man who could write out a note for any amount, and then exclaim: "Well, thank God, that's paid." Raynor is now bent, and bust beyond peradventure. He wasn't much better off a few months ago when he bought Mr. George P. Graham's house in Belleville for $15,000. He paid $5,000 cash deposit, spent $3,000 in repairs on it, and now the house goes back to the great after-dinner speaker.

Of this buoy, Harry Raynor was mighty proud. He "took all his old Prince Edward County friends to see it. One of them, more of a race than the rest possibly, remarked: "Harry, this is a mighty fine house. I hope you will always be able to maintain it." And then for the first time there dawned on for Harry Raynor the possibility that the sun might rise on a day upon which he couldn't maintain it.

A DREAMER WITH GE OF BUSINESS

There's hardly a man in this country, today, who does not believe that Harry Raynor, it, morally at-all events, as honest as the day is long. And it's a funny wor d at that, because men who lost money through transactions with him glory in the belief that Prince Edward county has given to the world an utter Ponzi.

The Dream Gist

Adorning the expensive calendars which he distributed in large numbers throughout the length and breadth of Prince Edward and Hastings counties and beyond, Harry Raynor had a picture of "The Dream Girl". It was typical of him, because Harry Raynor was always dreaming, and he is dream ing now, because, although two years ago he was in difficulties, and was successful in borrowing money which didn't pull him out of the hole, he is still dreaming that if he could only have borrowed $25,000 a month ago, he would have averted a $250,000 crash.

How Raynor ever hoped to make money is a mystery. He would do almost anything in the way of frenzied finance to be the possessor, if only momentarily, of actual cash. He paid 15 per cent. interest to farmers for the loan of money, and when the due date came, paid 10 per cent. to other farmers for more money, and a lot of these farmers were borrowing money at five per cent. to lend to Harry Raynor at 10 per cent.

Everyone is now talking of Harry Raynor's notes. That is the notes other people gave him. There's nothing new in that. They were the talk of Prince Edward county for months. Farmers came to Raynor's office without invitation and pawed over the file of notes which he filed on his desk. He never had to ask anyone to discount notes for him. The farmers invited themselves to the feast they were to have at Raynor's expense, and, speaking of feasts, it has been said, too, that Harry Raynor entertained on quite a three scale at his home. That is not true. When Raynor did do was to buy liquor in large quantities not for his own consumption but for the use of those with wjom he was doing or bocd to do business.

It Was Good Liquor

It is surprising how many temperance gentlemen in this part of the province thought that imbibing liquor at Harry Raynor's expense was not so bad after all.

Raynor would not do business on a Sunday. That was absolutely against his code. A mother and son motored all the way from Toronto to Picton to make a deal with Raynor. He wouldn't even go to the garage to see them. Next Sunday they returned to Picton. Harry Raynor feeling he ought to do something for them as he had not told them the previous week why he had not gone to the garage, gave permission to one of his salesmen to do business with the mother and son on the Sabbath. A deal was put through and this is what Raynor had to say about it: "That's an awful thing I've done." And Harry Raynor today thinks his luck would have been better if he hadn't allowed his employee to sell that car on Sunday.

Some of Raynor's financial dealings were simply astoine One night sitting in the rotunda of one of the hotels here, he produced a $1,000 Victory bond which was maturing in two days and for which some $48 interest was payable. Raynor offered to sell it for $1,000 because he explained he didn't want to be bothered going to the bank. Harry Raynor would rather lose $48 than walk 20 yards to a bank.

Expensive Shaving

The story is told here of how Harry Raynor, gave a barber a car for nothing on condition that the tonsorial artist would call at his home every Sunday morning for one year, to shave him.

One day Raynor bought a trotting horse for $1,200. He might as well have bought a herd of white elephants for all the use he had for it. He ran the horse and about the first occasion it performed for him the horse broke its leg. When he knew Harry Raynor and who knew more than he did about horses told him he better take the accident as an omen that trotting was not his game. He bought another horse.

The day he knew the jig was up and that arrest was only a matter of hours, Harry Raynor was having an $800 ice plant installed in the Belleville Mansion.

LEGAL MINDS AT LOGGER-HEADS

Hamilton, Ont., August 27 (C.P.)— In a recent case where a man and woman were charged with contributing to juvenile delinquency Magistrate Jelfs reserving judgment, said:—"If two people love each other,I would rather leave the children with them, even though they were unmarried, than with two where married, but always bickering with one another. In the first case, happiness would be the in holding them together, and in the second case, the ceremony would be the only be that binds."

William Morrison, acting crown prosecutor, disagreed. "I can't say that argument. The children would be growing up, and while their minds were impressionable they would be assimilating the belief that it was immaterial all right for people to live together unmarried. The marriage holds out civilization together, and nothing should be done to break it down."

REGENT THEATRE

Dramatic Clare Bow has hit the bull eye in—Hit, in with a force that kept last night's audience at the Regent Theatre entranced, thrilled and keyed up from start to finish in her newest Paramount Pictures "Rough House Rosie." "Rough House Rosie" is one of those all too infrequent photoplays that turn out to be nothing more or less than one hundred percent entertainment—a scene plan that's pure joy.

This Saturday Brenda Post story by Bunnally Johnson opens with a beach carnival, proceeds to a gay cabaret with Clara leading her "Six Roughnecks" in a novel little dance, moves to a fashionable country club and a gay party of the upper social set and closes with rousing fight, as Clara at the ringside urges her big boy friend, Joe Hennessey, on to victory and the middleweight championship. It's a great picture, a great show and one

TO WED FOR THE THIRD TIME

London, Sept. 1.—Earl Howe, who was an intimate friend of King Edward, the last Treasurer of the Household for Queen Victoria and Lord Chamberlain to Queen Alexandra for 22 years, and who has had two wives already, is entering into matrimony for the third time.

His first wife, whom he married 44 years ago, was a daughter of the seventh Duke of Marlborough. The stateliest and most dignified of all the Viceroys we sent to Ireland," and a sister of Lady Randolph Churchill. She died after 32 years of marriage, years in which she had held a conspicuous place at Court and in Society.

Thirteen years after her death Lord Howe married Miss Muriel, the second Marquess of Dufferin, who died two years ago. His third wife is a distant connection, an she is the great-granddaughter of the fifth Earl Howe. She is the widow of Captain Gilbert Vane.

FIRST PLACE IS PIRATES' BY WIN

Pittsburgh's Victory Over Cubs Gave Them Lead

New York, Sept. 2.—The Pittsburgh Pirates went into first place in the tight National League race yesterday by defeating the Chicago Cubs 4 to 2. The Corsairs hold on first place rests on a single percentage point.

Joe Harris was the individual batting star, the Pirate first-baseman figuring in all of the home team's runs, including a long home-run drive to the centre field fence.

Lee Meadows had the better of Hal Carlson on the mound. The Chicago hurler was hit freely in the first four innings and was lifted for a pinch-hitter in the eighth.

Meadows was ably supported by sparkling throws by the Waner brothers. Lloyd Waner's throw to Traynor stopped Wilson in the second inning when he attempted to go to third on Beck's single. In the next inning Paul Waner cut off Beck at third plate with a throw to Cooch.

Pittsburgh drew first blood in the second inning when Grantham beat out a hit. Harris doubled and Cooch singled, scoring both of them. Harris' homer came in the fourth with none on base. After Grantham had singled in the eighth, Harris drove him home with a sacrifice with what proved to be the winning run.

The Cubs scored twice in the fifth on an error by Grantham and singles by Grimes and Carlson. Chicago threatened again in the ninth, but with one run over and runners on first and third, Meadows retired two pinch-hitters.

BOMBERS FOR CHILE

Washington, September 2. — The Chilean Government has recently placed an order with the Fairey Aviation Company, of London, for a number of their latest model 111 F, three-seater bombers, furnished with Napier 450 horsepower Lioness, according to advices to the Department of Commerce from Trade Commissioner Dodd, at Mark, London.

The machines to be furnished are very high speed three place bombers and are capable of being converted into seaplanes by the addition of pontoons. The contract was secured after severe competition from manufacturers in Germany, France and Italy.

NEW SPRING WHEAT DELIVERED

Lethbridge, Sept. 2.—The first load of new spring wheat was delivered to a Bow Island elevator here yesterday, grading number one and weighing 61½ pounds to the bushel.

TASCHEREAU TAKES HOLIDAY

Quebec, Sept. 1.—Premier Taschereau left town early this morning for a short holiday at the Sis. Anne Club near Riviere du Loup. He will return to Quebec next Tuesday or Wednesday. Hon. Mr. Taschereau is accompanied on his trip by Hon. Philippe Paradis, Charles Lanctot, K.C., Assistant Attorney-General and Dr. J. D. Brousseau.

Edward Harry Temme, the English-man who swam the channel a few days ago, is the eleventh swimmer to do so and he has received about one-eleventh of the claim given to those rowboat which took him back to his vessel after the successful ordeal. In which previously failed. Temme is tug after the successful ordeal. In shown above facing the reader in the the bow is Miss Ivy Hawkes.

Notes On The Great Swim From Our Own Sports Correspondent

By Sam R. Curry
(Sports Editor of The Intelligencer.)

The Marathon swim, one of the most colossal sporting events ever attempted or ever, the motion still and the majority of the contestants have gone home to bed after their last fortune while others are carrying awhile in Toronto, to be lized, cined and praised for their marvellous performance

George Young the world's stateholder was displaced and instead on another head rests the crown, emblematic of the highest aquatic honors that could be bestowed on any individual. Young the favorite for this long race was a victim of misfortune and instead of blazing the trail as he did in the Canadian National he had to be content after completing five miles by cramps which seized him unbridled as he was heading for the breakwater for the first leg.

The Press boat was directly opposite the Toronto bay when the observers noticed that Young started to waver. He made towards the surface once but managed to resume his course but the heart was willing and the flesh weak and a cry went up from those surrounding him. He was helpless windy hands went to his rescue and pulled him out of the numbing waters. After being given stimulants he was hustled to the hospital where he was revived by attending physicians.

Young's departure from the race decreased from the interest as he was one of the contenders most seriously reckoned with." From the start he jumped into an early lead and it was soon noted that the race had resolved itself into a battle between he and the German, Ernest Vierkoetter. Young put on a very rapid on the first leg but the foreigner swimmer with a graceful rhythm clung to his heels. As the two reached the outside buoy the German was right on his heels and the pair swam stroke for stroke but the grueling pace had chilled waters proved too much for Young and he saw his hopes and aspirations of another victory dashed away on the waters of old Lake Ontario.

News of Young's misfortune spread like wildfire and a feeling of sympathy for him was rife in every quarter. It was youth pitted against experience by waters and the German by his remarkable performance after Young was taken from the water stamped him as one of the world's best. Clocked by the timers an hour after the start he was going forty-eight strokes a minute and last-afternoon saw him maintaining the same dizzy pace. Several of the swimmers were roadside in towards the completion mark when the German shot up behind them and passed at least half a dozen or more.

The Press Boat Manana carried news paperman from every corner of the American Continent all of whom expressed surprise at young's failure to complete the distance.

"One-Eye" Connolly of gate-crashing fame managed to get the gate keeper again and was a prominent figure about the dock. Connolly has built for himself an international reputation of being able to beat his way into every big sporting event which the newspaper cash. Asked by the writer his opinion on the Marathon marvelsight battle the crasher replied that he was confident Dempsey would come back.

Foster Hewitt announced the standard of the race from time to time to those on shore and his description of the contest from the start was most graphic and interesting. Prompting at 8.30 Premier G. Howard Ferguson sent the swimmers on their way. A splash went up and three hundred human bodies pawed the water like walruses in order as best their way to the front ranks. A flotilla of row-boats each bearing the number of the swimmer whom they accompanied lay in wait at the western end. As they ploughed their way past the breakwater there was a splashing of oars as each pilot endeavored to reach his swimmer. The morning sun shone brilliantly on the vast flotilla which dotted the almost placid waters of Lake Ontario. One by one the natators were taken exhaust ed from the water and out of three hundred who started, a small yer cent are plowed through by two o'clock in the afternoon.

Irene O'Byrne, the blonde nymph who has been Young's constant companion since the Catalina triumph was never stirred from her position on the deck of the launch which accompanied him and her shouts of encouragement were heard for miles around. As Young gave up in despair she broke down and sobbed violently as the party headed for shore and the hospital.

The water was remarkably calm and a warm sun and a soft off-shore breeze proved a boon to those in quest of fame and fortune.

Joe Wright Senior in the referee's boat trailed the German and his shrill blasts of warning to the fleet of row-boats passed on the course were heeded to by the pilots of large and small craft.

Police and river boats darted hither and thither carrying the news and progress of the swim to the anxious ones ashore.

Elwood A. Hatcher, Publicity Director, of the C.N.E., was the busiest man of the day. He gave the directions and orders from his speed-boat.

While all eyes were turned on the swimmers there was still the odd joke or wise crack to break a somewhat monotonous day.

An eager photographer perched on the cross-trees of a yacht was nearly tossed into the water by the prow of the boat struck a nearby craft.

A portion of a railing on the shore collapsed and several who were leaning on it received an impromptu bath.

Byron Summers, of California, was accompanied by a bevy of beauties and a whole brass band but it didn't help his chances any as the last dozen lengths or so he was assisted from the water.

DETROIT BROKE LOSING STREAK

Beating St. Louis 8-5 In First Game Of Series

New York, Sept. 2.—Cleveland bunched hits off Thomas and Jacobs yesterday to win at Chicago, 8 to 5, in the first game of the series. Hudlin was hit freely by the Sox but was given great support in the pinches. Two double plays breaking up budding rallies. Summa's drive into the right field bleachers in the third netted scored a runner ahead of him.

Breaking their losing streak, which had extended to eight games, the Detroit Tigers scored four runs in the tenth inning and won from the Browns at St. Louis yesterday, 8 to 4. Three singles, three walks, two stolen bases and a sacrifice figured in the final four runs. The Browns tied the score in the ninth with two runs and two wallks filled the bases and Sisler and Williams both went home on a double play. Each team used three pitchers.

Boston-New York and Washington-Philadelphia games were both rained out.

MERCURY IS NEW PRODUCTION OF RUSSIAN BALLET

Was Last Treasurer of the Household of Queen Victoria

London, Sept. 1.—Mercury, produced by the Diaghilef Ballet for one performance only, got a good deal of silver from some of the critics. The costumes, designed by Picasso, were very good, the scenery amusing, though hardly reminiscent at times of Greece. Three Graces bathing, frankly grotesque. Massine was in the name-part, and distinguished himself as usual.

The house was crowded, the Duke and Duchess de Penaranda were in a box, she in a purple dress sand wonder ful pearls. In the adjoining box was Lady Cowley, in mauve, with a group of friends. As it happened to be one of the few hot nights of this extraordinary summer most people went in to the foyer to get a little air during the intervals and some even into the aisled, while both men and women had somewhat wild and shaggy hair.

streets, where a strange mixture of costumes could be seen—people in full evening dress and the pifferari and gallerytes, the latter of whom seemed mostly young, earnest, and be-spectacled.

Here is Cyril Coaffee, the Winnipeg runner who is now residing in Chicago who won the Canadian championship in both the hundred and two twenty yard dash, and who will compete next Saturday in the O.N.E. athletic meet at Toronto, Ont.

RACES PROVIDED SPLENDID SPORT

Keen Competition With Good Fields Made Enjoyable Afternoon

The feature of the day of sports at the Fair Grounds yesterday were of course the horse races which brought out well balanced fields in both of the events namely the 2.30 Class and the 2.13 Class. The results were keen by contested by all, and generally in the last few strides did the winner show in front.

2.30 Class — $300.

In the first hat of 2.30 Class five horses answered Starter Tice's call at post time for a purse of $300. This heat proved very thrilling from start to finish with Willis Gratton getting up in time for first place. Elenor Bay, was second with Private Scott third, Starlight Dan was fourth (the only local owned horse of the day) with Valley Todd fifth.

Dick Sunday, that good horse from Trenton declined the lane much to disappointment of all race goers. The time of the mile was 2.16 1-2.

The second heat also went to Willis Gratton in 2.17 1-2 with Private Scott coming out Elenor May for second place, Elenor May was third, Starlight Dan was fourth again, and Valley Todd brought up the rear.

Willis Gratton made it three straights when he showed his heels to the rest of the field in the third heat in 2.16 3-4. No nicer performance has been seen here for some time as was given by the same pacer in the two for the first 1-2 mile and when called upon, went out to win by the length and a half, which money!

Elenor May was second in the first heat and won second money. Private Scott was third and third money, with Starlight Dan fifth for the fourth money, Valley Todd was fourth in position.

2.13 Class — $300.

The 2.13 Class proved to be the feature race of the day. Four horses faced the starter and in each one they proved their own on their way on an even footing.

Ramona Gratton that good mare owned by Dr. White of Codrich proved the winner in the first heat by a short margin, with Jack Abell second Jean Peifer was third and Hal Boy was fourth, the only other starter and the time of the mile was 2.13 flat.

In the second heat a much different race resulted, when Hal Boy came from behind and held at the back stretch to best out Jean Peifer with Ramona Gratton third and Jack Abbie fourth the time of the mile was 2.13 the same as the first heat.

Hal Boy's great concurred in the running of the third heat of the 2.13 when Jean Peifer was ruled blocked by her driver Mr. Rownture, the little mare was really all out to win the heat, but who was forced to neck behind at the wire and would most likely would have won in anoth er few yards.

Hal Boy was third with Ramona Gratton fourth in 2.16 1-4.

In the fourth heat of the 2.13 Class Ramona Gratton duplicated her performance of the first heat when she beat home Jack Abbie by a neck with Jean Peifer third and Hal Boy fourth in 2.18 1-2.

In the fifth and final heat of the race Hal Boy put up his best for final place with Ramona Gratton second, Jean Peifer, was third and Jack Abbie fourth. Here was some mighty manouvred to his harness on the back stretch which forced his driver to pull up, had he been able to finish it is all together likely that the result might have been different.

First money went to Ramona Gratton, Hal Boy took down second money Jean Peifer third, and Jack Abbie the short end of the cash.

The Results

Running Races

Thoughts of Thanksgiving were renewed when two half mile running races were run off in very fast time. The first race was won by Miss McLaughlin riding Lady Linden with J. Algor second on Riding Blaze there was also an also ran in this race.

In the other race Miss Grace Hayden repeated her performance of last year when she beat home J. Chambley on Betty, with Mr. Potter of Sidney third. Miss Hayman received a big hand when she returned to the stand she rode Kitty a nice big black horse with wonderful running ability.

ENGLISH GIRL TO FOLLOW HER FATHER

Toronto, Ont., August 30 (C.P.)—Following in the footsteps of Captain is the task of Hon. Katharine Hewar', daugh ter of the Lord Chief Justice of England, who is accompanying her father and Lady Hewart through Canada while Lord Hewart attends the meeting of the Canadian Bar Association. But she is not to be like that Hon. Katharine Hewart in choosing her ambitious path but in the reading of classics at that most anti-feminine of universities, Oxford, where the registration is restricted to no girl to every four men. She is in her third year. While not a lawyer nor connected with the women in practicing law in England in any way caution, Lady Hewart has made many observations of the profession. It is slow in opening out to women and those who are called to the bar inieres' themselves chiefly in cases where they are defending women and children in courts. "No great financial responsibility is ever trust to the business to women yet," says Lady Hewart.

Nine times out of ten when the unexpected happens we bring it on ourselves.

DOEGRAVE MAKES DENIAL

Dublin, Sept. 2.—President William T. Cosgrave, of the Irish Free State, today denied that there was any truth in a statement made at Bray last night by a supporter of Eamon de Valera, the Republican leader, Robert Brennan, a Pianna Fail candidate for County Dublin that he (Brennan) had been informed on good authority that Lord Beaverbrook had placed $150,000 at the disposal of Premier Cosgrave for election purposes. Brennan was speaking on de Valera's platform when he made the statement in question.

CANTON BANKS CLOSE

Canton, China, Sept. 2.—The Government banks today announced a five-day closure. The object, was not stated, but reorganization resulting from the current revolution is expected. Militarists are detaining three members of the Chamber of Commerce pending payment of $10,000,000 Mexican toward the war fund. Efforts to raise the amount are being made in commercial circles.

Prince George's signature was added to those of royalty in the famous Bible at the Brantford, Ontario, Six Nations Indian reservation, the ceremony taking place on the occasion of the return visit of the princes to Toronto, Ontario. Lower is a view of the box in which the Bible and Queen Anne plate were buried during the American revolution. The plate on the top was a gift from Queen Anne to the Mohawks. Upper are shown the Indian chiefs who, from the reservation, who presented the Bible for the prince's signature.

HŌVIS

The Bread of Health

HOVIS

IT'S the Flour that makes the difference. No other bread flour is milled in quite the same way as HŌVIS.

For it contains a large proportion of wheat germ, which is the most nutritious part of the wheat grain.

The result is that HŌVIS Bread, baked by leading Canadian bakers, contains those precious, health-giving vitamines and more of the true nutriment of the wheat.

That's why HŌVIS Bread—"the bread of health"—is so different and so much better for you.

Why is HŌVIS the "Bread of Health"?

What is the Secret of the HŌVIS Flavor?

BETTER ingredients always make better bread. But there is one particular ingredient present in such abundance in HŌVIS Bread as to give it a value no other bread possesses.

That ingredient is the wheat germ, scientifically combined in HŌVIS Flour.

You have only to taste HŌVIS Bread once, to realize the difference this makes!

And you are certain to enjoy it—just as thousands of others do.

Costs a little more—worth much more.

Why the name HŌVIS?
It is coined from the two Latin words "Homine Vis" and means "The Strength of Man."

HŌVIS Flour is made by the millers of PURITY FLOUR—trade-mark protected.

EQUIPMENT FOR PLANE

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 1.—Automaze flying, whereby the equilibrium of an aeroplane is maintained without the direction of the pilot, has been attained through a device invented by Capt. Archibald H. J. Taplin, formerly of Richmond, Surrey, England, and now a resident of this city, the Spokesman-Review says. The device has been given a thorough test by Captain N. H. Mansour, a commercial aviator in this city, the paper declares, and has been pronounced entirely practicable.

BRITISH GUNBOAT HIT

London, Sept. 1.—A member of the crew of the British gunboat Cockchafer was slightly wounded, says a Hong Kong despatch to the Exchange Telegraph, when the warship and a vessel she was convoying were briefly fired upon from shore by Chinese. One shell struck the Cockchafer, but caused only superficial damage. The Admiralty has returned the fire.

ARCHBISHOP UNIMPROVED

the Grey Nuns' Hospital, where for several weeks he has been lying dangerously ill. His condition today, however, shows no marked improvement, hospital authorities stated. Mr. and Mrs. Victor Mathieu, Quebec City, the former a nephew of the Archbishop, and Senator Beland, Quebec, arrived in Regina last night

STILL MISSING

Hope Almost Abandoned For The St. Raphael And Crew

Prettymouth, Eng., Sept. 3.—In the huge, speedy flying boat "Whale," Capt. P. T. Courtney took off for New York at 6.36 a.m. this morning. He plans to stop and refuel at the Azores.

He made a perfect get-away in fine weather and was later reported 270 miles on his way. He has F. Little as engineer and Lieut. Downey as navigator.

Mysterious Millionaire

Besides the three aviators there was a passenger aboard described by the force officials as a Canadian millionaire. He is believed to be R. H. Brymer of Montreal, although his identity was carefully guarded.

Capt. Courtney's machine is up-to-date and capable of carrying half a dozen men if necessary. It was carrying a load of about four tons at high speed and has two Napier Lion engines with horsepower of a thousand. It has radio and should be constantly in touch with shipping, etc. Only a brief stop will be made in New York before the return flight.

Hurta, Latvia, the first objective, is twelve hundred miles distant and he hopes to reach it this evening, Capt. Courtney, who had waited for her husband to get away for almost six weeks, cheered him probably louder than any other spectators as the huge plane rose gracefully from the waters and vanished over the sea.

Sighted Plane Wednesday

London, Sept. 3.—While no further word has been heard from the British plane St. Raphael with Capt. Hamilton, Col. Minchin and Princess Wertheim aboard, experienced aviators and it was early to abandon hope. The public, however, was disposed to regretfully list the plane as among the vanished. Press association says communication has been established with Steamer Marc, which reported seeing the airplane Wednesday night.

Little Hope of Rescue

London, Sept. 3.—Capt. Sydney Colston, who searched Newfoundland for Nungesser and Coli, said today the chances were too long that provided the St. Raphael got across the Atlantic, the passengers aboard would be found. There was little chance of them turning up of their own accord, he thought, as if they landed on the interior of Newfoundland, they would probably never be heard from.

A revival of feeling against transAtlantic flights was not expected here in the States and Germany. While some newspapers had sympathetic editorials, the general feeling was that pioneers always appear foolhardy but it is they who take long chances who achieve great things. e.e.e

Unfavorable Weather

Caribou, Maine, Sept. 3.—Weather conditions unfavorable for a resumption today of the flight from Trepassey, Nfld., to London, Colonel Lindbergh, the "Silver Monoplane" of the Canadian Pacific Airways, the first leg of which will be Harbor Grace Newfoundland, was interrupted Thursday night when the plane landed here. Washington.

Soggy Ground Stops Plane

St. Gregoire, Que., Sept. 3.—A soggy field as the result of heavy rain last night prevented the hop-off at daylight" enroute from Windsor, Ontario, to Windsor, England. The plane, however, may start later in the day.

Year More Ready

Paris, Sept. 3.—Three French planes, Blue Bird, Breguet and Tangb Bird were being prepared today for possible take-off Monday for New York or Philadelphia, weather permitting. Sunday is the date set for the start of Philadelphia flight from Cranwell, England, of the plane Princess Xenia with which Capt. McIntosh hopes to win the Philadelphia newspaper's $2500 prize. Xenia was set to go to Ireland for a start today.

Crossing Paris

PLUCKY YOUNGSTERS

13-Year-Old Twin Sisters Bravely Attempt English Channel

Cape Gris Nez, France, Sept. 3.—The thirteen-year-old New York twins, Phyllis and Beralice Stittenfeld, had to abandon their effort to swim the English Channel after four hours in the water

Miss Lora Bedwell, of England, was also forced to abandon his attempt, the water turning choppy with wind and cold. Phyllis was the first of the twins to be taken out, having a cramp in her left leg. Beralice was going well at the time but the mother urged her to abandon the sisters' effort after her daughter had been taken aboard the tug.

600 PLACES ARE WATER COVERED

More Than 300 Drowning Reported, 300 Square Miles Flooded

Warsaw, Sept. 3.—Three hundred children marooned in the Galician mountains by floods were rescued today after they had been obliged to spend two days without food or water in the torrential rain. Until this morning their fate was unknown.

Waters in the inundated area, covering six thousand square miles, rose only slightly today and there is a belief that the peak of the flood has been reached.

The Minister of the Interior went by plane to the flood stricken area this morning to direct rescue work and organize working parties to reconstruct the country as soon as the waters receded. Damages are conservatively estimated at twenty million zloty. It is believed more than 300 persons were drowned.

In the neighborhood of Stolo over one thousand visitors at summer resorts are cut off from the world and with little chance of escape from the flooded area until the water subsides on account of the destruction of bridges. Six hundred villages are under water and between Lemberg and Przy two hundred and fifty, were washed away completely. The oil regions around Borysiaw suffered heavy loss. Oil storage tank was torn loose by the swift current.

The Government has appropriated one million five hundred thousand zloty to begin immediate reconstruction of bridges.

Warsaw is expecting a twelve-foot rise in the Vistchsel, Sunday, which will flood a large area of the Polish capital.

NOW A VAUDEVILLE STAR

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Ernst Vierkoetter, hero of the Canadian National Exhibition marathon swim, leaves for Montreal tonight to fill vaudeville engagements. He will be accompanied by his trainer and Manager and Howard Wright of Montreal, his manager.

PEACHES BRING $1.15 ON MARKET

The finest crowd that has gathered in the market place at any early hour this morning and remained so until noon, Saturday, unless, perhaps, at the cabbage, all sold for 7 cents. Squashes ranged in price from 10 to 25 cents, cucumbers 5 cents, 3 for 10 cents, apples retailed at 25 cents a peck. Blackberries at the usual 15 cents a box, and peaches sold for $1.15 a basket. Ten to 25 cents was asked for cucumbers and from $1.25 to $2.00 a pair for chickens. Eggs were selling for 42 cents a dozen and tomatoes $1.25 a bushel.

EIGHTEEN MILLION RADIO SETS ARE NOW BEING USED

Washington, Sept. 3.—Approximately 18,000,000 radio receiving sets are now in use throughout the world, and 30,000,000 sets would be required to service all the people within the constant reception area on a basis of five members t each family, according to Lawrence D. Batsell, of the Electrical Equipment Division, Department of Commerce, who has just made a report to Secretary Hoover on potential markets for United States receiving sets. Fifty seven foreign countries now maintain broadcast services, with Canada, Cuba, Russia, Sweden, Australia, Germany, United Kingdom, Argentina and Mexico ranking in the order named in the number of stations regularly operated.

TRAGIC STORY IS UNFOLDED WHEN SISTER DROWNS

Mother Of Three Small Children Is In Jail In Belleville

GRANDMOTHER WORKS

Kind Friends Rally To Support Of Stricken Maracle Family

A sad feature in connection with the drowning of Edna Maracle in the Salmon River at Shannonville on Thursday afternoon last is that her older sister, Mrs. Hugh Gilroy, is at present confined at the Belleville jail and will not be able to witness the last sad rites which will be conducted over the remains of her sister this afternoon before the body is interred at All Saints' Cemetery, Mohawk Reserve. Mr. Jas. Seymour, Minister of the United Church at Shannonville with another benevolent men of that place are endeavoring to have the sister released from the Belleville Jail so that she might look after her small children, which are at present under the care of their maternal grandmother at Shannonville.

The grandmother is obliged to work out by the day to keep the wolf from the door and as she is getting feeble the two month jail term she is serving for bootlegging, will expire about about September 14th, or the children, all of whom are of tender years will run at large until then. It was the sister's children who were on the bank watching their aunt swim when she was drowned.

The father of the Gilroy children was in the winter sentenced to a short jail term for stealing and since his liberation has not contributing to support his family and at present no trace of his whereabouts can be secured. The family are in destitute circumstances and it was through the agency of kind friends that the dead girl was properly clothed for burial. The Indian Band agent guaranteed Mr. McFarlane, the undertaker his expenses.

FRANCO-GERMAN PACT WILL HELP CANADA

Montreal, Sept. 3.—"Canada will receive the advantages of the recent favored nation trade agreement between France and Germany. The low tariff accorded to Germany will affect every article on which Canada is given a minimum tariff," said Monsieur Bokanowski, French Minister of Marine and Commerce, Post Offices and Aviation, in an interview here today.

BRIAND WILL VISIT AMERICA

Paris, Sept. 3.—Aristide Briand, who left Paris this-morning to attend the League of Nations assembly, opened the assembly at Geneva, has promised Senator Theodore Burton that he will visit Washington next year if not prevented by political engagements, to take part in the centennial meeting of the American Peace Society.

FIVE KILLED IN FRENCH WRECK

Tours, France, Sept. 3.—A Paris-Bordeaux express train crashed into and wrecked near here at midnight. Five persons were killed and it was feared further victims were beneath the carriages.

WILL RAISE IRISH LOAN AT HOME

Waterford, Ireland, Sept. 3.—William T. Cosgrave, President of the Free State Executive Council, has stated night that the projected fifty million dollar loan would be raised in Ireland.

WIPED OUT FAMILY

Illinois Car Knocks Smaller Auto Into Niagara Gorge And Kills

Buffalo, Sept. 3.—Niagara police today were bending every effort to locate a touring car reported by eye witnesses to have shaved three persons to their death in the Gorge, wiping out the entire family of Cleveland, Ohio, Attorney. The search extended to garages in the whole region. The auto bore an Illinois license and was driven by a stout man. It did not stop after striking the smaller machine.

KARNIVAL NEXT BIG ATTRACTION

Five Days Of Fun Are Promised For Middle Of September

Now that the Belleville Exhibition has come to a successful conclusion, the next big event in the near future is the annual Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show that is slated to commence on Monday, September 19, and continue during five days. September 23. This year the Kiwanis Club is planning bigger things than ever before to keep up to their slogan—"More Than Your Money's Worth." Strong committees have been formed in charge of the arrangements necessary to guide an undertaking such as this to a successful start.

This year the Style Show will be continued with many novel features as added attractions and at the conclusion of the Style Show there will be a half hour of professional vaudeville each evening. Arrangements have also been completed to have the largest Orthophonic in the world, direct from Sunnyside, Toronto, and the Toronto Exhibition installed on the stage of the armouries for the full five nights. Other cities have had three times the size of Belleville are bringing their shops much better for one and two nights, so Belleville can consider itself fortunate in being the host of the meeting.

Two races are carded for the afternoon one being horses for the 2.30 class and the other horses for the Free-for-All.

The Free-for-All should be finished enough in this kind of a race always brings out the fastest horses on the stables. Besides this the horses of the 2.30 Class are to be well looked and two fast and keenly contested races will likely result.

WHEAT POOL GIVEN N. S. APPROVAL

Washington, Sept. 3.—Administration approval was given today to the creation of a gigantic wheat growing corporation with former Governor Mc Kelvie of Nebraska, as its active leadership, after conferences with President Coolidge at Rapid City, it was learned from the eDpartment of Agriculture today.

One of the problem of handling the wheat situation in this country controlled by the Canadian wheat pool operation, it is stated is the fact that in the United States several kinds of wheat are grown, while Canada grows mainly to Twinter wheat and moves the products almost entirely in export trade.

MEXICAN ON NON-STOP FLIGHT

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 3.—Lieutenant Carranza, of the Mexican military army, took off from Mexico City at 4 o'clock this morning on a solo nonstop flight to Juarez, a distance of 222 miles. It was announced here.

ATTENDANCE IS NOW MORE THAN LAST YEAR TOTAL

First Four Days Of 1927 Exceed Previous Record By 6,358

RACES TODAY

Directors Being Congratulated On All Sides On Big Success

Although yesterday was as fine a day as anyone could wish for, the attendance dropped off considerably from the day previous. Only six thousand four hundred and fifty-three visitors passed through the gates as against over nine thousand on Thursday. Nevertheless, last year, same day, only three thousand eight hundred and thirty passed through the turnstiles.

The directors of the Fair may well be proud of their achievements this year. Everything has proceeded swimmingly as our Fair-goers confess to put it, and nobody has had any complaints to lay at Secretary Ellis' doorstep.

Exhibits are much larger this year than last, and more attractive booths and greater attendance featured the 1927 Belleville Agricultural Exhibition.

Tonight will be the last big night and the next week the Fair Ground will be deserted until the baseball season opens up again.

Beats Last Year

The four days attendance of 1927 exceeds attendance for the same period of days last year by 6,358 visitors. 1927 records show the attendance to be 15,810 only saw 19,250. And then, of course, to-day's attendance will have to be added on which ought to raise the record some thousands.

Races Today

The races at the Fair Grounds this afternoon should bring out a bumper crowd, as the attractive card which has provided a card that should be the best of the meeting.

Two races are carded for the afternoon one being horses for the 2.30 class and the other horses for the Free-for-All.

The Free-for-All should be finished enough in this kind of a race always brings out the fastest horses on the stables. Besides this the horses of the 2.30 Class are to be well looked and two fast and keenly contested races will likely result.

STOP "STUNTS"

Ottawa Expected To Put Ban On Dangerous Flying Feats

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 3.—It is intimated in official circles here that steps will be taken to prevent "stunt" flying in Canada. Any such regulation would be under the control of the Air Board of the Department of National Defence and it is proposed if this board has not the necessary authority at present, an act of Parliament be passed next session to provide it. Such a regulation would only control aviators operating under a Canadian license, although the landing of stunt fliers from outside could be prohibited.

HEAPS OF DEAD STREW THE CITY

Cholera Epidemic Breaks Out Among Soldiers In Nanking

Shanghai, Sept. 3.—Foreign reports from Nanking state conditions of indescribable misery prevail there due to the vast throngs of dead and wounded soldiers along the river bank with a cholera epidemic breaking out among the troops. Only a few medical service and sanitation and segregated by the intense heat and humidity prevailing.

Japanese, reports from Nanking indicate thousands of the Northern troops were drowned as a result of the sinking of dozens of junks loaded and transports by the Nationalist navy. At one place the retreating Northerners were unable to obtain junks and were forced to use rafts in order to escape the Southern marches guns but the Southern fleet cut the rafts to pieces, drowning hundreds. The river for miles below Nanking is covered with almost countless numbers of corpses.

COOL WAVE IN WEST

Two To Twelve Degrees Of Frost In Parts Of Alberta

Winnipeg, September 3.—A cool wave which swept out of the north and enveloped the greater part of Alberta during the night was gradually spread ing its chill eastward today.

While official records issued here by the Dominion Meteorological Department indicate that only at Calgary was the frost level reached, private reports from eastern sections of Alberta placed the frost at two to twelve degrees.

It is understood that cutting is well advanced in this territory and that there is very little likelihood serious damage has been done. Garden stuff was touched by frost in Calgary, Olds and Carstairs.

BABIES PROVED BIG ATTRACTION

One of the most popular booths at the Fair yesterday was the one where the Welch Baby Clinic was held in the Manufacturers' Building. Many mothers brought not only their babies but their children to be weighed and measured by Miss Shore, Mrs. O. P. Fitzgerald and Mrs. C. O. McIntyre, who presided over the booths and Dr. Cronk, the doctor in attendance.

TRAGEDY CHASES COMEDY IN THE CITY POLICE COURT

Two assault cases were all that were aired in the local police court today, the one having its humorous side, the other a tragic one. Neither did not plead, bearing a distinctly tragic appearance.

Jenny Ashbury was accused of throwing a pail of dirty water over a little boy. The quarrel is evidently of long dirtation, Jenny Ashbury-Ald Mrs. Crawshaw, the boy's mother, not being on good terms, and calling each other names behind their backs. The case was held over this morning indefinitely.

The other case has its humorous qualities whatsoever. It is alleged by his wife that William Henry Howard, of Frankford, assaulted his wife yesterday afternoon, hitting her in the eye. After she had gone to the doctor and had the eye attended to, returning home, he hit her again.

This morning he appeared in court charged with assault, causing bodily harm, which is a serious offense. If convicted he is liable to be sentenced to spend a little time in jail and is also liable to the lash.

RAYNOR CHARGES LAID OVER FOR ONE MORE WEEK

Extortion And Blackmail Cases Launched By Williams Are Dismissed

FINISH NEXT SAT.

Magistrate Williams Hopes To Have Fraud Cases All Cleaned Up

H. H. Raynor appeared again in the Police Court before Magistrate Levi Williams charged with several counts, but no evidence was taken and the case was laid over until next Saturday when Magistrate Williams stated that all the evidence must be heard

The charges of extortion and blackmail were also heard this morning against Grant Wemp and George P. McEwen, after the taking of evidence were honorably discharged by the magistrate. This charge was laid by J. F. Williams, a former partner of Raynors.

The charge of blackmail and extortion that on March last with with the intention of extortion or gain from the said J. F. Williams that he the accused of fraud and they wanted $18,000 from him for the price of their silence. Raynor was acquitted from a charge of fraud in connection with the Raynor bankruptcy on Saturday last.

SEEN AT THE FAIR

Well, after four extremely successful days the Belleville Agricultural Exhibition will pack up and silently disappear after tonight. A rousing cheer for President Georga Ostrom, Secretary "Dick" Ketcheson, Treasurer "Harry" Clark and all directors and those who helped to make the Fair so successful.

And another, (modest) cheer for the local press which, if we do say so ourselves, and it's us that shouldn't, worked day and night to try and give it a boost.

Perhaps one of the greatest drawcards of the whole lot was the races staged every afternoon in front of the grandstand. Some real classy was shown in these aforementioned races.

Now You Tell One—Every member of the male set at the Fair kept his eyes averted when the girls were going for a whirl in the "Charplane."

When the Midway's far away.

Every little dime
Is most carefully locked up tight,
Not to be seen again
Till the Midway's back again
'Cause suckers always bite!

We can now look forward with calm contentment to the time when Fall Lloyd be a "Bigger and Better Fair than Ever."

Indignant prize winners will soon be the order of the day. Judges, weighed by the blinkety-blank the second initial of their name was committed from the back of the judges' chairs. Gosh, if they had to copy a couple of thousand (more or less) names every night after the show they would be the whole darn name isn't spelt wrong.

Congratulations, Directors, for the efficient and masterful way in which you handled the whole Belleville Agricultural Exhibition.

WIND AGAIN BALKS OLD GLORY

Roosevelt Field, N.Y., Sept. 3.—A persistent cross wind blowing directly from the southwest over the runway here today put a stop to Lloyd Bertaud, pilot of the monoplane Old Glory, little hope of making a start on their proposed non-stop flight to Rome, which had been anticipated this morning.

THE WEATHER

Moderate southwesterly winds mostly fair but thunderstorms in few localities. Saturday and Sunday, southwest winds fair and little cooler.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"The ultimate man is he who never changes his opinions."

—HARTHUR KENT.

MOTOR KILLING

These are other places besides Toronto and Montreal where the daily damage toll of life and limb taken by motor traffic is causing great anxiety and, provoking forcible protests. In the town Motors are not yet nearly as numerous per head of population in Great Britain, as on this continent but the streets and roads are generally narrower (of course there are notable exceptions) and the increasing development of motor traffic is, if not, very much greater, also creating problems. Accidents have become distressingly common, and, the heavy loss of life through motor accidents on the last August bank holiday has moved, as in the case of the dog "Bender in the following typical observations:

Opponents of birth control who yet feel that the population of this country should be kept within bounds might well agitate for a few additional bank holidays. In course of time there would be results extremely interesting to the economist. Those who would be the persons who, whether in mere restlessness or out of aptitude for break etc; delight in rushing about in cars and coaches, (these wholly excluded in summer hours would be stay-at-homes.

This we should eventually develop into a nation in which home loving persons preponderated. Bank holidays as we now have them, originated with a scientist, but Lubbock never had fore-knowledge of an England in which no communion is complete without a camper or a head a strained case of piles. His successors in scientific research will have reason to bless him for wealth of material when the "boom" he secured the nation has produced its logical consequences.

But apparently Belfast, the Capital, of Northern Ireland, has a particularly depressing record of motor fatalities and is in a mood to the incorrigible carelessness of pedestrians on the streets, large numbers of whom have been run down. Sir Dawson Bates, Minister of Home Affairs in the Ulster Government recently saw fit to issue a public warning on the subject and he cited the opinion of a London inspector of police who had recently visited Belfast and marvelled at the flesh-hardy carelessness of its citizens. "If," he said to Sir Dawson Bates, "you were to take a steamer load of Belfast pedestrians, to London, you would carry the motorcar boom in a year."

THE POOR DUB

To the champion must go all the glory but why not give the dubs a little attention. Champions have and go, while the dubs goes on bedding forever.

Consider the dub in Golf. From that he be fathered one straight and true, a couple hundred yards only to see it hit the top of a bunker and fall back into the ditch. He drops out, plays three with a mid-iron and ends another long shot in a water hazard. Three more and he is on the green. He takes the Club's usual three putts and makes a twelve.

Because his game is never champion dub stuff, after each hole he soliloquizes (within the hearing of others) on the frightful game he is playing on that particular day, and the better his score the louder his soliloquy.

Hope of someday beating the club record springs eternal in the dub's breast and he dreams nights of making a hole in one. But they are only hopes and dreams.

Give the dub his due. He contributes the comedy and let the expert players never forget that it is he who supports the clubs, pros and champions. He says the club not because he does on the links and to his other pastimes, but because he pays all the bills and gets none of the committee places, publicity and fame.

Notice as it is, he loves his game.

GIVING LESSONS

In the Ottawa Police Court recently a young man was charged by a highway officer with negligent driving. It appears that he was at the wheel of his car, but with only one hand on the wheel. For beside him sat his best girl, and his right arm encircled her waist as the car sped along. This procedure the officer deemed irregular and even dangerous, and the magistrate agreed with him; but, seeing that the young man had gone to the expense of hiring a lawyer to defend him, the magistrate allowed him to go on suspended sentence after a warning.

The offender's defence was somewhat peculiar and quite interesting. He explained that all the time the officer saw him he was instructing his lady companion how to drive. One is impelled to enquire if, in teaching the art of driving, the young man followed the customary procedure. Is it that the instructor is all at the wheel with his left hand directing the car, and his disengaged arm clasping the form of his pupil? If so, giving instruction in driving must be an exciting one—especially when the pupil is a charming young lady. Probably the instructional detail of embracing the pupil can be safely dispensed with when the pupil is a fat and unattractive man. However, in either case, it is perhaps advisable that these lessons be not imparted on the much-traveled highways.

AUTUMN

"Light frost was felt here today," read dispatches that will soon be appearing with more and more regularity.

Light frost? Why that means autumn is just around the corner. In a few weeks the frost will be on the pumpkin and the hoar upon the vine. And the drought season had actually commenced. How the seasons fly. Away last spring, summer had seemed, in prospect, such a long, pleasant period of free weather and pleasures.

In the spring one looks forward to summer with much longing. There were to be picnics, automobile trips, swimming, fishing, excursions to the mountains and seashore; and two weeks vacation. So much was planned, and so little done. Now, as it draws to a close, one realizes there were more events than dates on that summer programme.

When autumn comes we count the dreams of spring that have not been realized during the summer. It is sad so all through life. Happy times and soul-stirring seasons are just ahead. But when we come to them they are crowded and short.

Though we reluctantly surrender the pleasures and pastimes of hot summer days, we turn to autumn with cheery anticipations of cosy evenings with radio and book, motoring in the rare autumn air, evenings at the theatre, and harvest feasts.

The poet, who in the spring asked "What is rare as a day in June?" probably supplied his own answer when the fall came around. Nature makes her perfect days in September and October. Do not travelers invariably say that they would exchange all the fine weather of the tropics for the days of autumn in the temperate zone? They are compensation for the dreary days of winter and the sultry days of summer.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

A New York magistrate rules that "a man has a right to be intoxicated so long as he doesn't injure anyone or interfere with the rights of a citizen." Let that decision give much encouragement to drunken drivers of motor cars.—Hamilton Herald.

Hilaline Terriss, the English actress has started an interesting discussion of her statement that life in the congested centres of civilization is reaching in a generation of under - sized men and women. It is claimed that the six-footer is becoming almost exclusively a product of the great open spaces "where men are men."

Science laughs at the theory but statistics seem to bear out the contention. When ceilings were 14 feet high and the kitchen occupied as much space as a modern apartment there was room for expansion. Apparently big men are not wanted. The rule seems to apply to women as well as men. Where the perfect 36 once held the spotlight, a slender 34 now has the right-of-way. — Toronto Telegram.

THE PASSING YEARS
(From "The Intelligencer" of this day 25 years ago.)

Sir Charles Rivers - Wilson and party that accompanied him on the fishing tour up the Bay yesterday were not very successful, Sir Mackenzie Bowell and Mr. Tinos. Jelthie were entertained at dinner at the President's private car.

Mr. R. T. Cherry is in Stirling today.

Two boys named Walter Panning and "Bun" Harris were riding down Front St. on their wheels last evening when they both got nasty falls. Panning's wheel hit the crossing in front of the Anglo-America block and Harris who was close behind was unable to stop, running over Panning's wheel. He was picked up unconscious and carried into Schuster's store where he soon came around. Panning was unhurt.

Mr. W. B. Deacon left last evening for a trip to New York.

The annual rifle matches will be held on the old rifle range on Monday Sept. 6, commencing at 2 p.m. Prizes given by Messrs. Corby and Deshane will be competed for.

Mr. S. C. Wilson, Bay City Michigan says the Quinte Hotel of Belleville is the best hotel he has seen.

The final bass fishing competition will take place on Wednesday. Prizes are offered by Messrs. Kelcheson ,Rice Cross, and Salmon. Bass are biting very freely now and some big catches may be looked for.

FINE CONCERT PROMISED

A concert of particular interest to Belleville music lovers will take place on Monday evening, September 12th, at Memorial Hall, Albert College, Belleville, under the direction of Robert L. Brown, when Valery Wrightsinger, contralto, and James Miles Booth, bass-baritone, with Leo Riggs as accompanist, will be heard.

Vallery Wrightsinger has been very successful in her studies in this country, having won the Dominion Gold Medal and graduated at the Toronto Conservatory of Music in 1925. Since then she has been completing her studies in Boston under the renowned Vincent V. Hubbard.

James Miles Booth has also won distinction in Canada having been awarded the Gold Medal at the annual singing competition at the Canadian National Exhibition in 1923. For the last four years he has been furthering his studies with Hubbard in Boston and has recently been appointed musical director in one of the large congregational churches in Greater Boston. Shortly after the New Year he is making his appearance in recital at Jordan Hall, Boston.

Both of these artists have been heard at, various occasions in Belleville and their programme should be of particular interest to their many Belleville friends.

VACUUM, NOT THERMOS.

The Advertising Department of Sigood's made a slight mistake in their advertisement of Thursday's issue. Thermos bottles were offered at the special price of 45 cents each; the item should really have read: "Vacuum Bottles" which are on sale for the week-end at this price.

AN ERROR

Through an error in Arnold Brothers Limited advertisement of Thursday's issue, Fresh Leg of Spring Lamb was offered for this week end at 27 cents per pound. The correct low price at this Lamb for Saturday is 27 cents per pound.

Optometry has nothing to do with medicine?

Nothing whatever. The Optometrist uses no drugs. He employs nothing but mechanical means to determine what conditions confront him and by the use of instruments he secures results that are in practically every case satisfactory.

The practice of Optometry is regulated by law?

Yes, the value of this profession is now legally recognized everywhere, with practical advantages to the public and the Optometrist.

THOROUGH TESTS REVEAL LEADERS IN EVERY LINE

Results Show Comparative Efficiency of Business Schools

Before the great marathon swimming race took place last Wednesday all the contestants appeared very much alike to the general public. It required the most gruelling test to determine the winner and the few near-winners. The big field of competitors quickly narrowed down to just the few who won distinction and fame.

It is the same in other fields of endeavor. Take, for instance, the institutions that are putting on commercial training courses. There are hundreds of them in Canada and some people imagine they are all equally efficient. But a little investigation will reveal the fact that those maintaining high standards and by merit handling the confidence and good will of the business world, are relatively few. In all of Canada the number of really first rank business training schools and colleges is less than twenty-five and of these less than half a dozen are known by the general public beyond their own localities or their own environs. Of these few leaders only two are able by virtue of their superior merit and the success of their graduates to draw students every year from long distances from two business colleges have been carrying on their good work for a long time and have stood the severest kind of tests—one for fifty-one years and the other for fifty-nine years. Both of these leaders with a national (and international) reputation is Belleville's own Ontario Business College. The O.B.C. has in attendance year after year more students from distant countries than any other business school in Canada... And as evidence of the good standing of O.B.C. in its own province, last year there were students in attendance from 58 different cities and towns in Ontario. Trenton sent over thirty, and over ninety students at O.B.C. last year were from Belleville.

Unlike most educational institutions Ontario Business College is not a charge upon the general public; it is self-sustaining. Students receive such thorough instruction, real service and life-long training from the courses that they are more than repaid for the moderate College fees. Graduates are assisted in securing positions and promotions. This employment service is also available to all students who have proven themselves capable and trustworthy.

Those desiring the help of commercial pursuits should get the O.B. C. prospectus for their perusal. And September is one of the best months of the year to get started at a business course.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

PETER O'BRIEN

The death occurred this evening at the home of his brother, William O'Brien after an illness of some duration in the 58th year.

The late Mr. O'Brien was born in Hungerford and for many years was successfully until his retirement about a year ago. He was a member of St. Michael's Church.

Surviving are four sisters, Mrs. Phillip Doran and Mrs. J. Whalen, Belleville; Mrs. Hannah Doran, Cleland, Ohio, and Mrs. Leo Bennett, Read; also one brother, William O'Brien, Thurlow.

A pretty wedding took place Friday evening at St. Thomas' Church, when Rev. J. Lyons united in marriage Edith Annie Flagler and Joseph Henry Henn, both of this city. The young couple were attended by Miss Ethel Lloyd and Mr. Wm. Henn. Prof. H. H. Mozart presided at the organ.

Mr. and Mrs. Henn left immediately after the ceremony for a honeymoon trip to Niagara Falls. On their return they will reside in Belleville.

MAGISTRATES ELECTED

Kingston, Sept. 3.—A. O. Langley of Petrboro, was this evening elected president of the Ontario Magistrates' Association at their annual conference here. The other officers were elected as follows: Vice-president, W. O. Mikel, Belleville; secretary-treasurer, H. Grover, Coldwater; executive, J. E. Jones, Toronto; H. H. Campbell, St. Catharines; H. P. Moore, Acton; P. W. Watts, Guelph; Dr. Margaret Patterson, Toronto. The association went on record as favoring the establishment of an institution for the reception and treatment of narcotic addicts and chronic alcoholic cases.

W. M. S. HOLD THEIR REGULAR MEETING

The ladies of the W.M.S. of the Shannonville United Church held their regular monthly meeting at the home of Mrs. Fred Hutchinson, Mrs. S. Elliott, Thursday, September 1.

The meeting opened by the singing of a hymn followed by the reading of lessons read by Mrs. R. Shetler, Mrs. Hickory, Mrs. Clarke, Mrs. Wilson, Mrs. Hutchinson and Mrs. Frank Dorrier were appointed delegates to the Sectional Meeting to be held at Foxboro, October 6th.

After the business meeting the roll was called, members responding by naming one of Christ's Miracles.

Miss Marion Murphy and Miss Helen Dorrier sang two duets during meetings. Mrs. Frank Dorrier read the fifth chapter of the Study Book which proved very interesting. The meeting closed by singing a hymn and Mrs. Sermour pronounced the Benediction. After the meeting a delicious lunch was served to the twenty members present and a collection of $1.95 was received.

The next meeting will be held, October 6th, at the home of Mrs. Byrd Bunkard.

Sharp Rises in Prices

New York, Sept. 3.—The stock market today was more responsive to indications of the expected quickening of autumn trade. Renewed demand for merchandising, farm implements, food and chemical shares was translated in to some extraordinary advances, such as six point extraordinary advances such as six point jump in International Harvester to 204, the best price reached. A score of other well-known share surpassed their previous best file lures including Baldwin, International Telephone, North American, National Biscuits, Postum, Allis Chalmers, Nash Motors, Woolworth, Montgomery Ward and Sears Roebuck.

There was brisk bidding for several railroads, especially Nickel Plate, Texas and Southern Railway, Western Pacific. The list named showing unusual activity.

The man and the woman were identantly killed and the girl died of exposure two hours after the accident.

FAMOUS MASTER IS NOW DEAD

York, England, September 3. —(By Canadian Press) — Boothan School, at York, the school of John Bright, and one of the most successful of the Quaker educational institutions of the Society of Friends, parted recently with its greatest master in point of years and centures. By the boys at school and by the old boys who mostly comprised the staff, as well as by members of the Society of Friends throughout the country, his departure has been great ly regretted. For 38 years Arthur Rowntree has ruled the destinies of the school to which he was introduced as a boy, and during that time it has doubled its numbers and advanced to the front rank of public schools.

Mr. Rowntree found it a Quaker school of the old tradition, prim and narrow in its educational ideas and exclusively for the sons of members of the society. All this has been changed during his headmastership. The school is still predominantly Quaker in character, but it now receives boys from outside the community, and it has opened its doors wide to all that is best in modern educational practice Arts and sciences that were frowned upon in the days when Arthur Rowntree was receiving his education there now flourish, at Boothan, and the educational standard of the whole school has been put on a vastly high er level.

Friends of Mr. Rowntree's old boys are now masters at the school, and one of them, Donald Cray, has been selected to succeed Mr. Rowntree.

ROAMING ROYSTERERS WHO NEGLECT WIVES

Have you married one of these Roaming Romeos who begins to fidget and fuss the minute dinner's done - and won't be happy until he's off and away on "an evening with the boys"?

Do you sit alone, night after night, nodding over a book, darning little Billy's socks, dreaming a bit bitterly of the rosy plans you once made for your life together?

Yes? Then read Amy's letter. Amy also brooded and wept and was extremely sorry for herself. Until one fine day—but read it yourself.

DEAR ELSIE:

For years I have read your articles and they have cheered me greatly. I have been particularly interested in letters from young married women who complain that their husbands won't stay at home in the evenings. I have been married for eight years and had the same trouble almost wrecked my life. Perhaps they would be interested in hearing what I did about it.

I was very much in love with my husband, and we had an ideal courtship. Within a month after we were married I found that I had married what the world calls a "home man." He would tell me he would be home for dinner and then not show up until the very small hours of the morning. At those times I would not eat, would walk the floor and cry, and when he came in we had some dreadful scenes.

I can't begin to tell you what these first six years were like. I never knew whether he was going to keep an appointment with me or not. He says he said he was sorry, that he got in a tight game or was just drinking with The Boys. Then he would do the same thing a few nights later.

Finally, two years ago I very nearly had a nervous breakdown. My doctor told me if I did not stop worrying I would be in a sanatorium.

About that time my husband came home one morning at 4 o'clock. He had been drinking and I started heaping him with reproaches and shed tears all over the place, as usual. We had a dreadful scene and I was very ill the next day.

That day I sat down and "had it out" with myself. I had always kept myself looking as nice as possible; all my husband's friends told him he had a very pretty wife. I kept my home looking lovely, but why should he treat me like that? I figured the only thing I'd do was to leave him. I thought surely there is some man in the world who will appreciate me and we can live alone night after night.

We had never been anywhere, because on the nights he was home he was too tired to go out. And then common sense I had been looking for at least years came to my rescue.

I still loved my husband and felt sure he loved me. He had many good traits and was always kind and generous. Why should I leave him and give baby find someone who would have other faults? Right there I decided to turn over a new leaf.

The next night he did not come home. I ate my dinner and was reading a book when he came in. Oh, it was a struggle. I wanted to cry, and a dozen times I picked up the phone to call him, but I won out. When he came in expecting reproaches and to find that I had not eaten, he was the most surprised man you ever saw. For several nights he came home on time.

The next time I waited for an hour for him, and then went to a show with a girl friend. I came home to find that he had been phoning all over town looking for me.

From that time on I never asked him where he had been. No matter how late he was, I greeted him pleasantly. I often caught him looking at me strangely. One night when I came in he did make some remark about me being out, and I retorted very sweetly that I couldn't be expected to remain home all evening waiting for him when I had no idea when he would be in.

I still kept my house looking nice and made it a point to be always pleasant. Don't think it was easy. There were nights that my heartached and I wanted to rave, but I stuck it out, and finally he began asking me if I'd like to go here or there. He came home for dinner and began bringing me perfumes and little things.

Wherever we have been two years ago and we are very happy. Where I used to be so wrapped up in my troubles that I had no time for children I now have some very dear girl friends.

I am in a bridge club and usually gets with the boys, and, though I may have supper all ready, he will not come home. He will avail a reasonable time and then go to a show or read a good book. When he comes in I act as though nothing has happened. In fact, while I still love him just as much, those things do not seem to be such a crime as they did before. I have come to realize that we cannot change persons just because we live with them, but we can make the best of things if we love them enough.

I feel so sorry for girls such as I was, who are always battling against fate and leaving one man for another who may have worse traits. I have reason to leave my husband many times, but I am mighty glad I didn't, and that I had some strength to work things out.

Surely there is a way for each wife to do the same thing.

AMY.

We cheer conquering soldiers and pin medals on their chests, but no soldier ever faced a braver half as difficult or desperate as fight a wife wages when she is trying to save her home from going on the rocks. Only the other wives who have endured the long heartache and monotony can know the misery of such a struggle.

And when a wife does win through, as you have won through, Amy, every woman in the world should be proud of her and take fresh courage from her achievement.

The Duchess of York wears cardigan suits of dull-colored stockinette with sleeves, collar, where she is leading a simple, care-free life with the Duke

Princess Alice, Countess of Athlone, and Lady May Cambridge will do the touring during a hunting trip in South-West Africa on which they are accompanying the Earl of Athlone

The craze of the moment on the Riviera is to hire a motor boat, invite your friends, collect a small band, and go over to one of the islands off Cannes, there to bathe and dance through all the night.

The latest rage for dinner table and room adornment is for reproductions of old type historical ship models in wood and canvas. They are wrought with delicate skill, and are most attractive as ornaments and the Prince of Wales has bought a number of these to distribute about his rooms at Maglborough House.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Make a solution of one small cupful of kerosene to a gallon of water and spray the bug-infested rose bushes.

Blocks of wood hollowed out to fit the legs of the kitchen table will raise it and make it a comfortable working table for the taller woman.

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barlow

Rage flared up in Carson's heart. He strode up to Stokes and stopped. "My friend's Carson," he said abruptly. "I'm a friend of Philip Kendall's. I'm going out to China to find him. Have you any message for him, any explanation of the contemptible part you played in wrecking up his happiness?"

Stokes' green eyes narrowed.

"Yes," he answered coolly. "You can tell him from me that I'm only hoping he'll remain away long enough for his wife to decide that she prefers me to him."

Carson saw red for an instant at the impertinence, the arrogance, of the message.

"I'd like to punch your head, for you," he said savagely, "and, by god, I'm going to do it!"

The next instant he had put his words into action. He waited a moment for Stokes to rise but he didn't. He lay on the sand and stared up at Carson, his green eyes venomous with hatred. Carson went away and left him.

Arriving at the hotel, he tried to send a message to Norma, but the telephone operator said that Mrs. McKendall didn't wish to be disturbed. He couldn't guess that Norma was nervless and upset after her interview with Stokes, so he hung up the receiver savagely.

"Well, that lets me out! I'm through and I'm off!"

Whereupon, he paid his bill and departed on the next train for San Francisco, from where he would sail for the Orient to find Philip Kendall.

CHAPTER 49.

A REMINDER OF THE PAST

Norma was aghast when she learned, on the following morning, of Kingsford Carson's abrupt departure. She purposely had remained in her room the evening before, determined not to risk another encounter with Sydney Stokes. She knew that he would have to leave by midnight to be at work on Monday morning.

It was Ada Lind who brought her the news of Carson's departure. Ada arrived on the heels of Norma's breakfast tray, looking rather weary and dispirited, in spite of the smoothness of her skin and her very complexion.

"Isn't it a pity that our nice Mr. Carson had to leave so suddenly," she remarked, as she settled in a chair beside Norma's bed.

Norma set down her cup with a start.

"What do you mean?"

Ada stared.

"Why — didn't you know? He wrote me the nicest note, and he said he had telephoned your room yesterday afternoon, but that you sent word back that you were too tired to see him."

Norma pressed her slim fingers against her eyes in a despairing gesture.

"I thought the message was from Mr. Stokes," she whispered. "I was so upset by his visit that I scarcely knew what I was doing. He worries me so. But, oh, I'd never have refused to see Mr. Carson."

She looked at Ada hopelessly.

"What shall I do? I'd almost made up my mind to swallow my pride and ask Mr. Carson to bring my husband back to me."

"Poor child!" Ada laid a sympathetic hand on Norma's arm. "You've been in a frightful quandary, haven't you?"

"You don't know—you can't guess—all of it," said Norma, her tears very near the surface. "Sydney Stoke's visit made things so much worse. I think the very sight of him made me know that I wanted Philip back at any cost."

"Then why don't you try to reach Mr. Carson before he sails," suggested Ada practically.

Norma made a despairing gesture.

"But where — how? He always goes off without leaving an address. Did his note say where he was going?"

Ada shook her head.

Money may not talk, but it cheers a man up wonderfully.

REGENT THEATRE

This is the best story that I have ever read. And this is the first time I have said that.

Thus does Bebe Daniels characterize her latest Paramount comedy-drama "Senorita," an original screen play by John McDermott written expressly for Miss Daniels which comes Monday to the Regent Theatre.

In this production Miss Daniels does fantastic advancement on the upper lip, for in this picture the fascinating Bebe, whose femininity has been so pronounced in previous works, launches in to a totally different characterization from any before attempted.

BELLE THEATRE

The French Foreign Legion, the endless, gorgeous, giant sand dunes of the Sahara, a famous missing sapphire, hundreds of desert warriors sweeping on horseback to attack lonely fort manned by 40 men, practically all in mutiny—there you have just a glimpse of the romance and thrills contained in "Beau Geste" which comes to the Belle Theatre Monday.

No greater effort was ever put into the making of a motion picture. This

YESTERDAY SAW KEEN INTEREST IN HORSE RACES

The stands were only about two-thirds filled for the last afternoon racing card at the Fair Grounds yesterday but all the races were keenly enjoyed by the patrons in attendance.

The first race on the card was the 2.25 class, for a purse of $500, which brought out six starters but only five finished the race. Fred Medium of Picton, owned by Dr. Herrington, took down first money with Peggy Alberton, owned by Dr. Whitney of Goderich getting the place and Daisy C. owned by Dr. Hopkins, Cookeville taking down the show, last money went to Dick Sunday.

Incidentally the best time of the afternoon was cut in this race, three in the second and third heats, 2.11 1-2 being the time that the timekeeper caught the mile in each heat.

Dick Sunday had a new driver up yesterday and did not look like a proper company, he was far back of the three first horses in all except one heat, W. Smith his usual driver was not behind him and this might have made much difference.

Peter Patch raced to the fifth position and Daisy Onward was last, and in the last heat did not put in an appearance.

In both races on the card it took four heats to decide the winner.

Dr. Byron, owned by Ben Payne, of Bloomfield, proved too good for his opposition in the 2.40 class and took home in four heats for first money.

Peter Wonder, owned by R. Herrington of Picton, by virtue of winning the first heat of the race took down second money although he was beaten in fifth and fourth in the remaining heats, this horse looked to the majority of the fans to be given a very poor drive.

In the first heat of the 2.25 Class Peggy Alberton was forced a small field of six horses. Fred Medium was in second place, Daisy C. took down third, being chased hard by Dick Sunday who was fourth, Daisy Onward was fifth and Peter Patch was last.

The second heat was the fastest of the meeting with Fred Medium proving to be at his very best to beat home Peggy Alberton by about 3 feet in the record time of 2 1-2 1-2. Peter Patch was next, only about one length behind the leaders. The rest of the field were spaced out with Dick Sunday in fourth position some distance back of the flying leaders. Daisy Onward was fifth and Daisy C. was in the rear.

In the third heat which incidentally took four heats to finish was won by

Fred Medium and just to show that his record time of the meeting in the second heat was no fluke he came out and repeated his performance and crossed the line in 2.13 1-2 the best at the previous heat. Dick Sunday was second, Peggy Alberton third, Daisy C. fourth, Peter Patch was in fifth position and Daisy Onward last.

The fourth and deciding heat show ed Fred Medium second first money Peggy Alberton second and second money; Daisy C. third and money and Dick Sunday fourth and the short end of the purse.

2.40 Class — Purse $280

Peter Wonder, owned by R. Herrington of Picton got loose, in front in the first heat of the 2.40 class but only after a hard drive over Dr. Byron May Mack was third, Clara McElmeney fourth and Helen G. was fifth, the time of the mile was 2.18 1-4.

In the second heat Dr. Byron raced all well in for two and was home in front of May Mack and Helen G. Peter Wonder was fourth and Clara McElmeney was last.

The third heat again proved to the fans that Peter Wonder was a horse not to be overlooked in future races when he came in again to beat May Mack and Helen G. Clara McElmeney was fourth and Peter Wonder last.

In the last and deciding heat Dr. Byron had the same two horses to trim but this time it Helen G. who proved the winner, May Mack, Peter Wonder was fourth and Clara McHenney was drawn.

ALEXANDER WAS OUTPITCHED BY KREMER OF CUBS

New York, Sept. 3.—Pittsburgh took three innings off the Chicago Cubs at last to lead by defeating the visiting St. Louis team today, 5 to 3. Kremer outpitched Alexander, although he was touched for 11 hard. The Waner Brothers starred for the Pirates collecting seven hits between them.

Rabbit Maranville was at short-stop for the Cubs today. He registered one hit and had nine chances in the field.

Jake Flowers of the Chicago Cubs at his mercy yesterday when he allowed them only three paltry singles and struck out seven times. Statement with the Reds took a five to nothing victory from Jones and Brillheart at Cincinnati.

A disastrous fourth-inning in which four runs were scored on only two safeties made two fumbles behind two pitchers gave the Reds a foul to nothing end.

The Phillies edged the Brooklyn robins out of sixth place by winning series opener at Boston, 3 to 2. Eddie Brietz, Boston's ace hurler, played an important part in the victory, making Philly scratch a hit and driving in Joe other two with well-placed drives at crucial moments.

Four games scheduled.

A kiss in the dark is one kind of electric spark.

The Big Midway at Picton Fair will include Merry-Go-Round, Whip, Ferris Wheel and Kiddie-Up, as well as a large number of Concessions. The Midway will be running full force on all days of the Picton Fair. Plan to attend! Everybody must visit the Midway! Four days—September 5-7-8-9. 2tfd

GEHRIG POLED OUT TWO HOMERS

But Ruth Kept Up Lead By Hitting His 44th

Philadelphia, Sept. 3.—In the presence of Grover Cleveland Baker come to Shibe Park in the hope that their anticipated athletics really had come into the vigors of a second childhood, during their recent successful tour of the west, Babe Ruth drove out his forty fourth homer of the season, and Lou Gehrig his forty-second and forty-third. This trio of mighty blows coming in the first two innings, forthwith knocked whatever youthful notions the Athletics might have entertained, and as the Yankees went on to win, 12 to 2, the gathering found itself with naught-ties to do but acclaim the master swat ters of the age, while reserving its best praises of diadems for the latter's latest talent.

It was another fearful demonstration of what is to be expected of the Yanks when confronted by pretensions they deem unwarranted. Not so long ago it will be recalled, the Hugmen encountered the Senators when the Senators had compiled a sizeable winning streak. The Yankees at once knocked the pretty Senators' bonfires out and they remained that way for some time. Later the same thing happened to the Tigers.

Today the Mackmen made their first appearance at home after an extended tour of the west, during which they had won twenty-four games, and apparently bore felt ample reason for feeling quite swelled up. In less than five minutes, however, they were as completely hooked like a set of croquet arches.

Twenty hits rained off the combined pitching efforts of Rube Walberg and Sam Gray. The former lasting only two rounds, by which time the Yanks already had amassed seven runs. Ruth did not himself add anything else to his homer, but Gehrig got two singles in addition to his two circuit clouts, both of which were for two, including a triple. Koenig returned another quartet of blows and Lazzeri got a double and two singles.

In the circumstances Waite Hoyt had nothing more to do than cause a ripple to another simple victory. He held the Mackmen blanked until the ninth, with such an error paced the only tallies runs, which were greeted by a tremendous cheer, but which sounded remarkably derisive.

Chicago's ninth inning rally fell short by one run of tying Cleveland and Chicago and the Indians took the second game of the series, 5 to 4, today. Blankenship's error and a base on balls, the only one the Indians received, proved the undoing of the Chicago pitcher.

HARVEST HOME
Visit Ontario's rolling farm lands when the fruits of the year are being gathered. See the abundance that has matured. Interest yourself in the wholesome rural life of the Province, as the growing season nears its end. With an intelligent interest you may help to bridge the gap between town and country.
The best way to see rural Ontario is from the highways. Your touch is intimate and sympathetic with the country and its problems. The good roads lead everywhere—well-marked with caution signs, and with easy grades and curves. The progressive road building program of Ontario has saved money for manufacturers, distributors and producers and added to the pleasure of those who live both on the farm and in the town.
When your travel these splendid roads, remember they are yours to use but not to abuse. Excessive speed is hard on roads. The legal limit is high enough. Every care must be exercised at all times to avoid accident.
Glaring headlights are illegal. They are a nuisance and a danger to others. This Department will supply simple instructions by which you may prove your headlights.
Be sure of your brakes. It is dangerous if your car will not obey.
Above all, BE COURTEOUS and considerate of others. Do not demand your rights in traffic if thereby danger or inconvenience to others will be created.
Your fullest enjoyment of the highways comes from sane, cautious driving—consideration of your own safety and that of others, and courtesy to all whom you meet.
Secure your Motor Vehicle Operator's License if you have not done so. Traffic patrol officers or city police may call upon you to produce it at any time. You are subject to fine if you have not secured it. Application Forms at any garage.

LORD CECIL AND SIR AUSTEN SAID TO BE AT ODDS

Dispute Over Rhineland Troops Held Reason for Reported Resignation.

London, Sept. 1.—Viscount Cecil's reported resignation as chancellor of the Duchy of Lancaster is ascribed by the Daily Express to a cabinet split involving Lord Cecil and Sir Austen Chamberlain, the foreign secretary, and arising from the question of reducing the troops in the Rhineland.

Sir Austen, according to the paper, supported France in her refusal to reduce her troops by more than 5,000, while Lord Cecil maintained this attitude was an "outrage on the whole spirit of Locarno."

Wants Army

Lord Cecil, it adds, went further and declared there should be no army of occupation at all, since Germany's liberty was guaranteed through the Locarno pact by the whole weight of the British army.

"The extraordinary spectacle is presented," the Express commented, "of Lord Cecil resigning, or threatening to resign, as a protest against Sir Austen Chamberlain and in order to save the Locarno treaty, for which Sir Austen received the supreme credit."

Cecil Silent

Granting that the situation may be eased by the announcements from Paris that it has been agreed for Great Britain sort Belgium to withdraw 5,000 troops and France 7,000, the paper says it is not thought this will be satisfactory.

When asked about the report that he had resigned from the cabinet, Lord Cecil replied, "I cannot answer that question." This was generally regarded as confirmation, and on this slender con the newspapers printed much about his political career.

"Nothing Definite"

Attention was drawn particularly to his unceasing Learne of Nations' efforts and to the fact that in the discussions of the recent three-power naval reduction conference at Geneva, he was supposed to represent the political, as opposed to the naval policy upheld by Rishi Hon. W. C. Bridgeman, first lord of the admiralty.

BABY'S OWN TABLETS HELP A PRIZE WINNER

Baby's Own Tablets are without an equal for little ones. From the new born babe to the growing child they are an absolute safeguard to health. Once a mother has used them she will use nothing else. Thousands of mothers always keep them on hand.

Among the mothers who state that Baby's Own Tablets are the best medicine for little ones that they know of is Mrs. Russell Hill, of Norwood, Ont. Her experience with the Tablets should be of great benefit to any mother who has not already given the Tablets a trial. Mrs. Hill says:—"I have five fine healthy children, and from the youngest to the oldest they get no other medicine than Baby's Own Tablets. When our baby girl was eleven months old she won second prize at the Norwood Fair, and when she was a year older, she won first prize in competition with twenty-eight other babies. It was the Tablets that gave her the health and development to carry off these prizes. I always delight in telling other mothers what the Tablets have done for my children."

Lord Cecil's secretary, questioned by The Evening News, is quoted as saying: "There is nothing definite at all. The matter is simply in abeyance. Probably by Monday definite news, if there is any at all, will be available."

DRANK LIQUOR IN CEMETERY; DRIVER JAILED

Motorist Fined $50, Given 7 Days And License Cancelled

Toronto, Sept. 2.— Difference of opinion between F. Daniels and L. V. McBrady, K.C., counsel for Izay Weiner, charged with reckless driving, made it very difficult to understand whose car was the aggressor. But John Read, in "Reid Scots," turned the scales. He said Weiner was going 35 miles an hour. After hitting Daniels' car he missed a tree by a miracle, and two boys, by the grace of John Read, who pulled them out of the way. Weiner and his passenger had had one drink in the cemetery. Magistrate Jones pointed out that drinking in a cemetery was unlawful. "Just cancel his driving permit for six months," requested the magistrate, "and I'll fine him $50 and costs or 30 days. And I'll send him to jail for seven days."

"You couldn't do much more," commented L. V. McBrady, K.C. "I think there is a vindictiveness shown because the man had had a drink."

"I think," returned the coûrt, "that you had better retire before yo umake any more such remarks."

Magistrate Jones asked the press to publish the fact that people driving an automobile without a permit are liable to six months' imprisonment.

"He made the excuse that he was talking and didn't notice the women," said the police, charging Samuel Gardener with passing a standing street car at Danforth and Woodbine avenues. Three women had been hard put to avoid Gardener's car when they had alighted from the street car. Three witnesses were heard for the defence. Dismissed.

Unanimous Choice of Convention; Has Been President Since 1918

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 1. — The Trades and Labor Congress of Canada in session here Friday afternoon re-elected Tom Moore as president by acclamation. No other name was submitted to the convention which enthusiastically went on record as solidly supporting Mr. Moore for his tenth term as head of the Canadian Labor body.

P. M. Draper was also chosen by acclamation to succeed himself as secretary-treasurer. This will be Mr. Draper's 28th term. He thanked the delegates in both English and French.

Vice-Presidents

A vote was taken for the three vice-presidents and resulted as follows: James Simpson Toronto; J. Foster, Montreal; R. J. Tallon, Winnipeg. These three together with the president and secretary-treasurer form the executive. Percy Bengough made a strong run for vice-presidency but failed by a narrow margin.

A. Pasmlle, president of the Edmonton Trades and Labor Council, was elected by acclamation as fraternal delegate to the next meeting of the American Federation of Labor to be held in Los Angeles next month.

Fred Bush, of Toronto, was chosen fraternal delegate to the British Trades and Labor Congress in 1928.

The 1928 convention of the Canadian Trades and Labor Congress was awarded to Toronto.

Elect Executives

The delegates from different provinces elected their own provincial executives to co-operate with the executive of the Trades and Labor Congress in pressing for desired legislation and carrying out the decisions of the convention.

The chairman named in each instance is as follows: Nova Scotia, P. J. Healy; Quebec, A. Mathieu; Ontario Humphrey Mitchell, of Hamilton; Manitoba, H. Kempster; Saskatchewan, A. M. Eddy, of Saskatoon; British Columbia, Percy Bengough, of Vancouver.

There were no provincial executives named for New Brunswick or Alberta in which provinces there exist federations of Labor. Provincial labor executives act along with the congress executive in pressing for legislation. Nor. was an executive elected for Prince Edward Island where officers of the international unions assist.

"SILLY SEASON" COMES NEXT IN YEAR'S CYCLE

August Proves to be as Fresh and Green as Spring

London, September 1, — The "silly season" is with us, and in the absence of really thrilling items of news the papers are starting discussions to which their leaders will contribute columns of free and unfettered opinions. This is all to the good. It enables members of the regular staff to slip away and enjoy a boating in the fields and lanes surrounding their old home towns.

And, further, it brings into the columns of the daily Press a note of passionate when you are at last allowed to say in print something that you have been burning to say for years and years and years, writes the Bystander.

The first of the "silly season" topics was a trifle restricted in its appeal, but it attracted the aristocrats of the noble army of amateur journalists.

"Does it pay to be a duke?" That is my rather happy-go-lucky paraphrase of the great problem artfully insinuated into the columns of my morning paper. Who could possibly answer such a poser as that? Only a lord naturally.

SICK ABED EIGHT MONTHS

After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Could Do All Her Work and Gained In Weight

Melfort, Saskatchewan. — "I had upward troubles, headaches and severe pains in my back and sides. I was sick enough to think that I could not live. I was in bed most of the time for eight months. An aunt in Ontario wrote me to help me as I was unable to attend to my baby and household work. She told me to try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, and after taking two bottles I could do my own work myself. I also took Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine. When I first took the medicine I only weighed seventy-eight pounds. Now I weigh twice as much. If I get out of sorts or weary and can't sleep I always take another bottle of the Vegetable Compound. I find it wonderfully good for female troubles, and have recommended it to my neighbors. I will be only too glad to answer any letters I receive asking about it." — Mrs. WILLIAM RITCHIE, Box 626, Melfort, Saskatchewan.

VIOLET RAYS IS USED IN ZOO

London, Sept. 2.—Just as the X-rays claimed their martyrs before science discovered that they would kill as well as cure, so the gentler ultra-violet rays are proving that they have evil sides to their powers.

These invisible rays have been an enormous boon to the lion house at the London Zoo, for not a single death occurred in the deer-tar two years after they were first installed in the building. Some creatures, such as iguanas, simply died without taking a single meal in this country before they were supplied with the rays, in the shape of artificial electric suns, while their amazing effect on delicate monkeys was demonstrated by the Zoological society at the last Daily Mail ideal home exhibition, at Olympia.

A bald orang-utan grew a fine crop of hair, thanks to these rays, and a Zoo official found that a week's bealing done by a day through an accidental exposure to an artificial sun at the animal sanatorium.

Yet a lover of tropical birds who installed an ultra-violet treatment for their benefit in his own aviaries lost one or two specimens as a sequel. They were forest birds, and it would appear that those which are normally protected from the direct rays of direct rays of the sun by thick foliage can have too much of this undoubtedly "good thing."

It would seem to follow that our domesticated parrots should be kept away from ultra-violet-ray lamps and from too much direct sunlight. Many of these are birds from dense, dim forests, and perhaps one of the reasons why they do so well in men's houses is the fact that they do not get the strong stimulus of the sun's rays.

FALL FASHIONS DICTATES FOR THE "MERE MAN"

When the leaves begin to turn, turning to the Autumn wardrobe is as natural as it is necessary—and this season the shops reveal a most interesting and delightful variety of wearables for the masculine wardrobe. Color, which has dominated things material for the male during the seasons just passed, steps into the background to some extent—a rather welcome relief and a change towards which the majority of men have been looking for months.

In suitings, there appears to be a definite trend toward russets, tans and various shades of brown—a rather natural reflection of Autumn's beauty. Still there will always be a large number of men who simply feel that they cannot wear brown or any kindred shade and for these, perennial blues, Oxfords and soft blacker effects will be equally in style. The double breasted jacket still holds favor and certainly one or more should be in the ward robe of every well groomed man, not only because the style itself is smart, but also because it makes an agreement alternate with the single breasted model.

In topcoats for Fall, Shetlands continue popular and the camel-hair, too will continue a ruling favorite. Even the great heights of popular usage which it enjoyed last year, has diminished not a whit, the interest which the well dressed man will demand in this delightful garment throughout the coming season. This coat has a knack of its own that no one can deny It is not only very much a-la-mode, but it has a service value and an undoubted durability which make ready appeal to the man who looks for wear in his apparel as well as styling Then too, its popularity has been increased because the manufacturers have wisely seen fit to produce it at a price which meets the possibility of an average purse. It seems only a season or two back that a camel hair topcoat stood in at least as $125.00, but this Fall you will be able to indulge your fancy in what was formerly a luxury by expending but one half the cost that will measure up to every expectation. For alternate wear for dress usage on formal occasions, the double breasted Chesterfield with velvet collar, 3-4 length, makes a bid for established favor. Always elegant, this handsome garment should be in every man's wardrobe who aspires to achieve a smart appearance.

Keep in mind, though, that when wearing this style coat the derby invariably should top it—your soft hat not only looks entirely out of place with the Chesterfield, but from the style standpoint, it quite wrong.

The newest materials and most up-to-date styles are always available at Arthur McGie's 206 Front. St. Phone 376.

LUMBER FIRM DISPLAYS MODEL BUILDING

At the Fair this week you've probably noticed an exhibit which illustrates clearly the newest in the builders' art. The Houston Co., Limited large local lumber and building material firm, have constructed as their display a model building, making use of two well known products—Gyproc the interior, used nowadays to a great extent in replacing the old fashioned plaster, and the outside of the miniature building is finished in attractive Stuk-Kote.

It is exhibits such as this by the city's leading firms which are contributing more and more to make the Belleville Fair really an educational one. The Houston Company is also displaying a specialty fine line of Gyproc various designs which are well worth seeing.

SCHOOL OPENING BRINGS NEED OF SHOE REPAIRS

School will open in just about one week more and boys and girls will make more unwillingly heed the call of the bell.

Now is the time to have their apparel made ready; and perhaps nothing is more important than the need of providing that boy or girl of yours with strong durable shoes; dry feet are an important factor in maintaining the health of children during the coming wet months and a good repair job done now by a skilled shoe repair man will keep their little feet good and dry.

Bert Adams at the Footbridge Garage can put them in shape for you and do the job as it should be done, and at reasonable prices. He is located just off Front Street and a trial job will give you a new meaning of the term "service" on shoe repair work.

DODGE CAR HAS GREAT RECORD IN GOBI DESERT

Blazes Trails Never Before Covered By Motor Wheels

The importance of the motor transport service which has been established throughout the Gobi Desert in Mongolia since Dr. Roy Chapman Andrews demonstrated by the unbelieving that motor cars, more specifically Dodge Brothers Motor Cars, could be operated across the trackless wastes never before traversed by wheeled vehicles is clearly brought out in an article by Sven Hedin, noted Swedish explorer, which appeared in a recent issue of the German motor paper "Automobile Rundschau."

In describing this motor service which is rapidly superseding the slow moving camel trains in furnishing transportation for persons and merchandise on the long trips across the desert and which is now handling large quantities of sable and other precious furs, wool and other valuable products from far in the interior, Hedin says:

"There are now in operation on the line from Kalgan to Urga, a distance of 700 miles across the desert, 130 motor cars, practically all of which are Dodges. Gasoline is transported on the backs of camels to way stations. In one place there is a large tent for repairs.

"As there are no roads one travels across country wherever the ground appears most promising."

It will be remembered that Dr. Andrews in writing of his experiences during his three exploring trips stated, "When we came out of the desert we were beset with traders and business men who wanted to know all about our trip. They had openly declared that no motor car could go into the region and come out again, but when we showed up with our entire fleet of five Dodge Brothers Motor Cars all running perfectly they were convinced. Now these same men, by using Dodge Brothers Cars, are making, in a few days, trips far into the desert which formerly took months."

RENEWING MOTOR BEARINGS WORK REQUIRING CARE

Howard Bros., Welders, Make Specialty Of This

Next time you burn-out or break a bearing and require the services of an expert welder and a babbiting machine, put the necessary combination to the hands of a firm whose reputation is your guarantee of a good job done.

According to Howard Brothers, well known local welders on South Pinnacle Street, the welder has his every problems in working with a re-babbiting machine. In sending in the parts for rebabbiting, don't fail to state definitely the diameter of the crankshaft; for it must be borne in mind that crankshafts of various makes are of varying widths, and naturally enough the re-babbiting work cannot be done correctly if this crank shaft width be not given the welder

And another thing, send along the serial no. with the connecting rod. With these important details attended to, you can be sure of having the work done absolutely right. Howard Bros. there use only the highest grade of babbit metal in this class of work, the type most suitable for high speed engines.

Knowing that suitable material is being used on your job and that it is being handled by men who are thoroughly experienced in the work you can rest assured that the job will be perfectly done, and the bearing properly repaired.

FIRESTONE TIRE COMPANY HELPS DEVELOP AKRON

In a previous article was related something of the remarkable progress of the Firestone Tire Company at Akron, and its origin and growth, started during the 18 years of its existence to-date. It was shown how Mr. Firestone starting in 1901 overcame difficulties, later pioneered, the construction of demountable rims, and how by 1915 the Firestone plant occupied over a million square feet of floor space.

Mr. George Deline's prominent local Firestone Agent, in recalling that the month of August was the Anniversary month for the Firestone Company, asked conclusively that the advance of Firestone was typical of the fine industry itself.

From the early formative years of the Company's development, Mr. Firestone had kept in close touch with his employees—knowing most of them by name and inspiring in them a fine spirit of harmony, energy and co-operation; various activities had been entered into, including an annual ball and entertainments for the entire force. Naturally, with the increase in the staff, the personal element became impossible, and a personal department was established to keep in touch with members in and out of the plant. Mr. Firestone likes people and makes every employee realize that there is room for his employment with his company than merely a job to make for co-operation, the company erected in 1915 a large and complete club house, and it's one of the best in the United States, it was the first in Akron of its kind. An insense restaurant, library, reading rooms, auditorium seating 2,000, gymnasium and bowling alleys are a few features.

The population of Akron had by 1918 far-outstripped the housing facilities—and the company purchased 1,000 acres of land and developed it. Sewers were built, water and gas mains installed, trees planted sidewalks laid, all at the company's expense. Here over 1,000 homes have been built and sold under the company's easy payment plan and a contiguous building program assures Firestone employees attractive, comfortable homes.

In another article at an early date Mr. Deline will continue the remarkable story of the advance of the Firestone Tire and Rubber Company.

England Adopts Time Payments

The majority of British motorists now buy their cars on the hire-purchase plan, as time payments are known in Great Britain, according to L. J. Oller, managing director of Studebaker (England) Ltd. The rapid growth of installment buying in England was characterized as a second development by Mr. Oller, who has been acting in an advisory capacity to British motor car dealers confronted with what is to them a new aspect of their business.

BELLEVILLE MAN CRUSHED TO DEATH IN MOTOR SMASH

Picton Child Succumbs To Injuries In Hospital—City Schools Flooded With New Scholars

CHILD DIES FROM INJURIES WHEN STRUCK BY CAR

Ruth Guesp Aged Six of Picton Suffered Fractured Skull

NO BLAME ATTACHED

Ran in Path of Car Driven By Malone, N. Y. Citzen

Ruth Guesp, aged six years, died in the Belleville General Hospital at four o'clock this morning from injuries received when struck by a motor car driven by Spencer E. Wright, of Malone, N.Y., on the highway near Desoronto, on Sunday morning at ten o'clock.

The little tot, whose home is in Picton, was an occupant of the car driven by her father, and several other members of the family proceeding toward Kingston. When opposite a refreshment booth the car was stopped and the little girl darted across the road to make a purchase. With some ice cream in her hand she started back, across the highway and as she dodged out from behind a parked car the north bound car struck her, overturned her. Mr. Wright stuck and buried her to the ground. She was picked up suffering from a fractured skull and never regained consciousness.

An inquest was ordered by the Deseronto Coroner, and the preliminary hearing will be held this afternoon.

Eye-witnesses state that Wright was travelling at a particularly slow rate of speed and that he had no possible chance to avoid striking the child.

Provincial Constable Weatherall investigated the affair.

MARSH TRIAL IS OPENED TO DAY

Aftermath of Foxboro Accident is Finally Heard

Colonel Lorne W. Marsh, charged with reckless and furious driving, causing actual bodily harm when it is alleged he smashed into a car driven by the Rev. Glenroy of Smithfield and injuring Mrs. Andrews, the Rev. Glover's mother-in-law, appeared in the local police court today. Judgment was reserved until tomorrow by Magistrate Mikel.

The case moved swiftly to its conclusion and this afternoon Col. Marsh was on the witness stand undergoing stiff cross-examination by Crown Attorney Donnan.

George Chisolm, foreman of the Foxboro Highway, where the accident happened several weeks ago, Robert Preston and Clayton Smith, took the stand this morning. Chisolm emphatically stated that Marsh was negligible to even the road at a speed of about thirty - five or forty-five miles per hour when he met Marsh.

Prentiss stated that he smelled liquor around the Marsh car and saw two full bottles and one nearly empty taken from the car by the Provincial Police. He thought that Col. Marsh was not Harry Tanover.

Clayton Smith said that when he saw Marsh, he was driving at a terrific pace and sensible manner. The Rev. John Glover of Smithfield gave briefly explained the accident to the court. He said he didn't observe any odor of liquor about his Marsh car.

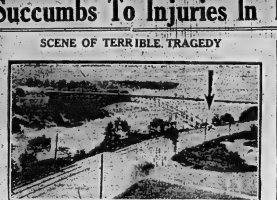

Col Marsh also outlined the accident and denied that he had been drinking.

SCENE OF TERRIBLE TRAGEDY

Three Hurled Over Precipice

Entering Canada with the international bridge at Niagara Falls, Ont., in a car of the dominion, Prof. R. D. Hurley, of Cleveland, with his wife and daughter were hurled to death in Niagara gorge below the falls when an unknown motorist "cut in" to front of their car and forced it over the 130 foot precipice bordering the gorge. The bridge which the falls beyond and the fatal spot where the car went over are plainly seen.

IMPRESSIVE CEREMONIES MARK THE MEMORIAL SERVICE AT RESERVE

Local High Court Officers Address Sunday Assembly

The twentieth anniversary of the death of Dr. Oronhyatha, for many years the acknowledged leader in the world of fraternal insurance, was brought to mind on Sunday afternoon by a beautiful and impressive memorial service, in the cemetery adjoining the Mohawk church, immediately to the west of the Town of Deseronto, that the Supreme Chief Ranger of the officers of the High Court of Eastern Canada, Independent Order of Foresters. Many of those in attendance were compatriots of the late Sachem of the Six Nations.

The service was conducted by J. O. Herity, of Belleville, High Chief Ranger. In his opening remarks, Mr. Herity made fitting reference to the outstanding ability and remarkable career of the departed leader.

"We are assembled here today," said Mr. Herity, "out of respect to the memory of a great and good Canadian and one of the foremost fraternalists of all time. We have met at the tomb of one who was for many years a prominent figure in the public parade of the world. His remarkable career and his priceless achievements by way of alleviation, relief and practical fraternity.

"Dr. Oronhyatekha was a man of the race that is not akin to our own except in the common bond of human brotherhood. His ancestors were the true pioneers of the North American continent. He appropriately sleeps his last sleep where his forefathers roamed a few years, upon the soil granted to them because of their loyalty to the throne of Great Britain. Here his body rests amidst the beautiful scenes he loved so well in life, but his great sympathetic soul has passed on to the higher court above.

"Dr. Oronhyatekha lives on in the powerful, humanitarian influences he set in motion; he lives on in the name of the orphanages made possible by his vision splendid; he lives on in the memory of that great and continuing multitude to whom the work of his hands brought health and happiness and prosperity in life. For such noble souls as our departed leader and brother, it may be said with the utmost truth, 'there is no death'."

Following the High Chief Ranger's opening remarks there was a fervent invocation by L. O. Morgan, of Ottawa, the veteran High Secretary for Eastern Ontario, and then the opening hymn, "Rest be the Tie that Binds," was sung with deep feeling by the assembled company. Joseph McCullough, of Picton, Chief Ranger, read St. Paul's great message on charity.

The solo, "Beautiful Isle of Somewhere," rendered with fine expression by Charles A. Parker, High Councilman, of Ottawa, seemed to give voice voice to the sentiments of all present in his moving message of hope and immortality.

Career Sketched

A splendid tribute to the life and work of Dr. Oronhyatekha was contained in the memorial address by H. G. Douglas, High Vice-Chief Ranger, of Ottawa. Mr. Douglas briefly sketched the early career of Oronhyatekha from his birth in 1841 on the reservation at Brantford to his graduation with high honors in the department of medicine at the University of Oxford where he was enabled to take a course by the generosity of the late King Edward, then Prince of Wales. In this successful rise from obscurity the triumph over abnormal difficulties the marvellous achievements of his brief lifetime and the altruistic character of the great fraternalist, Mr. Douglas found for young Canadians a message of inspiration and stimulus to ambition and to the fellow-countrymen, one and all, an enduring source of admiration. He closed his eloquent tribute by quoting from the son's immortal farewell, "Crossing the Bar."

The memorial wreath was then placed at the base of the monument by J. R. St. McCann, High Treasurer, of Ottawa, for many years a confrere of Oronhyatekha's and one of the first to join the fraternity of the Forester's in Eastern Ontario.

"Cyber" Lyons sang very wee, "O, Valiant Hearts" and "Hearer My God to Thee". The duties of director of ceremonies for the day were very efficiently discharged by High Councilman Percy Skinner, of Belleville.

SCHOOLS TAXED AS YOUNGSTERS RESUME STUDIES

Eighteen Teachers Compose Staff at the Local Collegiate

SEVERAL CHANGES

Vacation Over Happy Throngs Return to Classrooms

School bells rang out once again this morning and hundreds of local boys and girls trudged back to the classroom, responding reluctantly with pleasant memories of a couple of months of glorious freedom behind them.

Separate School, Public Schools and High School were this morning alive with activity, for local registrations day, classes commencing promptly tomorrow. Principal MacLaurin of the High School has had a full endeavouring to find adequate accommodation for his charges, as indications are that the number of students attending the High School this year will be considerably hundred, an increase of about fifty over last year's registration. The school building itself is filled to capacity, along with two rooms in the Y.M.C.A. building, and the Junior School, one of the largest number of students ever registered at the local High School.

Staff Changes

Several changes have been made on the staff. Miss Helen Reid will handle Junior Mathematics; Miss Helen Agnew of Winchester, Physical Culture and Junior English; Miss B. Billings of Lyn, Junior English and History, and Mr. F. Drohan, Junior Science. The teaching staff this year numbers eighteen.

A full registration at all schools, sums up the situation in the public and separate schools, according to Mr. H. J. Clarke, B.A., School Inspector. For the most part, the staffs of the various schools are similar to those of last season. Among the absentees are Miss Anderson of Queen Victoria, who is seriously ill, and Miss M. McKay of Glen Alexander. Miss Van Dusen has returned from a trip to England.

Mr. Harry Redfern has joined the staff of Queen Victoria School and Miss F. Sullivan has returned to Queen Mary School, having taken classes after completing a Household Science Course at Toronto University.

KINGSTON PARTY CRASH RAILING

Three occupants of a sedan driven by F. Hornestrock, of Kingston, had a miraculous escape from almost certain death when the car crashed over a twenty-foot embankment off the Smith field overhead bridge, on Sunday morning at 11 o'clock.

The party was proceeding towards Kingston from Trenton and when the bridge the driver evidently was unaware of the turn or become confused and continued straight ahead. The car left the machine crashed through the thin wooden railing which gave way under the impact. The car hurdled over the bank and slighted alongside the railway tracks.

Mr. Hornebrook was accompanied by his wife and another lady and the latter two received bruises about the head and shoulders. Help was immediately forthcoming from Trenton and the two ladies were taken to Dr. Farley's office who after an examination, announced that no wounds were sad to serious as was at first believed. Mr. Hornebrook escaped practically unhurt. The party had started out from Kingston, bright and early yesterday morning with the intention of motoring to Picton but the accident necessitated a forced return to Kingston. The car is considering the depth of the fall was in remarkably good shape: It was towed in to Trenton for repairs.

The Smithfield bridge is one of the most treacherous spots on the road and each season there is a number of accidents occurring at this point.

Princes Enjoy Quiet Hours Before Embarking For England

Montreal, Sept. 6. — For a couple of hours or so the Prince of Wales and Prince George returned to Montreal today. But they go back to Carlierville afterwards, where they have been in residence since Saturday and Motor direct from Carlierville to the Royal Train. They leave for Quebec early tomorrow. The two princes returned to Montreal shortly before noon and paid a call on H. M. S. Calcutta, which lies in the Montreal Harbor. Afterward Prince George had game of squash racquets while the Prince of Wales attended to some personal affairs. The brothers play golf this afternoon before returning to Carlierville.

DELIVERS TALK TO MAGISTRATES

W. C. Mikel, K.C., Is Heard With Interest at Convention

Kingston, Sept. 8.—W. C. Mikel, K.C., police magistrate for Belleville, addressed the Magistrates gave a most able address to the convention of the Ontario Magistrates' Association on Saturday morning, on "The Office of Police Magistrate." During the course of his address Mr. Mikel said:

"Police magistrates appear to have been appointed first in Upper Canada under the provisions of the Municipal Corporations Act of Upper Canada, passed by the Parliament of Canada in 1849. This Act provided for the appointment of a Police Magistrate in each city or town upon the request of the Council.

"The same statute also provided for the establishment of a Court of Record to be known as the Recorder's Court," which was to be presided over by a Recorder assisted by one or more aldermen. This Court had the same jurisdiction, civil and criminal, as the Court of the Quarter Sessions of the Peace. Recorders were barristers of not less than five years standing and received a salary of $250 per annum. There was a provision in the Act that the office of Recorder and Police Magistrate might be vested in the same person. The Recorder might be appointed by the Government to preside over the Division Court within his jurisdiction, and the Recorder or he had the powers of a County Court Judge.

"The Police Magistrates have been given extensive and onerous duties to perform by the Dominion Parliament and it would seem reasonable that the Dominion Parliament should pay a portion of the salaries of such officers. The Ontario Legislature makes large appropriations annually for the remuneration of the Judges appointed by the Dominion Government which would seem to be a responsible justification for the payment by the Dominion authorities of a portion of the remuneration of Magistrates.

SECOND ATTEMPT AT CHANNEL SWIM

Dover, England, Sept. 6.—Mrs. Clemington Corson, of New York, the second woman to swim the English Channel today began an attempt to duplicate her feat of a year ago but in the opposite direction. She entered the water at the south foreland, east of this city, at 9.36 a.m. and started on the 21 mile swim. The sea was smooth but there was a slight fog. At 10.30 she was five miles out and swimming strongly.

TRAGEDY STALKS IN WAKE AFTER WEEK-END HOLIDAY

Toronto, Sept. 6.—Week end and Labor Day exacted a toll of nineteen lives in Motor Car or other accidents in Ontario, according to figures compiled. One of the many danger spots was the Provincial Highway near Woodstock where on Sunday Mrs. Caroline Kessler of Buffalo was killed a few minutes before Alexander Grant, of Pontiac, Mich. was fatally injured. The motor car fatalities were in the majority over drownings.

ANOTHER SEIZURE BY U. S. GUARDS

Imp. Former Belleville Boat Carried 160 Bags of Ale

(Special to The Intelligencer)

Oswego, N.Y., Sept. 6.—The arrest of two men and a seizure of a motor boat and cargo of 150 bags of Canadian ale were made by C. O. 2201 picket boat attached to the local U. S. Coastguard station, Captain George E. Jackson commanding at Rainbow Shores, Lake Ontario, thirty miles east of Oswego early Saturday morning. The men gave their names as Clarence Robertson, 32, Henry Dupper, N.S., and John Burque, 43, Sidney N.S. They were committed to the County Jail at Oswego pending arrangement before U. S. Commissioner Charles H. Dulger on a charge of attempted smuggling.

Captain Jackson said that these men were the same two arrested in May last while attempting to land a cargo of liquor from the Canadian shore. Both offenders. The Ontario Legislature men, it was alleged, had been released from the Monroe County Jail. The boat, a 45-foot motor cruiser, was formerly the "Imp," and is owned by a Belleville boat. It was formerly a Belleville boat.

SEVERAL INJURED

Mrs. Harold Doolittle, Sister, of Belleville was Occupant

(Special Despatch to The Intelligencer)

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 6.—Blinded by glaring headlights which caused his car to swerve into a ditch and turn turtle just east of Grass Creek, about nine miles east of Kingston, on Monday night, F. Willard Davis, 818 Albert street, Belleville, sole manager of Cook's Auto Service, received injuries which resulted in his death almost instantly, while Mrs. Harold Doolittle, Belleville, his sister, was thrown about the body and head, and Edith Cockhan, was injured about the body. Mr. T. Patterson, Belleville, occupant of the car, escaped with a severe shaking up.

The party, driving in a Star four seater, went to the Grand Canyon about eleven o'clock and were returning to the city in time to catch the midnight boat. When the accident occurred Mr. Davis so much that when he tried to keep on the road to hit the other car pass, he found his own car partly in the ditch at the side of the road. In an endeavor to right the car on to the highway, the car, on the uneven ground in the ditch suddenly turned completely over. The force was enough to smash in the front part of the top, to the point where the driver was sitting the top was bolstered almost to the seat.

Killed Instantly

Mr. Davis was pinned in his seat, and the steering wheel struck him in the chest, causing internal injuries which resulting a fractured skull. At the same time the jagged edge of the steering wheel, what had been broken, crushed into Mr. Davis' chest, causing internal hemorrhage. The other occupants of the car were cut with flying glass and otherwise bruised, but were about to extricate themselves, and a call was immediately sent to the city. Dr. Farley arrived shortly after on the scene, but it was found that Mr. Davis was already dead. The other occupants were taken to The General Hospital, and the body removed to the morgue, which was later taken over it to Cook's Auto Service, was not so badly damaged as to cause inspect. Having turned completely over, the wheels, fenders, and other parts of the machine had suffered considerably for the least, but the top was a wreck. The windshield was smashed and the weight of the top had crushed the front seat down.

Held Many Friends

The late Mr. Davis was one of the most popular of the local automobile salesmen. Of a most genial disposition his friends in the city were many, and it was with considerable regret that they learned of his untimely death. He was a native Kingston from Belleville, his home, about four years ago, and since then has been connected with the Cook Auto Service. He was regarded as a most expert salesman of automobiles and throughout the city and county was extremely well and favorably known.

Body Brought Here

The deceased is survived by his father who resides in Belleville and who came to the city to make arrangements for the removal of the body to his home. Besides his father, of Belleville, who was in the car, with Mrs. Doolittle, was Mrs. Harold Jones, and one brother, Harold, of Toronto.

Dr. R. J. Gardiner, who was called after the accident, following an examination with Crown Attorney Ridgeway, stated that no bail was likely no longer would be held.

The late Willard Davis was born and educated in Belleville, where he had a host of friends. After leaving High School he left the city and entered the automobile business. He had visited his parents on Albert Street on Saturday and Sunday and it was with the deepest feelings of regret that word of Davis' death was received here today. At the present time the funeral arrangements are incomplete.

THE LURE

The story which recently appeared in the newspapers that a well-known member of Parliament had been hired into the loss of $35,000 by the promotion of an alleged questionable investment company, draws attention to a menace regarding which there is too little caution. The desire to make money easily and quickly is something with which most people are familiar, and perhaps particularly; so long as conspicuous wealth is dangled in opened in the marketplaces in the complex field of business. How rich this field is, may be judged from the story fact that if a member of Parliament succumbed, and many surrounding him way stand in the world, can be taken in by a few clever manipulators what perils must abound for the less sophisticated, ignorant in the field of investment!

There is but one safeguard for them —extreme caution, and the seeking of advice. Judge Gary, one of the shrewd financiers of his time, recently wrote to his will:

"I earnestly request my wife and children and their descendants to absolutely decline to sign any bonds or obligations of any kind as surety for any other person or persons; that they refrain from anticipating their income in any respect and refuse to make loans except on the basis of first-class well secured securities and that they particularly refuse to invest in any untried and doubtful security thing or property or enterprise or business.

"They should reject any representations or advice of others if invelved in any doubt. They will be approached frequently with suggestions for investments that are not entitled to be relied upon from a business point of view.

If this be good advice for one of the shrewdest financiers of his day to give to his wife and children, it is good advice for the rest of us. Signing on the dotted line, when one's signature involves dollars and cents, and even the maintenance and security of one's family, is something that should not be done without a great deal of thought.

The tomato stories now coming on from the Ontario gold fields, together with the news that considerable money has in recent months been made by shrewd investors in industrial stocks, are alluring temptations to the inexperienced. In the months of smooth salesmen they become a menace. But speculation in stocks by those who cannot afford to lose is ex ceedingly dangerous.

CHEAPER GAS

It is quite generally agreed that the only revolutionary developments possible in the automotive field are a motor of high fuel efficiency and a method of producing cheap gasoline or a gasoline substitute. With this knowledge engineers and scientists the world over are working on one or both of the ideas. Wealth awaits the successful.

In this connection a reported transaction between the German dye trust and the Standard Oil Company of New Jersey is being watched with keenest interest. It is reported the American concern has purchased full and rights on this side for the manufacture of a cheap synthetic gasoline under the recently discovered German process. Berlin, indeed, Germany hopes the process will make her independent of foreign oil supplies and give her motorists cheap fuel.

Whether the Standard Oil Company purchased the rights to protect its own interests or in a genuine effort to synthetic gas for motorists is not known, but it is unlikely that the making of a substitute gasoline will be so easily cornered.

Chemical experts say predicting the dawn of a new fuel era and the public is looking forward to cheaper gasoline and a diminution of the demands on the rapidly dwindling oil reserves.

ANOTHER BIG CROP

The Western Provinces are harvesting another huge wheat crop, and in a critical time when so much depends upon favorable weather the news from the Prairies is all is good. Estimates place as high as 450,000,000 bushels the yield from the three provinces, and even the very cautious officials of the Federal Department of Agriculture admit that a "good crop" is in prospect. Damage still may be done by heavy frosts and rust, but every day adds to the margin of safety and increases the well-founded Western optimism.

Alberta is in a particularly favorable position. "The province as a whole," says the review of the department, "seems to be ready to harvest a nearly record crop of good quality wheat." Hon. George Hoadley, the provincial minister of agriculture, goes much farther. "If we can get this crop off in it is," he said the other day, "we shall have the greatest total yield and the greatest bushel production to the acre we have ever had." The Edmonton Journal points out that an average equal to that of 1915 would give, with the increased acreage of 1927, a yield of 208,000,000 bushels, while the record total to date was 144,863,000 bushels produced in 1923. "The present prize" comments that paper, "is almost 15 per cent. higher that that obtained four years ago and, if it holds, the cash return on a crop such as is now in sight will be twice what it was then." Truly the prospects, as the Edmonton Journal remarks, is "a dazzling one," and it says the outlook could not be better.

Saskatchewan and Manitoba will not crack any records, but they expect to hold their averages and contribute their share to national wealth.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Sinclair Lewis admits that his literary work will not live. But not because the good die young.—Hamilton Herald.

Hall Caine, Jr., secured an English audience he bought whiskey here for $3 a bottle, or $1 cheaper than he could but it in England. He may expect a tremendous demand from this country for the name and address of his bootlegger.—New York Sun.

Not satisfied with making a slave of Mary's little lamb, cynical critics declare that the incident on which the popular and pathetic poem, "The Wreck of the Hesperus," is found is a myth. It has long been a favorite number for recitations at school "exhibitions," and barrels of tears have been shed over the fate of the gallant crew.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of Six day 30 years ago.)

The other had his eyes closed, said: "Hith ith'r well with you?"

GEORGE SMITH KNEW ROYALTY

No Newspapermen on More Intimate Terms With Crowned Heads

London, Sept. 4.—No newspaperman in the Empire was more intimate terms with Royalty than was Smith, who, as already recorded, met his death during the week-end when down by a motor. His end was doubly tragic. A few weeks ago, almost down to the offices of the Press Association on a Saturday morning," and found himself "off the diary." For Heaven sake find me some sort of an assignment," he explained to the City News Editor, and was told since he was so determined not to take a day's holiday he might as well assist at the Flying meeting at Hendon. He went out to the aerodrome, and in crossing a road was knocked down by a car, the injuries resulting in his death. Only three years previously he was wrecked in another motor accident in which he sustained a compound fracture of the right leg and lost the index finger of the right hand.

For 23 years George Smith "followed" for the Press Association the doings of the principal members of the Royal Family in Great-Britain. The King and Queen, the Prince of Wales, the Duke of Connaught looked upon him not merely as a newspaperman, but as a friend. The Prince had his own special nickname for Smith. In reporting the movements and conversation of Royalty, Smith was always the soul of discretion, and in the handling of his responsible duty he invariably carried himself with a personal modesty of bearing which endeared him to the Duke of Connaught looked upon him not merely as a newspaperman, but as a friend. The Prince had his own special nickname for Smith. In reporting the movements and conversation of Royalty, Smith was always the soul of discretion, and in the handling of his responsible duty he invariably carried himself with a personal modesty of bearing which endeared him to the Royal Family. He was quite as welcome to be helpful to members of his own profession not so fortunately placed as himself, which would seem as a perfect example for younger men to follow.

Once, when the Prince returned from one of his Empire Tours, the crowd which welcomed him at St. James' Palace was so large and so boisterous that it was impossible to hear what the Prince said in a short speech delivered from one of the windows. Smith saw the crisis, broke into the Palace, and took down a neat little speech of what the Prince had said—or at any rate of what he had intended to say. "Will that do?" asked the Prince, and Smith said it would do very well. He went out to the rest of the anxious "boys" of Fleet Street, and informed them that the whole of the vital speech to them.

King George, who taught a lot of Smith's work. Once when the late King presented new colors to the Guards, the press representatives were too far away to hear a word of the King's speech. The writer sent up a speech and submitted it to the King's Controller, Lord Knollys. Lord Knollys later said to Smith: "The King says this is very nice but unfortunately it is not what he said. The King has made quite a different speech, but he will be all right if you publish it in his somewhat." Smith found that the "copy" had been edited by the King in his own hand with a green pencil. The "copy" remained one of Smith's most cherished possessions.

On day Smith telephoned to an equerry of one of the Royal Princes and found that Royalty was ill. The telephone was answered by a new man, who was evidently impressed with her new service. "Just say, please, that, George Smith called up, requested me to say that the equerry returned he was informed of the call. "Did he say who he was?" the equerry asked. "Well, sir, he supplied the novice in royal service, trembling with loyal excitement, "I think he said he was George the Fifth."

HENRY SEPTEMBER ROADS
By Molly Bevan

A road in spring's a lovely thing,
With blossom pink and white,
A summer road just after rain's
A thing of pure delight;
A winter road, in falling snow,
Is calmly white and still;
But Oh, I love an autumn road
That climbs a tree-clad hill!

The city streets are far too smooth,
The boulevards too fine;
A broad provincial highway
Is never, want for mine.
Just grant to me a dusty road
The feet of men have trod,
Its edges blue with aster-haze,
Flame lit by goldenrod.

The sun may shine, the rain may fall,
It matters not to me;
I share the secrets of the rain,
The magical ecstasy.
Such splendored store as I bring home
Never crowned a pirate's quest,
For Oh, the little roads are kind
To those who love them best!

CENSORS KILL ANY BIBLICAL VERSES IN PLAY

London, Sept. 2. — (By Canadian Press) — The Lord Chamberlain's Department, which is responsible for the censorship of plays, regards with no favourable eye the inclusion of Bible references in dramatic works. "Potiphar's Wife," which has just been produced at the Queen's here, was modified before production because passage, Genesis XXXIX, 7-20, was put into the mouth of one of the characters. The playwright, Edgar Middleton, expunged the passage, but the management printed it on the loose sheets which were inserted in the programmes.

Potiphar here proves to be an elderly member of the peerage, married to a young wife, and the Joseph as a chauffeur who declines without the least hesitation to become infatuated with Mrs. Potiphar. There is a scene in her bedroom dressing room and at the close, stung by the modern Joseph's refusal, her ladyship calls the rest of the household in and accuses Joseph of assault. He takes his trial with needless to say, "gets off." The wonder is that any police Magistrate found the slightest ground for committing him on such flimsy evidence. Mrs. Potiphar leaves the court alone—and Joseph happens to her ultimately we are not told.

The critics here acknowledge that Mr. Middleton's version of the story secure some grip on the "behind" scenes of the theatre as a whole, and assert, is uneven and has little more real depth than an ordinary monthly magazine story. The introduction of a woman barrister is something of a novelty in stagecraft, but in the present instance it has been described as an unintentional argument against women barristers. The play had an unenthusiastic reception on its first night. It seems to be one of those productions which may flicker for a few weeks and then suddenly expire, or it may have a run of many months in London alone.

Here and There

The apple crop this year will run to 1,250,000 barrels, or about 100,000 barrels of Wolfville, or a fifty percent increase over last year. Nine-tenths of the crop of the Eastern States is reported only half that of last year.

The Department of Lands and Forests of the Province of Quebec have issued 1,000,000 trees this year—a record figure and nearly double that of last year. Next summer it is proposed to plant 2,000,000.

Canada's net debt decreased by $2,425,429 during the first four months of the fiscal year. It now stands at $2,296,335,940. During the corresponding period of last fiscal year there was a decrease of $41,262,681, but revenue increase and expenditures show increases.

Tourist travel this season is in excess of previous years and is even more cosmopolitan in its derivations than formerly, according to C. E. Usher, general passenger traffic manager of the Canadian Pacific Railway, back from a tour of inspection of the company's interests in Western Canada and other favored tourist spots.

E. J. Chambers, President and General Manager of the Associated Fruit Growers of British Columbia, Limited, declares that apple crops are now being sent to South Africa, Australia, New Zealand, Germany and Denmark, as well as Great Britain. Markets in Montreal, New York and Chicago are big consumers of two varieties, the McIntosh Red and Delicious, respectively.

A further party of 40 students representing Canadian colleges in the British Isles arrived on the Canadian Pacific liner Montcalm Monday and proceeded to the harvest field of Western Canada in the care of the C.P.R. Department of Colonization and Development. They will be placed upon farms in Saskatchewan for the duration of the harvest by the British Women's Immigration League.

Construction of the first commercial fish hatchery in Alberta will be started in September, announces R. N. Wood, Dominion Fisheries Inspector. It will be located at the mouth of Canyon Creek on the south shore of Lesser Slave Lake. It is estimated that 100,000,000 whitefish will be propagated at the hatchery every year to maintain an undiminished supply of fish for the many companies operating in the lake.

So great is the interest which is being exhibited in the Scientific music festival organised as part of the Highland Gathering at Banff, September 3-5 that the Canadian Pacific Railway has arranged with the Alberta Government telephones to install the amplifiers of the public address system that were used at the Jubilee Radio broadcast, so that the evening concerts will be heard not only in the Ballroom of the Banff Springs Hotel, but also in the bungalow camps in the open air on the terrace.

General industrial transportation and agricultural outlook if seen prospects reaching him from all parts of Canada, is excellent and will result in a heavy traffic and increased fair Canadian products widens, said E. W. Beatty, K.C., Chairman and President of the Canadian Pacific Railway, recently at Calgary. "An important factor in the latter will be a steadily increasing population," he said. "The transportation companies, of course, are dependent on the general conditions of the country, and consequently when last year their gross earnings are higher, but increased costs lowered their net. MEMORIALS WERE UNVEILED; SITE OF STE. THERESE

Montreal, August 30.—Two memorial places, to mark the site of ancient Fort Ste. Therese, on the river bank immediately opposite Ste. Therese Island, were unveiled yesterday following celebrations at Chambly Fort, which is 262 years old this summer. Speeches by Mr. Justice Philippe Demers, L. J. N. Blachet, conservator of Chambly Fort; L. A. Rivet, K.C., Arthur Geoffrion, K.C., and others recalled the illustrious campaigns of over two and one-half centuries.

After the speeches in the shade of Chambly Fort, there was a commemorative procession to the site of the long since demolished Fort Ste. Therese, some five or six miles distant. After the unveiling two young girls placed wreaths under the memorial plaques.

Mayor Arthur Denault, of the parish of St. Joseph de Basnin de Chambly, welcomed the visitors, together with Mr. Blachet. The Garde St. Thérèse, Montreal, furnished the municipal band, added to the picturesque scene. Standing beside the historic old fort near the mouth of the river Sorel, by the summer afternoon, Mr. Justice Demers, Montreal, gave a short and interesting review of the historical events that passed in the neighborhood of Forts Chambly and Ste. Therese since 1665, when soldiers of the Regiment de Carignan built a chain of forts. These included Chambly Ste. Therese, St. John and La Motte.

The speaker emphasized the necessity of such a patriotic demonstration in honor of such a worthy historical monument as old Fort Chambly. He

CAP EXPLODES LAD IS INJURED

Lloyd Morris, aged nine years, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Morris, 204 Station Street, suffered severe wounds in the face when a cap used by C.N.R. employees exploded when young Morris struck it with a stone.

The young victim who was playing in the rear of the Salvation Army Citadel on Dalton Street, along with several other youngsters, found the cap and attempts were made by means of stones to break it open. The cap was composed of dynamite and other explosives and exploded with a loud report and some of the contents entered the flesh of the little fellow's legs. A physician was called and his last report he was resting easily.

The injuries are used by railwaymen to halt the approach of trains in case of danger.

ATLANTIC PLANE DAMAGED BY FIRE

Harbor Grace, Nfld., Sept. 6.—Hop off of London to London plane, "The John Carling" was postponed today until tomorrow morning. The fliers, Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James McGrail, decided to devote today to preparations for the flight which arrived here yesterday from Caribou, Maine.

Harbor Grace, Nfld., Sept. 6.—Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James McGrail of "London to London" plane, the John Carling, assisted in the services at the Atlantic this morning as it awaited the last minute adjustments caused by the rough handling last night, when a narrowly escaped disaster by fire from the hope of a take-off before daybreak. The pilots now look forward to expectation of leaving about nine o'clock eastern daylight time.

FALLS FROM TENDER FOUND 2 HOURS AFTER

William Stevenson, an employee of the Canadian National Railways was found in an unconscious condition early Sunday morning on a pile of coal near the coal chute in the Canadian National yards. It is believed he fell from a tender, that Stevenson was not found until two hours later. There is a suspicion of foul play. It was stated today that the victim would be around in a few days.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GETS SEVEN DAYS

John E. Davison, formerly of Belleville, was given seven days in jail and fined $7 and costs in Trenton Police Court this morning upon being found guilty of a charge of drunken driving. The accused was arrested by Highway Patrol Officer Gilbert at a point one half mile east of Trenton after Davidson had struck a cement bridge with his car, which he was in charge. Davidson was accompanied by another companion. He formerly resided in this city and was employed by his household effects to Toronto, where he will live in future. The truck was damaged about the radiator and fenders.

SHOP BREAKERS ARE ARRESTED

Trenton Police Apprehend Three Robbers In Early Hours

Through the vigilance of Sergeant White and Constable Hibbert of Trenton Police Force, a gang of thieves who it is believed are responsible for a series of thefts in the town of Trenton, were rounded up on Saturday night and placed behind the bars.

Fred Miles, Charles Wannanasker and Fred Campbell, all of Trenton, are the trio alleged to have broken into several stores and obtained a quantity of cigarettes, cigarettes and cigars. On Sunday morning, nearly residents heard vicious noises around the Front street grocery store owned by Joseph McKeown. The police were notified and after an examination of the store found the glass broken. A hole was made of the sprinkler and examination revealed that a man could been made to jimmy a side door. Traces of blood were found on some material in McNabb's brice, and search, and Miles was found hiding in some long grass in the yard. The other two who were suspects were arrested later. All three appeared in police court the same store two robbed and $38 in loot was secured.

CUP PRESENTED TO ALEMITE CLUB

Winners of City League Receive Trophy at Dinner

A fitting conclusion to a successful City Industrial Baseball season today was the presentation by the Weekly meeting of Kiwanis of a beautiful silver cup to the Alemite Club, winners of the league.

Desiring to foster interest in industrial sport in the city, Mr. Ernest Row some, Manager of the Belleville Canning, this year donated the fine cup which today was given the permanent property of the Club winning it two consecutive years. Mr. Owen Merrily, leading Kiwanian, in making the presentation, expressed his appreciation of the enthusiastic efforts to promote good clean sport in the city; recreational facilities and the encouragement of healthy sport in the city being sought for by industries, planning to open branches in the city for they realized the big part played by such things in the interest of harmony and co-operation in industry, and the value of sport in developing worth while citizens. Mr. Rowsome had assisted greatly in promoting sport in the city. The speaker commended the Alemite Club for its success in local sporting circles.

Unanimous declaration, Fame and support of the Club as any sporting Rowsome spoke briefly, expressing the Kiwanis organization.

Manager Art. Young, on behalf of the Ball Club, received the trophy. The season has been a very successful one and with such a cup as a prize, next year should see an even better industrial League in the city. Members of the team present in uniform at the luncheon were: R. Ash, E. Dechath. A. Young, (Mgr.); J. Smith, C. Bailey, T. Ash, J. Ash, H. Kemp C. Gibson, J. Kerr and W. Page.

TRACK RECORD IN FREE - FOR ALL

Sid Hal Hangs Up New Time Record in Second Heat

The chief feature of Saturday's racing on the closing day of Belleville Fair was the performance of Sid Hall owned by Dr. Whitig of Goderich who hung up a new track record in the free for all race.

Sid Hall came home other fast horses in this race but Sid Hall showed a class that left all in the rest of the field in every heat. In the second heat he went the mile in 2.10 which is extremely fast time for the third and final heat he nearly duplicated the feat but did the course one-quarter minute slower.

Ronona Grattone, also owned by Dr. Whitely took second money in three straight heats. Both of these fillies are fast horses and should prove excellent money-makers for Dr. Whitely.

Lexamore, Vic. Rownlree's speedy animal, captured third money and Jack Abee the only other entrant ran in fourth place.

2.29 Class

Some keen competition was provided in the 2.20 class but Ingamore Grattan ruled in the stable of Dr. Hopkirk of Cloverville, captured the premier honors in straight heats.

Victor Fletch, a Picton horse, came in for second money. This horse gave the Grattan speedster a close battle but she did not have the punch.

Dr. Hall, another fine animal owned by Mr. J. Kain of New Hamburg, rambled down the stretch in fifth place in the first heat but was awarded second money by the judges the last two.

This year's racing has eclipsed any previous meets under the auspices of the Belleville Agricultural Society and racing enthusiasts have been more than pleased with the program offered.

2.29 Class

Ingamore Grattan	1 1 1
Victoria Fletch	2 2 2
Dr. Hall	5 3 3

Remember, Dudes Are Not Empire Builders

By ELSIE MARLOW

Do clothes really make the man? There's Stacey; the young hod-asleman." Stacey has just strolled past my window. He is all prepared to knock their eyes out with a nifty Panama, swampy blue shirt, pale blue bankle to match his pretty silk socks and tie a shade lighter. His nails and hair and schoolboy complexion would do credit to any beauty parlor. If clothes do make the man, Stacey would be a record-breaking investment for any girl.

On the other hand, there's Jim. Jim's an auto mechanic. At any hour of the day you may find him with a smooch on his nose and overalls that once were, khaki colored but now are little better than an admirable layer of grease. Jim's hair is red and stands on end and smells of oil of gasoline. As a romantic hero Jim certainly seems a flop.

And yet, there are those who prefer Jim. As Valencia will now tell you.

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm just about disgusted with my sex. Honest, it sometimes seems as if women were awful dumbbells when it comes to judging the real worth of a fellow. For the past two years I have gone with a wonderful fellow, and about three months ago we became engaged. All I have heard from my girl friends is—"Heavens, don't marry him, why he comes home from work all dirty." "And someone who works in an office and has a white collar job." Isn't that disgusting?

The one and only one who stands by me in my opinion is because my father hasn't a white collar job, She thinks there is no one in the world like my dad. I think there is no one in the world like my dad and my fiance, Johnny, and I'm certainly disgusted with all my friends.

All of them go with fellows who work in offices, and I'm not slurring office workers. But the fellows they go with don't and never will make as much as Johnny makes at his "black collar" job. Please don't think he wears dirty clothes, Elsie, but they get soiled at the work he does (he's a machinist, and a good one). He always changes his clothes as soon as he comes home before he comes to see me.

You once wrote that if it came to deciding between a $4.00 a day job sitting on a stool and sitting on a ditch with $6.00 a day job digging one, you'd take the good old ditch. Honestly, I felt like sending you a $50,000 bill when I read that. I would have, had I had it to send.

Will some other girls please write and give me their opinions as to whether or not a hard work or in soiled clothes, that is clothes soiled with dirt as well as greased men with "white collar" jobs. Personally I think THEY'RE HEAVENLY.

Ata girl!

America ought to be celebrating sweethearts like you with holidays and fireworks. You and your boy are the sort of citizens which make this nation possible. Who first set foot on that "stern and rock bound coast"? Who braved the Indians and cleared the wilderness? Who set that first of crowned Niagara journeying over the Western plains? Sugar Pa-Ted in Pressed Pants? I'll say not.

Regular Guys with sweat on their hands and sunburn on their necks. Great, striding tousled heroes in patches and boots! They were the ones who made America.

We're apt to forget that pressie fact. We talk about our family trees, and judging by some of the latter day specimens, you'd gather that our family trees were sweeper vines instead of hickory and oak. But the hope of America has always rested in the lads with the rolled up sleeves and the dirt on their collars.

So here's to you, Valencia—and here's to your sweetheart. May your tribe increase. We need you.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a blonde and am 16. I like the boys and want them to like me as long as I can go to school among the crowd I go with I'm pretty popular, but it seems as if I have to make them like me and I'm tired of that). Please help me find a way to whim to make them want to go with me.

R. C.

R. C.: Perhaps you are trying too hard, dear. Why not really "be yourself" for a change and stop trying to force your society? The ability to "cut up" is not the whole secret of popularity and perhaps you over do it. A forced attitude is easily discernible and very desirable as it indicates a lack of sincerity. Make yourself really charming and interesting; develop all your good points; and above all, be natural! If you make this effort, R. C., I am sure people will be attracted to you.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

If your hands perspire a great deal when sewing, keep a small tin of bran in your workbasket and rub it into your hands when they become damp. Remove the dust with a clean towel. Hands that perspire are very inconvenient if one does a great deal of sewing.

To make a nice plum jelly wash the plums and place in preserving kettle with water enough to cover. Cook slowly until fruit is very tender. Drain in cheese cloth bag overnight. Measure juice in the morning and add one cup sugar for each cup juice. Cook until it jells and skim. Put in a dish on the ice, skimming carefully during the cooking. Pour into sterilized glasses and seal when cold.

CURSE OF LOVE
By Mildred Barbour

"He said only that he was going to San Francisco and would mail funned lately for China." She sighed. "He said too that he'd send me a souvenir from the Orient, something to remain her him by—as if I could forget her nice he was to an old woman like me. But, you see, I'd told him how passion stely fond I am of Oriental things" She laughed a little dreamily. "Isn't it foolish of me to like Eastern perfumes and mandarian coats and queer barbaric jewelry, such as the dancing girls wear in the Orient. I dare say that is my starved youth craving things I've never had. I'll tell you a secret," she added, "it you promise not to laugh. I have one perfectly exquisite jewel that I'm wild to wear, if I ever get slim enough and look rich enough not to be absurd."

"Really?" murmured Norma absentedly. Her thoughts were all with King Carson and the significance of his abrupt departure. Why had he gone without a word? She didn't suspect that he had sent Sydney Stokes. "Shall I show it to you?" when among Ada, hoping to distract her from her unhappy reverie. "It's worth seeing, and it came into my possession in a very curious way."

"Yes, I'm much to see it," murmured Norma politely. She liked the little widow immensely, but she was thinking with all her might. She would go away that morning and leave her to think out her distressing problem.

"Before, I show you this, I must tell you a bit about it. My husband, as I've mentioned before, was an archaeologist. Through his acquaintances were many strange people. A man named Sanchez was the queerest of the lot. Even I don't know what his history was but I've always understood that he had lived in all parts of the world and that his mania was collecting rare and beautiful things. He lived all alone, recluse and a miser. My husband was his only friend: he said dainches was brilliant but unbalanced. One day Sanchez died mad and was taken to an asylum. His collection was left to my husband, and when the things were brought to our house, we found this lovely jewel secreted them. Wasn't it queer? Have we never knew. The old man's servant-said a woman had brought it to him. There's something uncanny about it, lovely as it is. Look!"

She lifted the black opal and held it in the hollow of her palm, extending her hand toward Norma. The shimmering fires of the jewel flamed in the sunlit room.

The Newcomer

For weeks Norma was very ill. Her life was almost despaired of. Her faith er had arrived, in haste and staggered at her bedside, a pathetic, terrified old man. Ada Lind was nearly as ashamed of herself. She had recklessly abandoned her beauty treatments to be on call in case Norma had need of her.

But Norma dragged herself slowly back from the gates of Death. She had the resistance of her sturdy ancestors to help her, even though she had often desired to live.

It was not until she was about again that Ada ventured to say to her: "My dear child, when I showed you the opal, I didn't suspect that it once had been in your possession."

Norma smiled wanly as she lay on her couch in the sun-parlor of the suite her father had engaged for her and Ada continued:

"Paul Sanchez, poor child! I'll never forgive myself. Fancy telling of Jewels when you were so—"

Norma's attenuated hand shot out in imploring hand.

"Please—I want to talk of jewels now—one jewel anyway. Will you bring me the black opal?" She shuddered. "I'll never forget—"

Ada hesitated.

"Must until you're stronger," she temporized. "Do you know, I'm beginning to be positively afraid of the thing. It seems to be involved with unhappiness and tragedy."

Norma shook her head.

"Everything has beautiful things its share of unhappiness. But we mustn't let ourselves be fanciful. I want to see it again. I'm sure it must be the same stone."

"Quite sense a history" asked Ada puzzled.

"Bring it and I'll tell you."

When Ada had obeyed, half-fearfully, Norma held the black opal for a long time in her hand. She closed her eyes and thought, as Cynthia Greer had done, that the jewel seemed alive. She could almost sense a living fire that crept into her own dragging pulse. With a slight shiver she laid it on the bed beside her.

"Now I will tell you its story, as far as I know it," she said.

She went on to tell Ada how she had found the opal in a muddy ditch when her horse had thrown her; how she had brought it home, fascinated by its beauty; how Philip Kendall had come that very afternoon and asked her to marry him; how her honeymoon had been ruined by a quarrel—and unhappiness; how Sydney Stokes, with his sinister story, had convinced her that Philip had been lost when a mysterious assailant had shot him.

Ada listened, wide-eyed and open mouthed. When Norma had finished she cried:

"Then the opal really belongs to you. Here, you shall take it."

The Doughboys Again for France

In an Armada of the mightiest vessels traversing the Atlantic, is another host of 17,000 American legionaries of the Great War have commenced the journey to France where at Paris in the presence of the greatest masses of People, the third annual convention of the Legion will be held between September 19th and 24th of next month. Many of the vessels have left and are passing the Port of New York, Boston and New Orleans, but the first from Canada was the Canadian Pacific Steamer Montrain on August 20th and this will be followed by sailings of Canadian Pacific steamers Montreal and Montcalm, Special trains from Quebec. The photograph shows a group of the Legion Buddies aboard ship with their wives on board S.S. Montrain. The bulk of the movement will fall around September 1-10. One thousand and fifty legionaries will sail on the Montcalm and about 1,000 others will sail on the Montrain. The men will take approximately four days for the trip, arriving three days ahead of sailing to the return to port. Battlefield trips will be a feature of the journey in the grand parade through the streets of Paris the men will be first in line, in French history pass through the famous Arc de Triomphe built by Napoleon and will pay a tribute to the tomb of the "Unknown Dead." Practically all the survivors of the French leaders of the war will be in the line of march including as Marshals of France, and General Petain, Minister of War Herriot, U.S. Ambassador to France, and many other distinguished names will be present. It is the opinion of many that this convention will be the most impressive in the history.

ACTING ON TIP OFFICERS RAID BROKERS' FIRM

Place Seven Men Under Arrest On Fraud Charges

Toronto, Sept. 3.—Seven men were taken into custody yesterday afternoon by headquarters detectives, following a raid on the brokerage offices of Worthington & Co., on the sixth and thirteenth floors of the Bank of Hamilton building, 8187 Yonge Street, on varied charges arising out of alleged fraudulent financial transactions amounting in one case alone to $55,000. Those arrested were Henry W. Field, stock broker, head of the firm of Worthington & Co., Homewood avenue, spiegy; Asher Spanlin, salesman, lorister, living at a down town hotel, conspiracy; Murray Leonard, salesman, Homewood avenue, conspiracy; David Rubin, living at a downtown hotel, conspiracy; Asher Spanlin, salesman, Lee Aven, conspiracy; Monie Stewart, sales man, Homewood Avenue, conspiracy; Elmer Cole, salesman, Lee Avenue, conspiracy. Each of the accused is held on $10,000. There are several complainants in the case, but the one who swore out the warrants on which the seven men were arrested is Dr. Ira D. Cotnam, M.D., C.M., Conservative member of the federal house for North Renfrew.

"No, no, I don't want it. Once I thought it would be my talisman, for now I know it is the cause of nothing but bad luck."

"But don't you see that I can't keep it after this?" argued Ada. "It's really your property."

"We don't know who owns it," insisted Norma. "No, you must keep it—unless you are afraid."

Ada picked up the opal and looked at it intently. It gleamed back at her in an evil eye. But its beauty overcame her reluctance.

"No, I'm not afraid. I'll keep it, if you wish. Perhaps it will bring me luck."

When she went down to dinner that evening, Collins was waiting for her in the lobby. During Norma's illness she had formed the habit of dining with him.

"How's Norma?" he asked anxiously

"Much, much better. She'll soon be well now," she answered reassuringly.

"My grandad, Collins said briefly, using the rugged old face. Ada liked him for his anxiety. She even found his bluntness likeable.

"Got a fellow to have dinner with me that's just arrived. Thought you'd know anybody. We met in the Turkish bath. Do you mind?"

"Not in the least. What is he like?"

"English fellow—used to be an army officer," replied Collins briefly. "I don't cotton much to the English, as you can pretty well guess, but this chap's a pretty decent sort. Here he is now."

A tall soldierly-looking man, bronze as his skin, with thinning dark hair, was coming towards them; a man impeccable in dinner clothes. Collins mumbled the introduction awkwardly.

"Mrs. Lind ... Major Harcourt, of London."

Renfrew.

Pleasiams Connection

Another man arrested during the raid was George Zeman, whose Toronto address is the same as that of several of the others, but who claims not to be connected with the firm of Worthington & Co. in any way. He said that he was a stock salesman for Benner & Co., stock brokers, McKinnon building, but on inquiries being made there the firm was found to be non-existent.

Zeman's home address is 6222 Rhodes avenue, Chicago, is held on a criminal charge of vagrancy, so that his case may be taken up by the immigration authorities.

The raid, which was conducted by Inspector Wallace and Detective Sergeant Tutt, Haskelwood, Stanton, Taylor, Hutchinson, Clarke, Seaton and Trivinell came as the result of complaints lodged by Dr. Cotnam and others throughout the province, who alleged they have been victimized by the accused.

Sell "Mystery Stock"

In their prosecutions, now in the hands of the police, the officials of the police refer to what they term "mystery stock," which appears to be speculative stock of their own choosing, and which they endeavor to sell to their clientele at amounts even as low as $100. The bulk of this stock seems to be of mining order. Some of the stock in which Dr. Cotnam is said to have interested himself is known as the Eastern Metals and Smelting company, limited, which is incorporated in the Province of Ontario, and whose mines are said to be located in the county of Hastings, not far from the mines in the Montreal Mining Exchange.

Field, the alleged head of the company, is known by the police to have been connected at the one time with the Anglo-Canadian Corporation of Montreal. All come from the United States. The salesmen being of the "high-pressure" type, about which so much has been heard throughout the province during the past year or two. Some of them have only been in town a week or two, while others arrived here several months ago. Field, it is understood, originally came from Boston, Mass.

SUBSCRIBING FOR PLAYGROUND FUND

London, Sept. 3. — (By Canadian Press)—In connection with the campaign of the National Playing Fields Association to raise £1,000,000 (£4,860,000) with which to provide playing grounds for young people participating in organized games the Association has announced that almost £300,000 ($1,455,000) have been subscribed so far.

The Duke of York is president of the National Playing Fields Association and has issued an appeal for subscriptions to the playing grounds fund. While the Duke and Duchess of York were on their Australian tour recently the Prince of Wales made an appeal for contributions to the fund. His Royal Highness' plan for adequate playing grounds for the youth of the land being made through a microphone, this being his first experience

SIR RYRIE SPOKE ON PROPAGANDA

London, Sept. 3. — (By Canadian Press) — On the subject of Imperial propaganda Sir Ryrie Sinn of Granville Ryrie, High Commissioner for Australia in London, in a recent speech here suggested that a practical effort would be made to give education on matters of Empire interest through the medium of moving pictures. The effect of cinema films on Great Britain's national life and the propaganda value of films were not yet understood or realized, he said. It was common knowledge that by far the greatest number of films shown in this country related to life in the United States. He did not wish to say there was anything wrong in American manners and customs, but these films did present a lot of trashy sentimental stuff which it was not wise to place before British young people.

YOUNG WOMEN SUFFER MOST
These Two Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound
Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.—"I have been teaching for three years, and at the end of the term I always feel tired and have no ambition. I was a very sick each month, having pains in my back until sometimes I was obliged to stop teaching. A friend recommended Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to me and I heard many women telling how much good it had done them. And it did. Now I take six bottles every year and recommend it to others."—DONALDA FANTHEIL, Ayer's Cliff, Quebec.

"Unable to Work"
Canning, Nova Scotia.—"I had irregular periods and a great suffering at those times. The pains causing vomiting and fainting. I was teaching school and often for some hours I would be unable to attend to my work. Through an advertisement in the papers I knew of Lydia E. WANT COOLIDGE TO GIVE SOME OTHER GESTURE

President's Rivals Are Hesitant To Declare Themselves

Washington, Sept. 3.—The four leading candidates for the Republican presidential nomination are, up to date, as coy as little girls at a birthday party. They are anxious to get at the ice cream and cake, but nothing will induce them to say so.

True, the presidential preference primaries in the various states will not be held for some months, but, on the other hand, it will require a good many months for any candidate to impress his personality upon the millions of voters attached to the Republican party. The delay in starting apparently hinges upon President Coolidge. No one questions the sincerity of the president, but there are those who insist that he can be "drafted" as a candidate.

Secretary Hoover, Vice-president Dawes and Speaker Longworth are all Coolidge men. They were pledged to support him for renomination. Any one of them if asked would probably say that Mr. Coolidge ought to be nominated, but, of course, "if he will not accept," etc. They have no comeback when some one says that Coolidge will accept and that he is going to vote for him.

Speaker Longworth has found such a man in Senator Pepe, one of the Republican senators from Ohio. Longworth should easily secure the Ohio delegation and should be busy these days obtaining pronouncements from leading Ohio Republicans in his favor. But he can make little progress so long as Republican leaders in each state are declaring themselves for Coolidge.

Profession of Regret

Some further announcement from the president might clear the air, but if nothing he could say would prevent certain people arguing that he might change his mind. Were Secretary Hoover or Vice-president Dawes formally to announce their candidacy tomorrow they would have to open with professions of regret over Mr. Coolidge's refusal to be a candidate. They would more or less be in the position of seeking the nomination only in case Mr. Coolidge insisted upon not taking it himself.

It is easy enough to see why none of these gentlemen desire to appear eager for the succession. They all realize the tremendous power Mr. Coolidge may be able to wield in the next national convention. About one-fourth of the delegates to that convention will be from the states lying between Maryland and Texas. In many of these states the Republican party has no real existence, but skeleton organizations are maintained for the express purpose of returning delegates to the National Republican convention. These organizations are financed and controlled by the federal office-holders in these states and all of them at present appointees of the president. It goes without saying that they would all vote for Mr. Coolidge if he chose to be a candidate. It is almost equally certain that they would favor whoever he favored at the coming convention.

Strong Hold of President

Apart from all else the president has a strong hold upon the party allegiance in all the great northern states east of the Mississippi. The record of the party upon which it hopes to win is the record of the Coolidge administration. Any one anxious to become an heir should not manifest this desire lest too openly, and all three of the gentlemen above named desire the support of the president's supporters and of the president himself. Mr. Hoover's friends are taking it for granted that he is to be the heir, but there is no reason why any Coolidge supporter should object to either Mr. Longworth or Mr. Dawes.

One might think that this would be the very moment for former Governor Frank O. Lowden of Illinois formally to announce himself as a candidate. He has no hopes of any legacy from Mr. Coolidge. His friends secured strong representation all over the union to promote his candidacy as an opponent against Mr. Coolidge at the coming convention. Had Mr. Coolidge remained in the race he would have had a contest in many states with Mr. Lowden. The latter would have been the anti-Coolidge candidate at the national convention, and would probably have secured support against the president from nearly all the states west of the Mississippi.

Not only the western farmers, up in arms against the president's veto of the McNary-Haugen bill, would have supported the former Illinois governor, but he would have attracted support from the eastern wing of the party that, for one reason or another, was dissatisfied with the Coolidge administration. It would have been Coolidge against the field, and nobody in the field but Lowden.

WHITEHEAD WILL RESIGN POSITION

London, Sept. —(Canadian Press Despatch) — The "stage manager" of the House of Lords is about to retire under the age limit governing civil servants. For the past 23 years Mr. Thomas Whitehead has been resident superintendent of the House of Lords. When his Majesty opens Parliament in State the peers attend in their robes (although they do not wear their coronets). The climax of the King's impressive entry into the Lords' Chamber is reached when the electric light hitherto shining as it feebly, is gradually increased until it reaches its full power as his Majesty hands the Queen to the seat on his left and assumes his seat the Throne.

It was Mr. Whitehead's special duty to see that not a speck of dust was to be found in all the appointments for this pageantry, and to ensure that the electric light was switched on to its full power at the exactly suitable moment.

INDIANS IN B. C. COURT

Prince Rupert, B.C., September, 6.—The story of an Indian attempt to defy the Dominion Government surveyors out of their reserve at Kitwancool and of the arrest by the Royal Canadian Mounted Police of an armed Indian who refused to give up his gun, along with a number of others said to be responsible for the trouble, was brought out in police court at Smithers, B.C., before Magistrate Hoskins. Four Indians, convicted of assulting public officers and obstructing Dominion Government surveyors, were given sentences of one to three months, and a fifth was let off with a suspended sentence.

WHIGS ENDORSE HON. J. D. M'LEAN

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—British Columbia Liberals have seized upon the return of their candidate in last week's by-election in New Westminster as the condemnation of Hon. J. D. MacLean, who has succeeded "Honest John" Oliver as Premier, and as a direct mandate to pursue the policies his Government has laid down. While no pre-election pronouncement may be expected the idea that defeat in New Westminster would seal the fate of the Government, the premier entered the contest with the feeling that the low of this constituency would be his hand-writing on the wall for a Government which exists by grace of the votes of six Independents and four Labor members, and a member of the Provincial Party.

The standing before the election was:

Liberal	21
Ind. Liberal	1
Labor	4
Provincial Party	3
Conservative	17
Vacant	1

In the words of Hon. Dr. Tolmie, leader of the Conservative party, the question for the electors was: "Shall we put a new wheel on this broken-down old thresher, or shall we trade it in and get a new car?"

No Ringing Answer

Local conditions make it impossible to say that the electorate answered this question in the affirmative. A Wells Gray, the Liberal candidate, enjoys great popularity, as has been testified by his election seven times as alderman and eight times as mayor of New Westminster. This latter office he still retains, but this was not held against him. The indications are that he will run in the next municipal campaign and will probably be elected again. Both he and C. A. Welsh, the Conservative candidate, were members of the New Westminster Lacrosse Club, both whereas Welsh was merely president, Gray is still remembered as one of the outstanding players on the victorious team which travelled east about twenty met.

Local pride complicated the situation. New Westminster has a civic consciousness which insists that it must become a great Pacific port. Last year one hundred and seventy-five ocean-going vessels tied up at its wharves. It is an aggressive community of some fifteen thousand people. Its broad business street is lined with stores, theatres and substantial buildings that would be a credit to any city. Its future is tied up with the Fraser River on which it lies, seventeen miles away across an intervening ridge. Greater Vancouver, with its population of 250,000 people, spreads out along Burrard Inlet and towards the sea. New Westminster is sufficiently aware of its potential future to look with a somewhat jealous eye at the growth which recent years have brought to its greater neighbor. The elevators which have transformed Vancouver's waterfront, it is felt, should have been built along the Fraser, or at least shared with New Westminster. The industries which have been added to British Columbia's greatest city could have found, in the opinion of very loyal New Westminsterite, just as available sites in their own city. The Provincial Fair at New Westminster still ranks higher than the annual exhibition at Vancouver.

Riding Wants Things

Keeping in mind the greatness which is to come, New Westminster has set its heart on one or two things it wants. One of these is the erection of a cold storage plant within its borders. Another is the provision of a projected bridge across the Fraser at Ladner, between New Westminster and the sea. For the realization of this hopes as to both of these, the city looks to the Liberal Government at Ottawa. It is suggested that the bridge might interfere with navigation, but the real kernel is probably the effort to get a new bridge would have in diverting the New Westminster regards the project with all the hostility that is evoked in Hamilton by the cut off at Burlington. There are other things, in the way of domestic financial assistance, which the city looks for from the Liberal Government at Victoria

The Liberal candidate was quite frank in dealing with this phase of the campaign.

"Remember," he said in a letter to the constituency, "that the Government is in power at Ottawa as well as Victoria. Our present Provincial Government has the sympathy and co-operation of the Dominion Government. This co-operation is essential in the development of our best interests and particularly in regard to the development of our city as a port. I frankly admit that this support in our development should be accorded irrespective of party politics. That is the ideal theory of government. But we must face the facts as they are.....not as they should be. We know that no Government has ever been able to completely ignore all demands. Consequently with rare exception, those demands that are made by supporters of the Government in power are complied with first."

SOCIAL CLIMBERS HAVE NEW IDEA

London, Sept. 6. (By Canadian Press) — Certain social climbers are alleged to be adopting an ingenious expedient to obtain further publicities in their course upward. Invitations to such a function as a Royal Garden Party are usually distributed by the hundreds, and, given the requisite qualifications, there is no great difficulty in securing one. The social climber, therefore, reckoning up the situation, comes to the conclusion that there is not much distinction to be gained from accepting such an invitation. At the present at the Duchess of Gloucester's Reception." If you look through Mrs. Murfel's real whereabouts you would perhaps find she was not at Baden Baden, but at Margate Margate. ADMIRAL BARON KATO DEAD

Tokio, Sept. 6.— Admiral Baron Sadakichi Kato, who commanded the Japanese fleet during the Anglo-Japanese alliance, in the World War is dead.

Social aspirants who adopt such a dodge would doubtless be crestfallen if they realized that it is a breach of social etiquette to decline a general invitation which emanates from the highest quarter, and still more is it a grave social misdemeanour to make public one's inability to attend. The proper course is to write a letter to the Lord Chamberlain's Department, stating that under the exceptional circumstances the invitation may be withdrawn, and specifically explaining why attendance is impossible.

Shop at Home ---first

YEARS ago people went into the market place "to shop." They went, not knowing what they would find, its price or its worth. Weary hours were spent in inspection, in bargaining and buying.

Today manufacturers are bringing the market place to your home. Every time a newspaper comes, a host of people are ringing your doorbell. Merchants and manufacturers are waiting on the doorstep to spread their goods at your feet for you to look at—to inspect at leisure and in comfort.

The advertisements tell you where you can get what you want. They are a guarantee of worth that protects your purchase.

Buying with a definite knowledge is so much better than shopping at random.

BELLE THEATRE

A greater number of marvelous horsemen than probably ever before were gathered together to appear in a single motion picture, are prominent figures in "Beau Geste," which opened at the Belle Theatre yesterday.

The riders are western cowboys and Indians who appear as Touaregs of the African Deserts in this thrilling mystery story of the French Legion. According to Lieut. Louis Van den Ecker, former legionaire who served as technical adviser to Director Herbert Brenon, the desert horsemen, although famous for their skill in stirrups, cannot surpass the riders of the West.

The Touaregs, noted as warriors, wear long white robes and veils, so it was easy for the western riders to impersonate them.

After the interior scenes of "Beau Geste" had been made at the Paramount studio in Hollywood, Brenon established a camp of 2000 men for a three month stay on the Arizona Desert where the exterior episodes were made.

REGENT THEATRE

Bebe Daniels has done it again! The fascinating Bebe has not only scored another triumph but has given us a new proof of her versatility. In her latest Paramount picture "Senorita" which opened yesterday at the Regent Theatre, Bebe appears in a City-ritzy different role.

"Senorita" is unquestionably one of the best things that Bebe Daniels has done for in this picture Bebe has had an opportunity that surpasses any she has had in her recent pictures. In the first place the story was written especially for her, and in it she is said to realize an ambition of several years standing.

"Pat," said the lecturer, "is essential to good entertaining. I once dined at a house where the hostess had no fact. Opposite me was a modest quiet man.

Suddenly he turned as red as a lobster on hearing his hostess say to her husband. "How inattentive you are, Charlie! You must look after Mr. Brown better. He's helping himself to everything."

GIANTS SPLIT WITH BRAVES IN DOUBLEHEADER

58,000 Watched Giants Benefit; Cards Held Cubs

New York, Sept. 6.—While the biggest crowd of all time at the Polo Grounds sobbed one minute and chirped gleefully the next, the Giants wrested an even break from the rambunctious Braves yesterday and are now only a game out of first place in the red hot pennant race going on in John Heydler's National League.

About 58,000 folks literally battered a stormy path into the Brush Stadium and at least 18,000 others were jammed in a hopeless mass outside the park, unable to move a hand or foot. Mounted police were called to quench to untangle the citizens.

The "L" platforms were also a swaying, seething mass of humanity. It was the largest baseball crowd in the history of the Giant ball club World's series or otherwise and when the last square inch had been packed by the onrushing mob, the gates were closed early in the first game. Thousands of citizens stood there and four deep in the aisles and runways, and at the rear of the stand. Everywhere you looked there was nothing but spectators, packed shoulder to shoulder.

Ralph Aveson was completely cluttered up with wild eyed folks, and when the game was timed, the consensus was so terrific that mounted police were rushed to the scene, similar operations prevailed on the speedway.

The fans groaned and cheered by turns as the Giants lost the first game, 3 to 1, and were well on way toward losing the second one, only to rally in the sixth and tie the score. George Harper's second homer of the game put them ahead in the seventh, but the Braves tied it up again in the eighth which made it necessary for Jack Cummings to sock a two bagger with two out in the ninth to win the decision 9 to 8.

Although playing some of the most ragged baseball ever seen, the Giants managed to gain a game on the Pirates, who apparently were even a little bit worse than the. McGraw men with Pittsburgh losing a doubleheader, the Giants had a golden chance to jump into a tie for the lead, but all hope vanished in the first game when the Braves brought the Giants ten game winning streak to a measurably end.

The Cincinnati Reds tightened up their grip already chewy National League pennant race yesterday by taking both ends of a double-header at Pittsburgh, whittling down the slender hold of the Corsairs on first place. The Reds took the opening game, 8 to 5, and the afternoon go went 4 to 3.

The Pirates outhit the visitors in both games, but the Reds connected with the ball when hit counted, generally after operators misplays by the Pittsburgh infield.

Bixley and Donohue were the winning pitchers.

Milhus, Cvengros, Hill and Dawson looked for the Pirates in the first game while Meadows went the entire route in the afternoon.

Jesse Haines' straight pitching shut out the Cubs in the afternoon game of the Chicago double-header and St. Louis won, 2 to 0. The Cubs hammered out a victory over the Cardinals, 6 to 1, in the morning combat.

An overflow crowd yesterday afternoon saw the Chief downfall. Chick Hafey drove two balls into the crowd for doubles and each paved the way for a Cardinal run With Frisch on base, Hafey drove him home, with a double. In the seventh Hafey got his second two-bagger, went to third on an infield out, and trotted home on Rush's wild pitch.

The Phillies registered a double triumph over the Robins at Brooklyn, 8 to 1 and 7 to 1, Cy Williams stretching his home-run total to 26 by clouting for the circuit in each game. Ulrich held Brooklyn scoreless until the ninth in the opener, while she shoot kept 11 hits well distributed in the after-piece. Brooklyn used four pitchers in the second tray. Holloman finally collier upon Vance to finish after the Phillies had reached Donk, Pilli and Ehrhardt.

Hunting Army to Invade North Woods

THE SHOOTING STARS

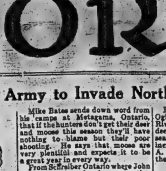

The enormous increase in the sport of deer hunting has resulted not in the vanishing of the deer but in the increase of deer. This is not as mysterious as it sounds. The more men penetrate the wilds the fewer wolves remain. The driving out of wolves has been the greatest factor in the increase of deer. But there is another factor almost as important as the wolves. The invasion of the backwoods by an army of enlightened sportsmen has demanded a much stricter and more sporting regard for game laws than was the custom some years ago. Destruction of deer whether human or animal, have to deal with a stern and more or less organized public opinion.

Good Hunting News

Reassuring news has been coming in daily to the offices of the general tourist department of the Canadian Pacific Railway Company from operators of camps, guides outfitters and others who report that all signs point to an unusually promising hunting season for the current year.

Mike Bates sends down word from his camps at Metagama, Ontario, that if the hunters don't get their deer and moose this season they'll have nothing to blame but their poor shooting. He says that moose are very plentiful and expects it to be a great year in every way.

From Bellwater Ontario where John Handel, outfitter has been operating the reports are just as reassuring. Handel reports that the game has increased in the Superior Game Reserve.

HAULING THE MOOSE

serve, south of the C.P.R. line and the surplus has crossed to the north of the tracks offering good hunting. He says that caribou are roaming the woods in large numbers, and as the C.P.R. line is the north boundary of the game preserve hunters don't have to go very far for their quarry.

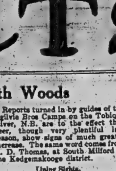

The new Lake Penage camp of Lake Penage south west of Sudbury is also ready for the hunting season. Deer here are reported to be very plentiful and sport should be excellent.

Reports turned in by guides of the Ogilvie Iron Camps on the Tobique River, N. B. are to the effect that deer, though very plentiful last season, show signs of much greater increase. The same word comes from A. D. Thomas, at South Milford in the Kedgemakoogee district.

Living Sights.

Should you follow the deer with your sights or set your sights ahead of the deer and let him come on them?

Well, the army training which now-a-days has been taught them to consider the second system the better. Lewis gunners firing on moving targets are taught to throw a burst ahead of the mark, to see where it struck, and then let the target move onto the line of fire. Trying to follow a jumping deer in all its excited movement is harder, probably, than trying to guess a spot that the deer will pass by, say an opening in the brush on which to have time to lay your sights sharp and true. For casual shooters to get a little practice with their rifles a method of letting the deer run on sights already set is regarded as the most successful.

DELORO TO MEET PETERBORO HERE

Semi-Finals of O. B. A. A. Played in Belleville Tomorrow

Baseball fans in this city and district will get a glimpse of two of the fastest teams in this section of the country, when the Peterboro Crescents and eDloro Smelters hook up at the Belleville Exhibition Park at 3:30 p. m. The Deloro team won the first game at home by a 8 to 7 score, but the Crescents have the tables at Riverside Park and consequently a third game was made necessary and by mutual arrangements between the two teams it was ecided to stage the deciding fixture in Belleville.

The Crescents disposed of the other contenders in the Peterboro City League but they ran up against a snag in the Deloro clan.

The bitterest of rivalry exists between the two teams and baseball fans should not pass up this stirring encounter as it is likely to be the best game of the season on the local lot.

OBth teams have a number of fol-lowers who will be present in large numbers and a keen contest is promised. .

There are only four remaining teams in the Intermediate O.B.A.A. series and both Deloro and Peterboro are hoping to climb into the finals.

The O.B.A.A. will likely appoint either Toronto or Kingston officials.

Dayton, Provincial Intermediate Champions last year are hoping to retain their laurels and Peterboro are hoping to wrest them away.

Deloro, who lead the uQinte League all season, tasted defeat into the discard and have since disposed of Hazelrod and other teams.

Game called at 3.30 p.m.

"GAS" SUBSTITUTE VITAL

Detroit, September 6. Production of a substitute for gasoline is the most vital subject facing chemistry according to a report of J. B. Hill of Philadelphia, prepared for presentation to the national automotive symposium of the American Chemical Society, which convened here yesterday "While there is no immediate prospect of shortage of gasoline, it is nevertheless certain," the report said, "that the petroleum resources of the world are not inexhaustible and that the time will come when we will have to use some course of motor fuel to supplement or replace gasoline."

BEAVERS DEFEAT TORONTO PLANTERS

Toronto, Sept. 6 — "Planters" girls failed to stop the Belleville Beavers, champions of the Bay of Quinte League in an exhibition game on Monday morning at Viaduct Park. The eleven Belleville team played an excellent game while the "Planters" were not in their regular form and gave a mid display of softball. The Beavers scored 22 runs and held the peanut girls scoreless for six innings, when Fox of the "Planters" started a rally by hitting a homer with Hughes on base. Whalen caught an exhellent game while O'Neil at first and Rook in the field for Beavers played snappy ball. Fox and Pritchard were the outstanding players for the peanut girls, both hitting home runs.

TORONTO BREAKS EVEN; 2ND. GAME TAKEN BY STARS

Small Crowd Witnessed the Two Games at Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 6 — Toronto and Syracuse broke even in their double-header yesterday. With Sorrell pitching at his best, the Leafs won the morning game 1 to 0, Alexander's triple and Sorrell's sacrifice fly accounting for the lone run of the game. Sorrell struck out twelve Stars.

Haid held the Leafs to four hits in the afternoon and Syracuse won, 5 to 0. Doyle was hit in the third inning, the Stars scoring three runs before he was relieved by Faulkner.

Joe Brown, Syracuse second-baseman, hit Faulkner for a home-run in the seventh inning with the bases unoccupied.

Only about 6,000 witnessed the two games.

MONTEAL BOOKS SAFE FROM FIRE

Fireproof Book Racks, Doors and Windows Being Installed

Montreal, Sept. 6.—One hundred and ten thousand books, constituting Montreal's largest public library, are now being safeguarded against the menace of fire. For over 40 years since the Fraser Institute library was founded, the fire danger has existed, greatly retarding its expansion. At present the library is closed while fire proof book racks, doors and windows are being installed. It will not be again open to the public for over two months.

Despite the fact that the Fraser Institute Library has always labored long supported entirely by endowment, under a heavy financial handicap, to it now stands well in the head of all Montreal's libraries. In number and value of volumes it is far ahead of the Montreal Municipal Library which accomplex pahalial quarters on Sherbrook street.

Monsieur Pierre B. de Crevecoeur, Fraser Institute for over 30 years, is who has been in command, is the an enthusiastic bibliophile, a cult to whom books are an abiding passion as well as a source of income. He takes a personal pride in each of the volumes under his care and has its history at his fingertips.

Because of the manner of its development, the Fraser Institute has an unusual number of valuable books dug out of print, its collection of Canadiana alone numbers 6,000, and it also boasts a large collection of art books.

Many of the most interesting volumes have been inherited from earlier libraries. Thus when the library was founded in 1886 it acquired the books of the Montreal Library, then refunct after a life of 10 years. Later it was increased by the collections of the Mercantile Library Association and L'Institute Canadien, the last-named being of particular importance.

An honored place in this collection is accorded to a number of handsomely bound volumes presented to the Institute by Prince Jerome Napoleon, a nephew of the first Napoleon, when on a visit to Canada. These books are richly embossed in gold and bear the prince's monogram.

Private collections which have greatly swelled the library of the Fraser Institute were bequeathed by the late G. H. R. Mortimer, Judge Torrence and Robertson Macaulay. A single volume from the collection of Judge Torrence recently brought a price of 42,000 francs when sold at auction in Paris.

Monsieur de Crevecoeur points out that individual book collectors have been chary of bequeathing their treasures to the Fraser Institute because of the lack of protection against fire provided by the old building and wood slats on shelves. Now that every safeguard is assured to the books, he hopes that bequests will be more frequent.

"Persons who loved their books naturally did not like to think of their being tip in smoke," remarked the librarian. "In consequence they left their collections to the McGill University Library, which is not public. They need now no longer hesitate to help the Fraser Institute to obtain the Fraser Institute, while his open to all the citizens of Montreal."

When it opens in November the Fraser Institute will boast a Juvenile Department which has long been one of Monsieur de Crevecoeur's favorite dreams.

MUSKRAT LANDS BOOM

Regina, Sept. 6. —Applications for leases on "muskrat-farm land" are pouring into the Provincial Department of Agriculture, game and fisheries branch, at the rate of more than a dozen a day. The number of applications now in the hands of the Department total more than 600. The flood of applications resulted from the interest aroused by the late provincial conference which was called with a view to drawing up a set of regulations governing "muskrat farming," which would be uniform for the Prairie Province. Muskrats pelts, it is stated, are among the most valuable now being raised in the Dominion.

CONVICTS BREAK FROM PRISON

Philadelphia, Sept. 6. — Two convicts who escaped from the Eastern State penitentiary here last night after knocking a guard from a 30-foot wall were still at large today. The guard, Floyd Reynolds, was critically injured in the fall and but little hope was held for his recovery.

Connecting the vast rich areas of Northern Ontario with the staid and settled southern part of the province a good motor road has been laid through what was but a year or two ago a trackless wilderness. These views show different interesting spots on the new Ferguson highway. The top left picture is a typical scene on the shores of Log Lake. Top left is seen the big bug which was the first motor coach to traverse the new highway between North Bay and Kirkland Lake mining district. It is seen entering the gate which marks the beginning of the new road. Here permits must be secured and all tourists registered as a precaution against forest fires. Lower left is the picturesque way of marking dangerous turns on the Ferguson highway. A skull and cross bones strategically placed shod kt act as a deterrent to speeding motorists. Lower right is the cabin of part of the construction gang who laid the road. The entire cabin which is tripe finished was made from materials cut in the forest close by.

18,000 NORTHERNERS CAPTURED

Shanghai, Sept. 6. — Ten thousand Northern Chinese troops are reported on reliable authority to have been captured by the Nationalist forces at Nanking. They will probably be sent to Shanghai and there to Hangchow for incorporation into the Nationalist army. General Sun Chuan-fang, the Northern commander, who has apparently evacuated Pukow, across the Yangtze from Nanking, is concentrating his forces at Tsingchow, on the north bank of the Yangtze estuary.

BROOKLYN COURT BOMBED

New York, September 6. — A bomb explosion that rocked the Brooklyn skyscraper district early today cracked the walls and shattered windows in the Brooklyn Supreme Court building and the Hall of Records. No one was injured.

In the block adjoining these two buildings are the new $2,000,000 Municipal Building, the Borough Hall, the Brooklyn Eye and Ear Hospital. The Kings County Savings House is located two blocks away. None of these buildings was damaged. Discovery of pieces of an iron pipe and a spring in the alleyways convinced authorities that the blast was caused by a time bomb.

N. DAKOTA TOWN THREATENED

Armour, S. D., September 6. — The business district of Armour was threatened this morning by a fire that caused damage that was estimated at $200,000. Three lumber yards were burned. Lightning was believed to have started the fire.

BOAT TAKES FIRE SEVERAL MAY DIE

Vancouver, Sept. 6.—One person is missing, one seriously burned and may not recover, and a number suffered burns more or less serious injury and property damages estimated at more than fifteen thousand dollars was done when the power yacht Sutil, owned by R. Whitelaw, of this city, was destroyed by fire yesterday, just prior to the start of the championship sailing race between Major Goodwin and Bert Barry. Whitelaw's daughter, Joan, aged nine, is missing, and it is feared she met death and Mrs. Hugh Davis is in the hospital suffering from burns and shock from which she may not recover.

MOTOR EXPLODES TWO ARE DROWNED

Winnipeg, Sept. 6.—Following an explosion in a small power boat at Sandy Hook, Lake Winnipeg, yesterday, W. S. King, a prominent Winnipeg grain broker, was drowned. His wife and daughter were rescued from the water in an exhausted condition while two young sons swam to shore. Mrs. King's condition is reported as serious. The explosion of the outboard motor set fire to the boat and in an endeavor to extinguish the flames the boat was capsized throwing the occupants into the lake. The two young lads, Donald, ten, and William, eight, struck out for shore while a 15-year-old girl clung to the overturned boat and assisted her mother until both were rescued.

SULPHUR BEST TO CLEAR SKIN

Any breaking out or skin irritation on face, neck or body is overcome quickly by applying Mentho-Sulphur, says noted skin specialist. Because of its keen destroying properties, nothing has ever been found to take the place of his sulphur preparation that instantly stops ease from the itching, burning and irritation.

Mentho-Sulphur heals eczema right off, leaving the skin clear and smooth. It seldom fails to relieve the torment of ringworm. A little jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur may be obtained at any drug store.

OLD GLORY JUST ANOTHER TRAGIC MYSTERY OF SEA

Court Finds No Blame Attached To Colonel Marsh In Accident---"Carling" Takes The Long Jump

COLONEL MARSH GIVEN ACQUITTAL IN POLICE COURT

Magistrate Mikel Rules That Both Parties to Accident To Blame

NO RECKLESS DRIVING

Says That Glover Could Have Avoided Crash in Two Ways

Colonel Lorne W. Marsh, charged with reckless and furious driving, causing actual bodily harm, was absolutely exonerated from all blame by Magistrate W. C. Mikel in Police Court today. Mr. Mikel distributed the blame evenly between both parties to the smash. What the Colonel did may have been invlve of a mistake, by negligence, but it could not be said to be the crime of recklessness, reads Mr. Mikel's report. He is satisfied that there was doubt as to Marsh's speed. No evidence of intoxication was advanced in the case.

Mikel's Decision

The proceedings of this case to the Court Rise been characterized by skill and thoroughness on both sides, and the Provincial Officers have been specially helpful by their efforts in assembling the facts with perfect impartiality. The Crown Attorney has presented the case with vigor, and the Counsel for accused has been clear and terse in presenting the defence.

On July 13th last, about 8 o'clock in the afternoon, accused was driving his automobile on the Foxboro road in a northerly direction, on his way from Madoc to Belleville. Mr. Glover was driving his automobile in the same direction and on the same road from Belleville in a northerly direction. The automobiles collided at a point in the road a distance southerly from Foxboro. They seemed had driven around a bend or curve in the road and in doing so swung to his left or east side of the road; that is to the outer edge of the track or curve, by what is known as the natural swing of the automobile. Accused proceeded on his way side for a short distance, and he then turned back into his right or west side of the road. Mr. Glover seeing accused's automobile coming on the same side of the road as himself, decided to drive his car onto his wrong or west side and did so at about the same time that the accused was turning his automobile back into his (accused's) right side. The collision resulted. Mr. Glover had three cars at one open in front after he saw the accused's automobile on the east or wrong side: (1) stop his automobile; (2) continue driving on his right side, (3) turn to his wrong side and collide. (3) turn to his wrong side and collide. Mr. Glover had us driving there. Mr. Glover had chosen the 1st or 2nd course there would have been no collision.

He chose the 3rd course, turned to his wrong side of the road and the collision followed.

Counsel for both sides agree that, as the law stands, it is not a violation of Section 285 of the Criminal Code and Amendments thereto for accused to be on what is commonly called the "wrong side" of the road.

Reves on Evidence, p. 542, says:—"The mere fact of a man driving on the wrong side of the road is not in itself evidence of negligent driving.

"If the road is of sufficient breadth it is incumbent on a person coming the other way to take that course which would carry him clear of the person who was on the wrong side."

The road in question was 26 feet in breadth, a good road for four cars abreast to travel in safety. Being on the wrong side could not therefore be regarded as a violation of Section 285 of the Code. This conclusion that the law may be regretted but the Court can only deal with the law as it is.

Counsel also agree that the law as appears in Section 285 of the Code under which the prosecution is laid does not say that the Court is to convict accused merely on a finding of negligence. Something more must be established. This section requires not

SIR JOHN CARLING TAKES DARING LEAP ACROSS THE ATLANTIC OCEAN

KEPT SECRET

Navigators of "Carling" Did Not Know of "Old Glory's" Fate

Harbor Grace, Sept. 7.—The fliers on the Sir John Carling had not been informed of "Old Glory's" S.O.S. when they took off. Local authorities however had inserted a memo describing details of "Old Glory's" distress call in the flier's map case where it would be found when they opened the case to use their charts.

Harbor Grace, Nfld., Sept. 7.—The plane "Sir John Carling" bound from London, England, to Canada, Raymond hopped off from the aerodrome here at 7.25 a.m. today "Eastern Standard Time."

The plane took the air easily. Just before the take off, Thomas Hors of coffee were put aboard. The Carling fliers had received a request last night from Phil Wood that they await the arrival of Wood and Duke Schiller on the plane "Royal Windsor" before starting across the Atlantic but they decided that in order to get the "jump" on the winds or curve, by what is known as the natural swing of the earth. Accused proceeded on his wrong side for a short distance, and he then turned back into his right or west side of the road. Mr. Glover seeing accused's automobile coming on the same side of the road as himself, decided to drive his car onto his wrong or west side and did so at about the same time that the accused was turning his automobile back into his (accused's) right side. The collision resulted. Harbor Grace, Sept. 7.—Royal Windsor, Maine, Sept. 7.—The "Royal Windsor" soared gracefully into the air to resume its trans-Atlantic flight Englandward at 4.35 o'clock this morning and as the touch of dawn was lining the eastern skies headed its nose toward Harbor Grace, Nfld., its next stop. Take-off was perfect. The giant monoplane rose without effort after a short run and after a brief circuit of the harbor raced to sea.

Wood and Schiller estimated they would reach Newfoundland in between eight and nine hours. They would take on additional fuel and their hop-off for England would be made at the first favorable opportunity.

Arrived At Harbor Grace

Harbor Grace, Sept. 7.—Royal Windsor arrived here at 1.50 p.m. after flying from Old Orchard, Maine. It will be refuelled here and leave soon for England.

OUTLINES PLANS

Immigration no Future to Be On Much Stricter Basis

Washington, Sept. 7.—A new program of amendments to immigration and naturalization laws is being worked out by experts in the Labor Department in anticipation of action upon that subject in next Congress.

Secretary of Labor Davis, returning today from an inspection of border operations, outlined his plans to his assistants and announced that immigration in future, if he has his way, will be on a much stricter basis.

Changes Proposed

Changes in the law to be proposed include:

Revision of quota law so as to smooth out present difficulties with Canada and permit Canadian aliens to work in American border cities such as Detroit and Buffalo without undue hardship.

Widening of the plan now being put into effect for examination of prospective immigrants abroad so they may be given extensive psychological tests, physical examinations and a proper inquiry as to whether or not they will be able to find employment after they reach their country.

Immigration of preachers which would reduce deportations rather than increase them by improving the class of immigrants and by selecting desirables from aliens already illegally in the country so that they may remain here.

Additional funds are to be sought for the immigration border patrol and it is planned to develop a secret service which will break up alien smuggling.

FIVE LASHES FOR ERRING HUSBAND

Erstwhile Barber Goes to Jail as Well For Non-Support

Sidney Twining, at one time a barber of this city, but recently working in Trenton, appeared in the local Police Court to-day charged with non support.

Twining claimed that her husband had not given her any money since February, and that she found it very hard to get along, although she had one or two boarders.

Twining, in his own defense said that his wife wouldn't let him come in the house, that he had offered to sell her a home and a new lovesuit for his spouse elsewhere.

It was then that things started to go badly for Twining. His previous records were brought into the Court room and he had a long, continued story, drunk charges, and assaulting his wife charges.

3 Years Suspended

It developed that Twining was out on 3 years suspended sentence, on one charge, and two years on another, none of which sentences had expired.

Magistrate Mikel sentenced the erstwhile barber to spend the forthcoming thirty days in the County Jail. At the end of seventy days Twining is to receive five lashes, which will probably be the worst part of the whole sentence. Upon his release he is to pay his wife $7.50 a week support money, and has to pay the $7.50 to-day, surrendering which amount to approximately $25.00.

Britishers Says Press Failed To see Humor of Address

Toronto, Sept. 7. — Lord Hewart's recent criticism, of the press was not at all so sweeping or unattractive as Canadian newspapers have viewed it in the columns of the press of the British newspaper society, who have just examined the verbatim report of Lord Hewart's address before the Toronto Service Clube a few days ago. "I think you have failed to see the humor in his address" John King, President said today. "This is no attack on the press. It is simply a criticism of certain elements of the press, certain sensational elements that are well known to newspapermen. He points out in his address that there is a better side to newspapers, too. He says: 'Nevertheless there is much good.' Nevertheless other members of the party are not sure that Lord Hewart's 'attack' should be overlooked. Sir Richard Winfrey, managing director of the Peterboro Advertiser, challenges Lord Hewarts view that it is abnormal, rather than normal, to watch people are interested and to which the papers give space. He also quotes Lord Hewart's statement that the law was generous to newspapers. Arthur Camut of Blackpool thought that there was nothing wrong with tendency to magnify one or few power ful newspaper views.

AMERICANS BUY MANITOBA TRACT

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 7.—The purchase of sixteen quarter-sections of land, involving $56,225, was the result of the visit of a party of land seekers from Nebraska and Kansas to the Basin, Tyner Valley and Snipe Lake Districts in Saskatchewan, over the week-end.

This information was divulged today by Hon. C. B. Boyd, Superintendent of Colonization for the Canadian National Railways. Mr. Boyd accompanied the party West. A number of other deals, he said, were pending.

Monoplane "Old Glory" Sends "S. O. S." Message Early This Morning

NO TRACE

Liners Rush to Spot But Fail to Locate Plane Search Continues

New York, Sept. 7.—A hasty search of the lonely mile area around the estimated spot in the North Atlantic from which the monoplane "Old Glory" sent its dramatic S.O.S. shortly before dawn today has failed to find the plane and its three occupants. The hunt has not turned to the spot where the plane was sighted last.

Capt. David Rose, Master of the liner "Transylvania" whose wireless picked up the S.O.S. at 5.17 a.m. Eastern Standard time, quickly estimated the position of "Old Glory at the time the S.O.S. was sent. He and the Transylvania ploughing through high south seas and fresh winds, circled about the spot, but saw nothing. Having scrapped the area from which the Capt. Rose then sent his wireless S.O.S. was believed to have been sent, the liner's course in the east was upon the Cunarder-Anchor Liner California sighted "Old Glory" then in the Atlantic speeding toward Rome at 100 miles an hour, at 11.57 E. S. T. last night.

100 Miles Out

New York, Sept. 7.—The wireless S. O. S. from the monoplane "Old Glory" sent out during the early morning hours today when she was apparently some five hundred miles from Newfoundland on her trip from Old Orchard, Maine to Rome sent flares and wireless racing for her rescue. Old Glory cry for help which was picked up by several transatlantic liners ships and by the Radio Corporation of America was sent out at 5.30 o'clock today Greenwich Mean time, beyond the fact that her crew of three adventurous aviators, Lloyd Hertzel, James Mill and Phillip Payne were in the grip of some tragic happening over trackless wastes of water, no details were given.

Within a few minutes of the receipt of the S. O. S. several ships, sharing the inimitable law of the sea, were rushing under full steam towards the estimated position of the Transatlantic airplane.

Although flares and rockets were sent on "Old Glory," it was thought here they would be of little service to those on the water, by reason of fog here, arcnaught officials continue to be optimistic about the ultimate success of the flight. The fact that the S. O. S. was received, officials asserted proved that the machine still the good end

CONTESTS FOR MEN

Our American neighbors with their passion for novelty have at last hit upon an idea, beauty contests for men that is so new that its origin is lost in the mists of pagan antiquity. The people of Chicago, in very early times held beauty contests for men as part of their yuletide games. The winners were called chuzzlehorns, that is, gold beaters, presumably on the ground that they talked kwy with the money. Ladies kate, always favored upon beauty contests for girls. In ancient Greece some of the girls who did not keep very especially free, being subject to jealousy and bitter rivalry, organized beauty contests among themselves. And with little humor they called the vases chrysophone, which forthwith came to mean something very much akin to what "gold digger" means today. Brains, who were by no means lacky as he could, and who made method a very sour alderman, did not like the careless manner in which the girls wasted gold for the ornamentation of their heels and hands. In those days gold was regarded as a precious metal for it played a useful role in the salt fish trade and in the purchase of wheat. So Solon wrote a law wasting it an offense for a girl to adorn herself with golden garments and with Syrian purple and with other stuffs which might attract to her more attention than she deserved. That the girls persisted; history relates with the vanishing ear that Solon was forced to nully the hard, liquid character of gold and men, particularly gentlemen, have sternly refused to wear earrings, tiaras and other devices which might create the impression that they were gay fellows.

Naturally, also, beauty contests for men fall into grave disrepute among the modest sex, which, it should hardly be necessary to explain, is the feminine sex. Therefore, in spite of the fact that the masculine body is, oh, ever so much more decorative than the feminine, it is hard to believe, that beauty contests for men will ever become very popular again. Men, really do not like to place themselves in a position where they will arouse the critism of persons who are afflicted with a sense of humor.

EARLIER WHEAT

It is a time of anxiety in the west. A large proportion of the wheat crop remains to be cut, and a sudden frost would cause damage representing many millions of dollars in value. It is always so at this time of the year. Quite as much as the airmen, the western farmers are dependent upon the weather.

Early in the century the danger from frost and late rust was reduced by the creation of a new variety of wheat by Dr. Saunders at the Dominion Experimental farm—the far-famed Marquis wheat, which not only surpasses the Red Fife and other standard varieties in quality, but has the great advantage of ripening several days sooner, thus lessening the danger from early frost. It also makes possible the cultivation of wheat further north. Recently another variety was developed at the Dominion Experimental farm—the Garnet, which has the merit of ripening ten days sooner than Marquis; but it is said to be inferior in milling quality to Marquis, and therefore is not likely to supplant it.

AN OLD NURSE

Within the cradle of her arm
Today I had a peep;
A madcap child, all sung and warm,
Therein was fast asleep.

I gazed upon her furrowed face,
Set with kind eyes of grey,
And thought how in that safe embrace
Two generations lay

What wonder if her weary head
Should think of resting now?
Come back then, all her brood, far-sped,
And crown her queenly brow

But after-years too oft beget
Ingratitude, alas!

QUARREL OVER S. A. FLAG ON

Cape Town, South Africa, Sept. 7.—(By Canadian Press)— In connection with the controversy in South Africa over the new national flag that has been proposed by the present government, and which question is to be submitted to a referendum next January, Hon. F. W. Beyers, Minister of Mines and Industries, in an interview asserts that Gen. the Right Hon. Jan Christian Smuts, former Premier and present leader of the South African party in the House of Assembly, advocated a Union flag in which the Union Jack did not appear when he was premier. Mr. Beyers however qualifies his assertion by saying: "Both at any rate was the spirit of his (Premier Smuts') utterances and suggestions, and so they were construed."

The Nationalist and Flag Bill provides for a new flag that should be distinctively South African, which was first introduced in the House of Assembly over a year ago by the government of Gen. J. A. B. Hertzog. Premier, then withdrawn and reintroduced in the Assembly a few months ago, was passed by the Assembly but reject ed by the Senate and now, as stated, will be voted upon in a referendum in January, 1928. The actual date of the referendum, however, has not yet been decided upon. The flag bill submitted by Mr. Beyers provides for a statement that the Senate rejected provided for the inclusion in the flag of the Union Jack, occupying only one-sixtieth part of the whole flag, and this was accepted in the flag bill sent in to South Africa. As originally drafted the bill did not contain the Union Jack at all.

Hon. Mr. Beyers, statement as to General Smuts' attitude on the flag question a few years ago when the Smuts government was in power on the Union Jack question. During the controversy that has raged in the country in the days of all the members of the flag bill last year, Former Premier Smuts has strongly opposed the bill because it made no provision for the inclusion of the Union Jack at first, and finally, when forced to accept it, stated that that should occupy only one-sixtieth part of the flag.

Hon. Mr. Beyers claims that the question of a flag for South Africa is essentially a domestic matter for South African affairs to decide and to solve, and in this he is understood to be voicing the views of all the members of the Hertzog Government and the Government's supporters in the Assembly. Mr. Beyers points out that the flag has recognized as far back as 1921, it was the Union, an open secret, and was omitted by General Smuts, who was then Prime Minister, and who later advanced the writing important proposals or suggestions on the status of the British Empire, that the question of a distinctive flag for the Union of South Africa in connection with the Imperial Conference of 1921, although General Smuts did not actually make those proposals formerly.

WRITERS CHOOSE MARITIMES AS STUDY LOCATION

Woodstock, N. B., Sept. 6. (By Canadian Press) — It is nationally recognised that New Brunswick authors have contributed more than their share to the Nation's school of Canadian literature and that they have always obtained the material for their stories at first hand.

The unexcelled opportunities which the interior of New Brunswick offers for wilderness tramping and observation of forest life have contributed largely to this end. Its native writers make it their business as well as their recreation to spend a good part of the year in the back country, well away from towns and railways and the hectic scurry of human existence. Those of them who have been drawn far afield by the exigencies of their profession make frequent pilgrimages to the source of inspiration.

Prominent among the New Brunswickers who have recently won literary distinction is Dr. George Frederick Clark, of Woodstock, who has published four books within the past two years and has at present back a large amount of material ready for publication. While taking an active part in the community life of Woodstock, his native town, Dr. Clark takes care to keep in communication with the wild crress by maintaining a log camp on the headwaters of the Aroostook, which stretch north for 200 miles to the Bay of Chaleur.

Dr. Clark's retreat is separated by a portage of scarcely 7rom Millinem, the nearest community, and even to ubiqui tous automobile cannot assail its stronhold, for it is several minutes' tramp from the road. It is built on the style of the lumberjacks' camp, consisting of one large, low apartment, with bunks built out from the four walls and a massive stone fireplace as the centre manet design than those provided by the bunks. The bunks, which alone per-Mr. Pullman, accomodate 12 persons at capacity, as that not only the authors family, but those of his friends with a taste for the primitive may enjoy the camp's hospitality.

No more happy spot could have been selected for the study of wild animals in their native environs. Through the still night air the call of the moose may be heard across the water, the barking of foxes, the scurrying stir of the more primitive wild life of the wilderness ollsens.

Unspoiled forest and barren sweeps are not to be found far into the north. A few yards' stroll and one is surrounded by it. Dr. Clark, being an experienced woodsman, knows how to take full advantage of such fortuitous circumstances. He has learned through experience the art of observation, sportsman as well as writer, woods life has held his interest unswerving for many years.

Under those circumstances it is not to be wondered at that his backwoods studies are winning the appreciation of the critics, for their truth as well as for their pleasing style. Dr. Clarke has the gift of humor and in addition to the four books which he has recently published, he has also animal stories ready for publication.

TURKISH OFFICIALS NOW EAT COFFEE

Constantinople, Turkey, Sept. 7.—Turkish government officials, hard hit by the decree issued last year that there should be no more coffee drinking during office hours, have taken to eating it instead.

In place of the little egg-shell cups which used to be filled a dozen times a day with the thick black syrup so dear to the Oriental palate, every desk is now supplied with a box of powdered coffee, a box of sugar and a spoon. There is no law against putting a spoonful of coffee in one's mouth, and next a spoonful of sugar and then taking a drink of water.

2 FINE PAPERS ON MANGANESE

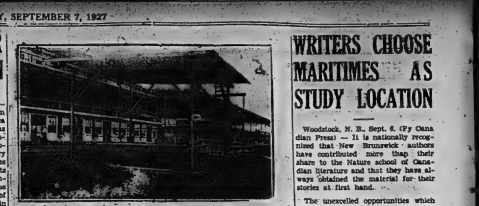

Sydney, N.S., Sept. 7.Two papers were prepared by Sir Robert Hadfield the distinguished English metallurgist, for the meeting of the Empire Mining and eMtallurgical Congress to be held at Sydney, N.S., Sept. 9, but the author himself was unfortunately not able to come to Canada to attend the meeting.

Sir Robert is perhaps best known as the discoverer and inventor of manganese steel. The actual discovery dates from 1882, but it was not announced until 1888, in a classic paper read before the Institution of Civil Engineers, London, England. It is not too much to say that the discovery revolutionized the steel-making industry, and as a result manganese ore has become indispensable.

Sir Robert showed that the British Empire possesses large resources in such ores—larger in fact than those of any other country. The deposits are mainly in India and Africa (Gold Coast), production from which in 1925 was respectively 710,000 tons and 332,000 tons of high-grade ore. Russia (Georgia) with 513,000 tons, and Brazil with 207,000 tons, are the other two large manganese-ore deposits are such ores—larger in fact than those of any other country. Russia (Georgia) with 513,000 tons, and Brazil with 207,000 tons, are the other two large manganese-ore deposits are known. Although there was an average production of about 1,500 tons from the Maritime provinces.

Sir Robert's first paper was entitled "Manganese," and was read at the Metal with an Account of the History and Production of Ferro-Manganese." The latter is a generic term for the crude pig metal containing usually about 90 per cent. manganese and 6 or 7 per cent. carbon. In connection with this carbon Sir Robert made the very interesting statement that it is a curious and interesting fact that had the author been able, in the early days of his experimental work, to obtain high-grade ferro-manganese as free from carbon as is now possible, he might in all probability have missed making the discovery of manganese steel"—a discovery which ranks in the same order of importance as the discovery of the effect of quenching on carbon steel. he distinguished characteristic of this manganese steel —which normally contains 12 or 13 per cent manganese—is that it is non magnetic. In his paper Sir Robert pays eloquent tribute to the famous French metallurgist, M. Alexandre Hurtel, who is now 85 years of age, as having been the first to solve the problem of producing ferro-manganese and he also gives credit to the British makers for the way in which they developed this important manufacture. Seven British forms now have a combined capacity to produce 360,000 tons of ferro-manganese per annum.

HUGE FOUNTAIN WAS DEDICATED

Fourteen hundred gallons of water a minute pour from 134 jets, some to a height of 150 feet, at variegated lights, from the amber colored basin to the white topmost spray, play over the whole.

The fountain, modeled after the Latona fountain at Versailles, is the first in which electrol and hydraulic equipment is made use of. A feature is four massive bronze sea horses which were cast in France. Each, more than twenty feet in length, surmounts a pedestal at each end of the main basin.

Controls of the valve system of the fountain are on a keyboard about the size of a pipe organ, and operators may vary the display by manipulating them. During the summer months the fountain will operate from nine o'clock in the morning until ten at night, and it will be on full display an hour at noon and an hour at night on Wednesdays, Saturdays and Sundays.

Miss Kate Buckingham presented the fountain to the people of Chicago in memory of her brother, Clarence Buckingham, a philanthropist, and set aside a trust fund for its maintenance.

Albert Hadfield's other paper. As the result of a very exhaustive research on such alloys he shows that alloys of manganese without carbon do not appear to be of commercial value. In the manufacture of manganese steel there must always be about 1 or 1 1-2 per cent. of carbon present in the steel produced, which is one of the chief reasons for its valuable properties.

Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago photographed on his way to Montreal where he addressed a great Catholic Labor meeting on Labor Day.

The dog's only scar of the fight was a bite above the eye, but because the snake had been venom though striking unsuccessfully many times and because "King" was treated immediately after the fight, he did not suffer from it. According to his owner, "King" has killed twelve rattle snakes this year.

Mrs. W. Groff of Trenton is a sister of the late Samuel Leys Kydd, editor of the Montreal Gazette who recently passed away after fifty years service with that newspaper. Mr. Kydd who was regarded as one of the foremost Editorial writers in Canada had visited Mrs. Groff at various times during his notable career. He broke into the newspaper game with the Lindsay Warder afterwards owned by Sir Sam Hughes. Mr. Kydd had served in almost every capacity from compositor to Editor on the Gazette.

INJURED HAND.

Mr. (Red) Phillips, of the local Bank of Montreal staff, injured his hand over the week-end, when a trap door in the barn of his residence, Campbell Road, fell on his fingers and badly lacerated them. The boy was taken to Dr. J. J. Roberson's surgery and medical attention rendered.

HORSE RAN AWAY.

A horse owned by Herbert Whitfield milk vendor and driven by his wife, took fright on College street this morning about nine o'clock and racing down the street caused considerable excitement by its antics. Mrs. Whitfield had several cases of milk in the buggy she was delivering for her husband and as she stood on the sidewalk talking to Mrs. Vandervoort, a part of the harness loosened and the horse started on a mad gallop down the street. The buggy was forced against a telephone pole and partially demolished. The horse broke away from the vehicle but was finally caught near the Railway bridge. Fortunately the buggy was not upset and the milk remained intact.

PLAY-OFF GAME.

Deloro and Peterboro Crescents are playing off here this afternoon in the semi-finals of the Ontario Amateur Baseball Association. The Deloro Club won the first game but the Peterborough the tables at Riverside Park on Saturday and as a result a third game was arranged in Belleville today. The winners will meet either Port Hope or Kingston.

TOURIST CAMP.

Despite the approach of Autumn weather and cool evenings the number of tourists registering at the local camp has not decreased. Each evening finds a small army encamped on the Dundas Street Ground. Tourists have been more than pleased with the accommodations offered at the Belleville Camp and the only one to appear dissatisfied is the sailor in service along the line is the Camp at Bowmanville.

NO FOUL PLAY.

The relatives of William Stevenson who fell from a tender in the Canadian National yards and suffered some injuries wish to spike any rumors which were current on the street which would lead to the belief that foul play was suspected in the case. A brother stated to The Intelligencer that it was purely accidental, the train which took the apron climbing the coal on the tenders having broken while Stevenson was engaged in re-coaling one of the engines.

SUCCESSFUL FAIR

Mr. R. H. Ketcheson, Secretary of the Belleville Fair, stated to The Intelligencer this afternoon that as yet the Fair Board was not in a position to say whether there would be a surplus from the fair proceeds after all expenses were paid. "The attendance was much larger this year," stated Mr. Ketcheson, "but the expenses were also greater," he added.

WANNAMAKER—DERRY

A quiet but pretty wedding was solemnized at Holy Trinity Church, North Marmora, when Miss Ethel Derry, second daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William St. Derry of Marmora Township became bride of Herbert Roy, only son of Mr. and Mrs. John Wannamaker of Madoc Township. The ceremony performed by the Rector, Rev. A. B. Caldwell, took place at 10 a.m. The bride having been organist of the church for the past two years, the sacred edifice was tastefully decorated in her honor. Interest was also lent to the wedding through the fact that it is the first to take place in that church for twenty-nine years. The bride was given in marriage by her father and wore a blue flat crepe costume trimmed with sand with hat to match. Her bouquet was of sweet blooms, principally gladiolus. Lobergrin's Bridal Chorus was played by Miss Anna Smith of Madoc. Both bride and groom were unattended. A dainty wedding repast was served at the home of the bride at noon. Later in the day the happy couple left for Toronto and other points. Upon their return they will reside in Madoc Township.

negligence alone but "wanton or furious driving "or" racing or wilful neglect or wilful misconduct."

What Marsh, the accused, did may have been unwise or a mistake, it may have been negligence but it could not be said be the crime of recklessness.

It has also been submitted that Marsh, the accused, was travelling too fast. There is a conflict of evidence as to this. Mr. Glover and some others in his car say Marsh was going very fast, and many what might be described as a guess as to the speed. Marsh says he was driving at a moderate speed. Persons in automobiles approaching each other are not in a position to judge speed satisfactorily, even if they have experience. A casual observer cannot always be relied on. A witness called for the prosecution who followed Marsh in an automobile from Madoc to within the scene of the accident, says Marsh was proceeding at a moderate speed. A witness riding in a car in a much better position to judge speed than witnesses in any meeting each other, all say rate there is a reasonable doubt as to the speed. Whatever there may be said as to negligence, which of course is not the issue in this trial, there does not appear to be that "recklessness" contemplated by section 285 of the Code.

I therefore find accused not guilty.

HAVE KIDNEYS EXAMINED BY YOUR DOCTOR

Flush your kidneys by drinking a quart of water each day, also take salts occasionally, says a noted authority, who tells us that too much rich food forms acids which almost paralyze the kidneys in their efforts to expel it from the body. Then you suffer sluggish and weaken; then you may suffer with a dull misery in the kidney region, sharp pains in the back or sick headache, dizziness, your stomach sours, tongue is coated and you have backache or is bad you have rheumatic twinge. The urine gets cloudy, full of sediment, the channels often get irritated, obliged to irritated, obliging you to seek relief two or three times during the night.

To help neutralize these irritating acids, to help cleanse the kidneys and flush off the body's urinous waste, get four ounces of Jad Salts from any pharmacy here, take a teaspoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days, and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate sluggish kidneys; also to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder misery.

TODAYS MARKETS

Market Shows Strength

New York, Sept. 7. — Stock market today gave another demonstration of strength. The average of twenty leading industrial shares was lifted to new record high while the average of twenty leading rails was elevated to around the highest level in the year with several little individual issues breaking through to new high levels for the year, or longer.

A wave of buying for both accounts swept through the market at midday but offerings were not absorbed and the market quickly headed upward again under the leadership of the motor and specialties. The weekly steel trade reviews reported little change in that industry with iron ore competition for pig iron has dropped to 13 with in two cents of lowest level since 1918 Gains in the industrial list ran from one to six point in the active issue although few stocks recorded even larger advances. Several issues also developed in oil, textile, leather, public utility and copper shares.

Expectations of further increase in freight traffic this month attracted new buying into the railroad shares which moved upward under leadership of New York Central. Banks called loans at 5,000,000 in loans buying the morning but call money was easy.

Wheat Moves Up

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Owing a good deal to rains in parts of Canada, and reports indicating that harvesting there, wheat prices averages higher early to-day. Strengthening of quotations at Liverpool counted also as bull factor. Starting unchanged to 3-8c high, August and somewhat sold then hardened again. Corn and oats were also firmer, corn opening at 1-4c off to 3-8c up and subsequently scoring. Provisions had downward trend.

Women's News and Views

HIGHWAY OF GAYETY DETOURS NEAR ALTAR

"Have your fun while you're young!" cries Dotty. I won't think you're going to like her letter. I know I didn't. But I do like Dotty.

Dotty isn't really wicked, or hard. She longs for Romance as ever, by normal girl longs for it; and like every normal girl, she is trying to find the real Romance which will fit her life with happiness. And she honestly in this she has "found the door." She really believes that modern men like their snappy, rather than sweet, and are fascinated by a flippant appearance of sophistication.

Thousands of other young girls are being tricked by the same false doctrine and are headed for inevitable tragedy unless they learn wisdom in time. So I'm going to print Dotty's letter—not in scorn, but with real affection and pity for the eager young heart that is bungling life so badly.

DEAR ELSIE:

Personally, I think it's perfectly all right to kiss, especially where the boy is very attentive. I don't believe in indulging in soul-petting petting styles by any means, but I don't think kissing detracts very much from a girl's soul, certainly no more than from a boy's.

And as for keeping one's lips for Prince Charmin who might come along, who wants to? That same fellow, if he ever comes along, will have kissed so many girls he'll not even think of that part. Even if such a wonderful man did ever appear, unattached to some petter, after the Romance has worn off, you'll only be left with an unshaven, unkempt face to look at over the breakfast dishes (which is the way you'll have to do yourself), and a scrubby lot of dear but careless devil habits.

So why not have your fun now?

Dotty.

Do you think that when Prince Glorious does come he'll know that many girls that he won't care what you have done?

Yes, that sounds fair and reasonable, Dotty." A great many young girls have tripped a merry pace basking in that theory and made their Heroes didn't come, it certainly seemed as if the theory were right. For weren't they the most popular girls in the world? They were. And didn't their Heroes always end that that they were good sports and encourage them to be even more generous with their charms? They did.

But when it came to marriage—

Oh, that was a different matter!

"Good Sports" made wonderful comrades and sweethearts but Prince Charming wasn't so enthusiastic about having one for his wife, or the mother of his babies. Somehow he liked to feel that His Woman was an exclusive she-hus possession—a possession that other men had admired but that no other man had ever cheapened by casual caresses.

Which, of course, was most unfair to the Good Sports with whom he had danced, but after all quite consistent. For who ever saw a young man who didn't want to wear the most fashionable, new clothes, and drive the smartest car, and work for the best house in town and hang up the finest record? And, if he wants all this excellence in other departments of his life, how much more will he demand it in the woman who is to wear his name and bear his babies!

And so the Wonderful Heroes didn't marry the Sport Girls after all, but took quiet, demure little lasses who had hardly a peek at the gay parties where the Good Sports had shone so brilliantly. And the Good Sports went on "having fun while they were young" but behind all the laughter a queer little bitterness grew and grew in their hearts until it seemed to lie like a blight over all their lives.

No, I'm not preaching at you, Dotty, nor am I trying to frighten you. I'm just trying to show you where your philosophy falls down. I admit that it isn't fair for a man to demand a high standard in a woman than he will submit to himself but the fact is that he does demand such a standard and the world backs him in it. And you'll only break your heart if you try to buck the combination.

So laugh a bit and dance your pretty shoes to rags and flirt a little now and then, Dotty, and squeeze all the honey and perfume from the golden comb of youth. But don't drag your party through the dust, or dust, of common experience. DON'T barter your treasure for the bogus coin of cheap popularity.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl eighteen years old. I am afraid to accept a fifteen-year- old boy's proposal because he is so much younger than I am, although he is very grown up for his age. Do you think he is too young to realize what he wants?

AFRAID.

AFRAID: Of course he is too young young to know the meaning of the word love! I strongly advise you, dear, to seek boy friends older than you or at least your own age! You are too young yourself to be seriously concerned about love.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I have been married for nineteen years. William is but two years my sister, who is eighteen years younger than my husband, has never married. He now suggests that we live apart.

What I recognize her as a sister when she is to blame for breaking up our home and ruining my life and that of my kiddies? What would you advise?

A SISTER.

A SISTER: Have you ever had a frank talk with your sister? Have you ever tried to appeal to her finer sensibilities?

Whenever you have talked to her, you have probably lost your temper and said unkind things. Try stating more facts. I am sure she will soon shame her into an understanding of the ruin she is bringing to your child and your husband.

Point out to her that you have given nineteen years of your life to making a home for your children and your husband, that you have worked and slaved to give your children a firm footing in life and that now, because of a purely selfish reason, she is ready to send the whole structure of their lives crashing about their heads. Tell her that she has no right to ruin so many lives in her search for what may prove but a passing happiness for herself. Perhaps in her heart she is young and that she should seek the love and companionship of a man near her age, not that of a man who has the responsibilities of other lives in his keeping.

Make her see that if she persists in breaking up your home and casting the blight of scandal upon your child ren she will one day have to face a bitter conscience. Perhaps by this you may be able to arouse that conscience now, while there is still time to avert a very unnatural state. Indeed, if she should fail to yield to an appeal of the sort I suggest.

Organ Reproduces All Instruments of Symphony

Harry Murtagh Has Found New Popular Use for Church Favorite

Chicago.—When I play a popular number such as "I've Lost All My Love For You," I can make the organ reproduce the violin, the cello and every instrument of a symphony."

This is the boast of Henry Murtagh, world's most popular organist. Mr. Murtagh's admirers claim that under his direction the organ has progressed more in twenty years than during the first half of its 2,000 years of existence put together. New attachments and improvements have followed one another with remarkable rapidity since he undertook to make it the most popular instrument in motion picture theatres.

"There is no reason that I can see why the organ should have had to fight all its days as a solemn cathedral instrument," says Mr. Murtagh.

"Its tones are beautiful for choirs, but after all, why limit its usefulness to Sunday? Of course, it was just an experiment when I began to play it at motion picture theatres. A good many people who laughed at me and called me just another idiot with a crazy scheme. Fortunately, audiences seemed to feel differently about it. If the organ music was missing, they asked what had happened to it.

"Even when jazz was played on it, they were rested and stimulated by its mellow tones. Then I found that it was excellent to lend community singing and nothing brings people more happiness than singing. It is from a study of this I have actually known of cases where when applied regularly, they have swept off the story. The scoffers have become converts—converts of themselves, anyway. And the organ still has a great deal to learn. Developments are coming."

Mr. Murtagh plays at the Chicago Theatre here.

CURSE OF LOVE
by Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 51.

THE POPULAR WIDOW

The dinner-party, with Ada and Major Harcourt as the guests, and J. P. Collins, began rather awkardly.

Ada sensed somehow that the major was rather out of his element with his host. She guessed that he had accepted the invitation merely as a matter of courtesy. Having confessed that he knew no one in the place, he could not very well refuse Collins's invitation on the plea of another engagement.

"Have you been in this country long?" Ada asked Harcourt, in an effort to make conversation.

"Only three days, but this is not my first visit. I have just arrived from China, and as I am a touch of the fever—I got it first in the East, long—so I found the coast climate rather severe. So I came down here for a bit."

"Where were you in America before?" asked Ada.

At this point, Collins began to regale Major Harcourt with an account of his own rise from poverty to financial power. Ada let the two men talk and had dinner in silence, but, out of her eye, she watched Harcourt and decided that he was the most attractive man she had ever met.

"Except Mr. Carson," she thought, with a resigned little sigh. "But then he was so young. The major must be very nearly my age."

She noticed that there were touches of gray in the thinning dark hair at his temples, and that his eyes looked very weary. His expression suggested resignation. He looked like a man who has decided to accept it philosophically.

After dinner, to her surprise, Harcourt suggested that they listen to the orchestral concert in the palm room. He talked to her pleasantly between numbers and, when Collins, restless with so much classical music, left the room, Harcourt suggested that Mrs. Collins is sweet on me! Ada, who's going to become of you?" She undressed slowly and did her exercises religiously. After that, she had her bath, cold cream her face, and tied a towel around her smartly waved 'bob.'

"I only hope I won't make too much of a fool of myself," she sighed, as she turned out the light and climbed wearily into bed.

Major Harcourt, in his room on the floor above, was smoking a cigarette cold in an Oriental dressing-gown. He was thinking: "A pleasant little body that Mrs. Lind. Innocent chap couldn't ask for a better friend, I'll wager. I wonder if that bounder Collins is in love with her? Oh, well, she might be worse."

He strolled over to the open window and looked down at the beach. He could hear the murmur of the sea on the sands. His mood changed; sadness descended upon him like a mantle.

"Cynthia!" his heart was whispering "Cynthia."

CHAPTER 52.

The Dangerous Stage

The friendship between Ada and Major Harcourt developed rapidly. Harcourt was lonely and a great trouble weighed on his heart. The little widow was flattered by the attention of a man so distinguished in looks and manner.

Harcourt found Ada's society undeniably pleasant. She was always ready for a walk or a chat. Best of all, she never took the initiative in suggesting what they should do Long years of matrimony, when her days had been that of a patient listener to men who scarcely noticed her presence as a companion in some weighty argument with her husband, had taught her to be an excellent companion for a man who wished to talk.

Harcourt liked to talk and he found Ada an ideal listener. Moreover, her rather unsuccessful effort to recapture her youth, though it might escape the casual eye, did not escape him. And, he liked this pleasant, cheerful middle aged little woman for her determination to get all the happiness from life that she had missed in her earlier years.

So he became Ada's accepted escort on all occasions. They walked and golfed together; dined together, after Collins had retired home listened to, in the eyes of the other hotel guests, in the eyes o fthe other hotel guests, were considered to be on the road to toward a love-affair.

Norma had not yet come downstairs. She was still weak and wan, still struggling to find real desire to live. It seemed to her that everything had failed her. She was alone, husbandless, friendless, except for Ada, and Ada was still only a chance acquaintance. No word had come from Mrs. Carson. She took silence to mean that he was displeased with her for not sending a message to her husband, but would he, Phillip, if he found him?

Her sole diversion, as she rested in the luxurious suite her father had provided for her, was the progress of Ada's affair with Major Harcourt. Ada had brought the Englishman to tea one afternoon, and Norma had found him charming but a trifle formal. With him, as with Phillip, she had a sense of social inferiority. She couldn't understand that her very charm lay in her rhythm, her carelessness, in the fact that she was so different from the assured young women cocktailers and smoked cigarettes on who sauntered boldly about the lobby and the verandas.

Ada bloomed with the consciousness that she was chosen by a man, obviously one of consequence, above all the other attractive women in the fashionable boarding. She ordered new gowns recklessly and lessened her mourning perceptibly, until now she was discreetly and charmingly costumed in black. With all the naivete of a seventeen-year-old girl, she dreamed of marrying Major Harcourt.

"Why not?" she asked herself defiantly. "We're nearly of an age. Why not?"

One day she asked him rather tiptoously.

"Where are you going when you leave here? Back to England?"

They were sitting on the beach and he was staring out over the sea. At her question, it seemed to her that a subtle change crossed his weary face.

"I don't know. It makes little difference to any one where I go." He turned to smile down at her. "Rather who cares! suppose what I become of a pity, isn't it—not to have any one to care?"

She lowered her gaze.

"I think you're too modest."

He shrugged.

"The only one who really cared is dead."

She looked up quickly.

"She cared very much?"

"Very much."

"And you?" Ada hesitated. "You cared, too? Oh, do forgive me, if I'm impertinent."

"You couldn't be that," he assured her, with a grave smile. "Yes, I cared—once. But later—later I came to know what the grande passion really is. It's not to-be-hale."

"How do you mean 'too late'?"

He shrugged again, and his eyes grew wearier.

"Sometimes one loves a person who cannot care. The women one doesn't want are ready and eager; the woman one desires is remote, inaccessible."

Ada's heart sank a little.

That did you really try with all your heart to make her love you?"

"I thought I did," he replied, "but I know now that she didn't care. However, Fate stepped in and settled it all."

"Do you know that you're talking in riddles?" suggested Ada.

He smiled at her gravely.

"Perhaps I'll tell you all about it—some day. Yes, I feel that I shall."

Ada had to be content with that. She didn't guess how soon she was to hear more of the story.

CHAPTER 53.

LOVE-HUNGRY

There was no doubt that Ada had fallen in love with Major Harcourt. She admitted it to herself, though she believed that she hid it successfully from others. But she was quite without subtlety, and Norma found her quite transparent on this all-important subject.

Norma, was mildly amused and more than a little anxious. She herself had not found that love brought happiness and she feared greatly for the pleasant little widow who was so eager for a real romance before the age skimmed her.

"I do hope the man's not a cad," thought, as she lay on her chaise longue in the sunlight, with the sea murmuring below her windows. "I'd hate her to be hurt."

Ada's entire conversation centred around Harcourt. She gloried him, re counted the stories he told her, referred proudly to her engagements with him, was flushed and eager and anxious when she was preparing to lunch or dine or drive with him.

FEILDEN IS IN THIS COUNTRY

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 7 (By Canadian Press).—In connection with the movement to develop British Empire trade, Thos. Feilden, Director General of the Empire Trade League, and editor of "The Empire Mail" organ of the League published in London, is now in Canada on behalf of the Empire Trade League and a number of important British industrial and commercial interests, representing some hundreds of millions of dollars of capital. Mr. Feilden is on a special mission of market investigation with the object of extending trade connections between the Dominion and the Mother Country.

The Empire Trade League, Mr. Feilden points out, stands for the unity of the Empire, co-operative marketing, and a closer understanding of every requirement of the various countries under the Union Jack.

The League has taken extensive space at the Canadian National Exhibition, Toronto, were a display of literature concerning the Empire Trade League is being made and large British manufacturing interests are being represented.

The Premiers of the various Dominions are patrons of the Empire Trade League as follows: Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King, Canada; Rt. Hon. Stanley M. Bruce, Australia; Rt. Hon. W. F. Massey, New Zealand, and Hon. W. R. Monroe, Newfoundland.

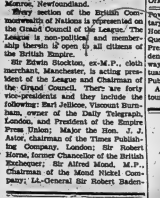

Every section of the British Commonwealth of Nations is represented on the Grand Council of the League. The League is non-political and membership therein is open to all citizens of the British Empire.

Sir Erwin Stockton, ex-M.P., cloth merchant, Manchester, is acting president of the League and Chairman of the Grand Council. There are forty vice-presidents and they include the following: Earl Jellicoe, Viscount Burnham, owner of the Daily Telegraph, London, and President of the Empire Press Union; Major the Hon. J. J. Astor, chairman of the Times Publishing Company, London; Sir Robert Horne, former Chancellor of the British Exchequer; Sir Alfred Mond, M.P., Chairman of the Mond Nickel Company; Lt.-General Sir Robert Baden-Powell, Rt. Hon. L. C. Amery, Secretary of State for Dominion Affairs; Hon. L. A. Taschereau, Premier of Quebec; Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario; Hon. E. K. Bowden, ex-Minister of Works and Railways, Australia, and Sir Campbell Stuart, Director of the London Times Publishing Company.

After Mr. Feilden has completed his tour of investigation in Canada he proposes to produce a special issue of The Empire Mail devoted to a comprehensive story of the sixty years of the Dominion's development and progress and a description of its industrial and commercial possibilities and the opportunities offered in Canada for British capital, British enterprise and British migration. This special issue will be circulated in every part of the Empire and in the chief trading centres of the world.

DRINK WATER IF BACK OR KIDNEYS HURT

Most folks forget that the kidneys like the bowels, sometimes get sluggish and clogged and need a flushing occasionally, else we have backache and dull misery in the kidney region, severe headaches, rheumatic twinges, torpid liver, acid stomach, sleeplessness and all sorts of bladder disorders.

You simply must keep your kidneys active and clean and the moment you feel an ache or pain in the kidney region begin drinking lots of water. Also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good drug store here, take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys will then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and is intended to flush clogged kidneys and help stimulate them to activity. It also helps neutralize the acids in the urine so they no longer irritate, thus helping to relieve bladder disorders.

A well known local druggist says he sells lots of Jad Salts to folks who believe in using it to correct kidney trouble while it is only trouble.

BELLE THEATRE

A grand fight for the championship of Canada and royal regiment is one of the exciting incidents in "The Rough Riders" which comes to the Belle Theatre today.

Even the most rabid fight fan will get a thrill out of the punishing encounter between the two young giants Charles Farrell, leading man, and Fred Kohler.

Kohler is the top-sergeant and Farrel a sergeant in the Paramount production. Both are brothers and they have an intense dislike for each other in the screen story.

REGENT THEATRE

Certain western gentlemen have come down through the ages merely because they're bene able to "roll their tell you that those he-men weren't so own." Any up-to-date flapper will good. They've been "rolling their own" for quite some time. By rolling her own, Fanny Flapper refers of course to those silk things which adorn her legs.

"Rolled Stockings" Paramount's latest "youth" picture, reaches the Regent tomorrow. James Hall, Louise Brooks Richard Arlen, Nancy Phillips and El Brendel are featured.

THIRD LINE THURLOW

Miss Ardie Juby has returned to her home in Belleville after visiting her grandmother Mrs. Shaw.

Mr. and Mrs. F. Harris spent the evening one night this week at Mr. H. Pound.

Mr. and Mrs. Hall spent Sunday at Mr. Leverton's, Sidney.

Quite a number attended the Belleville Fair.

Mrs. A. Carcallen and daughter Helen motored with her son Fred of Belleville to Toronto on Friday for the week-end.

The threshing machine is still heard on this line.

Mr. and Mrs. E. Hall motored to Toronto on Saturday to attend the Fair.

CEMETERY ROBBED

Petrovo, Sept. 7.—Petty pilfering has reared its ugly head in one of the most unlikely places in the city—Little Lake Cemetery.

During recent days many complaints have been made of vases being taken from plots to accommodate bouquets in other graves. In some cases the rightful owners finding the metal containers missing from the graves of their relatives, instituted a search through other parts of the cemetery and found their property on other mounds.

Bawlf of Winnipeg, who recently bought the horse for $800, and Miss Wood will in all probability be seen with Bay Eagle at various shows south of the border during the next few months. Miss Wood's ability in handling Bay Eagle was demonstrated at the Edmonton spring show when she made some highly creditable jumps and finished up by clearing the bars at a height that was claimed to be a world's record for a lady rider.

TWO MISSIONARIES SENT TO AFRICA

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 7 (By Canadian Press).—Two University of Toronto graduates, Dr. and Mrs. Walter Earl Swanzway have been appointed by the Board of Foreign Missions of the United Church of Canada to join its mission in West Central Africa, and sail for Lisbon on September 2 to study the Portuguese language prior to going to the field in Angola, which is a Portuguese colony, to work among the Umbundu people.

Dr. Swanzway, who is a graduate in Arts, 1921, and in Medicine, 1925, has since served two years at St. Francis Hospital, New York, Mrs. Swanzway, formerly Miss Alice Kathleen Skinner, B.A., a native of Douglas, Man., now of Simcoe, Ont., was graduated with first-class honors in household economics from Victoria College, 1926, and was a research worker and demonstrator in food chemistry and a don in residence last year.

This visible evidence of Canada's different life was designed by Mrs. H. M. Aitken, who is demonstrating in Ontario's kitchen during the C.N.E., and executed by a Toronto firm of artists. It will remain during the Exhibition with the women's institute section after which Mrs. Aitken takes it with her to England.

A women's institute fair in the Crystal Palace in London opening about the first of October will claim Mrs. Aitken after her work at the C.N.E. is over. She goes over under the Federal Government to take to the women of England about Canada, and to show them just what Canada can offer the women in the way of interests and activities.

After the women's fair in London the model will be put in the Canadian High Commissioner's Building, while Mrs. Aitken will go to Ireland, Belgium, Denmark and Holland, speaking on emigration to the women of these countries.

MIGHTY SWATTER GETS 3 HOMERS

Boston, Mass., September 7.—The reign of a great monarch was being seriously threatened here yesterday afternoon when the king himself rose in his wrath, struck three mighty blows in his own behalf that completely awed a gathering of 20,000 souls and removed all doubt as to the fact that for the moment at least the master home-run swatter of the age still is George Herman Ruth, called the Babe.

The totals are as: Ruth, 47; Odbray, 45; and incidentally thereto, the Babe has tied his mark of last year, though still twelve away from his world's record.

By way of keeping the records straight the Yanks and Red Sox played two complete games and for the second successive day divided the honors, the Yanks running away with the opener 14 to 2, but losing the second 6 to 2.

The Washington Senators made their last appearance of the season at Philadelphia, dividing a double-header with the Athletics by winning the first game 14 to 5, and dropping the second, 4 to 3.

Mahoney and Walberg were knocked out in the first game, Sid Braxton stopped the attack hitting for the Senators hammered Walberg's three successors at will.

Rommel held the Griff-men to four scattered hits in the second game and out-hurled Horace Lisenbee. Jacobson hit a homer in the fifth inning. Simmons made his first appearance in six weeks in the fourth inning of the first game as a pinch hitter for French. He fanned.

LEAF'S PITCHER MOST ERRATIC

Toronto, September 7.—Syracuse defeated Toronto 4 to 3 in 11 innings here yesterday, the winning run being scored after two were out. Williamson's single sent in Brown, who had walked and stolen second.

Harry Layne gave the Stars a two-run lead in the third inning when he hit a home run with Brown on base. Johnny Prudhomme was wild, passing ten batsmen, but he held the Stars to two hits to the eighth inning. Lefty Barnes was effective in all but one inning, the seventh, when the Leafs scored two runs on four hits.

The Buffalo Bisons took their third straight game from the Tribe by handing the Colts a 11 to 5 beating at Rochester yesterday. A wild pitch during which the Bisons scored ten runs proved the downfall of the Tribe. Pfeffitt went the route for the league leaders and kept nine his's well scattered.

Baltimore made it three straight, defeating the Keystoners at Reading 7 to 4. A big first-inning, when five runs were scored, was enough for the Orioles to win. After the first, Shappy pitched good ball, allowing only four hits in eight innings.

The Bears defeated the Skeeters at Newark yesterday afternoon, 8 to 4. The visitors got to Brennan in the eighth inning and he was yanked in favor of Money, who was lucky to hold the Pests in check.

With one out in the opening round, Kelly hit for the circut and from then on the Bears kept out in front. Newark scored three more in the third by timely stick work and another in the eighth.

GIANTS CHASING PIRATES TO WIRE

New York, September 7.—The genial Braves, ever willing to accommodate, folded up like an accordeon at the Polo Grounds yesterday and let our Giants stay within one game reach of the pesky Pirates, who thumped the Reds heartily. By making it two out of three from the Bostonese, the Giants faced out a home stay that exceeded even the wildest expectations of John Joseph McGraw.

Yesterday's score was 9 to 6, and the Giants had such a comfortable lead all the way that there was no reason for the patrons to stay awake unless they wished to. In contrast to the feverish proceedings of Monday and days previous, yesterday's drama was drowsy and one-sided and inclined to be dull.

The Pirates held their slender lead in the National League pennant race today by defeating Cincinnati, 5 to 0, at Pittsburgh.

Hay Kremer gave proof of a complete return to form by holding the Reds to three scattered hits. Only twenty-eight men faced the big Pirate hurler, who experienced difficulty in working back into trim again after a knee injury earlier in the season. He issued no passes. First base was as far as any Cincinnati runner got throughout the game.

Before the game Barney Dreyfuss, Pirate owner, announced that Manager Bush had been retained to pilot the Corsairs next year.

Battering two Chicago pitchers, the Cardinals took the first game of a scheduled doubleheader at St. Louis 13 to 1, while the second was postponed because of rain after the Cubs had gained a one-run lead in the first inning. The Cubs slipped to fourth place.

The Cubs' lone run in the opener came in the sixth when English batted safely and scored on Wilson's single. The Cubs were debited with four errors.

Pitcher Frankhouse started the second game for the Cardinals, opposing Carlson. English scored as Schulte was throwing out Stephenson at first.

The Cardinals retired in order in their half and the Cubs were threatening to score, with Beck on first and Hartnett on third and one out, when the rain started.

DINGHY RACING

The dinghy sailors pulled off three interesting and distinctive events sailing over the Glenshaw course at their headquarters Monday. They were favoured with beautiful weather and a comfortable southwest wind carried them around the triangular course in record time and kept their rails well under cover.

The racing yesterday was for the Club Championship by points covering every Wednesday and Saturday during September, weather permitting and was concluded yesterday as follows:

R. J. E. Graham	11	points
Commodore E. Wilmot	13	"
Vice-Com. Dr. Proctor	13	"
Major R. D. Punton	9	"
Geo. K. Graham	8	"
Major Medd	7	"

The one striking event Monday in the third race was the fifty solicitor piloting his beautiful marconi boat around the course and pulling her smartly to the port side of the home buoy and winning with a comfortable margin with the balance of the fleet chasing on his heels and was a sight that will not be forgotten for some days. Mrs. Bremner of London was the official timekeeper for the three events.

Further Notes

A large gallery of interested spectators followed the dinghys with intense interest. The pier at the Country Club was crowded to capacity at the conclusion of the races.

Mr. Gunnett, owner of the yacht "Widgeon" of the Rochester Yacht Club was a week-end visitor at the Country Club. Mr. and Mrs. Gunnett and party viewed the dinghy races from the deck of their palatial ocean going auxiliary yawl, pronounced the jockeying for position at the starting line one of the prettiest sights they had ever seen. At the conclusion of the races Mr. and Mrs. Gunnett entertained a large party of Country Club members id tes on their yacht.

Last Wednesday Geo. K. Graham by coming in first won the Intelligencer Trophy. Commodore Wilmot won the British American Oil Co. Trophy early in the season and Dr. Proctor gets the Homer L. Gibson Trophy. "Little Phoebe" is a wonderful ship but leaked a little Monday and will have to undergo some repairs.

By "The Observer"

Now that the Belleville Fair has again passed into history and the marathon swim ceases to be a topic of conversation the talk drifts around to the impending pugilistic battle between Dempsey and Tunney and the world's series, the contestants of which are still a matter of conjecture. Prairie gossip from the camps of the two rival maulers is increasing by reams and as usual both fighters are in the pink of condition with very little separating them from the top rail of the pens. Local ring followers are divided about equally in their choice but after a round of the sporting revolverous one might be lead to believe that the Dempsey backers are increasing. The fact that he sent Sharkey into the discard after a terrific mauling stamps him as a great fighter and one whose chances appear bright to recapture the crown. When he held the belt the critics openly declared him to be the greatest heavyweight of all time including Corbett, Sullivan Wilard and the rest and it is by only a few months ago that he was forced out of the limelight by the present champion. Gene has not had a bout since he whipped Dempsey and although he is one of the cleanest living boxers in ever don the gloves a pugilist must be working continually in order to be at his best. The writers said that Dempsey was only a shell of his former self when he lost to Tunney and the same ones have lately announced that Jack is one fifty per cent. better shape right now. Personally, having seen both of the recent encampion to come back stronger than ever. His record as champion is indeed in his favor as one and Dempsey says he'll come back and there's many who agree with him.

The Yankees are strongly entrenched up in front of the American League and it will require the services of a dervish and a couple of teams of horses to dislodge them. With Ruth and Gehrig still cutting loose it has developed into a battle for he so run honors. The National League is still a matter of opinion with at least four clubs very much in the running. The Chicago Cubs have been the serious contenders for the past month have hit the toboggan and are sliding rapidly to the cellar with Pirates, Giants and Cardinals laughing merrily. The Observer favors the Yankees to win from any of the quartette in the final wind-up in October. Miller Huggins has the fighting qualities with his crowd and although not the best pitching staff by a jug-full the Yankees' tremendous hitting powers should off set any other barrier. The Yankee infield compares favorably with any under the big top and with Ruth and Gehrig adding daily to their number Col. Rupert has little to worry about.

Comin Nick Bawlf who has charge of the younger athletes throughout the Province announces that he has uncovered an Olympic prospect right in our midst. Young Bill Shannon, a youngster in his sophomore year in High School has been getting himself in the best of condition in the northern woods around Marmora. The lad entered the athletic meet at Toronto last week and walked off with the honors in every event. In the district meet at Kingston last Fall he captured several firsts and a brilliant future was predicted for him in the athletic world.

George Faulkner, son of Dr. Faulkner, Bridge Street, who is regarded as one of the best golfers in the city did exceedingly well in the Junior Tourney at the Lakeview Course in Toronto last week. Pitted against the best in the Province, George was well up near the top when the tourney was completed. His handicap was a large one and congratulations are due this young man who learned his golf at the Bay of Quinte Club. A younger brother, Farley, who is also a player of no mean ability did not do so well but nevertheless he will come along with a little more training. One man who saw George in action said he is one of the finest prospects he has ever watched.

The Belleville Beavers in defeating the Flankers team scored the eyes of the soft ball fans around Viaduct Park on Monday morning. The Toronto crowd were forced to accept an ignominious defeat at the hands of Alan Mosher's lassies and the supporters of the Peanut Girls were astounded at the brand of ball displayed by the Beavers.

Shop at Home
---first

YEARS ago people went into the market place "to shop." They went, not knowing what they would find, its price or its worth. Weary hours were spent in inspection, in bargaining and buying.

Today manufacturers are bringing the market place to your home. Every time a newspaper comes, a host of people are ringing your doorbell. Merchants and manufacturers are waiting on the doorstep to spread their goods at your feet for you to look at—to inspect at leisure and in comfort.

The advertisements tell you where you can get what you want. They are a guarantee of worth that protects your purchase.

TRANS-ATLANTIC HOP IDEA ISN'T EXACTLY MODERN

Atlanta, Ga., Sept. 7.—The present epidemic of long distance flying attempts has recalled here that the hope of negotiating a trans-Atlantic hop prevailed as long as fifteen years ago in the mind of at least one man, who went as far as to build an airship for the venture, only to have it fall because the craft would not rise.

It was at Savannah, Ga., several years after Glenn Curtiss' and the Wright brothers' has been discussed in their aviation experiments, that Captain Manbert A. Baldon, a retired officer of the army engineering corps, conceived the idea of an air voyage from St. John's, Newfoundland to Ireland via the Azores.

With this objective, he formed the Baldon Air Navigation Company, early in 1913, with a factory on Dutch Island, near Savannah.

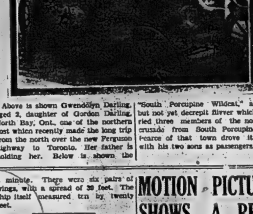

Associated with Baldon was Israel Emgren, a boat builder of Thunderbolt, near Savannah, and with a force of seven men they completed a hydro aeroplane for the flight in November, 1913.

Accounts of it at that time described the ship as "by far the oddest looking flying vessel the country had seen, at first glance taking the machine for one type of government dredge used in harbor improvement work." But Captain Baldon and his co-workers were confident it would skim through the skies at from 40 to 45 miles an hour.

Weighing 9,000 pounds, it was powered by three Emgren, 100 horsepower, two cylinder engines and had two eleven-foot propellers one in front and one behind, capable of 1,000 revolutions a minute. There were six pairs of wings, with a spread of 98 feet. The top pair itself measured ten by twenty feet.

NEGRO HEALTH CONDITIONS BAD

New York, N.Y., Sept. 7.—Negro health conditions throughout the country are worse than ever before, Dr. William J. Thompkins of Kansas City, told the improved Benevolent Protective Order of Elks of the World, in convention here.

"This is particularly true in the southern and central cities," Dr. Thompkins said, "Throughout the country the percentage of tuberculosis deaths, largely because of neglect, is seven times higher among the negroes than among the whites; the infant mortality among negroes for nearly twice that among whites, and deaths by homicide, partly growing from bad educational and living conditions, are eight times as numerous.

A nation-wide survey with the view of obtaining remedial legislation and spreading educational propaganda has been undertaken by the seven hundred negro Elk lodges in all parts of the country."

MOTION PICTURE SHOWS A REAL FIGHT TO DEATH

Dog Killed Rattler; Has Disposed of 12 This Year

Rochester, N. Y., Sept. 7. — A motion picture reel showing a novel form of combat — a police dog fighting and killing a rattle snake — has been received in Rochester.

The dog was King Figaro Von Jenson, whose owner is C. H. Goddall of the Tinnaen Ranch near Victorville, California. With his amateur motion picture camera Mr. Godahall photographed the battle to the death when "King" discovered a four foot rattler on the prairie near the Tinnaen Ranch the dog harried the rattler, dodging strokes after stroke of the deadly head, until finally like a flash he jumped in and caught the rattler behind the neck where he was helpless to bite. Even then the snake gave "King" a battle, because of his strength and weight, and every move of the struggle was faithfully recorded.

MINERAL EXHIBIT AT EXHIBITION

Hastings County Abounds in Deposits — Mines Being Reopened

An exhibit that attracted more than the usual interest at the Toronto Exhibition this year was the display of minerals and rough ore from the mines of Hastings County. The vast possibilities in the mineral field of this County were a source of revelation to the mining experts who examined the various specimens. The display was in charge of Mr. W. H. Hunter, the County Director of Publicity who spent a busy time last week explaining to the constituents of the many items of ore.

At the present time several of the mines are being reopened after years of inactivity and new veins are being discovered and within a few years Hastings may advance to the fore in the areas containing valuable ore deposits.

Hematite, talc, pink granite, feldspar, partially in the rough and partially in the finished product, were among the exhibits on the beautiful pedestal in the Government Building.

The Hollinda, Roberts and Blackburn interests all had samples of their products at the "Ex." These three are combined into one Company and negotiations are already under way towards drilling and opening up the properties. J. O. Martin, of Niagara Falls, N.Y., is President of the new concern which offers great possibilities to investors.

The Bancroft Marble Company had an especially fine display i nthe form of a tiny pedestal. J. K. Hodge, of Toronto, is President.

Other exhibitors were Wallbridge Property, Madoc Township Hematite, A. W. Bruce, Tudor Township Hematite, Ore, Crude Talc, Albatos Pulp Co., Madoc, Grenore Feldspar Company, Monteagle Township, Brewis Ore, Bancroft Mica, Roberts Property Tudor Township owned by W. H. Hunter, Calena, John Woods Mine, Dungannon Copper Co.

The Hastings County Agricultural Exhibit supervised by Ray Atkin, took first place among the county exhibits displays. Rosy red apples, appetizing cheese, fruits and vegetables of all inscriptions and the home of a plenty and painted, Hastings as a County abounding in prosperous farms and worthy Canadians.

LONG DISTANCE SWIM FOR WOMEN ONLY

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 7 (By the Canadian Press)—Under the auspices "The case for the Fair Sex," the Sporting Editor of the Globe thus deals with the women's side of the swimming exhibition on August 31:

"There should be long-distance swims for women only, in the opinion of Mrs. Lotty Moore Schoemmell, or, in the event of mixed events, the prize money should be carefully apportioned between men and women. The women's champion suggests that in such as the Canadian National Exhibition's Marathon, part of the money should be set aside for division among the feminine competitors. Manifestly, women cannot compete on equal terms with men in swimming, track and field or other competitions in which both sexes engage. The question has been asked, what division of the purse would be made were a woman to finish second or third, for example? Would she get the purse set aside for the lady competitor if either sex to finish and for the first woman to finish, as well? Obviously it is an unequal struggle."

BRITISH LABOR BREAKING FROM SOVIET UNIONS

REAL DEMOCRACY

Recommendation Framed In Drastic Terms—Russian Insults Resented

Edinburgh, Scotland, Sept. 8.—Trade union congress today confirmed the general council's proposals to break off negotiations with the All-Russian Council of Trade Unions. The card vote prevailed in 2,551,000 votes for proposals and 836,000 against.

London, Sept. 8.—The recent rupture of relations between the governments of Great Britain and Russia now has been followed by a complete break between British and Soviet Labor organizations. The general council of the Trades Union Congress recommended at Edinburgh today that the congress should break off relations with the Soviet leaders. The recommendation being framed in such drastic and definite terms as to come somewhat of a sensation. The decision follows a long campaign of calumniation by Moscow of British Labor leaders, and has been directly provoked by a telegram to the conference from the All-Russian Council of Trades Unions, particularly in which was revealed by publication today as extraordinarily insulting.

"It talks of "betrayal" of the British general strike, and "continued sabotage" by the Labor party of the British miners' struggle last year, and described J. H. Thomas, Hicks and Purcell—well known British Labor leaders—as traitors and scoundrels, general conduct of producing groundless accusations against the Soviet trades unions as a pretext for the breaking off relations.

The reject of the conference today is: "The telegram speaks for itself and no comment is necessary, except to state definitely that the council has come to the conclusion that there is no indication that the All-Russia Council of Trades Unions have any intention whatever of observing conditions absolutely essential to such Anglo-Russia joint advisory council is to be continued. No useful purpose will be served by continuing negotiations with the All-Russia Council so long as their attitude and policy is maintained."

M. Casey, of the American Federation of Labor, told the Congress "We in America boast of our great Republic and our great democracy, but must come to England, Scotland and Ireland to observe pure democracy and sit down to quench our thirst with anything we like."

PLANS REVISION IN LIQUOR LAWS

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 8.—The Provincial Legislature will not convene until the law officers of the Crown have had full opportunity to complete the revision of the existing liquor laws satisfactorily and to provide for the new amendment, according to a statement issued by Premier Bracken, following a lengthy Cabinet meeting today.

The Premier in his statement issued a warning to persons making extensive alterations in premises with the presumption "that beer licenses will be granted. He stated that the Government will give special consideration to those who have had alterations made. Mr. Bracken's report on his inspection of the administration of the liquor laws in the different provinces of the Dominion was discussed at the Cabinet session.

FAINT HOPE REMAINING FOR RESCUE OF PLANE

New York, Sept. 8.—Hope for the survival of the intrepid crew of the monoplane "Old Glory" sank today. The time at the moment to span the ocean on her way from Old Orchard, Maine, to Rome passed with no news of her whereabouts or the fate of her pilots, Lloyd Bertaud and James Hill and their passenger, Phillip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror.

Old Glory should have arrived over Bordeaux, France, before Wednesday midnight, eastern standard time, Agoing at was skirted 350 miles east of St. John's, Nfld., at 11.57 o'clock eastern standard time, Tuesday night and that she had been making about one hundred miles an hour. From St. John to Bordeaux is approximately 2,500 miles.

Giving Up Search

Despite reports from two other steamers which gave up their service last night, that there is little hope for survival of the three occupants of the plane, liners Nova Scotia, American Merchant and California swept a stretch of hundreds of miles off Newfoundland for some clue to the fate of the plane and its occupants. Steamers Transylvania and Carmania were among the liners to answer the radio calls but after vainly searching the ocean at the position where the plane was estimated to have come down, resumed their courses.

"Think little hope of survival in view of rough seas at the time of the casualty," reported the Transylvania in announcing it was giving up the search. The Carmania reported: "Regret search for missing plane 'Old Glory' without result. Weather cloudy, squally and a gough, breaking sea. Consider very small chance survival of collapsible boat under present conditions. Now proceeding on great circle to Cape Race."

Useless To Search

Harbor Grace, Nfld., Sept. 8.—Pilots of the "Royal Window" announced at breakfast this morning after they had received reports of the abandonment of the "Old Glory" conducted during the night by steamships that they had decided it was useless for them to institute a search with their planes.

SPY CONFESSES BRITAIN'S PLOTS AGAINST SOVIET

Was Told Employers Would Occupy Leningrad In 1927

25 ON TRIAL

Turns State's Evidence—Says English Sought To Make War

Moscow, September 8. — "Captain Boyce, the head of the British Intelligence Service, at Reval, ordered me to stay in Leningrad throughout 1927 because the British were going to occupy the city," M. Goler the self-confessed spy, told the Leningrad Supreme Military Court yesterday. He further asserted that he had been specially instructed to obtain proof of the existence of schemes for Russo-Orthan mill-tary alliance directed against the Soviet.

Of the twenty-six alleged British spies on trial here, Goler was the only twenty-five, one Ivan Mitiagin having committed suicide by throwing himself upon window—Goler is the sole outstanding figure. He treats his fellow accused, some of whom are old men and lags, with disdain, while they, crowded into the prisoners' dock, edge away from their betrayer.

Goler, who was first arrested by the Ogpu (the Soviet secret police) in February, 1926, and was released because of "lack of evidence," was re-arrested with his confederates last July, and, then turned state's witness. He is now busily engaged in telling all he knows in order to save his own life and at the same time pose as one who has played a great game and lost. He bows to his fate and even declines to have a lawyer to defend him.

This burly, elderly, clean-shaven Dutchman—for Goler, though a Russian subject, is Dutch born—strikingly contrasts with his morose fatalistic fellow-defendants and almost heroically tells his strange tale. With twenty-five years' experience in command of ocean-going Finnish ships under the Russian flag "Knowing every European language," he was sent at the outbreak of the war to work against Germany in Copenhagen under the Russian naval attache, who in 1916 lent him to Captain Boyce of the British Service.

$25,000 FOR SHIP THAT FINDS THE "OLD GLORY"

New York, Sept. 8.—William Randolph Hearst, publisher, backer of the "Old Glory" flight, today offered a reward of $25,000 to the captain and crew of the ship that finds the missing occupants.

His announcement follows: "I know that no reward is necessary to stimulate the search for the "Old Glory" and its occupants, but I will gladly give $25,000 to the captain and crew of the ship which finds them, merely as a token of my gratitude."

Flights At Chance

Old Glory—Has almost gone as no word is heard after S.O.S. call early yesterday morning while five hours out of Newfoundland on her way to Rome.

Sir John Carling—Non-appearance over Great Britain this morning considered disquieting. Left Harbour Grace yesterday morning for London and no word received since then.

Royal Windsor—Gas tank leak holds plane bound for Windsor, England at Harbor Grace until tomorrow. Pilots decide a search for the "Old Glory" would be futile.

Dornier Wahale'—Preparations being made at Corunna, Spain, to continue flight from England to New York, but take off today seemed doubtful.

Columbia — Charles Levine, owner says he hopes to hop off from England Saturday for the United States, but "Doc" Eliscalde aeroplane motor expert, remains at home in case the flight and intends sailing for New York Friday.

Twenty persons, including two women have been lost at sea, while seven were killed in preparation for flights

CANADA CLAIMS NON-PERMANENT SEAT IN LEAGUE

May Become British Empire Candidate For One Of Places

COMBINED VOTE

Need Support Of Other Nations To Secure An Election

London, Sept. 8.—(C.P., Cable)—Canada's claim to a non-permanent seat in the Council of the League of Nations is the outcome of a meeting of the representatives of the British Dominions at Geneva on Monday when they decided to act as a distinct group and put forward a candidature, according to the correspondent of the Manchester Guardian at Geneva. The correspondent adds the claim will be pressed only if there appears to be reasonable hope of success.

The Guardian's correspondent says that it is but not been for last year's alteration of the system of voting for members of the Council the Dominions group could have been certain of success in the coming election, but now they have been cut of the non-permanent members are elected yearly fourten votes instead of six are required to guarantee election and the Dominions cannot muster them. To secure the undoubtedly election they would require additional solid votes of Scandinavia and Germany.

The correspondent expresses the opinion that sooner or later there will be a revolt against the present system of election, particularly against the overweight power of the Latin-American group of fourteen votes, which do not merely assure the yearly success of the South American candidate in the first ballot but enable the group to decide on the fate of the remaining candidates in the second ballot.

Norway has a resolution on the agenda in favor of the adoption of the single transferable vote with a view to removing this anomaly.

REACTION AGAINST LONG FLIGHTS BRINGING DEMAND FOR THEIR VETO

Long List Of Dead And Missing Creates Antipathy

New York, Sept. 8.—An international demand for some check on spectacular aeroplane flights followed today in the wake of the disappearance within the past year of twenty trans-air fliers and the death of seven then in overseas flight preparations.

Statements of aviation authorities in this country and Europe and press comment in England and Germany depreciated the feasibility of long distance over-water flights and several protests against allowing aviators to fly into "foolhardy" adventures.

A reaction against spectacular flying became evident when six men and one woman were lost in the "Dole" trans-Pacific derby and has been emphasized with the disappearance of monoplane "Old Glory" and Sir John Carling" in the Atlantic.

The death toll of trans-air flights since the fall of 1926 will have mounted to forty-seven if Old Glory and Sir John Carling and their crews are not found.

MARTIN TAKES LEAD FOR SENIOR'S CROWN

Dixie, Ont., Sept. 8.—F. R. Martin, former Canadian amateur champion and this week playing for the first time in the Canadian Senior Golf Association championship took the lead for the possession crown at the Royal Montreal Club here today. The left-handed golfer from Hamilton added 76 to his 74 of the first day to giving him a total of 151 for 36 holes.

FOUND DEAD ON STREET

Detroit, Sept. 8.—Stabbed three times in the left side of the neck, the body of a man believed to be Patrick A. Derry, a Cobalt miner, was found today on the street near the downtown district. Police found a silver nugget in one of his pockets.

23 LIVES LOST DURING 1927 IN TRANSOCEANIC FLIGHTS

New York, Sept. 8.—Transoceanic flights if the Hearst-sponsored monoplane, Old Glory, and her crew of six are not found, have taken a toll in 1927 of 18 persons lost at sea and others injured and in preparation for long-distance over-water hops. Two women are among the missing.

The missing include:

Capt. Saint-Roman and Commander Mouneyres, who left St Louis, Sept. 1, May 5, for Pernambuco, South Africa, and failed to arrive.

Capt. Charles Nungesser and Major Francois Coli, who started from Paris to New York, May 8.

William P. Erwin and Alvin H. Eichwaldt, who left Oakland, August 18, on a search flight to Hawaii

WANTS COLONIES

Germany Hopes To Regain What She Lost In The War

Geneva, Sept. 8.—What was said in League circles to be the first step towards eventual restoration of one or more of Germany's colonies which were lost to her as a result of the war, was taken today when Germany was agreed a seat on the League of Nations mandate commission, supervising her former colonies. The council made the decision to increase the membership of this Commission from nine to fourteen. German members will be appointed shortly.

BROKE LEG TWICE WHEN CAR UPSET

J. N. Narrie, a shoe merchant in Lansdowne, suffered a broken leg when one o'clock this morning when a car he was driving turned over in the ditch near Springbrook 1.

A doctor was called and the victim was rushed into Belleville to the General Hospital.

It was discovered that the leg was broken in two places, at the ankle and the knee. The other occupants of the car escaped injury.

ESKIMOS GET "FLU"

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Much information of value to the profession is was obtained by Dr. F. G. Banting, who visited Aklavik on his trip to the Arctic Circle on the Government steamer Beothic in company with Dr. S. Jackson, Toronto.

Dr. Banting has just returned to Toronto. The Eskimos, he says, are not yet really immune from the white man's diseases. They are becoming subject to influenza and the last year suffered greatly from influenza.

LOADED RADIAL CAR IS WRECKED

Three Dead And Others May Die—Fifty-Six Are Hurt

Evansville, Ind., Sept. 8.—Injuries sustained by at least fifty-six persons when a loaded radial car struck a special race track interurban which crashed into it at a crossing here, today, a line of heavily loaded freight cars last night were being checked by railroad officials today. Three persons were killed in the wreck and at least five more were in a critical condition.

The car was travelling at forty miles an hour when it swerved from the main line into a switch and crashed head-on into the box cars. Most of those said to be fatally hurt or were most seriously injured. The motorman was killed instantly and two other persons fatally hurt.

OMINOUS SILENCE BLANKETS FATE OF OVER-DUE SIR JOHN CARLING

ENTER CIVIL ACTION

Suit Will Be Started For Damages For Injuries In Accident

The Intelligencer learned today that steps will be immediately taken by an adherent of the late Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Glover to recover damages from Colonel Lane by Wanda for injuries received in an automobile crash on the Foxboro Highway on the evening of July 11th. Col Marsh was exonerated of all blame by Magistrate Mikel in the local Police court yesterday. Mrs. Glover was on her baby lapsed to the effects that she was only recently discharged from the Belleville Hospital.

JOHN ST. MISSIONARY SOCIETY MEETING

The Women's Missionary Society of John Street Church held an interesting and profitable meeting yesterday afternoon. The president, Mrs. J. W. Cook, conducted the devotional period during the afternoon. The Confederation Jubilee program was presented by members of the society who took their parts well, showing the extent of missionary growth in sixty years.

Mrs. Bennett of Melrose gave an address on "Canada and her resources and her people." Mrs. Hunter, a daughter of the members the material value of Canada and also the mission work done by the United Church among Indians and foreigners.

Miss Pittaway rendered a delightful solo in her usual fine style. Mrs. (Dr.) Moore was appointed delegate to the Provincial Convention at Cobourg to be held October 6th. After the meeting refreshments were served and a social half-hour spent.

BROOKS TO APPEAL TO SUPREME COURT

Toronto, Sept. 8.—Appeal will be carried to the Supreme Court of Canada from the decision of the Ontario Appellate Division which refused to allow Harriett Brooks' appeal from sentence of five years for attempting to procure an illegal operation on the late Ruth Dembler. Permission to take the case to the Supreme Court has been given by the Appellate Division in refusing the appeal.

TORIES VOTE FOR LIBERAL WHO RESEMBLES FERGUSON

Toronto, Sept. 8. — J. A. Bradette Liberal M.P., from North Timiskaming was responsible for a morsel of humor at the C.N.E. Directors' luncheon yesterday. When, seated at the head table, near to Premier Ferguson Hon. John S. Martin, Hon. Geo. S. Henry and Hon. William Finlayson, he was called on to speak, he exclaimed: "I seem to be in wrong company here!"

At any rate, he continued, it seemed to be an opportune moment to refer to a factor of his election as Lib ral Parliamentarian.

"On several occasions," he declared, "ladies have told me that I looked just like the Premier. Frankly, I said, the Conservatives were going to vote for me on that ground only."

London Anxiously Awaits Sight Of The Canadian Fliers

London, Sept. 8. — Late afternoon editions of London newspapers began to reflect considerable anxiety for the safety of the aeroplane "Sir John Carling" on its flight from London, Ontario, to London England. At four o'clock this afternoon, (British Summer Time) no reports had been received that she had even been sighted off the Irish coast where she had been expected to appear before noon. Furthermore, no reports about the aeroplane had been received from any other source.

The Carling had been looked for at Croydon aerodrome, near London, and absence of any word from her was regarded in some quarters as somewhat ominous. The anxiety was intensified because lack of news from the Sir John Carling came so close upon the heels of the mysterious disappearance of "Old Glory." Accounts of further search for the latter plane were still being carried under prominent headlines on the front pages of the papers in the English capital.

Flying Conditions Bad

Belfast, Sept. 8.—Reported from civic guard stations along the Galway shore up to 4.30 o'clock this afternoon flying conditions were bad. It said they had failed to sight the Sir John Carling. Visibility was bad, a strong southwesterly gale was blowing and a heavy mist was hanging over the land.

Overdue at Noss

London, Sept. 8.—Intervention official at Croydon aerodrome stated at 12.30 o'clock today, British summer time, that no word had been received about the aeroplane Sir John Carling which left Harbour Grace yesterday. It was said that this fact was regarded as somewhat disquieting. The officer added that as the plane had not been reported over the coast of Ireland she was considered overdue at noon.

Irish Weather Bad

Belfast, Sept. 8.—Up to 7.30 o'clock this morning no reports had been received here regarding the progress of the monoplane "Sir John Carling" flying from Harbor Grace, Nfld., to London. Weather conditions over Ireland were bad as wild winds and rain fell. Police station in south and west of Ireland was on the alert this morning watching for the approach of the Canadian plane. The Sir John Carling was not expected to reach the Irish coast until 11 a.m. London time.

"SO LONG"

Philology is one of those intellectual pursuits which is called a science for the reason that it is almost as scientific as palmistry.

A prime example of philology occurs in a recent issue of American Speech, in which one Steven J. Sylvester earnestly defends the American expression "So Long" from the Arabic "salaam," and in thereunto indignantly corrected by H. B. Cox (K. C.) Wade, who insists that the expression is the direct gift of the Hebrews to the United States, being derived from the "shalom" which is an obvious cognate of the Arabic word, and how did know we Hebrew except it were as a greeting between many that which appears in everyday life such.

It seems not to have occurred to either of the learned gentlemen that the explanation "So Long" may have been derived from two English words, "so" and "long". As there is a growing theory in New York City and other parts of the outside world that the United States is inhabited principally by persons who do not speak English except as a rapidly acquired language of commerce, it will seem odd to assume that the expression "so long" which originated among the drovers and ranchers of these western plains, is really English in its origin.

"So long" is not a greeting, but a valediction. In the term language of the plains, it expresses a regret, not that one may not be not have been longer. It is essentially a tragic valediction, spoken bravely; it encompasses the vastness, the loneliness of the plains, the hunger for human companionship, into salt that has not yet lost its savor. It is historically and authentically Western, but by the time the half-baked pundits get through with it we will be told that it was derived from the Early Mandarin and carried across Behring Strait by the ancestors of the Siwash Indians.

PERILS OF THE AIR

It is to be feared that the fate which overtook the French airmen Nungesser and Coli last May when they attempted the flight from Paris to New York, has overtaken the British Strasse, Captain Leslie Hamilton and Lieut.-Colonel Minchin and their passenger and financial backer the elderly Englishwoman Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim. Their monoplane, the "St. Raphael," which start ed from Upavon, England, on Wednesday morning bound for Ottawa, is long overdue. Nothing has been heard or seen of it since it passed over the Irish coast at noon on Wednesday.

Five times has the North Atlantic been successfully crossed by airplane, from west to east. Twice has the attempt been made to cross it from east to west, and both attempts have ignobly failed. The westerly flight is the more perilous than the easterly, owing to the prevailing direction of the wind currents. In a careful analysis of recent ocean flights, which appears in the current number of the official publication of the United States Naval Institute at Annapolis the statement is made that between May 8 and July 25 of this year, favorable conditions for eastward flights have existed on four days only; and that half as the weather was which Nungesser and Coli encountered in their westward flight, the day they chose was the most favorable in two years, to judge from weather reports.

According to this analysis, prepared by experts, the northerly Atlantic route is far more perilous than the upper southerly one. When a regular air route across the Atlantic is travelled, these experts believe it will be far south of the route taken by Lindbergh and his successors. Probably it will be by way of the Azores. Another timely and judicious prediction made is that in future such flights will be made exclusively by seaplanes. It seems to be reasonable to suppose that the proper kind of machine for crossing the ocean is one which will float and can be navigated if and when it is forced down into the water. An airplane will not float many minutes, and the only chance for the crew is to keep afloat while in a collapsible rubber boat which may or may not be available for use after the forced descent. Attempts to cross continents are not made with seaplanes; why should attempts be made to cross oceans in flimsy airplanes which are overland machines?

SCOURGE VANQUISHED

The naturally indolent no longer can blame their laziness on the hook worm, for the International health board of the Rockefeller foundation announces the hookworm disease, or anky-lostomiasis, has been virtually eradicated in the United States and is under control in many other countries. It is a brilliant victory for medical science and the government and foundation agents who have done the preventive work in the field.

It does not detract from the achievement that the problem consisted chiefly of putting shoes on children in the infected areas. After it was discovered that the little pop-robbing parasite entered the body through the soles of bare feet, there were years of educational work to be done, and means to be found to "shoe" millions who were financially unable to buy shoes.

The victory over the hookworm is to be followed by victories over malaria and yellow fever. Great progress has been made in removing the causes of these two dread tropical maladies. Yellow fever is no longer a serious menace in the South, where it once took great toll of human lives, and malaria is no longer an unavoidable sickness to those entering the tropics.

There is a close inter-relation between these diseases and mosquitoes. Uncontrolled they killed thousands and made millions temporarily or permanently dependent. The war on the hookworm slope has rehabilitated more than 4,000,000 workers in the United States. And reversing the relationship, effective warfare on its cause cannot be made in territory where the people are too poor to bear the cost to avail themselves of remedies.

Health brings prosperity, prosperity affords new means of hopefully grappling with disease.

THE PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mr. William Robertson, who for the past eight years has been foreman of the running shop at the G. T.R., resigned his position last evening, much to the surprise of his fellow employees. He has a much better position in view, and will likely leave the city shortly. No one has been appointed to succeed him, but there are already several applications for his place.

Coke Poston and Mr. J. M. Hurley M.P., visited the Artillery Camp at Deseronto this afternoon.

There was a very large market this morning, fruit was plentiful and cheap. Crawford peaches are selling at 25c a basket and plums can hardly be given away.

The Mail and Empire says: "Among the guests registered at the Queen's Hotel yesterday was Sir Mackenzie Bowell." He was in Toronto to attend a meeting of the directors of the Imperial Insurance Company and to see the Fair. He was escorted about the city and to the Fair by Mr. W. D. McPherson.

Entries for the Fair, especially in cattle, are coming in fast and furious and there promises to be one of the largest exhibits of live stock ever made here. It is to be regretted that the merchants are not taking more interest in the Fair.

Chief of Police Newton and Mr. H. F. Ketcheson left early this morning for a month's sojourn near Haliburton. The Chief has been in poor health for some time and he hopes the outing will restore him.

Mrs. Montizambert, of Toronto, is visiting her daughter, Mrs. Fenton, in this city.

And a rugged path leads to the top,
Where all is still
It opens ever to be

MUSSOLINI HELD ELECTION ACT BY TRAFFIC COP TO BE CHANGED

Italian Premier Promptly Pays Fine Imposed for Speeding

Milan, Sept. 7.—In his big car was breaking the speed limit by more than a few miles an hour, and the policeman on duty pulled it up sharply. Then he prepared to let loose the flickering remarks typical of traffic cops everywhere.

But he did not get far. For the occupant of the speeding car was Benito Mussolini, who knows something about the dictatorial gesture himself. The Premier, however, roaring with laughter at the thought that there exists a man in Italy who does not recognize him, cut short the policeman's excuses and promptly paid the fine.

OPERATORS CONFER WITH COAL MINERS

Chicago, Sept. 7.—Reports that a tentative basis for peace in the Illinois coal industry had been reached became general today as members of the executive committee of the Illinois Coal Operators Association gathered in Chicago for a peace conference with the miners' wage scale committee tomorrow. Officials of both organizations denied that a treaty had been agreed upon but reports from down state to the effect that many mining properties were being put into condition for active work and an air of certitude to the peace talk. Several small mining companies in Illinois have already resumed operations under the Jacksonville agreement.

MUSKRAT FARM LAND IN DEMAND

Regina, Sask., Sept. 8.—Applications for leases on muskrat farm land are pouring into the Provincial Department of Agriculture, game and fisheries branch, at the rate of more than a dozen a day. The number of applications now in the hands of the Department total more than 600.

The flood of applications resulted from the interest aroused by the late provincial conference which was called with a view to drawing up a set of regulations governing the "muskrat farming" which would be uniform for the whole province.

Muskrat pelts, it is stated, are among the most valuable now being raised in the Dominion.

FIRE PREVENTION

All Canada Asked To Observe Week Commencing October 9th

Ottawa, Sept. 8.—An extra edition of the Canada Gazette, published today, contains a proclamation appointing the week commencing October 9 "fire prevention week," and calling upon the citizens of the Dominion to inspect their premises. Fire drills are called for in schools and institutions, boy scout leaders are asked to give special instruction, teachers and municipal officials are asked to give training in fire prevention in the schools and publicity is asked for in legislation and regulations pertaining to the question.

The preamble to the proclamation states that the average annual loss of insurable property exceeds $40,000,000 and that 300 persons annually lose their lives as a result of fires.

HUN ARISTOCRATS LOOKING FOR LAND

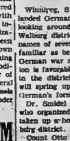

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—A party of landed German aristocrats have been looking around for land in the St. Walburg district, Saskatchewan. The names of several of the party are familiar as being prominent in the German war news and their declaration is forming concerning the land in the district a German settlement will spring up—appropriate name of, German's former nobility.

Dr. Smidel von Seeberg of Berlin, who organized the party, has himself taken up homestead in the St. Walburg district.

Count Otto Von Dem Hagen from Dresden and Herr Carl Schultz, graduate of the University of Griefswald, the oldest German University, are leaving for Germany, where they will make a report on the land conditions found. It is their intentions of returning in the spring, bringing with them their families and a large party of relatives.

Count Von Dem Hagen was territorial governor of German East Africa before the war. Others in the party were Count Von Bulow, nephew of Prince Von Bulow, who was German Chancellor before the war; Gunther Von Armin, son of General Von Armin, and others of the blue blood of Germany.

HAVE DARK HAIR AND LOOK YOUNG

Grandmother kept her hair beautifully darkened, glossy and attractive with a brew of sage Tea and Sulphur. Whenever her hair took on that dull, faded, streaked appearance, this simple mixture was applied with wonderful effect. By asking at any drug store for "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," you will get a large bottle of this old-time recipe, improved by the addition of other ingredients, all ready to use, at very little cost. Thousands prefer this way, because no one likes to have their hair look unnatural, as nobody can tell it has been applied—it's so easy to use. You simply moisten a comb or soft brush and draw it through your hair, taking one strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears; after another application or two, it becomes rich, natural color and looks glossy, soft and beautiful.

WHISKERED PLATTERS HERE

To all curious citizens who happened to see numerous heavily bearded men about the streets of Belleville last night and this morning we might inform them that the barbers are not on strike, but that the baseball team of the House of David were guests in our city last night.

With all the notoriety attached to the leader of the House of David, King Benjamin Purnell, and his famous "colony," the baseball team of that sect still tours the country and the famous "Beast of David's Raid" may still be seen on the baseball stage. The David ball team were ensconced in Toronto where they play the Cubers team.

ATTENDING WEDDING

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Hill and the Misses Helena and Gussie Hill, West Bridge Street, were in Kingston today attending the wedding of Mr. and Mrs. Hill's only son, McCrae Hill, which took place at noon to Miss Grace Pound. The young couple will reside in this city.

REGULAR MEETINGS

The City Council will resume its fortnightly sessions on the 19th of September after the regular summer vacation. The first Committee meeting will be held on the 14th.

Police Court

John Hughes, charged with abduction, appeared in the local Police Court to-day and was committed for trial at the County Judge's Criminal Court. Hughes is a citizen of Tweed Ontario. He is separated from his wife and the charge was laid when he took his little daughter away from the mother.

Fly-Tox Quickly Ends Mosquito Torment

Normal human blood is too thick to be drawn through the mosquito's small piercing tube. They must first inject a thinning fluid. In that way disease germs are set afloat in the blood stream-bacteria of burning fever and crippling disease. There is also the danger of streptococcal infection (blood poisoning) from scratching the bite. Mosquitoes should be killed. Health authorities endorse Fly-Tox because it is safe to use. Safe, stainless, fragrant, sure.—Adv.

BOWLERS GETTING READY

Bowlers are forming the kinks out of their arms after a summer of inactivity on the alleys. The Recreation Parlors opened this week and although the trundlers have not turned out in large numbers the crowds are increasing each night. The Autumn League will not be started for some weeks.

ARSON CHARGE

James Fox a young man residing near Deseronto faced a charge of arson before Magistrate Bedford at Deseronto this afternoon. He is alleged to have set fire to a barn owned by Joseph Brennan some months ago. Crown Attorney Donnan and Provincial Police Officers of the city were in Deseronto early this afternoon.

HORSE BROKE LEG

A horse owned by Richard Brooks, a carter residing on Ridley Avenue broke one of it's legs in a pasture field last evening and it was found necessary to shoot the animal. The accident happened in a deep hole which caused the fracture.

PICTON FAIR

Many from Belleville and vicinity attended Picton Fair yesterday afternoon and according to reports the management have excelled themselves in this year's exhibition. The horse races were all keenly contested and provided some fine entertainment for turf followers. Several acts of vaudeville was staged in front of the grand stand are fine feature attractions. A pageant with several hundred people taking part is staged nightly.

CARS COLLIDED

A car owned by Chas. Hall, hardware merchant was damaged about the fenders when struck by a motor driven by William Boyd at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle streets last evening at 7.30. Hall was driving up Bridge Street with Boyd's car following closely behind. The former turned around at the intersection and Mr. Boyd struck the rear end of the car in front of him. Chief of Police Kidd investigated.

FUNERAL TODAY

The funeral of the late Willard Demarais took place from the home of his parents Albert Street this afternoon to Belleville Cemetery. The services were under the auspices of the Masonic Ordr. Th surg attendance and the number of floral tributes testified to the deep esteem in which the deceased was held.

SPY CONFESSES

where, "at the order of the British Staff, he helped to organize a Russian delegation to go to London and plead with the British Government to intervene against the Soviet," himself steering the petition to the British Parliament as national delegate."

After that he returned to his old calling as a sea captain and claims that he entered "Captain Bruce Lockhart's mansion," even refusing to embark speedily passengers on Russian mail in 1918, when at a love feast in Reval he professed the "British spy master" to go and organize spying in Leningrad, specializing in naval and aviation problems. Boyce warned him, "if you poach you are a dead man," and Colonel Minkevich told him to be careful in his dealings with certain employees of the consulates of bordering states in British spy work. They are a lot of damned scoundrels," he was told.

The examination of the other accused, five of whom are women, is proceeding. Prosecuting Attorney Kisch read statements of Stevegren, the Finnish colonel charged with extortion, and one of twenty executed by the Cepo as reprisals for Volkoff's murder.

Women's News and Views

CURSE OF LOVE

by Mildred Barlow

Once, when a great sheaf of roses arrived without a card, Ada was in the seventh heaven of delight. She was sure they were a gift from Hal-court. Norma hadn't the heart to dis illusion her, although she had just received a letter from her father saying among other things: "I ordered some flowers yesterday for your little Mrs. Lind and I plumb forgot about saying who they were from. You might just tell her your old Dad sent them. I'm coming down next Sunday to see you, and I'd like to stand in well with her."

Norma's pretty brows drew together as shesread. Ada was the first woman to her father had paid attention since her mothers death. Was there any significance in the gift of flowers, or was it just her father's effort to show kind to his daughter in her illness? courtesy to one who had been very

"It's not like Daddy to go about it so conventionally," thought Norma in dubiously. "He'd be much more likely to commit the blunder of offering her a cheque."

To Ada, she said — not wanting to spoil that ecstatic moment:

"I wouldn't mention the flowers to Major Harcourt, if I were you. Since he didn't enclose a card, he probably wants the gift to seem anonymous. It's much more romantic, don't you think?"

Ada did think so. She fairly thrilled with the sentiment of such procedure, and when, a few days later, more roses arrived, still without a card — J. P.' again left the explanation to his daughter — she was certain that the Englishman cherished a secret passion for her and was only biding his time to confess it.

One day, as they were goin into the hotel dining-room to luncheon Ada accused herself hurriedly.

"I forgot to look up my jewel-case, and the house-maid told me this morning that they would put fresh curtains in my room and change the chair covers. It's unwise to leave things around, don't you think?"

She came back presently to the table he had reserved, with a large hand-bag swung over her arm.

"I brought it with me,' she laughed patting the bag.

He smiled indulgently.

"You women are careless with your valuables. It's not surprising to read in the newspapers almost every day of thousands of dollars worth of jewels disappearing."

He looked at her inquiringly.

"I have one exquisit jewel," she explained. "I don't believe there's another thing like it in all the world."

"You rouse my curiosity."

He was smiling skeptically. "What is this remarkable stone of yours?"

"A black opal!" he started slightly. "They're rather rare."

"I've told you that I believe there is no other like this one in the world."

After a moment's silence, he asked quietly:

"Would you mind showing it to me? I know a good deal about stones."

It struck her that Major Harcourt was rather distrait torhouhtg O;'s'; Norma's secret disturb throughout the ... She was afraid, with that timorous prescience of all women in love, that she was boring him. So she hurried her own luncheon and led the way to the lounge, where she chose a secluded corner and seated herself on a big divan, with the coffee service on a low table in front of her.

"Now!," she smiled at him and open ed her hand-bag, "you shall see the loveliest jewel in the world!"

CHAPTER 34.

A RELUCTANT CONFESSION

Major Marcourt stared for a long time in silence at the black opal that Ada had placed in his palm. His face was inscrutable, mask-like.

"How did you come by this?" he asked finally.

Ada told him what she knew of the opal's history, together with what Norma had added.

"But how came it to be where Mrs. Kendall found it?" he asked. "Is there no explanation of that?"

Ada shook her head.

"Mrs. Kendall advertised, but no one claimed it — at least, no one who could describe the bag in which it was found."

She looked at him curiously, sensing something that had escaped her at first.

"You have seen it before?"

He didnt answer at first, then:

"Yes. I have seen it before."

Ada felt, a thrill of excitiqued.

"Where?" she demanded breathlessly. "To whom does it belong?"

His answered her last question first.

"It belongs to—no one! Or perhaps to the devil."

She shivered, unaccountably.

"You almost frighten me. But tell me, where have you seen it before?" she persisted.

"Once in China," he answered slowly, "a great many years ago. More recently in America."

"Oh!" she cried, "then you must know the real owner."

Even as she spoke, she felt a keen disappointment, a sense of loss. If Harcourt knew the opal's owner, then it must be restored at once. And she couldn't bear the thought of losing it. Unlucky as it would seem to have proved itself to be, its fascination was strong. She and Norma had discussed that — the curious, ominous spell that it seemed to cast on every one who possessed it.

To her last question, Harcourt shook his head.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and have been going with a boy two years my senior.

I promised him I would not go with anyone but him. I love him dearly but on several occasions, I have broken my promise. I am afraid if I tell him I want to keep company with others he will get angry.

CURLY.

CURLY: You should never have made such a promise, my dear, for unless you are engaged, it is your privilege, and one you should use, to go out with many people. I would suggest that you have a talk with your friend and explain how you feel. If his interest in you is a sincere one, he will appreciate your attitude and agree that it is a more sensible one. However, while this promise still holds good, it is hardly fair for you to make other dates. I would advise you to have your talk immediately so that you can be free to do as you please.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I'm a girl of sixteen too young to write to boys and have dates with them?

BROWN EYES.

BROWN EYES: You are young, my dear, but if your mother permits you to correspond and make dates with boys, it is all right for you to do so. I would suggest that you be guided by her advice.

INCONSTANT NYMPHS AND THEIR TROUBLES

DEAR ELSIE:

I am 19 years of age. I've been out of High School for two years and have been working in an office for quite a while. I'm about as attractive as the average girl with good shape, pretty clothes, and a good form. I've always been told that I had a good personality and I have been fairly popular through school and since I finished, having a good many friends on both sexes. Until the last two years I've played around with several different fellows, good friends you with all of them but not caring especially for any one of them. In the last two years I have been engaged to three different fellows. You are thinking I am very young to even be thinking of such things, but I have been dating fellows for five years and everyone thinks I am older than I really am.

I was crazy about every one of these fellows when I was going with each. Then something would happen, I never knew just what, and I would suddenly wake up to the fact that I didn't care anything for the particular fellow I was going with. They were all fine fellows, a few years older than I am, had good positions and were wonderful to me.

I am not the sort of girl who gets herself engaged just for an excuse to be a gold-digger. In fact, a compact, a few diamonds and a show once or twice a week were the only things a boy had to spend his money for on me. I don't believe anyone can call that gold digging. I never accept expensive presents.

I don't know what is wrong with me. I am interested for a short time in a fellow and then I don't care a thing for him any more. I hate to neck, and they all expect it nowadays. It disgusts me to death. They don't like it when I'm fuse, but they always continue asking me for dates. When I become disinterested they wonder what is wrong and what they have done to make me change toward them. It isn't their fault and I tell them so, but they can't understand me. I hate to be this way. It hurts the fellows and causes me to lose many friends. I try not to show the way I feel, but somehow or other they can always detect it. I have done my best to overcome this feeling, but I have failed utterly. It isn't that I'm too critical; I am satisfied easily if a fellow treats me half decently. I don't expect good looks or money or anything else. I think I have simply become spoiled because I started so young. I have grown tired of boys. I don't want to be this way, I'd give anything if I could meet someone I could care for always.

I know I am still awfully young, but if I feel this way now, what will it be a few years later? I will surely appreciate anything you may advise that will help me. It makes me so unhappy to be this way. Can you help me out? I will watch anxiously for your column for an answer. MRG.

Nineteen years old—

A Man not because actions was more buoyant, Mrg, and think back to what meant A Man. It would have meant A Man not cause grandma was more romantic than you are, or because there were more alluring, but the modern breed, but because home-making was practically the only career open to a woman. To be an "old maid" in Grandma's youth meant hard labor and grudging charity. A dreary lot— no wonder grandma was eager to get married and didn't waste very much time fussing over her choice. Yes, nineteen meant a man to Grandma, and the sooner the better.

But what does nineteen mean to you?

It may mean a thousand things besides a man. Wonderful opportunities, countless adventures, delicious independence. Of course, the impulse of your heart is toward marriage if you're a normal girl, but when it comes to taking the actual step you're bound to be influenced by the thought of all those other possibilities. That doesn't mean that you are necessarily. You're not. It simply means that the economic and social situation doesn't force you into marriage at it did grandma, and that therefore you can't feel the same eagerness and enthusiasm and anxiety which she felt. You're weighing your chances, not in dollars and cents, but in joy and freedom and power and adventure. And the man must wait a while until you've looked things over.

But, don't worry. You won't go on weighing forever. Love is still the greatest thing in every normal woman's life, life and husbands and babies and homes still her greatest career. In three or four years you'll discover that fact. You'll have had your fling at fun, you'll have satisfied your perfectly natural curiosities and you'll begin to feel a little wistful hunger for your very own home and your very own man. AND THEN YOU'LL FALL IN LOVE FOR KEEPS!

And I wouldn't be a bit surprised if one of the men you're rejecting will suddenly be magicted into the Conquering Hero. What'll you wager, little girl? Will you write and tell me if he does?

WOMAN SUFFERED TERRIBLY

Found Relief by Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. A Remarkable Case

MRS. J.L. COURCHAINE
BY. ADOLPHE, MANITOBA

St. Adolphe, Manitoba. — "I was very weak and had great pains during my periods so that I could not every do the floor. The pains were in the right side and extended to the left and then down wards. It seemed as if the body was heavy and upside down, it is for these troubles I took the Vegetable Compound. I saw about it in a paper and some one revealed me to try it, I did. It has helped me in every way. I do my own work, and I have more appetite. It is a pleasure to me to know how perfectly the benefit they have received. Their letters show

Found Great Relief

Toronto, Ont. — "I am at the Change of Life with hot flashes, dizziness, weakness and nervousness. I had head noises and was short of breath. I was this way about six months when I read about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound in the newspapers. I have taken eight bottles so far and found great relief." —Mrs. R. J. Sabaut, 112 Lawlor Ave., Toronto, Ont.

Mrs. Carr Also Helped

Muncie, Indiana.— "I had inflammation and the doctor said I was in a very bad condition. My hips and back felt like broken cutting pains. I suffered terribly and could not get around to do my work. I had indigestion and very bad headaches and could not sleep as I was so nervous. I took local treatments and they did me no good. I had always heard of Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine and I thought it would be like all the others, but I found out after I took half a bottle as I have proved it wonderful. I am taking it yet and I can do all my work. I am feeling fine now, and it is your good medicines that have done it. I tell every woman of the good I get from taking the Vegetable Compound and Liver Pills and Sanative Wash." —Mrs. Ida Carr, R. No. 8, Yorktown, Indiana.

Such letters prove the great merit of the Vegetable Compound. They let you know how it helps other women and

3 Hygienic Worries

Women Formerly Experienced

Uniquely Overcome

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

OLD-TIME "sanitary pads" are largely being supplanted now. They lacked efficiency in three embarrassing ways. 60 in 10 better-class women now employ a new way called KOTEX.

Kotex ends the fear of light frocks and long hours under the most severe hygienic situation. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the world's super absorbent, it is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad.

It ends also another worry—it deodorizes completely In it acts. And it ends forever the embarrassment of disposal. You simply burn it like tissue.

Get Kotex at any store. 12 in box. Look for name "Kotex" on box. If not there, watch out; substitutes are numerous.

KINGSTON EX. TO OPEN ON MONDAY

Of interest to many people locally is the announcement of the Kingston Industrial Exhibition, commencing Monday next, and regarded as the largest exhibition in Central Ontario. The dates for this year's big Fair in the Limestone City are September 12, 13, 14, 15, 16 and 17—six days of education, entertainment and amusement on a scale unsurpassed in this part of the Province.

Large crowds of local citizens as well as from the surrounding district, annually visit the Exhibition of our neighboring city, and their number will undoubtedly be considerably increased this Fall, as the Kingston Exhibition promises to offer more attractions than ever before. The Entertainment Committee has arranged an entirely new programme—contracted with one of the largest Carnival Companies in America, as well as offering a performance which includes eleven acts, featured by Barney Demarest and his Wonderful Trained Animals.

Another $20,000 is being expended on prizes and entertainment, with valuable prizes offered for races of various kinds. The best of music will be offered, too, before the Grand Stand, afternoon and evening, along with the other entertainments.

With these attractions and special rates available on all railroads, probably more citizens of Belleville, than ever before will take in the Kingston Exhibition.

TOTEM ART IS BEING REVIVED

Campbell River, B.C., Sept. 8. (C.P.) An Indian art that has all but vanished is being revived here by Chief Joseph Smith, one of the few remaining totem building of the Coast tribe.

So far as known there are only two or three Indians living in British Columbia who have mastered the totem building art and Joseph is one of them. He lives in a modernly furnished house of his own building on the fringes of the Campbell River reservation and in his garden he has built several totem poles. They are not for sale, he says.

"By and by maybe I sell some", he said. But he is determined to build a sufficient number so that even if he does sell some of these pictures symbols of Indian culture there will be plenty left to adorn his village. The totem poles, most of them carved images of crows, salmon, bears, wolves and so on, each figure being symbolic of an Indian family's household deity.

The sight of the dilapidated totem poles of former generations near the old Campbell River reservation stirred Chief Smith to revive the totem art. For years he has been a master of it, but not until recent has he made a serious attempt to replace all the poles sold or otherwise removed from their original native location.

BIG BATTLE ON FRIDAY NIGHT

Cubs Confident Of Trimming Frontenacs At Armouries

Just one more day and the big battle that the fans have been waiting for will be here. The battle in question is between the Frontenacs and Cubs inside the Armouries at 8.15 p.m.

Each team has been practising every evening for the past week so a real fast game is assured for the fans.

Twig Woodley, Manager of the Cubs claims the reputation of his team lies in Friday nights game while Reg. Montcrief also claims his team cannot lose to a club like the Cubs, so lets all go and give "girls softball" a real boost.

BELLE THEATRE

Few motion pictures have aroused the sustained interest that followed "The Rough Riders" from the time it was first announced that it would be filmed to the date of its release.

From all reports on initial showings this Paramount production which comes to the Belle Theatre for its local premiere today is deserving of the wide spread discussion that has attended it.

Jesse L. Lasky, first vice-president of Paramount Famous Lasky Corporation, and B. P. Schulberg, associate producer, who had much at stake on the standard which the picture would assume when finished, have called it "a projection room sensation" meaning that the critical test of its first run in completed form caused tremendous enthusiasm among studio executives.

Frank Hopper has portrayed the real Roosevelt, critics agree. A love story without compare has for its central characters, Mary Astor, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack. The strongest support naturally would be expected from such notable screen actors as Noah Beery, George Bancroft and Fred Kohler.

REGENT THEATRE

Don't miss "Rolled Stockings" when it reaches the Regent Theatre today. For ever a picture had what Elinor Glyn aptly characterizes as "it" "Rolled Stockings" is it! Louise Brooks and Nancy Phillips do their share in clever fashion, while James Hair and Richard Arlen aren't exactly slouches either. Ed Brendel looks up the comedy like the trouper he is.

Three More Cases Of Infantile Paralysis Reported In Edmonton

Edmonton, September 8.—The death toll from the dread infantile paralysis which has been raging here for several weeks still stands at nine today, no deaths having been reported in the last 24 hours. Three fresh cases were reported by the city health department today, bringing the total to ninety since the start of the epidemic.

The schools of city schools, scheduled for last Tuesday, has been postponed and the further opening date is set for September 12. Children under 16 years of age have been barred from moving picture theatres under orders of the city board of health until the epidemic abates.

Read This! If You Have Varicose Veins

If you or any relative or friend are worried or suffer from varicose veins, or bunches, the best advice that anyone in this world can give is to get a prescription that literally hundreds of people all over the country are using with complete satisfaction.

Simply ask your druggist for an ounce of Emerald Oil, and one of Emerald Oil and apply night and morning to the swollen, enlarged veins, rubbing gently upward and towards the heart as the blood in the veins flows that way. Even the first few nights that they are growing smaller and the treatment should be continued until the veins are of normal size. Emerald Oil is a powerful, yet harmless germicide and results are guaranteed by Doyle's Drug Store, and all good druggists.

PETES SWAMPED BY DELORO CLUB

Smelters Triumphed In Listless Game By 16-1 Score

Looking like a tribe of novices the Petersboro Crescents, Intermediate champions of the Lit-lock city went down to an ignominious defeat at the hands of the Deloro team here yesterday in the play off game for the right to meet the winners of the Kingston-Port Hope series. The score was 16-1. It was the most listless and lackadaisical affair to be staged on the local ballfield this year and half of the fans departed before the game was completed.

Deloro scored four in the first inning and after that it was just a procession of runners crossing the plate. Deloro played real snappy ball and never stopped trying until the last man was out and were evidently trying to "rub it in" following their defeat in Peterboro on Saturday.

Mein started on the mound for the Crescents but he didn't mean a thing to the walloping champions and the fourth inning saw his descent from the hillock.

Billingsley an elongated lad was faced with the task of subduing Elliott's boys. But the northerners opened up with another barrage which they played remarkably fine ball in the field themselves and kept the Petes off the score sheet. They fluidly were rewarded for their efforts in the eighth inning when they hung up the lone tally.

Von Jack who holds down short-stop was sent to the box and he turned in an excellent performance. He fanned five and limited the Crescents to four safe blows.

Many in the stands were surprised at the Petes winning the last game played on Saturday. Either they were off color yesterday or the Deloro team suffered a relapse at the Riverside Park.

PIRATES MARGIN RUDELY MENACED

Reds Took Fall Out Of Corsairs—Pittsburgh's Belated Rally

New York, Sept. 8.—Cincinnati gave the pennant aspirations of the Pittsburgh Pirates another jolt yesterday by taking the odd games of a five-game Pittsburgh series, 6 to 5, with the second place Ohioans idle. The defeat narrowed the Pirates' hold on first place in half a game. Hill, who started for Pittsburgh, was wild and was relieved by Dawson in the eighth. Costly fielding fumbles also figured largely in the Cincinnati scoring.

The Reds scored three runs in the third inning on two walks, a double by Dressen, a sacrifice fly and Harris muff off Wright's throw on Bressler's ground er. Cincinnati put two more runs across in the next inning on a single, another walk and a second two-base hit by Dressen, the second going in on Barnhart's low return to Traynor at Dressen's hit. The visitors' sixth run was scored in the sixth on a single by Sukeforth, a stolen base, Smith's wild throw and Dressen's sacrifice fly.

The Pirates were held scoreless until the third when two runs were counted on a walk, singles by the Waner brothers and a double steal on which Lloyd Waner scored. Wright's double sent Traynor home and added another in the sixth. Wright hit for the circuit in the eighth, with the bases empty.

Pittsburgh attempted a rally in the last inning when Harris tripled with one out and scored on Smith's sacrifice fly. Bricknell was sent in to pinch hit for Dawson, but lined out to Pitcher.

Lloyd Waner returned to middle field after having been out of the game since Monday with a split finger.

USE SULPHUR TO CLEAR SKIN

The First Application Makes Skin Cool and Comfortable.

If you are suffering from eczema or some other torturing, embarrassing skin trouble you can quickly be rid of it by using Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist.

This sulphur preparation, because of its germ destroying properties, seldom fails to quickly subdue itching, even the fiery eczema. The first application makes the skin cool and comfortable. Rash and blotches are healed right up. Rowles Mentho-Sulphur is perfectly harmless. You can obtain a small jar from any good druggist.

TWO MORE HOME RUNS FOR RUTH

Brings Total To 49—May Pass 1921 Mark This Year

Boston, Mass., Sept. 8.—The Ring was still running rampant here yesterday and while the Yanks experienced some difficulty in wrestling the final game of the series from the Red Sox, 12 to 10, Babe Ruth found no trouble at all in blasting two more home runs out of Fenway Park, thereby bringing his season's total up to 49. As a result, the monarch is leading the boyish Lou Gehrig who made no homers at all yesterday by four complete laps in the great American home run derby, and it is now very apparent that it is the Babe's keen intention to shoot the derby full of holes. Serious thought is even now being given to the possibility of Ruth surpassing his world's record of 59 made in 1921.

The first Ruthian smash came in the first inning with one out, nobody on base, and Danny MacFayden pitching. Presumably for sake of variety, the Babe heaved this one over the high left field barrier, a point he seldom makes his target.

The second came in the eighth with Ellm Harris pitching. It soared to a great height and fell in the extreme corner of the centre field bleachers, incidentally finishing some peculiar antics on the way. Presumably up to that point of winning the game.

In addition to this the Babe also got a single and a double. In fact by driving in two more runs, so that in all Ruth piled in five of the Yanks' runs. For his part, Gehrig had to be satisfied with two singles, a triple and some close to clearing the left field wall in almost the same spot as did the Babe's.

The game itself was a slam bang affair, in which the Yankees finally caught runs, rallying the fourth, which enabled them to stand in front until the sixth, when the Yanks retaliated with a cluster of six, and followed this up with three in the seventh and two more in the eighth, whereupon the Sox final ly called a truce and conceded the pennant to the Yanks.

GOING AROUND THE WORLD ON SIXPENCE

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—Around the world—for sixpence is some claim. An Indian said it couldn't be done so Maurice MacLennan, of Aberdeen, Scotland, decided to do it. The wager is an ice cream cone.

MacLennan arrived in Winnipeg recently on a harvester's special, his sixpence still intact, having earned a few shillings working on a farm near Claremont. He expects to harvest in the Saskatoon district and will make enough money to carry him as far as the coast. From there he will take a boat to the Orient, just what part he doesn't mind as long as he keeps travelling west.

HOPE TO SAVE TASTY HALIBUT

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 8 (C.P.)—The international halibut commission is still working on plans for the salvation of the halibut, one of the most valuable of the North Pacific's food fishes. Investigation and research have been in progress for several years and while the methods of conservation have not been definitely decided upon, the commission has been convinced that the halibut's numbers are declining in an alarming degree.

The present supply of halibut, accord ing to government experts, is being maintained by resorting to new and far distant fishing banks, by more intensive fishing on depleted banks and the use of smaller hooks.

One of the problems faced by the industry is the tendency of fishermen to catch every fish, but the difficulty of educating fishermen to take only the species is appreciated.

"A fundamental fault of our present knowledge," says J. P. Babcock, commissioner of British Columbia fisheries, "is that we do not know what balance should be maintained between adults and young, between maiden spawners and non-spawners. This can only be determined by skilfully framed and consistent experiments.

GRIZZLIES ARE PLENTIFUL HERE

Bella Coola, B.C., Sept. 8 (By C.P.) —In the rugged, heavily wooded mountain country back of this town there are 348 more grizzly bears than in all the national forests of the United States outside of Montana and Alaska, according to the forest service just completed.

Andy Widstein, of Bella Coola, has just completed his check-up of wild life in adjacent territory, and has reached the conclusion that there are 615 grizzlies in and about the area known as Mackenzie Park, which was recently created a sanctuary for game. Widstein was assisted in his work by trappers and big game hunters and guides who covered all the chief river valleys of the territory in order to carry out the unique census.

There are believed to be about five hundred black bears in Mackenzie Park and neighboring valleys and about fifteen brown bears.

A movement is on foot to make a special grizzly bear hunting ground for big game hunters in Mackenzie Park and Bella Coola is grimly anticipatory in the middle of this hunting ground. It is thought that this movement will cause the grizzlies to migrate to, and take refuge in the

DOMINION NEWS

NEW BOARD IS CAUSING INTEREST

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 8 (C. P.)—The Empire Marketing Board, the new government department established in London, is bringing home very forcibly to the British people the importance of empire products and is creating much interest in the overseas Dominions in the question of marketing them," according to J. Nugent Harris, one of the official lecturers of the board who was in Winnipeg recently.

"I never give lectures on any country unless I have visited it, hence this tour of the Dominion", said Mr. Harris. He said he had been chartered by the Immensity of the Dominion and that the average man in Great Britain had no conception of the vastness of the country and the varying psychology of the different provinces. He thought the possibilities for development on the agricultural side were immense in Canada.

He told of the spreading of the Women's Institute movement in the Motherland, and expressed himself as delighted at the manner in which a movement, originated in Canada, was spreading to New Zealand, Australia, South Africa, various countries in Europe and India.

N. Y. TEAMSTERS ON STRIKE

New York, Sept. 8.—Between 6,000 and 7000 teamsters and truck movement on strike today in an effort to enforce demands for an average wage of $44 a week and an eight-hour day. The agreement which has just expired provides for an average weekly wage of $40, and a nine-hour day.

FRENCH CANUCKS RETURNING HERE

Winnipeg, Sept. 8.—French Canadian factory workers in the New England States have begun a return migration to Canada which has grown to such proportions that L. A. Deserme, of the Canadian Government Information Bureau at Woonsocket, Rhode Island is making a trip through the west to gain first hand information about business conditions and opportunities available in Western Canada.

Mr. Delorme states that at present there are about 1,500,000 French Canadians in the New England States. Many are returning to their old parishes in Quebec, but there is a pronounced movement to the west. Most of the people who wish to come west, he said, have little capital, but should develop into sturdy settlers.

For Indigestion

DR. A.W. CHASE'S KIDNEY-LIVER PILLS

Acid Stomach

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sourening waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

FOLLOWERS OF ISAAC WALTON AFTER BIG GAME

Campbell River, B.C., Sept. 8.—Aristocrats of the fishing world are here in pursuit of the king of Canadian game fish—the Tyee salmon. Although the run was late in materializing, good catches have been made lately by light rod and tackle and the Tyee Club has awarded several medals to fishermen fortunate enough to land fish of more than thirty pounds in weight.

The biggest Tyee landed so far this season was 51 pounds. He was captured by F. A. Coleman, Seattle angler. Several forty-pounders have been taken and thirty-pounders are common. The Tyee is the biggest of Pacific Coast salmon and every summer they gather in their unnumbered thousands at the mouth of the Campbell River to enter the spawning grounds.

Fishermen have come to Campbell River this year from as far away as London, Eng., Several British naval men are numbered among the fishing fraternity this year, but most of the Tyee men are mostly wealthy anglers from the Pacific Northwest States. One of the most ardent visitors is Dr. J. A. Wiborn, master fisherman of Catalina Island, California, who spends most of the year fishing and has landed tarpon and swordfish and tuna.

TOOK A CHANCE—WON

Port Arthur, Ont., Sept. 8.—Two tourists from Milwaukee, Wis., took a chance and won when they drove a large touring car over a high railway trestle which spans the turbulent Nipigon River near Nipigon, Ont., Monday. The trestle is without railings, and is sixty feet high.

STRONG EARTHQUAKE FELT IN JAPAN

Tokio, Sept. 8.—A strong earthquake shock was felt over a wide area in central Japan at 7.32 o'clock this evening. It lasted several minutes. No reports of casualties or damage have been received.

DIDN'T STOP

Kingston, Sept. 8.—Many people have been asking what became of the car, the blinding headlights of which caused the car driven by the late F. W. Davis to swerve and resulted in his death. The question has been asked by many who wondered why it did not stop and render assistance.

It is pointed out that the driver of the car with the blinding headlights probably did not know that an accident had occurred. By the time the late Mr. Davis' car had swerved and then turned turtle, the other car was several hundred yards away, and in the darkness probably never knew that an accident had occurred.

NEW FIRE APPARATUS

Peterboro, Sept. 8.—The new ladder truck for the Peterboro Fire Department arrived yesterday and last night was viewed by the Council before the City Hall. This morning the men are being instructed in the handling of the machine. The advent of the latest acquisition marks the passing of the last of the old horse-drawn vehicles from the ranks of the local Fire Brigade. The addition of this motor apparatus will add greatly to the efficiency of the department, as, for some fires, the ladder truck is needed as soon as, if not before, the others.

PETTY THIEVERY

Oshawa, Sept. 8.—A quantity of cigarettes was stolen from the freight sheds of the Oshawa Railway Company on Athol street sometime during last night according to information given by the police today. The loot consisted of only two small packages having an approximate value of $5. The goods were recovered by the police this morning and further developments are to be expected shortly. As yet however, no one has been placed under arrest.

GAS THEFTS

Peterboro, Sept. 8.—Unmistakable evidences of the activities of gas stealers from their tanks on George street during the extended week end holiday was discovered on the resumption of business Tuesday by A. W. Watson and F. R. J. McPherson.

Mr. Watson found the nozzle of his gas tank so badly damaged that its use was attended with great inconvenience, and he has been put to some expense and worry to repair the havoc. Still greater destruction was wrought on the property of his neighbors, the F. R. J. McPherson Company where the expensive bowl at the top of the tank was cracked, apparently by impact from the nozzle. A fifty dollar bill will barely cover the damage.

ALPINIST NOW ON 6TH CLIMB

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 8. — Cyril G. Wates, well-known Edmonton alpinist, is conducting his sixth mountain climbing expedition into the Tonquin region of the Rockies. Mr. Wates with a party of nine, left Jasper Park on Aug. 1, heading for the comparatively unknown mountains west and south of Mount Geikie.

Autos were used to convey the party to the mouth of Portal Creek near Mt. Edith, Cavell, and thence they travelled by pack horse and on foot to Amethyst Lake in the Tonquin Valley. The party intends circling the Ramparts range over Sarbiacal Pass, and to camp on Geikie meadows, site of the earlier camps from which the successful attacks on Mt. Geikie were made.

The climbing party will not accompany the pack train, but will cross the range through Drawbridge Pass, a high snow and ice pass, later descending the valley of Geikie Creek and ascending to Icefall Lake, where the expedition will go into camp. Icefall Lake has not been visited by a climbing party so far as is known. It lies at the foot of Mt. Simon, the highest peak in the whole district, from which descend two great glaciers into the lake. The entire area has unclimbed peaks, and one of these, Mt. Posters, a great rock tower, will be one of the objectives of the party.

The personnel of the party, most of whom are experienced climbers, is as follows: Cyril G. Wates, A. O. leader Messrs. A. Bloomer, E. Waterer Capt. Rex Gibson, Misses H. Clyde, M. A. Burns and G. Pickford.

CANADA OUTSTRIP THE UNITED STATES?

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 8.—"I sincerely predict that in 100 years perhaps sooner, Canada will outstrip the United States," was the statement made by W. T. Crandield, director of the Canadian Official Press Bureau, at London, Eng., who paid a visit to this city recently.

Speaking of the Dominion, Mr. Crandield said: "You have all the natural resources, a more virile citizenship, a finer race of people. They have a greater respect for morality and the things of life that count. Your traditions are fine and this is no idle boast but is based on sound considération."

Mr. Crandield gave it as his opinion that the wheat crop this year will easily equal the big bumper crop of a few years ago. He thought that the majority of the British settlers who have come out in Canada within the last couple of years, were doing splendidly and "are a credit to themselves and the Soldiers' Settlement Board."

Mr. Crandield has made an extensive tour of the west studying the crop and economic conditions.

3000 ALIENS A WEEK COMING TO CANADIAN SHORE

Influx Of Foreigners Far Exceeds That Of British Stock

FARMERS LEAD

Manitoba Wheat Fields Destination Of Over Thirty Thousand

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—Foreigners are pouring into Canada at the rate of three thousand a week. Since the beginning of the present fiscal year, April 1, more than 47,000 have landed on Canadian shores. This is nearly 30,000 more than were reported in the corresponding four months of April, May, June and July last year. More than 20,000 settled in Ontario and 31,400 in Manitoba so far this year only 9,227 Saskatchewan, 5,909 Irish, 1,153 Welsh and 16,167 English immigrants were secured by the Dominion.

In the first four months of 1926 there were almost as many Britishers as foreigners but during April, May, June and July this year 47,443 immigrants have been admitted. Of these all parts of Europe and Asia, while only 22,816 have come to Canada from the British Isles

The statement of immigration to Canada by races for the four months ended July 31 is interesting. It shows the arrival in this country, of 3,376 Finns, 6,695 Germans, 1,531 Jewish 3,287 Polish (many of whom 100 doubt are Jews), 644 Russians, 2,263 Slovaks, 424 Austrians, 122 Bulgarians 643 Croatians, 420 Czechs, 1,527 Dalmatians, 7,866 Magyars, 6,702 Ruthenians 1,700 Scandinavians.

Occupations of the immigrants arriving in Canada since April 1 this year are shown as follows: Farming class, 22,000; labouring class, 4,500; mechanics, 4,800; trading class, 2700; mining class, 450; female domestic servants, 7,700; other classes, 10,992.

Their destinations were as follows: Nova Scotia, 1,180; New Brunswick, 1,019; Prince Edward Island, 152; Quebec, 2,127; Ontario, 23,200; Manitoba 31,834; Saskatchewan, 9,793; Alberta 8,331; British Columbia, 5,056

BREAKS PAROLE; GIVEN 3 MONTHS

Five Cases In Local Police Court Today—Mattis Freed

Yesterday saw a perfectly clean sheet as far as the local police were concerned, the first clean sheet in many days. Today only five cases were brought up and they were quickly disposed of, the entire court not taking over fifty minutes.

Walter Davidson, on a charge of misappropriation of funds, was given a year's suspended sentence by Magistrate Hall in Police Court today. Davidson pleaded guilty to the charge of taking the money, amounting to $104.34, but he is prepared to make restitution, as well as pay the court costs which amounted to $21. He was defended by Mr. Charles Payne.

Party Sentenced

For breaking his parole, George Digby was sentenced to spend three months in the County Jail at hard labour. The young lad pleaded guilty to the charge. He was released on suspended sentence some time ago on a theft charge, but was not able evidently to live up to the terms of his parole, which included getting in early at nights and keeping out of pool rooms and 'dance halls. He also stole a watch belonging to his father, Mr. Alfred Digby, from a screen lecture and spanked him a good stiff sentence if he ever appeared before him again.

Levi Buckley, on a charge of reckless driving was fined $10 and $6.50 costs.

Charges against Jacob Mattis, of driving a car while intoxicated were dismissed this morning and Mattis was given his freedom.

Pride Of Detroit Safe But No Reassuring Word Of Others

CANCELLED TRIPS

Feeling Grows That Trans-Oceanic Flights Must Be Stopped

New York, Sept. 9.—With the round-the-world plane "Pride of Detroit" reported safe, interest centred in the fate of the five airmen on the transAtlantic planes "Old Glory" and "Sir John Carling".

Fear for the Pride of Detroit's crew, William Brock and Edward Schlee, was dissipated early tonight. After more than thirty hours of lack of advices as to their progress since they left Hanoon, Burma, Wednesday night, word came that they had departed from Hanoi and arrived at Hong Kong.

Meanwhile, no word came to lighten apprehension over the fate of Old Glory, bearers Lloyd Bertaud, James Hill and their passenger, Philip Payne, managing editor of the New York Daily Mirror, or of the Sir John Carling, bearing the Canadian, Capt. Terry Tully and Lieut. James Medcalfe.

It would none of these brave adventurers be found the death toll taken by long distance ocean flight since last May will have mounted to twenty. In addition to seven persons killed since last September in preparation for such flights.

Hope of Rescue Fades

While hope faded for the safety of Tully and Medcalfe in the Sir John Carling as the hours passed without a report of their being sighted, the flying field at Croydon was brilliantly illuminated all night, with colored searchlights playing. Estimates as to the length of time their gasoline supplies would last ranged from 30 to 50 hours.

C. N. R. MORNING TRAINS DELAYED BY DERAILMENT

A derailment on the Canadian National Railways at Lansdowne at 3.25 this morning delayed several trains scheduled to arrive in Belleville in the early hours of the morning. The fast train leaving Montreal at 11 p.m. and reaching Belleville at 4.27 a.m. left the tracks at Sandowne and nine Pullman cars were derailed. Fortunately no one was injured and none of the cars were overturned.

According to Mr. M. F. Duff, Assistant Superintendent, the cause is laid to a broken rail. The engine had passed through when the other nine cars started to sway and within a minute had torn up the right of way on both sides of the track.

Conductor Parrell of Toronto was in charge of the train, with Engineer C. Bonisteel of Belleville at the throttle. Word was rushed to Brockville to have the derrick sent down and the debris was cleared up and the train reached Belleville about eight o'clock this morning.

SOME GOLF!

Freak Game Arranged On New York York Course To Settle Argument

New York, Sept. 9.—The most efficient of four forms of sport for the golf course will be settled tomorrow at a local club to the satisfaction of everybody except the followers of the four sports.

Lois Gehrig, home-run slugger of New York, Eddy Dykes, golfer; Fania W. Croch, archer and Fred Barber and Jack Schwinn, surf and flyrunners, mind their favorite implements will show which can go from the first tee to the eighteenth hole in the least number of strokes, shots, hits, or whatever you call them.

Each of the three brave adventurers to be found the death toll taken by long distance ocean flight since last May will have mounted to twenty. In addition to seven persons killed since last September in preparation for such flights.

CROWDS SWARMED TORONTO CATHEDRAL

Toronto, Sept. 9.—Hugo St. Michael's was filled to capacity when His Eminence Cardinal Mundelein of Chicago, arrived to celebrate Mass. Hundreds of small children were unable to gain admission and knelt outside. The Cardinal celebrated Mass at the main altar while sacrifice was offered up at three other alters by local dignitaries of the church. His Eminence will leave tonight for Chicago.

ENGINE TROUBLE DELAYS DELIVERY OF LETTER MAIL

PILOT MANNOR

Empress Of France Left Shipment At Rimouski

Quebec, Sept. 9.—Canada's first trans-Atlantic air mail attempt broke down this morning when the Vannessa biplane piloted by Manner to hop off from the Royal Canadian Airmeet was unable to leave Rimouski with the mail off inward-bound steamer this morning. Owing to some trouble, the exact nature of which is not known here as yet, the trouble developed with the biplane and Manner was still trying to fix the plane before leaving for Montreal.

While this could not be ascertained at the Quebec postoffice, it was believed by officials there that five hundred pounds of letter mail which the biplane was to take to Montreal, was left at Rimouski by the Empress of France. In that event, the mail in question stands a chance of reaching its destination in Canada several hours later than would have been the case if it had been brought to Quebec by the liner, which is due here at 8.30 this afternoon.

THREE EXECUTED IN BALTIMORE MD.

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 9.—Arthur Bowne, Colin Simmons and Wm. Rose, negroes, all of them convicted murderers, were hanged shortly after midnight in Maryland Penitentiary, the first triple execution in the history of Baltimore.

SEVEN DEAD IN SEVENTY CASES

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 9.—Faced with the report of one more case of infantile paralysis, bringing the total number total to seventeen, the city board of health has extended its order which prevents the opening of public separate and private schools for one week. The seriousness of the situation was realized with the report that of seventy cases received to date, seven have died, usually within a couple of days.

From Provincial points in Central Alberta the first deaths were reported from Sedgwick, Chipman and Forestburg municipal districts, being in each town. Schools are closed at these points also at Lacombe and Ricinity. Vermilion and other towns are adopting preventive measures.

CONVICTED OF ARSON; COMMITTED FOR TRIAL

James Fox was tried before Magistrate Leonard at Deseronto yesterday afternoon and was committed for trial at the next court of competent criminal jurisdiction, on a charge of arson at Belleville.

His brother, Leonard was let go on a charge of vagrancy.

WELL-KNOWN LOCAL YOUTH DIES SUDDENLY

"Pete" Latchford, a young High School student, was seized with a heart attack on Victoria Avenue in front of Col. Lazier's residence after school this afternoon and passed away shortly afterwards.

Dr. A. D. Proctor was called and rendered medical attention.

Young Latchford was well-known in this city where he took an active part in sports and was a real leader for last year's O. H. A. Junior team. He was also a member of the Intelligencer hockey team last winter.

FLIGHT ABANDONED

Schiller And Weed Ordered To Return Home—Will Enter Overland Race

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 9.—C. A. (Dake) Schiller and Phil Weed, pilots of the "Royal Windsor" were notified by the local flight committee today to return home and abandon the proposed flight to Windsor England. It was also decided to enter the plane in the National Airdrome 24-hundred mile non-stop race from New York to Spokane, Washington, which starts September 21. The fliers were advised to abandon their plans in search for Old Glory as such a search is considered useless. They were asked to return home at once and will probably make a non-stop flight from Newfoundland here.

BALLOT SYSTEM IS NOT DECIDED

Decision Will Probably Be Left To Conservative Convention

Ottawa, Sept. 9.—The system to be adopted in the balloting for the Conservative leadership has yet to be decided and will probably be left to the convention. This subject has been much discussed of late even in the organization of the convention and there is much diversity of opinion that the two methods will be placed before the delegates for their consideration at Winnipeg.

At the national Liberal convention the elimination system of balloting was adopted. Four candidates, Right Hon. W. L. Mackenzie King, Right Hon. W. S. Fielding, Right Hon. George P. Graham, and Hon. D. D. McKenzie were before the convention. On the first ballot, Mr. McKenzie was low man and was eliminated, and the same fate was Mr. Graham's on the next leaving Mr. King and Mr. Fielding in the final contest in which the former secured the majority of the votes. Many Conservatives would adopt this system in the selection of their new leader.

Just other method is that all candidates remain in nomination until one receives a clear majority of all the votes cast. In this method the vote will be determined what the majority is to be. In selecting a democratic presidential candidate the successful competitor must poll two-thirds of the votes. Another method of this method for the Conservative national convention proposes the balloting continuing until one of the candidates secures a three-fifth endorsement of the voting delegates; others would have a fifty per cent. vote elect.

Advocates of the system of elimination of the least candidate on each ballot claim that it would be speedy and would eliminate the danger of deadlocking. They point out that under the other method of balloting it would be so difficult to reach a decision that the convention would be subjected to much wrangling in the contest until a decision is reached on some candidate. The man elected by this method would have a better and more definitely decisive endorsation than under the elimination system. The leader would have carried a majority of the votes. They also urge that this method would give a better opportunity for the vast uninstructed experience in civic and provincial affairs and would undoubtedly handle the reins efficiently and well.

As regards the Alderman most of them were more or less silent on the question but it was learned that several of them will not sonsider running for another term.

IVANHOE VILLAGE THREATENED BY FIRE; CHURCH AND GARAGE BURNS

COMING NEXT YEAR

EARDLEY WILMOT NOT A CANDIDATE

Election Talk Stirring The Air—Other Names Are Mentioned

With election day only two months away things are stirring up in the political arena and whisperings of the possible field of candidates for the 1928 Council are already in the air. The Council have not resumed session after the summer vacation and for the most part the present board have given little attention to the impending campaign.

It is almost assured that Mayor Eardley Wilmot will not be a candidate this year although he has not definitely announced his decision Mayor Wilmot had two terms as Alderman and one year in the Mayor's chair and feels that he will not run his hat into the ring.

Alderman Duff who headed the polls last year is a strong possibility for the office of Chief Magistrate. When spoken to this morning Mr. Duff said he had thought little about election as yet. Mr. Duff who is Assistant-Superintendent of the local Division of the C.N.R. would no doubt make a strong bid for the honors with the huge railroad vote in the city behind him.

Alderman Russel Wotte admitted that there was a possibility of his entering the field. "It all depends how it composes the slate as to whether I run" was Alderman Wotten's answer to the query.

Ex-Alderman Harry Greenleaf who was a strong contender last year was out of the city but those in close touch with him believe that he will allow his name to go before the electorate. Mr. Greenleaf has had a wide and varied experience in civic and municipal affairs and would undoubtedly handle the reins efficiently and well.

As regards the Alderman most of them were more or less silent on the question but it was learned that several of them will not sonsider running for another term.

Blaze Discovered In Wood Shed At Rear Of Store

FARMERS HELPED

Beulah United Church Fell Prey To Flames—Store Menaced

Fire swept through the tiny village of Ivanhoe, near Madoc, about 5.30 last evening, totally destroying the Beulah United Church, a woodshed and garage belonging to Mr. T. E. Fleming and caught on the roofs of houses owned by Mr. Fleming and Mrs. M. A. Tumson. Mr. Fleming's store, across the road, which also serves as a Post Office was ignited, and a truck parked in the garage at the rear of the Fleming house was destroyed.

Ivanhoe is only a hamlet, and at one time it was feared that the whole village would be burned out. The fire is believed to have been started by a spark from the stove of Mrs. Benson, whose home is situated near Mr. Flemings woodshed, where the conflagration was first discovered.

The entire countryside responded to the fire alarm and nearly the whole night battled the raging flames, assisted by the fire brigade of Madoc, which was called when the flames started to get out of control. Several bucket brigades were formed to assist in an effort to save the church and garage, but all to no avail. The only part of the church left standing is a small shed at the back and the garage and woodshed are a mass of ruins, still smouldering today.

Flames, roaring high into the sky attracted the attention of farmers for miles around, and the greater portion of the village of Madoc was on hand to assist in every way they could. Gigantic efforts were made to save the Methodist Church, and it was probably due to these efforts that the entire hamlet was not razed to the ground.

Origin Unknown

The United church was only covered with about $1000 insurance, which is only a small portion of the cost to build a new one.

The truck was not insured at all, nor were the wood shed or garage belonging to Mr. Fleming.

Early Start

The house roof (tree were put out without much difficulty as was the blaze in the attic across the road.

The church is the first frame construction partially crumbled to the ground under the heat of the scathing flames. It is situated on the corner, of the main road leading to the north of.

Mr. T. E. Fleming is a brother of Mr. David Fleming, of this city.

"PIG-SKIN" PETERS MAY COME HERE

Mr. Joseph Imlah is in Toronto today in connection with the arrangements for the Belleville-Peterborough which opens here a week from Monday. Ald R. Wotten returned from Toronto last night and is also in the city on business.

Should the game be a success for the people of Belleville and district, the Kiwanis are endeavouring to complete plans to bring "Pig-Skin Peters" made famous through his connection with the Marathon Swim, to Toronto here. If "Pig-Skin" is influenced he will likely be accompanied by his trainer Trudel and distitian. Several other new features are in store for the patrons.

FEEDING THE WORLD

A world population conference, now deliberating at Geneva is wrestling with the twin problems of human nutrition and reproduction of the human species.

One theory advanced and the data on it, is that A.D. of world population of the nations; and a survey of the world's food production areas, having just published in print, gives rise to the conclusion that when increase of food and human procreation will be equalized.

The founding pages of scientific book-lore are advanced with scientific progress. They are as evident as the unreasonable hatred of gentleman, national desires to maintain military strength; the desire of "despotic rulers to have the maximum number of subjects, and almost always a lack of appreciation of adherents or followers, racial declination in a world sense, and complacencies as to degrees for the over pale.

The theory, set a quarter ago the late Thomas Robert Malthus, on the basis of unequal of overpopulation and under-production of food, originated the theory now being celebrated; and advanced over by the Geneva savants, which will require to have responded ample to the challenge for at the end of the eighteenth century—upon the authority of Lord Beaconsfield—after the Malthusian principles of Population had run full its course, and the deadly diseases of the many who could afford it were rather more plentiful. Then the predicted Malthusian mark, according to Beaconsfield there was available at once taken on enough for 30 or more called "rural" with a horde of dark remaining in its centre. For this a large meat pike of a score of pounds. For other side of it is a big pile of turnips and other quantities of what was termed "bombarded veal." Then there was a great "entrails pie," containing the bodies of chickens, pigeons and rabbits all enshrined in the spices, pickles and vegetables, and savory balls of meat, bedewed with a rich sauce of claret, an savory and sweet herbs. For dessert a huge "Everyday tart, old English pudding—a most robust pleasure" and a strand of jelly of many colors. The repast closed with a dish of [illegible] cheese and a magazine of [illegible]. And there was general consumption of Burgundy and Portugese wine in addition to beer.

The German population conference may be right in its speculations. But so many things may happen meanwhile. The Gentile mind, for [illegible] will go to the Queen's pro-[illegible] much ground for 40 years or more of material prosperity. If in the following fifty years comes the [illegible] as befogged, the rule of survival of the fittest should find no [illegible] unprepared.

MAKING PROGRESS

Wheat made from Canadian hard [illegible] is now being sold by way of [illegible] to Czecho-Slovakia where it is found that it reduces the working hours in the bakeshops one hour per day.

Last year Canada's exports to the [illegible] Free State were fifty per cent. larger than the year before—the exports [illegible] being mainly wheat. Four [illegible] and lumber.

It is surprising how the trade [illegible] duties in our natural wealth, and exporting all around the world. The canned salmon of British Columbia go to nearly every part of the world where the ships can carry them. A refrigerator service carries our fruits and vegetables to the cash coast of South Africa. Canada's bees are shipped to England and will this year go to Australia. Sixty thousand bees and queens have been sent this year from Vancouver to Brazil, and as dietary heifers were recently sent from Vancouver to Brazil and spiders were shipped to all corners of the world. Every honey heifer were recently sent from Vancouver to Sarnia Bay Isl. A small factory in Ontario put out some machinery the other day to a place in the interior of India. The Canadian Pacific Railway has also a shipp of wood to be used in making a reaper never known whether the machine will be sold to a farmer 50 miles away or exported to Russia or [illegible].

This country is now carrying on a trade with the world beyond her own borders that equals in total value the foreign trade the United States was doing when Washington was in the times what ours is. The facilities for doing business with the whole world as a trading area are improving every day—transportation, communication, banking, commercial intelligence and international loyalties are every day doing their work better.

"KINDNESS WEEK"

The United States is not the only country which is addicted to having special weeks and days. The British people also have the habit, it seems, and surely they need make no apology for the "Week of Kindness" which they recently celebrated. The object of this "Kindness Week" was to help bring the people to think more of others, to be helpful to those who are in need of assistance, to be gentle to the weak, to be charitable even to the ill-disposed, to be thoughtful of others and to give practical aid to the poor. In this "week of goodness" the animals were not forgotten either and the public was urged by speakers and literature to be humane in all dealings with the dumb creatures. There will be cynics of course, who will sneer at this movement. It is easy to regard it as a mere sloppy sentimentality, but it has far reaching effects. But it cannot be denied that we are all in need of being reminded at times of the duty of unselfishness which is the first great essential of kindly conduct. Modern existence demands so much of us that we are in danger of neglecting the good old-fashioned virtues. A whole week devoted to the task of focussing attention upon the duty of cultivating a neighborly and benevolent disposition should do much for the character of a nation. The French [illegible] could be copied with advantage to all other countries. Among the [illegible] which the week celebrated upon this continent a "Kindness Week" might well find no honored place.

NATURE

As a fond mother, when the day is o'er,
Leads by the hand her little child to bed;
Half willing, half reluctant to be led,
And leaves its broken playthings on the floor,
Still gazing at them through the open door.
Nor wholly reassured and comforted
By promises of others in their stead,
Which, though more splendid, may not please him more;
So Nature deals with us, and takes away
Our playthings one by one, and by the hand
Leads us to rest so gently, that we go
Scarce knowing if we wish to go or stay,
Being driven deep down into the opposite scale of [illegible] to understand How far the unknown transcends the what we know.

OTHER-MEN'S THOUGHTS

It is now nearly seven years since one of the chief planks in the platform of the Rt. Hon. Mackenzie King was reform of the Senate. The only reform which has been apparent has been the appointment of defeated Liberal candidates to the Upper House.—London, Ont. Free Press.

The conquest of the air will come for what man has done, other men will continue to do, and will find a method of doing better and easier and by. But the lesson of 1927 in the air is that we still make haste but slowly in the everlasting conflict of man with nature, and that the genius of human invention is still an infinite capacity for taking pains.—Vancouver Province.

Safety of the public on the highway of the future is impossible, so long as reckless drivers have a loose rein. The occupants of the most sanely driven car are only safe when criminal driving is made next to the impossible. To such a case the violation of decency come that careful autoists venture on the northern roads in question with a feeling that they are setting out on a hazardous journey.—Winnipeg Tribune.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

The 15th Battalion will make a night attack at the fair next Thursday evening. On the same evening Prof. Mand's fireworks will be displayed.

Clarence Pettingill, who was burned in the right eye with sulphuric acid on Monday last, is improving and his physician believes he will save the sight of the eye.

Frulein Haltermann's lecture "German in five weeks" proved to be all that could be desired. She possesses wonderful power and her recital of the modern Jonah "Fish Story" was excellently amusing.

The new uniforms which are grad ually replacing the old uniforms of Grand Trunk train hands present a very neat appearance. The uniforms are of blue cloth, with white metal buttons. "Grand Trunk" is plainly seen on the lapel of the coat.

The Royal Canadian Dragoons will be unable to visit the fair this year, but the management are securing other attractions fully as good.

FIRST BATCH OF BIG INCREASE IN TOMMIES ARRIVE CUSTOM REVENUE

Most Remarkable Jump Is Shown At Niagara Falls Office

Ottawa, Sept. 8 — A considerable increase in the combined customs and excise duties collected both at the principal city "ports" and the main frontier "ports," is shown in figures just compiled by the Department of National Revenue. The statements show comparisons for the first five months of the last three fiscal years but in all cases the 1927-28 figures show revenue secured up to end of Sept. 2 and do not include complete August Collections for some of the eastern and western ports.

For the first five months of the present year customs revenue at Montreal totalled $41,189,823.50, as compared with $38,717,728.73 in the same period of the previous fiscal year and $36,618,465.83 in the first five months of the fiscal year, 1925-26. Toronto $25,800,908.28, $23,999,035.74, and $21,-774,030.87 respectively; Quebec City, $2,020,218.44, $2,020,823.49 and $2,020,-184.55; Hamilton, $4,729,861.46, $4,554,-307.57 and $4,062,203.24 and $4,864,767.-33; Vancouver, $6,000,000.00, $5,641,745.-182.54 and $7,547,715.39; Halifax, $1,456,-289.75, $1,422,292.22 and $1,227,179.51 and St. John $1,676,212.88, $2,302,112.-49 and $2,510,940.63.

Customs and excise collections are practically the same as the revenue secured up to end of September, but the figures showing collections at various "out ports" are not yet complete. The most remarkable increase is shown at Niagara Falls where the collections have increased by $100,000 in the first five months of the present fiscal year reached the high figure of $623,-362.38, as compared with $473,244.56 in the same period of the previous fiscal year and $400,000 in the first five months of the fiscal year of 1925-26.

Cranbrook and St. Armand, ports at opp the Quebec-Vermont border where many leaks were disclosed during the Prohibition era, have also shown considerable increases in collections Coaticook's figures are: $94,542, $16,823 and $17,440; $11,240 and $10,000. Other eastern border ports figures are as follows: Stanstead, $82,736, $83,700, $92,-800, and $75,384; McAdam Junction $23,-151, $15,845, and $8,711; Woodstock N. B. $85,135, $84,000, and $75,000. Atlantic ports, $114,178, $96,450, and $92,183; Beebe Junction $46,000, $34,000, and $30,000; Lacolle $18,728, and $86,-127; and St. Johns, Que., $410,800, $4-28,239, and $413,493.

Other Ontario border ports following are the principal figures: Prescott $404,776, $408,210, and $325,911; Windsor $1,108,776, $157,497, and $1,737,360; Bridgeburg, $443,257, $367,622, and $3-54,606; Windsor, $6,246,884, $7,916,540 and $6,930,109; Sarnia, $1,411,997, $1,-838,356, and $1,446,371; Sault Ste. Marie $1,543,111, $1,600,000, and $1,400,000; Fort William, $302,747, $377,823, and $243,-000. Corresponding figures for most of the border points in western Canada.

LION-TAMER FAILS ON 15TH ATTEMPT

Paris, Sept. 8.—For days the lion-tamer Marot's conquests of the lion, Nero, have been the main attraction at the Cirue Medrano, for it was only after repeated glarings and whipping that Marot was able to make Nadi mount a stool, the only trick he knew. Fourteen times Marot ventured, but last night he tried it again. Nadi, with a growling snarl, leaped suddenly from the cage and buried his claws in the tamer's shoulders. But Marot, as he was rolled across the floor in blow, managed to keep rolling right out of the door and slammed it behind him while the crowd screamed and Nadi tore in vain at the heavy bars.

JASPER PARK AND PACIFIC COAST VACATIONS IN SEPTEMBER

Nature designed the Canadian Rockies and mountains and the Pacific Coast in such a way that their inimitable scenery will ever hold a thrill for the country's no matter how often it is viewed.

The Alpine grandeur of Jasper National Park with its hundreds of glaciers now capped peaks standing sentinel-like over the 5300 square miles of lakes, rivers, valleys and forests, lures hundreds every year and is even more beautiful and attractive in September than in the earlier months of the tourist season. Jasper Park Lodge offers luxurious accommodation and golf, tennis, climbing, camping, motoring, dancing and water sports offer recreation.

The famous Triangle Tour, by train from Jasper National Park through the Yellowhead Pass to Prince Rupert, by boat to Vancouver and then by rail through the roaring gorges of the Thompson and Fraser Rivers, offers views of majestic mountains and awe-inspiring sports that cannot be seen in any other way.

The Canadian National low tourist rates to these wonder resorts are still in effect and permit stop-overs all along the route. The Confederation [illegible] equipped luxury train ser-[illegible] vices from Toronto to Vancouver daily. Liverpool Quotes High

Chicago, Sept. 8.—Unexpected higher quotations on Liverpool led to an early upturn today in wheat prices here. Mean Meanwhile corn advanced owing to excessive rain in parts of Iowa, opening at 3-4c to 3-4c gain. Chicago wheat subsequently held to initial figures, corn started 1-4c to 3-4 up and later conceded to show firmness. Oats sympathized with corn and wheat, provisions also traded upwards.

"That's a good idea, ma'am," said the new servant, "having soda and water in them bottles with squirts. I've done the scullery floor in no time and there's three hens left out of the dozen yet."

"Perseverance, my boy," stated the wealthy capitalist, "is the keynote to fortune."

"Yes," replied the aspiring young college graduate. "And now I ask you for the tenth time: May I marry your daughter?"

A London weekly tells about a Scotch chemist, to whom a poorly dressed woman had brought a prescription to be made up. As it was for a baby only 12 months old, the chemist was paying extra attention to weighing out the various drugs most exactly. Noticing this, the woman was annoyed with what she thought was his meanness. "Aw, man," she cried, "you're no' in disgust just needmae be so scrimped. It's for a pair, millionaires baim!"

LEGITIMATE PLAY INTO ITS OWN?

London Sept. 9.—Is the "legitimate" stage-play about to come again fully into its own? The question was provoked by the announcement of a complete change of policy at the Alhambra, one of the biggest of Mess. Empires, one of the biggest syndicates in the music hall world of this country. Known as a place where to convert many of their music halls into theatres for the presentation of "straight" plays in place of the customary entertainment of revue of general variety.

It is understood this company holds that revue, which created a decline in the popularity of variety shows, has now had its day also, and that the British public are anxious to have more substantial bill of fare than served before them. Baldly, the scheme embraces three plays which are "good" in London shall be passed on for presentation at the transformed music halls in the country towns after they were passed on in the days when the entire theatre ball system was let in its infancy.

The Moss Syndicate was the pioneer of the modern music hall. It started into business thirty years ago when there still lingered the old time house of entertainment. There liquor was served in the auditorium and where the association's doors were totally limited to reformers to "mothers in-law to the joys of a fabulous night out, or to the excitement following the loss of your clothes when seabathing."

Sir Edward Moss and his colleagues encouraged the mirth-maker with a finer and wider sense of humor, and built halls large and airy and they found very soon that they were well filled even if there was not the additional attraction through their possessing a license to sell liquor. It is a matter to respect the directors themselves were probably surprised to discover that for some of them the "turning" of something a liquor license was a positive disadvantage, and one not unwilling to relinquish the same for some such substantial privileges.

AN ERROR

It was erroneously stated in the intelligencer yesterday that in an automobile accident, Mr. William Boyd driving a car ran into the rear of an automobile driven by Mr. Charles Hall. It appears that Mr. Hall's brother, Mr. Hall was driving the Hall's sedan, topping the sedan and running board of the car.

FRENCH TARIFF SHOCK FOR U. S.

Maximum Duties Imposed Instead Of The Hoped-For Average

Paris, September 9.—American business men in France had a severe shock today when they examined details of copies of the new French tariff, which became effective last Tuesday. Aside from the serious blow which the tariff deals to nearly forty million dollars' worth of American manufactured products, and to this-country every year, Americans were greatly surprised to learn that an absolute maximum of duties has been applied to these manufactured articles, instead of an average rate, which they were led to believe would be accorded to American products. In many instances duties on the prohibitive and seizure modifications are obtained, companies involved will be forced to suspend operations in France.

Faced with this new situation, importers besieged the offices of the Commerce Minister at the American Embassy today and urged officials to make representations to officials of the French Government. It is very probable therefore that representations will be made during the next few days with view to securing relief, but in view of repeated pronouncements by the Franco-American treaty of amity and commerce it is not believed the Embassy will be induced to go further up such a formidable trading organization. France is anxious to obtain tariffs for her luxury trade in the United States, which represent a good proportion of the one hundred and fifty-two million dollars worth of goods exported to America each twelve months.

American business men here are convinced that the maximum duties used to apply the highest tariffs to American products was done with an eye to the approaching trade negotiations with the United States Government. There is no denying that the situation as it stands today leaves France with the best cards in her hands when the time comes for discussion and proposals delegates to sit down and frame the trade accord.

Paris, Sept. 9.—Premier Herriot has abruptly announced at Washington on September 2nd, just sixteen days before the opening of the French customs clearance, that he intends to ban commercial treaty. In the letter agreement France agrees to bar foreign goods most-favored-nation treatment, including many items with which the United States has been competing with Germany in the French market. Among these are automobiles, parts, machinery of all kinds, textiles, chemicals and numerous specialties, such as foundation pens and magnetos.

DEATH BLAMED TO NATURAL CAUSES

Brockville, Ont., Sept. 9.—Death from natural causes was the verdict of the coroner's jury which last night inquired into the death of Mrs. Ellen Ann Hall, formerly of Welland, who died shortly after being found ill in a room at the Brockville Hotel. Dr. T. F. Robertson, who conducted the post mortem, stated that examination of body failed to reveal the causes of death. Hood had been employed as farm laborer in this district, this summer.

TODAYS MARKETS

New York, Sept. 8. — Higher rates and unfavorable trade, news editors selling in today's stock market to turn the general course of prices reactionary, despite the almost total lack of pool power often headed upwards.

Call money was marked up to four per cent. the highest rate in more than month coincident with the calling of about $20. United States Steel common in which powerful pool is reported to be operating was marked up to new percentages at 131 1-2 on the news that the August tonnage statement, due tomorrow would show monthly increase in unfilled orders instead of the decrease expected a few days ago. Steel quickly sold off two points in the wave of liquidation which followed raising of call money rate.

Oil changed hands in rather large blocks at advancing prices. Building stocks were pressured however, in such points as Continent Insurance, Westinghouse, Telephone, Radio, Fruit and Macady Company which sold four to six points above yesterday's final quotations.

Unfavorable traffic and earnings reports featured rails, Missouri Pacific shares with attraction, Erie Common Textile and Pacific and Western Oil each showing fractional or more below yesterday's final quotations. Gulf States Steel and Murray Body sold at the lowest prices of year.

However, in face of this opposition eight prospective Atlantic expeditions went forward with their preparations.

Postpone Flight

Announcement that he may postpone next Wednesday's flight until next spring because financial backing could not be secured in view of recent unsuccessful transcontinental flights was made at Ottawa by Capt. K. L. Janney.

Supporters of the Clarence D. Winslow flight of the monoplane Royal Windsor have appealed to the plane's pilots, C. A. Duke Oliller and Phil Wood at Harbor Grace, Nfld., to abandon their flight and return home.

Backers of the Royal Windsor expedition said the decision would be left entirely to the pilots. Meanwhile, Wood and Schiller plan to search the spot where Old Glory's S.O.S. call was reported and eventually attempt an ocean flight, according to reports. In the absence of a single report from the London plane, they declared a search for their companions would be useless.

That flights of two German seaplanes may be called off was seen in the action of the German Ministry of Trans portation in summoning to Berlin Hermann Koehl and Baron Gunther von Hunefeld and Lieut Otto Koennecke, all of whom were planning a hop to North America.

Action Forecasted Here

Added to these developments came reports from Windsor, Ont., and Madrid, Spain, that governmental interference in dangerous flights would be sought. Madrid reports said the Spanish parliament would not sanction further flights unless they are practical and planned in great detail. Premier Rios, of Canada intimated that a similar parliament may be asked to pass legislation on the same question to stop transatlantic flights to and from the Dominion.

Defence of the risks taken on trans-Atlantic flights was voiced by Air Vice-Marshall Sir Sefton Brancker on his return from the Paris air conference. He said: "I feel the flight can be made to do a lot of preventing the attempts. You can no more prevent a man from attempting a flight by the Atlantic than you can prevent him from attempting Mount Everest."

SAVING SWEETHEARTS FROM THEIR FOLLIES

Where does her own business stop and the other fellow's business begin? That's a hard question to answer, particularly when we are in love and would like to run the love-sick life for him. Like little "Rosie" who is determined to save a sweetheart—who is equally determined NOT to be saved.

DEAR ELSIE:

There is a certain boy of whom I am very fond and here's the situation: It is heart-rending to care for a person and see that person throwing his life away—and that is exactly what this boy is doing. He has a very poor reputation. He has frankly told me many terrible things himself, and I have heard more from others. And oh, I have tried so hard to help him. I feel that I just MUST stop him from doing these things.

I have prayed so for him to go straight. Elsie, for I believe in prayer as God has never yet failed me. But he does not pray. He has an adorable mother and I have tried to make him see how he is hurting her—my dear friend—but it is only half-heartedly that he does no good. Can you suggest anything that would help?

Some people think he would never be any better but there is no reason why he shouldn't if he could only be made to realize that his whole future life will depend on his action now.

ROSIE.

I know it's hard to watch this waste and wrong, little sister, and you are right to try to stop him—to a certain point. But after that point it's HANDS OFF, honey. He must live his own life, make his own mistakes, and buy his own experience and you mustn't interfere—even in the name of love.

After all, what would his character be worth unless he made it himself? Not a thing. Perhaps that is why God doesn't answer our prayers when we try to meddle in another's life. I have an idea that He knows that such control is just another form of slavery—and won't let us enslave those we love.

We think it's "for their own good," Yes, it is hard to realize that, but unless you do realize it your love is never going to be of much value to anyone. For always you must keep HANDS OFF—whether it be in the treatment of your friends and your family, or your husband and your children. If you'll learn that lesson, dear, you'll save yourself and many mothers much misery.

Next corner Frank.

Frank is fat-gagged and almost blissful. But there's a fly of dissension buzzing buzzing around that desk dream of his pizzas. Frank just can't see why The Girl should keep on writing to her boy friends.

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm engaged to a perfectly wonderful girl. We are very much in love with each other. We agree in everything but one thing. She was a very good looking girl and had lots of friends. Many of these friends were boy friends. I don't know she his always been square. But here is what is worrying me.

Elsie, she writes and gets letters from two boy friends up in Canada. Now I know there is nothing wrong because she lets me see the letters, but I don't think that an engaged girl should be doing this, do you?

We sent out betrothal cards and these boys both know, as does every body else, that we are engaged. But they write to her just the same. We have argued it out—she says there is nothing wrong—that they merely feel friendly toward each other. Which one of us do you think is right?

—FRANK.

Snap out of it, Frank. You lose! Why shouldn't friends write to each other? What's the idea of thinking that simply because a girl is going to acquire a husband she has to give up all her other friends? This is America, not Turkey! I can't see that you have one reason for your objection to that correspondence. The boy friends know that your fiancée is engaged, and it's obvious, since she shows you the letters, that the correspondence is merely a matter of friendly relations. Then why all this fuss?

Be yourself, Frank. If you know what real trouble was you wouldn't be losing your beauty sleep over a couple of friendly boys up in Canada. Don't go around looking for grief when there isn't a speck on the horizon.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens and I am deeply in love with a young man four years my senior.

My mother never objected until one evening not long ago, she saw him drinking. She says I may keep up my friendship with him, but I cannot go out with him anymore.

He is in my mind all the time, and I cannot give him up. Please advise me what to do.

ROSE.

ROSE: You are much too young to be seriously concerned about love, my dear, and I would advise you most strongly to be guided by your mother's advice. I think she is most liberal in permitting you to retain your friendship with this boy! I would advise you to widen your circle of friends and be satisfied with the companionship of others.

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Although I have been married seven months and love my husband, I am not happy.

My husband is the kind that loves to be looked up to, and I don't look up to anyone.

There is a girl that he used to go out with that I am jealous of. I try to overcome it, but he won't let me, for every time we get in a crowd he tells them all how I am jealous of her, and naturally I don't like to say anything.

Of course, I pass at him about it, but he only laughs. Will you please tell me what to do?

HAS FAITH IN GIRL OF TODAY

Practically All Girls Are Now Learning a Vocation

"I think the modern girl is facing her problems with courage and a fine spirit and learning to be self-dependent is a very necessary characteristic to day," stated Mrs. John Bracken, the charming wife of the Premier of Manitoba, who with her husband and four sons, five young Canadians, visited the Toronto Exhibition for a few days.

"Out in the west, the women and girls are forging ahead and doing their utmost to develop their country in the proper way. Practically all girls, no matter what circumstances they are in, are learning a vocation, and fitting themselves to take their future fearlessly. There's a frankness about the girls today that did not exist before, of course but there's sincerity behind it, which added to an unflagging energy should produce worthwhile results," she added. "And I feel too, that the women today are much more readily grasping the point of view of the other person—something which this Exhibition helps along also," she concluded.

SALMON RUN WAS LATE THIS YEAR

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 9.—The mystery of where the British Columbia salmon horde has been hiding this summer may be explained by reports brought by officers of ships encountering vast schools of the finny tribe off the Vancouver Island coast, far out to sea.

About fifty miles off the coast, according to these reports, the sea seemed alive with unnumbered salmon, immense numbers of sharks and dogfish following the in-bound silver horde. The ships also passed great masses of smaller fish, probably pilchards or herring, which have been similarly disinclined in reaching the fishing grounds.

The salmon season in British Columbia has been exceptionally late and the catches extremely light, although numerous fish are now reported off the Columbia River and reports from Siberia are that there has been a tremendous run of salmon there, especially in the Kamchatka region.

In Northern British Columbia waters, the catch has been disappointing in the vicinity of the Queen Charlotte Islands, a curious phenomena is reported and may have a bearing on the scarcity of the salmon, the waters around the island being the color of milk.

Hatred is often the result of knowing but one side of a person.

The one-cent piece was designed by Gustave Hahn, Toronto, Ont., and the 5 and 25 cents pieces are the designs of J. E. Macdonald, R.C.A., of Toronto.

TROUBLE AT RESERVE

Cornwall, Ont., Sept. 9.—The presence of armed members of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police at the St. Regis Indian Reservation near here arising from an attempt by contractors to erect a building there under government contract to house the reservation school teachers. Some of the Indians complained that they had not been consulted and the contractors were prevented from continuing work. Since the arrival of the police two of the Indian chiefs have been arrested and will be tried before the resident Indian Agent. Work on the building has recommenced.

BELLEVILLEMAN FINED

Port Hope, Sept. 9.—Because he had a telegram to prove that he was enroute to Belleville to see his wife, who is in a critical condition, when his motor car was sighted going through King street, Cobourg, at sixty miles an hour, Wesley Kaiser, Belleville, was given a reduced fine of $15 and costs in Cobourg police court Tuesday afternoon.

"Twenty-five dollars and costs," said Magistrate W. H. Floyd, when Kaiser pleaded guilty to the charge of speeding at 60 miles per hour laid by traffic officer E. H. Grant.

"This man has a telegram stating that his wife was on his way to see his wife who was very sick at Belleville, Chief of Police J. C. Ruse interposed.

SUSTAINS BROKEN LEG

Port Hope, Sept. 9.—Stepping out of the way of a car going east directly into the path of a car Proceeding west, Harry Williams, Bramley street, Port Hope, was knocked down at 9.50 yesterday morning a short distance east of Rosebery Hill on the Provincial Highway west of Port Hope and sustained a broken leg and bad cut on the head.

Clifford Clancey of Silfring was the driver of the car which struck Williams but after viewing the scene of the accident Traffic Officer Hallick decided that Clancy had done everything in prevent hitting the man after he had stepped directly into the path of his car without warning. Clancy drove his car right out on the shoulder of the road in an effort to miss the man but was unable to do so. He came back to Port Hope and was exonerated of any blame in connection with the accident.

GETS FIVE YEARS

Port Hope, Sept. 9.—Pleading guilty on ten charges of uttering forged cheques, William Rosebush was sentenced to five years in Kingston Penitentiary by Police Magistrate W. J. Ward at Bowmanville Tuesday afternoon. Rosebush was taken to the County Jail at Cobourg to await removal to the Penitentiary.

Rosebush was arrested several weeks ago on two charges of forgery but subsequent investigations by the police revealed eight other offences, in each of which charges were laid. On five of these counts Rosebush pleaded guilty and was sentenced to five years; on the other he was given a two years less one day imprisonment term to run concurrently with the other sentence. Several witnesses gave evidence at Tuesday's hearing.

AUTUMN PLANTING OF BULBS

(Experimental Farms Note)

Of late years an increased interest has been taken in the culture of early spring flowers such as tulips, narcissi, scilla and crocuses. All of these are hardy and when once planted may remain in the round for a numberg of years without being disturbed. Tulips, however, have a tendency to produce many small blooms after the second year and are, therefore, lifted at the end of the second blooming season. The largest of the bulbs lifted may be used for planting the following fall.

In general, to obtain good results with bulbs, the soil in the beds or borders should be well prepared in advance of the time of planting. If the soil is a good garden loam, and if it has been enriched in previous years by other plants, it should receive a liberal application of well-rotted manure and this spaded in to a depth of about twelve inches.

Where large kinds of bulbs vary greatly in size, it is necessary to plant to follow is to cover a bulb or corm with soil to a depth of about a cm rule with about twice its own depth of soil. Thus a bulb an inch thickness will have to spes should be covered with two inches of soil. The distance apart between bulbs will very according to the size and type of bulb. In winter the beds should receive a light in the early spring before the light mulch of strawy manure. This should be removed as the plants emerge. Jonquils, snowdrops and crocuses are well adapted for planting in grass along driveways and walks. A rule with about twice its own depth of soil. Thus a bulb an inch thick will have to spes should be covered with two inches of soil. The distance apart between bulbs will very according to the size and type of bulb. In winter the beds should receive a light in the early spring before the light mulch of strawy manure. This should be removed as the plants emerge. Jonquils, snowdrops and crocuses are well adapted for planting in grass along driveways and walks. To plant bulbs in this informal manner a hole should be dug with a trowel and about two inches of rich soil placed at the bottom and the bulb placed at the proper depth. Bulbs planted in this way will be benefitted by an annual dressing of well-rotted manure, applied in the early spring.

FAMOUS OLD HOUSE NOW DEMOLISHED

London, Sept. 9.—A famous building in Southwark and a relic of Old London, "The Farm House," more than 200 years old, has now been demolished, the building having been condemned by the local authority. It was the home of a prosperous farmer in the days of Queen Anne.

"The Farm House" stood in the heart of Dickensland, and within a few yards of Christchurch Workhouse, Quilpstreet, Southwark, where Dickens is supposed to have found Oliver Twist.

A century ago it became a common lodging-house for men and women, and the artistic woodwork and carvings, with the exception of one panel, disappeared.

WOODMEN MEET IN OLD ENGLAND

London, Sept. 9.—With the annual meeting of the Woodmen of Arden, the lawns of Packington Park recently were the centre of picturesque scenes. The Woodmen were in existence as a semi-military part of the 18th century, and have had a continued existence ever since.

They were meeting in the days when John Randolph of Roanroke, a Virginian planter and Congressman, visited Warwickshire friends early in the last century, and in his diary he descants on the gatherings of fashion which belonged to the shooting days. The founder of the Woodmen of Arden was the fourth Earl of Aylesford, and a peer bearing this title usually Lord Warden, though, since

REDFERN'S WRITING IDENTIFIED

Brunswick, Ga., Sept. 9.—Backers of the Brunswick to Brazil flight today identified Paul Redfern's handwriting with photostatic copies of notes brought back to the United States by the Norwegian steamer Christian Krong, whose officers said they met the monoplane August 26, 185 miles off the coast of Venezuela.

And now it's the nation's turn to be up in the air about Lindy.

PURSE PRESENTED TO PASTOR LEAVING CITY

A very pleasant time was spent last Thursday evening at the home of Mr. and Mrs. H. W. Barragar, Front St., when a number of the members of the Alliance Gospel Tabernacle gathered to extend their best wishes to their pastor, Mr Lormier, and Mrs. Lormier, who are leaving next week for Toronto, where they will continue to minister the Lord's Work in an Alliance branch there.

The following address was read:

"To Mr and Mrs. Lormier. We, the members of your congregation of the Alliance Gospel Tabernacle have met here on this occasion for the purpose of conveying to you our sincere and hearty appreciation of your very valuable services, which you have rendered to us since coming to Belleville. Since your earnest life of faith and prayer has resulted in bringing to us great blessing from God. Your messages have been pleasant to us in simplicity and power. You have ever shown to us that very cheerful and hopeful attitude to the work, and God has crowned your labors with signal success. We feel sad because of your leaving, but believe you have been divinely directed. We shall ever have pleasant memories of our association and fellowship, and hope and pray that God's richest blessings may go with you to your new field of labor."

"We take great pleasure in presenting to you this purse as a slight token of our love."

Signed by the committee on behalf of the congregation, C. Elvins, H. W. Barragar, S. Wheeler, O. M. Veley, G. Brooker.

Mr. Lormier replied referring to the splendid support of the people and the faithfulness of all to the work during the four years of his pastorate. He then offered prayer, after which all joined in singing, "Blest be the tie that binds."

Mr. Willoughy of Toronto is succeeding Mr. Lormier as pastor of the Alliance Tabernacle.

UNKNOWN MAN DIED FOUND IN A BARN

Brockville, Sept. 8.— An unidentified man found ill in a barn on the property of John Murray near here last night, died during the night in the General Hospital, he carried letters addressed to H. L. Smith, Welland Ont.," and addressed to "Duncan". An inquest will be held.

In try ng to dodge the issue the average man wastes a lot of time.

The death of the eight earl a couple of years ago, the office has been held by Captain the Hon. Finch Knightley.

ENGLISH SUBURBAN DWELLERS ANGRY

London, Sept. 9.—The suburban dweller who resides at The Oaks, The Elms, Garth View, Clovelly, or Buckingham Villa, is gravely disturbed over the apparent resolution of the revenue authorities to make an extra levy of the taxing reserve. At Oldham, Hampshire, Police Court a number of local residents were summoned and fined 5s each for keeping a manservant without paying tax for so doing. The offenders had permanently engaged a gardener, but the gardener was not necessarily a whole-time employee.

To keep a man-servant for domestic purposes involves payment of a tax of 15 Shillings yearly. The average thousand or thereabouts a year householder, however, is inclined to imagine that the term "man-servant" is limited to one employee of warprofiteers and other wealthy folk who dwell in marble halls with vassals and serfs at their si-i-de. They certainly never believed, when they engaged some ancient denizen of their rural abode to "do up the garden" in his odd time, that in the eyes of the revenue authorities they would be considered to be "keeping a manservant." Consequently the householder who takes his office worries home with him now finds another worry awaiting him - at the garden gate.

However it seems that the situation is not as bad as it might be. The official definition of a man-servant is:

"Any man working three days a week regularly, as distinct from casual workers." So suburbia breathes once more. The tax, of course, applies to butlers, chauffeurs, valets and the like—but then a butler or a valet is not often encountered at "Rydal Mount," or "The Nest."

TOWN AND RAILWAY COME TO GRIPS

Midland, Ont., Sept. 8.—A dispute of several years' standing over title to Midland Avenue between the Canadian National Railways and the town of Midland flared up last night when workmen under orders of the City Council removed rails which had been laid by the railway across the avenue.

DEVONSHIRE OWNS 200,000 ACRES

London, Sept. 9.—The Bolton Abbey Moors, over which King George was shooting grouse recently as the guest of the Duke of Devonshire, former governor-general of Canada, extends for miles beyond the borders of the 800 acre park, and comprise al almost bewildering variety of scenery enchantingly soft valleys; rounded hills, billowing slopes; dizzy, dramatic looking cliffs, and woods that tower up until they seem to be hanging in the air.

The Duke of Devonshire owns in all 200,000 acres of land, and, Bolton Abbey represents nearly a half of that.

BELLE THEATRE

Human and rollicking in places grimly affecting in others, blending finely all the essentials of love, struggle, humor, humour, pathos and heart interest, "The Rough Riders" at the opening yesterday won the highest appreciation of a capacity audience at the Belle Theatre, yesterday.

"The Rough Riders" can truly be said to set a standard. It is one of the few films which deserves the adjective, great, and which add immeasurably to the progress of the motion picture.

To attempt to follow the drama in a brief review is useless. It is too swift, too breath-taking, too replete with moments of subtlety and too flooding in its emotional character.

One can say that Paramount has made a story that breathes the stalwart of Theodore Roosevelt, one of the greatest of Americans; that the story recounts his entire and his exploits in the Cuban regime of battle, war and fever, with an amazing splash of faithfulness; that a love theme with Mary Astor, Charles Farrell and Charles Emmett Mack, winds like a glowing thread throughout the drama.

CAPITOL THEATRE

"Callahans and the Murphys" are the attraction at the Capitol for the last three days of this week, and the large turnout at the theatre last evening plainly showed that the film, which proved one of the outstanding comic hits of this season. The neighboring families of Murphys and Callahans are depicted as typical Irish of the Old School and their "friendly fights" will interest people in the life of this neighborhood. The climax of the many comedy situations and incidents comes when the Murphys come into some money, and Mrs. Murphy endeavors to "high-hat" her friend Mrs. Callahan at a dinner party in the latter's home. The entire picture evoked much laughter from the time it got through, and is one guaranteed to make every day blues.

A meritorious musical act on the stage together with the Capitol Theatre Orchestra round out a good bill.

REGENT THEATRE

Bobbed hair, balloon trousers, short skirts, pep, enthusiasm, vim, vigor youth prevy girls, good-looking boys, all exciting, new) race tracks all Paramount's "Rolled Stockings" which started the Regent Theatre yesterday Hey! Hey! Let's go!

"Rolled Stockings" is the picture in which Paramount's Junior Stars play together for the first time. Some you've seen, others you'll like, but each and every one of them is well advanced on the road to stardom. You saw James Hall in "Wings" and "Beau Geste," Lane Chandler "Special Delivery" and "Love's Greatest Mistake"; Leslie Fenton "Beau Geste" and female admiration in "The American Venus," "A Social Celebrity" and "Evening Clothes."

TENNIS FINALS

The tennis season will close officially on Saturday afternoon when the Belle ville Tennis Club and the crack players from Campbellford meet at Point Anne to decide who shall be the possessors of the Tummon Challenge Cup which at present is held by the Campbellford club. Last year Belleville lost to the same opponents, but they expect to do much better this time. At any rate anyone who can manage to be at Point Anne on Saturday is sure to see fine matches of good fast tennis. The Belleville players taking part in the ill., will be chosen from the following:—Albert Armstrong, Bill Pakenton, Herb. Parker, Bob Stevens, Bill Coulby, Percy Cole, Clarence Grant, J. Black, A. Black, Sylvia Rose and Mrs. D. McKenna. These will be opposed among others by Messrs Weston, Free, Beatty and Bell. Play will start at 2 p.m. Everyone interested is cordially invited to attend these matches.

20TH WIN FOR YANKEE PITCHER

Leaders Return To Home Ball Yard And Are Given Reception

New York, Sept. 9.—Some day the Yankees win on their hitting and on other days they win anyway. Yesterday they came back to the stadium to put on the big pennant clinching act before the home folks and they won in spite of some masterly pitching by Sam Jones, for the very good reason that Waite Hoyt was delivering some that was even more masterly. The St. Louis Browns, taking their 15th consecutive walloping from the Bluenose this year, were the victims. The score was 3 to 1, even though the figures may make one and be reversed.

It was Lazzeri day, as well as home coming day for the Yanks, and close to 25,000 fans made the journey to the Bronx ball yard. Tony was called to the plate before the game and presented with a floral horseshoe and a lot of praise, and he ran true to form by finishing with the bases full in the first inning.

Tony could have done as well on each of his first two trips to the plate if he had done his swinging with the big bonnet. However, Antonio had one satisfaction. His was the sacrifice fly which waited for Meusel's base on right field in the fifth inning, furnishing Hoyt's Ruth the run he didn't homeward.

It was a rather short feast for meat fishing purposes, but the Bam put on full steam, finished up with one of his nifty slides, and the day was carried in settled with ball game. So Tony delivered something on each day.

Before this narrative is prolonged any further, something must be recorded in behalf of Mr. Hoyt, who skipped along handsomely to register his twentieth victory of the year. In the nine innings,twenty-nine batsmen went to the plate to see what Mr. Hoyt was pedaling, and all but three of them came away disappointed.

PORT HOPE IS BADLY BEATEN

Kingston, Sept. 8.— In the provincial exhibition of baseball of the year Circle Six on Wednesday afternoon at the Fair Grounds won the championship of the intermediate O.B.A.A. semi-finals from Port Hope by the lop-sided score of 21 to 6. It was far from the calibre of baseball expected, with Port Hope displaying a team that would have had their hands full beating the local Aldelicas.

The fact that there were seventeen errors made by both teams showed that there was plenty of slovenly work in the field. At no time, after the first inning, was the game interesting for Circle Six piled on the runs early largely through their own heavy hitting, and aided by the errors and "fatherhood" baseball plays of their opponents. Howard Reid pitched for seven innings for Circle Six, and was never in great difficulty, even though it was the first time he had a baseball in his hands for many months. Several other Kingston players had not seen practice in the field and their worst playing in the field was better than the best Port Hope could serve up.

Reid was lead nine to the world. The score: Reid and pitcher; Britton and Lumbian mines are sent far refining to Tadanac, B.C.

In 1926, approximately 140,000 tons of metallic lead was produced from lead mine ores in Canada, and of this 125,000 tons was refined at the Trail smelter, plant. During the same year the production of metallic zinc from Canadian ores amounted to 69,000 tons of which 61,000 was refined at Trail. This plant is probably the most complete lead and zinc refinery in the world. The lead-zinc ores of the interior of British Columbia are very complex and the working out of a successful process for treating them is a great tribute to the skill of Canadian metallurgists.

In addition to the active producing mines, the authors of the paper also referred to important deposits of lead and zinc ores in Manitoba, north-Western Quebec, Osape Peninsula, and elsewhere. Development of several of these deposits is now in progress and it is probable that in the near future, they will add their quota to the lead and zinc output of the Dominion.

"The Contact Process for the manufacture of Sulphuric Acid from Blende Gas" was described in detail in a paper by Stanley Thomson, General Works Superintendent of the National Smelting Company, Ltd., London. This paper proved of considerable interest in view of the fact that the Mond Nickel Company has for some time past been successfully manufacturing sulphuric acid by this process from the waste gases from their smelter at Conlson, Ontario.

Other papers presented at the Vancouver meeting were: "Dewatering the Lower Levels of the Simmer and Jack Mine," Trannvaal, by A. Crabb; and "A New Form of Air Meter, and the Measurement of Ventilation," by E. J. Laschiner; both authors being members of the South African Institute of Engineers.

ENGLISH WALL PAINTING FOUND

London, Sept. 8.—What appears to be an important addition to the scanty survivals of English wall painting—particularly outside churches—has just been discovered at the White Swan Hotel, Stratford-on-Avon. The discovery was made as a consequence of alterations to the premises. So far as can be judged from the character of the beams, the original building dates from the 15th century, and the coverings, removed about 20 feet by 15 feet, in which the paintings were found was possibly the central hall. The figure subjections that it formerly occupied the whole depth of the building which today has additions front and back. At some time—from the character of the work the 17th century—the room now being converted from the bar into the entire room of the hotel, was panelled and it was in the course of taking away the panelling that the paintings were discovered. There is a small window in the panelling and it was the removal of this with its frame to allow of the cutting of a doorway to the adjoining lounge that gave the

CHALLENGE ACCEPTED

Ontarios To Meet Beavers In Series For City Championship

Management of the "Ontario" baseball team have accepted the challenge issued by the Beavers in a series of games for the city championship has been accepted. The team winning the best two out of three games will be declared champions.

The bitterest of rivalry has existed between these two ball clubs and are confident as to their ability to win. The Ontarios triumphed over the Beavers last year but Manager Alan Meagher believes that his team have improved sufficiently to substantiate a second triumphing to the trickster.

Walter Gorow of the Ontarios has been secretly filled but he claims his club can beat the Beavers in a three game series.

ZINC AND LEAD BIG INDUSTRIES

Production Of Both Metals Has Steadily Increased

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 9 (By Canadian Press).—Zinc and lead are important features of the mining industries of the Dominion and the situation in regard to them was reported on in an optimistic strain by T. W. Bingay, Comptroller of the Consolidated Mining and Smelting Company and Dr. F. J. Alcock, of the Canadian Geological Survey, at the meeting of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress here today.

Production of both metals in Canada has steadily increased during recent years, until today the Dominion ranks among the world's important producers, with an output approaching if not equalling, that of Australia, the Empire's other chief source of these metals. It is confidently expected that during the next few years success in both these lines of activity will further increase Canada's lead and zinc output, giving her a still higher ranking than at present among the world's producers. There is much producing zinc mine in Quebec and some lead mines are operating in Ontario and in Yukon Territory, but the bulk of Canada's lead and zinc has always been obtained from mines in the interior of British Columbia, where the Sullivan is now the largest

Already the muskrat has come to lead all other furbearers of the Dominion in the total value of pelts sold, not alone by reason of the enormous number of pelts taken, but on account of the remarkable rise in the price of the furs. In the olden days furs sold in London for a few cents apiece and is even more recent times.

An official announcement has been made to the effect that the Canadian Pacific Railway Company will construct a line from Midland to Port McNicoll. Public parades and demonstrations were held in Midland when the announcement was made as the citizens feel that the new line will mean a great deal in building up manufacturing and industrial concerns there.

MITCHAM FAIR ONE OF OLDEST

London, Sept. 9. (C.P.)—Mitcham Fair is one of the oldest in the Kingdom and this year's three days of revelry on the Mitcham Common was the largest and most varied ever held, declared. The showmen's Guild have a charter for the holding of the Fair purporting to have been granted by Queen Elizabeth, on the petition of Sir Walter Raleigh as a resident of Mitcham. It is a fact that Raleigh had a country house and small estate at Mitcham. He sold there and other property to raise money for his expedition to Guiana But nothing was known of the charter until it was produced by the showmen a few years ago in opposition to the decision of the Urban Council to remove the Fair from the village, where it had become an obstruction to traffic, to its present site. The language of the charter, one sentence of which prayed that the blessings of God may be showered on the innocent recreations held within the confines of the Fair," was not regarded by authorities as authentic Elizabethan English.

Inquiries instituted by the Urban Council, in the course of which the archives of the Record Office were searched, pride failing to show the Fair originated, traced it back to the reign of Elizabeth. It is supposed to have been in ancient times an occasion for the hiring of farm hands and domestic servants as well as for entertainment.

The fears of the showmen that the change of site would mean the beginning of the end of the Fair have proved to be wholly mistaken. Since its removal to the Common the Fair has enormously developed and grown in popularity. Probably the only respect in which the present Fair bears any resemblance to its more ancient predecessors is in the show of "freak." The strongest man and the fattest woman in the world are still to be seen there. It would seem as if age does not wither nor custom stale their infinite muscularity and weight. Most of these weighings boast that they have been "patronized by Royalty."

The Fair is dominated by the roundabouts. There are dozens of them, in all sizes and decorated in barbarous fashion, inviting in violent forms of equestrian exercise, called "joy-rides" to the blaring of popular tunes by the mechanical bands. One of the roundabouts is owned by Mrs. Bird, one of the oldest show-women in England. She is 76, and has been attending the Fair since she was nine. She looks on over the Fair from her caravan, in which she is confined, and sighs over the changes that have taken place since "the good old times." Fanny, as she is called, has a sister, also a show-woman, who is 84.

It can hardly be said that the Fair in its present form blends with the rustic appearances, suggestive of age, which Mitcham preserves. It was once, not very long ago, a sweet-smelling place notable for its "flower gardens," devoted to the cultivation of aromatic herbs, such as lavender and peppermint, for the manufacture of scents and essences. All these gardens have disappeared befor the onward march of bricks and mortar. The pride of Mitcham is its village green—one of the prettiest to be seen anywhere—famous in the annals of cricket for the greatest masters of the game whom it has train ed.

Men of Chile say that collars made in America fit better than those produced in local factories.

FARM STUDIES OF GREAT VALUE

Open Eyes Of Youth To Possibilities Of Career Overseas

London, Eng., Sept. 9.—In connection with the recent annual meeting of the British Association for the Advancement of Science which was concluded here on September 7 an interesting report was received from the Committee on Educational Training of Boys and Girls in Secondary Schools for Overseas Life. Included in the report is a paper written by Commissioner David C. Lamb, of the Salvation Army, on "The Transplantation of Boys Overseas."

The Committee's objective was of a two-fold nature, namely, the introduction of agricultural studies into the curriculum, not only to help forward those who are destined to pursue an agricultural career on leaving school, but also to benefit boys generally whatever vocation they are likely to adopt later on."

The report states:

1.—Agricultural studies have an educational and cultural value which has been fully proved wherever the work has been carefully planned and systematically established. By their means the teaching of History, of Geography, and of Science becomes vitalised and humanised. Such studies lead to a natural growth of knowledge of the basal facts of life; they afford an inexhaustible supply of projects from which other subjects of the curriculum may draw their inspiration. Ordinary school occupations, to the young, often present no rational sanctions, and therefore cease, like incense, which bridges the gap between work in school and the course of life outside.

2.—Their economic value is equally clear in affording opportunities for a first-hand acquaintance with the chief industry of the world. They open the eyes of a youth to the possibilities of a career on the land overseas and they afford him sufficient experience to enable him to decide whether he is fitted or unfitted for such a life. To sum up, by supplying land workers for the Overseas Dominions the schools would be helping, in no small measure, to bring about that distribution of population within the Empire so keenly desired by all economists; not only in the interests of the Overseas Dominions and of Great Britain generally, but equal by in the interests of the individual.

Commissioner Lamb's paper does not refer to secondary schools but deals with the adolescent stage in life The commissioner states that the density of the population of England and Wales, 640 persons per suare mile, is now the highest in the world.

The toll of death claimed by the Atlantic and Pacific oceans arising from the transoceanic flying craze has been increased to 18 since April with the abandonment of hope for "Old Glory," the New York-to-Rome " monoplane," Wednesday morning from a point 500 miles west of Newfoundland it flashed an S.O.S. and since has not been heard of. The ABOVE group shows LEFT to RIGHT: Mrs. Florence Callaghan, mother of Lloyd Bertaud, co-pilot of the plane; J. D. Hill, the other pilot himself; Phillip A. DEAD MAN MAY BE GANANOQUE CITIZEN

Kingston, Sept. 9. — The dead body of a man was found in Cincinnati on Sednesday and it was stated he had been murdered, or had committed suicide. All marks of identity had been removed. The man had in his possession some Canadian money and an envelope bearing a Gananoque postmark. He was well dressed in a brown suit, had grey hair, and appeared to be about sixty years of age.

Gananoque authorities are making enquiries. So far they have not learned of anyone missing. It might be that someone in the neighborhood is concerned and publicity will bring about discovery. There is also the theory that the man may have been killed by passing tourists Ohio cars being very numerous in this section. Persistent enquiry will be made.

JOHN OLIVER'S RELIC REMOVED

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 9—The family heirlooms of Hon. John Oliver, premier of British Columbia's farmer premier who died recently are being removed from his office in the parliament buildings here, and the place has been made ready for his successor, Hon. J. D. MacLean.

The quaint array of pictures and curios which adorned the office during Premier Oliver's ten year term and which seemed a vital part of the government itself have been removed and given to the late premier's family—the photographs of British Columbia statesmen, gifts from friends in various parts of the province, the last photograph of Mr. Oliver himself and of his aged father, taken just before the latter's death; some originals of caricatures of the late premier; hand some autographed portraits of Lord and Lady Byng presented to him when they were at Rideau Hall, and a snapshot of Right Hon. Arthur Meighen, which the premier had, for some curious reason, placed among a small gallery of Liberal leaders.

All the premier's personal papers were also given to his family, together with his unique collection of filing cards on which he had laboriously written notes for almost every speech he had made and which were always ready for click use in emergencies.

The battered alarm clock which Mr. Oliver had characteristically placed on a hook in the wall instead of a more ornamental piece also was gone. The new premier, however will use the massive documents, and the leather couch in which he used to sit back, fold his arms and tell you about the good old days in British Columbia.

TOURISTS' CARS CRASHED WEST OF SHANNONVILLE

Some Proposed Trans-Oceanic Trips Abandoned But Other Aviators Plan To Go Right Ahead

POSSIBLE CLUE TO FATE OF ONE MISSING PLANE

Collar Found On Hawaiian Beach Thought To Be Airman's

GO ON WITH PLANS

Round-the-World Airship May Cross Pacific By Steamer

Honolulu, Sept. 10.—Reported discovery of a collar of a kapok jacket on the beach near Waimanalo today caused searching parties to investigate the possibility that it might have belonged to one of the seven fliers missing in the recent "Dole" air race from the mainland to Honolulu.

The collar was similar to those on the kapok jackets issued by the Navy to the fliers. Lieut. V. S. Knope, navigator of the missing monoplane, "Miss Doran," who with Miss Doran, Michigan school teacher and Pilot J. A. Pedlar has been missing since flight, may have had one of these jackets, searchers believe.

Will Not Abandon Flight

Dublin, Sept. 10.—Capt. Robert MacIntosh, pilot of the airplane "Princess Xenia" declared today that he had no intention of abandoning his projected flight to America. He said that he would start on his trans-Atlantic journey as soon as favorable conditions were reported.

Home or England?

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 10.—"Will leave as soon as possible for Windsor," is the statement contained in a wire sent to the local flight committee last night by Capt. L. Dickshiller, pilot of the Royal Windsor. The wire was in answer to a message sent to Schiller Friday by the committee, definitely abandoning the trans-Atlantic flight of plane.

Land at Shanghai

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—Round-the-world monoplane "Pride of Detroit" arrived here from Hong Kong at 5.30 p.m. tonight after a flight of 760 miles. The Pride of Detroit landed at the Chinese Nationalist Government aerodrome, nine miles outside the International settlement.

Hops He'll Be Seasick

Detroit, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Leah Schloe, wife of Edward Schloe, round-the-world flier, told the Associated Press today that she had cabled her husband at Tokyo advising him to "use his own judgment" in making the projected flight from Tokyo to one of the small islands of the Midway group. "I do hope he'll be sensible, though, and decide to take a boat to Vancouver," Mrs. Schloe said.

May Take Steamer

Tokio, Sept. 10.—J. V. Walker, who is at Kobe, representing William S. Brock and Edward F. Schloe, round-the-world fliers, who are now on their way to Japan in the Pride of Detroit, told The Associated Press today that the fliers expect to reach Tokio Sunday or Monday.

He is arranging, he said, to charter a boat to transport them with their plane to Honolulu as he did not believe they would be able to take off from the Midway Islands. Wallace said he thought it probable that they would hop off from Honolulu for San Francisco in order to make up the time lost.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I've never any pity for conceited people, because I think they carry their comfort about with them.
—GEORGE ELIOT.

MARRIAGE SUCCESS

Married men not only live longer but also more successful than single men, according to an analysis of "Who's Who" he made by Ellsworth Huntington and Leon F. Whitney in The Outlook.

Measuring success by the size of the editor a person's ability and success in life likely he is to marry, they say:

"Among the men in 'Who's Who' about 89 per cent report marriage as married. If we allow for a few who are married, but fail to report the fact, and for a few of the youngest men who will marry in the future, it appears that by the time they reach the age of 50 years, at least 91 per cent of the men in 'Who's Who' will be married. This is a slightly higher percentage than the United States census shows for men of the same age among other native whites or native parentage, foreign-born whites, or Negroes of mixed parentage.

"Admitting that the successful are in a better position to get married, is the nothing of being preferred by other blonds of breeding, it seems well decided that marriage is in general the reasons responsible for their success.

For most young men marriage is the beginning of serious responsibilities, and the shouldering of responsibilities is the lesson of bringing out the best that's in them. If having taken to himself a wife the young man undertakes to build or buy a home he is already on the way to success.

But there is another and even more important angle to the argument—the part played by wives in the success of their husbands.

"The husband gets his name in 'Who's Who', but, unless he is an artist or genius of some sort, the honor is in no small measure a result of the home conditions that stimulate him to his best effort.

SERIOUS SIDE

It is frequently said in deprecation of college men that they go to college to have a good time first and an education afterwards. Apparently some good people believe that it is purely accidental when a young man proves that he learned something in college besides social etiquette and athletics.

The facts in the case are that no man or woman ever left an institution of higher learning without acquiring a certain amount of mental improvement, that old-fashion side of college life's benefit given by the public, while the lighter side is always on display and that very often getting an education is a struggle instead of a saturnalia of spending and spurting.

McGill University, the University of Montreal and in fact all universities and colleges in Canada report an increasing number of students working their way through school and the number of college men and women who are not gainfully employed during the summer vacation period is now negligible. As far as "sporting" as their studies is concerned, there is no Canadian institution of higher education which will tolerate low scholastic standings.

A college education needs no defense, as it is now almost universally accepted as a necessity. It may be criticised regarding its efficiency, but until all young men and women become 100 per cent efficient as students colleges and universities can not attain that perfection of efficiency.

HE SPOKE TOO LATE

Just William Randolph Hearst, U. S. publisher, have a predilection of unpunishing thinner when he tried to "last moment to head off the flight of Cold Glory" in Berlin?

When word came to him at Los Angeles he made public a telegram which he had sent to the editor of his paper in New York that was spoon for the flight. It read:

"Phil Payne: Dear Phil—Please think of my situation. Have had one airplane lost and two fins seen to be drowned. If another such disaster occurred effect would be terrible not only on my peace of mind but on public opinion. I telegraphed you all this and tried to have you get pilots to stop. Please do not urge so dangerous adventure. W. R. Hearst.

On the fact of it that looks like an honest effort to stop the flight of Old Glory, and there is no reason to regard it in any other light.

But that last minute effort does not clear Mr. Hearst of having in the first place created conditions which led the aviators at the last minute desperate to dodge.

Mr. Hearst owned the plane; his papers carried pictures and news each day about the venture; he named far-off Rome as the point to which the machine must travel.

Aviators have a high percentage of sporting blood in their veins, otherwise they would not enter that field. To call them a fool at the last moment and take the unearned prize money was making a request that they could hardly accept and save their faces.

It was W. R. Hearst's money in the first place that created the situation, and it was his fear of disaster that sought to wipe out that situation.

Mr. Hearst was not travelling in that plane himself; he was putting up the money; he was dictating the extraordinary mileage that had to be covered.

Mr. Hearst did not know whether the two pilots could make the trip or not; he did not know whether the reporter who went with them would ever return—yet, in the face of these very essential things which he did not know, he urged on to his doom alone with his thousands of dollars brave men who faced all the risk.

Mr. Hearst may have very bitter memories today; the vision of two aviators down in the Pacific, and two more, with one of his special writers, lost in an angry Atlantic, may well rise up to disturb what he terms his "peace of mind."

Now and then some daring spirit, winged on by weather, makes his way across—but he is followed by others who take a chance and who are beat by gale and battered down by untamed elements with whose might they cannot wrestle.

They hop-off—into eternity.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

A Scotchman had been told by his doctor that he had a floating kidney. He was much disturbed by the tingnods and went to the minister of his church with a request for the prayers of the congregation.

"I don't know," said the minister dubiously. "I'm afraid that at the mention of a floating kidney the congregation would laugh."

"I don't see why they should," replied the sufferer. "It was only last Sabbath you prayed for loose livers."

"There's been something trembling on my lips for months and months, Margaret," he said nervously. "So I we," said Margaret, "why don't you thave it off?"

MADE HER BABY PLUMP AND WELL

Nothing makes a mother more grateful than a benefit conferred upon her child. Mothers everywhere who have used Baby's Own Tablets for their children speak in enthusiastic terms of them. For instance, Mrs. Zepherin Lavoie, Three Rivers, Que., writes: "Baby's Own Tablets are a wonderful medicine for little ones. They never fail to regulate the baby's stomach and bowels and make him plump and well. I always keep a box of the Tablets in the house and would advise all mothers to do likewise." Most of the ordinary ailments of childhood arise in the stomach and bowels, and can be quickly banished by Baby's Own Tablets. These Tablets relieve constipation and indigestion, break up colds and simple fevers, expel worms, allay teething pains and promote healthful sleep. They are guaranteed to be free from injurious drugs and are safe even for the youngest and most delicate child. The Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25c. a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

Enjoy the Comfort, Safety and Economy of Gum-Dipped Tires
The sections of tires reproduced above are a part of the Firestone Dealer program. Study these two sections and you, too, will understand what Firestone means by tires built for service and tires made to sell.
The Firestone Gum-Dipped Balloon Tire with its scientifically designed tread permits free flexing, easier riding, extra comfort and safety, while the gum-dipping process gives it the wear-resisting properties that give thousands of extra miles.
The ordinary balloon tire with heavy flat tread design is obviously stiffer and rides harder. The success letter, placed for appearance at the edges of the tread, is not only wasted but produces binging action causing ply separation and "shoulder breaks."
Your local Firestone Dealer will gladly explain the gum-dipping process and other advantages that only Firestone Gum-Dipped tires can give. See him today.

MORDEN-MADDEN

A wedding of interest to a large circle of the younger circle of this city was solemnized by Bridge Street United Church last evening by the Rev. Dr. F. E. Maiest, when Greta Aileen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Madden, 39 Albion Street was united in marriage to Mr. Ralph Burton Morden, only son of the late S. B. Morden, and Mrs. Morden, George Street, this city. The young couple were unattended.

The bride, who entered the church on the arm of her father to the wedding march played by Miss Winnifred Pearce of Wellington, was charmingly attired in white georgette over white satin and wore the traditional bridal veil and carried a bouquet of pink roses. During the ceremony Miss Vallere Wrightsman sang "O Promise Me" in her usual finished style. Mr. Arthur Blakely of Trenton and Mr. Arthur Albert Morden, brother of this city were the ushers. The channel of the church as well as the entrance were banked with asters and gladioli in honor of the event as the young couple were active church workers.

Following the marriage ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents at which were about 40 lady guests present. Mrs. Madden, and Mrs. Morden receiving with the bride and groom. The bride's mother was attired in navy blue georgette with a rose velvet and silk hat. Mrs. Morden wore a dress of navy blue lace over mauve with a hat of grey and navy.

The groom's gift to the bride was a white gold bracelet set with sapphires and diamonds, to the organist and soloist, white gold bar pins set with pearls and to the ushers white gold cufflinks.

Following the reception the happy couple left on a motor trip through the England States and New York and upon their return to Belleville will reside on George Street. The bride's travelling costume was a French blue coat with hat to match and grey shoes and stockings.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

PERCY ELMER LATCHFORD

The death occurred yesterday afternoon, around three-thirty in front of Mrs. Lazier's home on Victoria Ave., with alarming suddenness of Percy Elmer Latchford, seventeen year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Latchford, as the result of an attack of stimulation of the heart.

The deceased boy with a number of other high school comrades in preparation for the approaching High School Cadet Camp took a run around the block and when near the corner of John Street and Victoria Avenue was seen to stagger and fall, passing out soon afterwards. Dr. Proctor and Dr. Stobie were called, but he was past medical assistance.

Percy Elmer Latchford was born in Moira, August 3, 1910, and had lived in Belleville for the past four years. He was an attendant at Sidaway Street United Church, a member of the Boy Scouts and the Moose Lodge. He was in his second year in the commercial course at the High School.

Surviving besides his sorrowing parents to mourn his sudden death are two sisters, Mrs. Fred Bruton, Mount in View; Miss Pearl Latchford at home, also four brothers, Orick, Wilbert and Carman, all living in Calgary, and Clarence, residing at Thomasburg.

Teacher Tributes

Speaking with Mr. P. C. McAuslin, Principal of the Belleville High School today he paid the following tribute to the deceased boy:—

"Percy was in his second year in the commercial department and was a fine boy. His teachers considered him one of the best students in the school. He was a fine athletic, always taking part in baseball and hockey matches. We never suspected that there was anything wrong with him physically."

Police Court

Jack Westfgall protested strongly in police court this morning that he was not intoxicated last evening, but Officer Heard who made the arrest and Acting Sergeant Booth who was on the desk when the accused was brought in gave evidence to the contrary and Westfall paid the usual fifteen and costs. Officer Heard said Westfall was "very intoxicated" and was uncertain in his remarks. Acting Sergeant Booth corroborated the evidence.

Westfall declared he had only one drink early in the evening and positive by denied that he was intoxicated.

Women's News and Views

DAUGHTER THE CHUM OF SENSIBLE WOMAN

Here's one of the sweetest love letters I have ever read. The love letter of a young girl about her own mother! Never was a mother more admired and resected—more tenderly worshiped than this mother of Marjorie. Never did a Mother give sweeter understanding, or happier companion ship in return for that worship—

AND YET I WONDER IF YOU'RE GOING TO APPROVE OF MARJORIE'S LETTER?

Of one thing I'm sure—it will hand you a surprise!

DEAR ELSIE:

You hear so many complaints from and about the Modern Girl. Maybe a really happy letter will be a bit different.

So many of these complaining letters good—the angels in heaven aren't any seem to center about the mothers of today. Well, I'm going to write a defense of Modern Mothers. And I ought to know what I am talking about for I have one. Yes, she is really mother; she enjoys all the freedom which any other woman of the Twentieth Century enjoys and yet she is always sweet and better than my mother!

Her life has been fair from pleasant. Father deserted her before I was born and she has gone through terrible trials but she never talks about them. She has never once burdened me with the story of her wrongs. She has done every sort of work to take care of me and many a mother would throw that up to her daughter. But, listen to what she said to me today. Today was my birthday and she put her arms around me and kissed me and said: "Precious, out of all the mothers in the world you chose me. I'm so happy to have you."

She surely has been wise with me in every way. She told me all about life and womanhood when I was just a mere youngster—and she told it in the sweetest way. She was very delicate but she left no room for misunderstanding. She made me know my own intrinse value to her and to myself—and made me realize that my virtue was priceless. It was going to love some day and purity was to be my supreme gift to my husband—she made to me see all that.

Always there has been that frankness between us. She has never let herself get old or critical or let our lives drift apart. I can go to her with every thing.

Let's have more modern mothers. They know life better than the old fashioned women ever did and they hate not only conventional immorality, but all the cattiness and deceit and falseness that used to be excused in women. Modern mothers are the finest in the world, I think. They give us more liberty—yes—BUT THEY TEACH US HOW TO USE LIBERTY. And they make themselves our partners in whatever we do. And I say, God bless them all!

MARJORIE.

And I say it with you, little sister.

It's a wonderful world today and we have splendid people in it. Noble heroes, great adventurers, scholars and

CHAPTER 56
The Gallant Loser

Major Harcourt was waiting for Ada in the lobby. They went into the dining-room together. When he had ordered for them both, he rested his elbows on the table and smiled across at her almost boyishly.

"Do you know, Mrs. Lind, you've given me wonderful courage and confidence. While the spell of your influence is still on me, I've determined to act. I'm going away in the morning to try to see the girl I spoke of, to try to patch things up, if she'll let me."

"I'm very glad," Ada answered bravely. "I'm sure everything will come out all right. At any rate, my good wishes will go with you."

"You're an angel!" he declared. "I'll never forget you."

Ada smiled a trifle drearily. Then she turned the conversation into other channels, fearing to let her courage too far.

They finished dinner, had their coffee in the lounge, and listened to the concert, as usual. At ten o'clock Ada declared that she was frightfully sleepy after the long motor ride and was going to bed.

"I'll not see you again," she said as they stood waiting for the elevator, "because I'll probably sleep late in the morning, and you'll be gone before I'm down. So this is good-by."

She held out her hand. He took it and raised it to his lips.

"I can't thank you—" he was beginning. "Your friendship has meant so much to me—"

She cut him off with a gay gesture.

"It has been a pleasure to me, too." She opened the satin bag on her arm and extracted something.

"I want you to take this with you." She held the black opal in his palm. "You know its rightful owner. Give it to her. It belongs to her — to you!—not to me. I am an old woman who has played at being young. I was a fool, and you were kind not to laugh."

He began to stammer something, but she continued:

"Take it. Perhaps it will bring you—or her—the luck it has failed to bring me. At any rate, I have no right to it, and I'll feel better, knowing you have it. For it has meant a great deal to my life, hasn't it?"

"It has brought the greatest happiness and the greatest pain that any man can know," he answered gravely. Then "But Mrs. Kendall— It was once in her possession—"

"She wishes never to see it again."

He shrugged and pocketed the jewel

"I will give it back to Cynthia— If she will have it."

"Cynthia!" repeated Ada wistfully. "What a pretty name for a pretty girl. I hope you will be very happy." With a last smile, wistful, sad, but still courageous, she bade him good-by, stepped into the waiting elevator and was whirled aloft.

Norma was waiting for her. She held out her arms silently, and Ada permitted herself to be folded in them like a tired woman who has had a romance she had never had; the younger for one that was forever lost.

In her own room, Major Harcourt packed his bags in preparation for his departure on the morrow and wrote a letter to a rather fine chivalry that his going was better for all concerned, and a letter of explanation of his mission. He was not vain, but he knew that Ada Lind had fallen in love with him.

As to the opal—he took it out of his pocket and examined it for a long time. Deep, bitter lines seemed to spring out on his lean, bronzed face. His eyes were very sad.

"If you weren't so beautiful—" he hadn't given her life and her faith and her happiness for you—" and half aloud, "I'd take a hammer and smash you to bits."

At that moment Ada was telling Norma that she had given the opal to Harcourt.

"He knew a great deal about it, though he didn't tell me much. It seems it has figured in his life, rather tragically, I think. I gave it to him, partly for that reason, partly because I never could look at it again and not remember what a fool I've made of myself. Fancy my thinking that I, at my age, could find romance." She laughed dreadfully. "Fancy my believing that a few courses in reducing, a few beauty treatments, and a permanent wave would give me back my lost youth! Why, oh, why do the heart and spirit remain young while the body grows old and ugly? That's the tragedy of life—for women!"

SINCLAIR'S

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:—

I am a girl of twenty-seven and considered very attractive. For several years I have been keeping steady company with a young man several years older than I. sisters married, the support of the family depended upon him, which prevented our marriage. But now that no one is dependent upon him his sister (would-be has-been) and he spends most of his time with a girl just past her teens. During all these years, in spite of many opportunities, I have remained true to him.

My heart is broken. What shall I do?

ANXIOUS.

ANXIOUS:—I can appreciate the full significance of the situation, my friend. Your story s a perfect illustration of why I do not believe in long courtships. A long courtship always entails the hazard that either one or the other may lose interest before marriage, while the other becomes emotionally tied to the extent that the parting is fraught with considerable pain. That apparently has happened in your case.

I can only comfort you with the thought that it will pass. You can forget it if you try. You are still young and can build towards a new future. Make new friends. Accept the invitations of other young men. Permit yourself to become engrossed in new interests. It won't be long before a zest for living will return. Surely, my friend, even if you could keep the young man to his promises there would be little happiness in keeping him without his love.

BRIGHT COLORS FOR CARS NOW AVAILABLE HERE

Duco Refinishing Plant Now Offers Fifty Colors

Isaac Stephenson, local authorized Duco Refinisher reports that the local refinishing business has been fairly steady all season.

To satisfy public demand for ever more attractive and bright colors, the makers of Duco are producing at the present time some fifty different shades of the popular and famous finish, thus making it possible for the motorist to secure any color or combination of colors he may desire.

At the local Fair just ended and at every motor exhibition showing the 1928 motor car models, the "dresses" in which the cars are clothed promise to rival in appearance all the glories of the autumnal season. Even more strikingly bright than ever are the brilliant reds, yellows, maroons, greens and all the rest of the shades that are to be seen on the new models of almost every maker.

Owners of cars just a year or two old find themselves "incompletely" out of style. Mechanically, and in many cases as far as body styles go, few changes have been made in many makers in the last couple of years, and in these respects an owner may have a car just as good as the new models.

But it is possible to have your car redoned right in Belleville in any shade of combination desired; reduced by an expert trained in this work and done at a reasonable rate.

Consult Isaac Stephenson, Authorized Duco Refinisher, in the Greenleaf Building, on Station street, and see the colors available.

WONG'S CAFE OFFERS EXTRA GOOD SERVICE

Belleville is fortunate in having a restaurant providing such tasty and well cooked meals, prompt and courteous service and in such apic and span surroundings as are available at Wongs on Front street, next to The Intelligencer.

During the few short months in which this establishment has been under the present management of Messrs. Harry and Foo Wong, it has gained an excellent reputation for its excellent meals and all round service.

In an effort to make even more efficient this well known good service the diningroom staff has recently been increased, providing patrons with speedy service and the minimum of delay.

If you haven't tried Wongs under the new management drop in and enjoy one of their new priced full course dinners or suppers (11-2 and 5-8). You'll agree that Wongs is a "Great Place to Eat."

WEATHER BRINGS NEED OF ICE

September here and it looks as if summer weather would continue indefinitely, which makes one reflect that the need of ice during this month is just about as great as during the past two.

And then again, some kinds last much longer than others. Graham's ice is made from pure water, and as well as being guaranteed pure and free from disease germs, is much harder than other ice and hence lasts longer, with a resulting lower price in the long run.

Try Graham's for this month if you haven't been using it and you'll never go back to any other. A phone call to 374 will place your name on the list.

CARE YOUR EYES SHOULD RECEIVE

Don't twirl your eyeglasses around by the cord or ribbon. Such practice easily becomes a habit—a costly habit too, as it inevitably results in broken glasses.

Don't hold your glasses by the bridge or nose-piece when wiping them. Often, when cleaning glasses in this manner the frame is held too rigidly, or the lens is moved a little too much and it breaks off at the screw hole. Learn to hold your glasses by the edge of the lens you are rubbing.

Don't continue wearing your old glasses when you feel that they are not just right. There is a slow but constant change in every person's eyes making it necessary to change glasses at intervals of every two or three years in most instances.

Don't select glasses for yourself. The only safe way is to have your eyes scientifically examined and fitted with lenses to your own individual requirements.

CHANDLER EIGHT MAKES DEBUT AT BELLEVILLE EX.

Extraordinary Car Wins Instant Approval Here

The efforts of the Automobile Committee of the Belleville Fair to display for the benefit of the motoring public last week the very newest and best in automotive transportation were successful and then some.

Among the most outstanding automobiles seen at the Fair was the magnificent new 1928 Chandler Royal Eight model—shown locally for the first time through special effort on the part of W. J. Green, manager of Chandler Motor Sales, Front Street.

The writer was privileged to ride in, and drive, this remarkable car, and it was truly an experience not soon forgotten. In the first place, the Royal Eight in finish and appearance represents the last word in style and beauty. Even a casual glance reveals a luxury that could scarcely be surpassed in any car at any price.

And riding comforts—we found that the term took on a new significance from the moment the car commenced to move—and it moved with the smooth power of a steam engine. Remarkable acceleration that shot the car forward like a bullet, faster and faster, until we were moving over seventy miles an hour—almost without realizing it, for we experienced not even a semblance of vibration—but a smooth flow of quiet power unlike anything we had ever experienced before in any car.

Then the engine was de-celerated. The car now was moving so slowly that one could walk much more quickly. Did you ever see a car go one mile an hour or less in high gear —scarcely moving, yet with the engine turning over as smoothly and regularly as at seventy? The Royal Eight will do just that, so remarkable is its engine in flexibility. Then step on it, and away it goes, like a bird.

Supplementing its rare beauty and performance are the advantages of the one shot system of chassis lubrication, an air cleaner on the carburetor, an oil purifier, a thermostatic heat control—all factors ensuring greater life and efficiency for the Chandler Royal Eight.

All phases of the car make one realize that it is a car representing the ultimate in motoring.

BAKERY SUPPLIES
HOME COOKING

Now that Fall is at hand and cooler weather not very far away, it might be supposed that many housewives who chose during the summer months to let a modern bakery do their cooking, would commence once again to do their own.

But as a matter of fact, people of this city, following the lead of those of other centres, aren't much inclined to revert to the work of cooking pies and cakes. Their experience during the summer months has shown them that the Modern Bakery can turn out pastry of the kind all the family looks for—with real homemade flavour. In many places, the housewife relies all the year round now on the Bakery and the trend is towards the same thing here as elsewhere.

Belleville, such places as Tarlington's are doing well to encourage this trend. Expert bakers by the use of purest ingredients, pastry turned out in-ople and surroundings, and in a variety to please almost anyone—these are factors which have given Tarlington's a reputation for producing homemade pies, cakes and doughnuts of the very best quality.

Wist such pastry availables Tarlingtons produce, Bellevillians will not see much reason to the older method of preparing their own home cooking.

BELLE THEATRE

Just bit, old, dust-covered trunk—want some fresh—hinges—keys in a dark corner of the attic filled with costumes of forgotten Mardi Gras seasons in an old southern home in New Orleans, is responsible for Leatrice Joy becoming a screen celebrity.

That attic, containing the relics of yesteryear, provided a stage, prop and dressing room for the potential star of Shadowland, while the costumes the dust-covered trunk contained, awakened a persevering ambition in the soul of a great actress.

Miss Joy, who is starrtior in the William De Mille production, "For Alimony Only," which will be on view at the Belle theatre Monday, takes keen delight in recalling the days of her childhood when, in the gleeful cooperation of the neighborhood youngsters, she started on the road to dramatic success.

"I really never thought much about becoming an actress until I found that old, dust-covered trunk," laughs Miss Joy. "But, someway, when I finally managed to open the thing and discovered all those wonderfully, beautiful old Mardi Gras costumes and put them on: mimicking the grownups, 'a burning desire to be an actress was instilled in me—my imagination and emotions on the screen.

REGENT THEATRE

When "The Telephone Girl" arrives at the Regent Monday, Belleville will have its first chance to see Herbert Brenon's third picture since his never-to-be-forgotten "Beau Geste." In the interim, he made "God Gave Me Twenty- Cents" and "The Great Gatsby" and then "Resurrection" productions. Adapted from a William C. De Mille play "The Woman" Brenon's latest effort brings glory to the lady of the boudoir, Madge Bellamy plays the little role as Kitty O'Hara. Kitty inadvertently becomes the center of a web which has been woven around Matthew Hamlin, candidate for Governor. His election or defeat are placed in her hands and down-well, you'll never guess what she does. Holbrook Blinn, Warner Baxter, May Allison and Lawrence Gray are co-featured with Miss Bellamy.

RUTH'S CLOUTING HELPS YANKEES

Bambino Gets No Home Runs But Slaps Out Singles Galore

New York, Sept. 10.—The king felt in rather a democratic mood and indulged in some menial labor at the Stadium yesterday afternoon. He hit not regal home runs, but when quite early in the contest, the Yankees found themselves in dire need of a few runs to put the Browns in their proper place, Babe Ruth thumped two, vigorous singles off his regal bat that drove in three runs, roused the Yanks, out of a sound sleep, and tossed the deluded Brownies into a panic. Eventually the Yanks won 9 to 2.

The Yanks had jumped away to a one run lead in the third on a triple by Combs and Ruth's first single, a clean blow to left. But in the fourth Shocker ran into some trouble and promptly made more for himself. Gehrig fumbled a sharp grounder his close to the foul line by Sisler and this so confused Shocker that he got his charity all mixed up. He passed the next two batters to fill the bases and then pitched another to force in a run. Agreeably surprised over this the Browns decided they would help themselves to some more and a sacrifice fly by Mellilo let in a second run and a single by Gerber drove in a third.

At this point Shocker decided to blow the whistle on the Browns and in the fifth the Yanks went to work. Shocker himself started the impending rout on Vangilder with a pass. Combs singled and Koenig sacrificed the two to second and third. Then the Babe slashed his second single viciously to right field and Shocker and both counted.

By this time the Browns already were in great confusion. Vangilder carefully passed Gehrig but Meusel singled, scoring Ruth and spotting Gehrig on third.

Lamont tried to help the Browns out of their plight by popping to Gerber, but this young man became so pleased with himself that he forgot all about Gehrig on third, so Gehrig at once lit out for the plate to turn the thing into a marriage fly for Tony.

The Marquis and MaMrchioness Townshend recently gave a flying house party at their country residence, Raynham Hall.

CUBS LOST; POP BOTTLES THROWN

Wrigley's Team Receive Discouraging Set-Back By Giants

Chicago, Sept. 10.—The pennant aspirations of the Cubs, such as they are, received a discouraging jolt to the midriff yesterday afternoon when the heroines Giants moved into Wrigley Field and beat the Bruins 7 to 3, before 25,000 of the beauty and chivalry of the Windy City.

Once again your correspondent was subjected to the harrowing assignment of listening to the piteous groans of the local taxpayers as their favorites blocked one with their chin. The quaint notion is still being entertained in this village that the Cubs are going to win the pennant. The citizens wager bales, and great was their dismay when the Giants came out with trusting hearts and treat, indeed.

Burleigh Grimes, the ancient spitballer, baffled the Cubs with his moist service while the Giants were making merry at the expense of Phil Weinert and Percy Lee Jones, both southpaws. Mr. Weinert, by the way, a member of the furious Phils and, unable to break the habits of a lifetime was knocked out of the box as early as the fourth frame.

The citizens were so annoyed by the untoward antics of the Giants that they began tossing pleasure at Umpire Ernie Quigley in the seventh. Ernie allowed Jackson to take a base on balls after, the Cubs alleged, he had called time. Joseph McCarthy, the local manager, rushed out to speak his piece, and when the debate was just dying down several local sportsmen chucked pop bottles at the umpire.

The head of Mr. Quigley and the crowd yelled its approval of this brave act. Chicago is certainly a great town for throwing things. Once they even threw a world's series out here.

Still the superheated fans had been through a great trial. Imagine their anguish when the Giants scored three runs in the second inning and three more in the fourth.

Two of the runs in the second came when Mr. Travis Jackson, of Little Rock, Ark., became suddenly violent and slapped a tremendous homer over the left centre-field fence.

Grimes had a couple of shaky innings, but enjoyed such a capacious lead that Acting-Manager Hornsby refused to become unduly disturbed. The Giants are still half a game behind the Pirates, who beat the futile Phils.

FRONTENACS TIE WOODLEY'S CUBS

Ninth Inning Rally Knots Score—Struck Out 14

A ninth inning rally on two outs by the Cubs gladdened the heart of Twin Woodley and saved the reputation of his team in their game with the Frontenacs before a large crowd in the arm during last evening. The score was 6-6 and as the hour was late the teams left the count a deadlock and decided to finish the argument at some future date. The Cubs hung up seven runs in their half of the ninth and were leading by a lone run but the Frontenacs came back with another to knot the score.

Bessie Doolittle received her first test under fire and she did fairly well. Four wa batters fell before her delivery via be strike-out rout. The only fault lies in her taking too much time to complete delivery of the ball to the batter.

Fans like to see a game finished in rapid-fire order and when the pitcher takes too much time the ump is bound to grow slow and monotonous. Miss Doolittle was ineffective in the sixth in long and Certie Boulier was sent in but as she was no pussie to the Frontenacs Miss Doolittle was sent back in again.

Nellie Saylor went the full route for the Frontenacs and twirled nice ball although the Cubs bit her hard at intervals. Both pitchers were a trifle fast and several runs were the result of ree passes to first.

The tie will be played off at some future date.

Enduring Quality at LOWER PRICES

makes Pontiac Six the Best Investment Value

MEN who look upon an automobile from a hard, dollar-and-cents standpoint are just as emphatic in their praise of Pontiac Six as those who seek primarily the beauty, smoothness and comfort which Pontiac provides.

The enduring quality of Pontiac Six—its ruggedness and staying power—gives it the lowest depreciation and the highest resale value of any six-cylinder car in its price class.

From a business standpoint, the New and Finer Pontiac Six represents a sound investment in reliable, comfortable, economical automobile transportation—protected by the lasting quality of the car and the staunch integrity of its makers.

And the New, Low Prices make Pontiac Six a more attractive investment than ever.

ELECTRICAL STORM DOES HEAVY DAMAGE ON FARMS

Coming Municipal Election Causes Rumors Of Keen Fight For Mayoralty And Council Seats

MANGLED CHILD HAS CHANCE FOR RETAINING LIFE

6-Year-Old Stanley Rowbotham Run Over By Freight

LEG AMPUTATED

No Eye Witnesses Of Tragedy Occuring Saturday Afternoon

Horribly mangled when a C.N.R. freight engine and six cars passed over the lower portions of his body about 2 o'clock Saturday afternoon, little Stanley Rowbotham, aged five years, and residing at 14 Bettes Street, is lying in the Belleville General Hospital with his right leg amputated below the knee, his left leg broken just below the hip, fighting bravely for his life.

There were no eye-witnesses to the terrible accident, but Mr. George Rowbotham, Stanley's father, told The Intelligencer today that the little boy had been playing with young Martin Shadock immediately previous to the train hitting him, and that Martin had evidently come home. Stanley Rowbotham then went to cross the railroad tracks on Sidney Street when the yard engine and its string of cars, going east, hit him.

A passenger motor car, Mrs. W. Bleecker, Avenue, arrived at the scene of the accident at the same time and picked him up, lay him inside, then by the side of the road.

Evidently the lead of the engine which had passed over Stanley's leg, not the flange, as the flange would have cut off his right leg completely.

The Canadian National ambulance was called and young Rowbotham was rushed to the hospital where he was put under the care of Dr. J. A. Faulner who today reported that the youthful victim was holding his own in the battle with the Grim Reaper.

Coroner Acsworth

Mr. George Rowbotham stated to The Intelligencer today that there was a rumour around that his son had been playing on the freight cars in the yards, but stated that the boy was too small to be climbing up on the cars.

The Canadian National Railway is investigating the accident, but, no witnesses being present when the lad was run over, could not give to the Press any account of the tragedy.

Mr. Rowbotham is an employee of the C.N.R. He is the father of a family at ten, nine of whom are living at home.

DREAD SCOURGE STILL SPREADING

Despite Precautions Of Medical Authorities New Cases Are Reported

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—Fourteen new cases of infantile paralysis were reported in Alberta and British Columbia over the week end, bringing the total number of cliften treated to more than 200 since the scourge developed in the West. The number of fatalities stands at sixteen, of which number seven occurred in Edmonton.

Despite exceptional precautions upon the part of the medical authorities to guard against the spread of the disease, single cases were reported from seven new districts in Alberta.

Calgary Closes Schools

Calgary, Sept. 12.—As a precaution against the spread of infantile paralysis, health-authorities have ordered the closing of all schools, public and private. Youths under eighteen are to be barred from all public gatherings. There are only four cases of the disease in Calgary.

FACE CHARGES OF STOCK FRAUDS

Heads of Brokerage House Arrested

Henry W. Fields, alleged manager of Worthington & Co., brokers, and Mercey Seconder were among seven alleged brokers who face charges of false pretenses and conspiracy in connection with mining stock deals in Ontario. Fields, who is shown on the LEFT, is held under $20,000 bail, and Seconder and his companions under $10,000. Dr. Cotnam, M.P., North Renfrew, as a result of the case, will demand an investigation into stock acceptances on mining exchanges. He invested $37,000, he said, in the deal and now believes the stocks he bought are worthless and charges they were placed on an exchange list as something on which the exchange had passed.

INTREPID AVIATORS INSIST THEY WILL TRY TRANS-OCEAN FLIGHTS

Two Young Women Among Those Planning The Great Adventure

New York, Sept. 12.—In face of new trans-ocean reports from across the ill-fated monoplane "Old Glory" and the withdrawal of four other projected flights, two aeroplanes remained in the trans-Atlantic air adventure. Miss Francis Grayson, Long Island student aviatrix said she intended to fly to Europe wit; a pilot and navigator in a Sikorsky amphibian plane while Miss Ruthian Elder, and Capt. Robert Hamilton, British flier retained their determination not to be dissuaded from attempting an overseas hop.

Ordered to Return

St. John's, Nfld., Sept. 12.—Orders received Saturday to abandon his attempted flight in the monoplane Royal Windsor from Windsor, Ont., to Windsor, England, were characterized Saturday night by Phil Wood, co-pilot with "Duke" Scheller of the plane, as "the greatest setback of my life."

The flier said he would stick by his Flight Committee's orders, however, and return home to prepare for the New York-Spokane race on Sept. 21, abandoning both the idea of a trans-Atlantic flight and an air search for the Old Glory.

The fliers are receiving hourly weather reports on conditions from Maine to Newfoundland, and announced they would start off at any time.

Their route will be across Newfoundland.

CHILD KILLED WITH BABY IN HER ARMS

Winnipeg, Sept. 12.—With her twenty-months-old sister, Teresa, clasped in her arms, Mary McDonald, thirteen, was struck by an automobile yesterday and both died from their injuries. At the street curb, Mary stopped to let a motor truck go by and then walked into the path of a car going in the opposite direction. Her mother screamed a warning but was too late.

TOOK SAFE AND CONTENTS AWAY FROM LIQUOR STORE

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—The Government liquor store was broken into early yesterday by robbers who removed the safe and its contents amounting to about three thousand dollars in cash, loaded it on a truck and took it about twenty miles from the city where they blew it open. They took sixty cases of liquor from the store. Later the United States police arrested a man near the border in connection with the robbery. He gave the name of Robert Cress, address unknown.

TERRIFIC STORM WORKS HAVOC TO EAST OF COUNTY

At Least Seven Barns Destroyed By Lightning Saturday Night

HOUSE STRUCK

Electricity Came Down Chimney And Killed Dog

One barn, the property of Q. Seeley, north of Bath, burned to the ground, one barn damaged, the property of Tom Lloyd, also residing near Bath, one house struck, the property of T. McNeil, Camden, Township, and a barn owned by M. Wager, residing about four miles east of Napanee, were the toll of a terrific electrical storm that raged from Desoronto eastward Saturday evening. Besides those named, there were three other buildings struck by lightning during the same storm, but no account of them could be learned by The Intelligencer at press time.

Curiously enough, Belleville was not touched by even the tail-end of the storm, and no losses were reported near this city.

Seeley's barn was insured for about $1700 and carried $800 insurance on its contents.

Curious Freak

A strange phenomenon is attached to the lightning-struck home of Mr. Lyon, Lloyd, Ont., current treasury down the chimney, entered the kitchen, from there went into the living room and killed a dog that was lying down, but did not injure Mr. Lloyd or any of the occupants of the house. The house was not touched.

RECORD VOTE IS EXPECTED TODAY

North Huron Federal Campaign, Bitterly Contested, Ends Tonight

Goderich, Ont., Sept. 12.—With perfect weather giving promise of a record turnout of voters, the election in the North Huron seat to the polls this morning to decide by their ballots which of three candidates should be the successor in the House of Commons to the late John W. King, progressive member for this riding, whose death last Spring necessitated a by-election. Voters were being recorded in large numbers this morning. The Liberals are pinning their hope on Archie Hyslop while Geo. Spotton is the standard bearer for the Conservatives and Sheldon Bricker is doing battle on behalf of the U.F.O.

An exceptionally heavy vote is certain, due to keen competition through out the riding and an intensive campaign waged by all three parties interested.

Total vote cast in the last general election was 11,300 but this figure will probably be exceeded in today's contest. There are seventy-seven polling subdivisions in the riding which includes the towns of Goderich, Wingham, Wroxeter, Blythe and Brussells. A heavy vote is concentrated in the townships of Grey, Howick, Morris, East Wawanosh, West Wawanosh, Turnberry, Ashfield and Colborn.

Lacasse Commission Decides "Sub-Weight" Murderers Are Responsible

New York, Sept. 12.—Mrs. Ruth Snyder and Henry Judd Gray have been found sane in examinations conducted at Sing Sing by the State Lunacy Commission. Prison attaches said that Mrs. Snyder received members of the Commission very cordially and that she impressed them as realizing what "her situation is all about." The alienists found Gray's mind unchanged since they last visited him.

Gray and Mrs. Snyder were condemned to death for the murder of the woman's husband, Albert W. Snyder. They have both appealed for a new trial, unsuccessfully stayed sentence.

FIRE DESTROYED DELIVERY TRUCK

Driver Escapes Burns As Flames Envelop Load Of Fruit

A fruit truck, owned by P. A. Merrifield, of Brighton, was totally destroyed by fire shortly after eight o'clock this morning, on the Picton road, near Mountain View.

John Baker, who was driving the truck, carrying a large assorted load of fruit from Toronto to Picton, when the flames shot up from beneath the floor board and enveloped the driver's seat. However, managed to apply the brakes and jump to safety a moment before the whole truck was a seething mass. No definite cause has been given for the fire but it is believed that some of the fruit became crossed causing a short circuit which resulted in the truck and its contents.

Baker left Belleville on the truck at this morning on his usual tour of Prince Edward County with the truck, carrying fifty bunches of bananas and some other fruit. The fruit was a total loss and the truck is beyond repair. The latter was covered by insurance.

A portion of the fruit was scorched but still edible and the farmers of Prince Edward County residing in the vicinity of the fire are advised not to fill for sale, could be utilized.

Baker was alone on the truck at the time and said the motor appeared to be working smoothly previous to the accident and could give no reason which would lead to the origin of the fire. The frame of the truck was badly burned prey to the flames and the fire when it hit, the gas tank spread rapidly and all efforts to retain it was futile.

STRUCK BY CAR 3 RIBS BROKEN

Dr. H. N. Honeywell, well-known veterinary surgeon of Canniton, suffered three fractured ribs and other injuries when struck by a car driven by Bruce Simpson of Station street, on Sydney street, about 7.30 yesterday, in Kyle's garage. He was taken to Dr. Robertson's office where the injuries were treated, after which the local ambulance was called and took him to the hospital. He is reported to be resting easily today.

Simpson was driving south at the time and Dr. Honeywell started to cross the road in front of A. Safe's junk yard. It was standing at the time and Simpson failed to observe the man until it was too late to avoid striking him. The victim was thrown to the pavement and it was at first thought that his injuries were more serious but an examination revealed the three broken bones.

Simpson reported the police and that he was not to blame he was not detained.

ROUND THE WORLD FLIERS HESITATE AT THE PACIFIC

Tokio, Sept. 12.—Plans of Edward Schlee and William Brock for the next step in their round-the-world flight remained unknown here today but there was a growing tendency to regard their flying from Japan to the Mainland, half way across the Pacific, as suicidal. Advices from Omura to-day said the fliers were undecided on whether to attempt the flight to the Midway Island. It was the opinion of Japanese fliers that such an undertaking would be plain suicide and that any attempt to cross the Pacific by following the Kurile and Aleutian Islands chains northward would be most hazard-

WORD OF DEATH AWAITED WIFE

Mrs. Wallbridge Arriving Saturday Greeted With Sad Announcement

The many friends of Adam Henry Wallbridge (Harry) were shocked on Saturday afternoon to hear of his sudden death in vancouver, B.C., from angina pectoris. Harry was born and educated in Belleville and brought up at the old White House, home of the late Hon. Lewis Wallbridge, Chief Justice of Manitoba. He studied law but never followed his profession, going on the death of his father, Adam Henry Wallbridge, to Vancouver, where he became a successful real estate and mining man.

He was married in Belleville to Miss Helen Keiso, daughter of Mrs. L. V. Keiso, Church street, their only son, Lewis, was enroute to this city to visit her mother and upon her arrival Saturday, he and news of the death of a devoted husband and father was awaiting her. Mrs. Wallbridge left on left for the west on Sunday where the funeral will be held Friday, Sept. 16.

Besides the widow and son, Mr. Wallbridge is survived by his brother Sherrill son, a prominent lawyer of Vancouver, and a sister, Mrs. C. Reed. The late Francis S. Wallbridge and the Misses Wallbridges, George St., were cousins.

ITALIAN CONSUL AT PARIS IS MURDERED

Paris, Sept. 12.—Count Carlo Nigra, Italian consul here, was shot and killed today by an unidentified assailant. The assailant, believed to be an Italian, sought the Count in his rooms at the Consulate and fired three times without warning. He was arrested but refused to give his name or any motive for the crime.

THE WEATHER

Tuesday—Generally fresh, fair and warm.

MAYOR REED RE-ELECTED

Mayor Hardley Wilmot has stated definitely that he will not stand for re-election for the coming year, owing to the heavy demands which his rapidly increasing business is making upon him.

However, there are several of the aldermen who are willing to offer themselves upon the municipal altar at the election to be held on the first Monday in December.

As yet there has not been any definite announcement of which councillmen in regard to their seeking re-election. A strong feeling is being felt throughout the city that there will be one or more ladies in next year's council chamber. Both lady candidates and the fairer sex of Belleville have the feeling that they should be represented all around the council board.

Women Not In Field

This afternoon The Intelligencer talked to a number of the active ladly workers of Belleville. They all were reluctant as to whether they would enter into the political field or not.

Mrs. J. W. Kilmaster, President of the Ladies' Conservative Club, stated that next month she expected to attend the Conservative National Convention at Winnipeg, but did not think that she would offer her services as a candidate for city council.

Mrs. W. J. Boyes, a member of the board of Education, stated that her term on that board expires at the end of this year and although she had been approached by a number, she might seek re-election to the school board.

Mrs. J. A. McFee, who is completing her fourth year as a member of the Public School Board, informed the newspaperman that she would not favor her name for re-election, but would as an alderman, but she would probably seek re-election.

Mrs. Ketcheson, another active member of many of the local organizations was out of the city and therefore could not be interviewed by The Intelligencer called her home.

Mrs. J. S. Hurst prominently associated with the Ladies' Conservative Club, stated to the reporter that she had no ambitions for the city council at present. Another lady, one of the city's largest lady property owners, called over the phone this morning was out, but it is probable that she could be persuaded to offer her services to the city. Two years ago, Miss Corbett was nominated but withdrew them.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Life gives nothing to mortals except with great labor.

HORACE.

DISCONCERTING

The official government figures show that foreigners at the rate of 3000 a week are pouring into Canada, and this since April 1, 47,642 from all parts of Europe and Asia have been admitted. During the same period only 27,000 British-born — 9237 from Scotland, 9869 from Ireland, 1536 from Wales, and 16,197 from England—have reached these shores as settlers.

What the Toronto Globe's Ottawa correspondent says is the most disconcerting feature is that many of the foreigners are disciples of communism, that they have in Northern Ontario and Western Canada, "established school, where atheism and Bolshevism flourish, and where paid agitators spread the gospel of the Russian Reds." They are not to undermine British and the ideals for which the British Empire stands. Paid organizers go about preaching that the British Empire is maintained by force, and the working classes are slaves of the capitalists."

The immigration figures and the story they tell, as well as they may are "disconcerting" to the capital. The government will find the country, except the small portion affected by communism, solidly behind it in its efforts to shut off the flow of reds, and to encourage the immigration of people of the stock who have done the pioneer work in building up a great British dominion.

THE MOVIE STRIKE

It is no secret that retrenchment is the order of the day with the movies. The men who make the pictures and the exhibitors who show them are both asking how to cut expenses. The former made a drive at actors' salaries, but did not get far with it. Owners and managers of picture houses are reducing the number of operators required, and slicing salaries of those operators who remain. They are not getting very far with that. Resistance to a wage cut among the moving-picture operators is, from the public point of view, a far harder thing to bear than a quarrel over money among the stars and directors, for the latter has no immediate effect, while the former deprives thousands of their mighty amusement.

The close organization of operators and their affiliation with the union of stage hands give the strikers a strong weapon, as it is reported that a general strike throughout the country against all theaters having any connection with the Chicago houses will be called whenever the Chicago unions ask for it. But if they are wise they will not ask for it. The attitude of the operators is standing firm with: "There is nothing to arbitrate." He announces that he will not talk business until the men who have been locked out are back at work. That will leave the strikers of one circuit to talk about. They struck because all houses where four men were employed, according to union rules, two were removed. The union require a certain number of hands to be fed, regardless of what the house manager thinks his needs are. One of the Chicago theater owners says that in one of his smaller houses where no stage performance is given he is compelled to have two stage hands on duty. "One of them turns on the lights in the morning and the other turns them off at night." Unless the average salary of the stage-hands is more than $100 a week, it appears that the owner must be doing a good business with his movies, and as, moreover, a good-natured fellow.

Public sentiment is not yet much aroused over the tremendous waste of money in the production and exhibition of moving pictures. Whatever the rights and wrongs of the present dispute, patrons are entitled to know the facts. It may be union rules to have twelve men hired to do the work that eight could manage easily, but it isn't common sense. Eventually the operators must see that their position is untenable. The days of wild extravagance in all departments of the movie business are drawing to a close, and an adjustment should be effected as smoothly as possible, by arbitration and co-operational rather than by blind opposition to the trend of the times.

STILL MUCH TO DO

What puzzles many is the fact that, although the longevity of life in increasing, disease epidemics are becoming rare and more and more once virulent diseases are being overcome, the mortality from cancer, heart diseases and tuberculosis shows a continual increase.

There should be no cause for alarm nor is there anything inexplicable in this situation. Physicians were quick to recognize the relation of the lengthening span of life and the growing death rate from cancer, heart diseases and tuberculosis and it is because of the increasing mortality from these disorders.

Cancer, tuberculosis and the diseases of the heart are diseases of mature life. Cancer is a disease virtually unknown among young people and the others are more prevalent among mature men and women. Heart disorders are uncommon among people under 40 years old. Knowing this the medical men put two and two together and arrived at the simple and perfectly obvious conclusion that the only reason there are more deaths from these diseases is because there are more old people to develop them. When people were dying twenty years earlier in life than they are today there were relatively few who lived long enough to develop these organic disorders.

Medical science has got humanity safely through the first fifty years and is only now focusing its laboratory and research work on the obstructions which make the second fifty years so hazardous. There is no reason to doubt that it will be as successful in conquering the ills of old age as it has been in vanquishing the diseases of youth.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The Government cannot alone enforce safety on the highways if it spends millions of dollars. There must be co-operation on the part of the public. Working together the present frightful slaughter will cease. If they do not co-operate the weekly toll of death will continue.—London Free Press.

Britain has tremendous problems to solve and staggering burdens to bear, but she is not on the down grade. She is facing and solving them with a courage and confidence because her policy is sound and her heart true. Mr. Baldwin has put the British Country right in the minds of Canadians in this as in other respects. She maintains her outlook upon the sea and that freedom of trade which is the life blood of her shipping and her commerce. — Halifax Chronicle.

"If capital punishment were to be abolished, society, under existing conditions, would be in inextricable peril and human life would not be worth a straw," said Mr. A. H. Bell. "There are hardened criminals to whom the fear of the punishment that awaits them is apparently of little concern. What would it be if they knew that the penalty for murder were not execution, if they were not held in check by the little fear they have of the punishment that may now be meted out to them on conviction?" Lord Reading, who the average salary of the stage-speaking with good grace, and basing his views on long legal experience, very pertinently supports the doctrine of capital punishment, a doctrine which is favored by all who respect law and order, and who estimate human life at its just value.—Montreal La Patrie

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Mother: "Doris, your hair is a sight. Did Charlie kiss you against your will?"

Daughter: "He thinks he did!"

Agent: "How do you like your electric washer?"

Lady: "Not so good. Every time I get in the thing those paddles knocked me off my feet."

"Aren't you ever afraid of losing control of your car?"

"Constantly; I'm two installments behind already."

A Yankee peered inquisitively at a little old Jew who shared a tramcar seat with him. The little Jew looked at him depreciatingly. "Wot day," he began politely. "You're a Jew, ain't you?" asked the Yankee. "Yes, sir; I'm a clothing salesman" — handing him a card. "But you're a Jew?" "Yes, yes. I'm a Jew" was the answer. "Well," continued the Yankee, "I'm a Yankee, and in the little village in Maine where I come from I'm proud to say there ain't a Jew!" "Dot's why it's a village!" replied the Jew.

THE STAR ROVER

(Russell Meriwether Hughes)

I'll throw my rope on a mustang star
And, if my loop falls true,
I'll strap a surcingle over his back,
And we'll buck down the moonlit blue.

If I can break him to ride him right
So he knows my hand on the rein
And will answer my whistle and heed my voice
With a loss of his star-dust mane.

Then the Pegasus horse with his silver wings
Canlravel, for all I care,
On the white north wind to Parnassus top
And trumpet the high, thin air.

For I'll ride my star to eternity's end
And the music of the spheres
Shall echo the tune of his silver hoofs
For the stares of a thousand years.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 20 years ago.)

Manager Hurley of the Bay of Quinte Dist. F. A. Fair, with his secretary Mr. Jas. Conger are the busiest men in Belleville these days. They are besieged with farmers who wish to exhibit at the Fair which commences next week, September 14th, to the 17th.

A team of horses attached to a gardener's waggon, ran away on Dundas St., to-day and their course was marked by garden truck

Dr. Alf. H. Tickell, son of Mr Geo S. Tickell, and his bride are visiting his parents.

The arrivals of new students at Ontario Business College, this week have been numerous Those from foreign countries are: Mrs. Alice M Harper from St. Kitts, West Indies and Mr. D. S. Robinson from Bermuda.

Mayor Johnson and Alderman Doyle have returned from Toronto.

The J. R. Willard Company, of New York, bankers and brokers, caused great surprise yesterday by their assignment. The company had an extensive wire service in Ontario, there being branches in Belleville, Toronto, Paris, Kingston and Brockville.

THE GLIMPSE

Because she is so swift and shy,
Not e'en the keenest mortal eye
Has looked upon the wind's wild grace.

But sometimes on a sombre day
Above her gown of unseen grey
She throws a scarf of silver lace.

And as she runs across the green,
Wet grass, its jewelled ends are seen
Flutt'ring about her unknown face.

GERMANS TURN TO LIQUOR

Berlin, Sept. 12.—Consumption of schnapps in Germany, a beer-and-wine country, increased more than 30 per cent. past year, according to statistics published today. The administration of the State monopoly will therefore raise the number of distilling permits accordingly on October 1.

Strong drink consumed in the last fiscal year amounted to 873,000 hectoliters (more than 17,000,000 gallons) 113,000 hectoliters more than in 925. Temperance advocates are greatly excited over the growing whiskey thirst, believing that it endangers the national health.

At the same time the use of alcohol for industrial purposes also grew enormously—more than 9,000 hectoliter during the year. This fact is explained by the growth of perfumery manufacture, which was at a low ebb during the war, and three plays on account long distance vessels.

FADDING BRIDGE.

A gang of painters are busily engaged in improving the appearance of the new span of the Bay Bridge. A coat of deep red is being applied. Many tourists have been heard to remark on the bad condition of the old road leading to the bridge. Trenchermen holes every few feet increase the danger of broken springs. A little gravel would relieve the situation.

TO THE WATER MEETINGS.

The Ewesmuke Club will resume their weekly luncheons on Friday evening of this week at the Association building. New officers have recently been elected and indications point to another successful year. The club which is composed of younger men meets every Friday at the "Y" and a different speaker talks to the Club at each meeting.

AGED RESIDENT DEAD

Mrs. Demille, an aged resident of Minden village, passed away on Sunday evening. The deceased, who was in the neighborhood of sixty, fell a victim to the dreaded disease of cancer. Cecil Melville, who was formerly a member of the Belleville Police Department, is a son. Interment took place at Minden cemetery today.

GOES TO CHINA

Harry Wong, one of the proprietors of Wong Bookers' Cafe, Front Street, left today for Canton, China, where he will visit his wife and children after an absence of five years. Mr. Wong expects to return to Belleville in about a year's time when he will resume his duties at the restaurant.

BELLEVILLE GOLF CLUB

The lovely week-end weather was one of the largest crowds of the season turn out at the Belleville Golf Club. The excellent condition of the greens and fairways tended to good scores and some fine scores were recorded.

The preliminaries in the men's handicap were completed and several of the first round matches have already been played. The mixed foursome competitions are already under way. The first round of the men's handicap must be completed by August 19th.

Mr. Rickwood, the professional, who has been instructing the ladies for the past few weeks is leaving today. Many of the players are profiting by Mr. Rickwood's teaching and have noticed an improvement in their games.

Alf Legault playing against Jos. Whalen in the preliminaries, turned in a thirty-five on the last round of the match.

This year has been one of the most successful in the club's history. More new members have enrolled this year than ever before. The younger players are coming along and some of them bid fair to become fine golfers.

WATER USED

Manager of Waterworks R. T. Aylsworth states that approximately 10,000,000 gallons of water were pumped for the use of city residents during the month of August. This is regarded as particularly high average for August as it was the highest day with 7,810,000 consumed.

PEDESTRIANS, TOO!

Comments have been made on the manner in which pedestrians disregard the stop-and-go sign at the corner of Front and Bridge streets. Those making such remarks state that they must obey the sign as well as those in motor or horse-drawn vehicles. Everyone must pay strict attention to the lights in order to avoid any possibility of an accident.

PLAY-OFF HERE.

Kingston and Port Hope International leagues will play a sudden-death game at the Belleville Stadium grounds on Wednesday in order to decide a winner to meet Delcro in the next round of the O.B.A. play downs. The Electric City of Kingston won the first game of the series, the westerners were the best in the return game on Saturday last and as a result a third game was ordered played in Belleville. It would appear the Parks Board to see that the diamond is in better shape than it was last Wednesday when Delcro and Petersboro played here. It is reported that Delcro have agreed to play any further games on the local lot this summer due to the poor condition of the grounds last week.

Police Court

Peter Mones, who was found in the ditch by the police on Saturday evening, pleaded guilty to a public charge of drunkenness this morning before Magistrate Mikel and was fined the usual fifteen and costs.

Speed Victim

Edwin Beaunon, who hails from North Sophia, discovered much to his sorrow that it costs money to drive a car above the speed limit. He raised his hat reluctantly contributed the usual five-spot to the city coffers.

Disorderly Charge

Percy Holmes, Adrian Loiselle and Oscar Le Comte, three young men charged yesterday with D.N.R. freight train by the detectives at the depot that evening found themselves behind the bars in the police station this morning. Trespassing on the rail was the charge offered and when Magistrate Mikel told them that ten dollars and costly would settle the damages, they admitted that money was no part of them and with drawn faces they heard the Court pronounce the fatal words—"A week on the Hill"

The week-end was a particularly active one in the police circles and aside from the solitary drunk there was little to break the peace.

DESERONTO HOUSE BURNED TO GROUND

A frame house until a few days ago occupied by Henry Shetzer, Deseronto, was burned to the ground this morning from an unknown cause. A little over a week ago, the house caught fire and was suppoded to have been started from a defective flue. One of the authorities that the blaze had been smouldering during the past few days. Shetzer had a quantity of coal or charcoal stored in the shed which was adjoining the house and some sparks may have lodged in the pile at the time. The house is located in the east end section of the town. Several neighbors formed a bucket brigade but were hampered such action by proportions that attempts to save it were fruitless.

THE QUEEN'S HOTEL TORONTO

Announcement will miss the old Queen's Hotel. Way back in 1861 the Queen's was conducted by the late Captain Dick. At his death the hotel was taken over by his son-in-law, Mr. Whelan, who eventually took into partnership Mr. Winett and for many years the "Old Queen's" was run in the name of McCaw and Winett. It established a record of one of the most comfortable, and homelike hotels in the Dominion of Canada and all the old leaders of the at that time Tory party, found comfort under the walls of the Old Queen's. Now it is to be pulled down and a new C.P.R. Hotel is to be erected twenty-eight stories high. The furnishings will be sold by public auction on Sept. 26th, 1927, and the three following days. Many bargains will be found here as the furniture is of the very best manufacture of Jacques & Hay. The site is being conducted by the well-known Jenkins Galleries of Toronto. Everybody may be assured of a good square deal in every buy they can make.

Can Wicked Bachelors Make Good Nates?

Little Mickey is proving a "friend of mine" and getting slandered for her pains. Her sweetheart was the village black sheep until she started going with him. Now he's trying to reform but nobody says Mickey will believe it.

"I do love him sir," she says, 'and I am sure that he will come out all right some day. But I can't deny he has a terrible reputation and all the old gossips are talking about me just dreadfully.

"And it isn't just the old folks either My own friends talk too. Even the boys that used to like me say the most terrible things to me, things they would never have dared say before I went with this man.

"Yet, I am sticking to him because I know he is leading a better life in order to win me for his wife. Isn't it fair to give him this chance even though people do talk about me for doing it? Or shall I quit him and save my reputation?"

Stick by him, loyal little Mickey, and more power to you. People may gossip and sneer for a little while but if you act in a dignified, modest way, bearing yourself sweetly and calmly through this trying time, they will love and respect you all the more in the end.

But be careful about one thing, little girl. Be very, very sure that your lover has entirely reformed before you marry. Even if he becomes impatient do not consent to marriage until he has made a long, clean record for himself.

All of the Modern Girl Problems do not centre about a man. Others there are connected with her work and cause as many sleepless nights as any trouble of her romance. Here's Edna's story—many another perplexed young super visor will sigh with her.

I had a very high regard and respect for one of the young ladies until she confided some person al affairs to me. Now my opin ions of her have toppled and gone to pieces. This young lady is also in her teens and "picks up fellows." She is out every night in the week until the wee hours and plainly always with different fellows when she picks up. Can she still be a good girl and have her mind on her work? Would I be justified in firing her?

I am afraid that after she be comes experienced and therefore tainable to me that something will happen to her and I will have lost him in keeping her on the job.

Please understand, I am very inexperienced and am depending on you greatly, for your advice.

EDNA.

I don't think that the girl's private life is any concern of yours, Edna, unless that private life affects the quality of the girl's work in the office. I imagine that, in this case, her discipline will soon influence her work, but until it does, you should act as if you knew nothing of her person al life, and simply judge her by her office record.

There's a valuable lesson for you in this, sister, if you're wise enough to take it. Never get too intimate with the girls who work for you. Be cheer ful and friendly, but dodge all con fessions or confidential associations. You'll have enough to do if you keep peace in the office, without becoming involved in their private affairs. WHAT YOU DON'T KNOW WON'T HURT YOU, LADY. It's a wise box that keeps from knowing too much.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl in my teens. I am deeply in love with a young man. Although he is a fine young man, my parents object to his presence. He is several years my senior and I am sure he loves me. I think I will elope and run away with him. What do you advise?

SAD BLUE EYES

SAD BLUES EYES: You are quite young, my dear, and I would advise you to talk this situation over with your parents. Find out what their pre judice is to this young man If they are right in their opinion, be brave enough to admit it. If you feel that they are wrong, ask that they give him a chance to prove himself. I must caution you to be guided by their judg ment and by all means put this idea of eloping out of your mind! Such a rash step would succeed only in es tranging you from your family and would be very likely to bring you un happiness.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

When the edges of a blanket show wear and the nap is perfectly gone, a deep border of sateen may be sewn all around. It will make a most attrac tive comforter from an old blanket.

A solution of one tablespoonful of borax to each quart of water will help remove the shiny from those trousers. Rub the shiny parts with the solution and press on the wrong side of the suit while still damp.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

The majority of the new umbrella handles are fashioned after types em ployed for men's umbrellas, making them especially suited for wear with sports costumes. Possibly the newest feature of the assortment is the brass ed whip leather handle which decor ates many umbrellas.

Wide-brimmed hats seem completely doomed for the coming winter, and hats with brims are far more rare than the multitude of close-fitting shapes, such as the turban types. Berets are again popular and one sees many interesting types of this sort.

Sir Barry Jackson, the noted Eng lish manager, arrived in New York re cently to supervise his first American production, "Yellow Sands," which will be presented by Charles Dilling ham at the Fulton on Saturday night. The play is the joint work of Eden Phillpotts and his daughter, Adelaide, both celebrated novelists, and the cast will be an English one.

Vivid purple, ruby red, and sapphire blue are new colors favored in evening frocks—a departure from the white and pastels which have reigned so long. Still more radical is the sanc tion of gray and now brown velvet and satin. The latter is appearing in all lace, all velvet, and in chiffon in com bination with metal textures.

CURSE OF LOVE
By Mildred Barbour

Ada stood at her window and watch ed Cynthia drive away in the limousine of her husband, Harcourt Lowe. In the following morning, his smart luggage piled in the front seat of one of the hotel's cars.

"Good-by!" whispered Ada, and ad ded bravely: "Good luck!"

When Harcourt reached his distin tation he registered at the same hotel as Cynthia. He had departed with much haste on the eve of his wedding so many many months ago. It was winter now, but the sun still shone warm and bright; the air was balmy and languorous. There were still the flower-venders on the streets, with their lovely, fragrant, fragile wares.

He bathed and changed, ordered a car and was driven to the Greer house. He had faced fire in many a battle and had gone over the top at the zero-hour with far greater calm than he approached Cynthia's home.

The butler who answered his ring was not the servant Harcourt remem bered. Mr. and Mrs. Greer were at the country club for the afternoon the man informed him, but Miss Cynthia was at home. He took Har court's card. In a fever of excite ment, Harcourt paced the drawing-room, waiting for Cynthia's word—for the edict that would mean for him either heaven or hell.

CHAPTER 57.

It seemed to Basil Harcourt, as he paced the drawingroom, torn between hope and despair, that years passed before he heard a light step in the hall.

Then the silk curtains at the door way parted, and Cynthia stood be fore him — the same slim, lovely fig ure he remembered, the Cynthia whose image was engraved on his heart.

She was holding his card in one hand, and her puzzled, questioning gaze sought his.

"Major Harcourt? You wished to see me? You are a friend of my father's, perhaps? I unfortunately he is not at home this afternoon"

"Cynthia!" he said.

She drew back startled.

"Don't you know me?" he pleaded despairingly. "Or—or are you so an gry with me?"

Her eyes turned to the doorway, as if she wished to assure herself of a ready escape from a madman.

"Know you?" she asked politely. "Have we met before?"

Harcourt was desperate.

"Cynthia, I've come to explain, to tell you why I acted like a cad. I was mad, frantic. I didn't know what I was doing—"

Cynthia was staring at him. She seemed to take no heed of his agi tated words. Her pretty brows were drawn together in a puzzled frown.

"Forgive me. I've disturbed mem ory lately. If I do yes, I believe I have seen you somewhere. You remind me of some one—"

"Of some one!" he echoed bitterly. "Of the man you were going to marry!"

She stared at him for a moment. Then she smiled.

"There's a frightful mistake some where. I have never been engaged to marry any one."

He came closer to her, and she did n't draw back. She looked at him quite fearlessly. He saw the candor in her lovely eyes and realized that there was no guile there. She was not pretending, through ploys or in jured pride, not to know him.

"May I stay for a little while and talk to you?" he asked quietly.

"By all means." She motioned him to a chair and took one opposite him. "It's a little early for tea, but would you care for some?"

"Thanks, no. I want just to talk, Cynthia — forgive me for calling you that, when you don't remember our relationship — but I can't, after all that's happened, pretend to be formal. I love you, Cynthia, with all my heart and soul."

"You love me?" she asked, her eyes widening with astonishment.

"Don't think me mad," he begged. "It must sound to you as though I were an escaped lunatic, but, if you will listen, if you'll promise to believe that every word I tell you is the truth, you will understand. Tell me, you honestly don't remember that you were engaged to me, Basil Harcourt, to be married, and, on the eve of our wedding, I left you," he flushed under his bronze, "to return to England?"

She flung back her pretty head and laughed.

"Oh, do forgive me," she begged. "It's too — too ridiculous for words. Then, seeing the agony in his eyes, she sobered instantly, adding: "Yes, I have had better explain that I was ill last summer, I had an accident, and my memory left me. Is it pos sible that you figure in the part of my existence that I can't remember?"

Harcourt was inordinately relieved. "You had an accident? When?"

"Sometime in May. I was driving my car. I believe some one ran in to me. I don't know. That is what they told me."

Harcourt began to breath more nor mally. His despair gave place to keen hope.

"Then let me help to reconstruct for you that part of your life that you can't remember," he said gently.

"Very well," she said resignedly, with a little, skeptical smile.

He began with their first meeting in London, during the fashionable sea son. He reminded her how he had fol lowed her and her mother to the Riv iera; how he had wooed her; how she finally had become engaged to him. Also, how he had come to America to marry her in May.

Here he faltered. It was no easy task to tell her the rest of the story in which he had played so sorry a part. Moreover, she was regarding him with the polite interest of one who listens to an amusing story that con cerns one's own circle. There was no flick er of returning memory in her lovely eyes

"Cynthia, how can I go on?" he groaned. "How can I tell you what a cad I was?"

"Oh, I'm sure you could never have been that," she murmured politely.

He hesitated, reddened, and took the plunge.

"I left you on the eve of our wed ding. When the guests were invited, the hour for the ceremony set, I left you, without explanation, and went back to England."

Why Women Wanted
And Science Developed
A New-Type Hygiene
By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

MODERN women with the busi ness world to face, and a more tense social life to lead, demanded greater protection in meeting their greatest hygienic handicap. As a re sult, the old-time sanitary "pad" is fast disappearing.

Over 80% of better-class women now employ KOTEX—more than a sanitary pad; true scientific protection. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the newly perfected super-absorbent, it is far finer and absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Yet Kotex deodorizes while it acts. Also, it is discarded easily as tissue. No laundry. No disposal problem.

Packed 12 in a box. At any store. Look for name Kotex on the box. If it is not there, take care; it is not real Kotex.

RAYNOR TO APPEAR BEFORE HIGH COURT ON MANY THEFT CHARGES

L. Rumble Is Personally Dismissed, All Cases Being Withdrawn

Picton, Sept. 12.—At the request of counsel for the defence, the charge of conspiring to defraud the Industrial Finance Corporation of $1,807, against R. H. Raynor and J. P. Williams, was enlarged in court on Saturday for a week.

Raynor was committed for trial on the theft charges of autos from the Commercial Finance Corporation, and the charge against Rumble was withdrawn.

"I have word here from Mr. Roebuck in Toronto asking for an enlargement for a week in this case," said Crown At torney M. R. Allison.

"The charges under the Industrial Acceptance Corporation are also to be adjourned for a week." These are charges of theft!

"The whole of them!" asked the magistrate.—"Yes."

"There's 13?"—"No, twelve."

The Crown Attorney also wanted the Yerex charges adjourned.

"I want to clean up the theft charges," said the Crown.

Raynor, who was dressed in a neat grey suit, was then told to stand up. He had been sitting with a smile on his face from the time he first entered court.

To Hold In Trust

Accused was then charged with fraud ulently converting to his own use and depriving the Commercial Finance Corporation of nine Chryslers, thereby stealing the same.

W. O. Grady, manager of the Commercial Finance Corporation, produced the contracts of Raynor.

"What were the terms of the contract?"

"He was to hold the cars in trust for us and to pay us when they were sold; we claimed ownership till payment was made."

"Did Raynor receive permisson to move the cars?"—"No."

To defence counsel, P. L. Ward witness admitted he hadn't seen the contracts signed, but he would swear to the signatures.

W. P. Peterly, the next witness told of searching for these cars in Raynor's garages at Belleville and Picton. He couldn't find them.

"I understand there was a bankruptcy order against Raynor."

"Yes, I had access to the books at the assignees and could find no trace of the entries there."

"Do you know anything of the disposal of these cars?" asked the Crown of a salesman named D. A. Fournis, who was employed by Raynor.

"No."

Witness said if he made the sale of any car he made a record in the sales book.

"Did you ever sell a car that you didn't make an entry of?"—"Not that I know of."

Witness said the same thing applied to second hand car sales. The people who sold the cars generally made the entries.

Mr. Fournis explained that when new cars were brought in some were left in Picton and others in Belleville. Those left in Picton were posted in the books here.

D. Boles, another salesman for R. H. Raynor, also knew nothing of the missing cars. He made reports of all sales. Other salesmen were called and made the same statements.

"This is a fishing expedition," suggested Mr. Ward.

"Yes," admitted Crown Attorney Allison.

L. Rumble, manager and salesman in Raynor's garage at Belleville, denied any knowledge of selling any of the missing cars.

No Report Destroyed

"Did you ever take a report out after words and destroy it?"—"No, sir."

Witness said that all reports of sales were checked over the day after by him self, Raynor and a man named Heffner.

"Did anyone else have authority to sell cars?"

"Not unless he might be one of the other salesmen, who was well known."

"The charge against Rumble I am asking to have withdrawn," said Crown Attorney Allison. "I have heard his evidence in the witness box, and I am satisfied there has been a lot of talk through the country, and I thought Rumble should have a chance of clearing himself."

"You have no objection?" asked the magistrate D. Rumble.

"No, sir," he replied, laughingly.

The magistrate then ordered that Raynor be committed for trial on the theft charges. He will come up at the next High Court.

"The charge against Williams of conspiracy in this case was dismissed last week. I understand the Crown wishes to withdraw this charge against Raynor also," said Mr. Ward, on his counsel.

"Yes," said the Crown Attorney, "but I will take the charge of conspiracy in the Industrial Finance Corporation—that one is enlarged for a week."

Raynor is out on bail yet.

FIERY, ITCHY SKIN SOOTHED WITH SULPHUR

Mentho-Sulphur, a pleasant cream, will soothe and heal skin that is irritated or broken out with eczema that is rough or dry. Nothing subdues fiery skin eruptions as quickly, says a noted skin specialist.

The moment this sulphur preparation is applied the itching stops and after two or three applications, the eczema is gone and the skin is delightfully clear and smooth. Sulphur is so precious as a skin remedy because it destroys the parasites that cause the burning, itching or disfigurement. Mentho-Sulphur always heals eczema right up.

British Seaman Says He Was Treated Inhumanly Aboard Ship

New York, Sept. 10.—The British Government recited today a hard story, a Jack London tale of barbarity aboard ship, and demanded action against Captain Crowley of the American oil tanker Monitastanwy.

The documents reached the office of the United States Attorney today. Men in high place have signed them—Sir Esme Howard, British Ambassador to Washington, and Sir Austen Chamberlin, Foreign Secretary. They concern the sufferings of a steward.

In the polite language of diplomacy the British Government addressed the Government of the United States, but when the details of the steward's story were told there was no place for politeness.

Fred Thomas, war-time officer of the Royal Welsh Fusiliers, went broke. November 8, 1926, he shipped aboard the Monitastanwy, a vessel owned by the Hodnot Corporation, 17 Battery Place.

At 9 p.m. the second day out of Southampton the vessel hit rough weather. She was shipping seas steadily. Thomas was caught by a big one and rammed against an uncovered steam pipe. With his burn hands he grabbed the pipe, scaring the flesh.

The man was able to get his cabin. There he lost consciousness. Next morning, according to the British Government's charges, Captain Crowley, the first mate and the boa'n rushed him from bed. The captain, the complaint recites, was drunk.

"The captain accused Thomas of keeping the members of the crew awake with his noise," says the paper. "The steward was taken on deck and lashed to the rail. RAYNOR TO APPEAR BEFORE HIGH COURT ON MANY THEFT CHARGES

L. Rumble Is Honorably Dismissed, All Cases Being Withdrawn

Picton, Sept. 12.—At the request of counsel for the defence, the charge of conspiring to defraud the Industrial Finance Corporation of $1,807, against R. H. Raynor and J. F. Williams, was enlarged in court on Saturday for a week.

Raynor was committed for trial on the theft charges of autos from the Commercial Finance Corporation, and the charge against Rumble was withdrawn.

"I have word here from Mr. Roebuck in Toronto asking for an enlargement for a week in this case," said Crown Attorney M. R. Allison.

"The charges under the Industrial Acceptance Corporation are also to be adjourned for a week." These are charges of theft.

"The whole of them?" asked the magistrate.—"Yes."

"There's 13?"—"No, twelve."

The Crown Attorney also wanted the Ferex charges adjourned.

"I want to clean up the theft charges," said the Crown.

Raynor, who was dressed in a neat grey suit, was then told to stand up. He had been sitting with a smile on his face from the time he first entered court.

To Hold In Trust

Accused was then charged with fraudulently converting to his own use and depriving the Commercial Finance Corporation of nine Chryslers, thereby stealing the same.

W. O. Grady, manager of the Commercial Finance Corporation, produced the contracts of Raynor.

"What were the terms of the contract?"

"He was to hold the cars in trust for us and to pay us before they were sold; we claimed ownership till payments was made."

"Did Raynor receive permisson to move the cars?"—"No."

To defense counsel, F. L. Ward witness admitted he hadn't seen the contracts signed, but he would swear to the signature.

W. F. Peterby, the next witness told of searching for these cars in Raynor's garages at Belleville and Picton. He couldn't find them.

"I understand there was a bankruptcy order against Raynor."

"Yes, I had access to the books at the assignees and could find no trace of the entries there."

"Do you know anything of the disposal of these cars?" asked the Crown of a salesman named D. A. Fourcis, who was employed by Raynor.

"No."

Witness said if he made the sale of any car he made a record in the sales book.

"Did you ever sell a car that you didn't make an entry of?"—"Not that I know of."

Witness said the same thing applied to second-hand car sales. The people who sold the cars generally made the entries.

Mr. Fourcis explained that when new cars were brought in some were left in Picton and others in Belleville. Those left in Picton were posted in the books here.

D. Bales, another salesman for R. H. Raynor, also knew nothing of the missing cars. He made reports of all sales. Other salesmen were called and made the same statements.

"This is a fishing expedition," suggested Mr. Ward.

"Yes," admitted Crown Attorney Allison.

L. Rumble, manager and salesman in Raynor's garage in Belleville, denied any knowledge of selling any of the cars in this case.

"I made reports of sales and put them in a drawer," said he.

No Report Destroyed

"Did you ever take a report out after words and destroy it?"—"No, sir."

Witness said that all reports of sales were checked over the day after by him self, Raynor and a man named Heffard.

"Did anyone else have authority to sell cars?"

"Not unless he might be one of the other salesmen, who was well known."

"The charge against Rumble I am asking to have withdrawn," said Crown Attorney Allison. "I have heard his evidence in the witness box, and I am satisfied there has been a lot of talk between Raynor and I though Rumble should have a chance of clearing himself."

"I have no objection" said the magistrate of Rumble.

"No, sir," he replied, laughingly.

Crown Attorney Allison said that Raynor be committed for trial on the theft charges. He will come up at the next High Court.

"The charges against Williams of conspiracy in this case was dismissed last week. I understand the Crown wishes to withdraw this charge against Raynor now," said Mr. Ward, his counsel.

"Yes," said Crown Attorney, "but not the charge of conspiracy in the Industrial Finance Corporation—that one is enlarged for a week."

Raynor s not out on bail yet.

TERRIFIED CITY

Maniac Threatens To Blow Up Arsenal; Held Fwi Twelve Hours

Warsaw, Poland, Sept. 12.—The city of Cracow lived through a night of terror. For twelve hours it was in danger every moment of being blown up by an insane man. A gunner named Kornia who had run amuck in Fort Grzembakow threatened to set off the enormous quantity of explosives stored there.

The lunatic, who had been left alone at th epost, communicated his intention to the commander in a letter demanding that the President of the Republic and Premier Pilsudski come to Cracow and ask him for the keys to the fortress. All night the demented man ran around the buildings with a lighted torch, threatening to throw it into the powder towers.

Officers sent by the commander finally succeeded, after parleys lasting many hours, in persuading the maniac to surrender by showing him a false telegram announcing that his request had been granted by the President and the Prime Minister. As soon as he opened the door, soldiers overpowered him and transported him to an insane asylum.

A hose was turned on him and the cold water set his burns. Once more he fained. Carried back to his cabin, he was handcuffed to his bunk, and his wrists swelled so greatly that the manacles had to be filed off the next day. Those are the charged set forth in the British Government's communication.

November 21, the tanker reached San Pedro & Nicoroe to Haiti. Thomas' right hand had begun to putrefy the captain refused to allow him to go to the port hospital; although a medical inspector advised it.

A few days later the steward was aboard a ship for Curneno where he spent seven weeks in a hospital, it is said. When he was able to get around, he was paid off and sent back home.

Under an American maritime law which forbids a ship master to beat members of his crew, to withhold nourishment or to refuse them medical aid, the British Government asks that Captain Crowley be punished. Five years is the maximum under that law.

Assistant United States District Attorney Minuzer is handling the case. He says the tanker is due in New York within a couple of weeks.

The Salvation Army has chartered the White Star Liner Vedic to sail to Australia with a company of prospective settlers.

Gerhard Heintzman Piano Awarded Last Medal Given For Merit At Toronto Exhibition

Gerhard Heintzman Has Also Exhibited Every Year Since The Canadian National Exhibition, Now in Its 49th Year, Commenced

There are two points in connection with the Canadian National Exhibition about which Gerhard Heintzman, Limited, feel justly proud. One of these is the fact that Gerhard Heintzman has exhibited every year since the Canadian National Exhibition commenced forty-nine years ago; and the other is the fact that the Gerhard Heintzman Piano was awarded the last Medal and Diploma given for merit at the Canadian National Exhibition.

The signal honor accorded the Gerhard Heintzman Piano through the winning the this medal emphasizes the sterling musical qualities which have made the Gerhard Heintzman Piano known throughout the musical world The Gerhard Heintzman Piano is made in Grand, Upright and Player-Piano models, in styles and sizes for concert hall and for every home. OPPOSE HIGHER FARES

Ottawa, Sept. 12.—The city council has made preparations to oppose the application of the Ottawa Electric Railway for increased fares. The fare within the city is five cents, except for the hours the cars operate after midnight, when it is ten cents. A preliminary investigation of the companys books was made by city auditor Tulley, which showed that the company had paid dividends of 15 per cent. annually for the past five years. It was decided to have a specially qualified street railway accountant examine the company's affairs in order to protect the city's interest before the board.

Tex Rickard Preparing Blue Pints Of Seat Lay-Out

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Now that a large block of the seats for the $3,000,000 Tunney-Dempsey battle on September 22 have been sold, Tex Rickard is going to let the public see what seats they have purchased. He announced today that the blue print of the seating arrangement in Soldier Field would be made public on September 18.

More than $2,000,000 worth of tickets have been sold toward Rickard's original estimate of a $3,000,000 gate.

Rickard announced today that "the most extensive world-wide broadcast ever attempted" has been arranged for the fight.

The National Broadcasting company has been granted the exclusive rights to broadcast the fight to the outside world, Rickard said, under the sponsorship of the Scripps-Howard newspapers.

Tunney Ready

Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 12.—Despite the heat and excessive humidity, Gene Tunney feels himself today within a few notches of his best physical condition. At 192 pounds, the former marine middleweight is carrying scarcely a pound of excess weight.

Since Gene plans no attempt to make a definite poundage for the title tilt, with Jack Dempsey at Soldier field September 22, it appears likely today that the champion would scale well over the 190 pounds he weighed in the file crown from Dempsey last fall.

"I'll wish the fight were tomorrow," Gene said. "I'm ready right now for the battle of my life. I'll never be any better."

New Partners

Lincoln Fields, Crete, Ill., Sept. 12. —Four days of hard work with the gloves are ahead of Jack Dempsey, after a 48-hour lay-off from all training. Only newspapermen will be admitted to these work-outs, starting today, Manager Flynn has ruled. Some new sparring partners—light, fast men —have been called upon, though their names have not been announced.

Dempsey said he weighted exactly 200 pounds, after his strenuous rest and fever felt better. He hopes to shed about six pounds in the coming fortnight, to enter the ring around 192 or 194.

GIANT BERGS IN S. ATLANTIC

Buenos Aires, Argentina, Sept. 12.— Giant icebergs 400 feet high and eight miles in extent were recently sighted by the master of the British steamer Matiana bound from New Zealand to Montevideo. On his arrival here the captain reported such distant navigation dangerous, because of the icebergs. He saw one of huge size off Puerto Madryn, Patagonia, and short ly after two others of still greater dimension.

WHISKEY CHEAPER IN UNITED STATES

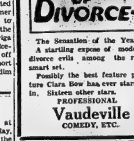

Poole, England, Sept. 10. — This little Dorset town is all upset because it had learned that whiskey is being sold in New York cheaper than it is in England.

Mr. Hall Caine, local member of parliament and son of the famous novelist, is responsible for learning the knowledge to the town, thereby letting himself in for some criticism. In a speech before his constituents, he asserted he knew that "prohibition is a fraud because on a recent visit to New York, I bought better whiskey than I can get in England for two dollars a bottle." The price of medium quality whiskey in England is about three dollars.

Interested citizens are writing to the papers to know how and why whiskey is sold in New York more cheaply than in England. Some hint that Mr. Caine has inherited his father's talent for fiction, others rebuke him, saying that as a guest in a foreign country he was particularly bound to obey the law of that country that the buying of whiskey in New York at any price by a British legislator was "unseemly conduct."

JOSS STICKS AT GREAT PREMIUM

Chinese Alarmed By Nearness Of The Planet Venus

Shanghai, Sept. 10.—Chinese temples of Shanghai have recently enjoyed a "land office" buiness in the burning of joss sticks—all brought about by the unusual visibility of the planet Venus. The planet, easily visible to the naked eye, attracted the Chinese by thousands many of whom viewed the phenomenon with more or less alarm and then hurried to a temple to burn joss to their favorite god.

Chinese, questioned concerning the appearance of the comet said it meant "bad joss." One aged Chinese gave it as his belief that it meant heavy fighting among the military factions during the near future.

Although the appearance of the planet was declared to be a regular occurrence, there were many doubting ones who decided to "play safe" by burning a little joss. As a result the priests of the temples were richer by hundreds of coppers and the air in the vicinity of the temples was filled with the odor of-the burning joss.

BAMBINO'S 50TH, BUT YANKS DID NOT WIN GAME

6 To 2 Win Saved Browns From Whitewash Record Of Season

New York, Sept. 12.—The Browns paid farewell to the Yankees yesterday for the season, but before departing they deprived the champions of the chance of making a clean sweep at the season's series. This twenty game defeatia charged against them, the Browns rallied behind the pitching of Milton Gaston, knocked Herb Pennock into the mound and touched Bob Shawkey and George Pipgras rather freely to win by 6 to 2.

That is can be seen that the Browns averted a season's whitewash and deprived the Yanks of a chance to establish a major league record, this despite the herculean effort of Babe Ruth, who registered his fiftieth homer of the season, a terrific drive into the far right field bleachers. However, the Yanks's new slugg wasn't the only feature of the Chicago Cubs, who took twenty-one out of twenty-two games from the Braves in 1909.

While the game could not be classified as a thriller, still there was enough action to keep the 35,000 or more persons who braved the threatening weather to see Babe do his stuff. Gehrig, Babe's running mate in the home run campaign, who has not been running as well of late, had to be content with a single for his afternoon's efforts.

Everything was calm and peaceful for three innings, with both teams managing to get across a run. Then came the fourth, when the Browns bunched all their power, a triple by Sisler flanking Pennock and driving home the final two runs which were tallied in the inning total to four.

From this point on Gaston always was in command and, despite the plead lugs of the gathering ol' fans to wreck the foe Casting, kept right on pitching fast ones, curves and slow ones, and most of them were so baffling that the men of Huggins could not get their regular toe hold and perform in regular Yankee style.

Bloege's double, followed by Hayes single, gave the Senators a 6 to 5 victory over the Chicago White Sox in the twelfth inning at Washington.

Immediately preceding Bloege's crashing the plate, the fans thought Washington had won the game and left the stands. Judge had opened the inning with a triple and scored on a fly by Sisler. Lyons, pitching for Washington, protested and was sustained by Umpire Hildebrand. Judge was left third base before the ball had been caught.

Flaskamper took the throw from the out on Washington. Bolger's hit to outfield, touched third and made it two paved the way for the winning cour

DAVIS CUP IS WON BY FRANCE

Battered Tennis Trophy Captured After 20 Years Trying

Philadelphia, Sept. 12.—The tennis empire takes its way eastward across the Atlantic. The longest reign in the history of the Davis Cup came to an end Saturday, and a new circle began. as France's invaders won the last two matches the challenge round to capture the series with the United States at three matches in two and left the tennisman Cricket Club, and won the cup for the first time in the nine challenges thru that the historic trophy has been competed for since 1900.

Thus ends the Dominion of the English-speaking world in these international classic, which heretofore had been won only by the United States, Great Britain and Australia. Seven of America's ten victories have been made since 1920, when the cup was brought back from the Antipodes. Australia has won it six times and Great Britain five.

France, to celebrate its first triumph, which marks the culmination of three successive years of effort in the challenge round and which was witnessed by the French Ambassador, Paul Claudel, will place the massive silver bowl she'd tray in the Louvre for keeping until it shall have been yielded to another nation.

The same two players who went to Australia to win the cup in 1926 and who have been the mainstay of international competition for the past two years, Jean Borotra and Rene Lacoste, today to crucial doubles matches that would give victory to the French or leave the issue in the hands of Rene Lacoste and Henri Cochet, named the day.

TENNIS

Under perfect weather conditions on Saturday afternoon, the Belleville and Campbellford Tennis Clubs met at Point Anne to play off the tie game series of the Tunmon Challenge cup. As usual when these two clubs clash in friendly combat, the play was very close, and the scores fairly even. But after the smoke of battle had cleared it was found that Belleville had the heaviest casualties, and Campbellford were the victors in four out of the five matches played. The visitors had the edge on the locals in all the events except the mixed doubles match between Mr. Bell and Miss Lamoure of Campbellford and Twomey Black and Mrs. Hanna for Belleville. The latter pair played very steadily and undoubtedly excelled their opponents in the final set to win at 6-4. Weston, in his only exhibition on the part of the Clarence men against an atrocious defensive display by the Leafs told the tale of yesterday's victory.

Hollingsworth rescue Leo Mangum after the Leafs had equalized in each in four and a fraction innings and held the Canadians to three hits for nine innings, while Tyson, Huber and Bissonnette, with three timely hits under, led the Bloom.ngton attack while Huber was also the individual luminary on the defensive.

Rochester defeated the Stars at Syracuse, 6 to 1, and 1 to 0. Mills and Rogers, respective pitchers signed the Stars all the way, each yielding only four hits. Mills fanned eight in the first game.

President Giles, of the Stars, announced that Pitcher Russ Miller had been sold to Philadelphia—National League, and would report at the close of the International League season, one week hence.

Jersey City and the Orioles divided a double-header at Baltimore, 13 to 6 and 7 to 4. After trailing the Birds for ten innings, the Jersey outfit knocked their batting eyes and waged an attack that netted 10 runs in the eighth inning to win the game. Every Sweetor got at least one hit and one run. Upsetz hurled relief in a pinch for Gurl in the night cap.

Reading and Newark divided a double-header at Newark, the Keys making the first contest, a ten-inning affair, by 3 to 2, and the Aviators the night cap, 3 to 1.. Errors at critical times lost the first game for Manuel who pitched well ball. In the second contest, Hensley was the master throughout. The Bears tallied all their runs in the crowned inning of five nightcap g good hitting.

BISONS NEARLY HAVE PENNANT IN THEIR HANDS

Practically Cinched, Beating Leafs, As Syracuse Lost Twice

New York, September 12.—The Bisons reduced the chances of losing the International League flag to the remotest mathematical possibility at Buffalo yesterday by vanquishing the Toronto Maple Leafs, while the Syracuse Stars were dropping two games to the Rochester Colts. Buffalo now needs to win but a single game out of eight to nail the pennant. A magnificent field ing exhibition on the part of the Clarence men against an atrocious defensive display by the Leafs told the tale of yesterday's victory.

Hollingsworth rescue Leo Mangum after the Leafs had equalized in each in four and a fraction innings and held the Canadians to three hits for nine innings, while Tyson, Huber and Bissonnette, with three timely hits under, led the Bloom.ngton attack while Huber was also the individual luminary on the defensive.

Czar Of Russia's Stamp Collection Brings Poor Bids At Auction

London, September 10.—The late Czar of Russia's collection of stamps, which he prized so highly that he took it with him on his abdication; went begging yesterday when offered for sale here. The collection, which is said to have cost $500,000, was brought in by the auctioneer at $2,000 when bidders refused to go higher than $1,600.

The same lack of interest has been observed in connection with the sale of other property of the ill-fated Romanoffs. The collection was taken to the United States recently but failed to find a buyer there. It was offered for sale, according to the auctioneer, by a client now in London.

William Henry Sansome, Eyrlaine, Sheffield, was sent to prison for nine months for causing his wife bodily harm.

TUNNEY STANDS TO COP FORTUNE

Champion Will Be Money King Of Pugilism If He Wins

Gene Tunney stands to collect $1,500,000 for his coming fight with Jack Dempsey September 22.

This sum will place him among the financial kings of the world.

It will place him in a class by himself, in that no man ever has earned a sum approaching that by his physical prowess.

It will give him a total purse—for little more than half an hour's labor —at least equaling that actually earned in the ring by the modern heavyweights who preceded him—including Jack Dempsey.

It will give him within $100,000 as much as the total gate taken in at the three fights of the century between Dempsey and Carpentier!

One hundred thousand seats per-hape illustrates more vividly than the above figures the financial proportions of this fight which will place Tunney among the moneyed kings of the country.

This one order was for $36,000 worth of seats. That sum alone is more than the total gate Tex Rickard, promoting the Dempsey-Tunney fight, paid Joe Gans and Battling Nelson for their memorable lightweight battle that went 42 rounds at Goldfield, Nevada.

Tex Rickard estimate available places the combined earnings for this fight at three principals, Tunney, Dempsey and Rickard, at $2,650,000 which leaves about $450,000—from a $3,100,000 gate—to be distributed such as $200,000 for the stadium and a like amount for tickets, ushers, et cetera.

This $450,000 in itself, equals the "gate" for any big heavyweight championship battles up to the Carpentier affair.

Tunney already has $200,000 in hand on the coming fight—paid to him in two installments as assurance that his services would be used without let up after the fight at Philadelphia. This sum in itself is exactly that which was the total gate at the go for Dempsey's fight with Bill Brennan in New York, the year after he won the title.

The least Tunney can realize from the coming party is $525,000. This sum is about $75,000 above the total gate receipts of the battle in which Dempsey won his crown from Willard in 1919. The gate that day was $452,326.

The $1,500,000 maximum estimated brings him a sum within $900,000 of the total gate receipts of the much discussed fight at Philly last fall.

John L. Sullivan and Jim Corbett as the first modern champion—the man to introduce gloves in the game—were negligible. Fitz and Ruhlin also failed to realize on his title. Gentleman Jim Corbett made about $100,000 directly from his title in his day, not figuring what his fame has brought him in later years through his stage ventures movie earnings and writings.

Jim Jeffries received $101,000 for his fight with Jack Johnson, and it may be presumed he decided on a total approaching that before his retirement, from which he emerged in more defeat at the hands of Jack Johnson.

First Money Champ

He received only $27,500 for his chance at Willard.

His big purses came in his bouts with Carpentier—$225,000—and his losing bout with Tunney, for which he collected $450,000 exclusive of the movie earnings. Dempsey has not ventured into the movies or on the extensive vaudeville tour or other endeavors that would swell his earnings considerably. Jack has added much to his puffers in outside-endeavor.

Tunney's incomes from the next fight thus will be the next equal Dempsey's total ring earnings. And if the total gate soars above the conservative figure now estimated, Tunney's proceeds will rise above Dempsey's "life" total earnings. Jack's "comeback" the earnings of all those champs who went before him.

And the odd part of. it is that Rickard, the man who carved the million-dollar class, will profit little in the coming fight compared with the earnings promised Dempsey and Tunney.

First of all, Tunney is to receive a guarantee of $525,000, come what may. Dempsey gets $300,000, regardless of the gate.

Then—and here's the sleeper Tunney slipped through—the champion gets 50 per cent. (don't faint) of the gross receipts the moment they go above $1,050,000.

These near Rickard estimate that the total gate will go to $2,500,000, and perhaps above that. That amount, however, will give Tunney $1,250,000 for his labor. Another $500,000 at the gate would net him, of course, $250,000 more.

On the other hand, Rickard wails until the gate reaches the $1,500,000 and then takes one-third, or thereabouts, of the gross.

This means that a gate of $2,500,000 would net him around $350,000 or $375,000, for his trouble.

This is a comparatively small sum for the effort he is expending, considering his net proceeds from previous bouts, which leads one to suspect that he has hopes of a gate exceeding the quarter-million mark.

Dempsey, on the other hand, collects a small percentage of the gross over the $1,500,000 mark, which spy run his total up to something like $3,000,000.

A $3,000,000 gate would give Tunney enough to make him one addition to Dempsey's bank roll.

BAR SPECTATORS FROM DEMPSEY'S TRAINING CAMP

Chicago, Sept. 12.—Notable successes were reported today from the camps of both Heavyweights Gene Tunney and Tex Rickard as preparations for return engagement or "second act" of the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight boxing championship entered their final fortnight. Dempsey was playing golf far above his usual standard, and doing the best job of fishing since he was matched with Jess Willard.

Tunney was avenging through the exclusive autumn social set with his fine game graceful aplomb with which he set Park avenue, New York, upon its multifavored ear.

And there were rumors that a fight was scheduled to occur along towards 9.30 p.m., September 22.

Dempsey has been quartered in luxurious rooms at Lincoln field race track at Cress City, since August 22.

The camp is equipped with punching bags, a boxing ring, a box office, speaking partners, trainers and handlers. Every now and then the former champion has put on a head guard and with padded gloves and traded taps with boxers of the region for three, four and sometimes even five rounds.

Tunney has occupied equally luxurious quarters at Cedarcrest Country club, Lak' Ville, Ills., since September 2. The camp is equipped similarly to Dempsey's, and Tunney, too, has on his staff boxers on infrequent occasions.

Marred by Accidents

The training, however, has been marred by almost tragic accidents in both camps. Tuesday, Tunney and Chuck Wiggins were knocked out when Wiggins' gloved fist hit Tunney directly over the eye. Blood flowed. Wiggins was awfully sorry. Tunney took it in good part, but to date hasn't gone back in the ring.

Attaches of his camp said he would box again this afternoon. Wiggins, however, will not be there. He left the camp for a regular fight in Evansville, Ind., last night.

Dempsey's camp was given a scare when Jack suffered a severe attack of indigestion, which happened yesterday afternoon, when Dempsey was going through an ambitious program of five rounds with the gloves. Norman Link was his opponent in the second round. Jack felt ill and struck Link in the nose. The boxer immediately withdrew and Floyd Fitzsimmons, trainer, stepped into the ring.

After the excitement had died down said Dempsey had resumed sparring with other partners. Leo Flynn, his manager, announced in newspapermen that Dempsey had barred crowds from the camp. Only newspapermen are to watch him for several days at $1.10 each, because when the former champion gets in form he is very anxious for fighting, and he isn't fighting now."

GIANTS LOSE TO CUBS AGAIN, 7-5

Suffered Setback At Chicago And Idle Pirates Gained ½ Game

Chicago, Sept. 12.—The mad mad pace of the Giants was further slackened when the Cubs walloped them again yesterday, on what otherwise could have been a beautiful September afternoon. The boys have been travelling faster than bad news but it looks now if the bad new has caught up with them.

One ruinous inning which saw the Cubs scoring six large, corpulent runs was entirely responsible for the 7 to 5 setback of the gallant athletes. Some 38,000 overjoyed inmates of Chicago viewed the proceedings and seemed to derive a peculiar joy in watching the agonizing struggles of the New York era which terms for the New Yorkers' ivy games behind the Pirates.

The fans overflowed the narrow confines of the Wrigley grandstand and packed themselves in a solid cordon around the outfield. While the fans were seated on these out runs, the gross tonnage of straw hats which were tossed lightly on the turf in the lieved to have set a new record. Your correspondent, for some reason or other was not able to share in the ecstasy of the natives, on the contrary, the thing was rather disgusting from start to finish. The pitching, in the hands of Virgil Barnes and Dutch Henry was more than mediocre and the thinking was muddled on several occasions.

It being the inalienable right of every American to a second guess it struck us that Jimmy Wilson should by let Barnes linger entirely too long in the fatal ninth. Virgil was sinking fast but Pepper refused to express him until the dear old cause was hopelessly lost.

The Reds won both ends of a double header with Boston at Cincinnati, 8 to 5 and 16 to 5. The first game was comparatively easy for Pete Donohue while the second was a complete walk over for Jake May.

The shades of a once famous team crept into the closing innings of the second game when Dick Rudolph was pressed to pitch for Boston after Hugh McQuillan was given an unmerciful pounding by the home club. The only active member left of the famous Braves of 1914 is Rabbit Maranville, now playing with St. Louis, while Rudolph acts as coach for the Bean Eaters. The same old pitching motion, but the speed was woefully lacking and the curves also, although he was only scored on once.

Cincinnati hit hard in both contests getting 12 in the first game and 18 in the second. Interrupted by the rolling attack in the second game with four out of five, one of them a home-run one a double and two singles. Purdy also hit hard in both games getting two out of four in the first and four out of five in the second.

Fred Frankhouse, former Houston hurler with a side-arm delivery, won his second game in two starts for the Cardinals by defeating the Brooklyn Dodgers at St. Louis, 5 to 3. The circuit pilferers allowed the Dodgers only four hits and fanned the world's champions into a tie with New York for second place.

Famous Singer Says Rhythm Is Everything Today

New York City.—Miss Marie Cahill, famous singer, is worried about the trend of the times. It's not the vocal style of today nor prohibition which upset her. She is not one to look back at the good old days and bemoan their passing. On the whole, she thinks the modern world is exceedingly pleasant and profitable and she wouldn't go back to the past if she could.

"And there is really a very big hit," says Miss Cahill, "for simply do not write songs that have good lyrics any more. They don't think that ain't a tragedy, put yourself in my place. Years ago I made my reputation on the words of songs. People in those days liked to know what their singers were singing.

"If you mouthed your words, you were as likely as not to get a good rasping from the gallery. If you had a song with "every sin" which did not please the populace, you had to make up your mind to do without the lion's share of applause.

"That is why, then, I have always selected my songs for their lyrics. I had to hunt for months before I could find any really good musical comedy. After a lengthy search I did locate a delightful one called 'Rhythm.' It's Just Me Of My Old Kentucky Home," and it is really up to the old standards. Luck went it my way, and but for that fact I might still be hunting.

The dance and songs seldom have good lyrics. I've given the thing with them. And in spite of the fact that I am an optimist, I still cannot help feeling that the decline of the lyric is a bad sign. After all, a country's philosophy is usually contained in its songs. The speeding up process is reflected in Tin Pan Alley.

"There is another thing that I feel has been neglected, too. That is the training of singers. It used to be necessary for a girl to study dancing, acting and the art of composure and presence of mind before she made one's debut as a singer. Now, she has the shoulders a lit, and can shake the audience a little, that seems to be enough. But she can't let anybody tell you that I am not an optimist."

One reason for Miss Cahill's optimism may be that she married her first producer and is still married to him.

TEAMS RECEIVE FIRST AID CUPS

Canadian National Heads Present Trophies To Winners

Toronto,Se pt. 10.—Toronto was chosen as the proper place in which to present the various trophies presented for competition in first aid under the auspices of the Canadian National Railways council St. John Ambulance Association, and the meeting for that purpose was held here with Mr. W. D. Robb, Vice-Chairman of the System and President of the Council, in the chair.

Winning teams were present from Quebec, Montreal, Toronto and Winnipeg, while the individual champions amongst the men's and women's classes came respectively from Quebec and Edmonton, indicating that widespread progress of this form of Welfare work.

In his address, Mr. Robb spoke of the wonderful enthusiasm displayed through the system and compared the present state of affairs with that which prevailed when he was a much junior apprentice. "In those days the work men had no knowledge of first aid," said Mr. Robb, "And when an accident occurred all they could do was to send for a doctor and stand around in a sympathetic attitude until he arrived."

In contrast there are now 35,000 certified first aiders on the Canadian National system and it is the ambition of the officers to spread the knowledge until it will be impossible for any emergency to arise at any spot without the presence of a trained first aider.

Col. C. A. Hodgetts, C.M.G., M. D., of Ottawa, director general representing the headquarters of the St. John ambulance association whose annual task it is to examine teams from coast to coast, said that this year he found the standard greatly in excess of any previous year, not only in the winning teams, but amongst all who presented themselves for examination. "A great deal of credit is due to the Canadian Pacific and Railways for the interest taken in this most important work," said Col. Hodgetts. "There is a fine feeling from coast to coast and this is due to the sympathetic support of all the officers, general managers and superintendents."

Dr. J. Pitchell, assistant chief medical officer, paid a warm tribute to the excellence of the training, and he earnestly advised a thorough reading and study of the excellent manual prepared by the St. John ambulance association.

The chief trophy presented at the meeting was the Lady Drummond Cup emblematic of the women's champion shIp of the Dominion in first aid and home nursing. This trophy was won by a team from Montreal headquarters in competition with the rest of Canada, the team being composed of Miss L. Ripplngale, capt., the Misses Scothwod, R. Turner and A. Main. They were warmly congratulated for their splendid success by Col. Hodgetts, who particularly stressed the fact that the conditions of the competition included a knowledge of home nursing, a feature in which the Canadian National had been a pioneer.

The Ladies names in the foregoing with the assistance of the Misses I. Marshall and B. Wilkerson, and captured the Rose Trophy for the best women's team on the system, the Bonnar Cup for the central regional championship; and the Bourne Cup for the Montreal and district championship. As each cup carries with it individual prizes,MissIlpping ale and her associates accumulated a considerable collection of trophies at the conclusion of their particular presentations.

The cup presented by Sir Henry Thornton, chairman and president was won by the men of Port Rouge shops, a smart squad which stepped out with precision and neatness. This team is composed of George Tall, Capt.; T. E. Sargant, C. A. Ayre, A. A. Reid, W. Crawshaw and J. Owen.

The Championship Shield for the central region championship was won by the men's team of the Quebec general officers, consisting of H. J. Kelly, Capt.; E. Martel, A. Morin, J. B. Dumache and J. Barclie. This nfited that they were runner up in team received an ovation and it was the system championship being only four points behind the Port Rouge winners.

The Galloway Cup for the electric lines was gon by the Lambton team of the Toronto sub railway consisting of C. Lawrence, F. Hester, F. Walker F. Coomber, J. Herbertson and W. Skelton. The trophy was presented in person by Mr. D. E. Galloway, as sistant vice-president.

The Telegraph Dept. Officers Cup was won by Winnipeg headquarters and this trophy was presented by Mr. W. G. Barber,"General Manager of the Telegraphs.

The Barber Cup for women's teams the Montreal office team with a Tor al the Telegraph Dept., was the onto office team in second place. Mrs. E. Newman and her daughter

STATUE UNVEILED TO FAMOUS DAVE

Helsingborg, Sweden, Sept. 10.—A Swedish memorial to Tycho Brahe, Sixteenth century Danish astronomer has been unveiled in the now Swedish city of Helsingborg by Crown Prince, Gustavus Adolphus, whose summer residence, Sofiero, is located nearby.

Brahe, who was the teacher of Kepler and later became the imperial astronomer to Emperor Rudolph of Austria at Prague, built two famous observatories. Uranlenborg and Stjerneborg, of which some remains may still be seen, except for a sextant, still shown at Prague, all his instruments were lost at the outbreak of the thirty years war. The new memorial is in the form of a fountain.

SIR A. CURRIE VISITS BRIGHTON

Will Unveil Memorial Sept. 18—Other Officials Coming

Brighton, Sept. 10.7—One of the most notable events in many years in this district will be the visit of General Sir Arthur Currie, G.C.M.G., K.C.B., LL.D., to Brighton on Sunday, Sept. 18, for the purpose of unveiling the war memorial and dedicating the Memorial Park. Sir Arthur's visit has been arranged by the Canadian Legion of the B.E.S.L., Brighton branch. The erection of the memorial is being sponsored by the people of Brighton and vicinity generally. The dedicatory services, it is expected, will bring together the various kilitia units of Central Ontario, and will be the occasion of one of the largest gatherings of war veterans held since demobilization.

Many other prominent officers of the civil Canadian corps, including Brig.-Gen. J. A. Gunn, C.M.G., D.S.O., Provincial President of the Canadian Legion of the B.L.S.L. in Ontario, have accepted invitations to attend. The services will be conducted by Capt. the Rev. Sidney Lambert, Chaplain of Christie Street Military Hospital, Toronto, who suffered the loss of a limb in action overseas.

The events at Brighton, on Sept. 18, mark the first occasion in which the world famous leader of the Canadian corps has visited this part of Ontario. Sir Arthur Currie rose to the highest rank of any officer who undertook service with the British forces from the ranks of civilians. His leadership of the Canadian corps in the final one hundred days of the war stamped him as a military genius and earned for him the repeated praise of Field Marshal Haig, Commander-in-Chief of the British forces, and of Marshal Foch, Generalissimo of the Allied forces. An invitation is extended by the war veterans and citizens of Brighton to the people of the surrounding district to be present for this notable event.

ROTARY BAZAAR

Kingston, Sept. 10.—The members of the Kingston Rotary Club had full possession of the Market Square on Thursday night the occasion being the annual bazaar held under the auspices of the club and to use an old phrase it was "bigger and better than ever."

The square presented a gala appearance, and the people of Kingston turned out en mass to patronize the event and it is expected that the funds of the local service club will be enriched by a liberal sum as a result of the efforts put forth. The various booths were well patronized and the members of the club are pleased over the success of the bazaar.

Members of the Napanee Rotary Club assisted the local club, also members of the Belleville Kiwanis Club, the latter conducting a booth that realized a neat sum for the Kiwanians.

The Montreal team is captained by Miss L. E. Newman, is a member of the team.

The Page Medals for the individual system championships were won by Mr. Arthur Morin of Quebec, and Miss Theresa M. Carrlacher, of Edmonton.

from a few of its 200,000 users

"Using Marvelube we notice a very marked improvement in the performance of the car. The motor had a softer and smoother tone and a very elusive knock completely disappeared. We drove eleven hundred miles before changing the oil and the oil was the best in every respect that I have ever seen taken out of a car."

E. A. Menzies,
Saskatoon, Sask.

"My car has gone about 1,000 miles since I put in Marvelube and I have not changed the oil since.
My car has much better power, climbs hills with much more ease, seems to have more speed, and runs smoother and cooler than it ever did before."

G. M. Robinson,
Kemptville, Ont.

"Since using this oil in its various grades, I find greater pulling power at lower speeds and less carbon formation in this equipement. I find also that my engine runs cooler as a result of using this oil."

D. E. Bronson (Government Mechanic),
Department of Public Works,
Salmon Arm Riding, B.C.

"I filled my car with Marvelube when starting on my vacation, and travelled 2,100 miles, mostly in the States, where the heat was intense, at some points as high as 110° in the shade. I added no oil whatever during the 2,100 miles, and when I finally drained the oil it was in as splendid condition that the Service Station didn't want to take it out."

G. J. Rathbone (Manager),
Brown Wire Specialty Co.,
Hamilton, Ont.

"We recently tried out your "Marvelube Heavy" in one of our Essex Coaches, and have found it to give excellent results."

A. Kinsmon (Accountant),
Lordon Hudson-Essex Sales,
London, Ont.

"Having just completed a thorough overhaul of our sightseeing fleet . . . we find that our motors have had perfect lubrication by the use of your Marvelube. . . . With the use of Marvelube we have apparently eliminated any sign of lubrication trouble, and we find our power plants in much better condition than at any other previous overhaul."

Mr. J. T. McLeod,
Rocky Mountain Tours & Transport,
Banff, Alta.

"I formerly used an imported high grade oil in my Buick 6 1927 Model Touring Car, and had always more or less trouble on account of the engine running hot. Since using Marvelube, I always have a cool engine and my car has more power than ever before."

L. B. Gates, General Merchant,
Middleton.

"We have been using Marvelube ever since it came on the market, and we have had the very best results. We find it entirely free from carbon and we seem to get smoother operation of our engines when using this oil."

N. Berwyn, President,
Diamond Taxicab Association Limited,
Montreal, Que.

"I have used Marvelube Medium in a Chevrolet Landau over since it came on the market and have had the very best of satisfaction. Its reliability is wonderful."

PLANE SANK AT ONCE

New York, Sept. 12.—The New York Sun today prints a copyrighted story by Dorothy Dayton, a staff correspondent aboard the S. S. Carmania, quoting Captain F. G. Brown, of that liner, as expressing the opinion that the monoplane Old Glory with its three fliers, sank at once in the event that it was forced to descend upon the Atlantic. The Carmania was one of the liners that searched for the plane after it sent out its SOS call.

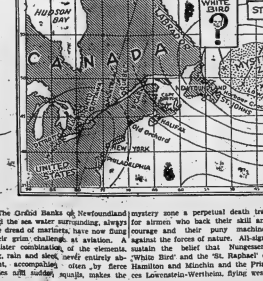

Captain Brown's view was that the heavy seas and strong winds prevailing Wednesday would have prevented the successful launching of a collapsible rubber boat, and that "even a regular lifeboat would have been difficult to handle under the conditions at the time Old Glory sent out its call for help.

NEW PROVINCIAL HIGHWAY

Kingston, Sept. 12.—Plans are under way for the making of a provincial highway through Frontenac county to its northern limits and then on to Renfrew. Such a road would open up a thousand lakes, rich in fish and scenery, to tourists,and would result in an inflow of American cottagers equal to that in Muskoka. The highway would be accessible from east and west and the profits from catering to the summer visitors would be very great. The Board of Trade is active in promoting the new route.

The Orchid Banks of Newfoundland and the sea water surrounding, always the dread of mariners, have now flung their grim challenge at aviation. A sinister combination of the elements, fog, rain and sleet, nearly entirely absent, accomplished often ,by fierce gales and sudden squalls, makes the ces Lowenstein-Wertheim, flying westward, met disaster within the fatal ring; also that in speeding eastward the 'Old Glory' and 'Sir John Carling' there met their doom. The dramatic SOS flashed by the 'Old Glory' came mystery zone a perpetual death trap for airmen who back their skill and courage and their puny machines against the forces of nature. All-signs sustain the belief that Nungesser's 'White Bird' and the 'St. Raphael' of Fronft almost the centre of the dread circle. Even the great Lindbergh himself nearly came to grief, according to his own story, and was sorely tempted to turn back. Byrd and Chamberlin also add their testimony to the perils and uncertainty of the passage over this dirtful patch of the broad Atlantic.

STATES PROTESTS FRENCH TARIFFS

American Firms Declare That Trade Will Suffer By New Rate . . .

Paris, Sept. 10.—Acting upon instructions from Washington, American officials have protested to the French Government against provisions of the new French tariff which became effective last Tuesday. Representations against the harshness of the tariff in relation to American imports followed yesterday's disclosure that, contrary to expectation, the absolute maximum duties have been applied to nearly eighty million dollars' worth of manufactured articles sold by America to France every year.

It was strongly emphasized to the French Government that unless immediate modifications are made many American firms will be forced to suspend business in France. After carefully noting the American protest, French officials promised to give the matter thorough consideration.

Meanwhile a considerable amount of feeling has been stirred up in American business circles, where it is felt that the tariffs are frankly discriminatory. With negotiations for a Franco-American treaty of commerce and amity, in theory, already under way—they formally begin the middle of next month—Americans are of the opinion that the least the French could do under the circumstances would be to permit the old tariffs to hold over pending completion of the trade accord. Some Americans assert that France should go even further and temporarily accord to American products the same tariffs as have been given to Germany in the recent Franco-German trade treaty.

This would be assured in responsible quarters that the old intermediate tariffs enjoyed by many classes of American goods would be maintained in the new tariff, American business men were not overly astounded when they read the provisions of the new duties. Instead of the old intermediate rate, they discovered that the French had taxed duties at maximum, on all but a few items, thereby placing many millions of dollars' worth of American goods at a distinct disadvantage in relation to similar German products which now come into France under the most-favored-nation clause of the new Franco-German treaty.

In other words, German manufactured goods in most instances can now be sold in the French market at as much lower than American goods that the greater part of American trade is bound to be transferred to Germany.

Of course, if America succeeds in obtaining the same treatment as that given Germany, this advantage will at once be removed, but there are many pessimistic predictions about the approaching Franco-American negotiations. In the first place, it is nothing to offer in exchange for French concessions. To give France reductions beyond the present duties she pays for American exports would necessitate an act of Congress which, with approaching elections is believed out of the question.

HIGHER TARIFF

Ottawa, Sept. 10.—France has increased the tariff on Canadian wheat from twenty cents to twenty-seven cents approximately. Per bushel, according to official advice received today from the Canadian trade commissioner. The higher rate comes into effect imme,iately.

WRECKAGE FOUND AT SEA THOUGHT TO BE "OLD GLORY"

Conservatives Won By-Election in North Huron --- Picton Pastor Arrested On Serious Charge

PLANE WRECKAGE LEADS TO CLUES OF LOST FLIERS

Hopes Renewed For Atlantic Adventurers In Latest Finding

LOCATED ON BEACH

Pin Faith On Rubber Life Boats As Their Salvation

New York, Sept. 13.—A water logged aeroplane wreckage reported found at three widely separated points at sea today provided clues regarding the ten brave adventurers who vanished into the Atlantic skies in their great gamble against the deep.

The North Atlantic began yesterday to yield its secrets concerned the last monoplane "Old Glory" and possibly the lost expedition of Nungesser and Coli, monoplane St. Raphael, which carried the Princess Lowenstein Wertheim and the Monoplane Sir John Carling. The wreckage of Old Glory was reported found by the steamship Minnewaska part of the wing of the unidentified plane were found on the beach at Newquay, Cornwall, and the French fishing schooner reported having sighted the aeroplane wreckage three weeks ago three hundred miles east of Halifax, N.S. No trace of the fliers was reported.

Retain Hopes

New York, Sept. 13.—Mrs. Philip Payne, Mrs. Lloyd Bertaud, wives of the two occupants of missing "Old Glory" and Mrs. Florence Calaghan, Bertaud's mother told the Associated Press today that they have not lost hope for the fliers. "We believe that they had time to inflate and rig the rubber life boat" Mrs. Callaghan said "And that gives us confidence that they will yet be saved. They were pretty far north of the regular shipping lanes but there are fishing boats in that vicinity at the time and if one of them found Old Glory crew we might not know of it yet, for those boats have no wireless."

REV. R. G. STEWART ELECTED MODERATOR

The Reverend R. G. Stewart, pastor of St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, was re-elected Moderator of the Kingston Presbytery for the coming year at this morning's session of the Presbytery, being held in St. Andrew's Church.

A great part of the morning was taken up with the drafting of a resolution of condolence to the family of the late Rev. Pres. of Picton, as well as other business matters.

The Presbytery meeting will be concluded this evening with and open meeting at which the Rev. Grant, of Toronto, will address a gathering.

NORTH HURON IS REGAINED BY CONSERVATIVES IN HOT CAMPAIGN

Opposition Now Numbers 89 In House Of Commons

Goderich, Ont., Sept. 13.—Represented in parliament since 1921 by a Liberal government, North Huron electors yesterday elected Conservative candidate George Spotton, defeating by majority of 186 over his nearest opponent, Archibald Hyslop, Liberal. The final figures give, George Spotton, Conservative 4,231; Archibald Hyslop, Liberal, 4,233, and Sheldon B. Ricker, Progressive, 2,725. The renewal by electors of their Conservative allegiance bring the total number in the official opposition in the House of Commons to 89, the Liberal representation standing at 119.

The intense campaign was waged by both the old time parties, the Government forces being led by Premier W. L. Mackenzie King who spent a day in the riding addressing two meetings at Wingham and Goderich. Other cabinet ministers were also brought in, in an attempt to win the seat and campaign was brought to a close with a meeting in Clinton at which D. Robb Minister of Finance. The Conservatives were supported by their temporary leader, Hon. Hugh Guthrie and other members of the party while Agnes Macphail was active on behalf of Sheldon Bricker. Mr. King's majority in the election of 1921 was 1196 but this was cut to 345 in the general election of last year.

BALDWIN'S NAME GIVEN MOUNTAIN

British Columbia Honors Visit Of British Prime Minister

Ottawa, September 13.—At the suggestion of the British Columbia Government, a high peak on the British Columbia side of the divide has been named Stanley Baldwin in honor of the British prime minister on his visit Canada while in office. The peak is about 10,000 feet high and is situated in the Selkirk mountains. The peak is visible to the south from the railway through the Yellowhead Pass.

A group in the Cariboo mountains, British Columbia, just south of the Yellowhead Pass and visible from the railway has been named the Premier Group and peaks in it have been named as follows:

Sir Wilfrid Laurier, Sir John Thompson, Sir John Abbott, Sir MacKenzie Bowell.

The elevation of Mt. Sir Wilfrid Laurier, the highest of the peaks, is about 11,750 feet. Mountains in other parts have already been named after other premiers since Confederation: Sir John A. MacDonald, Alexander Mackenzie, Sir Charles Tupper and Sir Robert Borden. Sir John A. MacDonald was commemorated in this fashion by order-in-council as long ago as 1887.

LINDBERGH SAYS FUTURE LIES IN ATLANTIC FLYING

Conqueror of Air Opposes Move To Prevent Further Flights

MODERN EQUIPMENT

Cites Instance of Wright Brothers' Feat In Early Period

Spokane, Wash., Sept. 13.—Col Charles Lindbergh has given to the Associated Press, in response to its request, the following statement in connection with recent developments in trans-oceanic flying.

"Trans-oceanic flights which have been accomplished demonstrate the feasibility of air transportation between the continents. The trend of future development should be toward making such transportation practical and pioneering it over but perfecting it yet to be done.

"Regular trans-oceanic travel by air is no more practical today than the trans-continental airlines were a decade and a half ago. Years of experimental work must be completed before regular trans-oceanic travel will be necessary before such a regular intercontinental service can be established inaugurated. During this experimental period we may expect casualties, yet to totally restrict hazard flights would be placing a ban on science progress.

"Such restriction would have the same effect on the future of a transatlantic flight as air mail would have experienced had it been abandoned by the government during the early mail carrying period, of the pioneering days. The result of total restriction might be compared to the effect a ban against the Wright Brothers' first flight would have had on aviation progress.

TRADE BALANCE

There is no immediate danger that Canadian trade and industry will go to the bow-wows because the favorable balance is $178,000,000 less for the twelve months ending July 31, 1927, than for the previous period. But it is a timely duty to examine into the causes and see what were the departments which were mainly responsible for the drop. If that tendency so marked during the current year should continue, it will be a development which would spell disaster for Canada.

The three principal contributors to the change were the decrease of $75,000,000 in grain and grain products, and increased imports of iron and steel to the value of $36,000,000 and $13,000,000 increase in automobiles. Exports fell $118,000,000 total.

The fall in volume of farm products as related to price can be determined only by fuller information on tonnage. Whether the wheat pool is as competent in salesmanship as the private grain dealers is a question not to be answered yet. There was a fall in export of dairy products, but that promises to do better in the current year.

It should become more evident to the Canadian public that in this period of development in our country there should be more power of self-support and maintenance, seeing we have an abundance of both iron and coal, and that we have steel mills here dependent on imported iron and coal which have not been as well supplied with orders as they should have been. The local troubles over Besco should not be permitted to stand in the way of a survey of the iron and steel industry, which would help it to take a more comprehensive grasp on the production for Canadian requirements.

Salesmanship again will help account for the heavy increase in imported automobiles, while possibly keener competition will give some explanation of the decline of autos and parts amounting to $4,000,000. The Canadian-made cars are surely good enough for the best and should be so regarded.

Trade with Great Britain and the Empire was maintained at normal, except for the drop in farm products. The main cause in this maladjustment in trade is in the excess imports from the United States.

PUBLICITY PAYS

Premier Ferguson, in an address at a directors' luncheon of the Canadian National Exhibition, has declared his faith in the value of publicity in the "bringing of business to Ontario. His declaration was made, to a certain extent, in reply to criticisms which has been made of the provincial government's expenditures of advertising the attractions of Ontario, for United States tourists. Although one million dollars have been spent for that purpose, the premier believes that the expenditures has produced results which are well worth while, and which have fully justified the amount of money set aside for this purpose.

The result of this publicity, according to the premier, is to be seen in the tremendous volume of tourist business which is being done by philanthropists of Ontario, in the sale of Ontario products to those from the other side of the border. This business had now reached so great a volume that it is listed as one of the biggest industries of the province, and it is not too much to say that the publicity efforts of the Ontario government are largely responsible for this condition. The announcement of Premier Ferguson places him definitely in that progressive class of citizens which believes in the value of publicity, and is convinced that money spent in advertising is an excellent investment.

STUNT FLYING

Public opinion will strongly support the Government if, as the Prime Minister intimates, legislation will be brought down at the next session of Parliament to control trans-oceanic flights. Such legislation need not necessarily mean that all well organized attempts to cross the Atlantic by aeroplane will be stopped. All that it need involve—all that the public demands—is a check upon flights under circumstances that practically invite death.

When Commander Byrd and his associates crossed to Paris they were in a machine that carried a double set of engines, powerful radios, large lifeboats, and supplies of food and water sufficient for two weeks. They reduced their hazard to a minimum. And they gained invaluable experience.

It is in airships of such character that future Atlantic air crossings if ever they are to become commercially feasible, will be made. But what can possibly be gained by even repeated demonstrations that the great pond can be crossed by small monoplanes carrying two persons? That, no matter how successfully achieved, would not solve the problem of trans-Atlantic passenger travel. All navigators, and all passengers, are not Lindberghs.

If, in the months to come, airmen come forward with plans for developing expert navigators and the very latest in flying equipment and organization, prepared to make new tests under the most promising circumstances, well and good. They will deserve support and good wishes. But not so with mere stunt flying for personal or other advertising. That sort of thing, quite clearly, has got to be curbed. It is little better than suicide

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

For sheer impudence a notice in a recent issue of a Baptist paper published in the United States, beats all records. It is not in any obscure periodical either; it finds a place in the official organ of a great section of the churches of that republic.

Just read this, ye preachers, and prepare to move to this new gold centre:

"The church at ——, is in need of a pastor. It pays from $600 to $800 a year salary, has a good parsonage, an acre of land with room for 100 hens and a garden. It is located in a fine country district. The church wants a man with a small family."

Well, what do you think of that? That church doesn't want a preacher, but it feeds one about as badly as do the dark-skinned gentlemen of Africa and the Orient. It must find some man with a humming bird appetite and a small family consisting of himself alone, if that vacancy is ever to be filled. And it is pretty certain that though the bids for applicants mention a salary somewhere between $600 and $800, the church that will make an offer like that will whittle it down to the six hundred mark — and probably keep back a couple of hundred in arrears.

Of course he will have an acre of land and can keep a hundred hens. He can raise onions and sell them to buy tea and trade in his eggs at the store for a little sugar. Too bad his lot isn't large enough for him to have a cow and a couple of pigs. Then he would be as independent as Henry Ford, but minus, of course, all money.

International air mail service will be discussed at a conference of 25 countries meeting at the Hague in September.

DREAM TELEPHONE

I go to bed at half-past six
And Nurse says, "No more funny tricks;"
She takes the light and goes away
And all alone up there I stay.

And, as I lie there all alone,
Sometimes I hear the telephone;
I hear them say, "Yes that's all right,"
Then, "Buzz, buzz, buzz," and then,
"Good-night."

And sometimes as I lie it seems
That people come into my dreams;
I hear a bell ring far away,
And then I hear the people say:

"Have you a little girl up there
The room that's by the Nursery stair?
We are the people that she knew
Before she came to live with you.

"Tell her we know she bruised her knee
In falling from the apple-tree;
Tell her that we'll come very soon
And find the missing tea-set spoon.

"She knows we often come and peep
And kiss her when she's fast asleep;
We think you'll suit her soon all right."
Then, "Buzz, buzz, buzz," and then
"Good-night."

SEVEN BALLOONS ARE STILL UP IN THE AIR

Detroit, Sept. 12.—Seven of the fifteen balloons entered in the Gordon Bennett International trophy race still were unreported this morning, more than forty hours after leaving the Ford airport here Saturday afternoon and officials of the event were inclined to believe that all of the bags still were in the air. Three others were reported seen last night in the Carolinas and five have reported safe landings.

JAP USES AXE WITH FATAL RESULTS

Vancouver, Sept. 12.—As a result of a brutal attack allegedly committed by U. Yaoki, steamship fireman, Mrs. Teka Hashi is dead with her head crushed in by blows from an axe and T. Tamura is in the hospital, believed to be fatally injured. Yaoki is under arrest on a charge of murder and attempted murder. All three are Japanese. No details of the crime are known, other than that Mrs. Hashi's husband and another man were in the house when the attack was made but could not prevent it.

MYSTERY CRUISER

Details of New British Battleship Are Being Closely Guarded

London, September 12.—The heavy cruiser London, which was built as a mystery ship and will be launched Wednesday at Portsmouth, will, it is understood, remain a mystery ship for some years.

No one outside official circles knows the full particulars of the London, which is said to embody all the latest improvements. The vessel, which was built under the Washington Treaty, will displace 10,000 tons and mount eight 8-inch and four 4-inch guns.

The speed will be thirty-two knots, and she will be protected by a curved deck against air attacks.

Dr. Grant will also address a meeting of all Presbyterians in the city and surrounding district in St. Andrew's Church this evening at 8 o'clock. Dr. Grant will be a guest at the manse while in the city. He was the pioneer missionary in the Yukon in the early days of the gold rush.

TONIGHTS BIG BOUT

Belleville has been in the throes of what may be termed a "sport slump" but the announcement early this morning that a welterweight boxing bout with two prominent local mitt artists taking part has set the sporting fraternity agog. Some years ago the manly art was abandoned as a financial failure here but the latest match to be arranged is not a money-making venture. The story is going one and to do away with the preliminaries, the principals are Fred Johnston, well known Front Street barber, and John Wallbridge, running up the municipal's garage, probably at Queen's. One day last week a remark was made on the prowess of Mr. Johnston in boxer and immediately someone sensed the possibility of a match. Accordingly Wallbridge was interviewed and he consented to don the gloves providing suitable ring surroundings could be found. The officials at the Y.M.C.A. were told about the venture and they readily agreed to the gymnasium as the scene of the conflict. Mr. Richard Bull was chosen as the referee of the bout which takes place tonight at eight o'clock. The sponsors of the bout have announced that a portion of the reserved seat section is already disposed of and patrons are advised to get their hand early. Both boxers have signed articles to be on deck at the appointed hour and the bout is sure to go ahead. The barbers are attending in a body to cheer their champion on to victory. Mr. Johnston, by the way, is no relation to the famous Jack of other days, but this does not deteriorate from his ability as a ring artist. Mr. Wallbridge has the advantage of youth in his sidecard claims to be in perfect condition. Those in attendance are requested to refrain from throwing pop bottles or other missles at the contenders if they do not measure up to expectations. The bout starts at sharp eight o'clock and fans are advised to be on time. Admission is free.

Dr. Hamilton Crawford is Secretary of the Medical Council, and Dr. David Thompson, President.

WORKING OVERTIME.

"We are even working nights" stated Mr. O. Freeman, manager of the Canada Cement Company, when we located in the Marsh Engineering Works early this morning. Later this afternoon, when asked if that plant was now busy. Mr. Freeman answered that the plant was at present there were sixty-five on the payroll and the evening shift was working. This firm manufactures material handling and mining equipment.

COMPLETE ARANGEMENTS.

Complete arrangements for the rendition of the grand opening on Monday next of the 3rd Annual Kiwanis Karnival in the Armouries. Kiwanians at most one hundred per cent. strong turned out today to the weekly meeting at the Queen's and the reports of the various committee chairmen indicate that this year's Karnival will be even better in every way than those which have preceded it. The numbers which have been working hard under the direction of General Chairman Lemmon, Jones, and every member of the local Club is doing his utmost to make the coming Karnival a big success.

ARREST

her grandmother, Mrs. Fisher.

Rev. Mr. Mellor is particularly well-known in Belleville as well as throughout Hastings Edward County, having preached on several occasions in Belleville. Born in Ireland, he was brought as a boy to Thurlow Township and received the early part of his education in the public schools and at Albert College. He was ordained in the Bay of Quinte Conference as a Methodist minister.

Interested In Young People

For some years past Mr. Mellor has returned from his regular vacation up north, he has been staying at the home of his mother-in-law, Mrs. Clinton. Little or nothing has been seen of him since his arrival here. Last Friday, however, he was reported to have been seen in an auto, propped up by pillows being driven around Trenton.

Mr. Mellor was always identified actively with the work of the young peoples activities. He was a member of the committee of the Picton Athletic Association for some years. Another of the fields in which he found considerable interest was the Canadian girls in training group at Picton United Church.

Active In Election

Ten months ago Rev. J. J. Mellor was the leader in the campaign to save the provincial seat of Prince Edward County. He was Hon. W. E. Raney's right hand man in the election campaign. He stumped the riding from one end to the other, denouncing all and sundry who would not vote for Mr. Raney and pointing out that a vote for the Conservative candidate was only a vote towards directing the youth of the province to the road of shame and degradation.

Some men seek justice and some have it forced upon them.

MUSICAL TREAT GIVEN BY WELL KNOWN ARTISTS

Miss Valiere Wrightmeyer And Mr. James Booth Give Joint Recital

A rare feast for music lovers took place before a large and appreciative audience in the Albert College Memorial Hall last evening, when a song recital was given by Miss Valiere Wrightmyer, and James Miles Booth. Both artists are well known in this city and was shown by the reception given them when they appeared on the platform. Miss Wrightmeyer has charmed many an audience with her lovely voice, and although Mr. Booth has not been heard for some time, Belleville is indeed glad to welcome "Jimmie" back again.

Every number was so beautifully rendered that it would be hard to say which was enjoyed the most, but in Miss Wrightmyer's final selection "O Rest Fairest" she surpassed herself and gave two encores before the audience would allow her to retire.

In Group Three Miss Wrightmyer gave a collection of four songs, each in a different style. She showed versatility as an actress as well as a singer, going from the tragic "Note but the Lonely Heart," to the light, airy "Feast of Lanterns." Then to the tender words of the lullaby "Good-night." In the last number of the group "Love is the Wind," Miss Wright myer responded to the call of her audience, and responded to the continued applause with an encore in utter "Pickininny."

Mr. Booth's clear baritone voice was delightful in all of his numbers but particularly effective in Handel's "Xerxes," "Turn Ye to Me" and "Love Sees" after which he gave an encore.

Mr. Leo Rigas proved once again that he is the ideal accompanist, and contributed not a little toward the success of the evening.

During the recital Miss Irene Woodley and Miss Marion Ferguson presented Miss Wrightmyer with several bouquets and baskets of flowers from her many admirers.

The full programme is as follows:—

I.—Liber Scriptus "Manzoni-Requiem" (Verdi)—Miss Wrightmyer.

II.—Concerto in F Minor "Viemle" (Handel); Ombra Mai Fu "Xerxes" (Handel)—Mr. Booth.

III.—Note But The Lonely Heart (Tchaikowsky), A Feast of Lanterns (Bantock); Good-night Beloved (Watts); Love is the Wind (McFadyen—Miss Wrightmyer.

IV.—Lovers Garden; The Frost Was White (Brahms); The First Primrose (Grieg); Eros (Grieg)—Mr. Booth.

DEPLORES MODERN WOMAN'S GARTER

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13 (By Canadian Press).—Mlle. Marcelne D'Arcy, the famous Parisian fashion authority, has issued a warning to the Dodo-dess of the Styles," has long proclaimed the ugliness of the round, ornate garter, which seems have been wearing no prohibitory of late. Now, Dr. Frank Crane, president of the British Association of Chiropidists, adds real emphasis to her opinion when he says:

"Thousands of girls are imperilling their shapely limbs with steel-ribbed over circular garters and unrolled but still with the same support. Circular garters should be done away with various doodads, may look attractive, but girls and women who desire to retain smooth skin and to avoid varicose veins, will not wear them, says this authority. The right garter ought to hold up the hose are a profitable cause for varicose veins and have been known to the medical profession.

BUSKARD—KENNEDY

A pretty wedding took place on Sept. 3rd, at the home of Mr. and Mrs. William Kennedy, when their only daughter Bessie was united in marriage to Mr. Harold L. Buskard, son of Mr. Charles Buskard and the late Mrs. Buskard, Belleville, Ont., by Rev. Mr. Ralph, Verona.

The bride looked charming in a dress of rose beige, crêpeane silk, black satin slices. The bridesmaids were Miss Gertrude Mr. Fortune, Deseronto, Miss Helen Freeman, Sydenham, and the groomsmen were Mr. Frederick Kennedy and Mr. James Kennedy. Mrs Mooney were a dress of blue georgette and Miss Freeman a dress of navy serge. The groom's gift to the bride was a gold wrist watch, to the bridesmaids, a silver compact and silver bon-bon dish inlaid with gold. To the groomsmen, a white gold cuff link.

On their return Mr. and Mrs. Buskard will reside in Belleville.

TODAYS MARKETS

Wheat Prices Down

Chicago, Sept. 13.—Wheat and corn prices suffered severe setback today. Wheat collapsing rapidly 5 1-4c and corn 3 1-2c. Unfavorable weather influence was the Canadian Government crop report which taken with recent official figures from Washington, added 77 millions bushels more wheat in Canada and the United States than at this time last year. Wheat today started 3c to 5 1-4c off and subsequently held to initial bottom level. Corn opened 2 5-8c to 5 5-8c down but later achieved somewhat better recoveries than wheat. Cash were easier and provisions likewise declined.

Winnipeg Cereal Sags

Winnipeg, Sept. 13.—Wheat prices sank sharply at the opening of the Winnipeg grain exchange today, reaction to the British Dominion Governments crop report. Before noon, however, early decline ranged from 2 1-4 to 2 3-4c, October and May delivery under Friday's closing figures. The Canadian pit was virtually flooded with offering with very weak support in the Liverpool and Chicago which were later also noted as bearish influence. All the course grain commodities were carried downward, oats dropping 3-8 to 2 1-4.

CIRCLING GLOBE IN AN AUTOMOBILE

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 13 (By Canadian Press).—Intrepid and explorative as her name would suggest, Miss Ina Bell Bowerman and her two companions have reached Edmonton in the course of a hitherto unheard of journey in the circling the globe and visiting every country. They started from Atlanta, Georgia, U.S.A., and have visited and are visiting twenty-one states, Honolulu, Alaska, Canada, Mexico, Central America and Cuba they shipped from New Orleans on a tramp steamer to London, Belgium, Holland, crossed the channel and visited France, Spain, Italy, Switzerland, Belgium, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Sweden, Finland, Turkey, Egypt, China and Japan. The last named country they visited after which has travelled 370,000 miles, while the present chassis has gone 170,000 miles. They are driving and after with an extra gasoline, oil and water tank to enable them to travel through the Sahara Desert. The car bears the insignia of practically every auto club in the world, and scrawled on the famous persons.

Miss Wanderwell has with her Mr. Walter Wanderwell and Mr. Bert Clarke McNall and Ray Maddaugh. She has had many changes in the personnel of the party on her long tour.

Gould played havoc with the personnel of the party while on this tour. Miss Wanderwell smilingly said, "I have been four complete changes of them women who had met the men of their choice in the four corners of the world—a case of looking for adventure and finding romance.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

PERCY ELMER LATCHFORD

With a legion of sorrowing relatives and friends in attendance the last mortal remains of Percy Elmer Latchford, the young Hwn school student who died suddenly on Friday afternoon last from an attack of inflamation of the heart was laid to rest in the Belleville Cemetery at Thursday afternoon. Impressive service at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Latchford, 43 Grey St., Janet Street, after which the body was conveyed to Holloway St. United Church where the Rev. Dr. C. Ramsay, Minister of John Street United Church, and Rev. C. E. Clarke, Minister of Christ Church, conducted an impressive service in which they expressed the sad bereavement and bestowed words of comfort to the sorrowing parents and relatives.

There many in attendance at the obsequies together with the wealth of floral tributes mutely expressed the sincere sorrow caused by the sudden passing of the deceased. Mr. F. C. McLaurin and a delegation from the High School represented that institution at the funeral. Col. W. N. Ponton represented the Board of Education.

The pall bearers were representatives of the Boy Scouts, the High Schools and Moose Lodge and were: G. Simpson, J. Rogers, L. Bonisteel, S. Carmichael, B. Ritchie and G. Rowsome.

WINNING AND HOLDING LOVE OF REAL MEN

Blondy just can't understand why he doesn't love her any more. Read her letter, and maybe you'll be able to tell her. "I'm giving it to you exactly as she wrote it.

DEAR J.LSIE:

I'm just a very pretty girl of the blonde type—a very stunning figure and have several fine fellows crazy about me. I have a fine position with a large brokerage firm and with my salary, and what my mother gives me, I have plenty of money to dress charmingly, and enjoy all the luxuries of life.

But in spite of all this I am terribly unhappy, for the man I love is indifferent to me. We went together steady up for two years, but for the last 6 months he hasn't cared a thing about me. And I can't live without him. I know I can never love again and I'm getting terribly nervous and desperate.

When I plead with him about it he just laughs and says he'll never settle down. He's past 26 and I'm 22. I have been engaged twice before but I never loved anyone like this. Oh, Elsie, I am just frantic. He MUST love me. Please tell me what to do. I can't think what on earth has changed him. BLONDY.

Can't you, Blondy? Read your letter and maybe you'll be able to understand.

What have you talked about in that letter? Your good looks, your pretty clothes, your money, your affairs. And it is plain that you think that he should love you because of these things. But one can't capture lasting love with such things, my dear. The prettiest face, the fattest pocketbook, the smartest clothes, the most dazzling record for conquests—they all grow tiresome, sister.

A man wants SYMPATHY, HUMOR, SENSE, DIGNITY in the woman he marries. He wants to feel that she will understand his problems, save his money, preserve his good name, and be a good partner. Have you made this man feel that you will do these things for him, dear? Or have you made him feel that you are a spoiled, extravagant, conceited flirtatious girl who will have no comprehension of his problems and no sympathy with his needs?

Think it over, and perhaps in that thinking you may make some wonderful discoveries about yourself, and love and life.

Here's Unhappy, who has also made some discoveries.

If only he hadn't petted with Marie—He could have been happy with Madge.

But as it is, he's all upset.

And he's about ready to conclude that life is a failure, even if he has only tried it for twenty years!

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm a young man, slightly under twenty-one, and although I'm not quite ready to settle down yet, I probably would be married by now if Madge had remained. I have known her most of my life and we have been going together for several months, although she is only sixteen. I really love her. Miss Maclowe, and although she has never really confessed that she loves me, I'm sure she does.

But here is the trouble. About a month ago I met Marie, in a neighboring town. I took her to a few dances and shows and she sure is a treat on petting. And I got so I liked her, too. Now deep in my heart I don't think anything of Marie, but since meeting her I don't feel the same about Madge. She doesn't seem so exciting and I don't get the same enjoyment out of seeing her. I know that she is really the girl I love, but at the same time, I'm wild to go on petting parties with Marie. Madge and I have never petted, and I see now that I have lost the spice of life. What will I do? I've had the blues for a week and enjoy nothing.

UNHAPPY.

What'll you do?

Snap out of it. Stop wheezing around like a busted phonograph record. Why on earth are you moaning about the "spice of life" at twenty? Why aren't you out in some back lot playing baseball with the Regular Guys, or practicing up for the baseball season? What sort of a husband will you make if you don't get rid of a little more male pep for yourself?

Let me give you a tip about us women, son. We may amuse ourselves with bonnie lizards at an occasional petting party but when it comes to choosing a permanent mate whom we can love and respect and brag about to the other girls, WE PICK TWO-FISTED MEN.

So stop wallowing around with the blues and go out and get some sunburn on your neck, son! and a job, and a couple of honest working blisters. Then maybe you'll know whether you're coming or going."

CURSE OF LOVE

by Mildred Barbour

He paused and looked at Cynthia for understanding. She smiled politely. With a sigh, he resumed his narration.

"One night, shortly before I was to leave, I came to the garden where we were accustomed to meet. It was on the shore of a little lake near my father's house. I can see it still. The pergola, smothered in wisteria-blossoms; the waterfowl, motionless as little carven statues on the gently lapping tide; the flowers, and over all, the brooding mystery that spells the East. She came to me suddenly out of the darkness—pale, lovely. She knelt before me and said: 'My lord, you leave me because you do not believe me worthy of your people—I, who have the blood of emperors in my veins.' I tried to protest, tried to make her understand, but she wouldn't listen. 'I am one with you,' she said, and she stood before me, slim and white and lovely. 'Look, I have cast away my faith, the faith of my fathers. I have sent my soul to purgatory for you. I have committed the great desecration in order that I am no longer heathen, so you call me. I have discarded the belief of my fathers for—'

"To my astonishment, she took from a fold of her sash the most beautiful jewel I have ever laid eyes on. I think I must have cried aloud, for she put her scented fingers on my lips. 'Hsh,' she warned, 'it is death, if any one discovers. I have committed the great sacrilege. I have taken from the temple on the hill the jewel in the forehead of the idol. Can you now doubt my love? Can you now refuse to believe that I am of your faith? See I lay it at your feet, Nada's soul is your keeping, for her own gods will curse her.'

"I picked up the thing she laid at my feet, and I began to tremble, partly with the horror of its beauty, partly with fear for her who had robbed the sacred shrine of her ancestors, to prove her repudiation of her beliefs. She twined her arms around me and whispered in my ear: 'You can't leave me now, beloved. You can't leave Nada to the wrath of the gods! I know that you will be back by a native ceremony, and I managed, through influence at home, to have my orders countermanded.'

Cynthia was looking at him, politely curious.

"What was the thing she had taken from the idol in the temple?" she asked.

For answer, he laid the black opal in her hand.

CHAPTER 50.

THE REST OF THE STORY

Cynthia stared at the black opal in the palm of her slim hand.

Gradually, like a vision emerging from the mists of a crystal, a scene reconstructed itself before her amazed eyes.

She saw a room — the familiar library of the Greer house. There was a table loaded with beautiful objects, with silver, glass, jewels, ivory vases, pottery, bits of brocade, and tapestry. Gifts—gifts for her and—

Her eyes flashed back to the man opposite her. Basil Harcourt weary and troubled, his brown eyes revealing his inward agony, was staring at her.

"Cynthia, can't you remember?"

She saw herself, slim and white, with the black opal—the same black opal—in the bed of cotton. She saw Harcourt pailing, saying uncertainly; "It's nothing. A touch of the fever. I caught the fever in the East. It comes back — sometimes."

"Oh!" she gasped, and sprang to her feet. "Oh, it was you, after all."

Still clutching the opal, she swayed and fell.

He caught her slim young body in his arms.

"What have I done?" he thought frantically, and, still supporting her, rang for a servant.

The butler came and summoned Therese, and they took Cynthia to her room. Harcourt went away after Therese had promised him that she would send word to his hotel, if her mistress wished to see him. The man regarded him hostilely and, when she discovered the opal clenched in Cynthia's hand, she shuddered.

Harcourt waited in a fever of impatience in his suite at the hotel. It was two days before word came. Then Mr. Greer sent for him. He was grim but courteous.

"My daughter wishes to see you. She has told me of the explanation you made to her. I will not follow my own judgment in this affair, because, I dare say, I should be thankful to you for restoring her memory—even though the things she recalls are far from pleasant. If Cynthia cares to talk to you, I must give my consent."

Harcourt was shown into Cynthia's sitting-room. Therese, after a contemptuous glance in his direction, left them alone.

Cynthia held out her hand and smiled.

"You see, I bear no malice. Im I anxious to hear the rest of the story. And I apologize for doing such an absurd thing as fainting. It was the first time I ever did such a thing, but perhaps I had provocation."

He seated himself beside her, drinking in her fresh loveliness.

"There's little more to tell. I won't repeat what I told you the other day. You recall that I was married to my Chinese sweetheart. We lived in complete happiness for two years. Then orders again came for me to return to England, and even influence couldn't remand them this time. I had to go, and it was clearly impossible for me to take Nada with me. Besides, she didn't want to go. She was expecting a child and she wanted it to be born in the land of its ancestors. I promised to return. I was determined to manage it somehow. But—he shrugged, "who can struggle against the will of Fate. The World War began that summer. My regiment was among the first to be sent to the front. For four years I was in Europe, without leave to go to England. I heard that my child had died. Then word came to me that Nada also had died. There was nothing to call me back to China. So I remained only a beautiful memory—a memory of youth and romance that the years and circumstances had taken from me."

He paused and looked anxiously at Cynthia.

Bands Take New Turns and Angles

GEOMETRIC designs may not at first sound like a form of trimming which the whisper of conservatism, and perhaps plainly the larger woman, would wisely select. And yet we see shawl bands of judicious use of applied bands forming straight lines, pointed designs and what can result in a most distinguished and wonderful effect. Even a sleeveless one-piece dress of satin crepe employs the bands, one of the fabric for the cuff-length sleeve, the welt of, and the bands, the style developed in silk crepe, crepe de Chine or a light weight wool would favor self-material of lighter or darker shade for the trimmings. The V-shaped band on the front of the frock gives a smart yoke suggestion, while the band which top the inserted flared sections of the skirt continues in back around the hip line to become a belt ending in a buckle.

Dresses in Clever Styles

DRESSES—For Autumn wear, offer a wide choice of fabrics. Satins lead the list with Georgettes and Crepe Romaine close seconds. Flat Crepe is again popular, particularly in tailored styles. There are many models in popular black and navy frocks.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl 18 and in love with a boy two years my senior. I have been going with him three years and love him dearly. He is his mother's only son, and, although we have been corresponding with each other I have not heard from him in about two weeks. Please give me some advice as to what to do. It would be useless to try to forget him for I have tried several times.

LONELY GIRL.

LONELY GIRL: Two weeks is not a very long time, my dear, and it is possible that your friend was delayed in writing. Don't despair so easily, and remember that no correspondence runs on schedule all the time!

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

One of the newest English hat ornaments was the outline of a bulldog in brass, with eyes and nose of stones which took on the color of the hat to which it was pinned.

During the Queen's recent visits to both Cowes and Ebolton Hall, her Majesty pursued her favorite hobby of collecting antiques in the old curio shops of the neighborhood.

Much velveteen is employed in the expressing of jackets blouse types, distinguished by double-breasted and notched tailored collars.

A Parisian innovation worth mentioning, for it may become a "rage," if it comes over here, is a pipe—a real—for women smokers. It is very tiny, little larger, in fact, than a good-sized cigarette holder; the bowl is flattened at the sides and is jewelled—for only the most expensive shops are showing this novelty at present—where it will go, time to the stem, and where, incidentally, it may be unscrewed for cleaning.

Perfumes came to be so excessively used in ancient Rome that their use was finally restricted by law.

McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets Fine For Thin Frail Kids

Children Love Them Because They Are Sugar Coated and as Easy to Take as Candy

It's your duty. Mother to see that the frail, peaked, sickly youngster grows up to be strong in body, keen in mind and robust in health.

Extracted from the livers of the best codfish are the health, weight and strength producing vitamines that are found in McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets. Children are sold by pharmacists all over North and South America.

Doctors know about them and so does druggists everywhere and if your children need building up ask for these tablets today. If you want to give our loved ones a good appetite and put pounds of good healthy flesh on their bones. But be sure and get McCoy's.

They are not expensive—60 tablets—60 cents and if you are not pleased with the improvement after 30 days—your money back.

A very sickly child, age 8, gained 12 pounds in seven months and is strong and healthy.

One skinny woman gained 9 pounds in 24 days.

BAD IDEA TO GIVE HIKING KIDS LIFT

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13 (By Canadian Press):—It is often a very mistaken kindness to give that wandering boy or girl a lift in your car when you meet him, or her, along the highway, according to a recent bulletin issued from the national headquarters of the American Automobile Association. The American Motorist, which is the official publication of the A.A.A., has just completed a survey which shows that more than 10 per cent. of the youthful down-and-outers who become a burden on charitable organizations in large cities, have arrived at destitution via the "hitch-hiking" trail. Nine times out of ten, according to the American Motorist, these boys and girls have given considerable to the age-old wanderlust, have left home without preparation or equipment and without a definite idea as to destination or as to what they want to do to support themselves.

PERILS OF QUITTING TIME

Terryville, Conn., September 13.—Leon Kasper, 20, had the bad luck to be standing just inside the gates of the Eagle Lock Company when the 6 o'clock whistle blew last night and today he is nursing three broken ribs as the result of it.

Kasper was knocked down and trampled on as the workmen burst out of the gate and when the last pair of feet had passed over him he picked up in an unconscious condition and rushed to the office of Dr. Harold B. Woodruff. It developed then that it was his first day at the factory and he had not learned the perils of the quitting hour stampede.

AMERICAN LEAGUE

New York, Sept. 13.—The Athletics wound up the home series with Detroit today by winning their third game in four by a score of 5 to 4; Detroit tied the score in the eighth, but a walk to Cochrane, Jacobson's single, and a sacrifice fly scored the winning run in the home half of the inning. The Tigers slid back into a tie for third with Washington, following the defeat. Bob Fothergill, hit a home run in the seventh. Only one game scheduled.

Many a man with a good scheme lacks the required nerve to push it through.

Piles Go Quick

No Cutting or Salves Needed

External treatments seldom banish Piles.

The cause is inside—had circulation. The blood is stagnant, the veins flabby.

The bowel walls are weak, the parts almost dead.

To quickly and safely rid yourself of piles you must free the circulation—send fresh, healthy blood to the raw, sensitive membranes. Internal treatment is what you need. Ointments are only relief. Internal treatments can't give lasting relief.

J. S. Leonhardt, M.D., a specialist, set at work some years ago to find a real internal remedy for piles. He succeeded. He named his prescription HEM-ROID, and tried it in hundreds of cases before he was satisfied. Now HEM-ROID is sold by druggists everywhere under guarantee. It is a harmless tablet, easy to take, and can always be found at J. S. McKeown's, who will gladly refund the purchase price to any dissatisfied customer.

BELLE THEATRE

Leatrice Joy's new star picture, "For Alimony Only", scored a decided hit at the Belle Theatre yesterday. From start to finish the story held the interest of fans and at the final fadeout there was a burst of applause. The work of the star and Clive Brook, Lilyan Tashman and Charles Ferguson, who appear in featured roles was high ly artistic and convincing. The picture arraigns the evils of the alimony system in an entertaining manner, and while it will make one laugh, it also will cause any who meditate matrimony, to think twice before taking that step.

Two Feature Pictures

COL. GLIDDEN DIES IN BOSTON

Boston, Sept. 13.—Col. Charles J. Glidden, telephone and aeronautical pioneer, died at his home here early today after an illness of more than a month. He was seventy years old.

Priscilla Dean is the screen's champion daredevil actress. She clinched her right to the title on the Santa Cruz Islands recently where she was on location for the filming of "Scenes of Desire" when she took a ninety foot dive from a high cliff into the sea below. John Bowers plays the featured male role. The picture will be shown at the Belle Theatre today and Wed.

REGENT THEATRE

When the destinies of three men, two women, great political parties and a whole state hang on the shoulders of one beautiful young girl there's sure to be plenty of strong drama. And those who see "The Telephone Girl" at the Regent Theatre will get just that—strong drama.

Madge Bellamy, heroine of "Bertha the Sewing Machine Girl" enacts the title role. Holbrook Blinn, distinguished stage thespian, is "Judge" Jim Blake. Warner Baxter, featured player in "The Great Gatsby" portrays Stand ish. May Allison, making her return to Famous Players after a number of years, is "the woman." Lawrence Gray the juvenile lead assumes the role and Lewis "en" has an interesting role as Blake's son.

CAPITOL THEATRE

If you would see dramatically recorded the results of the rapidly spreading divorce evil in this country, then see "Children of Divorce," which opened at the Capitol Theatre last night. It is an excellent film, in which the careers of two young girls, children of divorced parents, are traced, red lucir efforts to gain happiness, handicapped with the lack of good home training.

The picture is highly interesting and although naturally as befits the truthful portrayal of the growing divorce evil, the characters are pathetic in their unhappiness, and tragedy is the final outcome of the life of one of them. Such a striking story cannot fail to have a beneficial effect on all who see it for it is not far fetched, but reality. Clara

Professional vaudeville, a good comedy, and the Capital orchestra, complete a bill which was well received by a very large crowd last evening.

IRATE CHICAGO FANS, SPORTSMEN THROW BOTTLES

Hurled At Ump After Close Decision—The Still Unbroken

Chicago, September 13.—The story of the ball game yesterday should be written by a pop bottle manufacturer or some other expert on glassware, for he would be able to describe to the world the ability to decorate the gentle reader the shape, color, weight and specifications price of all the glass missiles which were thrown by Chicago sportsmen at an umpire who was calling decisions correctly. This game was one of baseball and nine-inchins bottle hurling which leaves the ordinary base ball expert at a loss. All he can say is that the Giants beat the Cubs, 7 to 5 in a fairly-played, justly-umpired contest and that a few cheap losers who infest the local grandstand made a hideous attack on an honest official. Umpire Charley Pfirman was the target for the courageous souls. In the ninth inning he called a man out at first base who was out. No doubt about it in any but a mongrel mind, yet Charley was bombarded by a few pop bottles thrown from behind the Giant dugout.

At the same time the right fielder Hornsby let loose a broadside at George Harper who retreated discreetly and refused to continue in his position until the storm had abated. A dozen employees went out and spent fifteen minutes picking up the glassware.

A minute later Grimm hit into a double play, Hornsby to Jackson to Terry. The play at first was close but Pfirman had the courage of his convictions and was not to be intimidated by all the ruffians in the world. As Grimm went over the bag, knowing he was out, he said something to Pfirman, and the bombardment started again.

One bottle hit Pfirman on the leg, another sailed past his head as he duck Others flew to his right and left, going at full speed. It was only when Charley Root, Cubs, and a few of the Giants got around Pfirman in a cordon that the battle throwing stopped.

KINGSTON MEET PORT HOPE INTS.

Game Played At Belleville Exhibition Park At 3.15 Tomorrow

Tomorrow will see another Intermediate ball game played in the city when the Port Hope and Kingston teams clash here in a sudden death fixture to decide a winner to meet Deloro in the next round of the O.B.A.A.,play-offs.

The Kingston Club won the first game by a 21-4 count and were virtually conceded the series but on Saturday's game the shoe was on the other foot and the Hopers wiped the floor with their Lennoxite rivals. The teams agreed upon Belleville as the scene of the third conflict and selected tomorrow as the date of the battle.

The Kingston Circle Six are a smart team with several of last years Seniors bolstered by a number of Junior players. They won the city championship by defeating the Victorias in a well-mated series. Howard Reid does the flinging for the Kingstonians.

Manager Si Rumnals, of the Port Hope squad is also confident of his team's victory and is confident that they will turn the trick again here tomorrow. The game will get under way at 3.15.

The Parks Board are making every effort to have the diamond in better shape than last Wednesday when Deloro raised a protest over the poor playing field.

The Peterboro team who drew a bye in the O.B.A.A. series won out from Oshawa on Saturday and are now pitted against St. Georges Toronto champions in the next round.

What is one difference between Optometry and, say dentistry?

A person always knows when he needs a dental service.

Not so with an optometrical service?

No, many with need an eye service are not aware of the fact

Then the public would be benefitted by having eye conditions explained as they are known to exist?

Yes, the more familiar the public are with their need of Optometry the more the profession will benefit the public.

OPERATION LEFT HER VERY WEAK

Letter Tells of Wonderful Relief After Taking Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Coniston, Ontario.—"After a severe operation and a three weeks' stay in a hospital I returned home so weak that I was unable to move a chair. For four months I was in the most frantic with pains and suffering until I thought sure there could not be any help for me. I had very severe pains in my left side and suffered agony every month. One day when I was not able to get up my mother begged me to try your medicine. My husband got me a bottle of Vegetable Compound at once and I took it. I started a second bottle, and to my surprise and joy the pains in my side left me entirely and I am able to do all my work without help. I am a farmer's wife, so you see I can't be idle long. In all, I have taken six bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, five boxes of the Compound Tablets, two bottles of Lydia E. Pinkham's Blood Medicine, and have also used the Sanative Wash."—Mrs. L. LAJEUNESSE, Box 108, Coniston, Ontario.

KARNIVAL PLANS IN GOOD SHAPE

If present plans mature then next weeks Kiwanis Karnival promises to out rival all previous efforts at this Club in their efforts to give the public a week of real fun and entertainment as well as raise money for the many charitable causes they support. Word has just been received from the Victor Talking Machine Co. that they are building an entirely new cabinet for the Belleville engagement and it will be so designed that the mannequins in the style show will enter the stage from the large doors of the Orthophonic. The stage setting is entirely new and novel. High grade professional vaudeville has been engaged to carry on a programme after the style show and little Miss Jean Hemsworth termed by all the spirit of the Victoria, will give her famous ballet dance each evening. There will be other announcements before the week end of other features to be presented.

BOARD REPORTS ON COST OF MOVING ALBERTA COAL

Royal Windsor Starts Return Trip Home --- Attorney General Price to Clean Up Border Cities

EXPECT MELLOR TO RESIGN FROM UNITED CHURCH

Likely That Presbytery Will Take Action At Next Tuesday's Meeting

FEELS POSITION

Letters Of Ex-Pastor To Girl May Be Put In Evidence

Picton is rocked with consternation from one end to the other because of the latest sensation. It was not altogether unexpected. But when the overt act occurred and news of the arrest of the United Church pastor arrived in Picton the shock was none the less severe. Rev. Mr. Mellor was one of those who loved the limelight; he is very much in it now.

It is reported that Mr. Mellor, in addition to resigning as pastor of Picton United Church, which resignation has been accepted, has sent in his resignation as a minister of the United Church altogether. The reason, no lurry meets next Tuesday when, no doubt, some action will be taken.

Pastor For Six Years

Rev. J. J. Mellor was in his sixth year of service as pastor at Picton. Prior to that he had served on the Woodville circuit, the North Port circuit and also near Bancroft.

The unfortunate pastor is 41 years of age. Mr. Mellor was born in Wales, only far from Rhyl, but left the principality when only a child of nine summers. He never returned to Wales until a few months ago. And concerning this trip of their pastor, his congregation paid for it, as 'tis said, and more than that, it is said that he showed his gratitude for one third figure subscription by working against the subscriber when he ran for public office.

Rev. Mr. Mellor seems to feel his position very keenly. He has cried consistently since the moment of his arrest.

Letters In Code

Should it be necessary to introduce as evidence, letters said to have been written by Rev. Joseph J. Mellor to the young girl who figures as the complainant in the case, they will make very interesting reading. The Crown is in possession of some two dozen letters to the girl, written over a period of years. They are said to be very loving.

In most of them occur a series of letters of the alphabet, separated by periods, commas or hyphens. A key, supplied to the authorities indicates that these alphabetical symbols constituted a pre-arranged code for the good, on certain arrangements, for love-making phrases, caresses and endearment, etc. The code supplied to the Crown in all cases fits into the arrangement of characters in the letters which have been secured.

NO TROUBLE NAMING TRIPLETS

Jersey City, N.J., September 14.—John, Joseph and Thomas are the latest arrivals in the family of Mrs. Davis, which now numbers twelve. "W. named the triplets after Jack Dempsey, Tom Mix and Babe Ruth," explained the father, who earns $45 a week.

SEVEN HELD IN CROSSING CRASH

Wyckoff, N. J., Sept. 14.—Seven men were held today on bail aggregating fifty thousand dollars following a collision at the double unguarded crossing between a freight engine and trolley car in which thirty-one persons were injured, two perhaps mortally.

Those arrested after the crash during the rush hour last evening included the crew of the locomotive, a railroad toerman, and an operator of a one man trolley, the latter being under custody in the hospital.

The towerman said the mechanism of the onoming gates failed to work, the switchmen whose duty it was to derail the trolley if there was not a clear track ahead, could not be found last night.

COST OF BRINGING ALBERTA COAL EAST PLACED AT $12.20 PER TON

Special Enquiry By Railway Board Produces Conflicting Sets Of Figures

Ottawa, Sept. 14.— The Board of Railways Commissioners, in their majority report made public today, finds the out-of-pocket cost of moving Alberta coal to Ontario to be $7.23 per ton inclusive. The cost of transportation covering the overhead and superintendence, is set at $10.07 per ton. The inclusive cost "plus element of profit" is found to be $12.20 per ton. Chief Commissioner McKeown and Assistant Chief Commissioner McLean signed the majority report. Commissioner Frank Oliver, the third member of the section of the Board which conducted the enquiry, disagrees with the majority report.

Commissioner Oliver finds that the out-of-pocket cost of transportation may be said to be $6.50 per ton. The Commissioner's finding of $6.50 per ton is a blanket rate designed to cover all Ontario points and points in Quebec within a hundred rail miles from Ottawa and points on the National trans-continental and branches to Nipissing Junction eastward to and including Latuque. A rate of $6.75 is recommended for those parts of Quebec not covered by the $6.50 blanket, $6.75 rate to extend to the Province of Quebec including Levis and Diamond Junction. With respect to the inclusive cost plus inclusive-cost-plus-profit Commissioner Oliver declared himself unable to draw definite conclusions from the evidence submitted.

The publication of the report was made by Hon. C. A. Dunning when questioned in respect to the terms of the government regarding the findings stated that the government was only just in receipt of the report and had as yet no time to give the matter consideration. The document is extensive and quite voluminous. Findings of majority commissioners occupy seventeen pages while those of Commissioner Oliver cover 39 pages.

Report is not in the nature of a judgement. It states that after full consideration and study of the evidence and exhibits placed before the board the figures were arrived at, which further the act answer the board can give to the various phases of the inquiry submitted by order-in-council on February 17, 1926.

THE WEATHER

Southerly winds, fair and warm today and Thursday.

INTENSE HEAT WAVE HITS MIDDLE - WESTERN STATES

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Midwest looked in vain today for relief from the three days of hot weather which the weather bureau has reproduced. Reports of many deaths and of the rising temperatures which are making this month the hottest September in the weather bureau history, came from all parts of the west central states. Only four cities reported their temperature as being under ninety degrees. Eight deaths were reported here, where the mercury touched 95 degrees. Many Illinois and Missouri schools were closed due to the torrid heat.

MAKE EXAMINATION OF PLANE WRECKAGE

London, Sept. 14.—Air ministry experts who have examined the wreckage of the airplane found several days ago on the beach at Newquay, are understood to have decided that it is not that of any of the missing trans-Atlantic planes, says a despatch from Newquay to the Evening News. Part of the wreckage and rudder, covered with silver gray fabric, are being brought to London for further examination.

RUBBER CRAFT ONE FAINT HOPE

New York, Sept. 14.—Only a faint hope that the small collapsible rubber boat with the three darins air screw turners had survived the storm-tossed Atlantic since last Wednesday, today remained to the searchers for occupants of monoplane Old Glory after discovery of the wrecked hulk of the giant craft off Newfoundland.

With a detailed description of the recovered wreckage the searching aicaneer Ryle reported it will continue the search and stated that it is still searching for the collapsible boat which Old Glory carried.

Naval officials and "experts in shipping" men believed the continued search was useless. They pointed to overnight drifts of masters of searching vessels who looked for plane last week that stormy waters would prevent surfacing of strongest regulation lifeboat.

PRINCE BACK HOME BRONZED AND HAPPY

Southampton, England, Sept. 14.—The Prince of Wales, looking very bronzed and in excellent spirits, stepped ashore from the Empress of Scotland here today, ending his trip to Canada. He was accompanied by the Prince George.

The Prince of Wales who wore a gray suit and a blue shirt and collar was seen standing with brother on the bridge before the liner docked waving his hat to the crowd on the pier. The Prince had expressed a wish that his arrival should be as quiet as possible and dock authorities consequently restricted admission to the Quay as a result the crowd was not as large as usual on such occasions.

WINDSOR PLANE TOOK TO AIR ON RETURN JOURNEY

CHANGED COURSE

Antigonish, N.S., Sept. 14.—Flying in westerly direction, Royal Windsor sere at 1.18 p.m. (Eastern standard Time.)

Harbor Grace, Sept. 14.—The Monoplane Royal Windsor, piloted by Phil Wood and Duke Schiller, hopped off at 6.25 this morning Eastern daylight time, on its return flight to Windsor, Ont., in accordance with instructions from their sponsors that they discontinue their projected Trans-Atlantic hop to Windsor, England. The fliers had previously announced their intention of piloting the course for Old Orchard, Maine, but stated that with favorable weather conditions they would continue from the Maine coast on the non-stop flight to Windsor.

Sydney, N. S., Sept. 14.—Flying in a westerly direction, the Royal Windsor passed over here at 115 p.m. eastern standard time.

Sydney, Sept. 14.—Royal Windsor, piloted by Schiller and Wood, left Windsor, Ont., via Old Orchard, Me., passed over Sydney at 11.40 Eastern daylight time.

DETROIT PLANE HOPS TO MIDWAY

Tokio, Sept. 14.—Edward Schler and William Brock, pilots of the round the world monoplane, "Pride of Detroit" today announced they expected to hop off near here for the Midway Islands, nearly half way across the Pacific Friday. The projected flight to the Midway means a hop of 2400 miles over water and almost errorless navigation if they are to reach their destination. The Midway is a coral island of a few square miles in area.

Once at Midway the fliers would put fourteen hundred miles gap of water to Honolulu and then 2400 more miles to San Francisco.

The monoplane arrived at Kasumigaura at three o'clock this afternoon Japanese standard time and was brought gracefully to earth by the pilots. They were smiling despite the bad luck they have had since they arrived in Japan, being forced down by engine trouble and inclement weather. A large crowd of newspapermen and naval officers greeted the fliers on their arrival. Neither Schler nor Brock showed signs of fatigue and both declared they were hungry. Without delay the aviators were given refreshments and handed bundles of telegrams from all parts of the world.

CHURCH OF ENGLAND SYNOD OPENED TODAY

Kingston, Sept. 14.—The historic old St. George's Cathedral here was the scene of the formal opening of the seventh session of the general synod of the Church of England in Canada here today. There are one or two exceptions all the bishops were present, besides a large number of clerical and lay delegates from all parts of Canada. The service consist ed of morning prayer and holy communion and was conducted by Arch Bishop Matheson, of Rupert's Land. The Right Rev. William White, of Honan, China, preached.

New York Tribune Says New Enterprise Planned To Open In 1930

New York, Sept. 14.—New York Herald Tribune today says an all-American combination steamship aeroplane service with fast ocean liners that will cross the Atlantic in four days is being projected for opening in the spring of 1930. The planes will meet ships three hundred miles from port and will carry passengers the remaining distance by air to save time.

EIGHTY PERCENT. WHEAT IS CUT

Heavy Loss From Rust In Manitoba—No Frost Damage

Ottawa, September 14.—About 80 per cent. of this year's wheat crop in the Prairie Provinces had been cut up to last Saturday night, according to a statement issued today by the federal Department of Agriculture on crop and mining conditions in the west. Most of the cutting will be done by the end of the present week. There is practically no frost damage in Manitoba, but considerable damage from rust. Reports from Saskatchewan's wheat is expected to grade number 3 northern or better. While reports from Alberta indicate heavy crops and high grades in all crops.

In Manitoba the damage from rust has been heavy in some districts, and rather in others particularly has rust damage suffered heavily from this cause. There has been practically no frost damage, but it is expected that there will be considerable shrunken grain this year from rust.

"In Saskatchewan approximately 80 per cent. of the crop had been cut. Early August frost damage in western Saskatchewan is not yet determinable, but it is known to have been severe in low-lying localities, where the wheat was caught at the bloom. There has been considerable rust injury in the later fields. It is estimated that the major portion of the wheat crop will go number three northern or better, while any lower grades will be largely due to lodging and rust. There will be a good crop of barley, while early oats are fair to good, although late oats have suffered from rust. Notwithstanding all the ills the wheat crop of Saskatchewan was heir to this late season, early threshing returns indicate a somewhat better than average crop of fairly high grade grain.

"Reports from Alberta state that practically all crops promise heavy yields and high grades. There has been comparatively little frost or rust damage, although there has been some loss from lodging. Harvesting has to some extent been hampered by rains during the past week, but with favorable weather conditions, cutting should be finished this week.

General Williams, Head Of Provincials Starts Stiff Investigation

SEES PUBLISHER

May Subpoena Witnesses If They Refuse To Tell Their Stories

Windsor, Sept. 14.—Gen. Victor A. Williams, Commissioner of the Ontario Provincial Police, today began an investigation of vice conditions in Windsor and the neighboring communities.

General Williams said he would ask all Magistrates and Police Chiefs of the border to meet with him tomorrow afternoon in the office of Crown Attorney James S. Allan in Windsor. The situation will be thoroughly discussed at this meeting he said, and any one who wishes to lay any information before the authorities will be given a hearing.

May Issue Subpoenas

If it seem nanecessary, Gen. Williams says he will exercise his authority as a Provincial constable and subpoenas and conduct a formal investigation.

"We are prepared to co-operate with the local authorities to the fullest extent," he said. "If it is true that Detroit gamblers have been driven packing to the Border Cities, we shall do all in our power to break them pul.—Gambling, of course, is a purely local matter, not directly a matter the jurisdiction of the Province. With the liquid gips we are more directly concerned. The Attorney-General is eager to learn whether the new temperance act has brought about an increase in their consumer. I do not understand how it would do so, but is is a matter of law."

Several doors leading to fire escapes in downtown buildings recently have been found barred, according to Clarence Dedells, Chief of the Fire Department.

"It is not out duty to hunt out blind pigs or gambling establishments, and it cannot say whether these barred doors indicated the existence of such lanes," he said.

See Windsor Publisher

With Gen. Williams came Frank Eliott, Chief Inspector of the Provincial Police. Today they conferred briefly with W. P. Thomas, Windsor publisher.

General Williams was accompanied by Toronto newspapermen, and Mr. Herman declined to divulge any infor, but he may make the case the presence of the reporters. He bluntly told the General that it was a poor way to start an investigation by announcing in advance that he was coming to the border.

"How do you expect to find any lawlessness now?" the newspaper reporters asked. "Your gambling and liquor dens and bawdy houses have closed down all up for the time being, at least."

A hurriedly called meeting of the Windsor Police Commission, held this afternoon, was attended by delegates after Magistrate, W. R. Gundy, Chairman of the Commission refused to call special meeting of the Commission to discuss wide-open gambling and bootlegging charges contained in an editorial of the local newspaper.

Will I think the situation merits a special meeting of the Commission, I shall call it and allow representatives of the press to be present today," Magistrate Gundy said tonight.

STORM LASHES MEXICAN COAST

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 14.—Collapse of communication both by telegrams and railways still kept from the world today a definite estimate of death and destruction believed to have been dealt by a storm on the Mexican west coast. Officials of the Southern Pacific of Mexico Railroad last night reported that no train connection with Mexico City or southern coast points would be made today. Maggs reports that the death toll in Salina Cruz and Manzanillo, both important west coast seaports, was enormous, and gave cause for speculation regarding the picture which would be revealed with improved communication.

FILM STARS PAY

There comes a story from Hollywood to the effect that the movie magnates, failing in their recent attempts to persuade the stars to accept salary cuts, will boycott their favorite actors and actresses and fill their places from the film ranks at greatly reduced salaries. It sounds simple enough. When the million-dollar contracts expire, the producers will offer new ones at lower salaries, taking who they can get if the stars refuse to sign.

The plan is based on the opinion, prevailing among the producers, that the picture and the producing company make the actor a star, which is directly contrary to the claim of the stars that they make the picture popular and the producing company prosperous.

Those of an experimental turn of mind will hope that the producers carry out their threat and that the film stars refuse to accept cuts in pay. Then film fans will discover for all time whether stars are stars only because of their large salaries or the general excellence of the pictures in which they appear.

However, it seems at this early date that the producers are destined to fur ther failure in their much advertised economy move. Some of the more popular movie folk have been making huge profits for their producers and will make them for somebody else if their present contracts are not renewed on old terms. If all producers join in the boycott some will turn honest once a string of stars is placed on the open market. And let movie magnates forget that certain stars in the past have been tremendously successful as producers of their own pictures.

Of course a million dollars a year is too much topay one screen actor and so is a million a fight an exhorbitant fee for a prize-fighter; but as long as the public wants them it will have to pay their price.

DISTRIBUTION OF WEALTH

Some rather startling facts are revealed to the official returns of the U. S. income tax department. One of these facts is that 5.85 per cent. of the adult population pay no income tax at all. At first glance that looks like forcing the rich to bear the greater part of the national tax burden. But it should be considered that the great majority pay no tax because they haven't enough income to tax.

Three quarters of a century ago one of the ideal conditions of the Golden Years as it appeared to the poet's vision was this:

"When wealth no more shall rest in mounded heaps,
But, sunk with freer light, shall spread its showers
In many streams to fatten lower lands."

When 85 per cent. of the people of the United States have not enough income to be taxed and less than one-third of one per cent. of the citizens of that great country pay 86 per cent. of the income taxes because they have no incomes for the state to draw upon, it doesn't look as if the dawn of the Golden Year were close at hand.

And yet present conditions are nearer to Tennyson's ideal than they were when he wrote the lines quoted. The reason why so large a proportion of American citizens are exempt from income tax payments is because the exemption limit is unusually high. An American or Canadian citizen can earn an income large enough to maintain his family in comfort and enable him to put something by, and yet pay no income tax.

The fact is that while it is true that the rich have been growing richer, the poor have not been growing poorer, but richer also. Far more wealth is being produced now than when the poet wrote, but it is not resting in mounded heaps; it is melting "in many streams to fatten lower lands." Multitudes of wage-earners are also capitalists in a small way, having their savings invested in all sorts of securities. They draw from the main streams such of the wealth as they are entitled to, to irrigate their little plots —many of them not so little either. It is true that wealth is unevenly distributed, but it is also true that never before in the world's history was it so evenly and fairly distributed as it is today.

So, if we have not yet reached the Golden Year, we are appreciably nearer to it than our forefathers were.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Many people are driving cars who are not fit to drive cattle. Licensing all drivers is a step in the right direction, but it will not be effective if it is not followed up by a ruthless cancellation of licenses where drivers are shown to be reckless and utterly indifferent to the rights of others who enjoy the privilege of using the King's highway.—Toronto Telegram.

Canada was gained a great friend in the British Premier. He learned much during his short stay in the Dominion. He discovered that success here is easily possible of attainment for the man who is willing to work for it. He is telling the citizens of Great Britain that Canada is an excellent country. And he is pointing out, to them that if the people of the British Isles would set themselves to their tasks in the same spirit of determined effort as Canadians do, then the troubles of Britain's recovery from the war will be far more easily overcome. —Border Cities Star.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Clerk: "Yes, I believe I did. Why?"

Angry Woman: "Well, what are you going to do about it? He's escaped!"

THE STRAY DOG

Your wistful eyes searching each one as he passed,
Stray dog—so lost, so starved and starkly thin.
And yet your gallant hope held to the last
That there would come a heart to take you in.

Some came who jeered your bewilderment,
Some kicked you, shouted threw things till you'd gone;
But, oh, more cruel was the one who sent
And petted you, and murmured—and went along.

Captain Leslie Hamilton, Princess Lowenstein-Wertheim and Col. F. F. Minchin, whose plane, the Saint Raphael, has never been reported since it crossed the Irish coast on its way across the Atlantic, are shown just before the take-off at Upavon airdrome, England. The princess is in flying costumes but her escorts of the air had not yet changed to the regulation aviation uniform.

WEALTH DREAMS SOON FADED OUT

Restauranter Was Sold Machine By Confree; Badly Gypped

New York, Sept. 10.—A short cut to wealth, dreamed of by Louis J. Freedman, restaurant keeper, faded when he discovered that the machine he had purchased from three men which was supposed to make $50 bills out of $1 bills gave forth nothing but the moan of the motor.

Freedman had Solomon Sussman, another restaurant keeper, alleged to have sold him the machine with two other men, arrested. He said he had paid Sussman $11,000 for the contrivance.

Last May, Freedman said, he was given a demonstration of the machine. A $1 bill was placed in one end, the motor whizzed and a bright, crackly $50 bill was tossed out. It passed as legal tender at a bank. Then Freedman handed over the $11,000 and the salesmen departed.

When he tried to make a little money himself, however, nothing came out of the machine, not even the $1 bill he put in, said Freedman. Sussman denied all part in the affair.

STRANGLER WILL FACE TRIAL; NOV.

Earl Nelson To Appear At Fall Assizes Of Winnipeg Court

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 14.—Earl Nelson, alias "The Strangler" will be tried in November at the opening of the Fall Assizes before Mr. Justice Dysart, it was learned today. John Allen, K.C., will prosecute, while Jas. H. Sillin, appointed by the Crown, will defend the prisoner. Nelson is alleged to have strangled to death two Winnipeg women and is thought by the authorities to have been responsible for similar crimes in sections of the United States.

SPECTOR OF RACE SUICIDE IN BRITAIN

London, Sept. 10.—The spector of "race suicide" has crept across the English Channel to haunt British social statisticians.

The English and Welsh birth rate for 1926 again has shown a decline, following the descending curve which has obtained since 1920, according to figures published by the Registrar-General. The rate for the calendar year was 17.8 per 100,000 of population.

Against this, the official report shows that the death rate of infants less than a year old was the lowest on record. Scotland experienced a higher birth rate as well as a higher infant death rate than England and Wales.

The 1926 birth rate tied that of 1917 and was only higher than the 1918 birth rate of 17.7 the lowest on record in England and Wales. In France, where the low birth rate has for years presented what is regarded as a grave national problem, the proportion for 1926 was 18.8 for each 100,000.

Cancer, heart disease, and tuberculosis of the respiratory system led the list as causes of death in England and Wales.

Women, the Registrars report indicates were far more agile in dodging motor vehicles and avoiding fatal accidents generally than were men. The women also who committed suicide were less than half of those of the other sex who met death by their own hands. The suicide figures were Male 3,020, females 1,310. Accidental deaths: Males 9,531, females 4,274.

ALBERTA LEADS MENTAL HYGIENE

Edmonton, Sept. 10.—That Alberta is leading the whole dominion in some phases of mental hygiene work is given in a recent bulletin of the Canadian national committee for mental hygiene, is the opinion of Dr. C. M. Hincks, medical director of the organization, who made a five weeks visit of the western provinces last spring. Dr. Hincks refers in particular to the appointment and work of a visiting committee to the mental hospitals and penal institutions, the establishment of a training school for mental defectives at Red Deer, and the introduction in the legislature by the minister of health of a sterilization bill, which is thought likely to pass at the next session.

The bulletin also makes no of the experimentation being carried on at the mental hospital at Ponoka in the malaria treatment for general paralysis of the insane. To date about 70 cases have been treated with a benign strain of the malaria parasite, and approximately 30 per cent. have shown marked benefits, while as many more have improved or have had no arrest of symptoms.

Dr. Hincks speaks of the work being done in mental hygiene throughout the west as aggressive and progressive, with a chain of 10 mental hospitals well staffed and supported by governments in full sympathy, the result being that the problems of mental abnormality have been attacked energetically in all the western provinces.

Some people have been on the stage all their lives and still love to be scary.

Some ears are born great, some are brave, greatness and the majority do not trouble themselves very much about it.

The Lamp that Lasts

Lamps all look very much alike. Cheap lamps which do not give good service and good standard priced lamps which are guaranteed to give good service and Long Life.

MICHOLSON WILL KEEP STUDYING

Chicago, Sept. 10.—Professor Albert A. Michelson, physicist of the University of Chicago, who recently measured the speed of light at 186,-363 miles per second, will continue his studies in California.

Two large, specially constructed mirrors, one on the summit of Mount Jacinto and the other about 80 miles away on Mount Wilson have been installed for the tests. Last year Professor Michelson conducted his experiments in the same region with the mirrors about 22 miles apart.

The experiments to be conducted are in the nature of a verification of his previous figures. Flashes of light are sent from one mirror to the other and the speed is measured by the scientist with a delicate instrument known as an interferometer.

FRACTURED LEG.

While walking down stairs, "Jack" five year old son of Mr. J. D. Thompkins, Second Concession of Sidney, fell and broke his leg. The child was taken to Dr. McMullen of Frankford, who brought him to Belleville where an X-ray was taken.

SUSPENDED SENTENCE.

John Charlesworth, an elderly man, was convicted by Magistrate Mikel this morning on a charge of driving a car while drunk and was given a suspended sentence, this being his first offence. James Finn, for a breach of the Highway Traffic Act, was fined $1 or, in default.

CHILDREN ARRIVE

Approximately three hundred deaf children arrived in Belleville today by the 4 pm studies at the Ontario School for the Deaf here, which opens its fall term today. Classes will be resumed tomorrow. The children left the Union Station in Toronto this morning on two trains arriving in Belleville in the early afternoon.

Four new teachers have been added to the staff. They include Mr. Carson Hirshton, Miss Martha Secord of Miss Marjorie Heeje and Miss Rosamond VanAllen.

NEAR RUGBY SEASON

Now that school has opened and the Fall season held once more, rugby footballs are being dug out of closets and trunks and tentatively brung up in preparation for the coming weeks on the gridiron. Albert College expects to have even a better team this year than last, and the High School's husky eleven hopes to be able to wipe off the slate the defeats that they took at the hands of the "A" men.

FISHING POOR

Local followers of Isaac Walton state that the fishing is "rotten" at present around Belleville. But two officers who returned yesterday from a duck shooting expedition enthusiastically claimed that they had shot over a hundred ducks each. The Fish is Dead! Long live Mirrod!

ALBERT GRADUATE TO WED

"Ten more students have reported this year than at the same time last year," the Rev. Dr. Bishop of Albert College told The Intelligencer today. "Forty-four students had registered by this time in 1926." went on to state that, "and we expect many more this Fall. More will be coming in all the time."

Classes were resumed in the beautiful new buildings of the College this morning. The official opening of the 1927-1928 school year was held in the Memorial Hall last night, when introductions and introductions were given, and, a fine social evening held. The new steps played the part in the baseball, defeating them by the score of 8-6.

BOYTZ CANCELLED.

The boxing match scheduled for the Y. M. C. A. last evening, between Jack Wallbridge and Jack Johnston, did not materialize for some unknown reason had as a result several scores of boxing enthusiasts were sorely disappointed. The Intelligencer published an article in last evening's edition in regard to the bout. It later developed that it was supposed to be a friendly affair with only the two boxers and their ring assistants present. The Intelligencer learned about the bout from several different sources and published the article in all good faith. From the start the whole thing shaped up as a fiasco but those behind the movement made no secret of it and in consequence this paper believed that no harm was being done by the publishing of the story. At any rate some one fell down on the job or a cog slipped somewhere and a number of boxing fans went home disappointed. No specific reason was given for the cancellation of the bout.

HOTEL KEY IS REMAINING CLUE

Philadelphia, Sept. 14.—A key numbered "Window Room, Montreal, Room 1027," is the only clue in the hands of authorities investigating the mysterious rum-smuggling "holiday" which was seized here late Saturday night by customs officers with an alleged contraband cargo reported to be worth $2,000,000.

Where the vessel came from and where it was to go, are things the customs officials still are trying to find out. Assistant United States Attorney Claude O. Lonciano, in charge of the investigation, said he found the hotel key in a room of the vessel.

Louis Feinberg, Max Feinberg and Max Freedman, three of the alleged members of the vessel's crew, who failed to respond to their names when called for a hearing before a United States commissioner yesterday, were arrested by Secret Service men. The men form forfeited their cash bail of $500.

The ship was seized as it was about to unload a cargo of "canned goods" into freight cars. A large force of men, said when the Government's stevedores was on hand to do the unloading, appeared all of them disappeared. Sixteen members of the crew were taken, but the captain of the ship, whose identity is known, had not been disclosed, also vanished.

United States Attorney George W. Coles is preparing a libel to be presented to court so that he can formally attach the vessel.

LARGE ASSEMBLY HEARS DR. GRANT

"The Presbyterian Church has never been in a stronger position than it is today," stated the Rev. Dr. Grant, of Halifax, before a large audience in St. Andrew's Church, last evening.

Dr. Grant said that the church was not decreasing in numbers, for while the Church was smaller in numbers than previously, the spirit of loyalty, faith and enthusiasm of the people was increased a hundred fold. Nothing could be more encouraging than the efforts made by the entire membership of the Church. He further stated that the people of Canada were just beginning to realize the part that the Church is to distinctively occupied by the Presbyterian Church.

Dr. Grant's particular mission was laying before the Church the budget for 1927, which was $50,000. He stated that he and his work was intensive rather than extensive, that we aimed to strengthen what we have to be equately established it and then reach out to the wider fields. Dr. Grant received applause when the fact that the Presbytery of Kingston had assumed the responsibility for the raising of the Assembly's allotment and urged that in every congregation a budget committee should be appointed for the special purpose of realizing the objects. Dr. Grant's address was illustrated with many reminiscences of pioneer days in the Klondike, and the conditions that existed in the city of preacher and medical doctor.

Rev. G. D. Ferguson, moderator of the Kingston Presbytery, presided at the meeting and Rev. John Stevens read the scripture. The Rev. Kidd, of Gananoque, led in prayer. Mr. Wheal, leyy and his choir provided the music for the meeting.

HEAVY TOLL IS TAKEN BY FLOOD

London, Sept. 14.—Exchange Telegraph to the Kyo correspondents of the Japanese papers from various prefectural headquarters throughout the island of Kyushu reveal the devastation of coast villages from yesterday's typhoon, tidal waves and floods. The whole net result is described as a disastrophic involving deaths of six hundred persons.

Tokyo, Sept. 14.—Four hundred persons are dead, 2000 injured and seven hundred houses destroyed in the Kumamoto prefecture, the island of Kiushiu, in consequence of yesterday's typhoon and tidal wave, reports to the Japanese newspapers state today.

In Fukuoka, Nagasaki and Kanagawa prefectures there were few casualties but numerous houses were inundated and damaged. The tail of typhoon struck this morning. Several thousand houses in the low lying sections were flooded. Thirty children were injured when the roof of a school house was blown off.

Osaka, Japan, Sept. 14.—The aeroplane pilots who flew over the typhoon devastated area of Kiushiu returned today with photographs showing scenes of desolation. One report estimates the total damage at twenty million Yen (about ten million dollars) including the loss of large areas of reclaimed agricultural land which is now under sea owing to tidal waves.

Fifteen thousand pheasants have been killed throughout Jersey this summer.

TODAYS MARKETS

Chicago, Sept. 14.—Wheat and corn prices took an early swing upward today with speculators giving considerable attention to reports of storm delays to the Canadian West. Despite favorable weather for corn, buyers were numerous, influenced chiefly by frost damage late in the season. Opening half cent to 7-8 cent higher, wheat subsequently held near to initial figures. Corn started 1-6 to 3-8 cent up, and made all of its gains in advance. Oats were firmer. Provisions also displayed strength.

WINNIPEG WHEAT

New York, Sept. 14.—Stock prices continued to work upward in today's market under leadership of high grade industrial trades and suffered reaction in the call money rate from 4 1-4 to 4 percent. Commission houses were temporarily interrupted after mid-day when a weakness cropped out in the specialties. The weekly Steel trade reviews reported little change in operations at present, but from age composite pig-iron price falling to the lowest level since 1925. However, considerable interest was manifested in the announcement that the Pennsylvania Railroad directors had approved purchase of three hundred thousand tons of steel rails for use in 1928, the largest rail order in any year in the company's history. New General Motors sold stock, was again industrial, the feature soaring more than six points to a new high level at 261 1-2. Dupont touched new lap at 228. United States Steel common and other industrial leaders also reached new high ground.

V. O. N. REPORT

The Victorian Order of Nurses report for the months of July and August show a total of 66 new cases divided as follows: medical, 21; communicable, 13; pre-natal, 12; obstetrical, 3, and infants, 15. The total cases for the two months total 131. Of these, 300 were nursing visits, 164 were made to Metropolitan police hold and 42 were free. The total patients dismissed 5 paid the maximum fee, 5 paid paid, 6 paid part fee and 27 were Metropolitan police holders. The fees for the two months amounted to Maximum $4.L.I. $139.75. Patients $49.50.

It was found necessary during the operation of the report of the regular nurses to receive relief for part time. We were fortunate in securing Miss Cook and Mrs. Fitzgerald for part time duty.

The nursing work it showing an increase over the previous year and we ask for the co-operation of the public in order that the claims and so conserve the nurse's time. The co-operation of the members of the medical profession in giving their time to the clinic work is much appreciated both nurses and mothers.

A demonstration of the work carried on by the Victorian Order of Nurses is planned at the Kiwanis Karnival next week.

Sharing Secrets With Friends Precarious

Is it safe to "tell everything" to anyone? Frances wonders. And so she writes:

DEAR ELSIE MARLOWE:

Is it possible to renew an old friendship that has died? I used to chum with a girl—a sweet, lovely girl. However, this chum suddenly had the desire to be "wild," while I began to see the advantage of being sweet and clean. I don't mean that either of us was really bad. We've always been decent, but we had a roaring good time, each in our turn.

Now do you think we can come together again and be the dear old chums once more? Do you think it would be foolish to have absolute confidence in her, if we do become chums again.

She is an only child, her father being dead, and her mother an invalid. So she has much time to run around and no one pays much attention to her. Do you think I would be wise to take her seriously to her, even though she is older than I am?

I need a chum to whom I can tell everything, because I am the youngest of the family with no brothers and I cannot confide in them. What shall I do about it?

FRANCES.

You're not going to like my advice, little sister, but you'll have to have the truth of it sooner or later in life. NEVER TELL EVERYTHING ANYONE! Be sure as you do, you'll regret it.

All your life you are going to long for a perfect confidante—someone who will always understand you and sympathize with you and help you and be loyal to you. But no one will ever do these things for you. Why should they? We can't understand ourselves, so how can we understand anyone else? We can't take proper care of our own affairs, so why should we be expected to guard the dangerous secrets of others?

As for this girl—I do not know whether you'll meet your standards or not. You might talk to her in a kindly way but remember, dear, that bone of us has the right to force his or her ideals on another spirit.

Next comes Lois. Lois is only seventeen but already she is facing a cruel problem.

"I am seventeen," she writes, "and not very long ago I met a young man for whom I have learned to care a great deal. The other night I was talking to one of his friends and he told me that my young man had been married and had a young baby six months old, but he is now free.

"I have worried over this and have lost much sleep because I think a lot of him. My best friend tells me to keep him, and I want to know what you would do."

Are you thinking of marrying this man, Lois? If so, I advise you strongly not to do so. Girls once married at seventeen—when life was simpler and marriage was the only career possible for women.

As for this particular man—you would certainly be foolish to continue friendship with him unless you have a frank understanding of his status.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I wonder if you will tell me what to do. I am a young girl in my teens and several months ago I met a married man whom I liked very much. He told me he was married and said he loved his wife but as she stays on one place and he another they can not be together all the time.

He takes me places and shows me a good time, we go to dances and out driving. His wife has friend to out and wants him to stop going with me.

They have a girl almost as big as I am and I want to know if I must give up our friendship. I can't believe he cares for his wife and child or he would not want to be with me so much.

WORRIED.

WORRIED: You must realize the impossibility of continuing your friendship with this man! You should have realized it long ago, my dear, and saved yourself the unhappiness of giving this man up. I really cannot see that you have any other alternative. This man loves his wife and his first duty is to her and his child. You have no right to doubt his love for her; the fact that he comes to you for company is quite natural. Since he is forced to stay apart from his wife, I can understand his attraction to you. However, I think it was most unwise of you to continue going with him. You are young and should seek the friendship of people your own age. Be sensible, my dear, and give him up immediately or you will only make things more difficult for yourself.

DOES WEAKNESS DETRACT FROM YOUR GOOD LOOKS?

Mrs. Thomas Chapman of 3 Somerset Place, Trenton, N. J., whose picture appears here, said: "Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription was very helpful to me and I know it to be the very best medicine a woman can take when nervousness has run down. I had a break-down—my nerves were so upset I could not sleep. I also suffered from nervous indigestion, but after taking Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription I did not suffer with indigestion and I could get a natural night's rest, which I could not do before. No woman can appreciate what a wonderful medicine the 'Favorite Prescription' is until she gives it a trial."

CURSE OF LOVE
By Mildred Barbour

"You can understand? You can believe?"

She nodded.

"And then you met me?"

"Then I met you—and understood what real love meant. The love of a mature man, not a romantic, headstrong youth who snatched at every beams. I saw a lifetime stretching before us—before you and me—a lifetime of happiness such as I had never dreamed of."

Cynthia sighed and shook her head. "I'm not so sure, Basil. Perhaps it all turned out for the best. But—but I still don't understand—about the black opal."

"The opal," he said slowly, "was my wife's message to me. The news of her death was false. Her father had led me, naturally, for taking his daughter from the faith of her ancestors, for making impossible the marriage he had planned for her. He sent the message that told me of her death; and she, poor, poor, soul, believed. When I didn't return, that I had deserted her. Don't ask me how she learned of my intended marriage to you; I've not how she managed to get the opal to you. The Chinese are inscrutable. But, at any rate, when you showed me the opal think night before our wedding, I knew that Nada still lived. I was not a widower, as I thought. I should have stayed and explained, of course. But I was mad, hit and ashamed, and I ran away. I went to England, and then, unable to bear more suspense, I returned to China."

Cynthia leaned forward eagerly. "And you found there—what?"

CHAPTER 60

A Student Pass

Harcourt, with Cynthia's cager, questioning eyes upon him, sprang to his feet and began to pace back and forth in the sitting-room.

"I went back to China," he repeated. "I found my wife and made her understand that I had not willfully deserted her. But she was dangerously ill, and, shortly after I returned, she died."

"Oh!" breathed Cynthia. "Oh, then you're free now."

He came back to sit beside her and took her slim hands in his.

"Yes. Free to return to you and lay my heart again at your feet. Free to tell my story and to ask you to forgive me for a hideous wrong. Can you have you a word for me? Can you understand and find it in your heart to forgive?"

She smiled inscrutably. It was as though a veil masked her lovely face. "I've one more about the opal."

He shuddered.

"Let us forget it. Every one who has possessed it has been visited by misfortune. And yet, even that is not the fascination when I see it before me."

"Will me what you know about it," Cynthia urged.

He sighed.

"Where it came from originally, no one knows. But its latest history was sinister enough. Somewhere in Asia it was given by a great maharajah to his favorite dancing girl. Later, in a fit of jealously, he stabbed her.

Cynthia shuddered. Her eyes were fixed to the opal on the table beside her, its veiled fires smoldering malevolently.

"After that," Harcourt resumed, "it seems to have figured in a series of tragedies—so much so that it was brought to the attention of the hope that it would be kept there. The rest of the story I have already told you. Nada took it from the temple to show her repudiation of the faith of her ancestors. Eventually it fell into your hands. I don't know what happened to it after you had it. I only know that I ran across it again, a few days ago, and that, in some mysterious way, it gave me courage to come back to you, as I'd always wanted to."

He grasped Cynthia's hands again, pleadingly.

"Cynthia!"

She shook her hex slowly.

"You are too late, Basil. When you—or the night of the opal—gave me back my memory the other day, I remembered other things besides our engagement. I remembered that I married someone else same night that you went away."

He cried out at that.

"Married some one? Whom, in the name of Heaven, did you marry?"

She smiled a trifle wryly.

"I don't know. I don't know his name—yes But that's all I do know."

She saw that he was seriously doubting her sanity, so she hastened to tell him the story of her outraged pride, her wild night ride, her meeting with King Carson, and the hasty marriage in the dawn of a May morning.

"Can't you imagine how horrible it is for me to discover that I did such a mad, mad thing?" she asked earnest by. "Can't you fancy the terror I'm living in? Suppose he should appear at any moment and claim me? And I can't even remember what he looked like! He might be anything, anybody—and he is my husband."

Harcourt wiped his forehead. His eyes showed acute agony.

"You're only jesting, Cynthia. Or else you've imagined the whole affair! Such things don't happen."

She laughed dreamily.

"Alas, but they do. This did, at any rate. I have actual proof. You see, my car was wrecked half-way between here and the town where we obtained a license. When my memory returned, I was able to recall every detail. I didn't dare tell my parents, but I got some one to investigate. He found the record of the marriage in the court-house files. No, there is no shadow of a doubt—I have a husband somewhere in this world." Her voice faltered, but she smiled gallantly into his bewildered eyes. "It's my own fault. I did it of my own free will."

"No," he groaned. "It's my fault. If I hadn't been so cad; if I hadn't been too much of a coward to come out with the truth that night, this thing would never have happened."

Cynthia shrugged and made a little resigned gesture.

"Ah, well, it's too late now. I'm married, and—aren't the remotest idea where my husband is. So married I shall remain for the rest of my days, married to a man I saw only once."

"Nonsense!" he declared, with fran

Do you like a dance frock that flutters and floats as you move, rippling and waving in the stag line like a discreet and graceful little flag? Then here it is new style to please you. It is made in Georgette, silk voile or chiffon with only a pleated backle and bindings of self material for trimming. Two very narrow applied bands of the fabric on the front of the frock repeat the V of the neck, while a belt little divided cape is attached with a V outline a few inches below the shoulders in back. For the wide skirt two sections of drapery come center front around the hip, and fall below the lower edge of the frock in a soft cascade. Note that there are two pieces of the drapery on each side, the upper piece being shorter than the bottom piece.

cried. "And how amazing! What an astounding coincidence! It must be the finger of Fate."

"Or the spell of the opal!" he muttered.

She laughed.

"But this time I think it's going to work for our good. You're no idea," she continued, "what terror and despair I experienced when my memory returned the other day and I realized that I married a man I do not know. I was frantic, at first, but later I decided the only thing to do was to take my medicine and not make a scandal."

He made a violent gesture of negation.

"No, no Cynthia! You can't go on like this. You'll want to marry—heaven knows, I hope you will want to marry me—but, at any rate, you must be freed from this adventurer."

"Don't forget that I was as great, if not more, of an adventurer than he," she reminded him. "And he was a gentleman—I'm sure of that. He was thoroughly courteous and considerate."

"Nevertheless, you must be free," he argued.

She nodded.

"There's another side to it, too," she said gravely. "He may want to be free. Think how he must feel, tied to a girl he does not know. Why, he may be suffering far more than I. He may be wanting to marry some one he loves. You see, he promised me that he'd never day and I realized I annoy me in any way;——And he's kept his promise."

"He seems to have made a jolly fine impression on you," muttered Harcourt jealously.

She wrinkled her pretty brows.

"I try to remember—but I can't. That part of the adventure eludes me. I don't know what he looked like, but I do remember that he seemed very gay and laughing."

There was a long silence, while Harcourt stared frowningly into space.

"Well, what's to be done?" he asked at last.

"Would it be possible for me to meet your friends, Mrs. Lind and Mrs. Kendall? You see, I must do something."

"Your family——" he was beginning, but she cut him short.

"They've had worries enough, poor darlings. I can't tell them this latest catastrophe. No, I must myself into this impasse; now I'll have to get myself out, unaided."

"How can count on me!" he cried. "Cynthia, when it's all adjusted, as it must be, will you marry me?"

She looked at him curiously.

"I don't know. I don't believe I love you. I didn't really love you when you married me—then the wedding day was set. Perhaps your going away was for the best. But I may learn to love you in time; at least, there's no one else."

"And even your mysterious husband —King Carson?"

She flung back her lovely head and laughed.

"How utterly absurd! I knew him just nine hours."

"Love has been born in less time than that," he muttered.

"Impossible!" she scoffed—and didn't guess that Fate winked and made-an entry for future reference!

WOMEN HEAVIEST BUYERS OF CARS

Toronto, Sept. 13.—Women, who are the purchasers of practically every thing used by the modern family, are, unofficially, conceded to be the real purchasers of most of the automobiles too. While statistics show a slight majority of men purchasers, motor car dealers admit that it is practically always the woman who is the actual power behind the throne" in selecting a car. Curiously enough, men depend upon women to buy their pocket books, the proprietors of women buyers of leather goods being 67 per cent, as against 33 per cent., of men buyers according to survey. As purchasers of men's socks, women outnumber the latter by 51 per cent., and there are as many women buy neckties as do men. In the purchase of electrical goods, the score stands four to one in favor of the women. Women, in fact, buy more of almost everything in New York than do men, with the sole exception of automobiles, the statistics indicate, and even here, it is a question as to whether or not more automobiles sales are actually originated by women than by men.

ARE FLAPPERS ANY GOOD FOR OFFICE?

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—Are flappers any good for office work, or is the more mature worker more satisfactory? Opinions here differ on this question, but in New York the flapper and the sheik have been started by the action of the head of a large New York industrial concern, who has swept his personnel clear of young men and bobbed-hair girls and replaced them with middle-aged men and women. The workers up to the age of 70 years. For this drastic step he gives the following reasons:—"Young people are too erratic—they want to make millions in a minute. They work a few weeks and then quit. Older people are better acquainted with life, and are willing to study their trade and work for what they get." On the other hand, A. G. Greenwood, director of personnel for a Toronto manufacturing concern, says that in his experience "between the ages of 18 and 28 is the ideal age for girl workers. They are quick to learn and are the best to keep. The fact that much of their spare time is given up to pleasure does not, in my opinion interfere with their work one bit." Mr. Greenwood found them much more alert than older employees who have set ideas, and when they are the subject of complaint "get the bit between their teeth, and get stubborn."

BITTER FEELING MARKS ELECTION

Language Violent But No Untoward Incident Occurs Yet

London, September 13. — Thirteen hundred election meetings were held throughout the Irish Free State yesterday, beginning at 9 o'clock in the morning and ending at midnight. The contest is providing one of the bitterest as well as one of the most unexpected elections ever held in Ireland.

Near the place where Kevin O'Higgins, vice-president of the Executive Council, was murdered, a wall was placarded the other day with the inscription:

"Move over, Kevin, and make room for Willie." ("Willie" being President Cosgrave.)

After a minister concludes his speech a host of secret service men may be seen closing around him to insure that he gets to his motor car safely. In general, however, the campaign is being conducted peaceably enough as far as acts are concerned but the language of the electoral appeals have been violent in some cases.

Anyone who wants trouble, declared P. J. Hogan, Minister of Agriculture, at a stormy meeting in County Galway, "is going to get it. If there is any one who does not have five men on my side for every one who is howling Any one who thinks fight can have plenty of it."

Some election forecasts give Cosgrave a plurality of about fourteen, but also the number of Independents in the last Dail. This would leave the Government's fortune in the hands of the Independents, who are prepared to sup port the present constitutional government, but not necessarily on other issues.

In such an eventuality, President Cosgrave may decline to continue in office and leave it to Eamon De Valera, head of the Fianna Fail party, to form a coalition in the hope that the minority may grow tired of what he regards as De Valera's impracticability.

The voting will take place on Thursday.

BRITISH BIRTH RATE IS LOWER

London, Sept. 13 (By Canadian Press).—Although there were more births in England and Wales in the second quarter of this year than in the preceding three months, the figure was several thousands less than the corresponding quarter of 1926, the quarterly return of births and deaths issued as a White Paper, these and many other interesting facts are given.

For instance, the birth-rate for the quarter was the lowest recorded in any second quarter except that of 1919; the general death-rate was the lowest recorded in any second quarter; and there were over 2,000 more marriages in the first quarter of the year than in the first quarter of last year.

The births registered numbered 171,080, or 10,375 below the number recorded in the corresponding quarter of 1926. This corresponded to an annual rate of 17.6 per 1000. The deaths registered numbered 107,608, and were quarter of 1926.

6,310 fewer than in the corresponding Influenza was stated to be either a primary or contributory cause of death in 1,702 cases, or 1.67 per cent. of the total deaths.

TAKE HILL TO SECRET GRAVE OF HIS MOTHER

Forced To Enact Sequel To His Alleged Crime; Re-asserts Innocence

Streator, Ills., Sept. 14. — Harry Hill was taken early today to the grave in the basement of his home, where the body of his murdered mother was found and was forced to go through actions he might have followed if he had committed the crime.

His only emotion was to reassert his innocence and to curse at his captors for bringing him to the house and accusing him.

Hill arrived in Cicero early Monday morning after a harrowing trip across the continent by train and automobile. Shortly before daylight he was taken from the jail, it was learned here.

He was accompanied by State's Attorney Russell G. Hansen, Chief of Police Robb and other officers. They went to the large house on one of the principal residential streets of Streator which had been deserted since the body was found almost a month ago.

Ordered to Die

He looked at the shallow hole in the earth silently. Then a deputy handed him a shovel. He was pushed forward and told to "dig in there."

Hill turned a shovelful of earth reluctantly, then put the shovel down.

"Is that the way you did it?" State's Attorney Hansen asked him, according to members of the party.

"I told you I wouldn't say anything until the time came," Hill barked at Hansen.

No Confession

More "prodding" by the officers failed to bring the confession they had hoped might result from the nocturnal visit.

Finally the youth was taken 20 miles back to the county jail at Ottawa.

Utmost secrecy was used by the police to guard Hill's movements. When he was taken from the jail and when he entered a man dressed similarly would precede him and go in another direction.

Authorities feared mob violence or possible abduction by friendly kidnapers.

Year-old twins of St. Charles, Ill., grow up naked and live in a tent, have never been sick.

BLONDE GIRL SWAM LONGEST COURSE

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13. (C.P.)—No lovelier need goodlier look upon the beautiful blonde than was Trecile and otherwise lat beise of temperamental moods. At the recent grueling 21 mile Marathon swim here it was a blonde girl who came farthest, a blonde who stared in the water longest. The only brunette who was awarded a prize was the dark-haired Hedin, the last Toronto girl to leave the water, and she was frightened off by an eel when she visited into her boat. The blondes displayed more prowess of mind than the brunettes and were, on the whole, calmer. The winner entered in the swim certainly showed much stayer endurance, generally upon the map, for, when at last overcome by an official check-up of the swimmers was made, of the 35 women in the swim 15 were 20 years old, with still more of 25 with the terrific endurance test, while only four per cent of the men entered had stuck it out until that time.

Every doctor at the hospital remarked on the physical endurance of the women swimmers who better than the men. The women officials who had examined the girl entrants declared that they had never seen a finer group of women.

PROPHECIES TO HAVE COME TRUE

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 13. (C.P.)—A book of 400 pages has been published containing prophecy that turned out to be true, by Rev. Arthur Pierson, D.D., LL.D., President of the American-Anglo-Saxon movement in the United States. It is called "The Divine Philosophy of the Bible" at a session of the Toronto Branch of the British Israel World Federation Congress here.

Describing the Bible as the book for all humanity, he challenged anyone to spiritual, literary, scientific, historical and poetical value, that was employed in the "business maxims" contained in the Book of Proverbs and the fact that the Anglo-Saxon people of the United States was based on the Ten Commandments." Mr. Medhurst confirmed his belief that the Anglo-Saxon races were the descendants of the lost ten tribes of Israel. The prophecies of Christ and the fulfilment of prophecy differentiated the Bible from any other book, he asserted.

Rev. W. Pearce Goard F.R.G.S., London, England, gave a comprehensive exposition of many books of the Old and New Testaments and demonstrated that the events and happenings therein recorded coincide with the most undoubtable facts of world history.

GAVE WONDERFUL TALK ABOUT THE FRONTIER DAYS

Rev. Principal Oliver Spoke To Ontario And Quebec Delegates

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 14 (By Canadian Press).—Frontiers as the pulse of religious life, with Carlier, Champlain, Evans, Harrison and James Nisbet, of Prince Albert, Sask., as Canadian examples of spiritual pioneering, provided Rev. Principal Oliver of St. Andrew's College, Saskatoon, with a theme in addressing the annual gathering of Presbyterian chairmen of maintenance and extension committees of the United Church held in Victoria College chapel.

"Extension or extinction" was the motto thrown out by William Carey and applicable today, said Rev. Dr. Oliver in the closing address of the two-day conference. Dealing with the national committee of direction of the United Church's maintenance and extension fund convened under the chairmanship of J. H. Gundy.

Speaking to the Ontario and Quebec delegates as vice-chairman of the committee of direction, Principal Oliver reminded them of the labors of several hundred Eastern college students during the present Sunday on the hardest home mission fields of the four Western provinces. He had found them calling faithful and intelligent pastoral work and effectively presenting foreign mission needs to the settlers on the prairies. Saskatchewan had never had better student preachers than those who labored in the province this summer. CARE OF BREEDING FLOCK

(Experimental Farms Note)

The quantity and quality of the product which the sheep-breeder will have to market the following year are largely determined by the care which the flock received during the latter months, September to November, and the spring months from March until June. While most breeders realize the influence which proper care at lambing time will have on the number of good lambs raised, few consider the breeding season and the period just preceding it as worthy of any especial attention; and yet the old slogan of live stock breeders, "Breed, Feed and Breed," can be applied at this time to as good or better advantage than at any other period in the year. At this time the breeder should select the sire of his next year's crop of lambs. Nothing but a good pure-bred should be used; one that has been inspected and passed as a good representative of the breed. Strict selection of the ewes should also be practised, and all those of poor mutton and wool type should be culled; also those that do not prove themselves poor breeders. Any ewe which is a poor mother, regardless of distinct loss to the owner and should not be be retained in the flock.

At the Experimental Farm, Nappan, Nova Scotia, figures have been collected on the average cost of keeping a ewe for a year, and the results in which may be expected when the flock is carefully selected and thus culled. The average yearly feed cost of a ewe, over a period of six years, is $8.72. The profit over feed cost is $8.46. A non-breeding ewe returns only her wool to pay for her keep. The average value of this is $1.40, and the loss to her owner is $14.78 per year. The ewe which is a poor milker, and rears only a small lamb, returns on the average $7.20, which is not enough to pay for her feed.

All lambs should have been weaned about the last of August. The ewes are handled for three weeks or more in September on clover aftermath or rape supplemented with a small amount of grain, such as oats and bran. Ewes which are in good condition and gaining in flesh at lambing time, will drop and raise a larger percentage of lambs than ewes in poor condition. At the Nappan Farm twenty ewes which were not flushed dropped twenty-four lambs and raised twenty-three of them. Twenty-four ewes pastured on clover aftermath dropped forty lambs and raised thirty-three. Allow the ewes to remain on the clover or rape for only a few hours a day when first put on this feed or bloating will result. After breeding, the ewes may be wintered on good clover hay and turnips with little or no grain until shortly before lambing time.

BELLE THEATRE

Fox Films screen version of Rene Fauchois' sensational mystery play "The Monkey Talks" is graced with an assemblage of stellar players of more than the usual talent and popularity. This picture which opens tomorrow at the Belle theatre was directed by Raoul Walsh, who filmed the photoplay adaptation of Laurence Stallings and Maxwell Anderson's great drama "What Price Glory."

In "The Monkey Talks" Olive Borden, who won international success in "Old Ironsides" and "The Cohens and The Kellys," and "The Country Beyond," is cast in the role of Olivette, the vivid figure in the development of the mystery. Jane Winton, one of the newest of screen favorites is cast in a feature role along with Raymond Hitchcock, one of America's best loved stage stars, Malcolm Waite and August Tollaire. Two Features.

The sensuous Northwest, with its Sasqua sheep ranches and its internal feuds of longstanding, is used as a back ground for "Whispering Sage," thrilling Fox Films Western in which Buck Jones is starred. Madge Bellamy, Joyce Dunbar and Lee Shumway support the star. Dunlap directed the picture which will have a three day showing at the Belle Theatre commencing tomorrow. Two features.

YANKEES WINNER OF 1927 PENNANT

Pittsburg Increased Lead By One Game With Double Win Over Boston

New York, September 14.—The Yankees won the 1927 American League pennant by taking both games of the doubleheader from Cleveland at the Yankee Stadium this afternoon. Babe Ruth had an important hand in the clinching ceremonies by registering a home run in each game to bring his season's total to fifty-two. A crowd of about 25,000 was on hand and witnessed the two victories, both by scores of 3—2.

The Indians furnished excellent competition in both battles, but the balance of bat power decided both skirmishes and in the hitting department the Yankees grouped their drives, as they have all season, at times when they would do the most good. The Yankees trailed in the first game until the seventh inning, when Ruth's homer with one on base tied the score; then the Yanks went on to win. Again in the second game it was the Babe's homer in the fourth frame that deadlocked the count, and started the four-run rally that took all the fight out of the Indians.

In winning the flag it marks the second straight pennant conquest for the Yankees, and the fifth under the management of Miller Huggins. This fifth triumph incidentally equals the American League record, which was held by Connie Mack, of the Athletics.

With 98 victories and only 49 defeats on their slate, including yesterday's game, the Yankees have an excellent chance to break the American League record for total wins in a season. This mark was set at 105 by the Boston Red Sox in 1912. The major league mark, 116 victories, hung up by the Chicago Cubs in 1906, is out of their reach.

The Yankees have set a few new clinging records already this season that may stand for some time. The spectacular Ruth-Gehrig battle has enabled them to break the major league club record for total home runs. Two by Ruth yesterday, along with eleven by Pat Collins and Earl Combs, brought the Yanks' aggregate up to 147, five more than the record of 140 set by the Chicago Nationals in 1894. The American League's former record, 134, was set by the Yankees in 1921 when Ruth hung up his high individual mark of 59.

The Athletics stopped the offerings of Connally and Jacobs for 19 hits and trounced the Chicago White Sox at Philadelphia by a score of 15 to 5. Although Lefty Graves was forced to retire in favor of Rube Walberg in the sixth, he was given credit for the victory.

Timely hitting gave the Senators a double victory at Washington over the Tigers, who dropped the second game of a doubleheader, 6 to 2, after taking the first, 3 to 2.

Boston came from behind in both ends of a doubleheader at Boston to defeat the St. Louis Browns, 5 to 4 in 13 innings, and then 2 to 2.

ST. LOUIS AND GIANTS DIVIDED

Double Victory Over Cleveland Gave Huggins 5th League Flag

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 14.—The Giants and Cardinals fell upon each other with great violence here yesterday afternoon in the doubleheader, which opened the crucial seven-game grapple that is to be completed here within the next three days, and is to determine which of the two is to carry on in the scathing pennant race, and which is to remain behind. After close to five hours of intensive battling, during which a sweltering crowd of more than 30,000 went through an entire gamut of human emotions, no decisive result was reached. The Giants' decision was reached. The Giants' after being thrown for a loss by Bill Cherdel in the opener, 5 to 2, came back in the second and almost tore the Cardinals apart, as they trounced the world's champions 12 to 5.

The unaccompanying stand taken by the rival factions, neither was able to show any profit, and what was even more painful, both succeeded in sustaining a loss for while they were so engaged in battering each other to a standstill, the crafty Pirates snapped two from the Braves, thereby gaining a full game and increasing their lead to three games over the Warring parties in this city, over the Warring parties in this city. Last night a fear was growing here that if this state of affairs continued the Pirates and Cards may succeed in knocking each other out.

It was a tumultuous afternoon. A terrific heat wave which seemed to reach its zenith immediately with the arrival of the Giants added to the intensity of feeling, and there was much fretting and fuming here around. There was also complaint from the crowd when Larry Benton beaned Frankie Frisch in the first inning of the opener.

There was an even greater belch when several players became embroiled in an argument because one contested on the second that he considered another had tagged him out with greater force than exigency demanded. There was a yell of frenzied joy as the Cards won the opener and a grain of despair as Rogers Hornsby, fielder leader of the crowd from the Bronx, threw his gallant fighters in to a crushing victory in the nightcap.

COLLECTED ASHES FROM M. P.'S PIPE

Calgary, Alta., Sept. 13.—Souvenir hunters are known to do some very peculiar stunts in pursuit of their hobby, but surely that is one of the most unusual. Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin recently had just such done to him at the station at Calgary shortly after his arrival when he decided to empty his pipe surreptitiously he knocked the ashes out onto the floor of the waiting room. A woman standing near hastily swept up the ashes and put them into an envelope. Possibly there was some tobacco left and henceforth she or her hubby will place it in a pipe and be able to say, "I smoked a pipe with England's Prime Minister."

FLIERS SAVE BLIND MAN

Holyrood, Nfld., Sept. 13.—Pilot Wood and A. C. (Duke) Schiller, who interrupted in Newfoundland their projected flight from Winnipeg, Ont. to Windsor, England, today risked their lives in rescuing a blind man from a burning house at Bellegrave, 12 miles from here. Four farm houses were destroyed when a forest fire swept a large area near that settlement.

TWO KILLED; FIFTY INJURED

Poona, British India, Sept. 13.—A despatch from Schollapur, Bombay, states that two persons were killed and fifty injured, in rioting between Hindus and Moslems which took place Saturday and Sunday. The police are said to be in control now.

BASS POUNDED WAY TO VICTORY

Philadelphia, Pa., September 14.—In a sensational ten-round match which almost ended in a simultaneous knockout in the ninth round, Benny Bass, of Philadelphia, battered his way to victory last night over Paul Chapman in a bout that carried with it recognition by the Pennsylvania, State Athletic Commission as featherweight champion of the world.

Coming out of their corners in the ninth round with a furious rush, both connected solidly with lefts to the head. Bass reeled back and tumbled to the floor, Chapman in the centre of the ring and Bass along the ropes. But Benny recovered quickest, was on his feet in a second or two, while Chapman rested on one knee and took a count of eight.

Bass himself seemed groggy, but he leaped back at his opponent with savage fury, forced him about the ring under a fierce barrage, and carried another left to the head that sent Chapman to the floor again for a count of eight.

Chapman was all but out, reeling about and bracing himself on the ropes, but he managed gamely to weather the storm as Bass fought himself calm in a vain attempt to score a knockout. Both were so exhausted from this thrilling round that they had little left and spent most of the tenth and final round clinching.

CARSON CHOSEN QUEEN'S COACH

Kingston, Sept. 14.—Official announcement was made by the Athletic Board on Control of Queen's University on Tuesday morning that Prof. Orin Carson, has been appointed honorary coach of the senior rugby team for this fall. mm rt

Prof. Carson played at inside wing for Queen's for four years up to 1924, and has always been recognized as a most capable footballer. He will assume the duties at once and will be in charge of the first practice which will be held on Thursday.

Announcement was also made that the Toronto Argonauts of the Interprovincial Union will play an exhibition game with Queen's at the Richardson Stadium on Saturday, October 8th. This will be the first game of the season, and in view of the presence of "Pee Wee" Chantler, former Queen's star on the lineup of the Double Blue, a great crowd of fans is expected.

Great preparations are being made for the opening game of the intercollegiate union here on October 22nd., when Varsity play Queen's and graduates are being asked to come to Kingston for the game. "On to Kingston for the Varsity game," is the slogan which is being sent out, and it is hoped that hundreds of graduates will gather at the Richardson Stadium for the big game.

SLEW OLD FRIEND OVER 12 DEBTS

Altoona, Pa., Sept. 13.—John Ayers, 66, of Claysburg, was today the confessed slayer of a lifelong friend, Albert Mack, 68, because of non-settlement of a $2 debt. District Attorney Marion D. Patterson said Ayers told him he beat his friend with an axe when he failed to settle the debt.

KEEP KIDNEYS CLEAN DRINK MORE WATER

Eating too much rich food may produce kidney trouble in some forms, says a well-known authority, because the acids created excite the kidneys. Then they become overworked, get sluggish, clog up and cause all sorts of distress, particularly backache and misery in the kidney region, rheumatic pains, severe headaches, acid stomach, constipation, torpid liver, sleeplessness, bladder and urinary irritation.

The moment your back hurts or kidneys aren't acting right, or if bladder bothers you, begin drinking lots of good water and also get about four ounces of Jad Salts from any good pharmacy; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to flush clogged kidneys and stimulate them to activity; also to neutralize the acids in the system so that they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts can not injure anyone; makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink which millions of men and women take now and then to help keep the kidneys and urinary organs clean, thus often avoiding serious kidney disorders.

STEADY TRAINING THING OF PAST

Champion Believes He Will Prove It In Bout With Dempsey

By GENE TUNNEY

World's Heavyweight Champion

In my opinion the old days of intensive training for boxing matches are about over. The young fellows coming into the game now and working their way up to the top of their divisions are discovering that intensive training is no longer necessary.

I expect to prove it in my coming fight with Jack Dempsey. Last year I believe I worked a little too hard, right at the last at Stroudsburg, and it took the keen edge off my fighting instinct. I couldn't have done otherwise, because I had not fought for a year before I met Dempsey and five minutes of that time was spent making motion pictures, during which time I had very little opportunity to box.

Right after the Philadelphia fight, however, I decided to try something different. I decided that I would not hold off until the last moment and then go at it hard, intensive training and risk losing my vitality.

This has proved comparatively easy for me because by nature I live conservatively and am always in pretty good shape. The plan I followed was to do a little road work and a little boxing every week whether I had a fight in sight or not, and thus keep myself fit. Even down in Florida last winter, when I was supposed to be "resting," I did a little of it, sometimes among my friends because I would get up at 6 o'clock in the morning and go around the neighboring golf course in order to get in my road work.

I found that by keeping the same pace I would not have to risk the dangerous sweating process just before the fight. When I knew I was going to fight Dempsey again I went up to Speculator, N. Y., Throughout the summer I have boxed there, sometimes only two or three times a week, but enough to keep me in shape. And it has had its results. A month ago I found myself within four pounds of the weight I expect to make for Dempsey.

I look better, feel better and know my punch is faster and hit harder this year than I did last. Tiguet who saw me in Philadelphia commented on the fact that I always appeared fat on my feet. This year they will find me in my toes every minute that I am in the ring.

The only intensive training I will have to stop up my pace about a week before the fight, just to put the finishing touches on my condition.

The only danger lying in my method of training is the chance of going stale. I shall watch myself carefully, and I do. If I should find myself getting into this condition I would knock off work for a day, get as far away from the camp as possible, forget boxing and eat all the chicken my stomach could hold. That would bring me around in a day.

Sixteen paroles were granted from Ohio Penitentiary.

"MRS. PAT" TRIES TO SAVE STAGE

Making Addresses In England To Save Diction Of The Drama

London, Sept. 10.—Mrs. Patrick Campbell, who hates to be, but is, called "Mrs. Pat", is making a number of addresses in England in an effort to save the diction of the British stage from "being overwhelmed by the jerky naturalism" into which she says many youthful actors are falling in the belief that plays, especially ultra-modern plays, must be spoken in the easy style of the lounge.

"Beautiful speech," the famous actress warns, "is the first and great subtle weapon in the actor's armory."

Many modern actors, who lack the thorough training of more experienced players, fail to speak distinctly enough to make themselves heard, she declares, and seem utterly insignificant to their audiences because of their feeble efforts to be realistic and natural.

She finds that much of the socalled naturalness of the stage of today is little short of carelessness and lack of training and pleads for more "vocal color."

COAL NOT ONLY MERE FIRE FUEL

Pittsburgh, Sept. 10.— European scientists appreciate that "coal is not primarily a fuel but contains raw products to make things out of," declared Dr. Thomas S. Baker, President of Carnegie Institute of Technology here, upon his return from a trip abroad.

Coal's potentialities are particularly appreciated in Germany, according to Dr. Baker, where "there has been a most striking development in synthetic fertilizers in connection with coal — the outgrowth of the fixed nitrogen process developed during the war. It is a matter of very great economic force to the country and farm productivity has been greatly increased.

"A great deal of the enormous success that the German Chemical Trust is having centers around the chemistry of coal," Dr. Baker said.

"While Germany has lost its monopoly of dyes, it is developing other processes that are of great importance to modern industry. This trust is said to be producing synthetic gasoline at a total cost of 8 cents.

BRITISH RADIOISTS HEAR WALES VOICE

London, Sept. 10.—British radio fans had no difficulty in recognizing the voice of the Prince of Wales when he spoke at the recent opening of the Peace Bridge across the Niagara river.

The British Broadcasting Corporation picked up the speech from the short-wave station at Schenectady, and relayed it through all their stations.

Relaying of programmes from the United States is likely to become an important feature in the British program in the coming season., it is now said.

Count Gottfried Bismarck, grandson of Germany's Iron Chancellor, who has been spending a few days in Winnipeg and the Canadian West studying agricultural and wheat marketing methods of Canada, is visiting also Chicago, Ottawa and Toronto. No person in Germany contemplates the return of the Kaiser, Count Bismarck believes. Germany wants to forget the war and all that went with it, her only ambition now being to rebuild after the wreck of conflict, he said. Count Bismarck has been much intrigued by what he has seen and would like to spend more time in Canada.

ASBESTOS CHIEF QUEBEC PRODUCT

Quebec, Sept. 10.—As was most appropriate, the main paper presented at the first Quebec meeting of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress on September 5th dealt with that Province's most important Mining industry—asbestos—an interesting account of which was given by Capt. Jas. G. Ross of Montreal.

The Quebec asbestos deposits are situated in the Black Lake-Thetford and adjacent districts in the eastern townships, within easy reach of both Quebec and Montreal, and it may be said that the modern demand for asbestos products of all kinds has been entirely created by the development of these deposits, prior to their exploitation the world's consumption of, and demand for, asbestos products was relatively trifling.

Production last year amounted to 270,460 tons of all grades with a value of $10,009,4423 and an idea of the dimensions of the mining and milling operations may be gained from the fact that during the year nearly 4 1-2 million tons of rock were mined and over 4 million tons were handled by the mills. The Quebec mines supplied practically the whole of the world's requirements in the lower grades of asbestos, and about "one-half of the higher grades."

Capt. Ross pointed out that most of the balance also came from British Empire sources, shipments from South Africa during the year amounting to 14,000 tons and including a large proportion of long fibre, of which Rhodesia is at present the world's main source. Cyprus, the only other important producing country, made an output of 9,941 tons.

There are now eight firms producing asbestos in the Eastern Townships, with capital totalling approximately $25,000,000 and they employment to some 2,700 men, so that the industry is, in every way, of the first importance to Quebec and also to Canada as a whole.

It is unfortunate that, as pointed out by Capt. Ross, a very large proportion of the asbestos is exported to points in the United States in the raw condition, with the consequence that Canada loses most of the benefit that would be derived from a domestic asbestos manufacturing industry, and the advantage of the changed price of the finished products. It is therefore gratifying to note that this state of affairs is gradually changing and that rich new fields are being developed, products are being made in Canada there being at the present time eight plants engaged in their manufacture. However, this is still a long way from the 49 establishments so engaged in the United States.

TORONTO FAMILY TO RECEIVE PAYMENT FOR SEIZED VESSEL

U. S. Government Must Pay Accumulated Interest Since 1819

Washington, D. C., Sept. 14 (By Canadian Press)—More than one hundred years ago the clerk of a New York district court embezzled $2,999.25. His peculation has just cost the Government of the United States $23,044.38. A cheque for the latter amount is being issued by the United States Treasury to Canadian heirs of forefathers owned the schooner Lord Nelson, which was seized by American on Lake Ontario on June 5, 1812.

The British-American war of that year was not declared until about two weeks later. Five years later the court of the northern district of New York decided that the capture of the Lord Nelson was illegal. The schooner—or the meantime had been libelled, sold to the United States Navy for $2,999.25 and the proceeds were placed in the custody of the same court which now reversed its decision. The war being over, the court was ashamed to make amends and decreed that the owners, a Toronto family named Crooks, were at least entitled to the proceeds of the sale. The schooner itself had been converted into a war vessel and used against the British forces in the war of 1812. Apparently there was not enough left of the Lord Nelson to return to the owners.

It is quite likely that if the clerk of the court had not embezzled the little fund, the money would have been paid over and the incident forgotten. But the money having disappeared there was delay in getting the cheque issued to the Canadian owners. That delay for one reason and another was so prolonged that in 1827 the claimants were still suing the United States Government for their money. Committees of Congress had repeatedly recommended the payment of the claim and apparently the United States Navy Department felt that it should tie generous in dealing with the claimants. The secretary of the Navy, after an investigation by a special committee decided that $5,000 was a reasonable settlement. In the case might have been settled except that the secretary's decision had the distinctly specified that $5,000 was the principal of the award, the question of interest immediately arose. So the case was dragged on, with the British Government pressing for settlement. It was submitted to a duly organized principle in International Law awarded not only the value of the property wrongfully seized but also the value of its use. In 1813 the case came before the British and American claims arbitrators, of whom Sir Chas. Fitzpatrick was one and the counsel representing Great Britain was E. L. Newcombe, now on the Canadian Supreme Court Bench. The arbitrators here decided that the United States must pay $5,000 for the ship, plus interest at four per cent. from February 5, 1819 to April 26, 1912.

Along with a great many others the Lord Nelson claim appeared to have been put aside until the world-wide general question of pecuniary claims outstanding between British Governments and the United States were settled under the agreement of 1910. The claims arbitrators held a number of sittings between 1912 and the end of 1925, sometimes sitting in Ottawa, sometimes in London, and sometimes in Washington. It is understood that the actual payment of the awards is now going forward. A number of other Canadians will benefit financially but none have waited quite so long as have the heirs of the owner of the Lord Nelson.

PRINCE'S FARM TO BE MOST MODERN

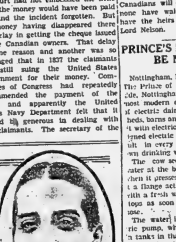

Nottingham, Eng., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—The Prince of Wales's farm at Trent-side, Nottingham, will shortly be the most modern example to the township of Nottingham in farming. The cowsheds, barns and granaries are all being built of concrete, with a cleverly designed electric pump and flange pit to do operations in connection with manuring without water supply for itself.

The cow sees a small quantity of water at the bottom of its stall, and then it presses its nose down to get at a flange set and flushes the trough with a fresh water supply. The water top as soon as the animal lifts its nose.

The water is obtained by an electric pump, which stores 6,000 gallons in tanks in three and a half hours.

The Prince has also decided to reconstruct practically the whole farm-house and make it twice its present size.

Japanese beetles are used as bait by the fishermen of Yardley, Pa.

France's first victory in the Davis Cup competition was due to the great playing of these two players. Rene Lacoste, ABOVE, won both his singles matches, defeating both the Hills-Tilden and Johnston—while Henri Cochet, below, was victor over the latter in the deciding match of the series.

WIND PHENOMINA BEING STUDIED

Involves Actual Production Of Miniature Hurricanes And Wind Pressures

Washington, Sept. 10.—Wind pressures and wind phenomena are now being studied by the Bureau of Standards by methods that involve the actual production of miniature hurricanes, and for purposes that touch upon problems in a half dozen fields of human enterprise.

Air pressure that can be produced by gales is being worked out to a definite gauge for the bridge and building builder; while for the automobile industry the tests will determine how much power is required to move a machine against a breeze, and for the aviator the experiments are aimed at determining the proper shapes and curvature of the wings to reduce air resistance, the stresses that materials must endure, and the effects that propellers may attain.

Originally, the bureau's work started in wind tunnels, which are tubes of various lengths and sizes, through which air is blown in measured speed and quantity, while the models of objects under test are held in the current. Attached gauges show the pressure encountered. Now the work is moved outside, and one of the experiments contained of a smooth, thirty feet high and ten feet in diameter, erected on a laboratory roof. By a special type of motor driven by a specially improved set of mesh gears the research men expect to measure actually the force of wind which the stack has to withstand during a period of its exposure, and gather data of value to stack constructors generally.

TO EXTRACT OIL FROM POOR COAL

Quebec, Sept. 10.—It is certain that much Canadian coal, and particularly coal of inferior value and sortings, as the national resource of Canada, is of great importance, even if it cannot profitably furnish this commodity for normal burning, is the statement made by Alfred W. Nash, of London, England, in a paper on "Possible Auxiliary Sources of Liquid Fuel."

Attempts to devise commercial process for the extraction of motor spirit, fuel and other oils, from low-grade coal have been made with considerable measure of success in recent years. The two best-known methods are the Fischer-Tropsch modification, and by the process named, after its inventor, the Bergius process. In the former, a tax is obtained without "cracking" yields motor spirit and other oils. The Bergius process consists essentially of the action of hydrogen, under pressure of 150 to 200 atmospheres, and at 400 to 450 degrees centigrade. The yield from one ton of coal is stated by Mr. Nash as follows: 525 kilograms of oil, which can be resolved into 100 kgm. or refined motor spirit, 200 kgm of Diesel oil, with the balance in lubricating and fuel oils; 210 kgm. of gas; 5 kgm. of ammoniacal and 240 kgm of coke.

The commercial success of such processes must of course depend on the price of well-oil, but as this may be expected to increase with diminishing supplies, the general introduction of coal as a source of oils of all kinds would appear, however, to be only a question of time. In Western Canada we have enormous reserves of low grade coal which should be amenable to treatment.

Mr. Nash also made extended reference to the vast deposits of bituminous sand along the Athabasca river, which may be treated to yield liquid fuels, though not profitably at present prices. They, however, must

NAPANEE ROBBERY

Napanee, Sept. 14.—Albert Laborte, Jr., John Bann, Armand Laplante, Albert Wilfred and Monohan Frederick, all of Montreal, were arrested in Napanee on Monday night by Traffic Officers Boyle and Night Constable Cook on suspicion of breaking into the Bills general store conducted by Mrs. Shea on the Kingston highway near Stormont, east of Napanee. The five men were arrested shortly after eleven o'clock.

HOLE IN ONE

Brockville, Sept. 14.—Capt. F. L. Ritchie, of the Brockville Country Club, achieved the summit of his ambition on Sunday morning when he holed his tee shot at the first hole. The captain was playing in a four-ball game with J. R. A. Laing as his partner against Dr. W. K. Ross and J. G. Gardner.

RETURNS FROM ENGLAND

Kingston, Sept. 14.—Dr. R. Bruce Taylor, Principal of Queens University, who has returned from England and the Continent, where he spent a few months, declares himself as amazed at the increase of interest in Great Britain. "Everywhere in Britain," said Principal Taylor, "I was struck by the fact that drinking seems to be dropping off. As a matter of fact, the tea shops seem to be taking the place of the 'pubs.' Many places which were reeking with drunks some years ago have spruced up greatly."

FEW NEW CASES

Oshawa, Sept. 14.—Development of one new diphtheria case in Oshawa has resulted in increased activity by the Public Health Department to ward off any further spread of the epidemic. Happily, since the death of one child at the beginning of the outbreak, there have been no fatalities.

Parents are asked to cooperate with the department in this matter, particularly complaining of sore throats, especially if accompanied with any signs of running a temperature, and, in showing symptoms which, while not peculiar to the disease, often indicate the first stage of diphtheria.

At that stage, by prompt action, the child can be saved from the grave results which follow neglect, it is pointed out. Oshawa's diphtheria epidemic is such small proportions as to be hardly worthy of the name, but parents can render effective service in the matter by letting no symptom of further development escape their attention.

SON CALLED BUT MOTHER SAID NO

Montreal, Que., Sept. 13 (By Canadian Press).—A tragic story is told in the following letter from Mrs. R. Nash, of St. Sauveur, to the local paper. "Kenneth Alfred Nash, my son, now 15 years old, has fair hair, blue round features, has been absent from home five years. Last Sunday morning he called at the door where mother and dad rang the bell; then called through the letter: 'Is that you, Mamma?'

"And not thinking of my boy at the time, I said 'No, your mamma's not here.'

"I have since been told that it was my son Kenneth. But I have not seen nor heard of my boy since."

Ruth Elder Hopes to be First Woman Flyer to Cross Atlantic---Canada Honored By League

PRETTY GIRL FLIER DEFIES DEATH IN ATTEMPTING ATLANTIC FLIGHT

Miss Ruth Elder Determined To Be First Girl To Cross

START SUNDAY

Despite Recent Tragedies Plucky Girl Is Unperturbed

New York, Sept. 15.—A pretty twenty-three year old girl flyer who talked laughingly of the adventure in which ten persons have disappeared, today was at the starting point of her projected flight to Paris, eager to be the first woman to cross the Atlantic by air.

Miss Ruth Elder, of Lakeland, Florida, swooped down from Long Island Roosevelt field last night with her copilot, Capt. George Haldeman after covering 650 miles from Wheeling West Virginia and immediately began the final preparations for taking off on her 3,610 mile flight across the seas on Sunday morning.

"We have everything ready to leave Sunday except the weather" the pretty pilot said. "Captain Haldeman and I are ready, plane dandy, Pilots o.k. Give us weather break and we'll take off then."

"I've been deciding and planning this ever since I first learned to fly two and years ago. Then Lindbergh did it and I was more determined. I want to be the first girl to turn the trick. I'll do it, I and Capt. Haldeman."

MISS AMERICA

53RD ANNIVERSARY OF MARRIED LIFE

The Rev. A. L. and Mrs. Geen returned last evening from celebrating the fifty-third anniversary of their wedding which took place on the 4th, Sept. 1874.

Mr. R. Gorden Geen came from Guelph and took the parents for a motor drive to Toronto, Guelph, Georgetown and other places in the west. They spent Sunday at Guelph where Mr. Geen Jr., is the organist of the beautiful St. George's Church. St. George's is a very handsome edifice, the pulpit and Chancel trimming are of carved walnut. The newly installed organ is a four manual and is capable of wonderful expression under its capable organist.

St. George's has also a chime of bells the melody of which is much enjoyed as it floats over the beautiful city. At the request of the Rector, the Venerable Archdeacon Scott, Rev. Mr. Geen preached to a large congregation. While in Guelph the party inclding Mrs. Ernest Geen was entertained at the palatial home of Mr. and Mrs. Cotton. The grounds about the residence is one of the beauty spots of Guelph.

PLAN TEACHERS TRAINING SCHOOL

Rev. R. B. Terris, Supt. of the Ontario Religious Education Council, in connection with ministers and Sunday School workers from Bancroft, South Hastings and Prince Edward, at the Y.M.C.A. Belleville on Tuesday, Sept. 13th, set plans in operation for the holding of a Standard Training Course for Sunday School Teachers to be held in Belleville, Oct. 10-14 each evening for a two-hour period. The following committee of administration was appointed: Rev. W. J. B. Smith, Secty; Rev. S. F. Dixon, Dr. Mallott, D. C. Ramsay, H. F. L. Seymour, Chairman; Rev. C. E. Clarke, A. A. Jones.

The object of the school is the study of the best methods of Sunday School teaching and work. And the needs of the constituted conference will be the basis on which text books for the course will be chosen.

Fuller announcements will be made later In the meantime all interested in the School are requested to reserve the dates, Oct. 10-14.

BANDITS GET $75,000 IN GEMS

MOTHER TO ATTEND

Mrs. Cella Dempsey To Occupy Ringside Seat At Championship Bout

Kansas City, Sept. 15.—Satisfied that her son, Jack Dempsey, is "getting along all right" at Chicago, Mrs. Cella Dempsey today apparently was chiefly concerned about securing a ringside seat from which to watch his fight Gene Tunney. "It will be the first championship fight I have seen my boy appear in," she said.

PLAN RECEPTION FOR SIR ARTHUR

Veterans Only Ones Admitted To Charter Night Program

Belleville citizens will on Saturday of this week, have the opportunity of welcoming for the first time, one of Canada's distinguished soldiers, scholars, statesmen and orators in the person of General Sir Arthur Currie, G.C.B., G.C.M.G., L.L.D, Principal of McGill University.

Sir Arthur is coming here on the invitation of the local branch of the Canadian Legion to grace the charter of them. He was scheduled to speak in Brighton on Sunday but arrangements were made to have him stop off at Belleville.

Sir Arthur, who was the idol of the Canadian forces overseas, consented without a moments hesitation when the subject was broached. The program has not yet been formally arranged for his visit but he will be the sole auspices of the Canadian Legion and announcement will be made tomorrow.

Col. E. D. O'Flynn, one of the officers of the local branch, was in telephone communication with Sir Arthur this morning and he stated he would arrive here on the Canadian National Limited on Saturday afternoon at 5.

Canadian Legion officials will meet the guest at the depot and accompany him to the Armories where a reception is being planned.

Sir Arthur stated this morning that he would be pleased to meet the wives friends and mothers of veterans who are still living as well as those who fell in the struggle. After the reception the General will go to dinner after which he will present the charter in the City Hall at 8.30.

Owing to the lack of accommodation in the City Hall, it has been made necessary to limit those admitted. Veterans wearing buttons, medals or ribbons denoting their service in the British or Canadian forces will be the only one who will be allowed a seat. General Currie will return to Brighton early Sunday morning to dedicate the Soldiers Memorial in that town.

Decoration Day

The Legion are especially anxious that citizens decorate their homes on this day, and there is no reason why it can not be duplicated on this auspicious occasion.

FINED DRIVER FOR RECKLESS DRIVING

Alex. Cooderham, of Toronto, was found guilty of reckless driving before Magistrate Bedford at Deseronto this afternoon and fined twenty-five dollars and costs.

It will be recalled that on July 11th last automobiles driven by Coodrham and Mrs. Walter Patterson of this city collided near Marysville. Coodrham was charged with reckless driving. It is expected that a civil case will also follow this collision.

D. C. A. Clemens of this city represented the defendant.

PROMISE OF RELIEF WELCOMED BY WEST

Chicago, Sept. 15.—Buoyed by the promise of relief before another sun shall rise the best stirred middle west today pressed to endure a fourth day of the protected heat wave which has broken all September heat records and caused a score of deaths. Weather officials promised another blistering day before the cool area at present traveling down from the Canadian ranges would make itself felt upon the suffering Central plains and valleys of Missouri, Mississippi and Ohio.

UNIQUE METHOD TO HONOR MEMORY OF LOST FLIERS

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 15.—Eight hundred thousands of floral pieces will be thrown upon the sea, the liner Lurline sailed out through the golden gate by Hawaii yesterday to pay tribute to the memory of the seven fliers lost in the Pacific as a result of the "hop" aerial derby which started August 16. The flowers, blessed at the inter-denominational services at the Grace Cathedral on the Pacific seven hundred miles from shore. One of the floral pieces was given by the school children of Cairo, Mich., who were taught by Miss Mildred Doran, formerly of Kgane ville, Ont., who started with six men in an attempt to blaze the trail over the Pacific through the air. It was made of straw flowers in the shape of a Bible. It had a cork base and was expected to float indefinitely. This floral piece was three feet wide and four feet long.

TWO KILLED IN TROLLEY CRASH

Thrown Through Windshield As Auto Plows Into Street Car

Hull, Que., Sept. 15.—Juliette St. Amand, 18, of Val Tetreau, Que., and were killed when an automobile in Abraham St. Louis, 40, of Prescott, which they were riding was struck by a Hull electric street car late last night. They died within a few minutes of the accident. John Horan, William Warren, of Prescott, and Alder Brosseau, Hull, escaped with minor bruises and injuries. Warren, the driver of the car was taken into custody today and will be held as a material witness. According to statements of the victims, Warren was turning the automobile around when he noticed the street car approaching. It seemed to him, he said ,that trolley was stopped so he drove directly in front of it and crashed. Miss St. Amand and Mr. St. Louis who were sitting in the front seat with the driver were thrown partly through the front window of the auto and were pinned underneath it as the car turned over.

MELLOR CASE IS LAID OVER FOR ONE MORE WEEK

Third Application For Bail Is Refused By Magistrate Williams

NOT POLITICAL

Conservatives Only Ones Willing To Help Ex-Pastor Get Freed

Counsel for Rev. J. J. Mellor is renewing efforts to secure bail for the interdenominational preacher now in jail with a serious charge hanging over him. Another application was made yesterday, but the third time Magistrate Williams refused the request.

The hearing of the case against Mellor has been moved forward another week from September 22nd to the 29th, at 2. Next week Rev. Mellor will be fully occupied this week end with the Harvest home services he is committed to the extra adjournment but the prisoner will have to spend the additional week in jail.

Willing to Help

The application has been made that the Conservatives were trying to make political capital out of the trials and tribulations of the pro-Rassyite Pastor, but when bail was first sought the only two men willing to go on the bond were Mr. Mellor were John Hubbs, Conservative member of Parliament, and Horace S. Colliver, former Conservative member of the Ontario Legislature. Both these men are prominent members of Picton United Church and have found that a hard place to worship owing to the performances of the political pastor, but when Mr. Mellor was in trouble it discovered that the man he had made uncomfortable in the pews were the only ones willing to do him a good turn.

Employed in Theatre

When just a young man, the Rev. Mellor was a hard worker and eager to enter the ministry. This information has been obtained from Mr. and Mrs. G. M. Bacon. 4 Hillside Ave., this city, for whom the minister worked when he was a youth. That dominating spirit that was to make him one of the highest paid Union Church ministers in this circuit fired him to secure money by hook or by crook and he hired himself out to the theatre to pay his way through the college course that would make him one of God's ministers.

Per people here years J. J. Mellor worked for G. M. Bacon, who at that time owned a farm on the fourth Concession of Thurlow.

A Barnardo Home boy, Mellor was brought to this country when just a boy, and despite the serious charges which now face him, many are found in their praises for the Home boy who by hard work and industriousness, has risen to the position he occupies.

Speaking to The Intelligencer today Mrs. G. M. Bacon said: "He was a good boy, intelligent, hard working and clever. He worked for us on my husband's farm on the fourth Concession of Thurlow for nearly three years, and in those days I would certainly have vouched for him.

"I am sorry to see him in such trouble," added Mrs. Bacon. "It is indeed a pity that he should have laid himself open to such charges."

Mr. and Mrs. Bacon emphatically stated that Mellor was as good a man as he could be desired to have about a farm.

FROST IN WEST

Rain Followed By Sinking Of Mercury Does Damage To Crops

Winnipeg, Sept. 15.—Heavy frost in parts of Alberta, torrential rains in Central Saskatchewan and a drop of thirty degrees in the temperature in Manitoba was the overnight program of the weather man in Western Canada. Six degrees of frost over the area extending from Calgary to Edmonton is believed to have caused some damage to uncut crops while garden stuff was severely nipped.

BELGIUM DENIED SEAT ON COUNCIL

Canada Voted To Vacant Seat On League Of Nations

Geneva, Sept. 15.—Canada, Cuba and Finland today were elected to fill the three vacant non-permanent seats on the Council of the League of Nations for the three year term. Forty-four states took part in the voting. Cuba received forty votes, Finland 33 and Canada 28. Canada received one vote more than necessary absolute majority of 22.

Geneva, Sept. 15.—Canadian Press Cable—Assembly of the League of Nations has decided that Belgium is not eligible for reelection to one of the three non permanent seats on the Council of the League of Nations and it is now expected that Canada will be elected to one of the vacant seats. Three vacant seats were those of Salvador, Belgium and Czecho Slovakia, the year's membership of these three countries having expired. According to London newspapers i the election prophets, Finland and Cuba are likely to secure seats on the Council for the current year.

Immediately after the vote on the question of Belgium's eligibility for reelection was announced at the head of the Belgium delegation M. Vandervelde amidst great excitement and applause declared himself personally certain that the vote had been based on question of principle and had not been directed against Belgium. This statement was loudly applauded, and applause was renewed when M. Vandervelde said Belgium would continue to cooperate wholeheartedly in the interests of the League of Nations and world peace.

STRAW HATS ARE AGAIN IN VOGUE

Eastern Ontario In Path Of Intense Heat Wave

Toronto, Sept. 15.—Iced drinks and cold salads had the call for lunch throughout Western and Central Ontario today when the outdoor population sweltered in a temperatures variously given at from 85 to 95 in the shade. Early this morning as far north as Sault Ste Marie and west to Kingsville, thermometers registered low up and climbing higher. Threats of thunderstorms failed to materialize to any extent on Toronto. While admitting that the temperature in this part of the country reached the highest observatory officials contend that the humidity is chief factor. The warm wave is moving east.

POLICE ADMIT NO ONE TO VIEW BODY OF DANSEUSE

Nice, France, Sept. 15.—The body of Isadora Duncan, the dancer whose adventurous career ended in tragedy when her silken scarf became entangled in the wheel of an automobile and broke her neck last night was locked in her study today, and the police are guarding the door which they permit no one to enter until the Soviet consulate-general has signed the necessary papers allowing friends to take charge of the body.

Miss Duncan left no will according to Mrs. Parks, British newspaper woman who was driving with the dancer when she met death last night. Mrs. Parks said that all the dancers friends would know that she intended all her possessions would go to her brother, Augustine. Although Miss Duncan was recently financially embarrassed Mrs. Parks said royalties on her books and Memoirs were expected to net many thousands of dollars.

CONVIVIAL PARTY ENDS IN COURT

Three Taken Into Custody After Disturbing Trent Road People

It all started with a joyous little party in a local Hotel. Albert Scharf, aged 28, working for the Belleville Artists Studio, his alleged wife, Mrs. Dora Scharf and Miss Rosella Emory, claiming to be Dora Myrle Scharf's sister,- evidently had more than a few "snifters" and-then took Scharf's car and went for a jaunt out the highway, heading in the general direction of Trenton.

Everything went smoothly until the party arrived at the Seat and Dunlop Institute where they started a lively quarrel, raising such a fuss that residents of that district telephoned the police to come on out and join the party. Two of the local police promptly set out for the scene of the minister battle, but when they arrived at Trent Road their quarry had flown and were driving down the road in a rather rig aggy fashion. The police stopped them, brought them into town and turned the case over to the Provincial police.

Told Queer Tale

Rosella Emory was not arrested, but Scharf and his wife appeared before Magistrate Ketcheson this morning charged with driving a car while drunk and a charge of intoxication respectively. Both pleaded guilty to their offences and the man was sentenced to jail for 30 days and pay costs of $16, while Mrs. Scharf was fined $20 and $8 costs which she cheerfully paid.

Mrs. Scharf told the police a rather queer tale, that while they were in the hotel a man representing an officer of the law, had threatened to arrest them, but for a small consideration would help them to get out of town. Mrs. Scharf paid him $20, but evidently the man disappeared, for the wrong part of the story is that neither the wife nor her sister secured particularly evidence that the alleged officer should be brought to justice.

ENGINE TROUBLE HALTS FLIGHT

Gold Orchard, Me., Sept. 15.—Engine trouble on a non-stop unbreakable weather reports from the upper St. Lawrence valley and Lake Ontario region today caused the commercial flight planned tomorrow morning of the flight to Windsor, Ontario of the Monoplane Spirit of Detroit, which returned here last night from Harbor Grace Nfld. Phil Wood, Jo-Price with Ruth Elder, scraped unsuccessfully before noon that this decision had been reached. Trouble with the engine which he said had bothered them on their eleven hundred mile flight yesterday from Harbor Grace had been located and had been remedied during the day. They plan to take off at 5 p.m. eastern standard time.

TWO MURDERS AND SUICIDE

Danbury, Conn., Sept. 15.—Charles H. Bill is believed to have shot and killed his wife, Addie, and Alfred Kelly, a boarder in the Bill household today and then turned the pistol himself and ended his own life last night. Kelly is reported to have been the motive.

OCEAN FLYING

Rudyard Kipling in "A Song of the English," assumed the crowd's praise which has been exacted from the English race for its dominion over the seven seas.

We have strained our best to the wave's unrest,
To the shark and the sheering gull;
If the blood be the price of admiralty,
Lord God, we ha' paid in full."

If blood is the price of transoceanic aerial conquest, more than one country is paying a full price. Discovery of the wreckage of Old Glory, the monoplane in which Lloyd Bertaud, James D. Hill and Philip A. Payne started for Rome from Old Orchard, Maine, last week removes the last remnant of doubt as to the fate of the aviators, unless they were picked up which is exceedingly unlikely—by some vessel not listening in on the wireless, in which Kipling describes, as Captains Courageous, the rescue of a young lad who fell overboard from an ocean liner, and whose absence was not noticed by the officers until the end of the fishing season on the Banks. Since the flying season opened this year forty persons have set many statistics and mean flights. Of these sixteen are lost. Others have not fatal accidents incidental to preparations for flight across the seas. These bring the total number of recent casualties to twenty-one.

Fame brought to the name of those who succeeded in their transoceanic flights has undoubtedly tempted imitators in the enterprise, and it is the recurring toll of casualties that has stirred the communal conscience to protest against further undertakings of this dangerous kind. Some would prohibit ocean flights altogether. Others would have them regulated by special laws, or under laws that already exist, and but for the fact that the weather conditions will henceforward be sufficient to check further ocean flying this year, the authorities admit that the public demands an assistant that it would be difficult to refuse to act. As it is, the part of wisdom would seem to be to endeavor before another flying season comes round to plan some national understanding on a practicable international course of action. Ocean flying may not be prohibited, but it should not be impossible to make and enforce regulations that would assure that no ocean flights shall be attempted unless and until there is no doubt left as to the reliability of the flying machines, the adequacy of their equipment, and the competence of the pilots.

ON WRITING

Writers and those dense of those who hope to write plays and stories have a habit of asking what they should go or should go to write. Most young folks have a foolish idea that New York is just the place to go to write a play for instance.

There is nothing more absurd. I have before me the statement of a young man, who, in reality, was a backwoodsman in Carolina before he won the Pulitzer prize for the best play of 1927. The play was called "In Abraham's Bosom," he he wrote it at his home down South.

His name is Paul Green and listen to what he says about this writing bus iness. "I have seen hundreds of young men strike out for New York to express their souls. They have to eat, so they get a job on a newspaper or in an advertising organization of some kind, where the talent for expression is exercised to some extent.

They intend to do their writing "on the side." Perhaps in the first spasm of ambition they produce one play or two and they are never heard of again. The musicroom of Greenwich Village and Times Square have polished them up.

"If I had to stay in New York, my pen would run dry within a year. And if I wrote to please New York critics God help my work! I started out in life very close to the elemental, and how New Yorkers are talking stylized about my 'handicaps'. The things they consider handicaps were my greatest advantages."

Thus any young person, Canadian or otherwise, who feels the urge to write plays or novels or anything worth while (and there are plenty of them) can make up their minds that they can do just as well at home as they can in New York.

"Stay at home, read books, ignore artificial standards and keep a steady job," advises this young Carolina writer who, at the early age of 32, is an instructor in philosophy in the University of North Carolina, "if you have a steady job, you can write when you really have something to say and stop when you haven't."

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

The Deseronto band arrived in the City this morning and played at the Fair this afternoon. A large number of excursionists accompanied them

Mr. C. O. Row, whilst lifting a wagon on Monday strained the tendons of his right leg to such an extent as to be unable to use that limb. He will be confined to the house for some time.

The work of improvement to the City Council Chamber is progressing, and when completed will add much to the interior appearance of the City Hall.

A sad and what may prove to be a fatal accident occured at Picton last evening. Miss Mary Lynn, while wheeling up Main Street, was struck by a runaway team and sustained serious injuries. One of her ears was nearly torn off, two severe scalp wounds inflicted and an ugly cut in the abdomen. Drs. Bowerman and Phelps were called to attend her.

A seventeen month's old daughter of Mr. W. E. Parks, Pinnacle street, died this morning after a few days' illness.

Quiet but active work has been in progress during the past three weeks in the hope of solving the mystery of the Great Dominion Bank robbery in Napanee, but so far only slight progress has been made. It will be remembered that $32,000 in notes was carried off, including $10,300 that were unsigned.

A MISTAKE!

"I thank you for the flowers you sent," she said,
And she smiled and blushed and dropped her head.
"I'm sorry for the words I spoke last night;
Your sending me the flowers proved you were right.
Forgive me."
He forgave her.
And as they walked and talked beneath the bowers,
He wondered who the deuce sent her those flowers.

A CHILD

A child's a plaything for an hour;
Its pretty tricks we try
For that or for a longer space—
Then tire, and lay it by.

But I know one that to itself
All seasons could control;
That would have mock'd the sense of pain
Out of a grieved soul.

Thou straggler into loving arms,
Young climber-up of knees
When I forget thy truthand
When I forget thy thousand ways
Then life and all shall cease.
—Mary Lamb.

Fly-Tox
First in Australia

The Australians have shown by their purchases that Fly-Tox is their choice for killing all bloodsuck insects. It was necessary to establish a Fly-Tox factory at Sydney in 1926. Its capacity has since been increased four-fold to supply the growing demand. Fly-Tox is the scientific insecticide that was developed at Mellon Institute of Industrial Research by Fly Research Fellowship. Fly-Tox also kills moths, mosquitoes, ants, roaches, spiders and bed bugs as well as flies.—Adv.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

The engineer, an old friend, noticed that Sandy had a new cash register in his shop, but observed that he did not use it. "You did not ring up that quarter I handed you," he remarked. "You'll be forgetting it, won't you?" "Oh, I'll nae forget it," replied the Scot. "Ye ken I keep account in me head until I get a dollar, and then I ring it up! It's been well laid labor on the machine."

"I understand Mrs. Smythen had her face lifted, but I don't notice any difference."
"Hush! Not when she passed the fee her face fell again."

Barn fires are enormously numerous to warrant exhaustive research work in an effort to find a reliable and effective preventive. Practically all that is known to date is that spontaneous combustion may occur, and when it does, the chances of saving the barn are slim indeed. There must surely be some special condition or set of conditions that cause a blaze but what are they and how are they created? A real preventive would be worth millions to agriculture.—Farmer's Advocate.

THE BULLETIN BOARD
Mainly About People You Know

CONDITION GOOD
The condition of young Stanley Rowbotham who was so severely injured by a train last Saturday was good today, Dr. Faulkner stated.

CARNIVAL PREPARATIONS
The hammer and saw are in action in earnest these days and evenings at the Armouries where the Kiwanis Club is preparing for their annual Karnival and Style Show. Kiwanian H. Aylesworth has charge of the construction end of the Karnival—and it takes several days of hard labor on the part of the committee to have the auditorium in readiness for the opening on Monday. Several changes are being made in the layout this year, that should prove an improvement over last year.

FINGER SEVERED
Leo Ano, an employee of the C.N.R. had his index finger severed at the knuckle when he was caught in the edge of the receiver on a machine he was working with at the shops yesterday. He was taken to the hospital but was able to return home today after the injuries had been attended.

LAD INJURED
Bobby Pinkie, six-year-old son of Mr. and Mrs. E. D. Pinkie, Pinnacle Avenue, fell from an apple tree into which he had climbed on Tuesday and broke his nose. Drs. Chant and Crook attended to his injuries and the young lad was reported to be doing well today.

TODAY'S MARKET.
Although not as busy as Saturday, today's market was well patronized, despite the gloomy weather. Chickens sold for $1.50 a pair, pears 60c a peck, apples 25c a basket, plums 10 cents a peck, potatoes $1.25 a bushel, tomatoes $1 a bushel, melons ranged in price from 5c to 25c, while watermelons sold from anywhere between 20 to 60 c a piece. Carrots, pumpkins and cabbage were five cents and cucumbers 5c a peck. Gerkins sold for 15 cents a bag and vegetable marrow retailed at last cents. Onions were 10 cents a peck, corn fifteen cents a dozen, crabapples 25 cents a box.

PICTON GOLF CLUB LOST TO BELLEVILLE

A team of twenty men from Picton were pitted against the Belleville team on Wednesday afternoon and most enjoyable games were had by everyone. Belleville studed Golf Club yesterday. Mrs. Cameron presided at the tea table and Mrs. J. H. Ryan assisted. The prize for the low round was won by Mrs. (Col.) A. P. Allen.

RIDLEY—TUCKER
A wedding of interest to a large number of Belleville people was solemnized yesterday noon at the home of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Tucker, Bowell Street, when their eldest daughter, Annie Leitlie was united in marriage to Edward Corbam Ridley, only son of Mr. and Mrs. W. J. Ridley, this city, by the Rev. D. C. Ramsay, minister of John Street Church.

The bride looked charming, attired in a gown of pale green georgette with rhinestone trimming and shirring at the waist and carried a bouquet of butterfly roses. She was escorted by her sister, Miss Miss Tucker, who wore a gown of mauve georgette and lace.

The best man was Mr. Ralph Ketcheson, who received a set of gold cuff links from the groom. The gift to the bridesmaid was an opal ring and to the pianist, Miss Irene Ridley, a locket of the groom, a beautiful diamond ring.

Following the ceremony, a reception was held at which tiers were about fifty guests to whom a buffet luncheon was served, after which the young people left for Detroit, Niagara Falls and other western points. Upon their return they will reside in Montreal, where the groom holds a lucrative position with the Montreal Herald. Mr. Ridley was formerly associated with the Intelligencer Office.

DAVIDSON—McLEOD
A wedding of considerable interest took place on Wednesday evening, September 14th, at Knox Church, Kenora, Ont., when Dr. R. Glean Davidson, elder son of Mr. and Mrs. D. R. Davidson of Massassaga was united in marriage to Miss Agnes Anna McLeod, second daughter of Mr. Donald McLeod of Kenora, the Rev. H. M. Pearson officiating. A reception was held at the home of the bride's parents after which Dr. and Mrs. Davidson took the train for Eastern Ontario to spend a short honeymoon with the groom's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Davidson of Massassaga Road, are then going to Schenectady, N.Y. to visit Mr. and Mrs. J. A. Bell, the doctor's sister, before returning to their home in Kenora where Dr. Davidson is a rising young doctor.

HECKMAN'S DOUBLE WINS FOR PETERBORO

Peterboro, Sept. 15.—Peterboro' seniors, champions of the Lake Shore League, spoil the Brockville, Ont., senior and Toronto champions, three runs in the first three innings and scored four themselves in the next seven to win out in a pitchers' battle here yesterday in the O.B.A.A. semi-final. Heckman, the Peter veteran pitcher, drove in the winning run in the fifth with a single.

St. George's practically gave away four runs when inside the two outstanding errors. In the sixth Heckman got a life on Younger's error, and Harrison followed, 10 Everett Street. Jack Hall drove out his only hit of the game to score both batters. The pitchers were Heckman and Verral. Both pitched good ball, keeping the hits well scattered. In the last seven innings Heckman allowed eight hits, but turned back the St. George's which the home were full. Heckman had five strikeouts and Verral two, but was touched for four runs. Gillespie went in in the tenth when the Petes had two men on, but Heckman rammed out a double to win.

BOYS TRY TO MEET MODERN DEMANDS

ARE THERE ANY NICE BOYS IN THE WORLD TODAY?

Mary wants to know. Mary is sick of petting—weary of "boys who want to pet."

"DO THEY REALLY WANT TO PET?" asks Mary. "OR DO THEY THINK THEY HAVE TO DO IT TO GET BY WITH GIRLS?"

DEAR MARY:

Yes, I know what modern petting leads to. And now perhaps, I'm going to give you a surprise. Every morning the postmah brings me dozens of letters. And out of the dozens there are always a handful of letters from MODERN BOYS AND MEN WHO WONDER IF THERE ARE ANY NICE GIRLS LEFT IN THE WORLD TODAY!

I think you have touched a big truth, Mary, when you suggest that the boys may think they have to qualify as petters in order to get by with the girls. And that's true of many besides boys and girls. Nearly all of us are staging a Qualifying Act these days—trying to seem smarter and swifter and naughtier than we really are. And nearly all of us would heave a big sigh of relief if we could take off our smarty masks and just be our natural, happy, dull old selves.

So, girls, by your spunk, honey. Hold out for clean, sensible fun—fun that doesn't leave a dark brown taste in your conscience—and you'll be surprised to find how many will flock to your standard.

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barbour

CHAPTER 52

THE DAUNTLESS ADVENTURESS

As it turned out, Cynthia's plans went well and without interruption. She was determined to keep the knowledge of her rash marriage from her parents; after her boasted independence, she blushed with shame to think that she had got herself into such a ridiculous and dangerous situation.

Fortunately for her purposes, her father was called to a conference of international financiers in Paris, and Mrs. Greer, who adored the Continent, decided to accompany him.

"After all, we do need some decent frocks," she told Cynthia. "and I can make a nice selection for you, darling. I hate to leave you alone, but I really think the trip would be too much for you, after your illness last summer."

Cynthia, who had never felt better or stronger in her life, grinned and hastily acquiesced. She felt that Fate at last was smiling upon her.

"Don't worry about me!" she urged. "I can take care of myself beautifully."

Her mother wondered why she flushed as she spoke. Cynthia's self-confidence had been considerably shaken with her returning memory.

Directly her parents had departed, after many admonitions to be faithful and dependable Therese, Cynthia ordered her bags and trunks packed and had herself to the station when Norma and Mrs. Lind were staying. Major Harcourt accompanied her, and Therese, sitting in the back seat of the car, glowered at his well-tailored back.

The minute she met Ada Lind, Cynthia said to herself: "She's in love with Basil!" When she saw Norma, still pale and thin and listless, after her illness, she knew she had found a friend. Her heart went out to Norma, even before they had become sufficiently intimate for Norma to tell her story.

"We've at least one bond between us in the black opal," Cynthia remarked Norma shuddered.

"I never want to see it again. I've had nothing but bad luck since it came into my life."

"I think," said Cynthia reflectively, one day,

"that it should be restored to the temple from which it was stolen."

"I wish that could be done," shudder ed Norma.

To her surprise, Cynthia said, with a wise look, "I believe I can arrange it."

"How?" asked Norma.

"I'm going to ask Basil Harcourt to take it back."

Norma smiled wistfully.

"I think he'd do anything for you. Tell me, if I'm not impertinent, are you going to marry him?"

"I don't know," Cynthia replied honestly. "Perhaps after——"

She looked at Norma reflectively. She felt that the time had come to reveal her own story, to find out what she could about her husband.

"You see, I'm already married," she said quietly.

Norma started.

"But—but—you are Miss Greer."

"Oh, no." She paused, and added deliberately, "I'm Mrs. King Carson."

The effect on Norma was astonishing.

She grasped Cynthia's arm convulsively. Her astonishment was lost in her impulse of hope.

"Then you know where he is? You can find him and tell him that Phillip—that I want my husband back. My little son wants me. There is nothing left but my love."

"But I've come to you to find King Carson," Cynthia told her.

Norma stared at her for a despairing moment, then she began to cry.

"Oh, how unfortunate I am!" she wept. "Every hope fails."

Nonsense!" declared Cynthia briskly. "We mustn't sit meekly down and let life run away with us. I'm here, why don't we go to China and find these men?"

Norma stopped crying and stared at her in sheer amazement.

"Go to China?"

"Why not?" The same spirit that had sent Cynthia forth at midnight to search for a husband, when Basil Harcourt had deserted her, prevailed now. She thought only of her parents and what bowls of protest they would raise, if they heard of her plan to set forth to a country that was already in the throes of internal warfare.

"It's startlingly simple and reasonable," she told Norma, who was struck dumb with admiration and fear. "We're both miserable, sitting around here and waiting for something to happen. Nothing will happen, unless we take a hand. You want your husband and your happiness. I want my freedom. Maybe I'll marry Basil, maybe not. But, at least, I don't want to remain idle. I'm sick of it. I'm probably wishing with all his heart that he'd never seen me."

"King is very, very attractive," murmured Norma faintly.

Cynthia shrugged.

"So are lots of other men. But I don't fancy being married to them. Are you game? We can call it a pleasure trip—after all, the whole country isn't at war, and we'll make friends along the way. Then when we get to China we'll be ready to look for our husbands."

Earl Nelson, alias "The Strangler," will be tried in November at the opening of the fall sessions at Winnipeg, before Justice Dysart, it was learned yesterday.

Ashamed to be outdone by such bold-eyed, and stimulated by Cynthia's infectious courage, Norma said faintly: "I'll go!"

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl of nineteen, and have been going with two boys steadily for quite a while.

I am engaged to one but when I am with the other I can't decide which is my true lover.

Please help me solve this problem.

SUE EVA.

SUE EVA: Obviously you don't love either of these boys. Sue Eva. If you want to be wise, break off your engagements and content yourself for the while with the friendship of both boys. You may in time, discover that you do love one of them and then there will be plenty of time to consider an engagement. You are young, my friend, and should now have a wide circle of friends.

Do you feel like going back to bed?

AFTER YOU have dressed your children, fed them, and sent them off to school, do you feel like going back to bed? Do you shrink from your daily task of dish-washing and house-cleaning? Are you tired? Discouraged?

Many women have found that Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is an excellent tonic for that tired feeling. It builds up the appetite. It induces natural sleep. Read what these two women say about it.

GAINED 18 POUNDS

Cleveland, Ohio:—"After having my first baby I lost weight no matter what I did. I went down to 98 pounds. Our neighbor told me about Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as it helped her very much, so I tried it. After taking four bottles I weigh 116 pounds. It has just done wonders for me and I can do my housework now without one bit of trouble."—Mrs. M. Riessinger, 10006 Nelson Avenue, Cleveland, Ohio.

NERVOUS SPELLS GONE

St. Paul, Minn.:—"I used to get nervous spells that would last a couple of days and were so bad that I was afraid in my own home in broad daylight. One day a little booklet was left on my porch and I read it through. I found a case similar to mine. I bought Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and have had five re-sults. Now housekeeping doesn't tire me."—Mrs. Jack Lorberty, 704 Dellwood Place, St. Paul, Minnesota.

WRIGHT LOST TO BILL JOHNSTON

Montrealer, Last Of Canadians In U. S. Tourney, Is Beaten

Forest Hills, N.Y., September 15.—Jack Wright, Canadian tennis champion, was defeated in the third round of the United States men's singles championship here yesterday afternoon by Little Bill Johnson, of California.

Johnson's powerful forehand, improving steadily in control, enabled him to eliminate the last of the Canadian players in the tournament. The scores were 6—4, 6—4, 9—7. The little California star hitting the ball with his old-time pace and precision and led the Canadian Davis Cup star from the start.

Johnston took the first two games and held his advantage, breaking Wright's service a second time in the opening set, while keeping his own intact. Wright rallied to take the first two games in the second set, only to have Johnston at him down with fore hand drives. The third set was a stern chase, like the first, with Johnston too far ahead in the opening games to be overtaken. Many of Wright's points were scored by placing to Johnston's backhand, while inability to count his own forehand ground shots told heavily against him.

Rene Lacoste, of France, defending champion, again showed to steady victory in straight sets, defeating Takeichi Harada, Japanese player who ranks third in the United States, by scores of 6-2, 6-4, 6-3.

INCREASED TOURIST TRAFFIC

Peterboro, Sept. 15.—A considerable increase in tourist traffic this year, is reported by Frank G. Simons of the Chamber of Commerce, which increase in volume to the Kawartha Lakes must have been apparent to the average citizen observing the numerous tourist cars parked on the streets.

Campers continues to be as popular as ever with our American cousins, and in meeting some of these people, one is sometimes surprised to find men and women of very high intellectual development and social standing in their home communities. Among these are found authors and journalists of note, who take this method of delving into the very heart of their subject.

SERIOUS FIRE

Kingston, Sept. 15.—At 5.11 Tuesday evening a serious fire broke out at the home of Morris Fox, 122 Lower Bagot street, and resulted in the contents of one bedroom being entirely destroyed while damage to the house itself was fairly heavy. The front bedroom of the frame home was being cleaned and to the process gasoline was being used, Mrs. Walter, of Minden, was in the front room and in her work had put the bed across the doorway. As she was working, another occupant of the house came alone the hall just at the bedroom door and struck a match and the fumes of gasoline immediately ignited and soon the front bedroom was in a mass of flames.

WAREHOUSE OPENS

Picton, Sept. 15.—The Government beer warehouse was officially opened Monday, Sept. 12 in the Quinte Hotel, with Col. French as Government Inspector and George Williams looking after the interests of the brewers and Mr. Legg as clerk. The officials report no great rush on the opening day. It is expected the Government liquor store will be opened in about ten days.

Napanee, Sept. 15.—Reuben Wood, employed as a street sweeper here was seriously injured at 10.30 yesterday morning when he was struck by a car driven by J. F. French, of Renfrew.

Wood was working at his job when the car struck him or his shovel and threw him violently to the pavement. He sustained injuries to the head and it is not known whether the skull is fractured or not but he is to be removed to a Kingston hospital. Dr. Straiton rendered medical assistance. The car was travelling at a moderate rate of speed when the mishap occurred.

Mr. French is being held by the Napanee police for the time being. Mr. Wood has a wife and four grown-up children.

YANKS WALLOP INDIANS; RUTH GOT NO HOMER

New York, September 15.—It seems that the New York Yankees are literally demonstrating that there has been no fluke attached to their winning of the 1927 American League pennant. The Cleveland Indians at whose expense the Yanks went through the formality of clinching the flag by taking Tuesday's double-header, again vowed substantively at the Stadium yesterday, 4 to 1. But the ball game was a mere incident. The principle happening was that Babe Ruth failed to get a home run.

A fair-sized crowd, which evidently came to see the Babe hit one or two into the stands and extend his attempt to wipe out his major record of 59 homers, went away disappointed. The powers at the plate consisted of a single, a pop fly to Catcher Sewell, a strike-out and a base on balls. It wasn't that he did not try. In the seventh inning he swung viciously when the count on him was three balls and no strikes.

Dutch Reuther enhanced his possibilities of "ating" the record in the world series by rendering a classical exhibition of pitching. He pitched-out-of-a-wetsah until the ninth inning when Cleveland pushed over its only run on five singles and a pair of sacrifice flies. Up to that time hardly an Indian had "ventured as far as third base and only three had reached second.

Walter Miller was the first of the three Cleveland pitchers. Grant and Underhill following. Miller allowed all four Yankees to reach first in the third and two more in the fourth, but it seemed that his object was to restrain the efforts of Babe Ruth. He put Babe on a diet of left-handed slow balls and affected a cure for home runs, but forgot about the other two Yankees who trooped out four hits in each of their scoring innings and collected more than enough runs to win the game.

Washington made it three straight from the Detroit Tigers by taking today's game, 3 to 2.

At Philadelphia, the Athletics rallied in the ninth inning of their game with Chicago and won the game, eleventh by a score of 5 to 4. Singles by French and Cobb, a pass to Cochrane and a hit by Poe scored the winning run. Bib Falk's two doubles drove in three of the White Sox runs and he scored the fourth himself.

Boston pounced on Stewart for three runs in the first inning and never was headed afterwards, taking the third straight game of the current series from St. Louis by a 6 to 5 score.

PIRATES GRAB DOUBLEHEADER; FOUR GAME LEAD

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 15.—Continuing hostilities in the fierce struggle that is being fought here in a sweltering park on the west bank of the Mississippi, the Giants and Cardinals again fought each other to a split of two baseballs here yesterday afternoon with nothing to show for their day's efforts save the slight consolation that each is succeeding fairly well in shutting the other out of the race.

The opener was a tense, gripping outpitching the veteran Alexander, Yde in which Manager Artie Nehf faltered with victory in his grasp, and lost it slip out of his perspiring fingers.

In the eighth inning, after Barry had, in favor of the Giants, and two Cards out of the way, one of them a pinch-hitter for Jack Bentz, Barnes struck one in the groove for Bottomley and floated them three times over in an upward by whanging the ball into the right field pavilion for a homer. That made it 2 to 1.

But in the sixth inning of the second encounter, the fond hopes of the St. Louisians were strewn all over that sun-baked field as the Giants exploded with a seven-run rally that literally tore the game apart.

RIOT FEATURED PLAY-OFF GAME HERE YESTERDAY

Port Hope Outclassed By Kingston Circle Six Team

In a game coupled with thrills, spills and excitement the Kingston Circle Six Champions of the Eastern District disposed of the Port Hope team by the one-sided score of 17-5 here yesterday and won the right to meet Deloro in the next round for the Intermediate honours. The game in many respects was a duplication of the one played last Wednesday when the Deloro team won a hollow victory from the Peterboro Crescents.

After the fourth inning the issue was never in doubt when, in this chukker the Blues barged home with nine counters, enough to win any ordinary game.

The Limestoners were notified that they must play in Deloro on Saturday and back in Kingston on Wednesday and this series is sure to result in a battle royal as both teams are top-notchers.

The fans had no reason to raise a hiss yesterday as they were given their money's worth despite the one-sided score. Everything started off serenly but before three innings had been played the fire works commenced. Joe Daley who was handed the managership previous to the game by Jack Derry of the Blues was banished from the game amid the howls of the spectators. Joe who is of the fiery type resembling Jake Solomon of palmy days became irate and promptly Alex Kay pulled the switch on him and Joe who was not too hurried in obeying orders was escorted to the dug-out found a seat among the spectators in the grandstand.

The Melee

What culminated in the worst riot that has ever taken place in the local ball-yard had its beginning when some of the more ardent rooters became enraged in a heated argument and as a result five of them found themselves behind the bars in the cells of the police station where they had plenty of time to consider the follies of their ways. It was a most disgraceful occurrence and had it not been for the intervention of the Provincial Police the scene would have reached more enormous proportions. In all the years of baseball in Belleville yesterday's fiasco topped the list. The majority of those in the brawl were outsiders but not altogether unknown to local sport followers as one of them has been the king-pin in more than one similar occurrence either here on foreign fields.

At one time it resembled a donnybrook with flying fists in order, and within a few minutes it appeared as though the whole audience was mixed in the affair. Finally the police restored order out of the chaos but there were several little flare-ups which had to be quelled. It was poor sportsmanship on the part of those who incited the whole thing as it was uncalled for and unnecessary.

Bi Nominal Support

Bi Nominal, manager of the Ontarias sent Boly to the mound but he was ineffective and another lad by the name of Bandi was rushed in the scene in the fourth inning. But he failed to show little more stuff than his predecessor and he too went disconsolately back of the bench. Friar, a youthful south-paw was brought in from the outfield and he made the best showing of the trio. During his tenure in the box the winners were limited to a brace of runs. Friar had a nice hook ball coupled with a turn of speed and fairly effective control. The Port Hope team fielded miserably behind all three slabmen and thereby lay a goodly portion of blame for the defeat.

Howard Reid who formerly pitched for the Circle Six Juniors and who has been the main-stay in the box all summer had the westerners in the palm of his hand until the keen had rounded into high figures and Buck, another youthful player replaced him. Both boys did fairly well but Buck was nicked for three blows in the eighth which resulted in a trio of runs.

The Sixes saved their energy until the fourth when they clayed an onslaught which resulted in the scoring of nine runs and this put the game practically on ice. In the third Reid had hung up five and then the score boys got discouraged and gave him a did a goodly portion of the spectators.

Elliott who cavorts around the hot corner for the Kingstonians signed the fielding feature when he enired a hot line drive off young Borders bat in the fourth with the cushions loaded.

McPherson was the big noise with the willow helping himself to three hacking hits all of which aided materially in the scoring. There is little else to tell about the game. Ii was all Kingston with the Purts creating a mild sensation now and again.

PROTEST WON BY DEACON'S; WILL PLAY 3 INNINGS

A special meeting of the Belleville Women's Softball Association was held in the Y.M.C.A. last evening to reopen the question of the DESCO protest of the final game of the City Association play-off series for the Championship. After a lengthy session the decision was reached that the final three innings of the unfinished game be played Friday afternoon on the Armouries lawn, at 5.30 p.m. This will settle the much talked of title of which is to be the City Association Champions.

Adj. M. P. Duff, Pres. occupied the chair and other members of the executive who were present were Charles Thompson Vice-Pres.; Mrs. W. Greene, Secty; Miss Lottie Warham Treasurer.

The Deero Club based their argument on a by-law of the Association which read that in final games nine-innings to be played with seven necessary to constitute a game.

Frontenac Club's defense from the start had been that it was understood that all the play-off games were to be seven innings and that it was mutually understood between the clubs that they were.

After much careful consideration the above executive rendered their decision as they did, with view that it would be in the best interest of the sports.

Managers of both clubs were quite willing to abide by the decision of the Association and on Monday the three innings to be played on Friday evening will result in a heetic struggle, as the unusual situation has lent fire to much controversy over that final v'ct. What the outcome will be on Friday evening is not known but if you want to find out be on hand for the fireworks.

Dangerous Varicose Veins Can Be Reduced

Never mind what people say. If you have varicose or swollen Veins and want to see them in normal, get any live drugglst and ask for an original two-ounce bottle of Emerald Oil (full strength). If he has it, he can get it.

Apply it to the enlarged veins as directed and improvement will be noticed in a few days. Continue its use until veins return to normal size. It is guaranteed to relieve swollen veins or money back by Boyles Drug Store and all good druggists.

OLD RESIDENT PASSES

Prescott, Sept. 15.—One of Prescott's oldest and most highly esteemed ladies in the person of Mrs. John Raney passed away at her home, Park Street, Prescott, Tuesday. Death was due to the infirmities of old age. The late Mrs. Raney was born in Prescott 77 years ago and was the daughter of the late Robert Hedlum. She had resided in this town all her life and was widely known. Her husband, Major John Raney, predeceased her a few months ago. Surviving are four sons: William, of Prescott; Frank, of Toronto; Herbert, of Orillia; Hugh of Fort Arthur; and one daughter, Miss Minnie Raney, Prescott.

BROKER'S OFFICE IS INVESTIGATED BY AUTHORITIES

Attorney General Price Takes Action To Settle Affairs

MANAGER MISSING

High Pressure Salesmen Alleged To Have Defrauded Many

Ottawa, Ont. Sept. 16.—Instructions have been received by J. A. Richie, Crown Attorney of Carleton County to represent the Attorney-General's department in an investigation into the affair of the Ottawa office of William G. Benner and Company, brokers, Yes terday the police seized the local office after the Attorney-General had instructed action over long distance telephone. Charles Adams who is said to have been the Ottawa manager had left and it was understood he was in Windsor. However reports of the raid of the brokers' office in that city last night did not reveal Mr. Adam's where abouts.

Several stock salesmen of whom Mr. Adams was said to have been the head had been selling stock clairvoyant in Ottawa and district as far west as King ston. Some statements claim as much as $100,000 was paid by persons in this district.

Suspicions Aroused

Suspicions became to arise following the action of Dr. Colman, M.P., for North Renfrew who incited prosecution against the Toronto agent claiming mis representation. Then the clients here became suspicious that the "high pressure" salesmen who had sold them the stock had left the city.

The Attorney-General acted immediately and had stock certificates which were on the way to the Windsor address held up. This address had been left by Adams with the office staff of the Benner Company here as the point to which shipments arriving were to be forwarded. According to many from the Ottawa valley who invested into the Ottawa during the night, the system worked by the company was to persuade people to buy well known stocks on margin. They forwarded their cheques to the firm and the stock advanced. The company was instructed to sell. The clients were at once urged to put their money into more stocks on margin, each time adding a little money. Under this method they received no pay in to the company but these clients claimed they had never drawn any money out. When their margins were avoured and they took steps to wind up their accounts the salesmen threw had been dealing with had left the city and the office staff was not in a position to act.

DRUNKEN DRIVER GETS TEN DAYS

Harry Sharpe, of Tyendinaga Township was sentenced to ten days in the County jail, having been found guilty of a charge of being intoxicated in charge of a motor car on the highway on the 27th of August. Sharpe pleaded not guilty and the trial occupied some time in the hearing of the various witnesses.

On the date in question Sharpe figured in an accident with another motor car, Raymond Bushnell, of Montreal, formerly of this city. Sharpe was arrested directly after the affair by the Provincial Police. He was defended by Mr. Simpson, of Napanee. Mr. Donnan, of Belleville, acted for the Crown.

COSTS $35 TO BE A "COP" FOR ONLY A FEW MINUTES

The mysterious gentleman who figured in the case of yesterday's police court and who was alleged to have posed as a Provincial Police Officer and obtained $20 from Mrs. Schirr of the west end of the city, was promptly arrested by the local police and brought up in the court room yesterday morning. The mystery was a mystery no longer. Simon Elliott, ex-Provincial Police officer and resident of this city, pleaded guilty to the charge of posing as an officer, but denied getting the $20.

Magistrate Mikel read the erstwhile "cop" a lecture and fined him $35 and costs, gave him a three months' suspended jail sentence.

IRISH PAIR DARE GREAT TEST OF WESTWARD FLIGHT OVER ATLANTIC

The "Pilot of Night" Heads His Plane Into Setting Sun

Dublin, Sept. 16.—Capt. R. V. H. MacIntosh, in his plane, "Princess Xenia" hopped-off today from Dublin on a trans-Atlantic flight to North America. The plane made a splendid take-off, getting into the air at 1.34 p.m. local time. It carried a heavy load, including 720 gallons of gasoline. Just prior to taking off, Capt. MacIntosh saw a black cat which he picked up, remarking, "this is certainly an omen of good luck." The plane carries a good supply of food and water. Capt. MacIntosh announced that he would head for Newfoundland and thence to New York.

Before taking off he said he expected to make the flight in 36 hours.

Two fast aeroplanes of the Free State Air Force escorted the Princess Xenia to the coast just before starting. Capt. MacIntosh said, "With good luck we shall do it." Capt. MacIntosh's only companion in the flight is James Pitzmaurice, commandant of the Irish Free State air force, who succeeded Capt. Anthony Wreford who was originally announced as MacIntosh's companion in the venture.

Famous Night Flier

Capt. MacIntosh is known as "Pilot of Night" because he claims the record for the largest number of nocturnal flights ever made. With this record and experience, he has a reputation of being one of the best pilots in the world. He has piloted on the western front throughout the war and had many narrow escapes but came through unharmed. He is 27 years old and unmarried.

The two pilots, who fought in the air during the Great War and have been flying steadily since, were confident that they would be able to meet the westward challenge of the Atlantic which claimed Nungesser and Coli and the St. Raphael carrying Princess

BARN FIRE TOOK SUMMER'S CROPS

About nine o'clock last evening the basement barn of Grayden Brumbie residing at Doxer's Corners, near Demorestville was totally destroyed by fire and the hay only partially covered by insurance. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Speaking with Mr. Brumble over long distance telephone today, he stated to the Intelligencer that the barn, which was about 70 by 50, was built on a concrete foundation; one side of the roof was shingled and the other covered with galvanized sheeting. In the barn were the entire summer's crop which was worth about six hundred dollars and farming implements to approximately one hundred dollars in value. Fortunately the live stock was in pasture and Mr. Brumble's wife was in the drive house some distance from the scene of the fire.

As soon as the blaze was discovered the whole neighborhood congregated but little or no assistance could be given. The building was burnt to the ground.

The loss will be in the neighborhood of five thousand dollars and the insurance is only twenty-two hundred which is held by the Bay of Quinte Insurance Company at Picton.

STORAGE BARN BURNS EARLY THIS MORNING

A storage barn owned by Archie Sinclair, an employe of the Bell Trog ph Company, of Tweed, burned to the ground shortly after 3.30 this morning. The building was used as a store-house for lumber and laths at the place. Efforts were made to save the building and the Tweed fire department made a hasty run to the spot which is on the outskirts of the village, but it was practically burned to the ground on their arrival.

Several other buildings in the vicinity of wooded construction were endangered by stray sparks but these were saved. It is understood that there was no insurance on the building or contents. The origin of the fire is unknown.

Dublin Believes Cosgrave Will Retain Reins Of Power

Dublin, Sept. 16.—Tellers today began the task of counting the unusually heavy vote cast in yesterday's Free State Parliamentary elections, with Government leaders expressing confidence that the result would constitute a strong endorsement of their administration. Tabulation of the ballots will continue tomorrow and only fragmentary returns of the outcome is probable before next week. Three men were wounded, one seriously, a message from Starbane says, in an election fight between Fianna Fail "the Devilers" party and government supporters at Raphoe last night.

There was some chuckling today over the challenge of the date of the identity of General Richard Mulcahy, former Minister of Defence and one of the best known figures in Ireland. Putting down the Bible after swearing that was General Mulcahy, the former minister glanced fiercely at his Fianna Fail challenger and retorted forcibly, "And will some of you people know it, too."

Estimated 14 Seats

Dublin, Sept. 16.—From returns so far received, it appears that the Cosgrave Government has gained about fourteen seats in the Dail, assuring its continuance in power.

De Valera and Fianna Fail have apparently lost six seats and retained about forty. This is before election of the Dail. Cosgrave had forty-seven votes and De Valera forty-one. The result of the election is expected to give Cosgrave sixty-one and De Valera forty-five. The other forty-five seats are scattered among Farmers, Independents and Laborites.

Cosgrave Favored

Dublin, Sept. 16.—The impression this tonight is that the Cosgrave Government has made a splendid showing throughout the country and probably will have an effective working majority in the Dail.

Interest with the last general election in June, the polling all around was much heavier; this is considered to have been in favor of the Government nominees. Approximately 70 percent. of the electorate recorded their votes in Dublin and throughout the 26 counties.

A untoward incident was reported from any part of the country.

C. N. R. EARNINGS

The gross earnings of the Canadian National Railways including the Canadian Vermont Railway, but excluding all the Canada and of Levis and Lake Edmund Junction, for the week ended September 11, 1927 were $4,862,180 as compared with $4,652,466 for the corresponding week of 1926 an increase of $210,703 or five per cent.

CHILDREN UNDER 18 MUST NOT TRAVEL IN ALBERTA

Edmonton, Alt. 16.—A ban has been put on the traveling privileges of the public during the epidemic of infantile paralysis to the extent that children under 18 years of age will not be permitted to reside outside of their home municipalities. Such an order has been sent in placard form to every Post office in the Province for display.

Copies are also being sent to the Provincial Police with instructions to post in a conspicuous place outside the Postoffices. Local Boards of Health are being notified by letter about the new order, which they are expected to enforce in their respective communities.

An appeal to the scientific and financial resources of the Health Division of the Rockefeller Foundation has been made by medical authorities of Edmonton, in the hope that some advancement may be made toward the isolation of the serious scourge of infantile paralysis which has raged in Alberta and parts of British Columbia for the past three years. An invitation has been extended to officials of the foundation to send a representative to Edmonton to study the disease at first hand.

With fresh cases being reported almost daily, it is unlikely that city schools will be reopened on Sept. 19, which was the date of the last extension ordered by the Board of Health. Two more cases were reported to-day, boosting the number in quarantine to 60 since the outbreak. There have been 11 deaths from the disease in Edmonton.

FELL INTO NORTHERN LAKE

Aviators Enjoy Narrow Escape

D. M. Thompson, left, and H. E. Harcourt, right, aviators who had a narrow escape from death when the airplane in which they were traveling, crashed into the waters of Lac Seul, near Hudson, Ontario, carrying them to a depth of eight feet. They battled their way through the wreckage of the machine to safety.

EMPIRE NOW HAS TWO SEATS ON THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS COUNCIL

PRINCESS NAMED

Bewarings Twanged To Keep Off Evil Spirits During Ceremony

Tokyo, Sept. 16.—The baby Princess born to Empress Nagako last Saturday has been named Hisanomiya Sachiko, meaning "Science Happiness." The ceremonies included the ancient custom of bathing the child, also the twanging of bowstring to ward off evil spirits.

RANEY IS GIVEN COVETED PLACE

Has Been Appointed Judge Of The Supreme Court Of Ontario

Ottawa, Sept. 16.—W. E. Raney, former Attorney-General in the Drury Government and leader of the Liberal Opposition in the Legislature has been appointed a judge of the Supreme Court of Ontario. J. M. McEvoy, K. C., of London, Ontario, has been given a similar appointment. It was announced by the Minister of Justice this afternoon. Justice D. Inglish Grant of the hign court of Ontario has been promoted to the Appellate division.

Not Certain That Canada And Britain Will Vote The Same

Geneva, Sept. 16.—What effect the election of Canada to a non-permanent seat in the League of Nations council will have upon the procedure and policy of that body was a topic of discussion today. For the first time in history as a result of yesterday balloting the British Empire will have votes in the Leagues governing body, but close observers at the Dominion's politics predict that the two will not always vote as one and that there is no reason for uneasiness over the new situation.

The Irish Free State was an eleventh hour candidate for a Council seat last year and received but ten votes. Canada now achieves a seat with one vote to spare having been supported by twenty-six out of forty-nine voting nations. It has been noted with much amusement in past years that Canadian and even Irish delegations often spoke in French instead of English in order to have a little fun with mother country and that in conferences under league auspices where no general question of Empire policy was at stake their representatives frequently lined up against those of Great Britain.

Richard came to the fore for the third remaining vacancy at the last minute and was elected, notwithstanding that the presence of the new Baltic state in the council was rather frowned upon by Germany, who would have preferred to see Belgium remain in the councils.

The choice of Cuba as a semi-permanent seat holder is heartily welcomed on all sides, as her active interest in the League has been manifest from the start and one of her statesmen, Dr. De La Torriente has already presided over the assembly.

ANOTHER CHANNEL SWIMMER

Cape Gris Nez, France, Sept. 15.—One of the five swimmers who are waiting to try the channel crossing at this time of the year, Edward Michael Enos, had took off at 11.06 this morning in an attempt to reach the British shore.

RUTH ADMITS MARRYING ABOUT TWO YEARS AGO

New York, Sept. 16.— Ruth Elder, famous girl aviatrix, is a married woman and her husband of two years is now living in New York to see her hop-off on her "Holiday" flight to Paris. After playing truant from Roosevelt Field, where her monoplane "the American Girl", is being groomed for its long hop, the girl flier finally admitted that she was the wife of Lyle Womack, of Lakeland, Florida, that she had always used her maiden name while a dentist assistant in that town and that she had been "plodding" report-

MELLOR CASE IS DISPOSED OF AT MORNING COURT

Ex-Pastor Pleads Guilty And Is Fined $100 And Costs

GAVE GIRL $1000

Magistrate Williams Adds Suspended Sentence Of Two Years

Counsel for Rev. J. J. Mellor sprang a surprise this morning by agreeing to plead guilty to the charge against the prisoner and had the case summarily disposed of. Mellor was fined $100 and costs and a sentence of two years which was suspended. In giving the sentence Magistrate Williams took into consideration that the ex-pastor had agreed to pay $1,000 to the girl's family.

Hearing of the charge against Mellor, which was that of a serious offence against a young girl, under twenty-one years of age, had been scheduled for September 29th, but this morning Mr. L. V. Ward, acting for Mellor came to Crown Attorney M. R. Allison and said that his client was ready to go to trial at once and plead guilty.

The court proceedings lasted only about ten minutes. Mellor entered his plea of guilty and then his counsel announced that an agreement had been reached with Mr. Gordon Walmsley, acting for Bertha Houck, the girl in the case, and Mrs. Bertha Haight, the girl's grandmother, to pay the latter $1,000. After the sentence as above was then given and Mellor was freed.

SIR ARTHUR TO ARRIVE AT 2.50

Will Be Met By Mayor And Legion Officials; Charter Night

Final plans were made today for the entertainment of Sir Arthur Currie, K.C.B., G.C.M.G., L.L.D.; principal of McGill University who will pay a visit to Belleville in the city tomorrow. The general will arrive by the International at 2.50 and will be met by the president and committee of the Legion and Mayor Wilmot, Mayor of the city. He will be motored to the City Hall via Station Street. At the upper bridge he will be joined by the returned soldiers of the city and district and Johnstown's Pipe Band.

He will then be escorted to the city where a civic welcome will be given him in the Council Chamber. Following the proceedings he will meet the relatives of the men who fought overseas in the Council Chambers. At $:30 in the evening he will present the charter to the Legion in the City Hall and Sunday morning officials of the Legion will accompany him to Brighton by motor.

A special request has been made for the citizens people and citizens generally to decorate their homes and stores for the distinguished visitor.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

The time learned by experience that neglect is more useful to a man than gentleness and affability. TERENCE.

EMPIRE OR LEAGUE

The first duty of a nation begins at home, and unless that duty is attended to and performed properly there is danger that the nation may become of less importance in other relations. That is the lesson from plain life and it was the gist of what Sir Austen Chamberlain said at Geneva in reply to the critics of the British Empire. It is the cause of a long war when Great Britain signed the Locarno treaties that by no farther, and among other things for which the other nations of the Empire were not willing to share would be action making for disunion.

The speeches of Briand, Stresemann and Chamberlain, representing the three great European powers, all testified to their attachments to the league and the value they placed upon it as a potential means for good in promoting the peace and promoting international good relations.

The action of Panama in bringing forward the affairs of the Isthmus republic for attention of the nations in the league, serves notice on the United States that South and Central American policies and grievances may be aired at Geneva. The Chilean delegate asserted that it may be so, and recognition by the A.B.C. republics of South America, Argentina, Brazil, Chile, is taste, seems to giving a question proper recognition.

An American writer in the September Current History boldly takes the view that the Monroe doctrine is obsolete and should no longer be accorded the place it had. The century intervening since it was first promulgated, the Great War and the League of Nations have all been influences up to bringing in a condition which, he claims, sets the Monroe doctrine aside. No one but the United States acknowledges the right of that country to act as it has been doing in Central America. The League of Nations offers to the Latin-American nations the outlet for publicity and a means for action which the Pan-American union does not seem to have afforded. It may be that, with the development of this step taken by Panama, Brazil may be led to return to the league, finding in it the protection and outlet which were not obtainable anywhere else.

GOOD TIMES

After a fortnight of uncertainty about frosts and that the West had passed through the danger zone, and the Dominion Bureau of Statistics now estimates the harvesting of the greatest wheat yield in the country's history excepting 1923. The estimate of the Bureau is 454,761,000 bushels.

With the world price of wheat holding up unexpectedly, such a mighty harvest will give a tremendous new impetus to Canada's prosperity. More than half a billion golden dollars will pour into the West (for the prairies have also a harvest of 332,000,000 bushels of oats) and these, percolating back through the whole Dominion in purchases of various kinds, and providing traffic for our railway and our ports, and additional employment for tens of thousands of workingmen, mean good times ahead.

Canada's position is truly fortunate. The almost immeasurable advertising given the country by the Confederation celebration, plus the flair of Mr. Baldwin, is already bearing fruit in a new interest by British capitalists; our fields and forests and mines increase and multiply their output; our factories are reasonably busy; and we have little of unemployment. On top of all this—come Mr. Robb, with the announcement—which seems difficult to believe—that he has enough cold cash on hand in the treasury to absorb maturing loans.

The position is not one for complacency. optimism. But it is one for faith and courage, for decision, for thoughtless thankfulness. If to what Providence has vouchsafed to us, we can only add a wise conservation of our moral, intellectual and material resources, our future would seem to be assured.

TELLING OUR FAULTS

Something appears to have got on the nerves of the editors and publishers of British newspapers, weeklies that have been touring Canada. At first they started off by chorusing Mr. Baldwin in a song of praise for us but by the time they got over the prairies and through the Rockies and back again one of them blurted out that our newspapers were rotten and another that we bragged too much.

Well come to think of it, they might have said something worse. Or, to put it another way, they might have picked on something worse than our newspapers. The press of Canada just fill faults but, comparatively speaking, it is not so bad. Over, we have no London Times and no Manchester Guardian; but what our critics forget is that the combined circulations of the Times and the Guardian—and we throw in those of the Daily Telegraph and Morning Post for good measure—do not cover one-tenth of the homes of even the city of London. What is left? What is left, apart from a few provincial journals of very limited circulation, is a yellow press infinitely more jazzy and more sensational than anything we have in Canada.

True, they do not print such large headlines; but that, after all is typographical. What they do print, however, are stories so sensational that if they appeared in a Canadian newspaper that newspaper wouldn't live. Some months ago a very distinguished English gentleman, now living in Canada, asked us why we published so much of the Hall trial, with its sordid details; such things, she said, could not appear in the British press. Yet when the notorious episode of Mr. "A" was to the fore, such staid journals as the Times literally published pages of its messy and sickening story. And so with the amours and adventures of the Prince Hassan. So with a hundred cases that we could quickly cite.

The simple fact is that the publication of scabrous details of British divorce cases would create such a pronounced, policy of British newspapers that such news had to be prohibited by law.

Critics of Canadian newspapers have a stock-in-trade argument to the effect that Canadian journals do not print as much serious, national, and international news as their British contemporaries. Such criticism, inferiably, comes from Canadians who do not see a British newspaper from one end of the year to the other. And it is the sheerest nonsense. Take, as an illustration, the case of London. The newspapers in London with the largest circulations are the evening news papers. There are the Evening Star, the Evening Standard, and the Evening News. Among them they have a circulation of probably four millions which they provide the only evening news that Londoners get. Yet we venture to say that any evening newspaper in either Vancouver, Winnipeg, Toronto, Ottawa or Montreal, publishes more world news than any of these London papers. A great deal more.

Then there is the British Sunday press. We often wonder whether our Canadian critics of Canadian newspapers ever see the London Sunday journals. Certainly our brother editor from Britain, who, is so captious, must have forgotten about them. We hear a great deal, these days, about Mr. Kipling's New York Mirror, and about Mr. Bernard McFadden's New York Graphic; but if, they are sane, worse than Lord Riddell's News of the World—which goes to 3,000,000 Britons every Sunday—we haven't noticed it. And the News of the World isn't all. Only slightly behind it, much more than walk shadows of it, are Reynold's news paper, and the Sunday Chronicle.

So much for that.

As for the indictment that we make long, stupid speeches, quoting statistics and bragging about our resources and—well, we have, we're guilty. Guilty, at all events, about the long speeches and the dry statistics. Time and again we have protested against the orators who eternally begin by "that there thousand mile border without a fort or gun." But were even these time profound bores are the people who, generally ignorant of the background and principles of their subject, and barren of ideas, get a secretary or somebody to tabulate a lot of figures for them, and then go down to some dinner or luncheon and, amid reeking smoke and the smell of cooking, fondly lean them upon their unfortunate audience. Ordinarily, we're against new laws, but there should be a law against that.

Perhaps, too, we are inclined to boast. It's a fault of youth, and as a people we are young. We like visitors to lay on flattery, as James Russell Lowell said, with a lady; and he's an extraordinary Canadian who can hear "our boundless natural resources" out of his peroration. But perhaps we will learn. Perhaps we will discover that our resources aren't boundless, and stop talking about them; and perhaps when those editors return again to accept our entertainment and hospitality, we shall have achieved that unique perfection which they appear to have sought.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"I 'ear Bill 'Awkins is sulin' the company for damages."

"Why, wot 'ave they done to 'im?"

"They blew the quittin' whistle when 'e was earrin' a 'eavy bit o' wood an' 'e drop it on 'is foot."

"What are studying now?" asked Mrs. Johnson.

"We have taken up the subject of molecules," answered her son.

"I hope you will be very attentive and practice constantly," said the mother. "I tried to get your father to wear one, but he could not keep it in his eye."

The lecturer warmed to his subject. "The consequences of drunkenness are terrible. If I had my way, I would throw every cask of beer, every bottle of wine, every keg of brandy into the middle of the sea."

Voice from the audience: "Bravo, bravo!"

Lecturer (very pleased): "You also are a confirmed teetotaller, my friend."

"No, I'm a deep sea diver."

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Children staggering to school these fine days under a load of books present a pathetic sight. Whatever defendencies there may be in our educational system, it is not chargeable to any shortage of text books. Perhaps so long as the books are only carried in the arms and are not too rapidly crammed into their heads, no serious damage will be done.—Hamilton Herald.

The tenderest rag at the emancipated young women of today, who pride themselves upon their freedom in talking about sex in a brief passage in a little skit just published in London.

"Isn't Lola a dear?" asks one character. "She's as candid one can talk to her about anything."

"In fact," another replies, "you can't talk to her about anything else."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

A despatch from Paris, France, announces that the authorities have decided to take action to restrict the granting of divorces to foreigners. The decree has not been made any too soon, for the granting of divorce to foreigners has become a reproach and a scandal. The fact of the matter is that applicants for divorce ought to be compelled by international law to apply to the courts of their own country.—Brantford Expositor.

EPITAPHS

Epitaph writing in connection with the sudden demise of reckless motoring is becoming a fine art. The following quatrain should prove an inspiration to the versatile epitapher:

They're picking up the pieces
With a dustpan and a rake,
Because he only used his horn
When he should have used his brake.

But Kipling might have put it this way:

If you had only listened for a minute—
And cast a heedful eye along the track,
If you had seen the train, the roaring power in it,
And kept your head and held you auto back;
If you had chosen Reason's course to follow
And scorned to join the foolish throngs that laugh,
I would not have to take my pen and hollow
In quarts of ink, to write your epitaph!

In his own inimitable style Lewis Carroll probably would have written something like this:

"You were fast," Mr. Blinker," the speed cop said.
"And I wondered how e'er you could do it;
But now you are quiet, and clammy, and dead.....
I told you some day you would rue it!
You used to roar, by like a swift shooting star
And laugh at the signal lights shining,
And boast that you always would make it in 'par,'
Now all your relations are pining."

While our own Canadian poet, Robert W. Service, would have rattled off a little bit in the following style;

There are strange things done where the speed-bounds run,
And the traffic is thick and fast;
And each highway long has its own sad song
Of the motorists you have "passed,"
And the crossing can tell of strange things that befell
The fellow who tried to slip by it;
But although we all weep as we bury him deep
There's always another who'll try it.

Being beautiful is an accomplishment that is difficult to accomplish.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mr. Walter Fanning met with a painful accident this morning. He was leading a horse out of Mr. H. W. Cronk's livery stable on Pinnacle Street when the animal suddenly plunged forward, causing the halter rope to break his right thumb and lacerating it in such a manner as to cause it to be amputated.

The Madoc train this morning brought a large number of passengers to the city; they will probably attend the Belleville Fair.

The pupils of the Deaf and Dumb Institute arrived last evening. They were brought down town on the Grand Junction and were taken to the Institute in carryalls. There was a large number of them and they appeared happy at their return.

This is the third day of the Bay of Quinte District Fair and judging from the crowds of people in the city the management will wear broad smiles this evening.

Mr. J. Watts, barber, has secured a position in the Revere House barber shop, Brockville.

Wm. Rosebush, an aged and esteemed resident of the Township of Ameliasburg, died at an early hour this morning, in his 80th year.

Bass fishing still continues good. Mr. Wm. Ormond got sixteen nice ones yesterday.

Two large drays loaded with luggage passed up Murney's hill this morning en route to the D. and D. Institute.

Mr. George E. Emerson of Orillia, son of Mr. Wm. Emerson of this city, was married at 9 o'clock last evening to Miss Mallory of Brockville.

LINERS BLOWN TOGETHER

Sherbourg, France, September 16.—The Hamburg American liner Resolute was blown by a violent squall against the North German Lloyd liner Muenchen's wife passing between the Muenchen and the Royal Mailer Asturias yesterday on her way into the Cherbourg roads.

The Muenchen's stem was badly dented fifteen feet above the water line, but was provisionally repaired and he sailed for New York at the same time as the Resolute. The damage to he latter was insignificant.

BITTEN BY DOG.
Sidney Samuels, residing on Brock street, was severely bitten on the, leg yesterday by a large police dog owned by Dr. Wellwick, of James street. A physician was called and attended to the wounds. The matter was reported to the Police and Constable Dunn investigated. Mr. Samuels has been taken in the matter as yet.

GUEST INQUEST TONIGHT.
The inquest to determine into the death of the late Ruth Guest will be resumed at the Police Court tonight before Coroner Dr. Boyce. It will be remembered that the unfortunate child met her life in the town of Deseronto when struck down by a car driven by an American tourist from Malone, N. Y. The hearing will begin at eight o'clock sharp. The witnesses have been summoned from Picton and Deseronto and as there are only half a dozen to be heard, it is not expected that the inquest will take any great length of time.

ESCAPES FREIGHT TRAIN
Roy Roxborough going home last night on the Hamilton road had a narrow escape from an untimely end. As he neared the railroad crossing on the Hamilton Highway a freight train going east thundered across in front of him. In order to avoid hitting the train he turned his car into a fence alongside of the road, damaging both the fence and his car. The matter was reported to the local police.

A CLEAN SHEET
An absolutely clean sheet was recorded in the local Police Court this morning. This is the second time within the past few months that the citizens of Belleville have behaved themselves so well that the Magistrates' duties were not required.

DISTURBING CLASSES
F. C. McLaurin, Principal of the Belleville High School, stated to the Intelligencer this afternoon that there was nothing to a rumor which was current in the city to the effect that some students were staying out of school this year on account of the noise from construction work on the new collegiate. "Everything is running along nicely and the noise from erecting will last only a short time" stated he.

STAFF DINNER
The office staff and heads of departments of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol plant at Cobourg with their wives and families are holding a dinner at the Bay of Quinte Country Club this evening at seven-thirty. Following the dinner dancing will be held in the club room.

CAR TURNED OVER
Lloyd Weese residing on Bull Street near the Alemite plant met with a queer accident while driving on Pine Street last evening shortly after 5.30. The car struck a guy wire supporting one of the telegraph poles and turned over on its side. It was also stated that something suddenly went wrong with the steering wheel which caused the car to veer toward the ditch. The radiator and fenders were damaged but Mr. Weese escaped any injuries.

HOPE FOR RECOVERY
Elizabeth Gertrude Couch, the five-year-old Trenton girl who sustained serious injuries when struck crossing a Trenton Street on Wednesday afternoon with an automobile driven by Findlay McDonald, son of Magistrate McDonald of Colborne, is reported to be resting as comfortably at the Belleville General Hospital today, according to her physician, Dr. J. A. Faulkner. The youngster besides other injuries is suffering from a fractured skull.

UKED BELEVILE.
While on a motor trip Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Gunn, of Barnia, passed through Belleville this summer and were so impressed with the beauty of the city that Mr. Gunn came back and secured a position with Hyman's Home Furnishers, and Mrs. Gunn has taken one of Miss Corbett's apartments on Front street, where they and their family are now residing.

Colonel Ponton, K.C., attended a meeting of the Benchers of the Law Society of Upper Canada, yesterday at Osgoode Hall, Toronto, and also a meeting of University Lodge, A.F. & A.M., at which another member of the staff of the University was initiated.

"Saturday Night" announced the engagement of Miss Dilwyn Warren, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. A. Warren, Maple Avenue, Toronto, to Mr. John Angus, also of the Queen City. The marriage is to take place at St. Paul's Church tomorrow. Mr. Angus is well known in this city having resided here some years where he was associated with the firm of Mackenzie Limited, Lumber Dealers. He is a brother of Mrs. Ralph

IMPORTANT CHANGES IN CHURCH POLICY

Kingston, Sept. 16.—Important changes in organization of the Church of England work in China are recommended in the Board of Management of Missionary Society of the Church in Canada, which is meeting in joint session of the Upper and Lower Houses of the Synod today. The Synod of the Diocese of Honan, China under its bishop, is now recognized as the supreme church authority in the Honan district. Canadian church mission there is made auxiliary to the Chinese church. This marks an important step in emancipation of the Chinese Church. In future all appointments to the mission staff will be submitted to Honan diocese for approval.

JAIL BREAKERS BACK IN CELLS IN 15 MINUTES

Overpowered Guard At Cobourg But Are Quickly Re-taken

7 YEAR TERMS

Sentenced In Montreal But Are Also Wanted At Port Hope.

Cobourg, Sept. 16.—After assaulting the jail guard, taking his keys from him and locking him in the cells, Walter Resume and Harry Bolton made their escape only to be captured within 15 minutes of the time they made their break for freedom. Both men were wearing prison uniforms. Resume was captured hiding under the span of a bridge over a creek not far from the jail, and Bolton was overtaken as he was running through the streets. Both men were taken back and are being closely guarded.

Resume and Bolton were sentenced last Monday by Montreal to serve terms of seven years in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary. They are wanted, at Port Hope on charges of assaulting the police," Chief Constable Dell says. They were brought from the Montreal prison to Cobourg to stand trial on these charges.

Turnkey is Overpowered

Early in the morning Deputy Roy Hutchinson entered the cells to give the men food. He was overpowered, his keys taken from him and he was thrown into one of the cells and locked there. With the keys the men made their way to the courtyard and from there went toward town. Hutchinson's outcry for help was heard by Mrs. McLaughlin, wife of the jail caretaker, who at once gave the alarm to police authorities. Sheriff Nesbitt and his deputy, J. Adams, assisted by a number of citizens, set out in search of the fugitives.

On sighting Resume huddled against one of the girders of the bridge, up to his waist in water in the creek, the officers drew their revolvers and forced the man to come toward them. He was handcuffed and taken back to the jail. Last March, Resume and Bolton, it is charged, met Night Constable Barry in a lane in the rear of Paternicks general store in Port Hope. They managed to pull their gun on the constable and, it is claimed, after assaulting him, took his revolver from him. On the same night they are alleged to have stolen $300 worth of clothing from Paternicks store.

Toronto Phase of Case

Toronto police stated last night that these two men were the ones who during the early hours of a morning, last spring, covered Constable Ramey with revolvers while he attempted to arrest them at Dundas Road and St. Clair Avenue.

TODAYS MARKETS

Toronto, Sept. 16.—Crop reports from the Canadian west and forward conditions in the northern Ontario mining areas were reflected in the bullish situation in the stock markets on Toronto and Montreal today. There were spectacular scenes on the Montreal exchange where records of sales of the Toronto markets were also unusual. Canada Cement scored a gain of Dairy-three points overnight on the Toronto exchange, shading off towards noon. There were equal gains in this feature in Montreal, where the President issued a statement advising the shareholders to retain their stock. The Steel of Canada was also active and strong in both cities. There were heavy transactions in the Toronto market, the trend being largely to higher prices.

New York, Sept. 16.—Foreign Exchanges steady, demand rates in cents Great Britain 4.86; Canadian dollars 1-64 of one percent, premium.

MARKET EXTREMELY ACTIVE

New York, Sept. 16.—Heavy profit taking and short selling, inspired in part by the share increase in brokers' loans to record high levels, retarded operations for the advance in today's stock market. Wide fluctuations again took place, however, in a number of the high priced industrials specialties. Commercial Solvents and American Type Founders early soared nearly seven points to new peak prices and a number of others were whirled upward three to six points.

Call money was in plentiful supply all day at the "renewal rate of three and a half percent despite the increase in broker's loans and the export of more than $125,000,000 in gold bullion during the week. The reserve ratios of both New York Federal Reserve Bank and the combined twelve federal reserve banks showed slight increase indicating no strain on the credit situation.

THOUSANDS LACK WORK IN CHICAGO

Times Seem Good But Unemployed Flock There As For Winter

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Chicago today faces one of the strangest situations of its industrial history. At least 100,000 persons are out of work, according to numerous employment authorities, yet times are fairly good, and most of the larger industries are running at little below normal capacity.

An extensive invasion of the city by the unemployed is under way, with the result that the city has ahead of it, according to those who have been making a thorough investigation, worse winter for unemployment, and consequent suffering, since 1921, and probably since 1893.

Every day brings into Chicago hundreds looking for work who come from the depressed agricultural areas of the middle west, and from other cities where work is slackening.

Lowenstein Wertheim, Capt. Hamilton and Col. Hinchin. "I have every confidence in the success of our attempt," said Capt. Macintosh as they finished their preparations for a hop-off. "We have made every possible test of our machine and the weather report is better than we could wish in a long time and as good as we can expect. The crowds were also crowded about the men and their plane to delugo them with congratulations on their pluck and perseverance and have best wishes for success on their daring venture. Finally, Pizmarine, backing away from the friendly crowd, turned to the machine saying. "Come on Mac, let's get on this machine and get a bit of peace."

The plane was sighted over Maryborough, Queen's County, at two p.m. headed due west.

Start Over Galway

The "Princess Xenia" passed over Galway Bayrthing at about 4.30 and circled twice an hour. She was flying at a comparatively low altitude and the roar of her engine could be plainly heard. Weather was favorable and hundreds of many faces were turned skyward and blessings mingled with cheers followed the adventurous airmen as they started on the last lap of the Atlantic. Many in the crowds had journeyed from the vicinity of the Raphael out to sea over Galway Bay and fervent hopes were expressed that this voyage may have a happier ending than that of the other Raphael plane.

LOOKING BACKWARD FOR A LOST PARADISE

Another little girl sobbing for the happy yesterday which will never come again

DEAR ELSIE:

Please, please tell me why do men trample on a girl's heart? I am just desperate. The man I love has given me up, irrevocably, he says. Some day I want to believe in love again and have some good man love me, but will that day ever come? I have prayed and prayed but it doesn't do any good. I suppose it is the "same old story" but it is a new story to me and my heart is broken.

LITTLE SISTER.

Yes, there's a way back, dear. And if you travel that way you will find joy and peace and self-respect again. It won't be the carefree joy you knew before you made your mistake. It won't be the dreaming, childish peace. But life will really be good again and you will have a deeper, more tolerant faith.

First, you must meet the truth. You must stop making excuses. Instead of blaming the man and playing yourself and stick by it and stop mak my heart is broken. It is broken because I did not guard it. Ever since I was a little girl I had been warned against doing wrong. I had seen other girls suffering, but I thought I would be an exception. And now I know those warnings were true. I'll stand my share of the blame. It was my fault as much as the man's.

Have you the courage and the honesty to make that statement to yourself and stick by it and stop making excuses and being sorry for yourself? I think you have. And the minute you make it any amazing thing will happen in your life.

YOUR SELF-RESPECT WILL BEGIN TO COME BACK. YOU WILL ACTUALLY FEEL YOURSELF STANDING TALLER, STRAIGHTER AND CLEANER. AND THAT DAY YOUR LIFE WILL START TO MEND.

You have read the ending of a tragedy. Here unless a foolish mother awakens to the danger, is the beginning of another tragedy.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am so worried and I can't tell anyone but you about it. I am a young girl, sixteen, and I am continually having trouble with my mother.

If I ask to go out in the evening with girl friends, mother and sister say that I am wild and will go where all bad girls go. It got so that I stayed at home all the time and thought what a disgrace I was. Then one day when I was coming home from school I met two boys, friends of my girl chum. They walked home with us, as far as her house, and then left us, after making a little pall on her mother. They were nice boys, and it made me feel so cheap and bring them to my home and have ashamed to think that I couldn't them call on my mother and me. But, honestly, if I should bring a boy into my home I know my mother and sister would have me put into an institution. They act just insane about boys.

This happened a year ago and I have been meeting one of these boys secretly ever since. There is nothing wrong in our friendship, though I do let him kiss me. He doesn't want to meet secretly, and neither do I; but what can we do? When he asks to meet mother I have to tell him he can't. I feel so bad and worried about it all. How will it end?

SALLY.

I'm going to pray that it will end how I wish I could show that letter to your little Sally. Aren't you? But to every stubborn, suspicious mother!

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barlow

CHAPTER 61

IN THE WEE SMA' HOURS

Norma lay awake nearly all night after she had agreed to Cynthia's proposal that they go to China to find their husbands.

"It'll be perfectly simple," Cynthia had said airily, with that charming confidence that had never deserted her, even after she had recalled the mad thing she had done in marrying Basil Carson. "We can get Mr. Carson's address through your husband's office and his own bank. He's to keep in touch, even if he gets off the beaten track occasionally in his effort to locate Phil. Nobody will guess that we're on such a vital mission; we'll simply be tourists. Therese will look after us, and your being really married will lend respectability to the party."

She laughed, eager, thrilled with the thought of adventure. Therese was openly disapproving. Ada Lind was fearful. And Basil Harcourt came out flatly and said that he would not allow them to move a step, unless they permitted him to accompany them.

Norma was dubious on that point, but Cynthia consented to Basil's proposal.

"We'll doubtless need his help in this wild mission—running after two men who probably won't want to see us."

She spoke thoughtlessly, and, when she saw Norma's stricken face, she was terribly contrite.

"Forgive me." She put her arms around her friend's frail shoulders. "I didn't mean it. And will be mad, but joy when he sees you and all your cruel misunderstanding is explained to him."

"I'm afraid that can never be," said Norma sadly, but Cynthia laughed away her tears.

There was still Norma's father to be won over to Cynthia's reckless plan, but that young lady had a way with her, and, after a wheedling session, J.F. gave his consent. He lingered at the beach long after he said his farewells and wished the two girls good luck. Ada Lind was the only one of the little party who didn't suspect the reason for his delayed departure. She had eyes for no one but Basil Harcourt, and her heart ached when she saw him following Cynthia about like a faithful dog.

Young, gay, laughing, audacious Cynthia! Ada envied her with all her heart. Cynthia, with a husband in China; with another man wanting her with all his soul! Ada wondered why life had to be so unfair in some women.

"I—I hope you will be very happy," she said hesitantly to Cynthia.

Cynthia's lovely young eyes opened wide.

"I am happy—or, at least, I shall be, when I'm free of this dreadful man I married in a mad moment."

"But he isn't dreadful at all!" Ada defended King Carson indignantly.

"He's perfectly charming! I—I almost fell in love with him myself."

"Your, susceptible old dear," thought Cynthia. She knew that Ada was head over heels in love with Basil Harcourt.

"He's had so much unhappiness," Ada was saying. "I do hope you'll make it up to him when everything is—adjusted."

"Who—Carson?" asked Cynthia abruptly.

"No, no, Major Harcourt," corrected Ada, flushing self-consciously.

Cynthia laughed gayly.

"It isn't at all certain that I shall marry Major Harcourt," she reminded Ada. "I'm only considering it."

Ada looked so incredulous—she couldn't imagine having the opportunity of marrying Harcourt and not grabbing it—that Cynthia's heart was touched.

On the evening before the little party left for San Francisco, whence they were to sail, Harcourt walked on the beach with Cynthia. He looked anxious and worn.

"Do you know that I'm afraid of this trip?"

She lifted her gaze in surprise.

"You, a soldier, afraid?"

"It's not physical fear," he answered steadily. "I'm afraid at seeing you go so light-heartedly into adventure. You're going to meet new people, new men. I'm afraid of losing you."

His earnestness touched her. His looks were ardent. She could feel his arm, on which her hand rested, trembling under her touch.

"Basil," she said suddenly, "I'll make you a promise. It's possible that I do love you, after all. I know I'm very fond of you, and I must like you tremendously to forgive you the frightful blow you once dealt my pride. I'll make you this promise: if you'll take the black opal back to the Chinese temple, I'll marry you."

He uttered wild exclamations.

"Take that accursed stone with us on our journey?"

"Are you afraid?"

He was silent a moment. Then: "You shall have your wish," he said quietly, "and I—shall have you!"

Even a coward is able to beat a retreat.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I believe I am in love with a young man. I met him several months ago and since then we have become very good friends. He has called on me but I have been out of town for several weeks and he promised to come back after I returned. I am sure he knows I am back and he has never as much as called me. I do desire his friendship and I like very much to be with him. Will you suggest something I can do or must I forget him entirely?

HORSE-PISTOL POLLY.

HORSE-PISTOL POLLY: If this boy knows you are back in town, I am sure he will get in touch with you. Since it is possible, however, that he does not know this, I would suggest that you have a small informal party and include him among the guests. In that way, you can let him know definitely that you are back and I am sure he will be glad of the opportunity to see you again.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

A solution of one tablespoon of borax to each quart of water will help remove the shine from those trousers. Rub the shiny parts with the solution and press on the wrong side of the suit while still damp.

When freshening baby's rompers with a coat of dye, an easy method is to use the soap variety of dye. Place the soap in your soap-shaker and shake thoroughly through the boiling water until it is the desired shade for the rompers. Then immerse the garments.

Before applying polish to a chair or table, the furniture should be wiped over with a cloth wrung of lukewarm water to which a little vinegar has been added. This cleans the wood and a clean surface will take a much more brilliant polish than a dirty one.

BRITISH LABOR LEADER WILL VISIT AMERICA

Seeks To Strengthen International Federation Of Trade Unions

London, Sept. 14.—Arthur Pugh, vice-president of the General Council of the British Trades Union Congress, will during his visit to America review the American Federation of Labor to rejoin the International Federation of Trade Unions, whose headquarters are at Amsterdam.

Pugh sailed Saturday for New York on the Lancastria as Federal delegate from Great Britain to the annual convention of the A. F. of L. at Los Angeles.

The American organization under the leadership of Samuel Gompers, left the International Federation after the 1919 conference at Amsterdam. Gompers and other American labor leaders refused to subscribe to the Federation's policy, principally the demand for nationalization of industry and use of the international boycott.

British Labor leaders hope that the A.F. and L. will consider rendsing with the Federation, especially as the British unions have been cut adrift here by the Russian unions and expelled Communist branches from British unions.

Pugh will point all this out in his fraternal address to the Los Angeles convention. He will emphasize the British belief in the necessity of making the American international unity by international by including not only the Trade Unions of the United States and Latin-America but also, what is considered here as equally important, the unions of Australasia.

The line to be taken is that the growing importance of the Pacific, politically and economically, both to the United States and England, makes it necessary to include the Trade Unions from those countries in a real international. There is reason to believe that the British Trade Union Congress hoped to influence the A.F. of L. favorably on the reunion question when the congress at Edinburgh has week voted overwhelmingly against Russian and local Communist unions.

NO OFFICIAL WORD OF MEXICAN LOSS

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 15.—First official reports received from the storm stricken west coast of Mexico brought hope today that the death toll might be considerably less than was feared when the hurricane tore out telegraph and railway lines of communication. William Blagrave, American consul at Mazatlan, last night measured that no deaths had been officially reported there. He said consideration of relief was done to the residential district along the waterfront.

The People of Picton, Ont., have not recovered yet from the shock which followed the arrest of Rev. J. J. Mellor of the Picton United Church on a serious charge, preferred by a pretty 16-year-old choir singer, who acted as his private secretary. Remanded in custody, he was refused bail and must remain in jail until his hearing is resumed. Rev. Mr. Mellor is shown in the insert and also in an Indian costume which he wore while looking after a girls-in-training camp near Picton. He is shown again in the centre of the girls basketball team of Picton College, which he coached through a successful season. OFFERED THE POLICE A LITTLE DRINK AND GETS A $100 FINE

Oshawa, Sept. 16.—L. Kohen, Oshawa, a rather elderly gentleman of Hebrew origin, has plied rather than frowned upon, when he appeared in police court this morning before His Worship Magistrate A. F. Hind charged with having liquor contrary to the Liquor Control Act. He was fined $100 and costs, the total amounting to $107.

The accused, who in years gone by has been a good friend, and still is, of the local police department, wandered into the station last night with one bottle of strong liquor and two bottles of beer. He invited the staff to have a drink, but instead of falling to the desires of their host the officers placed the gentlemen under arrest, with the result that he appeared this morning charged with a violation of the Liquor Control Act.

In pleading this morning Kohen stated that "in years gone by" he used to give the officers a little drink and it was with the same intention that he called a others last night. Instead of them accepting his hospitality with the sincerest thanks, he was put under arrest. He was ignorant of the fact that it was against the law to give officers any liquor while on duty. Magistrate Hind informed him so and explained the Act. "Those days are over forever," claimed his worship.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

ARTHUR GRAHAM

The funeral of the late Arthur Graham was held this morning from the home of his sisters, Misses Graham 10 Everett street Jo St. Michael's Church, where a mass of requiem was celebrated by the pastor, Rev. C. J. Killeen, in the presence of a large number of relatives and friends. Rev. Father Klinlin officiated at the committal at the graveside. There were many beautiful floral designs and numerous spiritual offerings on the casket.

The bearers were: Messrs. A. H. Collins, J. V. C. Truscott, T. Bowden, C. H. Stern, L. Gard and P. P. Carney.

ROBERT OLIPHANT

The funeral of the late Robert Oliphant, Sr., was held yesterday afternoon from the home of his daughter, Mrs. W. Aseltine, 27 Grove street, to Belleville, Cemetery where the interment was made in the family plot.

At the house in the presence of a large concourse of sorrowing relatives and friends, an impressive funeral service was conducted by Rev. A. L. Gerin. The Masonic ritual was read by Rt. Wor. Bro. George Dulmage and Bro. H. F. Ketcheson.

The legion of relatives and friends in attendance at the obsequies testified with the wealth of floral offerings silently testified to the sorrow caused by the death of the deceased and their sympathy felt for the bereaved family in their affliction.

The bearers were Messrs. H. A. Thompson, Leon Walmsley, H. F. Ketcheson, George Dulmage, J. W. Barlow and John Heston.

The floral tributes were:

REAL SURPRISES FOR KARNIVAL VISITORS

One glimpse at the Armourites these evenings would convince anyone just how much effort the Kiwanis Club is putting behind the 1927 carnival and also gathr just what needed improvements are being put into effect. The usual notable feature is the extra seating accommodation being prepared for patrons of the Step Show and vaudeville entertainment. Raised seats are being erected to take care of 400 more people than was the case other years and the aisles at the rear of the hall are being widened to allow free movement for the audience.

The Hoop Chest this year will have the added attraction of having 3 prizes instead of just one. The first prize will be the Hoop Chest and contents, the second a $35 Dinner Set and the third a Floor Lamp.

The Jerry Victor Orthophonic to be here is one of the big attractions at the London Fair this week—But will leave London late Saturday night on a Dunlouth truck to be in Belleville Monday morning.

For centuries the skins of baby crocodiles have been used by the eastern cobblers for making pretty slippers for fashionable footwear.

Just Another Fool Who Went To The War

He's one of those damned fools who went to the war.

And the travesty is that he himself is beginning to believe it. We met him, after many years, in the main thoroughfare of a thriving Western town, and instinctively we hailed for the spirited, radiant enthusiasm of 15 years ago. He was a subaltern then in a local battalion; not in his first youth, and inwardly exulting, with a halt concealed yet pardonable vanity, in yielding whatsoever life held for him to the call of "King and Country." He became one of thousands who served with distinction—praised, wounded, back to France and Flanders, wounded again, demobilized, pensioned temporarily—pension stopped later by order of the "Board of Pension Economists"—then turned loose.

The lads of the town, of service age, who watched him march away, themselves actively concerned behind office windows and the convenient mandates of employers, the young men whom our country could not spare, are the coming young men today—prosperous, fat, contented, and in authority, the popular golfers and leaders of the town.

Our broken and rejected subaltern, denied one afternoon in the lobby of the local hotel.

"Who's the guy?" asked a sleek German-American travelling man.

"He's one of those damned fools who went to the war," answered a successful, respected, well-groomed young man of the town, whom our country could not spare.

AIR MAIL ROUTE ACROSS CANADA

Ottawa, September 16.—J. L. Gagnon, Deputy Postmaster-General, released yesterday on the Empire of Australia, Lavine representing Canada in the international air mail conference at The House.

The Canadian Post Office Department is at present examining the possibilities of air mail services in Canada, and experimental work in the nature of actual operation is being carried on between Montreal and ocean steamships at Rimouski to accelerate transatlantic mails. This will be continued under Mr. Gagnon's direction, and surveys of possible air mail routes in Canada, west of Montreal, will also be undertaken with a view to the eventual establishment of a transcontinental air mail service when conditions warrant it. In addition the possibilities of air mail services between Canada and the United States will be investigated.

Two Planes Leave Ottawa

Quebec, September 16.—The Government has not be any means abandoned its effort to establish an aerial service between Father Point and Montreal in spite of the failure that greeted the first attempt of Major Tudhope last week. Yesterday, it was learned here, two hydroplanes left Ottawa for Father Point to endeavor once again to establish connection with incoming liners. S. Tanner Greene, superintendent of the postal service, eastern division, and Hector Lemieux, who is in charge of the British mails, at the Quebec City berth left for Father Point to supervise the organization of the service. The hydroplanes will take the mails of the Empress of Australia to Montreal, Ottawa and Toronto.

HELIUM IS FOUND IN THIS COUNTRY

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 15 (C.P.)—That Canada possesses the only source of helium in the British Empire was the statement made in a paper on "Natural Gas in Canada," by R. T. Elworthy, of the Mines Branch, Department of Mines, at the meeting of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress here.

The helium is present to the extent of 0.8 per cent. in the natural gas at the Inglewood field, near Brampton, Ont., which is just as rich in this constituent as is the natural gas from which helium is recovered in the U.S. Government plant at Fort Worth, Texas. Helium is the next lightest gas to hydrogen, ever which it has the great advantage of being non-inflammable, so that it has obvious possibilities for use in any future airship service. Unfortunately the Inglewood gas field, as at present known, is relatively small, but the Ont. Government has taken up many of the leases in the area and it is hoped that an experimental extraction station will be established before long.

It was brought out in the paper that the oil-pal from naturally gas wells in Ontario is declining. On the other hand in Alberta, owing to the great activity in drilling for oil which followed the year, particularly in the Turner Valley Field, southwest of Calgary, and in the Wainwrightfield, east of Edmonton, enormous flows of natural gas have been opened up, presenting the problem of how this vast supply can be utilized to the greatest advantage.

This paper was one of a series which together formed a very comprehensive and authoritative review of the petroleum and natural gas situation in Canada, and of prospects for the future. Each paper had been prepared for presentation before the Empire Congress by a specialist in the particular field dealt with, and they included "Oil and Gas in the Maritime Provinces," by W. A. Bell, of the Geological Surve; "Oil and Gas Fields of Ontario," by A. H. Harkness, Natural Gas Commissioner for the Province of Ontario; three papers by G. S. Hume, of the Geological Survey, dealing with the oil and gas prospects of the Great Plains of British Columbia and of the Mackenzie River Alberta"; by S. C. Ells, Mines Branch, area; "Bituminous Sands of Northern Dept. of Mines; and a statistical review, by S. J. Cook, Dominion Bureau of Statistics.

Available records show that, between 1881 and 1926, a total of 22,600,000 barrels, or 4½ million Imperial gallons, of oil have been taken from wells in Canada, representing a value, as crude petroleum, of about $15,000,000.

CASTROL DEALERS AT ANNUAL CONVENTION

On Monday afternoon last, nearly a year after the name "Castrol" Oil first became familiar to Ontario motorists, Canadian Representatives of the producers, The C. C. Wakefield Company, of London, England, met in Annual Convention at the Royal Edward Hotel, Toronto and reviewed the year's Canadian business.

The convention, which was presided over by Mr. C. D. Browne, Canadian Manager, was attended by some thirty-seven representatives of "Castrol" Oil. In reviewing the remarkable results made by this Company since opening up the Canadian Field, the representatives dwelt on the phenomenal reception of Castrol during the past few months in Canada, the Honda Oil Contract, the remarkable Canadian business during the coming year for this quality Racing Motor Oil.

Among plans laid at the Convention was the extension next year of Territories supplied. Heretofore, attention has been confined for the most part to the Ontario field and Manitoba; but the months to come will see motorists of the Maritimes and the other Western provinces, made as familiar with the well known Castrol Signs, as are those of this Province.

Cables were read from head Office in London congratulating the Canadian Manager, Mr. Browne and his staff, in the unusual success with which their efforts have met in introducing Castrol to Canadians.

The Annual Convention closed with a banquet in the Hotel attended by the entire body of Canadian Castrol representatives.

WIFE CORRECTED HIM FOR TOO LONG SPEECH

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 13 (C.P.)—How much more interesting would many political speeches be if wives of presidential public speakers were encouraged to help along their husband's career in this manner. When the United States Secretary of Labor, Jas. J. Davis, was delivering an address recently a note was passed to him from the audience. He cut his speech short and, on being afterwards asked why he had done so, produced the note. It read, "Jim, you've talked too long. You have talked two hours and the crowd is getting tired." It was from his wife who it seems has been in the habit of thus correcting his long-windedness.

English Woman Writer Blames Spineless Men

RESTLESS WIVES

Matrimony Woman's Ideal Career—Discontent Due To Modern Education

London, Sept. 16.—Spinsters mean who allow their womenfolk to run the home are largely responsible for the discontent among wives of today, in the opinion of Margaret Peterson, celebrated English novelist. Miss Peterson expressed her views on the subject as follows:

"Matrimony," says a Greek philosopher, "should be kept in a rabbit hutch at the bottom of the garden." No attempt whatsoever has been made to keep her there, and though I am not married myself, I sometimes wonder if that is not what is the matter with present-day civilization.

"Marriage is not a sufficient career for the modern woman." That sentence I have plucked from a newspaper article. It is obviously written in a spirit of red hot conviction. The modern woman is capable of running a business, therefore she is capable of more than supervising the smaller homes which are now the rule.' The woman writer in question talks about matrimony as if it were unpaid domestic service.

"In another daily paper of the same date appears some extracts from the writings of Tolstoy, 'a world where all women would be taken up with motherhood, the young ones preparing for it, the old ones helping, and all women would be taken up with it.' Was ever wholesale neglect in the matter of the Greek philosopher were of one mind on this subject, though they express themselves in different ways, whereas the modern woman does not agree with either of them in the least.

True Means Of Expression.

"Now, first and foremost, by marriage is not unpaid domestic service. It is really the only career in which a woman can most truly express herself, and in it lies her one abiding chance of happiness. Centuries of education and struggling to map out careers for themselves will not kill this belief in the true feminine heart. Nothing on earth is really so lonely as an unmarried woman. All women know this, and there are very few who remain unmarried from choice.

"It is extraordinary what a devastating effect education has on people, to start with. It almost seems as though it had, as in Africa, where we are busy educating the ignorant savage, the result is very much the same. The natives all want to be clerks; they are too good to remain field labourers, and, the result is quite disconcerting. So with women. They are for the moment fast-educated so they seem to have withdrew the fields of matrimony and maternity; and the outstanding result is discontent. The woman may be discontented, too, but he does not say so much about it and he clings to his job, while a growing man clings to a spar.

"All the same, if the Greek philosopher were writing today, I feel sure he would have some very caustic remarks to make about the way in which in reality has failed women. He is no longer master in his own house. He has become weak-kneed; he lacks backbone. He is terribly inclined to say about the most ordinary and domestic life: 'Just as you like, darling.'

"That phrase, I feel certain, is responsible for more of the discontent portrayed on feminine faces today than is any amount of uncongenial house drudgery. Woman, as wife and mother, has quite enough to do in this world without also being the master mind. To quote Tolstoy again: 'Women can be very clever, and can do whole no end of things that men; but their understanding is not in the right place.'

"If only men would assert themselves more, women would suddenly find life more worth living. But I think that the stress of modern life, educated women, and the income tax, the daily squash in the tubes, the hopeless effort to get on to an omnibus at night, is wearing man out. Women are the stronger sex. She is made of sterner stuff. But when she has reduced her sex to a community of neurotics, it remains to be seen whether they will be satisfied or content."

CHIEF REPRIMANDED FOR LAX CONDUCT

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 14.—As an aftermath of the tragedy in which Professor and Mrs. Huxley and their daughter at Greenwood were killed when their car was side swiped and forced into the Niagara Gorge, the Board of Police Commissioners met here this afternoon severely reprimanded Chief Stephen Walsh of the Police Department for allowing nearly four hours to elapse before he communicated with outside points in an endeavor to apprehend the hit and run driver who had caused the accident. Also for failing to secure evidence from the two eye witnesses of the tragedy who volunteered information shortly after the accident.

ROOKIE THROWN OUT BY YANKS POLED OUT WIN

Langford's Circuit Clout In 6th Inning Gave Cleveland Victory

New York, September 16.—The Cleveland Indians prevented the Yankees from winning their 100th game here yesterday by taking the last of the series by 2 to 2. While yielding only seven hits, Langford, a Cleveland rookie, tried out by the Yankees several years ago, won the game in the sixth with a home run, scoring behind J. Sewell.

The Athletics made a clean-sweep of their three-game series with the Chicago White Sox by winning the final today 5 to 4. Jimmy Foxx hit a home run with two on in the third round and gave the Mackmen a 4 to 2 lead that Chicago tied in the sixth. A double steal by French and Cobb, the former scoring, put over the run in the seventh that refeated Ted Lyons the Sox pitching ace.

St. Louis took the final game of its season series with Boston today, 3 to 1. The winning run came in the sixth when Rice drove the ball into the right field bleachers for a home run. The blow broke up an old-fashioned pitcher's battle between Milton Gaston and Slim Harriss. The Browns have won 16 games from the Red Sox this season and lost six.

After dropping three games in a row, the Detroit Tigers about faced today and won the last game of the series from the Washington Senators 6 to 5. The Tigers overcame an early lead in the seventh when two singles a double and a homer by Manush with one on netted four runs, giving them a lead they held.

ESCAPED TO DYING CHILD

Toronto, September 16.—When Ocilia Cereni, serving a two-year sentence at the home of the Good Shepherd for receiving stolen property, heard that her two-year-old child was dying of diphtheria at the Isolation Hospital, she made her escape from the institution. She was re-arrested after sentenced to three months additional for escaping. The child died. Authorities said that the granting of permission for her to go to see her dying child would have been considered if she had asked for it.

URGE RETURN OF SENIOR BASEBALL

Reorganization Of Central League Good Suggestion

If somebody will make the move to re-organize the Central Ontario Baseball League, it appears that Senior baseball will again flourish in these parts, as it did in the past. Baseball centres along the line are apparently not satisfied that Intermediate Ball suffices. According to Joe Daly, the "Scrappy" Manager of the Kingston Seniors, who was here with the Circle Six team, Kingston are willing to get back in next year, while Peterboro still show the same inclination as they did this year, and are ready to link up again. Oshawa are thinking the matter over and after their being out for two years will likely want to get back to the old fold. There is the possibility of one or two Toronto teams getting in also. Joe apparently has been approached along these lines, the suggestion coming that the teams at a distance play Fridays and Saturdays in Toronto. This would cut down expenses of transportation. How it would work out we cannot say. Mr. Daly states that a meeting should be called this fall in order that the teams may be in a position to declare their intentions. Can former officers of the Central Ontario League not start the ball rolling by lining up a meeting?

Coming back to our own precincts; Belleville fans have seen enough of Intermediate ball. Why not let us have Senior again? If the League as might be composed next year is organized, is Belleville going to stay in the bushes. We would say not. It may be claimed that the team can not be financed but in a city of this kind we are sure it can.

We will not say what kind of a team Belleville can supply, but we can lay a wager that with very little extra help and the home talent hereabouts turning out, the locals will not have to take a back seat in Senior circles.

Wake up gang—not next spring—but now!

CARDS DIVIDED THIRD STRAIGHT DOUBLEHEADER

Battle At St. Louis Added To Pittsburgh Pirates' Lead

New York, September 16.—The world champion Cardinals divided their third straight double-header with the Giants yesterday, and the two clubs continue in a tie for second place, each dropping half a game further behind the league leading Pirates, who trimmed the Braves. The Giants won the first game by knocking Halsey out of the box in three innings, piling up a big lead, and continued the assault for a final total of 11 to 3. The Cardinals took the closing battle by 9 to 5, darkness halting the contest after the New Yorkers had batted in the eighth.

St. Louis used 20 players in the opening encounter, five belect pitchers. Every hit two hundred and fifty-two in the season, the contest with two on base. Taylor and Wilson opened with the bases full when Haines had purposely passed Harper to get at Taylor.

Big Letty Jim Faulkner, the new Giant from Toledo, made his debut and allowed seven hits in five and two-thirds innings, being lifted with the bases loaded. Larry Benton got his record and put on the basket, allowing only three hits in the last two of the game. Faulkner got credit for the victory.

In the second combat, the Cardinals took advantage of New York errors, and hit Fitzsimmons and Mogridge. Frisch and Haley hit homers in this game in which Frankhouse, a right-hander from Houston Texas, won his third straight for St. Louis. About 27,000 attended the twin session. The Cardinals and Giants are 4 1-2 games behind Pittsburgh. With one more clash in the current series.

Battling opportunely behind brilliant pitching by Carroll Hill, the Pittsburgh Pirates continued their march toward the pennant yesterday by defeating the Boston Braves, 2 to 1.

It was the Corsair's fifth straight triumph over the Braves, their eighth victory in a row, and Boston's 12th consecutive defeat. It marked at the same time Hill's 22nd win of the season. He has been defeated nine times. He allowed only five hits yesterday. The game was a tight hurling battle between Hill and Bob Smith.

PLAYERS REPORT FOR FALL GRIND

Tricolor Have Old Guard With Many Newcomers On Deck

Kingston, Sept. 15.—Rugby players of Queen's University will arrive in the city on Thursday, and it is likely that practices will be started at once. Prof. Orin Carson, the new coach of the senior squad, naturally is saying nothing regarding the coming season, but feels confident that the Tri-Color will give a good account of itself in the college series.

Harry Batstone is expected to be among the first to report, along with "Cliff" Howard, captain of the team this year, "Duke" Britton, "Jimmy" Wright, "Bruno" Wright, "Cib" McKelvey, "Ike" Sutton, Reynolds, Nagle and several others are also expected to arrive on Thursday. "Liz" Walker, last year's captain, and who will be a regular rearin this year at outside wing, is already in the city, having spent the summer here.

Fred Warren, star of the Western University team, will likely come to Queen's this fall, though it is doubtful if he will play any rugby.

Another newcomer is Faulkner, son of a former well-known Queen's player, who is entering the university this fall. He is a husky boy, standing over six feet tall, and has played considerable rugby in the United States.

Queen's may have also, the first Chinese player to appear on an intercollegiate team, in the person of the daughter of Dr. Yip, who graduated last spring. The young Chinese is reported as being one of the outstanding soccer players in the west, and is going to try out for 'Varsity on the rugby team. If in a great harker and a fast runner, and may yet make the senior team.

Some people are too honest to take advice they haven't paid for, and others are too wise.

S. A.'S RESOURCES WERE REVIEWED

Three Varieties Of Asbestos Are Mined In South Africa

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 15 (C.P.)—South Africa's base metal and base mineral resources were reviewed in a paper before the Empire Mining Congress here the other day by C. J. M. Henderson of Bloemfontein, South Africa. Of special interest to Canadian delegates was his account of the South African asbestos mining industry, which has been expanding rapidly in recent years. Three distinct varieties of asbestos are mined in Africa. These include "chrysotile," the variety for which the Eastern Townships of the Province of Quebec have become World-famed; "crocidolite," which is peculiar to South Africa, so far as deposits of commercial size are concerned and "amosite," a very long-fibre asbestos.

Mr. Jourdan's description of the African corundum deposits was also of considerable local interest, in view of the fact that there are, in the Craigmont district, Ontario, enormous deposits of corundum-bearing rock, which for many years formed the basis of a very lucrative industry. This however was killed by competition from the more cheaply made artificial abrasives. The South African corundum-bearing reefs frequently carry as much as 65 per cent. of corundum, and in places weathering of these reefs has given rise to deposits of loose boulder or "crystal" corundum. These latter were worked on a fairly large scale during the war, and there are signs that the demand is again increasing.

Nickel ores occur in several districts in the Transvaal, and there is a striking similarity between some of these occurrences and the famous Sudbury deposits. Platinum is associated with the nickel and copper in the recently discovered Merensky platinum reef, which again recalls the fact that the recovery of platinum from the Sudbury ores has placed Canada third among the platinum-producing countries of the world.

Other South African papers presented at this meeting were by W. A. Quilkey, on "Methods of eliminating barren rock from ore at the Sub Nigel Mine, Transvaal," and by Messrs. Carl R. Davis, J. L. Willey, and S. E. T. Ewing on "The Operation of the re-duction plant of West Spring, Limited."

In six years the United States government has distributed more than 55,000,000 pounds of surplus war explosives to farmers for blasting stumps.

WATER POWER IS ONE OF BIGGEST RESOURCES HERE

New Towns Spring Up Wherever Water Powers Are Developed

Continued development of the power resources of Canada and its influence on the birth and growth of new towns in various parts of the Dominion, is drawn to the attention in a striking manner in the following article from The Ottawa Citizen:—

Water-power is one of Canada's greatest natural resources and is available in large quantities near practically all the centres of industry from coast to coast. It is now established from the experience of many years that wherever water-power is developed industry and population inevitably follow. Furthermore, the modern tendency is for the large industries to locate at the power site, because the cost of power is lower, the land for factory sites is cheaper, the cost of living for employees, taxes and other items are reduced and thereby the general costs of production are reduced.

New towns spring up wherever large water-powers are developed and older towns take on new life and growth. For instance the towns of Three Rivers, Sorel, Grand Mere, Shawinigan Falls, Donnaconna, and Cap de la Madeleine, Quebec, in the area supplied from the power developments on the St. Maurice river; in the Eastern Townships of Quebec where power development rests in an area of 6,000 sq. miles has resulted in the locating there of 27 new industries, representing over $20,000,000 in factory equipment, and the employment of 6,000 persons; on the Saguenay river, 200 miles north of Quebec, the development of 200,000 horse-power has led to the establishment of the new model town of Arvida which is expected to shortly have a population of 5,000; at Outarde Falls, the development of a site with an ultimate capacity of 50,000 horse-power is taking place and the new model town of Outarde Falls is already far advanced with hospitals, schools, convent and town hall. Other towns that have been created ov water-power in conjunction with pulp resources are Chicoutimi, Escoumins-ville, La Tuque, Windsor Mills, Kenogami and Clark City.

In the province of Ontario, in addition to the industry and employment resulting from power industry development at Niagara, Niagara Falls, Toronto, the whole mining industry of the Province is carried on with the aid of water-power, without which the large production of gold, silver, nickel and copper would be impossible. Water-power in conjunction with forests has not only made possible a large pulp and paper industry, but is responsible for the creation of new communities such as Iroquois Falls, Kapuskasing, Smooth Rock Falls, Espanola, Dryden and Sturgeon Falls and has also added largely to the industrial welfare of many other Ontario cities and towns.

In Manitoba, Winnipeg and district gets much of its healthy expansion to the low-cost power provided by the falls at Fort Alexander. In British Columbia, where water-power makes every contribution to the prosperity of the coast and inland cities, new towns have been created by the pulp and paper industries at Powell river and Ocean Falls, whereas on the Atlantic coast a new community in Nova Scotia has come into being in connection with a paper enterprise at Sheet Harbour and the development at Grand Falls on the St. John river in New Brunswick will have a beneficial effect on the centres of population in that part of the latter province.

It is surprising how quickly the population of such a new centre grows and takes upon itself the functions of modern city life. In the beginning there is the erection of factories and of dwellings for the work people and superintendents. This is usually followed by the erection of retail shops, repair shops, garages, etc.

CARRICK'S LOSS FELT BY VARSITY

Toronto, Sept. 15.—The University of Toronto lost another member of its intercollegiate football squad when Don Carrick, wing man, announced that he would apply himself to boxing only. Carrick returned from Chicago where he concluded a successful season in golf by qualifying and playing through the western open championship, which ranks won for a fourth time by Walter Hagen.

Carrick stated that studies and other university activities would not allow the time necessary for football. He added that he would continue with his boxing and keep in training for the annual bouts of Canadian colleges, West Point and Annapolis.

While in Chicago, Carrick asked Jack Dempsey if he cared to take him into his training camp as a sparring partner for a day or so. He met the former world's heavyweight champion on one of the courses at Olympia Fields.

"Need any more sparring partners?" was Carrick's question when he met Dempsey on one of the tees.

"No, I have all I need," was the answer.

LOSES SIGHT

Peterboro, Sept. 16.—Vernon O'Connor, aged nine, was struck in the left eye by a splinter of glass which flew off the glass cutter's machine at the Midway yesterday afternoon, and in all probability will lose the sight of his eye.

His parents, Mr. and Mrs. P. J. O'Connor, of Cricket Place, immediately rushed him to the Kiwanis Lost Children's Tent, which is in charge of Police Matron Amy Wood. The matron saw that the boy's eye was bleeding badly, and she had him taken to the St. Joseph's Hospital where Dr. Buchanan was sulmoned.

The boy was operated on, and Dr. Buchanan has very little hope of the boy ever seeing again with the eye.

Provincial Constable Maker is investigating the accident.

A NEW TRIAL

Kingston, Sept. 16.—A new trial in the Bell will case, being a suit brought by Lillian Floyd Bell, widow of the late Dr. George W. Bell, against Carlton W. Bell and Georgina Bell, has been ordered, and will be tried by Mr. Justice Rose at the Fall Assizes which open at the Court House on Tuesday next at one o'clock. The case was originally heard by the late Justice Lennox, but as no decision was handed down prior to his death, the new trial is the result.

On the docket for the Supreme Court next week are one jury civil case and six non-jury cases, as well as two motion papers, while it is also likely that one or two criminal cases will be before the court.

FINED $100 AND BONDED

Picton, Sept. 16.—Mr. George Claxton, prosperous farmer of Cherry Valley, in police court, was charged with an offense against a 17-year-old girl in his employ. He pleaded guilty and evidence was produced to show that the defendant had married the girl in the case. In consideration of these circumstances Magistrate Willms dealt leniently with the case, imposing a fine of $100 and costs, requiring a bond of $1,000 from Claxton that he would keep the peace.

TURN HAIR DARK WITH SAGE TEA

The old-time mixture of Sage Tea and Sulphur for darkening gray, streaked and faded hair is grandmother's recipe, and folks are again using it to keep their hair a good, even color which is quite sensible, as we are living in an age when a youthful appearance is of the greatest advantage.

Nowadays, though, we don't have to bring out a batch of rainbow tea sage and the musty mixing at home. All drug stores sell the ready-to-use product, improved by the addition of other ingredients, called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." It is very popular because nobody can discover it has been applied. Simply moisten your comb or a soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time; by morning the gray hair disappears, but what delights the ladies with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound, is that, besides beautifully darkening the hair after a few applications, it also produces that soft lustre and appearance of abundance which is so attractive.

Heralding The New Autumn Modes At The Kiwanis Karnival Next Week

When the curtain rises for the first showing of the Fall 1927 Fashions on Monday Evening at the Armouries, Belleville will again have entered upon a week where Fashions Reign Supreme. The Grace and Charm of the New Mode revealed in Fashions for Autumn will make this year's revue one of outstanding interest to everyone, and when the curtain is drawn for the last time on Friday Evening—we predict it will close the most successful event of its kind ever held. Over 300 garments will be modelled by eight pretty Belleville girls during the week—every garment coming from one or more of the style shops mentioned on this page.

BEAUTIFUL NEW STAGE SETTINGS FOR THIS YEARS FASHION REVUE

An entire new setting has been arranged by a local artist—as a background for the stage that will accommodate the Fashion Display. The large Victor Orthophonic will occupy the centre of the stage and from this the Mannequins will make their entrance to view.

900 Reserve Seats for the Style Show

As an Added Accommodation to ever-increasing patronage to the Style Show, there has been added an extra block of 400 Seats, making a total this year of 900. These extra seats are raised above the level of the stage, thus assuring everyone of clear vision.

THIRD KIWANIS KARNIVAL WILL OUTCLASS ALL FORMER EFFORTS

"Pig Skin" Peters To Bring His Laughter Provoking Stunts

Inaugurated in 1925 the third annual Kiwanis Karnival opens on Monday night and judging from the manner in which the members of this popular service organization have been scurrying around during the past month this year's doings are bound to eclipse either of the other two.

"Bigger and Better Than Ever," is the slogan of the Kiwanis and with several of the latest features added the program lines up as an attractive one.

Last year "Miss Toronto" captured the hearts of the Belleville audiences with her exquisite loveliness and scores were unable to get more than a passing glimpse of the Queen City idol.

Although in another sphere entirely, "Pig Skin Peters" of Marathon swim fame, is an equally fine attraction and sent spectators at the Canadian National Exhibition into ecstasies of laughter with his antics. Like the popular screen favorite, Charlie Chaplin, "Pig Skin" is synonomous with the ever present derby which he cocks aside his head in a nonchalant manner while performing his stunts. "Pig Skin" has caused a sensation on his every appearance throughout the Province and this popular favorite promises to be one of the outstanding head-liners of the Karnival.

The officials are introducing a score of other specialty numbers in their attempt to out-do anything previously attempted. The Hero of Bird's Eye Centre will explain to the people of Belleville his failure to win the swim and it is reported that he has some reasonable alibis.

Professional vaudeville, a new creation is expected to make a hit with the crowd and the highest-paid artists in the country have been secured.

The Rain Orchestra, one of the world's latest wonders, is being installed and the popular hits of the day will be played on this giant music producing device.

Eight of Belleville's prettiest beauties will parade on the stage exhibiting the latest modes of Autumn fashions. These girls have been hand-picked from among a host of others and merchants of Belleville are exciting themselves in a display of Fall loggery and a special range of gowns, furs and coats will be shown.

The jitney dancing which has during the past two years drawn large crowds, will again be conducted in the reception room of the armouries with a first-class orchestra supplying the music.

These are only a few of the many charming features of the Karnival and the people of Belleville may rest assured that they are due for something bigger and better than ever.

8 PRETTY GIRLS IN STYLE REVUE

Merchants Have Arranged Smart Showing Of New Fall Fashions.

We are ready and the merchants are ready to eclipse any former efforts made in this city to stage a Fashion Show—not excluding our fine effort of last year. Many of the smartest gowns and coats have been held in reserve just to have their first showing in this initial Fall Revue of Fashions for 1927, and when eight of Belleville's pretty girls step onto the stage on Monday evening to act as mannequins, that will just be the beginning of a fashion feast that will last for five nights.

This year the stage will have an entirely new setting. The large Orthophonic will occupy the centre of the stage and from out of this magnificent machine the mannequins will enter the stage on their various appearances. Three hundred more reserve seats have been added to those of other years thus assuring all of a seat. The nights are arranged as follows:

Monday—The Walker Store.
Tuesday—J. A. McNabb Co.
Wednesday—The Ritchie Co.
Thursday—Sinclair's.
Friday—Wolfen's Limited.

KARNIVAL PROFITS ALL GO TO "CHARITY FUND"

President Jack McIntosh Asks Citizens' Wholehearted Co-operation

It is with confidence and pleasure that I commend to the people of Belleville and vicinity the 1927 edition of the Annual Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show. If time and hard work will make our second Annual Karnival a success then next week's effort will not go unrewarded, for it has taken weeks of planning and during the week just closing the entire personnel of our Club membership has given unsparingly of their valuable time to have the "Big Show" all ready for the curtain raiser on Monday evening.

The Kiwanis Club has done much for the welfare of our city and the very existence of our Club depends on its activity in community service—hence the Club never ceases to be busy in helpful community enterprises and always lends a sympathetic ear to any call for assistance of every kind.

It might be interesting to note that the money raised on our various efforts does not find its way to the actual Club funds but is kept on deposit in a special "Charity Fund" account in the bank.

We earnestly solicit your patronage in order that you may share in the worthwhile work of our Club and would bid one and all welcome to our Karnival next week.

JACK McINTOSH,
President.

LEVINE TO GO AHEAD WITH LONG FLIGHT

New York, Sept. 16.—Pleadings of his wife and two children that he abandon his projected flight from England to India today, found Charles Levine apparently unmoved in his determination to carry out his plans. Levine had promised last Tuesday in a private telephone conversation with his wife to consider canceling the project, but when he called her from London yesterday, he said he wouldn't be satisfied until he undertook the flight. He said he had made up his mind to proceed with it.

DISCONTENT IN HEDJAZ

Jerusalem, September 16.—Unrest is growing in the Hedjaz against Sultan Ibn Saoud, the Damascus newspaper Ahd El Jedid says. The two main parties, the Nationalists and the Liberals, have combined in the struggle against the dominance of the Wahabis, who are charged with having failed to carry out promises made at the time of their conquest.

The object of the movement, it is said, is independence for the edjaz and delegates representing the combination are being sent to Cairo and Bombay where it is proposed to publish newspapers attacking the Wahabis.

LONG HOP NAMED FOR COL. LINDBERGH

Chicago, Sept. 16.—Colonel Charles Lindbergh has another namesake. He is One Long Hop, a little baby boy born a few days ago in Chinatown. His Chinese parents impressed by Col. Lindbergh's feat wanted to name their child after him but they wanted a name with a Chinese ring in it. After much thought the name was chosen today.

The mummy of a horse, buried 3,000 years ago, was found near Cairo, Egypt.

WESTERN CROP REPORTS CONTINUE TO BE OPTIMISTIC

Latest Attempted Trans-Atlantic Flight Fails Owing To Fog And Winds But No Lives Lost

SURVEY PLACES WESTERN WHEAT CROPS AT 424 MILLION BUSHELS

Manitoba Free Press Annual Report Differs Slightly From Government.

RAINS HOLD HARVEST

Rust, Frost And Hail Do Some Damage In Three Provinces

Winnipeg, Sept. 17.—Wheat production of the three prairie provinces this year is placed at 424,312,135 bushels in a preliminary estimate of the Manitoba Free Press today. This estimate is based on personal inspection by a staff of agricultural experts who have covered more than 8,700 miles of territory and from estimates of local correspondents.

The estimated oat production shown at 280,300,432, barley 82,613,000 rye 14,870,960 flax 3,761,300.

Compared with the estimate of the Dominion Government issued last Monday, the Free Press wheat figures are approximately eight million bushels lower, oats fifty-two million bushels lower, barley six million bushels higher, rye one million bushels higher and flax two million two hundred thousand higher.

Wheat Practically All Cut

Latest reports from country correspondents state that approximately 95 percent. of the wheat is cut in Manitoba and from 75 to 85 percent. in other two provinces, while very large sections of oats and flax are still uncut. Rust, frost and hail have been the chief sources of damage and has believed to have been done in Saskatchewan and Manitoba by rust. All harvesting and threshing is reported to be at a standstill at "the present time on account of recent rains and the consequent damage is reported to have begun to sprout in stooks.

In many fields where the inception is slight and there has been no frost, the wheat still shows a small and shriveled berry. In the report states, Garnet Wheat has not, as a rule, produced much better crops than Red Fife and has shown quite as strong a tendency to rust. Durum wheat, of which the Red River Valley is reported increased in both Manitoba and Saskatchewan have, developed rust in almost every field. Western stem saw fly was found in parts of Manitoba and in some districts rye was noticed.

QUARREL ENDED IN SAD TRAGEDY

Port Hope, Sept. 17.—A story of an altercation between two farmers both in their seventies, a quarrel that ended in tragedy, was told here yesterday when a Coroner's jury investigated the death of 76-year-old Hugh Liggett, Tope Township, Friday.

Hugh Liggett died on Sept. 12 following injuries received on September 7, when, according to the evidence yesterday, he and his brother, 74-year-old Sam Liggett, quarrelled.

The accident occurred, it was said, after an altercation in a harvest field regarding the disposition of a load of grain grown on shares by the deceased farmer and his brother, Sam. Evidence was given which showed that when Sam objected to garnering arrangements made by his brother, latter flourished a pitchfork in a menacing fashion, causing Sam to grapple with him. During the melee the hands of a team, and the front wheel of the wagon became upset. Dr. A. C. Seaborn identified that deceased had received a bruised side, together with broken ribs, and that these injuries resulted in his death.

FORCED BACK BY WINDS AND FOG

Irish Aviators Abandoned Atlantic Flight But Landed Safely.

Ballybunnion, Ireland, Sept. 17.—After examining the Monoplane "Princess Xenia" on the Best Strand where they landed safely shortly yesterday, and attempt to fly the Atlantic, Capt. Robert McIntosh and Commandant James C. FitzMaurice, in the monoplane Princess Xenia, when already over the Atlantic on their projected non-stop flight to New York, were forced to turn back to Ireland. They made a safe landing six miles south of Ballybunnion, County Kerry at 6 o'clock last night.

The landing of the aviators at the little seaside resort four and a half hours after they had hopped off with high hopes and every foreseen, ended failure for another east-west transatlantic flight, but it was failure without loss of life.

NEW COVERED RINK FOR TWEED VILLAGE

Tweed, Sept. 17.—The ground for the new covered rink to be erected by the Tweed Amusement Ltd., was purchased on a lot just south from S. O. Way, being the lots between the Dominion Foundry and the Salvation Army barracks.

This week it was made known that the contract had been given to the Houston Company, Ltd., of Tweed and Belleville, and preparations have already been started. The men are on the property, busy with the mapping out of the foundation and it looks now as if we were sure of real comfort while skating and watching the hockey matches here this winter.

1927 REVENUE SHOWS INCREASE

Customs Duties Yield 7,000,000 Income Tax Up

Ottawa, September 17.—National revenue is being well maintained notwithstanding the decline in land and sales taxes announced by Hon. James A. Robb in his last budget. The increase this year to date is approximately nine million dollars.

Customs duties yield an increase of nearly seven millions in the total revenue for five months ended August 31, 1927, $52,054,054, as compared with $60,568,975 for the corresponding period last year. Sales taxes decreased by nearly three millions, the figures being $7,421,894 for the first five months of the present year as against $10,050,649 last year. These taxes include the sales tax on cheques and the tax on matches, which were reduced by half.

The reduction in the sales tax from 5 to 4 per cent. also has curtailed revenue, which dropped from $27,615,341 last year to $24,522,830 this year. Excise duties bunkered by more than three millions, from $23,054,250 to $34,857,163. This is attributed to increased vigilance in the department, which has checked smuggling of cigarettes at the border.

Perhaps the most notable increase, however, if in income tax collections, period last year, to $7,615,341, a reduction in the tax, amount so far this year to $4,789,205, as compared with $43,827,055 for the corresponding five months of last year. The department has vigorously prosecuted delinquents and no fewer than six hundred persons have been hailed to court under the new regime for failure to file returns or for filing fraudulent returns. Police magistrates have assessed $10,000 in penalties.

Canada's total trade for the first five months of the present fiscal year —April to August, inclusive—shows an increase of $23,000,000 to $1,000,000 another side to the picture which is not quite so pleasant. The increase is all trade, which in a twelve-month has been known to exceed a hundred million dollars has practically vanished.

During the month of August Canadians imported merchandise valued at $90,348,240 and exported merchandise worth $94,218,184.

For the five months ending August they purchased abroad goods to the value of $450,975,240 and sold to other countries merchandise worth $468,410,-424.

Compared with 1926, the position is somewhat the same with a heavier sale. We spent more money abroad —$48,000,000—and we sold $4,000,000 less to other countries. There will be a different story to tell, of course, when the record is made up based on the prairies more towards the markets of the Old World.

The gross loss of Canadian trade was $253,219,889 for the first five months of 1927, as compared with $200,234,970 the corresponding period last year.

Favorable balance of trading (i.e., the excess of domestic exports over imports) declined from $48,740,985 to $6,735,003 as between the two periods.

DEATH OF CHILD WAS ACCIDENTAL DEATH'S VERDICT

No Blame Attached To Motorist For Death Of Ruth Guest

SHORT INQUEST

Little Girl Ran Out In Front Of Car Without Looking

A verdict of accidental death with the driver exonerated from all blame was rendered by the jury empanelled to inquire into the death of the late Ruth Dingle, 5-year-old girl, who passed away in the Belleville General Hospital from injuries received when struck by a car driven by Spencer E. Wright, of Madoc, N.Y. in the town of Deseronto on the morning of September 6th.

The jury did not retire to decide a verdict but remained in the court room.

The hearing which occupied only a short time, was heard before Coroner Dr. Boyle in the Belleville Police Court room. Mr. R. C. Denman acted for the Crown and R. D. Ponton for Mr. and Mrs. Wright.

Mrs. Stobie, of this city, was the first to take the stand. He stated that the cause of death was due to a fractured skull.

Mr. A. Guest, the father of the unfortunate child was then called and heard. He said his own car was stop ping before the car of Mr. and Mrs. Wright and his daughter ran across the road and was struck by the other car which was going at a fast rate.

Mr. Donnan—"Was there anything in your mind to prevent anything on going at any excessive rate of speed?"

"No."

Mrs. Nellie Guest, mother who accompanied her husband stated that her two daughters had reached the sidewalk on the north side when Ruth took a quick jump and ran without looking to the highway. The car coming from behind smaller car parked on the north side.

Mrs. Cook said she judged the speed of the other car to be in the neighborhood of 30 miles an hour.

"Was there any signal given by the other driver?"

"I was excited at the time and I couldn't say."

The witness said that Ruth was struck and seemed to spin through the air.

Coroner Boyce—"Did you warn the children of the dangers of passing cars when they left you."

"No not that time but I have made it a point to remind all to look out for them."

Beatrice Guest, a 17-year-old sister who accompanied her sister to the ice cream stand took the stand.

"What did you see of the car when she reached the sidewalk?"

She stated she had just 3 shouted to her but apparently she did not hear her.

Miss Guest said she saw the car coming previous to the time her sister was

LEVINE POSTPONES FLIGHT TO INDIA

Cranwell, Eng., Sept. 17.—Charles A. Levine announced his projected long distance flight to India after two unsuccessful attempts to start the inaugurate Colonial off the ground this morning. Levine and Hinchcliffe, the British pilot, made the first attempt at 10.30 o'clock and another half hour later, but were forced to abandon both by to the ground, the tail refusing to lift. Levine said he would make a study method of reducing the weight of the load carried and that he would take off tomorrow morning.

PRECIOUS BULBS!

Bank of Montreal Undertakes Distribution of Prince's Gift.

The Prince of Wales has donated numerous "precious" bulbs to the towns, cities and villages of Canada. The Bank of Montreal has undertaken to distribute these bulbs.

The local branch of the Bank of Montreal is in receipt of a letter from Head Office stating that some bulbs will be shipped by parcel post from Montreal for distribution in Belleville and Madoc. Other branches in the vicinity will also receive bulbs for distribution.

QUIET HOUR ON ROUTINE AFFAIRS

No Contentious Subjects Marred The Peace At Trustees' Meeting

The exciting and hectic days of getting a new Collegiate Institute in Belleville evidently have gone forever and last nights regular meeting of the Board of Education was quiet and only routine business was discussed. Principal Ashley Sprowl's report was read and stated that a larger attendance was present at the opening of the school than last and that the percentage of successful candidates in the summer examinations was higher than at the last year. Permission was asked and granted for Miss Ethel Bell and Mr. Sprowl preferably to be held on a Wednesday. Colonel Ponton and Mr. Arthur Jones attended the Sports day to be held on a Saturday.

Board Medal

It was moved that the Governor General's medal for the candidate standing in the highest number of marks in the High School entrance examinations will be awarded Geneva Gertrude Lawson. The medal will be known in future as the Board of Education medal, as the Board has been asked for the medal anyway for the last few years. It was also moved that the age limit with regards to the medal be removed.

The Women's Institute of Thurlow, Sidney, Hastings and Prontenac are holding a meeting in Belleville, in the council chamber, on Friday and Saturday nights fals on the next regular Board of Education evening. The ladies requested that the Board meet elsewhere that night.

The usual requests for fire insurance on the new collegiate were referred to the Finance committee.

The question of whether the Board should purchase the lot north of Queen Alexandra School dropped up again last night and was referred to a special committee with instructions to report back to the Board after negotiations.

The annual requests of the Girl's and Boy's Athletic were read.

Dr. Clarke was appointed the new school dentist for the ensuing year as Mr. Wilson has resigned.

The last matter to come before up by the Board was the laying of a cornerstone for the new collegiate. Colonel Ponton was of the opinion that the Board and school officials in this, but other members of the Board declared that the school was also used by the pupils and that a special committee was formed, composed of the Chairman of the Board, the Chairmen of the Standing Committees and Colonel Ponton to investigate plans and specifications for laying the stone and to report back to the Board. Thursday, September 29th was given the presence of the Minister of Education at the ceremony.

GOVERNMENT MAINTAINS SLENDER LEAD IN LATE ELECTION RETURNS

DISGUISED IN RUSSIA

Last Report Gives Cosgrave 21 Seats Against De Valera's 17

SMALL PARTIES LOSE

Leader Of The Labor Group Seems Sliked For Defeat

Dublin, Sept. 17.—Election figures in the Free State Parliamentary election on Thursday stood, at midnight, with the following standings. Government 51, Fianna Fail 17, Independent 7, Labor 3, National League 2, Irish Workers 1, and Farmers 1.

Dublin, Sept. 17.—First returns from Thursday's Free State parliamentary election indicates that there will be no landslide in the direction of either the Government party or the Republicans. Both the parties of President Cosgrave and of Eamon De Valera show increased polls which were due in the main because of visits to the districts in the number of candidates and add to accessions to the leading parties from minor groups.

At mid day the election figures, which proved most difficult to compile until next week, gave the following standings, Government 19, Fianna Fail 17, Labor 1, National League 2, Irish Workers 1 and Independents 7.

Farmer and labor parties have both suffered. P. F. Barrier, leader of the Farmer's Party, lost his seat in County Carlow to a Fianna Fail opponent. Latest, while it appeared likely that Thomas Johnson leader of the Labor party also would meet defeat. James Larkin, Independent Labor was elected on the Dublin North constituency. This result was not expected and is attributed to the influence among Dublin workers.

EGGS SOLD FOR 45¢ PER DOZEN

Big Market Due To Fine Weather—Produce Plentiful

A glorious day filled the market place to capacity this morning and business was brisk. Potatoes sold for 75 cents a bushel, 15 cents a dozen, pumpkins, ten cents each and tomatoes for $1.00 bushel. Fruit was reasonably priced, pears selling from 60 to 75 cents a peck, apples, $1.00 a bushel and plums for 75 cents a basket.

Eggs were the same price as last Saturday, retailing at 45 cents a dozen while chickens were slightly higher selling for $1.25 a peck. Green and red peppers were 50 cents a dozen and potatoe 50 cents a peck. Lettuce was 10 cents a bunch, squash 15 to 25 cents and carrots 5 cents a bunch. Chickens were $1.50 a pair.

RAYNOR CASE TO GO ON THIS AFTERNOON

The case of H. H. Raynor to answer twelve charges laid by the Industrial Finance Corporation of Walkerville, which was called at ten o'clock this morning in the Picton police court, was adjourned until two o'clock this afternoon.

Mr. Fraser, K.C., of Windsor, for the Finance Corporation, Mr. Roebuck and Mr. Terrens for Williams and F. L. Ward of Picton for Raynor were conference, and asked for an adjournment, until this afternoon.

WILL NOT SEEK THE PRES. NOMINATION

Washington, Sept. 17.—William G. McAdoo has informed his friends that he will not be a candidate for the Democratic presidential nomination in 1928. His decision has been communicated to Grover Cleveland Bergdoll of the Chattanooga, Tenn., News in a letter sent in response to a request from Mr. Millon that he announce his candidature.

Declaring that his "chief concern" was "supremacy of Democratic principles and progressive policies," Mr. McAdoo said that "Perhaps I can do more to advance these objects as a private citizen than as a candidate for the Presidency."

STUNT LION ACCOMPANIES PILOT ON AIR JOURNEY

San Diego, Calif., September 17.—Leo, a movie stunt lion, hopped off today with Martin Jensen, flier, from Camp Kearney Field here, on an attempted non-stop flight to New York.

Squatting comfortably in a specially built case in the plane behind the aviator, who placed second in recent Oakland to Honolulu flight, Leo made a perfect take-off.

Jensen said he expected to make New York in 22 hours. For food for the trip, Jensen took three sandwiches a bottle of coffee and a canteen of water. Leo feasted on several juicy steaks before the hop-off.

CONVICT'S RUSE BETRAYED BY HIS MASCULINE BOUNDS

London, Sept. 17.—A convict who attempted to escape from Parkhurst prison in feminine clothes caused considerable amusement today. While he reform walked he stole away and forced an entrance into the prison governor's house.

When he reappeared he was dressed in a woman, with a woman's coat reaching to his knees, the latest fashion in silk stockings and other lingerie delicate looking shoes and a cloth hat. With dainty steps he tripped toward the highway which led to freedom.

Then seeing the motor bus that would assist him to place the hated prison quickly behind him, he forgot himself and broke into a run. His masculine bounds betrayed him to prison officials and his short-lived insurrection came to an end, amid the hearty laughter of his fellow convicts.

Y'S MEN RESUME FALL SEMESTER

New Officers Elected To Head Local Service Club

The Y's Men's Club held their first meeting in the Association building last evening after the summer vacation and a fine number of members thoroughly strated that the spirit in this young service club is greater than ever. New officers have been elected since the last semester and the Committees have been re-arranged. It looks like another banner year for the Y's Men's Club in Belleville. A feature of the opening meeting was announcement of the inauguration of an attendance competition in the various clubs and placed into groups with a special prize going to the winners at the completion of the semester.

"Army" Armstrong, the live-wire Armstrong and Imlah, was elected President but the rest of the slate is practically the same as that of the old officers "Bob" Brown and George Paisley felt that they had served long enough and have requested that they be relieved of their interest in Club activities as they have to "go west".

"Newt" Thompson who attended the Y's Men's Convention in Milwaukee in the interests of the local club gave a brief survey of some of the high-lights of the meeting. A former member of Kiwanis, a guest as was Mr. H. S. Joanes, brother of Toronto Kiwanis. The officers for the ensuing year are:

TODAY'S THOUGHT

'Tis not a lip, or eye, we beauty call,
But the joint force and full result of all.

POPE.

PAYING OUR DEBTS

It requires an effort to follow the changing figures in the public debt of Canada, which show some remarkable changes within a few months. It is gratifying, however, to know that the total debt is steadily declining and that the annual charges on the debt are less than they were, all of which is satisfactory.

The outstanding facts regarding the national debt, as given out for the end of August, are that the net total now stands at $2,324,240,215, upon which the interest charges for the year ending with March 31, 1927, amounted to $121,000,000, as compared with $139,000,000 in 1921, when the gross debt was above three billion.

During the past seven years there has been a constant effort to clear up, to renew all maturing securities at lower rates, paying off as much as possible out of surplus revenue and that the burden of debt on the country should be lightened.

From a statement made by Hon. J. A. Robb, it would appear that the interest-bearing debt of Canada has been reduced $104,215,846 in the past five years. The major portion of that reduction was made possible by the lower charges on the public debt. It has been the conviction all along that the federal government did not apply those efforts for economy which business men and others had to apply in order to bring about a secure condition of their affairs. However, it is welcome news that some improvement has been made in the public debt figures.

Mr. Robb was able to state that the $77,000,000 which falls due in the next two months will be paid out of cash now in the treasury, and that there will remain enough to pay part of the $63,000,000 which matures in December. If the revenue continues to come in as it has been doing, it should be possible to pay off the entire amount out of revenue.

A TRIBUTE

Enquiring into the possible reasons for the spread of crime on this continent since the close of the war a contemporary refers to a truth which has not been given the publicity which it deserves. "In the latter days of the Great War" says this paper "a number of people were rather outspoken with regard to the effect that the struggle would have one the morals of the soldiers when they returned to civil life. Some predicted that the life in the trenches with the disregard for human life and the fairly plentiful supply of money, would have a tendency to make criminals of many who would find difficulty in adapting themselves again to humdrum civilian existence. This however has not been the case. The great majority of returned men speedily returned to the methods of earning a living that they had adopted prior to going overseas. It is but rarely one hears of a returned soldier being brought before a magistrate to answer for a criminal act."

In Canada after the close of the struggle there was a proportion of returned men who fell foul of the law, but when it is remembered that nearly half a million men from all classes of the community enlisted, including not a few who had previous criminal records, this proportion was remarkably small. In the past six years the number of veterans appearing in the criminal courts has been almost negligible.

The truth is that generally speaking our fighting men faced, despite very serious handicaps, the struggle for re-establishment with the same cheerful gallantry that won them world renown on the battlefields of Europe. In every line of endeavor they have brought new credit to themselves and their country. In the learned professions, in science, industry, and the trades these volunteer fighting men have demonstrated in civil life the same loyalty, energy, and courage which were our shining shield when the menace of war threatened the very existence of the state.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

The steamer Varuna last evening brought a large number of Trentonians to the city to witness the display of fireworks.

A horse belonging to Mr. James Logan, while being driven over the lower bridge last evening broke through one of the planks. The damage was repaired to-day.

The new Methodist Church at Bancroft will be dedicated next month. Rev. S. J. Shorey M.A., will preach the dedicatory sermons.

At a meeting of the Officers of the 15th Battalion last evening it was decided if they were allowed to have full control, to hold a monster military demonstration here on July 1st, 1926. They promise to make it by far the best ever held in Belleville.

A man considerably under the influence of liquor last night fell asleep on a parking case in front of Mr. C. Schuster's store. He was subsequently removed by friends and driven home.

Mr. John Campbell will tomorrow ship a car load of cattle to Buffalo, making the eighteenth shipment from this place to that city within the past few months. The prices paid were good.

Miss Fannie Alford on Wednesday evening was riding upon her wheel, when a young man endeavoring to pass collided with her, with the result that the front tire of her wheel received a large puncture. She was thrown to the ground, but not injured.

Mr. William Chisholm has returned from an extended trip abroad.

Bass fishing continues to be first class and many are enjoying the sport. Yesterday afternoon Messrs. A. Tisdale and H. K. Smith landed nine, which were beauties.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

She (at beach) — "It's awful to meet one of the boys you were engaged to last summer."

Her friend—"It must be."

She—"I just ran across Dick and he wanted the old engagement renewed without giving up a new ring."

Before he became famous as the constructor of serials, William Lord Wright was a newspaper man and at one time edited a country paper, where the rival editor was most annoying. This man had the habit of stopping his press to insert some bit of last-minute news. Hardly a day went by that didn't show on his front page an article stating: "We stop the press to announce."

Finally it got on Bill's nerves, and one day his own front page bore the hated legend: "We stop the press to announce that there is nothing of sufficient importance to justify the stopping of the press. Giddap!"

AFTERWARDS

I watched thee with devotion
Through all those silent years,
Thy least regarded motion,
Thy laughter and thy tears.

But thou, when fate would sever
The visionary tie,
Unconscious and forever
Left me without a sigh.
Yet though I needs must borrow
My comfort from distress,
I would not give my sorrow
For thy unconsciousness.

—Duncan Campbell Scott.

RACE HORSE BREAKS LEG AT FRANKFORD

Nellie Opera, a racehorse owned by P. Morris of the Ninth Concession of Murray, fell on the first heat of the second half-mile in the 2.30 class at Frankford yesterday afternoon and broke her right leg. Chief Constable Ferguson of Frankford, ordered the animal to be shot when the veterinary pronounced the leg broken. The cause was a lengthy bobble, which permitted the animal, when she broke in the air, to jump, with the result that she was thrown. Earl Davis, of Picton, was driving and was unhurt.

The races were well attended and the competition keen.

FAILED TO "SHOW UP"

The Deseronto Shirt Company's team failed to put in an appearance for their scheduled game with the Frontenacs last night and as a result the latter are awarded the City League championship for 1927. There was a goodly number of fans on deck and the umpires and players waited nearly half an-hour for the Deseron's but word was relayed ahead that they had decided not to play. Why they assumed this attitude seems to be a mystery in local soft ball circles. This is the third time that Deseron's have protested their games and the League should take some action in the matter.

LUNATIC AT LARGE.

A lunatic, inmate of Rockwood Insane Asylum, broke loose from that institution last night, and the local police were informed that he was heading in the general direction of Belleville. The man's name is Cameron, and he is described as being five feet eight inches in height, of a ruddy complexion and had no coat or vest on. Cameron is thirty years of age. When last seen he was about four miles west of Napanee, evidently getting a rie from Kingston to Napanee.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MRS. MARGARET MACOUN

The funeral of the late Mrs. Margaret M.oun. took place yesterday afternoon from the home of her daughter, Mrs. E. W. Cooley, 235 John St., to Belleville Cemetery where the interment was made.

At the house Rev. D. C. Ramsay, Minister of John Street United Church, conducted an impressive service in the presence of a multitude of sorrowing relatives and friends and also officiated at the committal at the graveside. The pallbearers acted as the obsequies to neither with the wealth of flowers silently testified to the sympathy felt for the bereaved relatives in their sorrow.

The bearers were Messrs. H. Clarke, J. W. Cook, Fred Quick, J. S. Mc-Laren, J. Gallagher and J. W. Holmes.

ATTEMPTS TO BREAK HER HUSBAND'S WILL

struck. The witness opined that he had no chance to avoid striking her.

"Ruth, was hit by the left fender which threw her sideways preventing her from being crushed by the wheels".

Dr. H. A. Boyce, of Deseronto, who attended the child said that an examination revealed a compound fracture of the rt. ol. He said that was only a slight bruise on the hip under than the head injuries.

Mrs. V. Van Valkenberg who resides near the scene of the accident in Deseronto stated that the driver of the other car applied the brakes a few feet before hitting the little girl. She said the driver stopped the car in almost the length of itself.

The child darted out without noticing the American car approaching.

Sergt. Roy Clarke, of the Provincial Police who investigated the accident said one of the skid marks measured 18 feet and the other 27 feet. He estimated the speed to be about 20 miles an hour.

Trooper E. Wright, of Malone, N.Y., said that previous to the accident he had been travelling at 70 miles an hour. Mr. Wright said that he slowed down a little as he neared the cars parked on the road, not knowing whether someone was going to slip out from behind the car on his left.

He said the little girl was looking in the opposite direction when he first saw her.

The jury was composed of the following men: W. A. Woodley, Foreman; J. Lafferty; S. Weddeg, W. Vallence, B. Doolittle E., George; and H. A. Morgan.

TODAYS MARKETS

Market Irregular

New York, Sept., 17.—Heavy weekend profit taking, inspired, in part by fears of a technical reaction after the recent spirited advance, turned the course of stock prices irregular today after an opening outburst of strength. General Motors issued were again the feature soaring to new high records on an enormous volume of trading. Rail ish activities were confined largely to about a dozen specialties including Lehigh issues as Gimbell brothers, Green Cana ian copper, Texas Gulf sulphur, Dupont, Goodyear Rubber and Julius Keyser all of which attained new peak prices. Although General Motors scored reactionary, particularly Studebaker, Hudson, and McLaughlin. Railroad Sales forces recessions of point or so in such recent favorites as Pontum, International telephone, General Electric, Montgomery Ward and General Railway signal.

The closing was irregular. Total sales approximately 1,500,000 shares.

CHICAGO GRAIN

Chicago, Sat. 17.—Grain prices turned downward early today, unofficial estimates from Canada that crop prospects as bearish, although somewhat reduced from the recent government forecast. Favorable weather led to independent weakness of corn values. Opening 5-8c to 1 1-4c down what called little and then sagged lower than before. Oats were easy. Provisions showed irregularity, with hog prices receding.

LARGE AMOUNTS

Nearly $20,000 of building permits were authorized in the past 24 hours in Oshawa. This brings the year's activity below the goal of a clear four total up to $3,379,780, and every day of million for 1927 nearer. As it is, only $221,000 needs to be authorized to put Oshawa amongst the leading five cities of Canada for building construction in the Diamond Jubilee Year.

HOPES TO RID SELF OF HIS EIGHTH WIFE

Memphis, Tenn., Sept. 17.—Plonie Gray Durham, 17, is a grass widow. Her husband, James Durham, 81, She filed suit against him yesterday charging him with non-support, abandonment and cruel and inhuman treatment. Durham has not stated he would contest the suit. Recently he hailed his wife into court charging that she had married a twenty-month-old baby and placing it in an orphan's home. At that time he characterized the girl as the "Dogpondest Wife" of eight women he has married. He told the court he would be "glad to get rid of her."

MURDERED HIS CHILD WITHOUT A REASON

Los Angeles, Sept., 17.—Overcome with "mad desires" to slay his child, Matt Minarich, 46, today admitted he had strangled the five year old son John. After the killing, Minarich called neighbors in and led them to where the body lay beside the ready. "I can't tell why I killed him," he said, "I had no reason to harm him. He had not done a thing for which he should have been punished. The urge to kill suddenly came over me to slay my child, and I ask no favor. I must pay the penalty for my act."

A DOCTORS PRAISE

A Noted Doctor Strongly Endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills

The test of any remedy lies in its accomplishment and employment by the qualified medical practitioner. No less an authority than Dr. Andres Amici, physician to the Papal household, writing on the subject of anaemia, hysteria, ailment of the nervous system and disorders attributable thereto, strongly endorses Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, recommending them as superior to other tonics.

Dr. Amici's testimony reads as follows:—"For several years I have made use of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills in my work and I have always found them efficacious in the treatment of all orders due to impoverishment of the nervous system, anaemia and certain chronic stomach weakness, retarded development in your women, and irregularities. There is no lack of tonic remedies, but in my experience no one of them manifests a superior efficacy to that of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills."

No more conclusive evidence of the value of Dr. Williams' Pink Pills could be asked for or given, than is found in the above endorsement of this noted physician. Sufferers should note, however, this medicine has enjoyed a world-wide public confidence for more than a third of a century and has brought relief to thousands and thousands of weak and suffering people.

Try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, for anaemia, rheumatism, neuralgia, nervousness and stomach trouble. Take them as a tonic if you are not in the best physical condition and cultivate a resistance that will keep you well and strong. You can get these pills through any medicine dealer or by mail at 50 cents a box from Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

PREFERRING ONE BOY TO MATURE RIVALS

"Of course, Jack is handsome—BUT I LOVE JIMMY!

"And my people are crazy about Jack—BUT I LOVE JIMMY!

"And Jack is good—BUT I LOVE JIMMY!"

That's Alva's Love Litany—Listen—DEAR, ELSIE:

When I was sixteen I met two boys. Jack, the older, is blond and handsome; Jim, the younger, boy, ten months younger than myself, is not so handsome. Every one said Jack and I would make a wonderful pair. I went with both boys. People kidded me when I went with Jim because he is younger but I liked him just the same. In fact, I liked Jim very much.

He thought I tolerated him because our families were friends. He soon found different and we went everywhere together. Now here is my problem. Last week Jack proposed to me. I am 21 and he is 23. His mother and mine are in favor of having Jack and me marry. But I have found that Jimmy loves me and I certainly love him. Is it possible for a girl to love a boy a little younger than herself? It must be—I certainly love Jimmy.

I've had other boy friends, boys who are richer and handsomer than Jimmy, but I always think more of Jimmy than of any of them. I know that Jack, the older boy, could never make me happy.

I want to tell Dad about it, but I'm afraid of ridicule. Jimmy has everything that Jack lacks in my estimation, everything that would make me happy. Jack's handsome too, but I love Jimmy—what shall I do?

ALYCE.

Well honey, honey, since you've answered all your questions rather neatly yourself, I don't see that there's much that I can add except my blessing—and here it goes—just tons and tons of it.

SINCE YOU LOVE JIMMY DON'T MARRY JACK—BE YOURSELF AND MARRY JIMMY!

The ten months difference in your ages is no handicap to your future happiness. But twenty-one is rather young for a boy to settle down—to the serious responsibilities of marriage. I would advise you to wait a little but don't think of marrying Jack when you love Jimmy. So start to mono-gram your dish towels—and begin to fill the hope chest and here's a rosy wedding day to the two of you whenever it may be!

What's a love symptom?

You can tell soon enough when you have the measles, coming on, or hay fever begins to tickle your nose—but how can you tell whether or not you're in love? And that's just what Agnes wants to know.

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm nineteen years old and I have known a man who is seven years my senior for a long time. I have always liked him—looked upon him as one of the family. He has been good to me and has given me many things.

The other day he told me that he loved me very much and he wants to marry me. But I am not sure that I love him. How can I find that out? Whats a love symptom?

I know I have a sister's love for him. I feel just as I do toward my brother. But is this enough? When he goes away I miss him just like I do my big brother when he goes away. But I wonder if that is any indication of love? How should one feel when one is in love? And how can one tell when one is in love?

AGNES.

Frankly, sister, I don't know whether or not you are in love, nor whether you are capable of falling in love. But here's something I do know—DON'T MARRY UNTIL YOU ARE SURE THAT YOU ARE IN LOVE.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a respectable boy of nineteen, with good habits, and I do not smoke or drink.

My boy chum and I were introduced to two sisters, ages eighteen and sixteen, and took them home. Later we became better acquainted The girls were well brought up and could have a good time without going to extremes I was introduced to their parents, but did not become really acquainted, as the sister sisters that I went with worked and went to high school

Her father has always objected to boys We like to go out with these girls, as we always have a nice time Should I go out and talk to her parents, or what? We have always done just what the girls said in regard to places to go, and they are pretty good taste.

T. W. H.

T. W. H. I am sure that if you do as you suggest, that is, call on the girls' parents, it might help you tremendously If you are as frank with them as you have been in your letter to me, there surely can be no doubt in their minds as to your sincerity Why not try it and see how it works out?

SINCLAIR'S

When Food Disagrees

Instead of soda hereafter take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or sour, acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

"For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of Bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour-ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

Insist upon "Phillips"

CURSE OF LOVE
By Mildred Barbour

"Now what have I done," thought Cynthia ruefully, when she was back in her room. She didn't sleep much that night. And Norma, in her suite across the hall, lay awake, staring at the reflection of an electric light from the garden that played on her ceiling. How would Philip receive her, supposing she ever found him? she was asking herself.

Ada Lind was sleepless, too, trying to still the pain in her heart, for, strolling with Collins she had seen Cynthia and Harcourt. Had she but known it, Collins was wakeful, too. He was wondering what chance a rough old fellow like himself had with the chic, plump little widow who listened so sympathetically to his long-winded tales of his early success.

Harcourt, in pajamas and dressing-gown, sat staring at the opal that now controlled his destiny and, as he looked, the sound of distant temple-bells seemed to echo in his ears, and the scent of incense, mingled with the fragrance of a million flowers, was in his nostrils, and the vision of a lovely, fragile, appealing little creature, floated before his eyes.

CHAPTER 28
THE DEPARTURE

The following morning, when Cynthia was having breakfast, Norma's father came to her room, seeking his daughter:

"I've got to get back home as early as possible today, so I'll say good-by now," he said heavily.

Norma clung to him, her eyes wet with sudden tears.

"Dear, Old Daddy! I hate to leave you. I'm not sure that I'm not making a great mistake to go on this wild errand."

He patted her shoulder awkwardly.

"If you have to have Philip to make you happy, I guess you better go and fetch him. He's a fine young chap, Norma."

She drew back from him, wiping her eyes.

"Daddy, I love him—but I'm not so sure about his being so very fine," with a sudden reckless resolve, she said: "Daddy tell me the truth. He married me because he owed you money, didn't he?"

Collins looked at her steadily for a long time. Then he said:

"I guess you better know, Norma. I swore that I'd never tell you, because I hated like an old fool. I loaned Philip the money he needed to save his business on condition that he marry you, because I wanted him for a son-in-law."

She cried out at that and sank down in a chair, hiding her face in her hands.

"Oh, why didn't you tell me before?" she wailed. "Now I understand. It's all much worse than I feared. I must tell Cynthia Greer that I can't go to China."

"Not so fast," he said. "Wait a minute. Kendall came to me shortly after ward and said back every cent. It seems that Carson helped him out. And Philip was crazy with joy, because he said that he'd loved you since the first day he saw you, and he'd been distracted at having married you under circumstances that might lead anyone to think he was selling himself for money. When he'd said his debt, he said to me: 'Now I'm worthy of her; now I can go to her with clean hands. You can't know what this means to me!' That was after Carson had fixed things for him. That boy loves you, Norma."

She lifted hopeful eyes.

"You think it wasn't the—money?"

"I know it," he answered simply. "Sydney Blaine told me—"

"Blaine is a jealous, meddling fool," She sighed.

"I wonder if it's too late? I wonder if Phil will come back to me?"

He kissed her awkwardly on the forehead.

"Go and see, my girl. I'd bet all I have that he's crazy about you."

He was leaving the room, when he turned suddenly and said, his ringed old face coloring:

"You like this Mrs. Lind, don't you?" Norma Stared.

"Of course. I'm very fond of her. Why?"

"Oh, nothing. Nothing at all," he answered hastily, and shut the door behind him.

Norma smiled tenderey after him.

"He's getting very fond of Ada, too," she thought. "I wonder if she'd have him? Dear old Daddy!"

At noon the little party left for San Francisco. Cynthia was gay, excited with the prospect of adventure. Norma was fearful, torn between happiness occasioned by her father's story of the facts regarding the business deal with Philip Kendall, and apprehension lest she had unwittingly alienated Phillip forever. Harcourt was grave, realizing the hazardous enterprise on which they were embarked. He was, moreover, uncomfortably conscious of the black opal, stowed away in one of his bags. Therese, busy with the luggage of her mistress and Norma, was tight-lipped, disapproving.

BELLE THEATRE

A boss! A horse! My blindfold is a horse! This famous cry voiced the plea of director Scott Sidney while in the exercising car an equine star for "No Control," which he directed for Metropolitan Pictures Corporation and which will be on view at the Belle Theatre on Monday.

"No Control," a screen version of Frank Condon's Saturday Evening Post story, centers around two circus performers and their trained horse.

Monte Blue, star of Warner Brothers' "Bitter Apples," coming to the Belle Theatre Monday for a run of three days, says the filming of the picture went for three weeks' vacation in the desert. Much of the exciting action of the piece took place on an open liner and an old sailing boat on the high seas in waters anything but pacific. Two features.

REGENT THEATRE

Gilda Gray is not a very respectful daughter. She busts and almost every time her father does, and the more serious he gets the more she laughs.

"My old man is a scream," says Gilda. "Look at that mustache. It's a panic. And that spectacles—why, they're wierdos. He's so ridiculous that sometimes I think him altogether crazy."

Miss Gray's remarks referred to Chester Conklin, the be-mustached comedian, who is cast as Gray Trask, the father, in her second Paramount starring picture, "Cabaret," which reaches the Regent on Monday. The star of "Aloma of the South Seas," was a great admirer of Chester's comedy characterizations but had never met him until introduction on "Cabaret" started. She found him even funnier in person.

ANOTHER HOMER FOR BABE RUTH

Dumbino Within Six Of 1921 Record—100th Win

New York, Sept. 17.—The Yankees have recorded officially their 100th victory of the season. Just to make it more impressive Babe Ruth came through with his fifty-third homerun of the campaign which was one of three homers made by the champions in scoring a 7 to 2 victory over the White Sox in the first the five-game series at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon.

Wilcy Moore shocked his mates and rocked Blankenship when he drove a single to right in the second inning, his first hit at the Yankee Stadium this season, and just to make it clear that he has reformed, he crashed a fast one into the Babe's favorite sector in the right field stands. From that time on Moore was the main figure on the ball field. This king of emergency hurlers has showed that he could do first line duty at the bat.

While Moore was doing such fine work, Ruth also was performing well. He got only one circuit smash, but he was in there swinging freely every time. Singles, doubles or triples mean nothing in his career—it is just homers—an doubletes from now until the end of the campaign the free-swinging Babe will be a free swinger.

The Athletics won their sixth game in a row yesterday by taking a 6 to 3 decision from the St. Louis Browns. Ty Cobb had three singles and booted his recent hitting streak to 13 hits in his last 18 times at bat. "Ping" Bodie also went the full route for the Mackmen.

Heimann's hitting was mainly responsible for Detroit's 4 to 3 victory over Boston in the first game of the series yesterday. In the first inning, the American League pacemaker made a home run off Russell with Oehrlander on base, and after his double in the

Why do small errors of vision often cause much distress?

Sometimes this is a question of temperament. But often small errors are not known to exist. The never ending irritation to which the nerves are subjected by reason of the eye strain has a detrimental effect up a nervously organized person.

..Naturally the smaller defects are likely to be overlooked?

..Yes, a defect that is pronounced is almost sure to get attention while smaller ones are neglected because they are new known to exist.

PIRATES SWEPT BOSTON SERIES

Giants Defeat Cards And Trail Corsairs—Grimes Pitching

St. Louis, Mo., September 17.—It being impossible to deadlock the issue any longer, the Giants stepped out and trounced the Cardinals, 9 to 3, here yesterday afternoon in the final encounter of the seven-game series that was originally designed to send one of these teams into the thick of the pennant fight, but instead has come pretty close to eliminating both.

It was not the sort of finish either side had hoped for or expected. Pitching fiercely through four of the hottest days this city has suffered this year, the Giants, after splitting three successive double-headers, have nothing to show for their efforts tonight, save a one-game margin over the Cardinals which entitles them to sit in second place.

First place, however, is still a long way off. The Pirates, who profited handsomely while the Giants and Cards so vehemently kept bumping each other off, again ran true to form and by again trodding on the Braves, held their margin of four and a half games over the Giants intact. The Cards are now five and a half games away from the top.

Pittsburgh continued its march toward the championship with a 4 to 3 victory over Boston for a clean-sweep of the six-game series. It was the Pirates' ninth straight win, and the Braves' 13th consecutive setback.

Lee Meadows, on the mound for the Pirates, was well supported and the Braves were held to eight hits.

The Pirates fell on Wertz in the one and two-thirds innings he pitched to score their four runs before Guy Morton entered the box and held the league leaders in check.

Brooklyn made a clean-sweep of the three-game series with Chicago by bunching hits behind some ragged play ing by the Cubs to take the final by 4 to 3 yesterday.

Mr. Man, What Do YOU Want in Shoes ?

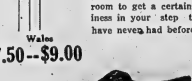

Do you want just shoes or do you want shoes that give you that all-over good feeling and a sense of real comfort? Do you want a heavy, broad toe, a regular fellow's shoe? Do you want shoes, that fit your heels perfectly? Do you want shoe satisfaction?

THEN SLIP INTO BELMONTS

Your heels will not slip, yet your toes will have plenty of room to get a certain springiness in your step that you have never had before.

The new ALEMITE protection for two more vital parts of your car

—eliminates most gear troubles and reduces gasoline consumption

Here is the new Alemite product that saves repairs and keeps down the cost of running your car. The new Alemite Transmission Lubricant. Try it today.

Alemite Transmission Lubricant is different from ordinary gear compounds. As different as the famous Alemite High Pressure Lubricating System is from the old-fashioned grease cups. It's a new principle.

Friction tests prove that this new type lubricant reduces gear friction to a new low point. A startling difference. You will even see it in the every day running of your car. Your car will actually coast 20% farther on account of this reduced gear friction. You can easily see what this means to power and gasoline mileage. With Alemite Transmission Lubricant you can shift gears in coldest weather as easily as in June.

We recommend this new lubricant. It has been perfected after years of research by the same men who produce the Alemite High Pressure Lubricating System. (Now in use on over 7,000,000 cars.)

Drive in today and let us give your gears this new lubrication — while you watch

Fruit stains on the hands can be removed by moistening a crust of of bread with vinegar and rubbing on the stain.

Jam will not ferment after it has been made if the covers are dipped in vinegar and tied down whilst the preserve is hot.

GILT FRAMES

To remove fly specks or other discolorations from gilt frames, use the water in which onions have been boiled, then wipe dry with a soft flannel and polish.

TO CLEAN JARS

To render jars or bottles that have held onions fit for bottling jam, fill them with garden mould, and leave out of doors for a couple of days. After they are well washed the unpleasant smell will have completely disappeared.

TO MAKE A TOUGH FOWL TENDER

If you buy an old fowl, which can often be had very cheaply, steam or boil it for an hour. Then put into a tin, cover with lard or dripping, and roast as usual. You will hardly be able to tell the difference between this and a young chicken.

SENDING FLOWERS BY POST

Flowers to be sent by post should be picked early in the morning and packed at once, dry and closely pressed down in a firm box, with layers of wadding as lining and cover. Loose packing in cardboard boxes, with wet moss or wool "to keep them" is absolutely the worst method for transit.

INSECT STINGS

Both soda and ammonia are excellent palliatives for insect stings. The best course is to sponge the bites with liquid ammonia, but rubbing with a lump of common soda or ammonium carbonate is a useful alternative. It need hardly be added that once the bite has been treated it should be left alone, for nothing is worse than rubbing it.

DRYING MUFF

The early part of August is the time for laying in a stock of mint for winter requirements. Choose a fine day for gathering, and pick only the young and tender leaves. Let them remain in the sun if it is not enough and you can prevent them from blowing away. Turn and toss till the leaves are brittle and will powder easily when crushed in the fingers. Store in a tightly corked glass jar.

If tolerance and kindness rule thy heart

THE CURE FOR HEART TROUBLES

Henry Van Dyke has this to say and it is worth reading.

The cure for heart troubles is religion. As modern civilization advances, heart troubles seem to increase. There is an appalling number of sudden deaths in the prime of life, in full swing of work or play. Fatty degeneration, hardened arteries, heart failure. Physically this comes from the increased pace and complexity of life. We have invented so much machinery that it breaks our hearts to keep it going. If Methuselah had owned a motor car he would have died 900 years.

Spiritually, the trouble of our age comes from the increase of actual knowledge and the decline of vital wisdom; high velocity and loose direction. This produces mental agitation——To be hopeless is the worst of all heart troubles. The only cure for this sickness is religion.

LESSEE OF TWO EVILS

Among the many piquant stories related by "A Woman of No Importance" in her recent volume of memories entitled "Days of Life," is the following: A well-known Colonel in India, who had commanded a crack cavalry regiment, was considered quite a terrible martinet by both his officers and men, had a little inclined to over-indulge in the gentle art of make-up. "One day when she entered his room she found that he was writing, and her complexion was something that prompted her kindly advice for a moment or two, then in his orderly-room voice and manner said to her: 'Woman, go and wash your face.' This she immediately did, and returned to the room. The fierce Colonel looked at her sternly and in amazement, then thundered out: 'For Heaven's sake, woman, go and put it on again.'"

And darken our sight with our foolish tears;
But in time the atmosphere always clears.
For His love is always shining."

ARID PLACES
(Beatrice Allen Draper)

The old faiths have gone by me, one by one,
And I have felt how with each loss there slips
Into my heart a sting, like frost that nips
A wind-swept tree, where blossoms have begun
To pour their sweetness out, steeped in the sun.
Buds bloom another year, but lost faith strips
From out the heart all fertile soil, and lips
Stay trembling after, with their songs half done.

There might be peace, if in such barren soil
It were ordained that no sweet thing could start
Ever again, to bloom a while, then spoil.
I cannot give this surety to my heart
For I have climbed high wind- blown cliffs and know
It is in arid places rock plants grow.

When knives come loose from their bone or ivory handles they may be repaired at home by powdering some resin and filling the hollow of the handle with it. Then heat the iron stalk of the knife or fork until red hot and press it into the handle until it is in the original place. Any superfluous resin that may ooze out will wipe right off. Let alone until dry, when you will find it quite firm.

MOTORISTS WERE BLESSED BY THE PATRON SAINT

Paris, Sept. 14.—Blessed be the long-suffering motorist. Today St. Christopher will guide him into the ways of safety.

Such was the spirit of a remarkable gathering here of hundreds of motorists at the Church of St. Christopher. They came to honor their patron saint and to receive his blessings, consecrated by frocked priests.

Limousines, taxicabs, trucks and even little side-baggies of children were driven to the spot for the blessing for St. Christopher makes no distinction among his followers. He promises guidance and protection where traffic police and automatic signals fail.

The martyr sacred to the motorists was accredited by the legend, a giant who carried helpless people across flood to safety. His followers now attach to their cars a little votary medal of the saint and trust that it will act as a charm against accidents.

Possibly that is why French taxi-cab drivers appear to have charmed lives.

But despite the growing popularity of St. Christopher, insurance companies of France have recently raised accident insurance rates, and even those wheel-cars have been blessed have to pay the same premium as the unbelievers.

The martyr is not batting any too well, according to police statistics, which show a continuous increase in street accidents.

Many commercial aviators, however, are among those who have adopted St. Christopher as patron.

Don't be too anxious to grasp an opportunity that is sizzling hot.

GOOD-WILL MESSAGES READ AT CONGRESS

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 14 — Commencing a three-day session, the second annual convention of the Canadian Chamber of Commerce opened here to-day with President S. B. Gundy of Toronto presiding.

About 300 business men, representing every province in Canada, attended the opening session, but several of the delegates from the western provinces were delayed by late trains. The Gardiner of Saskatchewan and Premier Bracken of Manitoba. Premier Brownlee of Alberta, arrived to-night.

Hon. S. Randolph Bruce, Lieutenant-Governor of British Columbia; Premier Duncan J. D. MacLean and Mayor L. D. Taylor extended a welcome to the visitors.

President Gundy, in opening the convention, read letters from His Excellency, the Governor - General, Lord Willingdon; from Prime Minister W. L. Mackenzie King, and the Premiers of the various Provinces, all wishing the convention every success.

Premier Stewart, of Prince Edward Island, wrote saying that the convention was a success. Similarly, Premier Rhodes of Nova Scotia, expressed his regrets at not being able to attend the Vancouver meeting.

Premier Baxter, of New Brunswick, in wishing the chamber well, took the opportunity of impressing upon the body the claims of the Maritime Provinces for speedy relief as outlined in the Duncan report.

VARSITY TO SOON HAVE CENTENARY

Toronto, Sept. 15 (By Canadian Press).—The University of Toronto celebrates the centenary of the granting of its charter from October 5 to October 8 next. Arrangements are well under way for a number of activities to mark the occasion. Delegates are expected from every important University and Learned Society throughout the world. Outstanding Canadians will deliver public lectures in Convocation Hall every morning of the celebration. Some 10,000 guests, professors, graduates and undergraduates, are expected to take part in the opening ceremony at the University Arena on Thursday, October 6th. The carillon which is being erected in the Soldiers' Tower at present, will also be dedicated on that day.

A number of activities are being arranged for the 8,000 graduates who have expressed their intention of returning to their Alma Mater for the celebrations, and certain activities are being exclusively undertaken by the undergraduates, and plans and arrangements for these undergraduate activities are in the hands of an undergraduate committee.

EXPECTANT MOTHERS

Read Mrs. Menard's Letter. Her Experience May Help

Chatham, Ontario.—"I want to tell you how much good your medicine has done me. Before my baby came I felt so weak and run-down that I could hardly do my work. My head ached continually and I was so discouraged that I could cry from nervousness. Shortly had another baby but one year and a half old and it gave me a lot to do. So I thought I would try Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as I had read so much about it in the little books. I found a difference right away as my head was relieved and my tired feelings gone. My sister had been doing my washing and as I continued doing it, as she said, it might set me back if I started to do it again. It sure did help me and I had taken just two bottles when my baby came. He is a fine big boy now nearly five months old and I am taking your medicine again and I am able to do my work all by myself now. I always recommend Dr. Pierce's Favorite Prescription and Vegetable to expectant mothers, as I believe they need help at that time."—Mrs. OLIVER MENARD, 24 Harvey St., Chatham, Ontario.

CANADIAN TELLS OF NOTED YPRES

Sergt.-Maj. Percy Buttery Returns To Familiar Scenes After War

Ypres, Belgium, Sept. 15.—(Written for the Canadian Press by Sergt.-Major Percy Buttery, late Canadian Field Artillery.)—There is no need for me here to tell over again the story of Ypres, and of all the memories it holds for Canadian men and women. It was with no small feeling of pride mingled with sad, sad, affectionate memories of the many personal friends who sleep for ever beneath the hallowed soil of Ypres, that I set out for the Salient for the first time since I was there in mud-soaked khaki—for I was a Canadian soldier in the war days, and as a humble artilleryman in the 3rd Brigade. I was privileged to play a modest part in the unforgettable stand at St. Julien in April, 1915. Though the articles which I had read on the New Ypres had always interested me, they lacked, I always felt, that personal touch which can only be supplied by a visit to the scenes of those unforgettable events.

Early one morning I arrived at Poperinghe by train from Calais. Instead of huge shell-holes gaping out of a sea of mud with the ruins of century-old houses lying in straggled heaps over what was once the countryside, instead of charred stumps of trees and long lines of trenches, the outlook was just suggestive of complete peace and happiness. On all sides were long stretches of land rich in cultivation, and scattered about here and there were large red-tiled farmhouses and sturdy little cottages. In the fields laborers were at work, many of them, no doubt, men who had readily cast aside the weapons of war and returned to the plow. The reclaims of pillboxes and gun emplacements alone served to recall the tragic past, and even these were almost hidden from sight by the luxurious crops. Some of the outbuildings of the farms were roofed by sheets of corrugated iron, "probably salvaged," as we used to say, from the heaps of British War material left behind after the Armistice, while the barbed wire which formed the boundaries of many of the farms, and, most likely, similarly acquired.

A walk of nearly a mile from Poperinghe railway station brought me to Poelcapelle village. Soon I found myself on the road to St. Julien and Ypres, and was room on familiar ground, for the roads have been preserved, and, except that they have been repaired, are the same as they were before they were ripped open by the German shells. Flanked on either side by fields of ripening corn, and passing Langemark, I was soon at the little village rendered historic for all time by the great Canadian exploit. It was with mixed feelings that I entered the beautiful grounds of the memorial to the 2,000 Dominion soldiers who fell there in resisting the gas attack. These 2,000 brave souls lie buried beneath a huge stone slab, from the centre of which rises a column, simple in its grandeur, surmounted by the figure of a Canadian soldier with bowed head, who looks sorrowfully upon the grave of his comrades. In the road outside was a young woman selling picture postcards. She told me her father was a soldier in an Ontario Regiment and that he fell at St. Julien. She now spends most of the year at the Memorial, earning a scanty living by the sale of her postcards.

My sensations as I walked along the road from the Memorial to Wieltje were far different from those which assailed me when I last traversed a part of it in 1915. Our guns were well up beyond Wieltje when the gas attack opened, but after replying for some time we were forced to fall back to part of the surrounding country of course, was recognizable, but I remembered the direction of that retirement so well that I needed no guide. I was able to locate approximately all three of our gun positions. I had no difficulty in identifying the road beyond St. Jean and Ypres, across the Canal into Brielen. Brielen road (where our ammunition column was located), along which we had to dash at top speed with food for the guns. Passing along this road, now so calm and peaceful, it seemed impossible that a few short years ago it could have been such a shambles.

I remembered too, how, when the battle of April 22 began, those residents who had remained during the first battles for Ypres in October 1914 began their final evacuation. Terror-stricken men and women rushed from their homes frantically gesticulating and pleading for help. That was the last they saw of the old houses which for years had been their homes. As I stood at this scene of former desolation and despair I wondered how many of the poor fugitives of 1915 had returned to occupy the neat red cottages which now stand on the sites of the shell-smashed dwellings.

The post war Flemish child is experienced in the art of begging, and he regards the British visitor to the historic battlefields as his lawful prey. Every few yards on the road from St. Julien I was pestered by these urchins for "pennings." A group of these young mendicants had assembled at the wayside memorial—a small block of stone little larger than an ordinary English milestone—situated on the Wieltje road to mark the furthermost point reached by the Germans in their endeavor to capture Ypres. During a pause to try to visualize the scene as the invader commenced the big retreat which was the beginning of the end of the Great World War, I was relieved of all my small change.

The ruins of the Cloth Hall in the famous square at Ypres remain much as they were, but the rebuilding of the Cathedral of St. Martin as nearly as possible like the original is proceeding. The ride of the Square out side the Cloth Hall is occupied by cheap and flash-looking souvenir stalls and a sort of fun fair, complete with roundabouts, etc., the owners of which live in caravans. It was something of a shock and surprise to see the washing of these caravanners hanging from a clothes-line stretched between the walls of the famous ruins which are forever to stand a mute witness to the horrors of modern warfare. On the opposite side of the Square is a row of restaurants and cafes where one can get an excellent meal if one has enough money to pay for it, but the charges are about three times as much as they ought to be.

A movement to erect a monument to Jesse James in Mount Olivet cemetery, at Kearney, Mo., the home of the noted bad bandit, is now on foot.

BIG SHOVEL HAS REPLACED LABORERS

London, Sept. 15 (By Canadian Press).—Like a message of hope to Piccadilly and watched by the shop keepers on that thoroughfare (now being generally torn up for the relaying of services and improving the road) with grateful eyes because of its capacity and speed, is the big shovel that has lately replaced the puny efforts of the laborers at removing debris. It is called the "skimming scoop," and is a sort of Amalgamated Union of Diggers, Shovellers, Trenchers, and Tilters, and it shovels over thirty tons of earth and rubble per hour on a gallon of paraffin.

The gaping insatiate jaws of the mechanical navvy, as it gnaws its way into the mountains of shattered concrete and earth, and with a toss of its head empties it into the train of lorries keeps crowds of onlookers entranced.

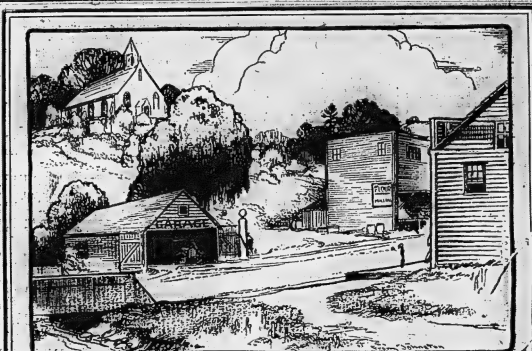

This mighty monster runs on caterpillar wheels, and can crawl where lorries can never venture among the debris. It has a sort of "proboscis" which feels its way into the mounds. Then along this proboscis travels the grab, or the shovel, or whatever adjustment happens to be on duty, and casts its way into earth with irresistible force. Then when its mighty maw is full the crane arm lifts and swings over the lorry. The bottom of the scoop opens and releases the load into the lorry.

With this machine at work the mountains of concrete and earth melt away like a snow-wreath in a thaw.

The black house rat and the brown sewer rat are deadly enemies.

There's some spot in Ontario you would like to visit again

It may be the old home town, some little hamlet, the old farm, or some other quiet spot of storied memory. It retains your interest through the years for reasons known only to yourself. Visit it again this fall. Use the splendid highways.

Autumn is the most delightful time to travel through Ontario. The air is so cool and invigorating. From nearly every hilltop is presented that spectacle of variegated color in which Ontario excels—a delight to the eye and a feast for the soul.

But when you're on the highways, remember your co-operation is needed in keeping them safe. Careless driving endangers life and property. The speed limit is 35 miles an hour. At that rate care must be exercised, and every warning noticed and obeyed. No motorist can afford to take chances at highway or railroad crossings, or other points where danger may occur.

Watch your headlights to see that they do not glare. It is so simple to keep headlights adjusted there is no excuse for the menace of glaring lights.

See to your brakes. The increased speed limit means that extra precautions have to be taken. Your life, the lives of your passengers and of other persons on the road will often depend upon your brakes.

Obey the rules of the road. BE COURTEOUS. Be patient. Do not enforce your rights to the inconvenience or danger of others.

Secure Your Motor Vehicle Operator's License Now!

If you have not yet applied for your Operator's License, do so now. Traffic patrol officers or city police may call upon you to produce it at any time. In case of accident, it will be the first thing asked for. Its absence renders you subject to fine. Application Forms at any garage.

EXPERT BATTERY SERVICE GIVEN CITY MOTORISTS
Quinte Vulcanizing Offers Motorists Thorough Service

Did you know that George Deline, the Quinte Vulcanizing Company—offers a complete battery service as well as the vulcanizing end of the business? This firm is local agent for the well-known U. S. L. storage batteries.

Besides starting your car, the storage battery serves you by supplying the electricity for the ignition without which the car cannot run. The battery is thus one of the most essential parts of your car and must not be neglected. The choice of a battery in the first place is important; and you couldn't select one with a better reputation for service and long life than the U. S. L.

Then the battery must receive good care. Quinte Vulcanizing are prepared to render you the same good service on your car as you have been accustomed to get with your tires, and the following is their "golden rule" of a service which will insure the best of care for your battery.

1. We do not sell a new battery if we can give the owner better value by repairing his old one.

2. We give an eight months adjustment guarantee covering every repair.

3. If a repair cannot be guaranteed we do not make it and show the owner why.

4. We supply for replacement the exact size and type of battery designed to go in the car.

5. Before making a repair or placing a new battery in a car we check up the operation of the other electrical units. We are responsible to the owner for satisfactory operation of the battery regardless of conditions outside of it.

6. We consider it our job in reader dependable service and that "the longer we can make the old battery last, the surer we are of eventually selling the owner a new one."

7. We pledge to our customers the kind of service we would want to receive.

So there you are, and the next time your battery fails to function bring it around to The Quinte Vulcanizing, George Deline, Mgr., on Front Street, next to the Queen's Hotel, and have it attended to.

LATEST IN RADIO AT KIWANIS KARNIVAL

If you're interested in radio, and who isn't these days, you'll be able to see the very latest at the Kiwanis Karnival. Kiwanian Carl Reid, of the Radio Shop is arranging as fine a display of radios as has been seen around this city for a long time.

He will be exhibiting De Forest Crosley Marconi, and Westinghouse sets, the new 1928 models in all of these makes, as the display should be one well worth seeing.

Another feature of interest to radio and fight fans will be the reception of the Dempsey - Tunney championship fight at the Armouries on the evening of the battle next week. Mr. Reid is arranging to have a powerful set in use in the Armouries that night, so you may attend the Karnival without fear of missing the fight.

LOW CLEANING RATE IN GREAT FAVOUR LOCALLY

Spragues Continue The Special Rate For Fall

Fall—and time to have those Fall garments cleaned and made looking presentable once more. Belleville citizens in ever increasing numbers have been taking advantage of the service offered for the last few months by Spragues, well known Cleaners and Dyers of Front Street.

Spragues prices for Cleaning are lower than those prevailing anywhere in the city and that the work turned out by this firm does not suffer in comparison with that of other cleaning businesses is quite evident from the great number of repeat orders Spragues receive, and, as well, the letters which they have on file expressing the satisfaction of patrons both in the City and District with the work done.

As long as the public shows by its patronage that it appreciates the saving made possible at the cleaning rate of just one dollar at Spragues the rate will remain as it is. Spragues are determined to take a smaller profit on the work and the volume of business done makes it possible to do this.

Phone 393 and have your Fall clothes cleaned—and well cleaned for you at a lower rate than you have been accustomed to pay.

A Perfect Medicine For Little Ones
Baby's Own Tablets Should be in Every Home Where There Are Children

The perfect medicine for little ones is found in Baby's Own Tablets. They are a gentle but thorough laxative which regulate the bowels, sweeten the stomach; drive out constipation and indigestion; break up colds and simple fevers and promote healthful refreshing sleep. It is impossible for Baby's Own Tablets to harm even the newborn babe, as they are absolutely guaranteed free from opiates or any other injurious drug.

Concerning the Tablets, Mrs. Alex. J. Perry, Atlantic, N.S., writes:—"I always keep Baby's Own Tablets in the house for the children, as I have found them a perfect medicine for little ones." Baby's Own Tablets are sold by medicine dealers or by mail at 25 cents a box from The Dr. Williams' Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CHANDLER MOTOR MAKES RECORD IN S. AMERICA
Displays Great Speed And Endurance In Real Test

"The winning of the 220 mile South American race from Santiago to Panamavida, Chile, recently, by a Chandler six demonstrated the remarkable performance qualities of the Chandler "power plant" says Mr. Gerald Chandler distributor. Word has just been received at the factory of the details of the run.

The race, organized by "El Diario Illustrado," of Chile, was under the direct charge of the Santiago Automobile Club and covered the distance from the Chilean capital to Panamavida through rugged territory.

Carlos Pache, driving a Chandler Six, made the run in five hours and thirty-five minutes. The second car to cross the finish line came in twelve minutes later.

While this time may not seem remarkable to the casual reader it should be noted that the entire length of the route is in extremely poor condition, making the drive dangerous for even ordinary travel, not to mention the extreme strain on the nerves and sleep fills slowed down the drives. Rivers and streams crossing the route had to be forded as their were no bridges. Despite these difficulties Pache, kept his Chandler at an even speed without straining the motor. Three cars were unable to even complete the distance due to the strenuous conditions encountered.

Pache, a veteran automobile driver, gives due credit to his Chandler for the fast time made. To Pache went the first prize of $6,000, the trophy Juan Goni, and prizes for the best time between Curico and Talca, and Santiago and Panamavida.

Besides several Alfas and a Bugatti, five different American made cars were entered in the race.

The power plant in the Special Six Chandler coupe driven by Pache is based on the Pikes Peak motor principle, which is incorporated in all three series, the Royal Eight, Big and Special Sixes, built by Chandler. This same principle of motor design has enabled Chandler to achieve many other notable records in all parts of the world.

This is merely another to add to the long list of records already held by Chandler. Chandler Motor Sales, W. J. Green, Manager, will gladly demonstrate the 1928 Chandler models to you.

FINE DISPLAYS ARRANGED FOR KIWANIS WEEK
A1 Sign Studio Is Now Arranging The Armouries

About as fine an example of the art of display Advertising as one would like to see anywhere is the work of the A-1 Sign Studio in the Armour les for the Big Kiwanis Karnival commencing on Monday next.

As a matter of fact the man behind this decoration scheme, the stage setting, many of the booth decorations and the interior of the building generally for the big event is none other than genial Fred Smythe, manager of the A-1 Sign Studio.

Fred and his staff have been working hard to give the Armouries a most attractive appearance for the Club Karnival and when you see the interior of the building you will agree that the job has been done right.

One would go a long way to see a display equal to the display now than is evident in the armouries ready for your approval when the doors open on Monday evening next.

COAL PRICES PROMISE TO JUMP SOON

Looks as if that summer weather is going to last for awhile, but just the same it will be well to look ahead to the cold wave that will soon be along. stories of intense heat in the Mid-West don't alter the fact that though this condition of affairs is peculiar enough for the month of September, it can't expect to have anything like that happen in December and January.

Which all makes one think of getting in the winter's coal supply and as recent advice from the wholesalers was to the effect that prices were to go up before long, it's a wise man who gets the load of coal his filled in right now.

Beautiful Cenotaph Carries Imperishable Names Of Immortal Dead

Ypres! Amiens! Hill 70! St. Eloi! Cambrai! Sommme! Mons! Dardanelles! Zeebrugge! Julian! Cherell! Passchendaele! Courcelette! Vimy! St. Julian! In all these battles did the glorious dead of Brighton and the surrounding country figure and yesterday in a manner Memorial Service in the park at Brighton the names of those dead were handed down to posterity when the beautiful monument dedicated by Lieut. A. S. Miller, of Hamilton, a former Brighton boy, was unveiled by Sir Arthur Currie, Honorary President of the Canadian Legion, president of one of Canada's greatest Universities McGill, and soldier.

What throat did not have a catch in it, what eyes did not contain unshed tears as the flags that draped the monument fell aside and the names of John Baxter, Sidney Betts, William Briggs, William Carey, C. Collier, C. Dorbier, W. Fitzgerald, W. Groojian, S. Hore, A. Hennery, H. Hitchins, R. Johnson, D. Young-Castle, A. Kemmler, W. Metcalfe, A. Patterson, W. Rittmage, G. Rowley, W. Taylor, W. Tench, T. Waite, F. Wannamaker, C. Wilkins, E. Wilson, F. Wilson and W. Winder, all soldiers who paved the supreme sacrifice that their country's honour and integrity might not be tarnished were conspicuously placed on a tablet on the front of the cenotaph.

With the reel, and strains of the Last Post floating out on the silent air, thousands of spectators stood silently observing a two minute silence after Sir Arthur Currie had unveiled one of the handsomest cenotaphs in this part of the country. Soldiers of the Canadian Legion formed an honour guard stood at present arms, all bowed their heads and women cried unashamed during this thrilling and sad two minutes. They shall not be forgotten!

Huge Crowds

Shortly after dinner the town of Brighton began filling with visitors from all par' of the county, and two highway traffic officers assisted the local police helped to keep the crowd in control. It is estimated that six thousand spectators were present at the unveiling ceremonies. A platform was erected at the foot of the monument and Sir Arthur Currie, Acting president Colonel of the Canadian Legion, Le Pleche, Reeve Mills, of Brighton, Colonel Gunn, chairman of the proceedings and the president of the Brighton branch of the Canadian Legion were seated there.

The ceremony was opened by a prayer and a hymn, followed by an address of welcome by Reeve Mills. The singing

RUTH STARTS A NEW HAIR STYLE

But She Will Not Start Her Flight Until Thursday

New York, Sept. 19.—Miss Ruth Elder's projected flight to Paris with Capt. George Haldwan, as co-pilot of the monoplane "American Girl" will not start until after Wednesday, it was pointed out today, as both the Curtiss and Roosevelt Fields are booked at present with planes entered in the New York-Spokane Air Derby, the last of which will not leave until Wednesday afternoon.

Attired in lan knickers and white mannish shirt, Miss Elder attracted general admiration at the flying field Her hair, which she is allowing to grow long, was tied back from her head with a multi-colored ribbon. This style had become known as Ruth Ribbon" and scores of young women were seen wearing them.

CHARTER HANDED TO LOCAL LEGION

Distinguished Canadian In His Address Strikes Optimistic Note

"That bond of unity and spirit of loyalty so strongly exemplified by the Canadian Legion on numerous fields is the thing needed most in the Canada of today," declared General Sir Arthur Currie, during his speech at the Charter Night ceremonies of the Canadian Legion, on Saturday night.

The staunch support that Sir Arthur Currie was given in the trying days of the late World War is still maintained in time of peace, and Belleville City Hall echoed and re-echoed with the cheers for this great military man, scholar, statesman and Canadian as he faced an audience composed of veterans of not only the World War, but also 1866, North West Rebellion and South African struggle. The spirit taught by Sir Arthur in his "Boys" is still the strongest link that binds the Veteran Forces of this great peaceloving Dominion, from coast to coast and carries them on to greater achievements in their home, civic and National life. A picture of golden territown and muddy Flanders Fields presented itself once again as Sir Arthur carried them back to those hectic days when the honor of Canada and the

ROTARIANS HEAR WILLIAM CAIRNS

Rotarian Bill Cairns of the Toronto Club, and manager of the Bell Telephone Company in that city, told the local Club his ideas on "Why Is Advertsin," at the noon luncheon today. Mr. Cairns was formerly President of the Ottawa Club and served a term as Governor of the 28th District.

Mr. Cairns warned Rotarians here as a Club and as individuals of the danger of complacency — of feeling that they were doing right and were satisfied. He urged active work along the ideals which have made Rotary.

By resolution the luncheon hour was fixed at 12.30 p.m. every Monday in place of 1 p.m. as heretofore. Next Monday night the Watertown Club will visit Belleville and put on a program of entertainment, commencing at 12.15 sharp and ending when they get through.

LOEW MILLIONS LEFT TO FAMILY

New York, September 19.— The widow and two sons of Marcus Loew inherit 95 per cent. of the fortune the theatre mognate amassed in his entertainment enterprises, it was disclosed with the filing of his will yesterday. The rest of the $25,000,000 estate was bequeathed to brothers and sisters.

FIVE MEN BREAK LONDON JAIL LEAVING NO TRACE

London, Ont., Sept.,19.—Although search parties have scoured this district all night, no trace has been obtained of Ed. Harlton, Ross McLeod, Frank Martron, E. Brown and Ray Agnew, the five men who made a daring getaway from Middlesex County Jail last night, after assaulting Turnkey Cunningham and Fred Last and locking them in the cell. Reports of men being seen at different points were traced down, but of no avail, the searchers having vanished without leaving the least clue as to which direction they took after gaining their liberty by climbing the jail wall.

A call from Stratford that five men had been seen getting off a C. N. R. train sent the police rushing to that city but it was found on arrival there that these were not the men being hunted. Another fruitless dash was made to Dorchester.

LOVELY WOMEN TURNING TO AVIATION FOR THRILLS

Three Prominent Englishwomen who Have Won Laurels

More and more women in England, especially among the titled classes, are turning to piloting and flying for pastime. Prominent among them are Auriel Lee (right), actress and explorer, who is now considered one of England's most noted flying women. She is the sister-in-law of St. John Field, the noted barrister. Mme. Guillermo De Landa (left), formerly the Countess Drogheda and now the wife of Guillermo De Landa, South American millionaire, is known as the flying countess of England. Mrs. Elett Lynn (centre) is another noted English airwoman.

CLASS "A" TUESDAY

Non-Stop Planes Take-Off Wednesday If Enough Enter

New York, N.Y., Sept. 19.—Officials of the New York-Spokane air derby stated today that the non-stop race will be held on Wednesday even if the "Royal Windsor", piloted by Duke Schiller and the Silmon monoplane, piloted by Eddie Stinson, Detroit, are the only two of the seven entrants to face the barrier.

Roosevelt, Field, N.Y., Sept. 19.—Twenty-five light commercial aeroplanes took off on the first leg of the cross country flight to Spokane, Wash., this morning. The start was made at 6.01 a.m. and by 6.32 a.m. the last starter had left. All take-offs were made at one minute intervals and were accomplished with clock-like precision and smoothness. Weather conditions, which had threatened a postponement shortly before the race cleared up quickly at the last minute.

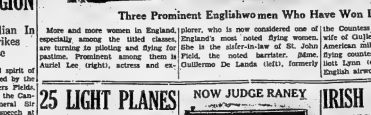

A total distance of 2350 miles lay ahead of the racers whose planes were designated officially as Class B, of a type capable of carrying one passenger and the pilot. Prizes to be awarded the winners are First, $5,000, second $2,000, third $1,000; fourth $500 and fifth $250. Planes will stop overnight at

THUGS ATTACKED NIGHT WATCHMAN

Richard Cornell Tells Of Midnight Struggle With Two Men

Richard Cornell, 54 South George street, night watchman at the Stephen Adamson Company's plant on Franklin street, was attacked by two men while doing his rounds at the plant on Saturday night, and although not seriously hurt, is suffering from slight injuries to his head.

According to Cornell's story he had entered a portion of the back shop used for storage purposes, and as he did a rescuing for the entire watch the two thugs seized him and a tussel ensued. Cornell said he shouted for help which apparently had some effect and the pair made off after a brief struggle. They made their exit through a rear entrance and left Cornell lying on the floor. After he had recovered himself he notified the police and Officer Booth answered the call and made an investigation. He found the floor covered with straw which had been partially dispersed in the alleged melee.

Cornell's revolver and flashlight were found on the floor of the room, but as yet no trace of the men has been discovered.

Rush of Selling Orders Causes Sharp Drop In Prices

New York, Sept. 19.—The "Bull" movement on the New York Stock Exchange which has carried scores of issues to record high levels in the last few weeks received a terrific jolt today when a flood of selling orders swept into the market and carried prices of many issues down five to nearly fifteen points.

SOLD BUSINESS BLOCK ON FRONT

James Gordon Property Disposed Of To London Company

The James Gordon block on Front Street, now occupied by Lafleur, De Lavole, Druggists, Anderson Coal Company and Chancey Ashley has been disposed of to a London concern for an unstated price. It is cash transaction and when deeds are signed consummated the opinion of the Supreme Court must be obtained. This information was given to The Intelligencer by W. Jeffers Diamond this morning who has been solicitor for the Sterling Trust Corporation in the city. It is reported that a chain drug company with headquarters in London will locate in Belleville although there is no confirmation for the story up to the present time.

Mr. James Gordon passed away some years ago and the property was placed in the hands of the Sterling Trust Corporation of Toronto. The Women's Christian Association of Belleville were designated as the beneficiaries in the will of the late Mrs. James Gordon. Mr. W. C. Mikel is acting for the Women's Christian Association in the matter.

SOMMERSAULTS IN DEEP DITCH

Harold Barnum, garageman of Belleville, his wife and children escaped with a few minor cuts and bruises when their car, a sedan type, left the Provincial highway at a point one-half mile west of Consecon at 11 o'clock and over three times in the ditch striking a telephone pole, on Sunday afternoon, at two o'clock.

Mr. Barnum was proceeding in an easterly direction when the left front of the rear wheels came off causing the car to strike the ditch. All the glass was broken and the top badly jammed but the driver was extricated from it. The car was towed to a garage in Shannonville an the Barnum family were brought to Belleville by motor. In city. Their injuries were not such as to require the attention of a physician.

Slight Concussion

John Tocher, a young man residing in Corbyville, sustained a slight brain concussion and injuries to his leg and ankle when he was thrown from the running board of a car while rounding the Front and Bridge Street corner, on Saturday night. There were also several others clinging to the car at the time and Tocher lost his hold and fell to the pavement.

FOUR DUSKY GENTLEMEN SING THE PRISONER'S SONG

The beautiful and touching strains of the "Prison's Song" floated up the street in the Police Court this morning when four coloured gentlemen, James Carswell, William Moore, Rosemal Mooney and Napoleon Fisher, all pleading guilty to a charge of "riding the blinds" on the Canadian National Railways and being remanded for a week that their case might be looked into, passed down into the cells. The harmony was wonderful.

The rather pathetic looking Ethiopian plans claimed that they were on their way to join the Wallace Brother's Minstrel Show, having last week in Kingston, and that they came from Pittsburgh.

Constable Izzard, Constable Evans and C. N. R. Constable Jerome picked the men up on train No. 19 in the baggage cars. In company with the negroes were Gordon Kilpatrick and Charles Brightwell, also charged with riding without a ticket, and these last two named were given ten days on the hill.

DEATH SUMMONS BEARER OF SAD MESSAGE ON WAY TO HIS MOTHER

Son Was Going To Break News Of His Sister's Passing

NO INQUEST

Apparently Heart Failed And Robert Mooney Fell From Canoe

The body of Robert Mooney, aged 42, residing near Hancock, was found floating in Paudash Lake, in the northern extremity of the County yesterday afternoon, after a search that lasted all Friday night.

Mooney, who had been troubled with heart attacks on previous occasions, is believed to have died from this cause, and Coroner Dr. Alexander, has decided an inquest unnecessary.

The victim started out across the Lake in a frail canoe, on Friday night to visit the home of his mother, who lives directly opposite his homestead. Mooney's was a sad mission as he was about to convey the news of his sister's death, Miss Helen Mooney, aged 39 years, who passed away in Nicholl's Hospital in Peterboro, on Friday morning.

When Mooney failed to return in his home, an alarm was sounded and a party set out across the Lake. The canoe, mute evidence of a tragedy, was found floating in what is known as "Joes Bay." A tireless search finally ended in the recovery of the body of the unfortunate.

Robert Mooney, who was not married, resided in a cottage on the shore all alone and has lived the quiet life of a farmer for a period of many years. He was well known in and around Bancroft where he made week by week visits and the tragedy has shocked the community.

The physicians who made a post-mortem examination, discovered no water in the lungs which leads to the assumption that Mooney was dead before he fell over board, presumably from heart failure.

People from the surrounding district gathered at the place and a score assisted in the search for the body. Provincial Constable Percy McCoy, of Madoc, was called and supervised the dragging operations. The body was found approximately one hundred and fifty feet from the spot where the canoe was located.

Mr. Mooney was a member of the United Church in his settlement. He leaves besides his mother one brother James.

ONLY FEW CUTS AS CAR UPSETS

Cut-In Artist Throws Sedan In Ditch With Wheels In Air

Gordon Davidson, of Baldwin St., this city, and his two companions, Wilfred Hall and Wilfred Salsbury, of Camden Road, had a narrow escape from serious injury as a result of which Davidson left the highway and turned turtle in the ditch near Doyle's Pavilion on the Trent Road on Saturday night, shortly after 11.30.

Davidson was returning from Trenton at a moderate rate of speed and suddenly a large American car coming in the opposite direction at a rapid rate attempted to cut in between Davidson and another motorist. In the center of the American car caught in the left front fender of Davidson's car and sent it hurdling toward the ditch. The car landed with all four wheels in the air and the occupants were forced out on the roadside.

A few cuts and bruises were the extent of the injuries and those who arrived on the scene shortly after said their escape was miraculous. The car was badly broken and the body jammed. It was towed to Warren's Garage in the city. The damage is estimated at $450.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

"Power can do by gentleness that which violence fails to accomplish."
CLAUDIANUS.

A NATIONAL EVENT

Announcement that men of the calibre of Sir Robert Borden, Mr. Howard Ferguson, Sir Thomas White and Mr. Meighen, are to appear at and address the Conservative Convention in Winnipeg, is good news, apart altogether from party politics. It shows that the Conservative party, deeply regretful as it is, over its recent defeat, is not preparing itself for "this knell, the shroud, the mattock and the grave, the deep damp vault, the darkness and the worm." But it shows more than that. It reveals a desire on the part of a lot of people always a good thing in any democracy—to hear public questions discussed in an informative, intelligent way by men qualified to discuss them. In a word, it reveals seriousness of purpose.

There is much that such speakers can tell a party convention that will be distinctly useful. Because for any party not exclusively concerned with getting into office there is much in Canada that can be done. The Dominion at the present time is prosperous. But prosperity does not mean that we have no serious problems; very often, indeed, prosperity creates problems. Our inter-national trade—all recent figures make clear—needs overhauling. We have still vast problems of transportation; problems of development; constitutional problems; of immigration.

Upon all these questions the Conservative party, if it is to be true to its traditions, and desires to remain a useful instrument in public life and Parliament, whether in opposition or in office, needs to be active and informed. It would be a misfortune indeed—for any institution as well as a national misfortune — if Conservatism at Winnipeg concerned itself solely with tactics and strategy for the attainment of power. The presence at the convention of men of the stamp of Sir Robert Borden and Sir Thomas White, and others mentioned, would seem to be a guarantee against that.

EDUCATING ADULTS

At the present meeting of the American Library Association, the central thought in some of the papers read was that the public library should be a medium for adult education. It it fails for any reason to be that, it misses its main mission in modern society. The need for such a service to the community grows out of the obvious truism that an uneducated democracy is unsafe, but immediately the question arises as to what constitutes education. There is room for infinite disputation, but it is not proposed at the moment to discuss that aspect of the matter. The purpose is, rather, to give emphasis to the educative possibilities of reading, and, incidentally, the contribution which the local public library may make to that worth-while aim. Right at the outset, the need should be generally recognized. More and more the truth is being accepted that schools and colleges turn out unfinished graduates. When all the circumstances of the case are weighed little should not occasion surprise. It is practically inevitable and unavoidable. Therefore, unless a man continues to be a sincere and zealous student after his school days are over, he must fall short of being regarded as "educated" in the broadest sense.

The Dukes are leaders in the matter of adult education. Their national system is predicated upon the assumption that this mental training extends through life; and they have a well-developed plan to meet that need. The foundation of the system is the public library, and the superstructure is the direction of students in their work. That is to say, the Danish school authorities provide courses of reading, for that nature, thus far in Canada, although our need must be as great as that of any other country. Having grasped of relatively recent emergence from prisoner conditions, it is perhaps greater. In large sense the sum total of the enjoyment of individuals for comprehensive citizenship is the enjoyment of the nation; and as it is just been said, education is fundamental to a sound democracy. To reach that state of soundness, the school system must be supplemented by adult education.

Adult education requires a plan. At the meeting of the American Library Association, the plan which found general acceptance was based upon two factors; first, university extension work and, second, the use of public libraries under competent direction. This latter factor contemplates something in the nature of a new teaching profession, for the development of which cooperation between the universities and library executives would seem necessary. The end aimed at is to have available men and women who would be able to guide adult students in their courses of reading. Back of that is the suggestion that public school systems, should anticipate the problem of adult education by training children to love literature, and its best ideals. In other words there must be co-ordination among the various agencies able to contribute toward the education of all the people and, when that co-ordination has been developed into a satisfactory plan, it is not unreasonable, an assumption that the common good would be greatly promoted. It would be in the nature of an antidote to the indifference and often hostile habits on the part of the masses which have produced "the have not period." It would certainly make an immense difference in the long-run if growing percentage of young men and women should turn from vapid distractions and give the best of their leisure to educative and worthwhile reading.

A MAD WORLD

These pessimists who hold that the world, or much of it, has gone mad, get a good deal of support in a news despatch coming from Chicago. The despatch is to the effect that because of his willingness to permit Mr. John Harrison Dempsey the privilege of using him as a punching bag for thirty minutes on the evening of September 22, Mr. John Joseph Tunney has been given a certified cheque for $1,000,000.

Now it is quite true that a lot of us wouldn't give this Mr. Dempsey the privilege of mauling us for thirty minutes, or even one minute, for a million dollars or even ten million. The reason is, of course, that an expensive funeral and a million dollars to boot for one's widow, are inadequate compensations for death. But Mr. Dempsey can't hurt Mr. Tunney. Mr. Tunney, in fact, runs infinitely less risk of being killed or maimed than is run by the ordinary pedestrian when he tries to cross a street. As a matter of fact, there are a thousand pedestrians maimed or massacred for every single pugilist. Walking, nowadays, is much more dangerous than fighting.

Nevertheless, Mr. Tunney gets his million. Lindenburgh was offered a price of $25,000 to take an airship and fly it through darkness and fog and sleet across 3,000 miles of ocean. Calvin Coolidge gets $75,000 a year for being President of the United States. Mr. Mackenzie King gets $15,000 a year for being Premier of Canada. And there isn't a president of a university in the whole world whose annual stipend is $50,000. Yet Mr. Tunney, with was once a longshoreman, and then a marine, pulls down a million shekels for thirty minutes of cuffing about $33,000 a minute, or, roughly, $500 a second. And Mr. Tunney, after it is all over, and the tens of thousands who have paid $3,000,000 to see him are either cheering or swearing, will be about as much fatigued as one of the rest of us would be after a set of tennis.

Truly the world is topsy-turvy. And if anybody really wants to know why the processes of civilization are so slow, all he has to do is to compare the money values which attach to the other sciences with the science of fighting.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The inadequacy of the sentence imposed by the Magistrate at Picton upon Rev. Joseph J. Metlar, who pleaded guilty to a serious offence against a young girl in his congregation, is likely to cause widespread indignation.

The accused has been released on suspended sentence upon payment of $100 and costs. In this a sufficient penalty for the heinous offence he has committed? He paid $1,000 to the orphan girl whom he had wronged — to her whom he should have given the protection of a pastor in the kindly spirit of the father who was not there to protect her.

It is said that this monetary compensation was taken into consideration by the Court. But can a money payment, no matter how large, be accepted as fulfilling the exhortation of such a crime? ... He was also placed under bond of $1,000 to keep the peace. Has money become so all-powerful? One hundred dollars as punishment; $1,000 to wipe out an indelible stain which the victim must bear for the remainder of her days; $1,000 to guarantee future good behavior! Can offenses of this nature be expiated by such shoddy money payments?

There are many who will feel that flogging, had it been possible, would not have been too severe a punishment for such a crime. Instead of which the defendant appears to have been treated in every way with a tender solicitude and a desire to avoid hurting his feelings which he in no way deserved. Youths are given jail terms for stealing "joy-rides;" men have been given the lash for offenses hardly more serious than that which Metlor admits he committed. But offenses of this kind can be settled by cash payments!

Will the Attorney-General be satisfied with the sentence? Or will he take the case to a higher court? One thing is certain: The public at large will have an unpleasant feeling that there has been a grave miscarriage of justice on the side of leniency.—Toronto Globe

A LIFE LESSON

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have broken your, doll, I know;
And your tea-set, too.
And your playhouse, too.
Are things of the long ago;
But childish troubles will soon pass by
There! little girl, don't cry!

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have broken your slate, I know;
And the glad, wild ways
Of your school-girl days
Are things of the long ago.
But life will love will soon come by.
There! little girl, don't cry.

There! little girl, don't cry!
They have broken your heart, I know;
And the rainbow gleams
Of your youthful dreams
Are things of the long ago;
But heaven holds all for which you sigh.
There! little girl, don't cry!

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day, 50 years ago.)

What may be Belleville's last fair closed yesterday as the receipts are not sufficient to pay all the expenses. The directors state that it will be the last fair held by the West Hastings Agricultural Society unless Belleville business men come forward and assist them.

The water in the river, bay and lake is falling fast.

Mr. R. A. Cauldry caught the biggest fish of the season at Mosquito Bay on Tuesday. It was a muskinonge and weighed forty-one pounds.

The City Council will meet after their holiday on Monday evening.

The summer birds are beginning to leave for warmer climes.

Heavy shipments of fruit are passing east over the Grand Trunk daily.

The new Bethel Hall will be opened to-morrow. Mr. P. W. Blair, the Irish Evangelist, will preach at four and at seven.

Mr. Philip M. Johnson, of Belfast, Ireland, a son of the Rev. Dr. Johnson is in the city to spend several weeks with his cousins here.

Miss Libbie Butler, Belleville, was visiting friends in Deseronto, this week.

Mr. E. O. Ponton, lies at the point of death at his mother's residence, Charlotte St.

Miss Sadie Morton of Belleville has been visiting in Deseronto as the guest of Miss Saunderson.

The City Council Chambers, like the City Hall before its recent renovation has long been a disgraceful, dirty and dilapidated looking room and the present Council deserve a compliment for the change which has been wrought in it within the past two weeks. The colored decorations have been removed from the beginned walls and warm shades of paint have taken their place.

Mr. and Mrs. Bogle and neice, Miss Clara Pringle, of Belleville, are the guests of Wm. H. Loyst and others at Hayburn.

An evil may be popular simply because it is under over.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Sunday School Teacher (giving moral lesson to class) — And what qualities should you ask God to give you as you grow up? Truth, Honesty, and what else?

Wee Child—Sales resistance.

Molly—"Won't you play something more, professor?"

The professor—"It's getting late, I shall disturb the neighbors."

Molly—"Oh, it doesn't matter about them—they poisoned our cat last week."

ROYAL WINDSOR ON HER WAY BACK HOME

Old Orchard, Maine, Sept. 16.—With Windsor, Ontario, their "Steam Port" seven hundred, two distant, their destination without a stop, Duke Schaller and Phil Wood, hopped off from the Beach a few minutes after the cockpit, eastern daylight time. They planned to fly over Concord, New Hampshire, Albany and Syracuse three across to the Canadian side to Windsor.

Wood and Schiller may not be companions on the New York-Spokane derby early next week. Before leaving the ground here Schiller said he did not think Wood would go with him.

There are still those who say that it is better to have love and lost the cost than never to have loved at all.

TAKES OVER PRACTICE. —

Dr. B. M. Anderson, who was connected with the Dental Corps during the World War, has taken over the practice of Dr. J. M. Willard, in the Standard Bank building, and will resume the latter's practice within the course of a few days. Dr. Anderson had charge of a large hospital in Chunkking, China, until early in this year. He is regarded as a highly qualified Dental surgeon.

TO SELL HORSES

The heavy draft stallion, Rex Edward Brilliant, pure bred Percheron which won first prize at Belleville Fair, and the silver cup for being the best draft horse at the Fair valued at $50 presented by the Walker Hardware Company, and "Dobbs" which won first prize, being the best two-year-old stallion, are for sale. Both are owned by T. Wright & Sons. These horses also won first prize at Shannonville Fair on Saturday.

SUNDAY SCHOOL WAS DEDICATED

Canniffon United Church Formally Opens Fine New Rooms

Sunday morning was a proud and memorable occasion in the history of the Canniffon United church, Sunderland Church. For the first time the lesson was held in the new rooms which have been added to the building beneath the church. Separate classrooms within the room, nicely equipped with folding doors, plenty of light, hardwood floor with a platform at one end, and attractive finish throughout make this an exceedingly up-to-date Sunday School room. And yesterday these who had planned and worked for its fulfillment came, together with many interested visitors and friends of the school, to hold an impressive dedication service.

Rev. Dr. Baker, of Belleville, had charge of the dedicatory ceremonies. He said that he thought it was peculiarly fitting that he should be there as he had been connected with the Church in his early days. He asked if there were any present who had been in Canniffon Sunday School with him fifty-three years ago, and five raised their hands. They were, Miss M. J. Berry, Mrs. A. Black, Mrs. Scott, Mr. C. Callery and Mr. J. Brenton.

In his address, which was based on a text from the Book of Kings, Dr. Baker showed the fact that before a temple is built an altar must be erected, an altar of prayer, in the homes of the people, and showed how this had been the case in building our pioneer churches. Dr. Baker's forceful remarks were truly inspiring.

The service was presided over by Mr. S. Bird, the capable Superintendent of the Sunday School, who spoke of the School's flourishing condition, and of his pride at the completion of this, which had been a cherished object for years.

Brief remarks were also made by Mr. J. C. Berney, a veteran in Sunday School work at Zion's Hill, Mr. R. Weir, Secretary, Bird spoke of the noble talent man attending the Sunday School, and Mr. J. Brenton, the former Superintendent.

The children of the School marched in after the order ceremonies and under the direction of Mrs. (Rev.) Farnsworth. A solo was given by Miss C. Pardoe, bouquets of asters and gladioli made a beautiful setting for this dedicatory service, which will long be remembered as the new Sunday School rooms are enjoyed in the years to come.

GREENS OPENED.

The new bowling greens of the Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company at Corbyville, which have been in the course of construction for some time were officially opened today by Mr. Fisher Wilmore, Manager of the plant. The greens which are considered the three rinks are of the finest variety and of regulation length. The bowling enthusiasts of the plant indulged in a game after the official opening today. The officials of The Canadian Industrial Alcohol Company are endeavoring to stimulate all branches of sport among the employees and the bowling men at the plant are loud in their praise of the fine new arrangements.

SUCCESS CROWNS "WORLD'S FAIR"

Races And Ball Game Featured Program At Annual Exhibit

All records for attendance at the "World's Fair" at Shannonville were broken on Saturday when the historic old grounds swarmed with people from every section of this part of the country. The attendance was far greater than previous years and the program offered was the best ever, from every standpoint. The horse races were all keenly contested but one unfortunate spill marred the otherwise perfect day.

The one thing that improved the visitors' interest in the Fair by their day's proceedings were handled. The directors and officials are to be congratulated on their success. There was a particularly large number of entries in the class of driving horses and some fine steeds paraded before the grandstand.

Three races were down on the card and all provided plenty of excitement. In the 2.30 class, Miss Day Mc Henry was the class of the field and romped home an easy winner. This horse is owned by E. A. Bayley.

The Free-For-All resulted in a win for Dr. Thompson's fine mare, Dolly Lee Silwart, owned by Murney Collier was first second and third. The 2.40 class races were run-off in rapid-fire order under the direction of George O. Tice, of Tweed.

The ball game which was one of the features of the day's program was at the Alemite (winners of the city league) and the Moose (runners-up) going to the park. The Moose won out in a hard-fought battle by a score of 4-3.

Manager Art Young and Cap. Smith to the mound but the herd scored all of their runs off his delivery and in the fifth inning Darragh was sent in and he blanked the Moose during the balance of the game. Eddie Preis did the catching. "Chummy" Gerow toned them up for the winners and was effective. Ted Weir was a lovely game and created more than the usual interest. Vern Weir and Cleo Collins umpired.

The race results:

In Fred Patch owned by Fred Brown.

2nd Anna Dexter owned by A J. Bone

3rd Minnie Hall, owned by Eugene Coynan.

2.25 Class

1st. Leo Stewart, owned by Marney Coulter.

2nd Riverside Hal, owned by B. Grant.

3rd Doctor Audubon, owned, by S. Stirling.

2.50 Class

1st Peg O' My Heart owned by E. A. Kayler.

2nd Joe Tartiff, owned by Ernest Thompson.

3rd Lytle Alex, owned by Syrus Gardiner.

Chicago and up Glendive, Montana. The five mile course will be made at Spokane, Penn., Cleveland, and Brian, Ohio.

The race was the first of three scheduled to start today, tomorrow and Wednesday, as part of the National Air Meet at Spokane.

Lt. W. Goodrich, Oklahoma, returned to Curtis Field, a little more, than a mile from the starting point, a few minutes after the start, because of "low ceiling." He carried a passenger.

KARNIVAL OPENS WITH SURPRISES

Frantic Workers Have The Armouries All Ready For Big Time

IT IS HERE! Belleville has been anxiously awaiting the Opening of the Kiwanis Karnival and Conquering the Big Night. Everything is in complete readiness. The Karnival Committee which has been entertaining thousands at the Toronto Exhibition and the Lennox Fair for the past week, has arrived at the city and has been excited to form a centre-piece for the extensive stage setting. The owners of this wonderful machine have had a special case built to allow the Ferris Wheel at the Style Show to enter the stage through the Orthophonic and this effect should be pleasing indeed. This machine which is 16 feet high and operated by electricity, is valued at $12,000 and two experts are necessary to keep it in operation.

The Orthophonic will commence playing at 7.30 each evening.

Tonight, the Fashion Show to be staged by The Walker Store, will commence sharp at 8 o'clock. Eight of Belleville's popular girls have been selected and trained in the art of modelling and will display the New Modes to be presented.

In conjunction with the Style Show Miss Jean Ellsworth, known as the "Gift of the Victoria," will do several dance specialties that are charming and entertained thousands in Toronto. Immediately following the Style Show the Vaudeville will be staged by other features presented.

The entire show tonight will be just as complete and attractive as any other night, and a large crowd should be on hand.

The Door Prize Tonight will be a valuable Chesterfield Lamp, and will be drawn for at 10 o'clock.

FAULKNER WON GOLFING HONORS

Defeated Major Ponton In Finals At Bay Of Quinte Club

Over the week-end one of the most interesting golf matches of the season was played between George Faulkner and R. D. Ponton, the finalists in the handicap tournament of the Country Club. Both players were playing excellent golf, and the match was finally decided until the seventeenth Green. The first nine holes was played by Faulkner 1 up, and the second nine holes at the turn both players were even. At the Sixth Green Ponton was 1 up, but Faulkner got but Faulkner overcame this lead by winning the, 7th and 8th holes, Faulkner making a three on the long 7th-425 yards. The feat has only been accomplished once before on the course, and incidentally gave Faulkner the Ringer Prize for the year. On the second round the players kept even until the 15th and 16th holes, when Faulkner obtained a 3-up and 2 up and had Ponton dormie.

Ponton is the first player this year in this competition to defeat Faulkner to the 17th Green before the match was decided. Both players made very serious matches on the 12th and 13th Greens. Major Ponton, Faulkner's opponent, is the Secretary of the Bay of Quinte Country Club this year, had the pleasure of informing Faulkner that Major Ponton, Principal of McGill University where Faulkner is an undergraduate, is of his success, and incidentally, that he would bring Faulkner's qualification as a golfer to the attention of those in charge of golf in McGill University, and the Country Club here hope that Faulkner will be a member of the McGill University team, when playing the annual match with Toronto University.

IRISH COALITION

62 to the opposition. There are 36 seats to be heard from.

Coalition Seems Inevitable

London, September 19. — Returns from Thursday's general election up to 9 o'clock last night give the Government group parties forty-nine seats more than the Labor and Liberal opposition group forty-eight. But in this total of 153 are known so far, it is too early to draw any certain conclusions about the election. It would seem apparent that the Government is barely holding its own.

But a coalition on the same lines as seems inevitable and President Cosgrave's election to the Irish Free State's chief executive. Premier Baldwin's gravest manoeuvres in having Parliament dissolved and a general election called in the hope of winning a clear majority seems to that extent a failure.

A coalition may yet give the party comfortable majority than two seats, the margin by means of which Mr. Ramsay MacDonald's Labor party holds offices before dissolution and insofar as this is achieved the election would be considered by many to have been justified.

The latest standing of the parties follows:

Government, 38 seats; Farmers, 3 and Independents, 8, making a total Government group of 49 members.

Labor, 138; Liberal, 9; National Labor, 2, and Irish Workers, 1, making an opposition strength of 48.

Both Parties Galored

Both the Government Republican party and the Labor while both parties lost ground in Thursday's election. Whatever the outcome may be, it seems evident until early this week, anti-treatyism and revolutionary possibilities are now generally considered to have definitely receded from the picture.

Both the parties of President Cosgrave and of Eamon de Valera, the Republican Fail leader, showed increased poll, which were due to a diminution in the number of candidates from that of the last election and to accession to the leading parties from the smaller groups

Market Breaks Badly

New York, N.Y., Sept. 19.—Drastic liquidation took place in today's stock market. Prices of many of the recent favorites broke from 5 to nearly 10 points in a wave of selling which engulfed the general list and caused the severest attack in the upward movement in more than a month. Industrials were barred at the last several of about 815,000,000 in loans. The call dren two to three points in the said scramble for cash to get rid of stocks.

The decline, which had been widely predicted as result of weakened technical position of market was stimulated by tightening up of call money rate to four percent, co-incident with calling of about 815,000,000 in loans. They stiffer money rates reflected operations of banks to strengthen their reserve position and character of collateral behind outstanding brokers loans.

General Motors old, which touched new high at 277 1-4 on Saturday sold down as low as 262 1-2 today. National Tea broke nineteen points below Saturday's close. Dupont 9 and United States Steel common, entered heavy sales. General Electric, Woolworth, United States, Cast Iron Pipe, American Radiator and Standard Oil were sold down four to nearly seven points. Among rails Union Pacific, Atchison and New York Central sold down two to three points.

Extreme losses were scored by Toronto, Sept. 19.—Livestock.—Receipts 3278, last week 4,000. Steers 8 to 9. Butcher steers, good to choice, 750 to 850. Butcher cows and heifers, 500 to 750. Canner cows and heifers 12 to 14. Hogs select 1150. Good ewe lambs 100 to 110.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MRS. S. STORTS

Word was received in the city yesterday of the death of Mrs. Blake Storrts, formerly Miss Jessie Thomas, at Calgary. She was a daughter of the late William Thomas, and resided during the earlier portion of her life in Belleville. She is survived by a husband and one brother, Mr. E. A. Thomas, who conducts a business here. The body will be brought to Belleville for interment and will arrive at the P. R. on Tuesday afternoon at 4.55 when the cortege will proceed directly to the Belleville cemetery.

KINGSTON DINGHY SAILORS VICTORS

Local Club Provided Plenty Of Competition In Races

Kingston dinghy sailors captured three of the four events at the Bay of Quinte Country club on Saturday afternoon. Some fine contests resulted and every race was keenly contested. Dinghy sailing is coming to the fore in Belleville as evidenced by the crowd of spectators on hand for the opening race on Saturday. These inter-city races have stimulated an unusual interest in this sport locally this year.

There were four races in which the crews changed hats after each race and little Phoebe, owned by Dr. Proctor of Belleville, won three firsts.

A MODERN MARTYR BECAUSE OF FAMILY

Her mother will life upset because she had made so many plans for the wedding. And her friends will be sorry because they've bought a lot of presents. And her fiance will be simply distracted, because he has set his heart on having her—

So Bee has about decided to marry him, although she loves another man! How's that for a modern martyr?

DEAR BLAIE:

Two years ago I met and became attached to a wonderful fellow. He seemed to care quite a lot for me, and I was sure that he really loved me, so when he proposed I accepted him and we announced our engagement.

Since that time I have met another man for whom I am growing to care quite a lot. He knows I'm engaged, and therefore treats me only as a friend. I love my fiance, but when I see this other man the works in the same store). I feel as though I could run away with him and then send my engagement ring back to my fiance with joy.

My sweetheart has told me that if I ever broke the engagement it would change his whole life, and many other things that men say when they think they care so much for a girl they will never get over it if the girl should leave them. I know I would hurt him very much, and he is such a wonderful fellow and will make such a wonderful husband that I hesitate to break the engagement. Our wedding day will be here in four or five months, and I'm racking my brains to try to settle in my mind what I want to do.

In many little ways I can see that the other man is beginning to care a little bit too, and I know that should he ask me to go out with him I will go out without her stating. And also without telling my fiance.

Another point I what my family has planned so much for the wedding, and is so fond of my sweetheart, that I know my mother would feel very sad if I ever broke off with him. I'm an only child and as I will naturally be the only one left to furnish our home my mother is all excited over the idea.

What shall I do I really care a lot for my sweetheart, and know that no one else on this earth will make so good a husband, but the other man is constantly on my mind.

I have received so many wonder ful gifts from relatives and friends and I so hate the thought of hurting my fiance, that I have almost decided to see as little as possible of the other man until my wedding, and then to get married and leave the store and never see him again. Is that a wise plan?

BEE.

I think it's the worst possible plan, Bee.

I don't know whether you love this new man, and neither do you, but you certainly are not going to settle matters by making a martyr of yourself and then wondering, for the rest of your life, whether you would or would not have been happier with the other chap. Marriage is a hard enough job any way, without starting with such a handicap.

Stop al thiis feverish, romantic flip-flopping and sit down and take a clear, cool view of the situation.

Realize first that marriage is a tremendously serious affair. If you enter into it, the results will stay with you all your life. Divorce won't eliminate them. A new love won't erase them. There is only one reason which should prompt you to marry—and only one reason which will make your marriage a success—YOUR OWN HAPPINESS. You should not marry to please your mother or your relatives or even your fiance. You should marry to please yourself.

The misery you will inflict on your fiance my filling him now will be as nothing to the agony he'll have to endure in a loveless marriage.

Remember this no matter how "splendid a fellow" he is, he will not make a splendid husband for you unless you love him.

Do put aside all these other considerations and think just of your own heart. Do you or do you not love him?

Frankly, I don't think you know. And, if there is even the SLIGHTEST uncertainty in your mind you certainly should not take this grave step at your age.

"But how can I find out?" you ask.

By giving yourself time. By using sense and spunk and courage. Go to your fiance. It is not necessary to discuss the other man with him, for you are really not certain whether you care for this other man or not, but tell him that you are not sure of yourself and that you wish your freedom for a time, at least.

Never mind if he grieves and storms Remember that if he truly loves you he will see that is right for your happiness. Refuse also to be swayed by the eager or excitement of your friends and relatives. It is YOUR life which is at stake, not theirs.

Having done this, give yourself a trial. Try to retain the friendship of your fiance. Go out with him. Enjoy his companionship as much as possible. But also test the companionship of the other man. It is possible that you have become infatuated with him merely because you couldn't have him. Our contrary hearts often cut just such capers. Or you may find that you truly love him. Have the courage to put your heart to the test.

KOTEX—"sanitary pads" are largely being supplanted now, at Dickson's. They lacked efficiency in three embarrassing ways. 8 in 10 better-class women now employ a new "secret" KOTEX.

Kotex ends the fear of slight frocks and long hours under the most severe hygienic conditions. Ends the Collection wadding, the world's supreme absorbent. It is 5 times as absorbent as the ordinary cotton pad.

Kotex also annihilates odors—it deodorizes safely at 3 ditto. And it ends forever the embarrassment of disposal. Simply discard like tissue.

WARE John, Jr. begins to show grown-up tendencies, for when he does a great deal of groaning over the little matter of getting up in the morning, then much time and anguish can be saved on both sides by providing the young man with a smart dressing gown. He will be amazingly quick to jump from bed when he has this manly robe to throw about him. It is made in plaid flannel with a trim shawl collar, patch pockets and a tasselled cord. And when winter comes John may not be as obstinate as usual about coaxing sure and sudden pneumonia, for there's no sense in a fellow's running about in pajamas when he owns a very good looking bathrobe.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

Several years ago I became engaged to a beautiful girl. At the time of our engagement she had a good job, and, in fact, still has. She says she loves me, but that she'll never marry me unless I let her keep her job. Now, I may be old-fashioned, but I believe that a woman's place is in the home. I won't give in and she will not marry me, and that's how things stand. GEORGE R.

GEORGE R.: Your problem is one of universal interest that must be solved every time by the individuals concerned. Women have proved that a career and matrimony need not necessarily conflict. But on the other hand, many women have proved the contrary. The arguments on both sides of that question are fairly balanced. EWG?

There is, however, this much to consider. A girl who has been working and enjoying her work for any length of time may find that marriage leaves her with too much freedom on her hands. Her household duties may not occupy enough of her time, and if she is idle she may become restless and finally unhappy.

It is rather difficult for a spectator to settle this problem for two people, but it seems to me that if the girl wants to keep her job, it might be well for you to allow her to do so. If she finds that, because of her business duties, she is neglecting her home, surely, if she loves you, she will have her own accord give up her position and stay in her home. If you were to force her to do so, you have to marry you she might always reproach you for that, should she become restless and bored. Don't you think it might be better to let her try her hand at managing her career and her home and see how she makes out?

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Lace-edged pink chiffon develops a dance frock with full pleated skirt and plain bodice.

One of the surprises of the autumn dress collections is the successful return of the three-quarter length coat.

Rematitching, fagoting, appliques of self or contrasting materials, diagonal tucking, gilets, panels and jabots accented by piping, matching buttons and novelty belts are smartest trimmings.

A new way to wear pearls shows flat graduated rows of pearls tied loosely on the shoulder with a fastening of ribbon velvet. Needless to say, the ribbon velvet should match the color of the dress.

Velvets of all kinds, principally transparent velvet, but also printed velvet, and the regulation chiffon velvet, are enormously in demand.

Deauville is thinking seriously of backing up the "let-your-hair-grow bi gade." Here and there, always at the most fashionable resorts, women and girls are evidently allowing their hair to grow.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

When using scouring powder on painted kitchen tables or wood, first rub soap on the dampened cloth or wool, and then apply cleanser. Now no vigorous rubbing is necessary and see how readily they will polish.

If a small pinch of soda is added to the water in which green vegetables are cooked, it will keep their bright green color. Boil with the lid off.

It is well to arm oneself with a small piece of tin or a thin piece of wood when washing the baseboard of a room. It can be slipped along as the woodwork is brushed and save many a many anxiety on the wallpaper.

CURSE OF LOVE
By Mildred Barbour

Ada accompanied them to the station. She kissed both girls affectionately.

"Good luck!" she whispered to each in turn.

Major Harcourt took her hand and raised it to his lips. She blushed like a school girl. When the train pulled out of the station, she was still standing where they had left her, a plump, solitary, but pleasant, little figure, waving good-by to youth and romance.

The little party of voyagers stayed two days in San Francisco to attend to passports and to make the final arrangements for the long voyage.

"Mother and Dad would throw a fit if they knew what I am about to do," Cynthia remarked comfortably at dinner the last night, "but it's not my fault," she added virtuously. "I can't be expected to get into communication with people who are rushing about somewhere between here and Paris."

"It wish I had your assurance and your courage," sighed Norma, pushing back her untasted food. "You and King Carson would make an ideal pair. You're so much alike."

She caught Basil Harcourt's frowning glance and flushed.

"Forgive me. I shouldn't have said that. If course, it's impossible."

"Quite, quite impossible!" said Cynthia crisply. "But, at least, I'm glad to think that I'm not such a prude as you man. Have I told you that I'm going to marry Basil, after he has restored the opal to the temple?"

Norma was again astonished at this amazing statement from one ordered her own destiny with such calmness and assurance. She murmured congratulatory phrases, and Harcourt beamed happily.

On the following day, they set sail on a palatial liner for the Orient.

CHAPTER 45
THE UNKNOWN SHORE

The long journey passed without any incident of importance, except that Norma was desperately sea-sick much of the time. Cynthia was sorry for herself; she spent every available minute with her friend, consulting her, bathing her temples with eau de cologne and coaxing her to eat dainty dishes she ordered specially prepared.

Thereee was of little assistance. She was none too free from sea-sickness herself.

Between the two, Cynthia had her hands full, but her gay spirits refused to be dampened. When she wasn't attending to Norma or examining Theodie's fears, she was dancing, playing deck games, and promenading with Major Harcourt. He attempted to keep other admiring males at bay, but in spite of him, Cynthia was rather the belle of the ship, and he was frequently thrown into a ferment of jealousy.

"I don't believe you ever love him a bit," Norma told Cynthia reproachfully one day, when she at last was able to go on deck and, lying in a steamer-chair, wrapped in shawls, watch her friends play deck games.

Cynthia had been flirting with a young American officer on the way to Manila.

Cynthia shrugged her slim shoulder.

"How can I tell? It's very frightful indeed, but I've promised to marry him. I must be fond of him."

Norma smiled wanly, wearily.

"If you'd ever really loved any one, you'd know that there's no room for doubt," she sighed.

"Love doesn't bring happiness," Cynthia reminded her.

"No. Far from it," Norma sighed again and asked for her vanity-case. She opened it and looked into her mirror for a long time. "I look a fright. I'm sure Philip won't want me now." She began to cry quietly, somewhat, and Cynthia comforted her as best she could.

But sometimes she felt like shaking Norma. She had became very fond of her, but she couldn't comprehend Norma's lack of spirit. She herself was so confident. She felt that she held life in the hollow of her small hand.

The ship was nearing the coast of Japan. The sea had roughened, and most of the passengers had gone below, but Cynthia remained on deck, starting into a sunset that was blood-red and ominous.

"Only a few days more," she thought, "and then I'll begin my search for this strange husband of mine."

In spite of her dauntless courage, she shuddered. King Carson, for all Norma had told her, had assumed the frightful aspect of an ogre in her own mind. She couldn't recall him at all. She had no curiosity about him. She didn't even want to think of him, for the mere thought brought back the painful days of her illness...the fear that losing her memory would mean madness, eventually. When Harcourt's arrived with the black opal and opened the door in memories of the past, she had been horrified to recall what she had done on that mad night in May. She had only one fixed idea, one feverish desire—and that was to be free of the man she had married.

"Suppose he won't free me?" she thought. Suppose he refuses to be pitiful? Suppose he turns out a blackmailer?"

But that last thought she dismissed with a smile. She had Norma's assurance that Carson was a gentleman, a adventurer, but a gentleman.

The little party disembarked at Kobe. At Nagasaki they debarked and boarded a Chinese boat. Therese's terror increased with every mile of water that separated her from San Francisco. Norma's nervousness grew as she realized that, at last, they were approaching the shores of the country where Philip Kendall had chosen to make his exile.

"I'm afraid, so afraid!" she wailed to Cynthia, when they were established in their hotel at Pekin.

Cynthia scolded her.

"Forget about your husband for awhile. Look out of the window at this fascinating city. There are a million quaint things to see. Let's make Basil take us about while we wait for word of these wandering men of ours."

Harcourt had gone to the cable office where messages from Kendall's office and Carson's both were to be held. He came back presently.

"No work, as yet. The last address Carson gave was the Astor House at Shanghai. But he's not due to arrive there for several fortnights, and this is only the tenth, isn't it?"

Cynthia nodded, her brow puckered.

"What about Mr. Kendall?" she asked, with an anxious glance at Norma.

He shrug his best.

"I inquired at the American embassy, but they haven't a trace of him."

Norma burst into tears.

"Never mind, honey!" Cynthia consoled her. "He's probably traveling around with the Prince instead of mine. Now, there's no him to do, but wait, is there?"

"He's dead. I know he's dead!" Norma, Cynthia and Basil Harcourt into the adjoining apartment. He nodded slightly.

CHAPTE 46.

As soon as she could leave Norma, Cynthia drew Basil Harcourt into the corridor outside the room. There was a little elevore there, overlooking a flagged and flower-filled courtyard.

"Do you really mean that Mr. Kendall is dead?" she asked breathlessly. "I fear so," he answered. "If couldn't tell you in there, with Mrs. Kendall listening, but there's a rumor that an American, answering her husband's description, was killed in an uprising near Shanghai. You know, that area has been the scene of many engagements between the northern and the southern forces. It was at the embassy that I learned about the unidentified American. Carson heard it, too, and that's why he rushed off this morning to Shanghai, when, apparently, he'd intended to remain here until the fifteenth."

SOLDIER GREETS PAST COMRADES

Officers Of A. L. I. Entertain Commander Of Canada's Army

For a short space of time Saturday evening, General Sir Arthur Currie Commander-in-Chief of the Canadian Expeditionary Forces, President of McGill University, Envoy Extra-ordinary for Canada was none of these things, but just a simple ex-service man among comrades. After the public meetings in the Veterans' Memorial Building and the City Hall, the distinguished soldier was the guest of the Argyle Regiment's officers' Mess at their quarters in the Armouries. The gathering was purely informal. Many of those present in greet the General had active service records and all were connected with or interested in the militia.

As Sir Arthur walked among the company, here and there he recognized and had a personal word of greeting for some old friend. Later when he spoke briefly it was in the same friendly informal way—like comrade to comrade.

General Currie has just returned from Honolulu when he acted as one of the Canadian delegates at the All-Pacific Conference, participated in by the nations interested in Pacific problems. Considerable of his address dealt with the problems there discussed and the difficulties encountered. As he was among friends, he dealt frankly with these questions, which made his talk that much more interesting.

Enjoys His Work

That Sir Arthur enjoys his present work was evident. At McGill he mingles with over three thousand young Canadians drawn from all parts of the Dominion and from all walks of life. In these young men he sees the future of his country and believes he is performing a patriotic duty in helping them to realize their ambitions and develop their abilities.

General Currie believes that Canada is destined to play a great part in the World's history. She is he said, the great corridor through which the West must reach the East and so being on the "main-line" she must prepare to meet her great future. The young men growing up in our Universities now, he declared, will have the responsibility of guiding their country into more glorious days still before the time comes to hand the reins on to their successors.

Among the men, of course the General referred to the great days at the front in France and dealt with the stirring incidents of the last big push. Many of his hearers had been there and enjoyed it all the more.

Another point touched on was the service which Canadians could perform in creating a warmer feeling between Great Britain and the United States by interpreting each to the other. There is a disagreeable undercurrent of distrust and dislike between these two main branches of the Anglo-Saxon race which is dangerous to world peace and which Canada could do more than any other country to remove.

Brief Addresses

General Currie's talk was not long. Colonel Roscoe Vandewater as O.C. of the Regiment, welcomed the visitor briefly and then called on Colonel W. H. Ponton to act as chairman. There were no other set speeches. Mr. F. M. Clarke, one of the really old veterans of the Canadian forces said a few words about the old days in the army and was warmly applauded.

Real Veterans

In fact there were veterans of the Fenian Raid days were a centre of attraction second only to Sir Arthur. Mr. J. Mc-Inroy, aged eighty-nine, Mr. W. Roberts Diamond, somewhere near that and Mr. Lloyd, a recruiting officer in many all evening receiving congratulations and greeting friends. And they did enjoy it. Mr. McKeown, a daddy of them all, said smilingly, "I have been out with eleven riding for two nights and I don't know when I recognized only to Sir Arthur. Mr. Mc will get home tonight." The Company cheered them and sang "For they are jolly good fellows"—it was a night for the veterans.

It is related too that while the program went on Sir Arthur retired to the corner table and quietly chatted with the three who, as long ago started their military career.

The officers' mess had prepared for about seventy guests but the gathering grew to over twice that size and including men prominent in Belleville's municipal and public life. It included two representatives from outside the city who were anxious to pay tribute to Canada's gallant soldier.

CANADIAN NATIONAL GETS MEDAL

Advice has been received at headquarters of the Canadian National Railways that they have been awarded by the jury of awards at the Toronto Exhibition the gold medal forfeited exhibit, which was installed in the Railways Building. This exhibit was a novel and attractive display of the progress made in Canada since Confederation, and was acclaimed one of the best attractions at the Exhibition.

Directly in front of the cenotaph stood the Campbellford division of the Northumberland regiment, who acted as Guard of Honour. Beside them were placed the mothers and relatives of the deceased soldiers. The press, reminders, citizens and some veterans were seated all around the monument and thousands of spectators crowded the side walks standing on all sides. When Sir Arthur Currie rose to speak not a sound was heard in the crowded area as the great man and one-time commander of the Canadian Expedition Forces began. He was introduced with a few words by Lieutenant Colonel LaFleche.

Sir Arthur Speaks

In a clear and resonant, and voice Sir Arthur Currie started his short address which gripped the multitude as he went on. He wished the people not to forget their glorious dead and stated that those dead could be happy in that they had done their duty.

The speaker went on to stress the fact that what was needed was Soldiers of Peace, who would promote peace. He told of how he had memorized the Canadian Army at one time. He spoke tributely of the dead and of their glorious end.

Sir Arthur compared the leaders with Confederation, showing how the rebels restored provinces had kept together and come together, and how similar was the Legion. The speaker concluded upon all the school children present. "It will be a sad day for the youth of Canada forgets its dead" he stated.

Legions Present

Representatives from the Legion from Peterborough, Havelock, Picton, Colborne, Port Hope, Campbellford, Trenton, Brighton and Hamilton were all present. A great number of the local branch of the Canadian Legion were in attendance and the Argyll Pipers Band rendered the band from Campbellford.

Photographers, Pathe news men, representatives from half-a-dozen newspapers all intent to swell one of the largest gatherings of its kind that has ever been seen in this part of the country. Veterans, hundreds of them with their ribbons and medals bestowing their breasts were scattered amongst the audience and Sir Arthur Currie, at the conclusion of the Memorial Service, went around shaking hands with many of these.

The Monument

The Cenotaph, which is made of cement is exceedingly simple but has a decided beauty to it. The monument takes the form of a fountain, with four straight sides and a drop in the mouth of the fountain on top. On the sides are bronze tablets bearing the names of the various battles in which the Northumberland division of the regiment figured in and on the front is another tablet bearing the names of those who fell.

British Empire at stake in the most bloody conflict that the world has ever known.

The President of McGill struck a new note when he said that if was due to the blundering of the Canadian Army overseas that has culminated in Canada having recently been given a seat on the League of Nations.

"These soldiers organizations have performed a great work, he said, "in bringing home to the Government the facts that must be presented, but, in this respect we are not always allowed to be placed in the position of beggars."

Deeply Touched

Sir Arthur was indeed deeply touched as he stepped to the front of the platform to make a brief speech before making the presentation. He said he was glad to have the privilege to revive the stirring scenes of the war and said he hoped that in coming to Belleville he was launching the local Legion on a career of usefulness.

He referred to the way in which the war had brought the men of Canada together in one vast body in which those of Vancouver rubbed shoulders with those of Halifax and proved to them with a greater perspective than ever before of their native land. Canada had previously been a word

WELL KNOWN B.C. MINE RESUMES FULL OPERATION

Long Adit To Ore Bodies Well Advanced.

At the Florence Mine one of the longest Adit Tunnels in the Province is well on towards its objective. This Tunnel is being run to cut the established ore bodies on No. 5 level at a vertical depth of 550' below the horizon of No. 5 level. Another few months will see the completion of this work.

Extensive mining equipment including a two-hundred-ton mill and an expensive power plant, which handicapped their operations, was installed some time ago. The Company, however, has contracted with the City of Nelson, at the reasonable rate of $22.00 a horsepower, for Hydro Electric Power; and the installation in their own pole line to connect with the City's main transmission line is now being built.

The Company has produced over $1,000,000 worth of ore since 1895, was at a very low price, and its activities have figured in the annual report of the Minister of Mines of the Province since 1915, from which date the property has either been operated by the Company or lessees.

This well-known mine is modestly capitalized at 1600,000, divided into 3,000,000 shares at 20c par value, and is operated under the name of Kootenay-Florence Mining Company, Limited.

The names of the directors of the Company follow: President, A. C. Larson, Spokane; Vice-President, James O'Shea, K.C., Nelson; Secretary-Treasurer, David M. Owen, Nelson; Louis K. Armstrong; Don L. Robinson, Mapleton, Oregon.

Many Engineers have reported on the property, and all have been greatly impressed with its possibilities. Among those who recently reported are J. Lane Kirkland, Spokane; D. W. Shanks, of San Francisco, and H. C. Wilmot, of Pasadena, Calif. Mr. Shanks suggests a 200-ton mill, using much of the machinery of the present mill, which would show a profit of approximately $300,000 a year. The mine has cabin accommodation, complete mining equipment, such as compressors, tramways, ore cars, barges and launches. Ample water on hand is placed at 178,800 tons, and 232,000 tons of probable ore already developed. In the opinion of the engineers, should exceed the combined tonnages mentioned. So far the mine has never suffered from lack of ore.

The active management of is under the direction of Mr. H. C. Wilmot, who is busily opening up the ore bodies on No. 5 level, preparatory to completing the main lateral prior to getting the details of the mill layout up for production. Rejuvenation of this famous property will bring into production another mine in the well-known silver-lead belt of the Kootenay District, which is to be used will be that followed by the Sullivan Mining and the Consolidated Mining & Smelting Company, and it is expected that the product will be smelted at the Trail works of the Consolidated. A Kootenay Florence has recently been listed on the Standard Stock Exchange of Toronto. A very strong Toronto financial house is believed to be sponsoring this issue.

CITY'S GREETING FOR SIR ARTHUR

Gen. Currie Given Formal Welcome On First Visit Here

The arrival of General Sir Arthur Currie to Belleville on Saturday to present the Charter to the newly formed Canadian Legion was fittingly marked by the members of that organization, His Worship, Mayor Wilmot, Rev. A. L. Geen, Military Chaplain, Col. W. H. Ponton, Major Reg. Dumpstead and other public spirited citizens who turned out to meet the distinguished celebrity at the upper depot and headed by Johnstone's Highland Band and escorted down Front street to the City Hall where a public reception was held, presided over by Major Dumpstead. After the public speaking Sir Arthur Currie met the veterans and their wives in the Council chamber. On the platform for the afternoon ceremony besides Sir Arthur Currie were His Worship Mayor A. Wilmot, Magistrate W. C. Mikel, K.C., Major Reg. Dumpstead and Rev. A. L. Geen.

Mayor Wilmot's Address

"It is a great pleasure for me on behalf of the citizens of Belleville to welcome so great a Canadian citizen and soldier to Belleville," said His Worship. Mayor Wilmot then referred briefly to the achievements of Sir Arthur Currie overseas and the significance of his visit to Belleville.

Major Reg. Dumpstead

Major Reg. Dumpstead, President of the local Canadian Legion, acted as chairman of the meeting and briefly outlined the program of Sir Arthur's visit in Belleville.

General Sir Arthur Currie

"I am deeply grateful to the mayor and citizens of Belleville for the reception tendered me this afternoon on my first visit to this city," said Sir Arthur, in reply to the address of welcome.

Sir Arthur stated that a few years ago he had been in Belleville on a visit to come and deliver an address at the United Empire Loyalist celebration but was unable to accept the kind invitation. The speaker eulogized those people who left their homes and belongings in the New England States nearly a century and a half ago to remain under the British flag and with determination and confidence in the British Empire hewed their homes out of the wilderness in this district.

General Sir Arthur Currie also made reference to the Fathers of Confederation, whose vision and strength had made possible the United Canada of today. "In the United Canada of today we have living together, people whose countries in Europe for centuries were raging war against each other."

Sir Arthur jocularly remarked that he could there were many veterans whom he had rebuked during the war, but he hoped they had forgotten all that now.

Receives Bouquet

Just as the speaker was concluding his address, little Miss Edna Carter presented him with a beautiful bouquet which he fittingly acknowledged.

Following the speeches the reception was held in the Council Chamber at which many veterans, their wives and local citizens personally met the distinguished guest.

BELLE THEATRE

Monte Blue, star of "3 er Apples", the Warner Brothers production now at the Belle Theatre, believes that they are. During the filming of "Bitter Apples" he expressed his opinion to Marion Starr, All-American back of the University of California for 1926, and Don Williams, another sensational player on the same team. The two visitors to the Warner studios weigh 153 and 190 pounds, respectively, and are below medium height.

Harry Hoyt, who directed "Bitter Apples," is six feet two inches tall and when playing football for Columbia University some years ago weighed 185 pounds.

"Bitter Apples" is a rousing, melodrama and includes in its cast Myrna Loy, Paul Ellis, Charles Hill Mailes, Sydney de Grey and Robert Ilary. Two features.

Hall the new "Comedy Consultant" Charles Crapewin, one of vaudeville's foremost entertainers, filled this new position during the production of "No Control" at the Metropolitan Studio Crapewin has written and starred in many vaudeville sketches and has brought to the screen a new type of humor to supplant the usual "gags." "No Control," which comes to the Belle Theatre today, is a screen version of Frank Condon's Saturday Evening Post story. Harrison Ford and Phyllis Haver are co-featured. Two features.

REGENT THEATRE

Among the players in Gilda Gray's new Parsmount starring production, "Cabaret," is Mona Palma, a graduate of the Paramount Picture school. Miss Palma's the work opposite Thomas Meighan in "The Canadian" brought her this new honor, according to Associate Producer William Le Baron.

"Miss Palma has advanced rapidly as an artist and in public favor," states Mr. Le Baron. "She is in demand among our directors and her name was among the first to come to mind when we began assembling Gilda Gray's strong supporting cast." Regent today.

LONDON GETS SIXTY MILLION TONS RAIN

London, September 16.—Since noon yesterday sixty million tons of rain has fallen in London. During last night alone as much fell as during the whole of September last year and September seems likely to be the wettest for half a century, though it succeeds three other months which also came under deserving that distinction. This summer in England, in fact, has been like ally a washout.

As a result of yesterday's downpour rivers and inland beauty Brighton and Eastbourne are under water, cellars are knee deep in the floods and the crops are swash—potential bread upon the waters.

The Abbe Moreux, eminent French astronomer, whose prediction of a wet and dismal summer has been proved correct by reality, today seeks to comfort the British public by the explanation that the excess precipitation of the present weather is due to spots on the sun and that it will be even worse next year, but better after that.

MORE TYPHOON DAMAGE KNOWN

Tokio, September 19.—A delayed official report states that 70 fishermen are missing, and that 116 fishing boats were capsized off Amakusa Island southwest of Kinshiu during the recent typhoon and tidal wave there. The typhoon caused at least 600 deaths in villages in the prefecture of Kumamoto, near Nagasaki.

MORE THAN YOUR MONEY'S WORTH SLOGAN FOR THE 1927 KARNIVAL

Strong Committees Have Arranged Joyous Program To Amuse

Once again old Father Time has rolled the months away at a pretty good rate of speed and the Kiwanis Karnival, Belleville's greatest attraction of the Fall, is back with us again. Good spirits, jollity, money spent for a good purpose, feature attractions, dancing, booths, all these typify the huge Karnival held every year by that body of business men, the Kiwanians. And the more money you spend, the more good will be done in this sordid world, for all proceeds go to helping along deserving charities, crippled children and poverty stricken families, bringing good cheer on Christmas Eve to those who cannot afford to buy and would otherwise suffer on the eyning before Christ was brought into this world.

And that is not all. The Kiwanis Club was instrumental in bringing the Victorian Order of Nurses to Belleville, and they are even now helping to support them. And still people say "What good do these Kiwanians do otherwise?" Then having luncheons and talking business!

The Karnival

"More than your money's worth" is the slogan of the Kiwanis Club Karnival and they intend to live up to it. Many new features have been added to the style shows this year and every evening at the conclusion of the show professional vaudeville will be shown to the patrons. Literally hundreds of books, gaily decorated, will fill the Armouries, and the world's largest Orthophonic will be an added attraction of the Karnival.

All leading merchants will have gorgeous displays and wheels of fortune, chance games and guessing contests all will go towards making this year's Karnival a rip roarin' success.

Then, in place of "Miss Torpido", another celebrity in the person of "Pipkin" Peters, the darling of the second Wrigley marathon will entertain all and sundry.

Belleville nobly supported the Exhibition, now let's all get together and put the Karnival over with a bang and let the objective, "bigger and better karnival than ever" be a real fact.

Committees In Charge

William Woodley, Art, Donahue, George Cole, Bernard Collins, George Bonsirel, George Lee, Ernie Dickens, Nothing.

R. Aylsworth, Joe Imlah, Jack McIntosh, Russel Wetten, Ernie Pinkle, Fred Smythe and Mrs. A. B. Collins are the chairmen of the various committees that are going to make the Karnival a success. The "Big Bugs" of them all will be Charlie Manns, General Chairman, Harry Greenleaf, Vice-Chairman and George H. Griffin, Treasurer.

SURPRISES FOR EVERY EVENING

Karnival Will Give Full Value For Every Dollar Taken In

The Kiwanis Club of Belleville again comes to the public with their annual effort to raise money to further our work in the city, and although the proceeds of the Karnival are used for philanthropic purposes, the Club has never appealed to the public on these grounds alone, for we always make a big effort at least to give "more than your money's worth." In other words the Kiwanis Club does not ask for something for nothing, and when the doors swing open to the public at 7.30 Monday evening we feel it will be for a week of entertainment that will far surpass all previous records.

This year we have arranged some real extra special features for every night and if you were to attend each evening you will find some surprising attraction to greet you. It has been truly said that this event has established itself as a real community affair—more than a mere Club effort—and this year the community is going to be proud of this Karnival Week—even more so than on previous occasions.

We're all ready. Let's go!

KIWANIAN ROSS WOTTEN.

CLUB'S SUCCESS DUE TO ENERGY OF EXECUTIVES

Kiwanis Has Enlisted Services Of Public Spirited Citizens

The past successes attained by the Belleville Kiwanis Club can, in a wide measure, be attributed to a line of Pre-wire Presidents. Since the inception of the Club in 1921 the list includes a number of men who have been prominent in the civic and social life of the city, always ready to grasp new ideas and working always for the welfare of the community. Early in 1923 Kiwanis, a national organization, had not yet found its way into the portals of our fair city and a group of citizens became interested in the project and after some communications an organizer was sent here and as a result of the visit sprung the present Club which is now greatly recognized and admired by every citizen. Banded together for service as well as social reasons, the members have been responsible for engineering not only one, but several worth-while ventures. Chief among these was the instituting of the Victorian Order of Nurses which has been a great boon to the poor of the city.

The funds to start this worthy movement were gained by the first Karnival and Style Show in 1925. Nothing was overlooked in providing the patrons with real high-class entertainment and as a result it is now looked forward to with interest. It was a novel idea, something never before attempted in Belleville and it made a hit from the start.

Thomas Collister, then connected with the Bank of Montreal, was elected to the Presidency and piloted the Club through the inaugural year. Blessed with a strong will-power "Tommy" weathered the storm and the Club take a leading place in the social and service life of the city. Capable officers is one of the big essentials of any organization and in this respect the Kiwanis Club has been fortunate.

The following year P. C. MacLaurin Principal of the High School, was endowed with the task of carrying on where Mr. Collister had left off. Mr. MacLaurin's initiative sent the Club bounding by leaps and bounds and the members took a more active interest than ever before. Enterprise of all descriptions were tackled and Mr. MacLaurin left the chair with the regret of every individual connected.

Kiwanian "Bill" Latimer was honored by his fellows the next semester and was well on the road when his unfortunate demise necessitated a new election and this time "Russ" Wotten succeeded him. The idea of a yearly Karnival was proposed and acted by their President and the Club lined up strongly behind it.

In 1926 Chas. Hanna, one of Belleville's popular sons, essayed the task of directing the Club's activities. He was equally successful in placing it on a higher pinnacle than ever before. Charlie found the road none too pleasant at times but surrounded by able committees the end of the year saw the Club increased in membership and spirit. Charlie's aggressiveness added to his previous experience with similar organizations fitted him for the job and the Kiwanis became an established name in the city.

This year "Jack" McIntosh accepted the Presidency and he has carried on successfully and well and looks to even greater achievements in the Karnival than ever before.

ONE GREAT WEEK ON THE PROGRAM

Every Evening Has Special Features To Make New Records

The work of arranging a programme to suitably fit into the requirements of a week's entertainment such as the Kiwanis Karnival demands has been such as to take much time and effort on the part of the Committee. But we believe that the programme as now arranged will be such as to please everybody—old and young.

Miss Jean Hensworth, the beautiful Belleville lady who has been termed by thousands the Spirit of the Victrola, will do her spirit dances every evening both before and after the Style Show.

On Monday and Tuesday night we will present the best profesional vaudeville including the greatest trunk mystery ever produced.

On Wednesday we have "Pigskin Peters" of Toronto Star fame and swimmer of note, as our guest. Pigskin will meet all comers on Wednesday afternoon in a swim around Victoria Park.

On Thursday and Friday the vaudeville will be continued with "Tony and the Kids" as our guests, and Ernie Maurie, the Boy Caruso. Several other

HOPE TO EXCEED OLD SUCCESSES

Charlie Hanna Says "Start Monday And Make It a Habit"

The Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show this year had to be a real good. In fact it had to be better than last year's success in order to show the public that this is to be an annual event of real importance in the community life of Belleville and will be improved year after year as we find it possible to do so.

This year we have arranged some real features for every night that are bound to make the public at least have a desire to attend every night and this fact was certainly made easy when we set the admission at 15c with 900 reserved seats available each evening at only 15c.

To be perfectly frank this Karnival and Style Show must be larger and better in every respect to warrant the increased expense we have entailed in arranging our extensive programme, but we feel that the charitable causes to which the profits are going to and the liberal response that we had last year, combined with the additional attractions for next week's show, I say we feel that history will be made in an entertainment way in Belleville and when the curtain closes on the 1927 Kiwanis Karnival it will be voted the best week of fun and entertainment and education ever staged in this city.

Let's start Monday night and make it a "habit" until the last one.

See you Monday night.

CHAS. HANNA.

GIANTS FAIL TO GAIN ON PIRATES

Lucas In Brilliant Form And Reds Turn Back McGrawmen

Cincinnati, Sept. 19.—The Giants desperate drive on the National League pennant ran out of steam for a few hours here yesterday afternoon, and the result was annoying. If in the end it doesn't prove absolutely disastrous. Playing their fifth double header in six days, the Giants lost an three long 7 to 0, while a crowd of 28,000 Cincinnatians chortled with glee.

As a consequence the relative position of the Giants with respect to the Pirates, who were idle yesterday, remains exactly the same as it has been for the past three days. The are still trailing the Buccaneers by four and a half games.

The Giants strove desperately to turn the tide in that opening encounter but the harder they tried the worse they got while Lucas the Red never gave them a chance to squirm out of the grip which he fastened on them at the start, and held fast to the finish.

In the second game, the Giants lost little time in impressing Jakie Ruether with the fact that he wasn't going to duplicate any such performances as Lucas had perpetrated on them. They had Jakie goggle eyed for four minutes by which time they looked seven runs over the plate on singles by Mann and Terry, a hit batsman and a double by Jackson, and Zeke Barnes had a comfortable margin to work on.

54TH HOME RUN FOR BABE RUTH

Yankees Took Double Bill From Chicago—Swept Series Clean

New York, Sept. 19.—The Yankees advanced two games nearer the league record for games won over the 154 game stretch by taking the double header from the White Sox at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon. Babe Ruth also advanced one home run closer to his record total of fifty-one by crashing out his fifty-fourth, thereby equalling his second best effort which was made in 1920. The scores were 2 to 1 and 5 to 1 and it took a clean sweep of the five-game series for the champions.

It took the Babe a long time to get warmed up to his work. He failed in four attempts in the first game, despite the presence of the 45,000 persons who evidently came out for the sole purpose of seeing the Babe in his stuff. He lingered until the fifth inning of the second game before he caught one of Ted Lyon's curves, and the ball went to rest in the right field bleachers. Koenig was on first at the time.

The crowd, which had been rehearsing for all afternoon for just such an event, poured forth a volley of cheers that even must have warmed the Babe, who by this time is gradually becoming a little accustomed to such treatment.

Only a few straws—five of them—found their way to the playing surface, but the Babe's effort was thoroughly recognized. When he went to his position in right at the end of the inning, a ten-year-old admirer dashed from his seat in the bleachers and fearlessly rushed up to the Babe with the ball which went down as the Babe's fifty-fourth. The youth also had a pen and the Babe kindly forgot his dignity and signed for the document, placed himself at ease, and, taking the pen in hand, graciously obliged. Both were in line for more cheers from the Babe's friends and another one was registered.

It was just two more ball games for the Yankees. The White Sox fought well, but they were too weak with the bat to cause any annoyance. Pipgras let them down with four hits in the opener, while the champions grouped their hits off Alphonse Thomas for the necessary tallies. In the second game, Hoyt was master at all times, while Lyon was ineffective when his meagre runs five coming in the third inning for three runs.

PASSED THROUGH TORONTO

Toronto, Sept. 19.—The Marquis of Dufferin, ron of Lord Dufferin, former Governor-General of Canada, passed through there this morning en route to Niagara Falls. He is returning to visit in Toronto next week.

Experiments indicate that white flowers in general are sweetest, then in order yellow, red, blue, violet, green and orange.

KINGSTON LOST TO DELORO IN SEMI-FINAL GAME

Bay Of Quinte Champions Defeated Circle Six 5-1 Saturday

Deloro continued their undisputed march toward the Provincial champion ship when on Saturday they took the Kingston Circle Six into camp by a 5-1 score. It was a nice game but the Deloro Club have run up against their stiffest opposition since winning the Bay of Quinte League and they will have to be on top of their form to defeat the Stizes at home on Wednesday of this week. There was little to choose from between the two, although the homesters had a slight edge on their youthful opponents. Three runs in the third inning spelled downfall for the Limestoners.

Jack, Regan and Brown all hammered out doubles in this frame and the latter's was a timely blow and sent two runners across the plate.

Manager Circle Six made his second-string pitcher Richard Buck to do the flinging and this statement, old fan, shaiman had the Deloro boys pretty well at his mercy throughout the whole game with the exception of the third and fifth frames. In the last instance they populated the bases but failed to push out without a run. In the sixth a costly error by Jerry Arnel at second allowed Deloro to score twice and as a result two runs crossed the plate. Buck struck out two, pitched seven hits and issued but four walks.

Pitted against him was "Inky" Tetro, who was also at his best. The ex-Deborian lad fanned six but was inclined to be wild at times and was aided in the same manner. Tetro was effective in the pinches and the Stizes lost several valuable chances. In the seventh the Easterners filled the bases but the best they could do was to push one counter.

The Kingstonians lost a nice chance in the eighth to score but Howard Reid was out on a very close decision at the plate after Boudreau had made a beautiful throw from deep left. Reid was the big noise with the willow with a pair of lovely singles. Reid is being groomed for the next game at King ston on Wednesday and a merry battle is sure to result as both clubs are the ace of Daly's string.

The Circle Six 8 team made up of youthful players all of whom have shown exceptional ability and within a few years should make a senior team step. They have always been prominent in the Junior ranks and some of them are still eligible for Junior baseball. However the year they jumped to International company and won the Kingston City League after a close and exciting race with the Victorias. Belleville in this respect is sadly lacking as Junior baseball is concerned and there seems to be no young players coming along to fill the shoes of the pregent veterans. They have two seasoned players in the persons of Jimmy Arrell and "Lenny" Purvis as steady the youngsters and Manager Joe Daly has a smart-looking crew under his wing. The Limes can get all the breaks of Saturday's game and with a little luck on their side on Wednesday of this week, they should turn the tables.

The kids are all sock-sure that they can win the series and if Reid is going right the champions may take a fall.

Manager Jack played another big game on Saturday at short-stop and robbed the visitors of several sure hits with his fine work.

VIEWS CONFLICT ON CHAMP FIGHT

Both Convinced His Man Will Mean Hands Down

Chicago, Sept 19.— Two veteran observers of fights and fighters differ into discussion this morning of the chance Dempsey has of recovering the heavyweight title from Gene Tunney. Each of these veterans had seen Dempsey in action at his Lincoln Peilds training camp recently for the first time since the Jack Sharkey-Scott Cup Final will still be played at the Stadium. Athletic meetings, Rugby and Soccer are also promised.

A scheme for covering the area with glass roof has been suggested and found feasible, but will not be carried out for some months. The roof would be made of sheets of glass, operated in summer as shutters and closed in winter to complete a novel heating and ventilation system.

Work on the track for the electric trains will begin in the near future and it is hoped to start racing in the late autumn. A Dog Derby for a prize of £2,000 and £1,000 will be run on the opening events.

Arrangements are to be made for special trains and excursions to Wembley.

ST. GEORGE'S EVEN PETERBORO SERIES

Toronto, Sept. 19.—St. George's Pit League evened the Peterboro series yesterday in the second game of their series, 3-2, before a crowd of close to 2,000 fans in a very exciting contest, a deciding rally by Peterboro giving the visitors their victory. The Peterboro leaded the bases in this frame with none out, but Harvey Gillespie rose to the occasion, forcing the next two batters to hit to the infield, two being forced at the plate and one popped out.

Hardill pitched great ball for the losers, limiting the Saints to four hits, but three runs in the fifth was enough for all the runs. This youngster was going to town with the stick, getting three safe blows. A third game will be played here next Saturday afternoon.

JOE MILLER SIGNED

Ottawa, September 19.—Joe Miller, dashing halfback of the Ottawa Senator football team, who distinguished himself year signed a New York American hockey contract Saturday. Miller will be one of the best paid goalkeepers in hockey. He will report November 1 at New Haven, where the Yanks will train this fall. The Americans are also after Frankie Finnigan, famous Ottawa athlete and it is understood they will also have Billy Boucher, last year with Canadiens.

Picture Billie Morgan weighing 120 pounds, dashing about the ring popping lefts and rights at the 200-pound Dempsey, and you could not see any punching for fear of hurting Ted and Ted could not have hurt Dempsey even if he had been able to get up on stilts and landed a right to the jaw.

Tommy Russell (Rocky) Kansas is next. Rocky is a welterweight. His only recommendation seems to be that he comes from San Diego where Joe was determined but crude. Somebody should take Rocky aside and show him how to place his feet and hold his hands.

A chap named Norman Ling cannot be. After a little more than a minute he had succeeded in pushing his mouth and nose into so many punches that he was dragged out looking very much like he had dived into a cherry pie. Ling is a nervy middleweight, finished the round.

TO USE WEMBLEY FOR DOG RACING

London, Sept. 14 (By Canadian Press).—Rumors were carried a day recently of the purchase of the Wembley Stadium by a syndicate with Major-Gen. J. E. B. Seely as its head for the purpose of making it a course for greyhound racing which has had an enormous growth in popularity in a little more than a year. On July 24, 1926, the first electric hare coursing track in Great Britain was opened at Manchester. London's first track was opened at the White City on June 20th this year.

Since the beginning of this year thirty-two greyhound racing companies, with a total nominal capital of £332,400, have been registered in different parts of the country.

A complication is introduced by the scheme for greyhound racing at Wembley Stadium. Sir William Gentle, chairman of the Greyhound Racing Association tracks and amateur greyhound racing, declares that he would not be allowed to register the Greyhound Association.

It is the intention of the Wembley syndicate to bring over dogs from America if the supply in England becomes limited.

The syndicate is known as the Wembley Stadium and Greyhound Race Course, Limited, and has a capital of £1,225,500. The syndicate has floated a loan publicly in connection with the acquisition of the stadium.

The scheme is to develop the Stadium as the greatest centre in the United Kingdom for all forms of sport—from cricket to six meetings a week to be held during the winter months and one a week on Saturdays, in the winter.

Newsy Neighborhood Notes

HAND IS BROKEN

Kingston, Sept. 19.—Though it was given out at first that no one was injured in a car accident which took place on Tuesday when Abramsky's small delivery truck and an automobile driven by an American tourist collided, it is now learned that Mr. Moe Abramsky, who was in the delivery truck at the time, sustained injuries which are more serious than were at first thought. Mr. Abramsky at first treated the matter lightly but he now finds that his left hand is broken. His face was severely lacerated and he was injured slightly about the legs, but he is accepting the troubles in a good natured way.

AUTOMOBILE COLLISION

Kingston, Sept. 19.—Three autos figured in a mishap at the corner of Division and Bay street, on Friday night, but luckily no person was injured. A car driven by C. G. Chief Barber, Charles Street, collided with a car owned by the College Taxi Company, and driven by Ross Kennedy. Both cars skidded across the road, and ran into a car owned by William Berrington, which was parked in front of the owner's home on Division street. All the cars suffered more or less damage, which was adjusted by the parties concerned.

TO HOLD CONFIRMATION

Kingston, Sept. 19.—Bishop Seager will hold confirmation at St. Andrew's church, Sunbury, on Sunday morning. On Sunday afternoon, Bishop Seager will visit the new mission at Hemlock Farm. Bishop Roper, of Ottawa, will preach in St. Andrew's church, Pittsburgh, on Sunday evening.

MUSICAL CONTEST

Peterboro, Sept. 19.—In connection with the big Provincial Exhibition which the Peterborough Kiwanis Club is holding in the Armories for the week commencing Monday October 10, it has been decided to hold a musical contest for those showing greater interest in music, and greater interest in music and greater proficiency in musical performance.

ARTIFICIAL ICE

Oshawa, Sept 19.—That Oshawa hockey teams and the skating public will have an artificial ice arena in which to indulge in their favorite pastimes this winter, was made definite yesterday when it became known that the Hanby Bros., local ice and cold storage manufacturers stated that tenders were called for yesterday on the proposed building. It will be of modern steel and brick construction and will cost in the neighborhood of $100,000, it is understood.

NO LIQUOR STORE

Newcastle, Sept. 19.—The United Church Presbytery of Oshawa is forwarding a strong resolution to the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, under the chairmanship of D. B. Hanna, protesting against the opening of a liquor store in Oshawa. This action was taken at yesterday's inaugural session of the Presbytery at Newcastle at which the 21 United Church of the Oshawa district were represented both by ministerial and lay delegates.

NEED LICENSES

Picton, Sept. 17.—Drivers of motor cars who have not yet secured their drivers' licenses may find themselves in trouble if the matter of securing a drivers' license is not given attention right away. The police are determined that drivers shall have the necessary permits or they will hail them before the court. Already a number of motorists have been stopped by the police and demanded to be shown their drivers' permits. Six motorists who appeared in Police Court this week now know that the police mean what they say.

ERECTING GATEWAY

Kingston, Sept. 17.—Large holes for the base of the new stone gateway leading to the University grounds from Union street have been dug, and progress is being made on the work, under the direction of Prof. W. T. MacClement.

BADLY SHOCKED

Oshawa, Sept. 17.—George Davis, of 181 Verdun road, is resting easily at his home today after receiving a severe electric shock at the plant of the General Motors about 2.30 o'clock yesterday afternoon. Mr. Davis, who was working on a night shift, had occasion to use the certain box while operating a planer, when the accident occurred. That the shock was about all he could stand is evident by the fact that it rendered him unconscious. Dr. C. Hall was immediately at call and administered first aid and later had the injured man removed to his home. Mr. Davis is rapidly regaining his strength and will be able to resume his duties today.

Kiwanis Third Annual Carnival Off-To Splendid Start---Plane Crashes In Race Killing Two

KARNIVAL TIME OPENS WITH BIG CROWDS OF HAPPY MERRYMAKERS

Bigger And Better Than Before Kiwanis Annual Show Starts

NEW FEATURES

Merchants Displays Attractive — Pig-Skin Peters Coming Tomorrow

Once again cares were thrust aside and the opulace assumed an air of jollity a sthe Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show returned with an even greater program of fun, entertainment, music and games than ever before. Last evening's show augurs well for the success of this annual event for the remainder of the week. New specialty numbers were introduced judging from the plaudits of the crowd they were more than pleased with the offering. The Kiwanis have endeavoured from year to year to provide something new and novel for the throngs and in this respect they have excelled themselves in the present instance. From the moment one entered building the atmosphere was one of excitement and fun with the barkers at the various booths acclaiming their wares and the ushers directing the lines of traffic to the seating accomodations.

The Kiwanis Karnival has become an annual institution in the life of Belleville and it is with eagerness that it is looked forward to each year. The Service Club have more than made good their promise of a "bigger and better Karnival" this time. And best of all there's more to come and as daylighted were many of the patrons last evening that they promised to be on deck every evening for the week.

Adequate seating accomodation has been provided in the form of additional benchers at the rear of the long rows of chairs and every available seat was occupied last evening.

The Style Show

The Style Show, was of course the main attraction and with eight of Belleville's prettiest girls acting as mannequins it equalled anything of its nature previously attempted. Dancing scores and gorgeous were the exhibits at the Walker Store and Woodley's respectively combined with a lovely background is made it a wonderful setting. As the entrancing strains of the giant Orthophonic floated 'out, the girls blithely stepped out from the dressing rooms donned by two heroic little "shiny" Pinkie and Bernard Geeter. The crowd enjoyed very minute of the spectacle and generous round of applause greeted each and every girl.

QUINTE BREWERY FINISHES PLANT

Now In Position To More Nearly Cope With Public Demand

Tomorrow morning Quinte Breweries' Ale will be put on the market by the Quinte Breweries Limited, it was learned by The Intelligencer today. Previous to this the company was only able to handle the brewing of lager, as the demand was too great for the local beer for the Quinte Breweries to be able to make ale also.

But now a new boiler house and boiler have been completed and started to function today. The other machinery has all been remodeled and the brewery believes that it will be capable of turning out both ale and lager.

The Crowner and Labelling machine have been painted white and the filling machine overhauled and today the brewery presented a spic and span appearance with the various machines running full blast to turn out enough of the new ale to supply the public. A new refrigerating plant will keep the ale and beer cold so that purchasers will receive their beer and ale at the proper temperatures.

"There is not enough ale in stock to supply the warehouses yet," stated Mr. L. W. McClengan, managing director of the brewery to The Intelligencer today. "The ale will only be kept at the brewery office for a little while yet. Only a limited quantity will be for sale tomorrow."

Ale Now Ready

"Our new office are rapidly nearing completion," went on Mr. McClennan. "When they are finished customers will not have to drive around to the back of the brewery to receive their purchase, but will be able to get it right in the office."

The new offices are right next door to the present one and will be a decided improvement on the old headquarters. One side will be the general offices, on the other the customers will be able to make their purchases and return old bottles. In the rear will be two private offices for executives of the company. The front of the building is to be stuccoed. The contractor for the work is Mr. Walter Patterson.

LEO THE LION, WRECKED BUT HIS STEEL CAGE HELD

Globe, Ariz., Sept. 20.—Martin Jensen's lion-carrying plane, which took off Friday from San Diego for New York, was wrecked when it came down on top of a group of trees in Tonto basin that afternoon, he told W. D. Boardman. Globe merchant, the latter said last night when Jensen returned from the H-Bar Ranch: Jensen appeared at the ranch quietly yesterday afternoon. Boardman said Jensen escaped with cut injury, except for a cut over the right eye, and that Leo, his lion passenger, still was in his steel cage in the wreckage. Jensen told Boardman the plane turned over when it struck the trees and landed on one side.

Jensen related, according to Boardman, that he was flying fast when he hit the trees. He then set out to find his way from the mountains and follow the twisting course of Tonto Creek for three days, when he arrived at the H-Bar.

TWO DEATHS IN GREAT AIR DERBY

First Plane To Start This Morning Crashed In Woods

ONE FLIER MISSING

Fails To Show Up At First Night Stop At Bellefonte

Kansas City, Mo., Sept. 20.—Tex Lagrone, Kansas City flier, reported missing in the New York-Spokane derby, fell to his death instead at Ashland, Penn., yesterday, when his plane crashed in a telephone today. Forced down by bad weather, his ship struck a rock in landing and broke the propeller, he said. Neither Lagrone nor his passenger, J. D. Brack, was hurt.

Roosevelt Field, Sept. 20.—Richard E. Hudson, Marysville, Mich., the first pilot to start in today's class "A" 2272 mile aeroplane race to Spokane, Wash., and Jay Radike, Marysville were killed today when their plane crashed in a woods two miles west of Long Valley, N.Y. Radike, who was Hudson's mechanic had spent the night sleeping in the plane and tuning up the motor so that he could have it in readiness for the start promptly at six o'clock. The tragic accident occurred when the plane from the race left but thirteen of fifteen starters roaring westward towards Cleveland. Hudson's new plane flew the race left but thirteen of fifteen starters roaring westward towards Cleveland. Hudson's new plane flew so high that engine trouble developed and he was forced to fly back shortly after the start, because of oil pump trouble.

The crash of Hudson's plane was the first known serious accident marring the air derby which started yesterday with the departure of twenty-five light commercial planes on a three day race to Spokane. Tex Lagrone, Kansas City, Mo., is believed to have been forced down after starting in yesterday's race, as he never reached Bellefonte, Penn., the first stop.

TAKINGS EXCEED FORMER RECORD

A full turnout of Kiwanians greeted President Jack McIntosh at the regular weekly luncheon this afternoon, and the members received with enthusiasm the news that the attendance last evening at the Karnival was a big success, that the crowd was up close to the fifteen hundred mark, and that last night were also in excess of those for the opening evening a year ago, so from the start made, the Club has every reason to expect this year's Karnival to be even a greater success than those of the past two years.

Kiwanians listened to an interesting and instructive talk by Rotarian Perry Hunt at the meeting today, a resume of the speakers recent trip to England, France and Belgium.

SMART FASHIONS DELIGHT WOMEN

Walker Store Show Wealth Of New Fall And Winter Models

VELVET POPULAR

Style Show Feature Of Last Night's Kiwanis Karnival Opening

Velvet with jersey, velvet with georgette with satin and velvet alone—as the style theme by the Walker Store at last nights Style Show, comprises some of the season's smartest gowns, while velvet and fur trimmings were featured in chic models of fall hats.

The Kiwanis Style Show for 1927 gratified a large audience from the moment the huge Orthophonic allowed Jean Hemsworth to lift open its doors as an intriguing ballet dancer. An agreeable surprise was presented each time the Pathfinder opened the doors for the models, from then on.

Coats for Milady were offered first. These kept to no particular shades, but black, green, grey, rosewood, bright red and Napoleon blue with shawl and cuch collars of wolf, fox, thibet and red fox squirrel were demonstrated. The style is distinctively becoming more feminine as fashion decrees more of a flare, softening the outline of the coat much more than last year's styles, and adding value and further trimming. Broadtail is the season's newest material, a splendid imitation of fur, soft and rich looking. It was shown in silver, steel grey and black with huge shawl collars of wolf and fox.

Needlepoint, last year's favorite, was displayed in all shades, while mile-green and rosewood velvety duvetyn made up many alluring offerings.

All Must Flare

Afternoon frocks favored the combination of velvet and georgette with black prime favorite of the mode. Shades of green and purple made powder blues. Many dresses featured pleated skirts, but fashion decrees flares—flares—flares. No more allstraight lines, girls! You may go straight from shoulder to hips, and then—flare!

Georgette was prominent but several dainty taffeta gowns were shown. Waistlines are higher for evening dresses than for general wear, and the back side of that showed no distinct change Canary yellow and shell pink seemed to be the outstanding colors.

Sport outfits bow to fashion's dictates and combine velvet and jersey in shades of rose and brown, that is altogether new and charming. A white velvet skirt with the indispensible flare has a jersey top, belted with velvet and buttoned to the back with the same kind of material. This is the most outstanding change for 1927 styles.

Smart Small Hats

Hats fall in line with Dame Fashion's mandate and combination of felt and velvet, vari-colored velvet and the dig chic autumn chapeau. There were a number of close fitting cloche, fitting snugly in the high-shawl collars.

All the dresses were set off by beautiful furs and the last night were also in excess of those for the opening evening a year ago, so from the start made, the Club has every reason to expect this year's Karnival to be even a greater success than those of the past two years.

Kiwanians listened to an interesting and instructive talk by Rotarian Perry Hunt at the meeting today, a resume of the speakers recent trip to England, France and Belgium.

Two Main Parties Come Out Of Election Practically a Tie

Dublin, Sept. 20.—With all seats filled, President Cosgrave's Free of six in the Dail if all sections of Government party in majority vote as they had voted previously. Full slate of the Dail is: Cosgraves, Party 61, Independents 12, Farmers 6, Total of 79 for the Government. Fianna Fail 57, Labor 13, National League 2, Larkinite 1. Giving the opposition a total of 73.

Main Parties Even

Dublin, Sept. 20.—President Cosgrave Free State Government and Eamon De Valera's Fianna Fail party, its principal opponent were even with 55 seats each on the basis of returns to day from the parliamentary election, with ten seats still to be determined. Standing of the other parties was Labor 12, Independents 2, Farmers 5, National League 2, Larkinite Communist 1.

This was generally figured as giving the Government group 72 seats in the Dail because supporters were even with the opposition group, but this estimate is based on the assumption that the Laborites and National Leaguers as well as the Communist would be definitely hostile to the Government. Neither of these parties has declared its position, however and there is talk of a possible compromise.

SUICIDES AFTER TAKING LIQUOR

Port Burwell, Sept. 20.—Cruzad according to witnesses, from drinking liquor that is suspected of having contained lead oil or some other poison. Mahlon Elmore Vaughn, 16-year-old son of Mr. an Mrs. Argo Vaughn, of Aylmer, ended a tragic death when he leaped off the bridge at the foot of the street while being driven to his home by W. Marshall, Principal of the continuation school, and J. Sage, Inspector, who had followed until after midnight.

An inquest was opened before Coroner Dr. Sinclair of Aylmer yesterday afternoon, and adjourned for a week, to enable analysis of the stomach to be had been heard. Evidence of a surprising nature was given by Dr. Sinclair when he testified that he had performed a post-mortem examination on the body, and was strongly of the opinion that death was not caused by drowning, but from some poison in the youth's stomach.

ONE MAN KILLED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

CASE NOT TO BE SIMPLY DROPPED

Attorney-General Price Has Ordered Mellor Case Investigated

Some new developments may result in the case of the Rev. J. J. Mellor of Picton, with a visit by Inspector Hunter of the Ontario Legal Department to Picton today. It is a known fact that Attorney General Price is much incensed over Crown Attorney Allison's action in not submitting important evidence at the hearing in Picton last week. The department had previously delegated Inspector Miller, of the Provincial Police to Picton to aid in collecting the evidence when suddenly and apparently without notifying the authorities Mellor was arraigned and pleaded guilty and then withdrawn and later also was discharged from custody. Col. Price has asked for a complete investigation in the case and as soon as this is placed in his hands the matter will be given prompt consideration.

The Intelligencer learned today that Mellor left for the United States yesterday morning which probably means that according to the terms of the bond he will forfeit the thousand dollars. He apparently fled to the States to escape the storm of criticism that has swept Picton and the surrounding district since his arrest and conviction.

BELLEVILLE PRESBYTERY UNITED CHURCH HOLDS ANNUAL SESSION

BOY CHAMPION

Frederick Hotson

of Tavistock, Ontario, Canada's champion orator, who has just reached home after his prize trip, won in the Canadian oratorical contest. He visited Scotland, England, Belgium, Switzerland and France. He will compete on October 14 in the international oratory contest at Washington.

Rev. J. J. Mellor Is No Longer Minister Of United Church

RAMSAY CHAIRMAN

Pastor Of John St. Church Elected To Succeed Rev. Kenny

The action of the Official Board of Picton United Church in accepting the resignation of the Rev. Joseph J. Mellor was formally endorsed by the special committee appointed to discuss the matter at this afternoon's session of the Belleville Presbytery at the Tabernacle church. The committee also recommended that his resignation from the Presbytery be accepted. At 3.30 the committee returned from the anti-room but as the delegates were engaged in other business the report was not heard immediately.

The Rev. J. J. Mellor tendered his resignation to his own church after his arrest upon a charge of an offense against a young girl 18 years of age. His subsequent plea of guilty cast a new light on the affair and it is expected that the General Conference of the United Church will take further action.

The committee endorsed the action of the Board and requested that a supply be appointed at once. They also recommended that Rev. Dr. Melvin Taylor be appointed as interim moderator.

The resolution as passed by the special committee of the Church Presbytery meeting in Belleville today automatically makes Rev. Mr. Ford the Church in this district will now be referred to the General Board of the United Church conference which will likely take further action in the matter.

Ramsay Chairman

Rev. D C. Ramsay of John St. United Church is the new chairman of the Belleville Presbytery. He was elected to succeed the Rev. Mr. Kenny at this morning session. Rev. C. B. McQuade of Odessa was re-elect ed to the office of Secretary.

R. A. Wilson, Trenton made an appeal to the Presbytery this afternoon to have the 1st Methodist Church in Upper Canada together with the property of the 1st Presbyterian Church at 25 Bay and adjoining. Mr. Whatson said he hoped to raise sufficient money to preserve the properties of both denominations.

He suggested making an annual pilgrimage to the spot. He also suggested the appointment of a Board to take care of the property. An appeal was made some years ago to the Bay of Quinte Conference and $1,000 was raised and since that time the interest has accumulated which leaves about $1,500 to spend on the property.

A motion was passed by the Presbytery to grant permission authorizing a scholarship of $100 for Albert College. The money will be raised along with the scholarship at the Presbytery by the various charges. The money for the scholarship will be additional levy on the present arrangement and will be more in the nature of a voluntary subscription.

Morning Session

Ministers from all over the Bay of Quinte district gathered in the Tabernacle Church this morning for the annual session of the Belleville Church. The sessions were opened at ten o'clock by the Rev. Mr. Ford, the former pastor of the Tabernacle Church in the chair. The body of the Church was well-filled with representative ministers and Laymen. The chief business

THREE OF FOUR PLEADED GUILTY

Barrell, Cecil., Sept. 20.—Three of the four men indicted by the Grand Jury at the Fall Assizes here yesterday on the charge of committing a serious offence against a girl pleaded guilty before Chief Justice Meredith here today and were remanded to receive sentence pending trial of the fourth man who denied the charge. The three who await penalty for the grave offence are Phillip Robinson, Fred Wales and Robert Spinks. The trial of Arthur Archer, the oldest member of the quartette is proceeding today.

Charges resulted from an attack on a twenty-year-old local girl as she escort on a lonely road in Garnia

SHRAPNEL-TORN VETERAN PLEADS FOR 2 YEAR TERM

Montreal, Sept. 20.—Waldemar Nelson, forty, shrapnel-torn veteran of local unit, drug addict since he suffered his wounds, implored Judge Cousen to send him to penitentiary for two years after he had been sentenced to a one year term at Bordeaux Jail, for threatening and endangering his family. On his own request, the more serious charge was laid and a two years sentence to St. Vincent de Paul penitentiary was imposed.

SAFETY EDUCATION

Motor licenses in the Province of Quebec continue to be cancelled with unfailing regularity because of driving in excess of 40 miles an hour for driving over 30 and under 40 miles fines are imposed. That the campaign thus inaugurated by the old P. C. Government, the Minister of Roads is having good effect is seen in the downward curve of accidents and fatalities.

What the experiment is justifying itself, and its peculiar worth consists in this, that is common people attention not a fact always known, but ever in need of emphasis. Most drivers will agree with them they stop to think, that the crux of the problem is not in general laws, but in particular situations, each of which must be dealt with according to its own needs, and that thus the only effective rule for safety is unceasing will to be safe. Each car will bear no more than his own responsibility, but if he bears that he is doing the greatest thing that can be done to prevent accidents.

There we come to the conclusion that motorists, in their own initiative and by their own sense of duty and self-interest, can handle the problem of accident prevention. The State of Massachusetts has just launched up on a campaign to attain the same result by another method. Under the auspices of the Safety Council of that Commonwealth and subdry cooperating bodies, every community is providing free inspection of brakes, lamps and other vehicles to prove open to ridin, and is seeking to impress upon drivers the importance of voluntary observance of laws and rules for traffic safety. For two weeks these special efforts will continue, accident reports being studied the while to gauge the effect.

The question is, will the example of motorists who take advantage of these safety measures scare home to habitually reckless drivers? We doubt it. We believe that Massachusetts and every other State and Province on this continent will have to follow Quebec in more incisive measures, and this is already forecast in Massachusetts, for the Boston Transcript admonishes that "unless there is a general response to the campaign for greater safety expect trouble, for the police will carry upon-stop highways, motorists prosecute those who do not have their cars examined, and Governor Fuller has given warning that unless the rate of motoring fatalities and injuries is turned downward, there will be drastic legislation offered at the next session of the General Court."

OPPORTUNITIES

Those people who have fallen into the belief that there are more opportunities for Canadians in the United States than in Canada would do well to take note of an address delivered at the Fourteenth Annual National Business Conference of the United States held this week by Dr. D. M. Marvin, economist of the Royal Bank of Canada. In an unusually illuminating address, Dr. Marvin points out, first of all the tremendous trade expansion which Canada has enjoyed in recent years, showing that this country, with a population smaller than that of greater New York has a higher per capita productive capacity than that of any other country in the world except the United States. Between 1913 and 1926 Canada advanced from seventh to second place in per capita foreign trade. In the actual volume of its foreign trade, Canada, with a population of slightly under ten millions, stands fifth among the countries of the world, only the United Kingdom, the United States, Germany and France being ahead of this Dominion.

These statistics serve as a prelude to further important statements of Canada's position, and lead up to the following:—

"Canada is in the midst of a remarkable period of healthy expansion. A rising tide of immigration is adding new increments to our population, and increasing productive capacity is improving our per capita purchasing power, and a rising standard of living is diversifying our wants in much the same manner as changing standards of living are producing the same results in the United States.

This is an attractive picture which Dr. Marvin paints of conditions in Canada, but the climax comes later in his address, when he makes a direct comparison between present day opportunities in the two countries. e says:

"Because of our relatively large resources and small population, we look forward to a period of expansion proportionately as great as that which took place in the United States in the last century. It is our firm belief that the opportunities open to the individual in our partially developed country are even greater than those which are now available in the United States, where the situation is more static"

There are many facts to back up this assertion, and none speaks more loudly than the fact that over 100,000 people are out of work in Detroit, the chief goal of people leaving this part of Ontario in the United States. Even proportionately, there is no such unemployment in Canada at the present time. Dr Marvin's address, and particularly those parts quoted above, should provide an inspiration to Canadians to stay in their own country and seek their opportunities here, rather than seek the far-away fields which look green.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Sir Oliver Lodge says the time will come when we can have the kind of weather we want. The trouble will be to get any two people to agree as to what to order.—London Free Press.

The alarming rate at which deaths due to motor accidents are increasing makes it plain that nothing like concerted action can control the evil. A recent survey in New York City shows that out of 854 accidents which occurred in a single month, 96 of these were due to careless driving on city streets. It is a depressing fact that of these 96 were children.

The same dangers lurk in every city, and in lesser degree in every town and country road. For the highway accident situation in general, there is but one remedy, education. Three classes of persons should be affected by such education: parents, children, and those who drive machines.

People need to know the traffic laws and further, they should be put constantly on their guard. A development of the sense of courtesy can do much to obviate the danger of smash-ups. When caution becomes the rule rather than the exception, the country need not give up each year its needless toll of lives through motor accidents.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

THE STRAY DOG

Your wistful eyes searching each one as he passed,
Stray dog—so lost, so starved and starke thin,
And yet your gallant hope held to the last
That there would come a heart to take you in.

Some came who jeered your bewilderment,
Some kicked you, shouted, threw things till you'd gone;
But, oh, more cruel was the one who beat
And petted you, and murmured and went along.

GOOD VAUDEVILLE AT CAPITOL

As good a vaudeville number as has been seen in this city for a long time is the offering at the Capitol theatre the first half of the week of the "Thirty Town" Road Show Company, a juvenile Company, of dancers and singers; their performance has real merit and the Charleston, Blackbottom and the rest of the dances executed by these clever boys and girls drew hearty and well deserved applause from the large house last evening. On the screen, Colleen Moore is seen in another of her latest and best hits, "Orchids and Ermine"—a clever comedy romance. Both stage and screen numbers are exceptionally good, providing fine entertainment and many a laugh.

INFERIOR MUSIC DISCREDITED HIM

Cobourg Man Sues 'Aimee McPherson For Balm To Feelings

Cobourg, Sept. 20.—Roy Reid Brignall, former organist at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church, Cobourg, is flaying as one of the principals in the latest litigation in California against 'Mrs. Aimee Semple McPherson, evangelist and evangelist. Brignall is pressing his suit, which involves $5000, to the limit and is bringing a host of witnesses to back up his case when it comes before the courts in the near future. He will be represented by many people in Cobourg and was known during his residence here as a very talented musician and a man of friendly, generous disposition.

The musician alleged in his suit that he was compelled to play "inferior sacred music" which, he contended, "discredited his artistic ability." Also he claims that he was engaged at first organist and later superseded by a woman, Esther Prickle Green who had failed to act as associate organist under her.

Mrs. McPherson, when told of the suit, said:

"Mr. Brignall played set poorly that he had to hire another organist. He couldn't play the big pieces to suit the congregation and the temple leaders. The music which he played was not what the were and then he would let them down when Sunday came. He—

"They would be singing in sharp, and he would play in flat.

"He was fined nineteen times by the men with his playing.

"When I came back from Chicago I had to hire another organist to play the big tunes. I still offered to let Mr. Brignall play the same number of hours and to have his contract, but he refused. And the court ordered it to accept his check when I offered it to him.'

THREE OF ESCAPED PRISONERS RE-TAKEN

London, Ont., Sept. 20.—Ernest Alexander Brown, George Ross McLeod and Roger Aspinall, the three party of five who escaped last evening from Middlesex Jail, were captured early this morning, about two miles east of the city.

They were sleeping in a barn when taken into custody by city police, who were given information by a farmer.

H. Gerrebrandt, who escaped with them on Sunday night the three men were in a ditch not ten feet from where Gerrebrandt was captured.

Edward Marlton, charged with the murder of County Constable Officer Waddell on September 12, 1925, and Frank Marston, charged with assault, and alleged ringleader in the escape, are still at large.

MAJOR ARBUTHNOT IS WESTERN OPTIMIST

Major A. H. Arbuthnot, Advertising Manager of the Almite Products Company of Canada, returned recently to the city after a month's business trip through the Western Provinces and the State of Victoria, B.C. Major Arbuthnot states that the Western Province enthusiastic over crop conditions in all three Provinces and that Saskatchewan and Alberta, and expect a wonderful crop. The weather has been ideal for harvesting throughout the West, with a minimum of damage to the grain due to rain. The indications of waving grain will really produce a "golden harvest" and not the rust shriveled grains which in the past have often been garnered, when the fields in the east of the province seem all like "gold" but in reality worthless from it.

Harvesting is well along, according to Major Arbuthnot, and out of the West will doubtless come one of the very best crops ever grown.

TWO DEATHS

Fifteen commercial planes set off between six and eight o'clock this standard time today for Spokane, Washington, in the second of three trans-Continental races being held in connection with the National air races at Spokane. All the planes made perfect takeoffs despite the soft field due to heavy rains had which fell. Ten of the fifteen competed in by planes capable of carrying two passengers as well as a pilot. Pilots were allowed to carry ballast instead of passengers if they chose, but Roscoe Turner, Cleveland, Ohio, was the only one to start alone.

Witnesses of the crash of Hudson's plane said that the pilot was apparently trying to gain altitude to clear the Cabinery Mountains when the motor turned over. Hudson righted the machine once but it fluttered and plunged nearly several times.

Off On Second Lap

Chicago, Sept. 20.—Amid the cold, grinning rain which had soaked the municipal airfield here stopped falling and the first rays of the early morning sun drifted over the assembled throng of spectators, the Pan-American Spokane "Class B" air derby was resumed at 5:30 this morning, central standard time, Lieut. Lowell Smith, Des Moines, Iowa, leader of the race to date, hopped off for St. Paul.

MARRIAGES

CAMPBELL—HOLMES

At the residence of the Point Anne Minister, Rev. L. M. Sharpe, 227 West Moira street, on Saturday, Sept. 17, a quiet wedding took place, when Mr. Stewart Deruiha and Miss Urenia Holmes, both of Point Anne, were united in marriage. The young couple will make a brief tour of Maine, Boston and the Canadian Country, after which they will reside at Point Anne.

CASEMENT—BALLARD

A wedding of interest will took place in St. Paul's Church, Napanee, at noon yesterday, when Miss Hazel Ballard, of Napanee, became the bride of Mr. Wilfred Casement, son of Mrs. and Mr. W. Casement, of Church street, Belleville. The wedding ceremony was performed in the presence of only the immediate friends and relatives of the bride and groom by the Rev. Mr. Cole of the church of St. Paul's.

The bride, who was given away by her father, looked charming in blue georgette trimmed with silver lace and rhinestone buckles. She wore a hat to match. Miss Dorothy Scott, who acted as bridesmaid, wore a shell-pink georgette dress over silver fabric. Many of this city, assisted the groom. Instead of the usual flowers the bride carried a prayer-book with streamers tied with rose buds.

After the ceremony the bride was a neck-lace of pearls and the bridesmaid received a similar gift. The groomsman received a present of a gold watch chain.

Later in the ceremony the party visited the home of the bride's parents where a wedding luncheon was served to the guests. The couple left for on a honeymoon trip to Ottawa. They will reside in Toronto.

EXERTS PRESSURE

Returns are awaited from Dorset and Cork, and from these the Government hopes to increase its lead, and on final results it is believed the Government will be safe. Whether with such a narrow majority President Cosgrave will consent to carry on is not known, but he will be subjected to strong pressure from members of his Commercial interests to retain the helm.

There is no doubt that the need of raising an internal loan will weigh with President Cosgrave, and in this the business community is deeply interested. At the same time the Cosgrave Government must be able to carry out its previous determination to enforce the new Public Safety Act. The whole situation is a difficult one, and there is risk, a prophecy as to what will happen.

All the small, parties, both great and small where split by the election, and apparently it was at the expense of the Independents and farmers. Thomas Wall's group and Cosgrave in the last Dail.

More than 200,000 electors by today have registered Thomas Wall's simple formula, 'says the Irish Times declaring that in general terms the election is a fact' the fate of the other parties is almost negligible.

"For the second time within three months," says the Irish Independents, "the Free State electors have shown their full neglicence of many who abstained and the 'impredence of others who voted have failed to give any party a working majority."

As to our neckpieces, along fox, sable cross fox, and mink, they are all selling well with a tendency to favor the cross fox as increasing in popularity due to the importance of brown.

Women's News and Views

WEAK WILLED YOUTH EASILY LED ASTRAY

IN THE TOILS—That should be the thrilling title of Jean's letter. It reads just like a movie scenario. Jean's lover John and John loves his Jean, but a wicked charm and a dreadful woman with a strange unearthly power is camping on John's trail.

But read it yourself and see how it feels to have a boogie lady chasing you around.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am very much in love with a young man a few years my senior, and I have been going with him a little over a year. After I had learned to like him he told me of his friendship with a girl of darkened reputation. She, by her "wicked charms" has "made" him take her out. He grew actually afraid of her and obeyed her whims. All this he told me and I stood by him because I loved him.

He finally stopped going with her against her will and went with me. She grew jealous of me and wrote him threatening notes in which she declared her love and then begged him to come back to her but he avoided her for he said he could not return her love.

And a month ago he told me he loved me dearly and wished me to marry him, but I hesitated, thinking of his past life and this girl. Furthermore she has again started to tormenting him by her letters, notes of love, entreating him to meet her alone but he says he will never renew their friendship because I am the only one he will ever love. Elsie, what should I do? JEAN.

What shall you do? Nothing.

It's not up to you, Jean. It's up to the man. And for your own future peace and happiness you'd better give him a free hand in settling his difficulties.

I know that you believe that he is under some strange, weird spell, little girl. He isn't. Things like that don't happen in modern America. This woman has no power over him unless he gives her that power. If he doesn't want to go on with her, she can't make him.

It's entirely a question of your man's good sense, courage and spunk —or lack of it. If he is a spineless coward, unable to resist another's demands or his own impulses, then this is an unfair time to prove it. And though the proof may hurt you sorely, it may save you infinite misery in the future.

So step out of this situation and keep your head off. Tell him that all-plans for a marriage are off until he has settled this affair and then stick to your word. It will be hard, Jean, but some day you'll be glad you did.

And here's the old, old story of the young man who tries to get out and the tired husband who's all for staying in.

He took me out every night before we were married, and now he doesn't take me out AT ALL." That's Esther's wail. AND NOW SHE'S ASKING WHY HUBBY HAS CHANGED.

DEAR ELSIE:

My husband is getting so that he hardly ever takes me out any more in the evening. He says he is too tired and wants to stay home. I wouldn't mind being at home a few nights, but it's hard to stay home every night.

We haven't been married a year yet, and before then he was over every night and took me out. Now, it's all I can do to get him to go for a short ride. I've always had good times before and it seems awful to be missing them now. Why has he changed? He doesn't work any harder now than he did before.

Please put this in print and ask others what they do about it when this happens to them. I just hate to think of staying in this stuffy two room apartment every day, all day, and then at night too.

ESTHER.

Why doesn't hubby step you out every night, Esther? That's easy. Here's why.

During the courtship days every man does his utmost to please the lady of his heart. He may be weary in the least of dropping, but if the lady wants to step, he steps too. That's part of his scheme to please her enough so that she will be willing to trot up to the altar with him.

And it's a plan that works both ways. Didn't you exert yourself a little more to please your man when you weren't quite sure whether it was you he wanted or that Cuba redhead girl he talked so much about? You did.

Now that hubby has you bagged and tagged he's let down a bit. He loves you just as much but he has the ring on your finger, wants you and it doesn't seem so necessary to exert himself any more. That's why he has changed.

And now that it's all explained let's see what we can do about it. Why not talk things over with him tonight? Tell him you know he's tired but that you're tired too—tired of staying home night after night, and that a little fresh air in his company would do you a world of good. Don't nag or cry or rave or quarrel. Be cheery and friendly and calm, BUT FIRM.

Plan a play schedule for yourself. Why not set aside Saturday night to go out? Then hubby can make up his beauty sleep on Sunday morning. And have another evening saved set aside to have some friends in for dinner and a little game of cards or a ride together after supper. And, if you want to gout on another night, why not join some of your girl friends at a movie or a lecture or a concert.

Affording Countless Color and Fabric Combinations

FASHION has acquired the two-piece habit, and it would now seem a strange season indeed that did not offer new versions of this popular style. The unusually attractive design above is being developed for afternoon or all day wear in tricotine satin or silk crepe, the draped blouse using the one side and the smart two-piece collar flared skirt and spaced trimming bands of the blouse using the other side. Matching velvet, camel's hair twill or wool crepe might make the skirt and bands for a silk or satin blouse, while the costume might be made entirely of silk crêpe or lainy crêpe de Chine either all one color or in harmonizing shades. A blouse of georgette to match a silk crêpe skirt makes a still more practical outfit, while for the dressiest [illegible]

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barbour

Cynthia made a despairing gesture. "Isn't that too terrible? We mislead him, by a hair's breadth I'm afraid so. That is, if he can get through. The trains often are held up. It turned back because of fighting."

Cynthia shook her head.

"They say he's always lucky. He'll probably get through, all right. But, oh, how can I tell them?"

"Don't...tell her yet," he urged. "After all, it may be only a rumor."

"How long will we have to stay here without knowing?" I detest inaction."

"The people of the Orient know how to wait," he answered with a smile. "You'll have to learn their lesson."

"If only we'd arrived a day earlier," she murmured. Then her eyes sparkled, and she said, with sudden enthusiasm: "At least, you can put the time to good use."

"?" "How?" he asked astonished. "You want me to follow Carson?"

"Yes." She smiled slightly, thinking of the irony of the suggestion—sending a prospective husband to find an actual one. "No, I've a better plan than that. While Norma and I stay quietly in Pekin and wait for the fifteenth of the month, when we've fairly sure King Carson will be in Shanghai, you can take the opal back to the temple."

He started.

"You're not afraid to stay here alone?"

"Afraid!" she scoffed. "How absurd!"

He looked distinctly worried. . . . "I'm not so sure that it's safe for you and Norma to be left by yourselves. There may be fighting here too."

"Basil," She laid her hand on his arm, dent you want to marry me?"

He looked his answer in that question.

"Then do as I ask. Take the opal to the temple. Rid us all of it."

Harcourt considered.

"The temple isn't far from Pekin. If I make an early start in the morning with a car, I ought to be back by night. It's leaving you and Norma that worries me."

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in my early teens, and am passably good-looking and dress well.

I am invited to several parties, but when I go I never enjoy myself. People don't seem me but just keep to themselves. What I so want to be like the other girls. What must I do to win a their friendship? When I am in a boy's presence I can't act natural. I act weak and timid. How can I overcome this?

LONELY GREY EYES.

LONELY GREY EYES: First, my dear, you must make a decided effort to overcome your shyness and uncertainty. Very probably you are too self-conscious and unless you get over that you are going to have trouble! Take stock of yourself, correct whatever faults you find and cultivate a manner of charm and poise. Your shyness in the presence of boys will wear off in time when you gain more confidence in yourself.

But Cynthia was very persuasive and he consented finally. She went to tell Norma that the black opal was to be restored to the temple from which a love-mad girl had taken it. But nothing could divert Norma's mind from the thought that her husband had been killed. She sat in her room, listless and apathetic.

Cynthia looked at her with pitying eyes. But she refused to credit the rumor that the unidentified dead American was Philip Kendall.

"It would be too cruel," she thought. After dinner that night, Harcourt went away to order his car for seven o'clock the following morning. Cynthia seized upon the opportunity to interview the hotel clerk on a matter of her own. When Harcourt returned she was sitting in the lounge, looking as innocent as a kitten.

"Do you want to say good-by to your opal?" he asked, and drew it from his pocket.

Cynthia took it in her palm and star ed at it for a long time. Its flaw-less impressed her anew. Its fires seemed to burn her palm.

"Good-by, you beautiful thing!" she whispered. "How I wish I'd never seen you! How glad I am that I'm never to see you again!"

It seemed to wing at her, like a malevolent, crimson eye under a film of smoke. She didn't guess how soon and under what circumstances she was to see it again.

CHAPTER 67.

ON THE TRAIL

Major Harcourt left at seven o'clock the next morning. From her window, overlooking the courtyard, Cynthia watched him drive away.

RAYNOR JUST KEPT GOING LACKING KNOWLEDGE OF WHERE HE STOOD

Paid 20 And 23 Per Cent. For Money To Carry On Business

TRACED CAR DEALS

Raised Money Twice On Same Automobiles Discounting Double Notes

Toronto, Sept. 20.—Before Geo. S. Holmsted, K.C., referee, at Osgoode Hall, Ralph H. Raynor, automobile agent, and pressure salesman, was examined in an effort to untangle the skein of his financial affairs in which there is a probable loss of $200,000.

Those present were: Fred M. Moffatt, permanent trustee; R. S. White, K. C., for the trustee; Fred Ward, Peterton, for R. H. Raynor; Arthur W. Roebuck, an inspector of the estate.

The first witness called was Ralph Earl Raynor, who told Mr. White that he started in the automobile business around July, 1921. He secured a subagency for Studebaker cars from a firm in Belleville. In the spring of 1922 he formed a partnership with J. P. Williams, who was to do the financing of the business. The firm then made a direct contract with the Studebaker Corporation. The partnership continued for about one year, when Mr. Williams withdrew. "He was sick of the automobile business by that time," said Mr. Raynor. "He thought we had lost enough, and decided to stop."

Mr. Raynor explained this referred mostly to loss of time, although during that year the firm sold about 60 Studebaker cars. The profit on these would have been about $24,000. If they had been sold according to list price, although in that year he did not think Mr. Williams received any return on the half-share of the partnership.

Mr. White read a declaration signed by Mr. Raynor that at no time had Mr. Williams ceased to be connected with the business. "What made you sign that declaration?" asked Mr. White.

"I signed that document to keep me from going to jail," replied Mr. Raynor. It was a fact that from time to time after 1923 he took promissory notes to Mr. Williams. It was the custom to exchange cheques with Mr. Williams for the purpose o ftemporary accommodation.

"Just Went Ahead"

Subsequent to the dissolution of the partnership in 1922, Mr. Raynor said no bank account was kept of the name of Raynor and Williams. The Studebaker Corporation advertised for the name of Raynor and Williams; and Mr. Williams may have had an account in the names of the partnership. Mr. Raynor was unable to satisfy Mr. White that he kept any track of the financial side of his business.

"Did you carry on a business of this scale without ever stopping to find out whether you were making money or lost like it?" asked Mr. White.

Mr. Raynor's reply could not be heard.

"You just went ahead," counsel prompted.

"Yes," said Mr. Raynor with an accompanying nod.

When arrangements were made with he Industrial Finance Corporation, from time to time Mr. Raynor provided them with statements of his financial position. One statement in 1923 show ed a surplus of assets over liabilities of $15,800.

"Was that statement correct?"

"Made to the best of my knowledge and will the best I had."

"Carried high?"

"Yes."

Surplus Increased

From August, 1923 the business show ed a surplus of $13,000 and this surplus increased according to subsequent statements, and on February 23, 1927, the amount was $67,700.

According to information given the Royal Bank, Mr. Raynor said he was worth in round figures $150,000. The dates for these different financial statements was only gathered roughly, he added.

"During al lthese years you kept no regular set of books?"

"No."

"And the result was that you were giving these statements to the Industrial Finance Corporation and to the Royal Bank, Mr. Raynor and to the banks, which were a good deal of a burial"

Mr. Raynor replie dthat inventories were taken by different representatives of the financial corporations. While these inventories did not show surpluses in cash, the business was accumulating assets that could be turned into money.

"Second-hand cars?" suggested Mr. White.

"Anything moveable, real estate, cattle and horses."

Ownership of Farms

Mr. White asked particularly as to how many farms Mr. Raynor owned and what real estate he held. The farm at Bayside had been taken away from him by the receiver of his estate. This farm was originally purchased in the names of Mr. Raynor and Mr. Williams, who gave a mortgage to himself and Mr. Williams. The next day the mortgage was assigned to the Montreal Trust Co., and in June, 1923, Mrs. Williams made a grant to him of her interest in the property.

"I may have owned a farm for one day and not the next," said Mr. Raynor in reply to further questioning by Mr. White.

"You accepted real estate on deals for cars and got as much cash out of it as youcould?"

"Yes."

Mr. White referred to a loan from Mr. W. Young for $2,000, as security for which Mr. Raynor gave his note. When the note was repaid the interest added was much in excess of seven per cent.

"Why?" inquired Mr. White.

"It is usual to pay 20 or 23 per cent. for money down there."

"You must have brought you were in a bad way financially paying 20 per cent. interest?"

"Not necessarily."

"Don't you understand that a man with ahy kind of assets at all can borrow money for much less than 20 per cent?"

"Not in the quantity I required."

Mr. Raynor then said when he was short of money he would often cross cheques with his brother.

Dealing with the question of insurance policy, a not for $2,000 was identified as balance of $2,000 premium on $100,000 insurance,and a note for $2,000 as part payment on a deal for the Bayside Farm.

Traces Car Deals

Tracing the record of some car deals, Mr. White asked about a Chrysler coupe sold to M. S. Williams in payment of which he gave a lien note.

"Mr. Williams did not get possession of it at the time?"—"No."

"Was that car subsequently sold to W. B. Purtelle, of Belleville?"—"Yes."

"And did Purtelle give a lien note?"—"Yes?"

"And did you discount or get money on Williams' lien note?"—"Yes."

"I protest," interrupted Fred Ward, K.C., asked for protection."

"It is covered by the statute", said Mr. Holmsted.—"Did you get money on the Purtelle note?"—"Yes."

"Both on the same care?"—"Yes."

"Both notes discounted or money raised from different people?"—"Yes."

Another transaction was a car sold to W. Eddie, of Belleville, who traded in a used car and gave cash for the balance. That car was seized by the bailiffs on July last but was released by Raynor on payment of $861.

Mr. White wanted information on a cash-before acceptance corporation held a fall sale on a new car in the showroom. That car was later sold and a note taken from the purchaser in payment. It was not the practice to discount the second note with the town finance corporation. He believed the company holding the lien note, observing its car while it was in stock could not recover against the ultimate purchaser.

A Double Escape

DOCTOR'S DAUGHTER'S STORY

Another Toronto home provides evidence of how a simple cut, scratch or bruise, may pave the way to deadly blood-poison, and how vital is the need for keeping Zam-Buk always handy!

When called upon at 3, Rushess Avenue, Mrs. J. E. Zealley, daughter of the late Dr. Heron, of St. David's, S. Wales, said:—"My boy Alfred scratched his leg with the brass tag of a shoe lace. A nasty poisoned sore developed and it defied all the usual ointments. Hearing splendid reports about Zam-Buk I decided to give it a trial. To my great relief, the balm soon caused healing to set in. All inflammation and poisonous matter was quickly removed by Zam-Buk, and it healed the sore without leaving a scar.

"Again when I fell over a steel fender and injured my knee badly, Zam-Buk alone saved me. My daughter, a nurse, was of the opinion that only an operation could remove the mass of inflammation and pus. But I again pinned my faith to Zam-Buk, and it cleansed and healed the wound." All druggists and stores sell Zam-Buk at fifty cents per box. Equally valuable for eczema, pimples, cuts, burns, etc.

MOST VALUABLE PART OF A CAR THE CHEAPEST

There is one part of an automobile which is the cheapest and at the same time the most valuable. Can you guess what it is before you read the rest of this story?

Campbell St. Charles of St. Charles Motor Company, of Belleville, Ontario, tinkering dealer, offers both the puzzle and its solution.

This vital part of your car is silent. It has a direct bearing upon your gasoline consumption. It aids life to the springs, frame and body of the car. It is priceless because the cost of it is not fetched in the purchase price of your car. It is the only thing the automobile manufacturer gives you. An automobile company producing 1,000 fine cars daily will give away 8,640,000 of these or 8,640 units to each owner.

Every tire shop garage and service station carries this part in stock, although they have fewer calls for it than for anything else they carry. Without this part no automobile would be a pleasure car. Without it gasoline consumption would be so high that few of us could afford to use an automobile.

The answer is so obvious that few motorists realize its importance. Air is not only the cheapest part of your car but it is the most valuable. In a pair of 32 x 6.75 tires there are 8,640 cubic inches of air. This is 2,544 more cubic inches of air than the same size car carried before it were balloon tires. In other words, the big tires put 2,544 more cubic inches of air cushions under the car. If you lose five pounds of air pressure you lose 16-2-3 per cent. of the cushion control, and you increase your gasoline consumption almost as rapidly as you limit your tire mileage by improper inflation.

If someone could devise a means of charging for air he would probably make a fortune for himself and save

Have You Piles

Then You Have Something to Learn

Thousands who have piles have not learned that quick and permanent relief can only be accomplished with internal medicine. Neither cutting nor any amount of treatment with ointments and suppositories will remove the cause.

Bad circulation causes piles. There is stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel and a weakening of the parts. Dr. J. S. Leonhardt found the remedy and called his prescription HEM-ROID. Dr. Leonhardt tried it in hundreds of cases with a marvelous record of success, such a wonderful record that HEM-ROID is now sold by druggists everywhere under a rigid money-back guarantee.

Don't waste any more time with outside applications. Get a package of HEM-ROID from J. S. McKeown. It has given quick and lasting relief to thousands and must do the same for you or money back.

AVOIDED AN OPERATION

Mrs. Deyman Gives Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound the Credit

Colborne, Ontario.—"When I was first married I was very thin and weak. The doctor said I was weak and would never be able to have a child, but I did, and from the time my baby came I suffered all the time and doctored and took medicine. Life became a burden, and doctors said an operation could help me, but my husband was opposed to that. I had seen Lydia E. Pinkham's medicine advertised, so I told my husband that I thought I would try it, that I might get some relief. I had not taken one bottle when I could feel it helping me. I took five bottles and feel better health. Now I have three girls and a boy and have done my work up to confinement. I am now at the Change of Life and owe my good health to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound. I take a bottle when I think I need it."—Mrs. Susan Dayman, R. R. No. 5, Colborne, Ontario.

Increase Your Weight 5 Pounds 30 Days Or Money Back

Doctors and good pharmacists know that Cod Liver Extract is full of vitamines that make flesh, create appetite, build up the power to resist disease and puts good solid flesh on skinny men and women.

So now men and women who keep up with the times are taking McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets—rich, in flesh producing, health building, strength creating vitamines and so easy to take as candy.

So why not start Now?. Why not fill out these deep hollows in neck, cheeks and chest? Why go on through life with sunken cheeks and narrow chest when you can take advantage of this straight forward offer.

Try them for 30 days if you want to gain five pounds or more. And bear this in mind if they don't help you in that time any druggist anywhere is authorized to return your money—but demand McCoy's. 60 Tablets 60 cents.

Making the Canadian Dollar Go Farther than Ever Before

IN the purchase of the common commodities of life, the Canadian dollar has decreased in value during the past decade.

But, in the purchase of an automobile, the dollar is now worth one hundred to two hundred percent more than it was seven to ten years ago—is worth more, in fact, than ever before in history.

While constantly raising the quality standard of its products, General Motors of Canada has increased the purchasing power of the Canadian car-buyer's dollar . . .

. . . by the economies of volume purchasing and production,

. . . by the close co-ordination of resources and facilities,

. . . by improved labor- and time-saving methods of manufacture,

. . . by sharing with Canada the savings effected by increased production.

In quality and in value, the Canadian dollar now goes farther than ever before in the purchase of a General Motors car.

BELLE THEATRE

Two Features

Being the playmate of a husky lion in a motion picture is a strenuous pastime. Harrison Ford, who is featured in the role lead in "No Control," a new Metropolitan picture, which will be feature at the Belle theatre today, wants to "broadcast this to the world.

In this thrilling production the King of Beasts is the central figure in much of the action. There is supposed to be a warm friendship existing between Ford and Numa. Harrison was anxious that this friendship should not become too warm, realizing as he did that there is nothing more physically and mentally training an man's good nature than a lion that wants to play rough.

The man afid woman on the drilling write—regret.—finally established the nearing vessel with joy.... then....hordes of run pirates climbing aboard....plundering....claiming the woman....and then....a roaring

SHORT SESSIONS OF CITY FATHERS

No Survey Of Moira River Will Be Made At This Time

A letter has been received from the Deputy Minister Province Ontario by the City Council regarding the petition of the Corporation of the city of Belleville, asking for a survey of the Moira River for the purpose of developing power and preventing floods. The petition was laid before the Prime Minister and was later brought to the attention of the Hydro Power Commission.

The Commission has informed the Govt. that there is no funds available for the purpose of making such a survey or for preparing plans and estimates for the works required for the prevention of floods in any part of the Provinces.

A committee composed of Mayor, Alderman Duff and Collins, the City Solicitor and auditor have been appointed to meet the County Council with reference to the question of the administration of Justice.

Geo. H. Bailey, chairman of the Finance Committee of the County Council has written the City Council with regard to the paving of Patterson and Campbell Streets this year. It is not the wish of the County Council to have this work done this year as a considerable amount of money is being spent on other roads and no appropriation for any extra expenses has been made. The letter was filed.

The Federal appeal Board have been allowed the use of the Council Chamber on Monday Oct. 3rd for the purpose of hearing the returned soldiers.

G. A. G. Weir, local manager of the Montreal Bank has communicated with the Council advising them of a gift of pennies by the Prince of Wales. The gift is being given to each town in Canada and the distribution is being made by the Montreal Bank Managers. The pennies are in memento of his visit to Canada during the Diamond Jubilee of Confederation.

TRY HYPNOTISM

Berlin Twin On Suspected Murderess Reveal Nothing

Berlin, Sept. 19.—An interesting attempt to solve a murder mystery through hypnotism was made here today. Mrs. Neumann, housekeeper for Professor Rosen, brother of former Foreign Minister Rosen, was brought from Breslau for the purpose.

The woman, who is believed to have killed her employer two years ago, or at least to know something about the crime, but who maintains that she is innocent, was placed in a trance by Dr. Plateyu three times and questioned in the presence of her attorney and several high police officials. The experiment resulted only in the woman repeating what she had told many times in regard to events on the night of the murder.

Director Hagemann, Chief of the Berlin Criminal Police, who does not believe in sensational methods of this kind, said the test was entirely worthless and the crime as far from solution as ever.

KARNIVAL TIME

monstrated for the first time at a Karnival of this kind made a decided hit with the crowd and its clear cut selections blended wonderfully well with the music. The stage setting was particularly well arranged with its draperies and hues of black and white bordered by two large Victor Records suspended The Orthophonic which is only a recent invention is an intricate arrangement which amplifies the music to any desired effect. Mr. R. Wesse B.S., M.S. of the Victor Company, Montreal is in full charge of the arrangement and supervised the installation of the Orthophonic. Mr. Wesse is one of the men who has spent months on the perfecting of this new invention. He is assisted by Mr. A. Hill, one of the audit certain experts. The Orthophonic is the ingenious application of the amplifying principle using sixteen vacuum tubes and operating at a high voltage representing music from the standard Victor records and recordings by the Orchestral Heintzman Music Store and Atwater Kent Radio by the John Lewis Company.

Soleil of Victrola

Miss Jean Hensworth exemplified the beauty of the Victrola" and captivated the hearts of the audience with her exquisite toe-dancing. Miss Hensworth was clasping the Victor delightful repertoire of art. She danced several times and each time she was applauded even greater than before. She will be seen nightly in this role and for the benefit of those who have not yet witnessed her exhibition it might be said that they are missing a rare treat.

Alderman Russel Wotten, Director of Publicity, introduced the dainty little dancer and officially opened the Karnival.

The Vaudevillians failed to put in an appearance but they are expected to arrive tonight and will entertain the audience with a number of the latest stunts.

The Jitney dancing in the reception room drew a large crowd and the music given by the Bon Ton orchestra was delightful. The floor was crowded at each dance.

Pig-Skin Coming

Many took advantage of the games of chance to increase their supply of blankets and towels at the games of chance. "Bingo" one of the most popular of indoor sports provided amusement for a host of people and scores went away, their arms laden with utensils of all descriptions.

The visit of 'Pig Skin Peters" who is being brought here under the exclusive auspices of the Toronto Daily Star will arrive tomorrow and many are looking forward to the advent of the hero of Bird's Eye Centre. "Pig Skin" will compete in a race off Victoria Park on Wednesday afternoon against the city's best aquatic marvels. The race will commence at 2.30 and applications are in the hands of Joe Imlah.

Success is sure to crown the efforts of the Kiwanians if 'hat'ervaining's per formance is any indication of the program for the rest of the week.

Merchants' Exhibits

Not the least interesting feature of the Karnival are the many and attractively arranged exhibits of local merchants and manufacturers. Following practically the same arrangement this year as last, products of Belleville industries and merchandise of almost every line are displayed, adding an educational value for the Karnival visitor.

No show would be complete without the motor car and two fine cars are represented in the Armouries—the sensational Chandler Six displayed by Chandler Motor Sales and the New Star Six, by P. C. Lee, Star Distributor. Coupes, sedans, touring, Dodge Brothers, with Private Dodge Speed Tires, Pine Automatic Winter Front and Schebler Carburetors. Chris Lee of the Quinte Motor Sales also shows a line of the well known Willard Wet Batteries for Radio Sets, together with the newest in radio equipment, the Willard Battery Eliminator, for either A or B Batteries or both. Quinte Battery displays also the AC Air cooled Delco-Light, speedometer work being one of the specialties of this firm.

Music Displays

Music, of course, has its place too in the exhibits; radio sets—Westinghouse, Marconi and De Forest Crosley —by Carl Read of the Radio Shop; Pianos and Gramophones by the Gerhard Heintzman Music Store and Atwater Kent Radio by the John Lewis Company.

Arthur Sills, the Hardwood Floor Man, is there with his display of hardkiods, combination doors and building materials, and looking a little further one sees another exhibit of a local manufacture, tasty popcorn by William McIntosh and Son.

W. C. Leybourne, R.O., proprietor of the city's newest optical parlor, has an exhibit of much interest, tracing the production of the optical lens from the sand through the various processes of melting, pressing, surfacing, examining, cutting, and drilling down to the finished product. Samples of various types, together with the action process, are displayed.

Fly-Tox Helps Reduce Infant Mortality . .

Every year in the United States $250,000 children under 5 years of age die. Health authorities say it is significant that more deaths occur during the time flies are most active. Flies transmit more than thirty different diseases. Fly-Tox should be killed. Fly-Tox kills flies, 14 is fragrant, non-poisonous, non-staining, and will not injure the most delicate fabric. Sold in convenient sizes by druggists and grocers everywhere. Manufactured by Fly-Tox Co., Inc., New York.

Ready For Winter

The newest in ranges and other heating and cooking appliances are displayed by Diamond and Ryde and Smith Hardware, the former with the Happy Thought Ranges and the Dominion Circulator, and the latter, McClary's Purecastle.

The Alemite Company has one of the most attractive displays in the building, demonstrating the varied uses of Alemite and Alemite Lubricating equipment, for cars, trucks, motors and machinery of all kinds.

Altogether in variety and numbers the exhibits rank second only to the city's best aquatic marvels. The race will commence at 2.30 and applications are in the hands of Joe Imlah.

Success is sure to crown the efforts of the Kiwanians if 'hat'ervaining's performance is any indication of the program for the rest of the week.

CONFIDENT SALE WILL BE THREE MILLION

Chicago, Sept. 19.—Completion today of arrangements for handling a record breaking crowd expected to witness the Dempsey-Tunney heavyweight championship battle Thursday, is forecast in a second day's total that boasts the originally figured total of one hundred and one thousand to 170,850. Of this number, forty-two thousand are of "ringside" variety, costing $27.50 dollars apiece. Tex Rickard does not expect to sell out but the promoter still is confident the entire million dollars will reach gate figures of three million dollars. He promised to disclose today definite figures of the advanced sale.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.
Dear Sir,—

I am asking through the columns of your paper if I have any right in Belleville?

According to the practice in other cities where I have lived, when tenders were called for supplies for public institutions, I could tender.

I don't see why I should not get a chance as a stranger coming here to live, as a tender for public institutions in this city.

tent of the morning session was the election of officers and ballots were passed shortly after the chairman had opened the proceedings.

This session will be evocatily interesting on in view of the fact that the delegates were to be given the opportunity of dealing with the case of the Rev. J. J. Mellor, of Picton, who has recently been convicted of a serious offence against a young girl in Picton. Speaking with several of the attending Ministers one discovered that there was an intense feeling against Mr. Mellor following his actions. A committee was appointed to bring in a resolution which will be discussed directly after the noon luncheon.

It is believed that there is a feeling set against the Minister alone but against the apparent leniency shown in delivering judgment in the case by Magistrate Williams of Picton.

Mr. Mellor recently handed in his resignation to the official board of Picton United Church and it rested with the Presbytery whether he was to con tinue as a pastor in this district.

BREAK UP CAMP ON WEDNESDAY

Tunney Finishes Up Training Work For Big Title Fight

Lake Villa, Ill., Sept. 20.—Gene Tunney's training campaign for the bout Thursday night, in which he will defend his world's heavyweight title against Jack Dempsey, is at an end, at least insofar as boxing is concerned. The titleholder concluded four weeks of intensive training with his workout here, yesterday afternoon, before a gallery of newspaper men and a few guests, who had made the trip out from Chicago to glimpse Tunney in action prior to the battle. Today Tunney will engage only in light exercising which means that he will punch the light bag and the heavy one. On Wednesday the titleholder breaks camp, leaving for the Hotel Sherman in Chicago, where he will remain until sum moned to the ring to face Dempsey for the second time.

Tunney closed his serious training here with an exhibition which many observers declared the best training workout in which he had ever engaged. Regardless of prejudice or opinion, the observers were in accord on one thing Tunney is bigger and better now than a year ago.

What is more, Tunney is satisfied with his condition and secretly says he absolutely refuses to boast of his qualifications, he is confident of an even worse beating than that which tasting the title and giving Dempsey the former champion received a year ago.

"I am fit," Tunney declared in his dressing room after the workout. "I can honestly say I never felt better in my life. This continued cool weather is wonderful for me. It is so much like the weather at Speculator, that I am perfectly at home, and it is a welcome relief after the hot weather I've suffered from since coming here. I'm through boxing now, satisfied that I'm in great shape. Tomorrow I'll loosen up with a little bag punching, but that is all I need."

The only reference Tunney made to the open letter of Dempsey, published yesterday, was a sarcastic, "I must be terribly upset over that open letter, so upset in fact that I couldn't work today."

The best throw that one can make with dice is to throw them away.

How we enjoy a man who has no tale of woe to tell!

Train No. 24-5—"Inter City Limited", going west, will leave Belleville 5.23 p.m. daily except Sunday after Sept. 18th.

Train No. 24-6—"Inter City Limited", going east, will leave Belleville 4.36 p.m., daily except Sunday after Sept. 18th.

Motor No. 972—Going east, will leave Belleville 3.55 p.m. (North Station) daily except Sunday, effective Sept. 25th.

BETTING RECORD WILL BE BROKEN

Many Gamblers Hold Off Until Last Minute Report Received

New York, Sept. 20.—That record for betting will be set when Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey step into the ring Thursday night was the opinion of betting authorities in this city and in other parts of the country, following a canvass of them last week. The record amount of money to be wagered on this fight is likely to surpass that made on any former fight, it is believed.

With Tunney a 7 to 5 favorite Saturday night at odds of 6 to 5, it was estimated that about $2,000,000 would be bet by persons in this city alone. Others have figured that a total of $5,000,000 might change hands throughout the country.

Betting [illegible] this city, after watching the [illegible] carefully, are of the opinion that [illegible] already placed has been [illegible] $250,000, but explain [illegible] to bet that amount before [illegible] all until the last possible minute, first because there might be a switch in odds to their advantage and secondly because they wish to get the last reports and opinions regarding the condition of the two fighters.

Betting Light in Chicago

This watchful waiting attitude is reflected in Chicago, the scene of the battle, and in other large centres where the betting market has been active enough to indicate further wagering and even plunging at the seventh hour. Chicago sportsmen, the closer to the camps of the fighters have been able to glean no more real inside information to guide them in their betting than have the followers of boxing in other parts of the country, and betting in that city has been light.

At the race tracks here and in other parts of the country where the betting crowds have shown interest in the fight, commissioners have reported that there has been considerable wariness shown by the Tunney backers because of the champion's injured eye. It appears that many who would support the champion are awaiting more definite information regarding the extent of the injury to Tunney's eye before putting down their bets.

ADA M'KENZIE LEADS FIELD IN U. S. GOLF TITLE

Canadian Champ Broke Women's Record In Qualifying Round With 77

Cherry Valley, L. I., September 20.—Miss Ada MacKenzie, a Toronto girl, who came within an ace of beating Miss Glenna Collett in the second round of the womens champion ship at St. Louis two years ago, did a record field to win the medal in the qualifying round of the invitation tournament at the Cherry Valley Club yesterday. Playing faultlessly through out the round, turning in holes on which were played in a downpour of rain, the Dominion girl holed a 77, which not only broke the women's record for the course, but also tied the low qualifying record made by Mrs. W. O. Fraser two years ago.

The achievement of Miss MacKenzie was the outstanding feature of the opening day of the 1927 championship which was played in weather in which the women's event seems to have fallen heir.

When the early starters in the field of one hundred and forty teed off yesterday morning, the sky was overcast and the weather was muggy. Rain threatened throughout the morning, but held off until the majority of the notables were well on their way. Everything considered, the difficulties of the course, the psychological effect of a qualifying round, and the weather, the scoring done by the contestants was nothing short of remarkable. There in the field broke 80 and the play-off which has come to be a featured afternoon [illegible] qualifying round, involved those who had 91. When the last pair reported at the score board it was found that twenty-eight had come through the qualifying ordeal with flying colors and that without but few exceptions the casualties were light.

GIANTS CRIMP LEADER'S STREAK

New York Beats Reds As Brooklyn Wins Downing Pirates

Cincinnati, Ohio., September 20.—On yesterday's crisp, autumnal afternoon, two things of considerable moment occurred in the lives of the warring Giants to convince them that their grim, uphill pennant fight in the west shall not prove in vain. The first wave, which so relentlessly pursued them for days and days, disappeared and, more important, they gained a full game on the pace-setting Pirates by blackjacking the Reds into submission, 10 to 6, while the Buccaneers tripped and flopped over the Robins.

Thus it is that fighting legions of Rogers Hornsby were in brighter spirits last night than they have been in some time. They are still three and a half games away from the top, but by having captured this series by four games out of five and two days of rest to follow, they feel assured they can take care of the Pirates themselves in the series which begins Thursday if the dear old Dodgers only manage to win at least one more of the two they still have to play with the Cubans in the meantime.

Downing the Reds yesterday afternoon was not quite as easy as the final score might lead to indicate. True, the Giants jumped away in a six-run lead off Ray Kolp in the fourth inning, but then Burleigh Grimes ran into difficulties, and by the time of the fifth the Redlegs were within one of tieing the score. Burleigh, however, regained his poise, Kolp didn't, and in the end the Giant sock prevailed.

In all the Giant maulers clubbed three Cincinnati pitchers for fourteen hits, Bill Terry showing the way with four of three, one a homer and another a triple, while Fred Lindstrom also contributed a four-baser.

Stockings are now smartest in dark or shades.

FORKE HOTLY ANSWERS ANGLICAN SYNOD'S CHARGES

Pastor Likely To Be Deported From United States---New Head Appointed For Local Y. M. C. A.

MELLOR MAY BE EXPELLED LATER

General Board Of Church Might Refuse To Accept Resignation

Rev. Dr. Pidgeon Addressed Presbytery On Social Service Work

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 21.—The United States Consul, Col. F. S. S. Johnson, has been requested on behalf of the Immigration Department at Washington to investigate the circumstances under which Rev. J. J. Mellor, former Prince clergyman, is alleged to have entered the United States. The Consul considers that he is subject to deportation, because Mr Mellor recently pleaded guilty to a serious offence against a young girl, a crime for which proposed immigrants are excluded.

Every clause of the report of the special committee dealing with the Joseph Mellor case brought in at yesterday's session of the United Church Presbytery was passed without a dissenting word and it required only a few moments for this reading of the report and final adoption. The report was barren of any clauses condoning the sentence given by Magistrate Williams although it was believed that several of the members of the Church were surprised and somewhat taken aback by the rapidity in which it was disposed of in Picton Police Court. They refused to comment upon it, observing and stated that the case was finished as far as the Presbytery was concerned and hoped that it was closed. Coupled with it as far as his resignation from the church Minister of Discernment.

May Be Expelled

The General Board of the United Church', it was hinted may bring in a charge against Mellor which may result in his expulsion rather than his resignation being accepted. It was felt that in the report duly the bare facts were necessary and that it was deemed inadvisable to add further clauses which would enable a further discussion on the matter and it was passed over as lightly as possible.

The Rev. Dr. C. E. Laker, of Trenton acted as Chairman of the Special Committee and the Rev. C. W. Barriet, of Stirling, as Secretary, and as last as the report was read, motions were introduced for the passing of each.

Brief Resignation

Mr. Mellor's letter of resignation read as follows:

Trenton, August 20th.

"I hereby resign from the United Church of Canada.

Signed. Joseph J. Mellor.

The Secretary of the Rev. C. D. Rudick and Rev. L. S. Wight were afficed as witnesses.

Yesterday afternoon's session of the Presbytery was taken up with the receiving of reports and adoption of them.

Rev. Dr. Pidgeon, moderator of the United Church delivered a short talk to the delegates on the value of social service work at home. He made a strong appeal for support to carry on the work among the less-fortunate people. Dr. Pidgeon's address was given and to the point and he referred to the conditions at "The Pit" in the slum districts of the larger cities.

DIRECTORS OF LOCAL "Y" ENGAGE MR. JOS. E. SHORTT AS SECRETARY

New Man Has Wide Experience—Takes Over Job October 1st

Mr. Joseph E. Shortt, of Toronto, new secretary of the West-end Y.M.C.A. in that city has been selected as the new secretary of the Belleville Y. M.C.A., and will take charge of the local institute on October 1st. Mr. Shortt has had over ten years experience in the work specializing in the organization of big campaigns. While the new secretary will have full authority it is planned that Mr. Hugh Mordeu will lessen Sidney Shortt's duties and Mr. James Alexander as social secretary.

The new man comes here with the highest possible recommendation and the director are satisfied that under his management the local "Y" has a record season of prosperity ahead of it.

Mr. Shortt is about fifty years of age. He will be accompanied by his wife and daughter. One of the sons is a third year medical student and the daughter is attending college. He has three children. Between now and the end of the month the family will visit Belleville in an effort to secure a suitable residence and the "Y" directors would appreciate any help which citizens can give in this connection. Mr. Shortt is a good walker and enjoys exercise so he does not want a house too close to the centre of the city, but he does want a medium sized, modern house with city conveniences.

Thinks U. S. Should Send a Battleship After Levine

New York, Sept. 21.—In the opinion of Dudley Field Malone, New York lawyer, Uncle Sam should send a battleship and bring Charles Levine home. "If he doesn't come back soon," said Malone, "we are likely to be drawn into another world war. He is not the diplomat that Lindbergh was."

SPORT WRITERS ARE DIVIDED ON WINNER

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Opinions of 75 representative boxing writers gathered by the Associated Press on the outcome of the Dempsey-Tunney fight, revealed that thirty-eight expressed themselves as confident of a Tunney victory, while twenty-four picked Dempsey to regain the title. Ten refused to go on record one way or other.

STOLEN BOAT IS AT 12 O'CLOCK

The "Anne C", high-powered speed-boat owned by a Rochester millionaire, which was stolen from the Genesee docks on Monday evening has been recovered by the Trenton police and the authorities from Rochester are on the way to take the craft back. No arrests have been made up to the present time.

Chief Hain of Trenton received a message from Rochester asking him to be on the look-out for the boat. He notified the lock-keepers on the Murray Canal to watch for it which was described as a criss-craft speedster with a mahogany finish and nickel trimmings.

The Chief was notified this morning that a strange boat was tied up at the dock at the Trenton O'Clock Point. He visited the place and identified it as the stolen boat. Residents said that it had been left there during the night and there was no apparent trace of the thieves. They evidently passed Belleville some time during the night as those on duty at the Terminal said the boats were not opened. The craft was not much damaged.

DREADED DISEASE CROSSES INTO B. C.

Revelstoke, B.C., Sept. 21.— With the discovery of a case of infantile paralysis here all schools, lodges, theatres, churches and Sunday Schools, have been closed. At Nelson, where a case of cerebro spinal meningitis was diagnosed by the city medical officer, six children under eighteen were barred from fruit fair, schools, shows and other assemblages.

OFF TO SEE BIG AIR RACE

London, Sept. 21.—Two airplanes, carrying eight passengers, left here to see the Schneider Cup race, left England today. One of them was piloted by Miss Winifred Spooner, woman flyer, while Mrs. Carberry will pilot the second machine. A certain which sent seven of her fastest aeroplanes to Lido, confidently expects to win the race with one of them.

ADDED LITTLE SPIRITS TO HIS BEEF IRON AND WINE

A solitary drunk was the only case that appeared before Magistrate Mike in Police Court this morning. But, did such a case appear. Walter Morden, of Point Anne, arrested last night on Front street, was in an exceedingly intoxicated condition and was brought to the Police Station to be locked up overnight. He pleaded guilty to a charge of drunkenness this morning and as his trial it was brought out that he had attained his happy condition last night by dringing "Beef, Iron and Wine," a tonic that may be obtained in a drug store, plus some other alcoholic beverages.

Morden's permit showed a large list of purchases, which included a few bottles of pure spirits, better known as alcohol. The tonic-reveller was assessed the usual $15 and $7 costs by the Magistrate. It was recommended that his permit be cancelled.

SYNOD FAILS TO FINISH TO-DAY

Adopted Report Of Committee Approving Of Conference

MUST BE INCLUSIVE

"Church Must Not Rest In Harbor Of Sectarian Contentment"

Kingston, Ont., Sept. 21.—Strenuous efforts were made to bring the work of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada to a close today but as the day progressed it was found that the gathering would either be forced to hold over tomorrow or leave unfinished.

The declared the increase absolutely necessary if the work of council was to be extended and the delegates accepted it.

Presenting the registrar's report Chancellor Gwynne of Ottawa called attention to "the slovenly way" in which legislation was attended to by the council to recommend the appointment of a small committee to devise means of improving legislation and council to recommend the connection between earlier and later Canada. A notice of motion was given of a plan to have all the business of the Synod transacted in joint sessions of both houses.

Must Unite Churches

In discussing the "Lausanne Conference in the Faith and Order report" Canon Shatford of Montreal declared that differences revealed at the Conference were no reasons for division in Christianity.

"We can no longer rest in the safe harbour of sectarian contentment," he said, "We must weight our anchors and adventure on the great sea of unity. The church of the future must be inclusive and not exclusive." Dean Llywd of Ottawa told the gathering that the Greek Orthodox Church had not abandoned the conference as reported. Delegates had merely disassociated themselves from the report of the conference.

The report was adopted and reports of the conference referred to the committee on reunion. The committee on Faith and Order was reappointed with instructions to keep in touch with the Lausanne Continuation Committee.

HARVESTING RESUMES AFTER HEAVY RAINS

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 21.—Threshing and cutting were resumed on fair to prevail in Western Canada Tuesday and if favorable weather continues it is believed that the 1927 wheat crop will soon be moving west out by the middle of next week. As threshing progresses, however, reports appeals for harvest help were being sent to Government employment bureaus from many districts where a labor shortage was reported in central Saskatchewan and Manitoba. This situation, however, is expected to be met by the transfer of gangs of workers recently from these areas to where threshing is completed.

MELONS ARE RIPE

And Maybe The Youngsters Don't Know Where The Best Ones Are

Now that the good old melon season is around again, farmers are parading their patches with shotguns loaded with rock salt and pepper, under one arm, and a belty slab in the other. So far the Police Court has not been cluttered up with youthful miscreants charged with stealing melons. But tomorrow morning eighteen cases will appear before Magistrate Mike, the majority of them juveniles. Those stolen melons went taste no good, now!

THROUGH FLIERS HOP-OFF TODAY

Smaller Planes Strung Out All Across North-West States

Chicago, Sept. 21.—More than two score aeroplanes scattered from the Atlantic to the Pacific today were winging their way toward Spokane, in four separate races, while a fifth group tuned up for a 1,000 mile non-stop flight from New York to Spokane.

Thirty planes comprised in trans-continental events were flying over the northwest while eleven planes from San Francisco's inter-state race were to meet them at Spokane, the ultimate goal of all.

Meanwhile in New York three entries including the Royal Windsor, piloted by C. A. Page Schiller of Windsor, Ont., were set for a take-off on their non-stop flight.

In the class "B" group Leslie Miller of Des Moines and C. W. Meyers were practically tying neck and neck. Leaving class "A" group was E. E. Hallough, Chicago.

Many Drop Out

Two classifications of planes in the New York-Spokane air derby had Spokane and the winner's pot of gold as their goal today but a third group of non-stop fliers awaited the starter's signal at New York.

Planes in class "B" and class "A" were scattered over half dozen States. Only 15 of the original 25 planes that left New York Monday in Class "B", had reached Glendive, Montana, their first scheduled overnight stop last night. The remainder of the field were at various points in North and South Dakota, Minnesota and Wisconsin.

Nine of fifteen planes that started in class "A" yesterday were successful in covering the first 275 miles of their journey to Spokane and the others were reported to be still in St. Paul overnight. They left early today.

CANADA MIGHT INVITE LEAGUE

Geneva, Sept. 21.—Canada, recently elected a non-permanent seat on the council of the League of Nations, is reported to be planning to invite the Council to sit at Ottawa. In fact there is a projected scheme to have the whole league assembly meet there in order to give American newspapermen and league sympathizers a ready occasion to study its workings at first hand.

Not Invited Yet

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—Before a visit of the Council of the League of Nations to Ottawa would be welcomed it is understood that the Canadian Government has not yet extended any formal invitation. This step, it is intimated, has not so far been considered by the Cabinet Council.

PICTON SETTLING DOWN AFTER EXCITING PERIOD

Advices from Picton late this afternoon stated that Mr. I. A. Humphries inspector of the Legal Department had gone into conference with Mr. M. R. Allison Crown Attorney for Prince Edward County and Magistrate Levi Williams.

Mr. Humphreys was delegated by the Attorney General Col. Price to investigate the case of the Rev. Joseph J. Mellor and some important developments may be announced as a result of Mr. Humphries visit. Other wise things are quiet following the disposal of the Mellor case and the transference of Harry Rapour to Toronto. Picton is now assuming an era of quiet after these two startling cases. The town has occupied the head-lines for some weeks past and feels at least it got some free advertising.

A TISSUE OF MISREPRESENTATION SAYS FORKE OF SYNOD CRITICISM

SHOT FOR BANDIT

Preparing Statement For Publication Regarding Assertions Made

LARKIN ANSWERS

Says Dr. Moore Wanted To Tour Britain At Government's Expense

Ottawa, Sept. 21.—"A tissue of misrepresentation" was the characterization of Right Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, of the strong criticisms voiced at the Synod of the Anglican Church this week day at Kingston of the immigration policy of the government. Hon. Mr. Forke expressed considerable surprise that such statements as were broadcast east and that he is preparing a statement for publication with regard to assertions made.

With regard to one assertion that the Roman Catholic Church has placed priests at strategic points, the minister said that was a matter over which the Government has no control and of other Roman bodies such as Ukrainians and similarly shepherd their own proliferents there is no prevention by them.

Just Wanted a Job

Toronto, Sept., 21.—Hon. P. C. Larkin, Canada's High Commissioner in London, who is now on a visit, to Canada, has made a statement in regard to the criticism of Dr. H. A. Moore, of Halifax, N.S., of the selection of Col. Hugh Clark, Toronto in regard to British immigration to Canada Mr. Moore, it will be recalled, in an interview with him in London, had said "the trouble was not to get people to come to Canada, but to keep them out."

The High Commissioner's statement is as follows: "I noticed a statement made at the Synod by Dr. Moore, of Halifax, that I invited Dr. Moore, and had an interview with me. His proposition was that he should travel throughout Great Britain and lecture on Canadian affairs, his expenses to be paid by the Canadian Government. In other words, he wanted a job. I told Dr. Moore that I had no authority, nor had I any money, to engage him for such work. That part of his talk is true. But what follows, I say sorry to say, is 'made out of whole cloth,' as the Hon Mr. Forke will tell you.

Unfortunately, in London we are frequently in receipt of impossible Dr. Moore who want to travel about the British Isles at the expense of the Canadian Government, and who are quite angry if we cannot employ them."

Meanwhile, a storm of protest against the immigration policy of the Dominion Government was raised at yesterdays session of the General Synod of the Church of England in Canada during discussion of the report of the Council for Social Service, presented by Canon Vernon.

Numerous delegates, lay and clerical expressed their disapproval of Govern Forke's statements in Kingston, and charged that Canada was being flood ed with Europeans, while the sons of Canada were going to the British stock.

"Canada for the British," was the dominant note of the debate. One of the speakers who visited England last year charged that Hon. P. C. Larkin, High Commissioner for Canada in London, had told him that no one was coming to Canada. On Page Three

TWENTY BURNED IN MISSION FIRE

Prince Albert, Sask., Sept. 21.—Sixty-seven laborers' cabins were burned to death when Beauval Roman Catholic Mission on Lac La Plonge was destroyed by fire Monday evening according to word received here today from Big River, Sask., Dr. A. Auyer, of Isle La Crosse was taken to the scene of the fire by aeroplane today. The mission is in an isolated section of northern Saskatchewan and only these meagre details have been received.

DISTINGUISHED NATATOR LANDS

'Pig Skin" Peters Here With Swimming Suit And Derby

"Pig-Skin Peters" has arrived in the city with derby hat and the cholic-est cigars and a thorough knowledge of the swimming game for his initial appearance of his notable career as the channel swimmer at the Armouries tonight. This is the real genuine "Pig Skin" of Bird's Eye Centre who was to be entrant in the Marathon Swim, and who was forced to give up his struggle against the cold water and waves of Lake Ontario all because his trainer forgot to take along a couple of steaks and a pot of tea in the boat on the day of the big event.

"Pig-Skin" is here as a representative of Bird's Eye Centre and brings greetings from the Mayor of the town and regrets from his pal Stradivarius Stubbs, that he too was not able to come along. "Pig Skin" was in North Bay last evening and travelled all night so that he could be with the local Kiwanis tonight. He paid a visit to Barrie last week where the Kiwanis staged a similar event. He made a hit right off the bat with the natives living on Lake Simcoe, the fishing being the main's town.

Abner Applejohn is looking after the Big Skin in the matter of diet and preserthes only those things that will fit him for his performance tonight.

He arrived in the city at four o'clock and was met by a committee from the Kiwanis Club who readily picked him out from a host of other tourists, by his trusty steed, the most ancient of "limies" with the boat perched astride the top. After being escorted to the City Hall he posed for photographs and then the address of welcome was read. Later the party proceeded to Victoria Park where he engaged in a few calisthenics before plunging into the icy waters of the Bay of Quinte in quest of the silver cup for the swimming race. There were several other contestants but "Pig-Skin" was odds-on favorite to disposes of the crowd. He is set at the armouries tonight in full regalia and a large crowd is expected.

A GREAT BETRAYAL

Few criminal cases have created so keen and general an interest as the trial and conviction of Rev. J. J. Meller of Picton. The position of the culprit as a minister, previously highly respected, the peculiar offensiveness of the man's actions and the youth of the girl victim, also the fact that, she was practically an orphan, all tended to make feeling against the accused and the public was prepared to approve almost any penalty, however severe which the law might inflict.

The sudden apparent break-down in the fierce glare of public criticism seems, for the present at least, to have escaped from punishment by voluntary payments totalling about 113, has started the whole Province and Crown - Attorney, Mr. R. Allison, Magistrate Williams and other officers warned are coming in for not a little savage criticism. The action of Attorney-General Price in demanding a full investigation is generally approved and the sleuths may safely be left in his hands for final settlement. Never though Meller had fled to the United States, as has been reported, does not mean that he has get beyond the law's reach; an arrangement can be made for his deportation.

* * * * * * *

An odd side light on this case is the puerile satisfaction which a certain type of mind gains from contemplation of a minister's fall. They seem to feel that Meller's action casts a slur on the whole clergy and justifies a general charge of hypocrisy. Such an attitude is absurd. In any profession or calling, bad men are to be found, even in the Ministry, but it is safe to say that they exist there in a lower percentage than in any other walk of life.

There is a reason for that. Men go into the Ministry usually from the loftiest of motives — service to mankind and this call to service comes only to a fairly high type of manhood. A youth who dreams of gaining great wealth or fame does not seek it in a pastor's life. So starting with high ideals and devoted by inclination and training to serving others, the number of clergymen who end in shame and disgrace is very, very small.

* * * * * * *

Even if the arm of the law cannot now reach Meller, he has suffered terrible punishment. His fine and payment to his victim are the smallest part of it. He is an outcast from all decent minded people — his church has repudiated him — his life's work is in ruins at his feet — his very name is a cause of jeering and contempt.

And this is right. His fellow ministers could not from motives of charity condone or palliate such conduct in one of their number. The status of the church must be kept above reproach and not the least black of Meller's sins is the odium he has brought on his sacred calling.

In all this sordid story the once to be pitied and considered most are the immediate family of the trebly-guilty fool who betrayed his victim, his wife and his work.

WASTING RESOURCES

There is a record of Sir John Carling, when riding on a train from London to Toronto in the late '70s, waving his hand at and bewaring a sigh as he viewed the countryside of an extensive district. He explained that the sigh was depressing of past exercises he had witnessed as a boy in that particular place. It was because also because of what he termed short-sighted policy, based on lack of vision as the future was concerned.

It was a fair countryside, too, smiling hillsides, some farm cottages, fields of grain, fresh vegetation otherwise. What was all a wilmot 'bush' when I was a boy," said he. "A ten-acre lot of it today would be worth a lot of money—more than the price for a number of years. And any number of ten-acre lots of walnut trees might have been set aside for the future with great profit. But these great trees were cut down and burned in the clearing-up process. Both trees! And such work to cut and drag them to the fire."

In parts of Ontario today old log bars and rail fences made in part of walnut are being torn apart for the walnut content in them.

Sir William Mulock is an up-to-date advocate of reforestation of walnut in Ontario. He has set out small trees which have a potential value on a well worked-out theory, of $2,000,000 on maturity. One well-grown walnut tree will yield about 300 feet; that is worth $100 at present prices with a prospective rise in value, perhaps double or treble.

There is a moral in the experience of Sir John Carling and the plans laid by Sir William Mulock regarding walnut reforestation, and reproach. The moral is applicable in many other directions not confined to forestry alone. It applies to conservation of all natural resources, and plans of replacement for the future wherever possible.

To game animals and birds it especially applies; to replacement of fish in avoidance of depletion; to a fuller use of by-product constituents of various commodities especially coal.

Unfortunately we are not a careful people in these respects.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Won't you join us in a game of bridge?"

"I don't play bridge."

"I was under the impression that you did."

"I was once under that impression myself."

A man who saw an Irishman stagger out of the sea and collapse on the shore hastened to the swimmer to see if he could be of any assistance, but was surprised to see the bather rise to his feet and make for the water again

The charitable person pushed forward to stop the obviously fool-hardy swimmer, who, turning, said:

"Shure O've saved meself and now O'm goin' back for Mulkt!"

THE HOME PAPER

When I packed my portmanteau I said
I am sick of the everyday grind:
Of dissension and scandal and blame,
And I'm going to have them behind.

For a month I'll forget there is aught
Save harmony under God's dome;
But I find that I can't eat or sleep
If I don't get the paper from home

The best minds have commended, I said,
All the books I am taking to read;
There's a biography, fiction and verse;
With a pipe they'll be all that I need.

But I sit without turning a page
Of the likeliest quarto or tome,
And there's no joy at all in a smoke,
If I don't get the paper from home.

Though the sky may be cloudless, the surf
In all ways is best for a swim;
Though a new friend I've found make me feel
That I mean something real to him;
And another new friend snuggles close
On the beach in the gathering gloom—
'Tis one truth, by the day is a dud
When I don't get the paper from home.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

The City carters are doing business at the same old stand on Victoria Avenue to-day, notwithstanding that the council last evening passed a by-law to send them over the river. They told a reporter to-day, that they would not go over the river, as no one wanting their services would go over their after them.

The remains of the late William L. Ward were laid in their resting place in the Roman Catholic Cemetery this morning.

Mr. William Kennedy, who for a number of years has been employed at the local C. T. R. shops, left this morning to assume the foremanship of the G.T.R. shops at Port Gratiot.

Mrs. Norman McCloud, Church St., was attacked with a hemorrhage of the stomach this forenoon and is very low.

The City Council met last evening after their summer vacation and put through a lot of business of more or less importance.

First frost!

The water in the Bay is eighteen inches above its last year's level at this date.

There was no police court to-day.

The police ought to look after some bad boys who have been stealing fruit —grapes preferred—on South Charles and Albert Streets.

Jesse Wall, caretaker of St. Andrew's Church, complains that boys broke the glass in the street lamp in front of the church yesterday.

Michael Ryan, blacksmith, who was recently taken from his home at Marysville to Kingston to be treated for mental trouble, has become hopelessly insane and has been placed in the lunatic asylum.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Sir Henry Thornton's tribute to the press of Canada is a refreshing novelty, especially to newspaper staffs, quite accustomed to comments of an entirely different nature from many people not nearly so big as Sir Henry. Unfortunately there are too few Sir Henry Thorntons and too many smaller people who,—despite all the favors they may have received from newspapers, are prepared at the first hint of criticism of some policy or cause in which they are interested to forget all the good things and to condemn as unfair and unreliable the journal that happens to offend.—Peterboro Examiner.

OUR SISTER CITIES

Newsy Neighborhood Notes

CHARGED WITH ROBBERY

Port Hope, Sept. 21.—James H. Brown, 23, and Gerald Branch, 22, were taken to Cobourg Jail from Brownsville backup and were arraigned yesterday on charges of attempted robbery following their arrest Sunday afternoon at 4 o'clock by Provincial Constables George Cookman and Cecil Mitchell. Provincial officers state that the men have made statements admitting an attempt to hold up Samuel Jacks aged 58 years, wealthy farmer, who lives near Hampton about 11 o'clock Saturday night. Jacks, who drives with three brothers and one sister is wealthy. He usually carries a roll of money when he drives to Hampton each Saturday night in a buggy. As usual last Saturday night he drove to the village and was returning when the hold up occurred.

AMONG THE INVESTORS

Kingston, Sept. 21.— Among the stock investors in the Canadian Securities Company, Limited, for whom officers Ottawa police are now searching, are included Joseph Barrett, Kingston; Thomas Harrington, Napanee; A. D. Lochhead, Spinkham; George L. Johnston, Gananoque; Curtis E. Anderson, Gananoque.

SEVERELY HURT

Oshawa, Sept. 21.—Thomas Puttrell, assistant foreman of the local furnishing department, suffered serious injuries on Monday morning when he fell from a high ladder on the corner of Simcoe Road and York street. He received a shock to the wires on the Hydro-Electric system in touch with power wires. He is at present at the General Hospital and though the extent of his injuries is not as yet known.

DIDN'T ACCEPT EITHER

Oshawa, Sept. 21.—Mayor Preston's retiring Monday night's Council session, was forced to forego an invitation from the Mayor of Toronto to accompany him in an aeroplane flight over the capital city yesterday afternoon. His worship also intended to attend last night's aeronautical banquet, but being unable to attend it, he felt it would be poor taste to accompany the banqueters. Official had yesterday afternoon and accordingly regretfully declined both invitations.

ANNUAL REUNION

Port Hope, Sept. 21.—The 156th Overseas Battalion which mobilized at Port Hope for service during the Great War will hold their fifth annual reunion banquet in Bowmanville on Saturday, Sept. 24th, at seven o'clock.

It is expected that about 150 members of battalion will be present and a fine program is being arranged for the occasion. Col. R. W. Smyth, officer commanding the regiment, is to be present, and a large number of invitations have been sent to the men who were now scattered throughout the province.

CRIMINALS RECAPTURED

Port Hope, Sept. 21.—Harry Bolton and Walter Rheaume, the two criminals who caused so much excitement last week by their daring breakaway from Cobourg jail after overpowering one of the turnkeys, appeared in Port Hope police court yesterday morning, and none the worse for their adventure—in answer to a charge of burglary and housing with W. R. Harvey, peace officer, in the execution of his duty. The burglary took place on March 17, when a number of goods valued at $300 were stolen from the C. O. Pattenick and Co., Port Hope. Both men pleaded guilty to the charges and expressed the wish that sentence be handed would dispose of their cases at once.

Dear Sir,—
I am asking through the columns of your paper if I have any right in Belleville?
According to the practice in other cities where I have lived, when tenders were called for supplies for public institutions, I could tender.
I don't see why I should not get a chance as a stranger coming here, a right to tender for public institutions in this city.

TRUNK MYSTERY BAFFLES CROWD

Kiwanis Karnival Contiques Joyous Way For Three More Nights

Fifteen hundred people occupied every seat and almost every inch of available standing room at the armouries last evening for the second night of the Kiwanis Karnival and Style Revue. The size of the crowd indicated readily is the success the affair for the remainder of the week. It is predicted that with "Pig Skin" Peters on the job, tonight's attendance will eclipse that of the first two evenings. With the show continuing until Friday night prospects are bright to pass the attendance mark hung up at last year's festival.

The Vaudeville

"Bob" Cook and Company, vaudeville experts, drew the attention of the crowd after the Style Show was over and this sleight of hand artist thrilled and mystified his audience with a bag of tricks which baffled even the discerning eye. Mr. Cook is hailed as a reputation in the world of magicians. His card tricks with the aid of a handkerchief held the audience in a complete state of bewilderment. He exchanged silk hats from one hand to another while the audience gasped in astonishment. He appeared to snatch them out of the air with consummate ease and even the most skeptical were forced to admit his prowess. Mr. Cook closed the bag trick with several dances and with Kiwanians Joe Inslah and Fred Pritchard assisting he locked her in a huge trunk bound with strong cord, binding the outside and fastened around several times. Suspended as though it was almost impossible for a human being to extricate themselves from their strenuous confines in the trunk. However, Mr. Cook placed the bag behind the trunk and quickly stepped behind himself with only his head protruding he counted to three and immediately the bag appeared in his place sloed the girl. The trunk was then brought out to the front of the stage and the cords which had been bound Mr. Cook was discovered to be missing severely in the trunk. But a black shroud over his head in the exact position that the girl had been placed a few seconds before and as equally as clever as any vaudeville artist of his particular line having previously played in the Belleville.

The Orthophonic. "The wonder of the age" in musical entertainment with the mannequins while they paraded in the fashion revue and was the feature of most favorable comment. The low subdued music added greatly to the show.

Miss Jean Henworth, "the Spirit of the Victrola" was even better than in the first night's appearance and she danced her way into the hearts of the audience. Miss Henworth is most graceful and did her numbers nicely to the delight of the audience.

The ringing bell in the overpland room drew another fine crowd. The Son Toss with their very latest in musical numbers supplies the most entrancing music.

Door Prizes

The door prize drawn by Kiwanian Chas. Hanna, was won by Addison Lloyd who hold the lucky ticket.

The various booths were well patronized and the "Bingo" booth was especially a centre of attraction. In the games of chance many went home with their quota of blankets and chocolates.

"Pig Skin" Peters of Bird's Eye Peters on the job, tonight's attendance tenders at the world's championship swim in Toronto who is coming here under the auspices of the Y.M.C.A. onto Daily Star, will be at the Karnival tonight, and will entertain the audience. This popular idol created a sensation in Toronto and elsewhere where he has appeared and many who want to be treated to a real evening should not miss "Pig Skin" tonight. His identity has not been revealed to the public but many guesses have already been made as to who the star is. Some are near the mark. With his derby and cigar he will arrive at the armouries early and take part in all the games with the crowds and make himself generally acquainted.

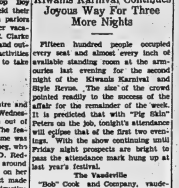

This afternoon he challenged the rest of the world to a race in the harbor of Toronto. Any of those who were there will tell you something about "Pig Skin's" feats.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MRS. BLAKE F. STORTZS

HAS STUDIO IN EMBASSY

London, Sept. 21.—A London pavement artist, whose chief claim to patronage is that he was blown up and buried by German shells at Vimy Ridge in 1917, has been allowed the use of the basement room in the German Embassy here as a studio—proof that the war is really over. William John Stubbs, the artist, also rejoices at the patronage of some of the distinguished men in Britain, including Premier Baldwin, Sir William Jowett—Hitler and Ramsay MacDonald, has been granted a lease of a country cottage by a high official of the Foreign Office, and last year he was treated to a holiday in France by the same benefactor. Which proves, he said with a smile today, that true art never lacks patrons.

FACTORY GIRL WRITES A BIOGRAPHY OF THE QUEEN

London, Sept. 21.—A striking new biography of Queen Mary, written by a former factory girl, was published yesterday. The author is Kathleen Woodward, who 12 years ago, at the age of 14, was a worker in a London collar factory. She was rescued from this drudgery by the late Miss Mary Macarthur, a trade union leader and friend of the family, and since had been stenographer, editor and caddie at a club.

Afterward Miss Woodward turned to journalism, and for years she also approached the Queen with the request that she should be allowed to write the story of her life. The Queen not only consented, but talked with the one-time factory hand and gave her many interviews.

The book is an excellent character study of the Queen, which will greatly increase the affection wherein her Majesty is already held by the British people. It tells a number of new and with pleasing stories illustrating the Queen's strength of character, her thoroughness, her love of home and family, her interest in dress, and her humanity and kindness.

SEARCH FRUITLESS FOR MISSING MEN

London, Ont., Sept. 21.—For three days Edward Harlton and Frank Marlton remained prisoners of Middlesex County jail, who both have murder accustinose hanging over their heads have been at liberty. Every possible clue has been traced down by the police of the Province with no avail and now the latest report of the capture of Harlton at Simcoe proves incorrect.

The search for the men over the Provincial Constabulary dipped to its minimum figure for 1927.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Corn prices underwent big tumble today. Nearly six cents bushel was cut from value: its early rush of selling. Indication that front last night had failed to do any important damage was chiefly responsible. Opening prices were 2 5-8c to 3 1-2c lower and additional setback followed.

BOYS GROW FINE IRISH COBBLERS

Winners Get Silver Cups But Kiwanians Get The Potatoes

Belleville Boys' Potato Growing Contest will be officially ended and the prizes, three beautiful silver cups, awarded the winners immediately after the style show.

In an effort to encourage the junior farmers of this District to produce quality potatoes, and to show them just what could be done through devoting the very best efforts possible to potato growing, the local Service Club members this spring arranged a contest whereby two boys with one bag of potatoes each; each boy entering the contest was to produce the crop and look after the potatoes himself, arranging sample display at the present Kiwanis Karnival: The three exhibits judged best were to win for the owners a handsome silver cup.

Grew Fine Spuds

The boys presented a real display: for just witness the results of their efforts now in the potato Display booth at the Kiwanis Karnival. Big tubers, of as fine specimens of Irish Cobbler spuds as one would wish to see. Credit to the whole hearted manner in which the boys have gone into the contest; said Mr. Ketcheson, "it shows the whole co-operation the contest was conducting going to show that we were producing the best three baskets, for they all look about perfect."

Kiwanian George Bonisteel has been in charge of the contest, and has worked hard to make it a success if he, Every other member of the Club has taken keen interest in the boys' work, and the contest has been the growing season; then again each Kiwanian has given two bags of "murphys" from his boy in place of the one he donated at the Block of Pota Order they will soon be ready for the tables of every member of Belleville Kiwanis.

The cups will be donated to the winners immediately after the style show on Friday evening.

TODAYS MARKETS

Stocks Hammered Down

New York, Sept. 21.—Lead and priced shares attracted the bulk of buying in today's stock market. The absorption was especially pronounced in the rubber, public utility, motion picture, and chain store groups. Trading in the moving issues however was not altogether upward. Intervals of weakness occurred in some of the motors, International Harvester, Dupont, Baldwin, Allied Chemical, Texas Gulf Sulphur, General Railway Signal, American Smelting and some other stocks which have been the specialty follow-ing. Manhattan Electrical Supply, which had a sensational drop several months ago has hammered down 20 points to 49, a new low for the year and Postum Company dipped to its minimum figure for 1927.

PAMPERING CHILD POOR PSYCHOLOGY

By ELSIE MARLOWE

"Yes, it's perfectly terrible the way some teachers treat truants nowadays. Now just last year, Rosey had that terrible Miss Swift in his third grade. If ever there was a mean old cat she was it. From the first day she picked on Rosey. You'd hardly believe the things she did. Why one morning—

It is 8:45 of a Saturday morning. Mama Ellis, in wrapper and bedroom slippers is holding forth to Mrs. Hoffman from across the hall. She is holding forth with all the vigor and ferocity of a female Bengal tiger engaged in defending her young. For Miss Swift has dared to question the perfection of young Rosey Ellis and Mama Ellis wants the universe to know what she thinks of it.

Mrs. Hoffman listens with interest. "Yes, ain't it awful—Poor little Rosey —and a sweeter child never breathed!"

At these pleasing words little Rosey swells visibly and preens herself. Rosey is also listening with interest. She has listened with interest while Mama told five other neighbors the same tale of crime and corruption in our Public Schools, and the martyrdom of one Rosey Ellis.

When the trouble first began Rosey wasn't quite so sure that she was a martyr, or that Miss Swift was quite an arch criminal. Rosey HAD thrown that spit-ball—and cheated in the arithmetic examination—and been late three days running—and Rosey well knew it. Therefore when Miss Swift's wrath descended upon her she wasn't altogether surprised or aggrieved. She knew that Teacher had the goods on her and she quite expected Mama to side with Teacher. But, instead, Mama rent the skies with her denunciations of anyone who would dare insinuate that an Ellis offspring was anything but one hundred per cent. And promptly Rosey began to feel that she was a martyr.

Every time Mama tells the story Rosey is more convinced that all teachers are fiends and all school children helpless victims. Likewise there grows within her the comforting conviction that she got by with murder and can do so again.

This is not an isolated case. School has started and in every city and hamlet of this broad burg land Young Canada is being "sent home," or "kept after school" or otherwise disciplined. And do not the wise, well-balanced parents of Canada stand by the teachers in these admirable attempts to change your savages into lawabiding citizens?

Yes, they do NOT.

In about seventy-five per cent. of the cases Mama or Papa sides with the kid, and Teacher gets the black ball.

Now, it is quite possible that teacher is sometimes in the wrong. Teachers are people—and not always the most shining or efficient people. For this we have only ourselves to thank, since we refuse to pay them little more than good waitress or washerwoman would earn. So, considering their weaknesses, and the limitations which our salaries often put upon their quality, it is not remarkable, if they sometimes err. But is that error corrected by bolstering up young Rosey's conceit, inflaming her contempt for teacher? And inciting her to rebellion?

Well say it isn't!

If you have anything to say to Teacher, say it to Her.

But, for Rosey's own good, don't say it to Rosey, or before Rosey, or within sixty yards of the keyhole to which Rosey's young ear is glued. For after all, for better or for worse, Teacher is your partner, and it's to your mutual interest to play the game with her.

Simplicity Marks the Well Bred Frock

This story might be entitled: "How one or two little touches made a very simple frock very smart." And a true story it would be. For this little slip-over dress with its straight one piece back and its straight pleated shirt attached across the front has a distinction of finish that sets it quite apart from the majority of frocks. First there is the large pointed piece applied up the front, and the similarly pointed little cuffs. Then there is the novel tie-and-collar combination, attached in back and falling free in front just below the point of the V-neck. Crepe satin, silk crepe, crepe de Chine or sheer light weight wools are suitable fabrics for the frock, and any Cayline Pour is a suitable time to wear it.

Cecile Sorel, noted French actress, says: "Clothes are the materials with which the woman makes of herself a masterpiece or a daub."

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

The black felt hats so fashionable just now must be frequently freshened up to look well. Raindrops and other stains can be readily removed with fine emery paper but be careful to rub lightly and always rub in the direction of the nap. When the hat requires a thorough cleaning add one teaspoon ammonia to one-half cupful of cold tea and apply. For colored felt hats add sufficient gasoline to a teacupful of flour to form paste. Rub on with a fine cloth, then dry remove with a stiff brush.

When aluminum pans bulge on the bottom heat them slowly over your kitchen range. You can then hammer the pans into their original shape.

SINCLAIR'S

CURSE OF LOVE

by Mildred Barbour

SYNOPSIS—Cynthia Ellis, 25, of vom- ...ffs-o- ...ard her fiance, Dr. Jack Ellis, afraid that Norma might see in her eyes the anxiety she felt for her. Il Philip Kendall was indeed ill—

"I'll be all right, Norma," Cynthia said. "You're not to worry. And Therese will be here to look after you."

Norma sank back on her pillows.

"If only I were strong and could go with you!" she murmured.

"Thank Heaven that you're not!" thought Cynthia.

At nine o'clock she boarded the Shanghai train at the Pekin station. It was a gray morning and a slight mist was falling—a cheerless morning for a hazardous journey. Cynthia, grim and smart in a beige tailleur with a chick little hat drawn down over her fair hair, drew her fur scarf closer around her smooth white throat and grasped her travelling bag.

The morning newspapers announced that Feng-Yu-Hsiang was concentrating his troops to the east of Pekin, preparing for an attack against the retreating army of the enemy. The Shanghai express which had left on the previous day had been turned back to Pekin, because the bridge over the canal near Tien-Tsin had been destroyed by Li-Ching-Lin's retreating troops. Efforts to replace it were under way.

Nothing daunted, her lovely eyes sparkling with the thrill of adventure, Cynthia found a seat in a car filled with Britons and Americans. She heard that there were French, Italian, and Japanese passengers in other coaches. The train slid slowly out of the station, and Cynthia settled herself in a book.

Sometimes she raised her eyes to watch the flat, dun-colored country slipping by. She wondered what Harcourt was doing. Would he run a risk in attempting to restore the black opal to the temple, or would he be welcomed as a hero?

Noon came, and the train proceeded according to schedule. Cynthia had a good luncheon in the dining-car, thinking a trifle disappointedly that so far the trip had been tame enough. In the afternoon, she became bored with her book and amused herself by studying the other passengers. But they seemed an uninteresting lot.

With a sigh of utter boredom, Cynthia leaned her head back on the dubious upholstery of her seat and attempted a nap. She was half-dozing when a series of sharp, staccato sounds made her sit upright.

The other passengers likewise were electrified. There were murmurs, then a woman's suppressed scream.

"Shrapnel!" Some one cried. "Can't you hear it somewhere ahead of us?"

Anxious glances were exchanged by the passengers. Every one looked out of his window, but a dust storm was rising, and it was difficult to see far ahead.

"It's about three miles or so off, by the sound," one man volunteered. "No need to be alarmed."

Even as he spoke, there was a crash. A window was shattered into fragments. From up ahead came a heavy boom, and the train slowed down and came to a halt.

"They've disabled the locomotive!" some one shouted in panic. "They've got us in a trap, & We're done for!"

CHAPTER 08.

THE ATTACK

Cynthia never afterward understood how she managed to remain so cool and collected in the ensuing panic aboard the train. Women were hysterical; children cried; men were wild-eyed, hotly disputing the advisability of this course and that.

"We can't stay here," one man near Cynthia was shouting, though he did nothing toward remedying the situation. "We're directly in the line of fire. Feng-Yu-Hsiang is behind us with an armored train. He's trying to get through in the path we make, and it's he, and not us, that Li-Ching-Lin's attacking. Why don't they do something? Why don't—"

Cynthia lost the rest of his heated tirade, because the woman in the next seat fainted. Cynthia searched in her bag for smelling-salts and applied them with successful results. A child of about two years stumbled against her knees, weeping and forgotten by an hysterical mother. Cynthia gathered the baby into her arms and soothed it.

"I'm sure they won't hurt us," she said to the fainting woman who had now recovered consciousness and added that illogical phrase that is constantly heard in foreign lands: "They can't do anything to us—we are Americans!"

The shot flagged up a sort of barrier at the rear of the car by wrenching seats ruthlessly from their standards and commanded the women and children to sit on the floor behind this screen.

"You'll be safe, if shrapnel hits the windows again," they said.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl twenty-one years of age. I have been seeing a married man for almost one year.

First of all I must tell you some about him. He has been separated from his wife about two years. He no longer cares for her and he is most unhappy. At first he started to drink considerably until he met me. He has two adorable children. At the present time he is trying to get a divorce.

I happen to know his wife still cares for him and is willing to come back to him for the sake of their children. And when I think how much she has sacrificed for him I feel so guilty. I am single and have nothing to lose, whereas she has everything to lose—position, home and family.

I know that he loves me, and I love him.

What would be the honorable thing for me to do?

PATIENCE.

PATIENCE: Your letter shows an attitude that is really commendable, my dear, and I am surprised that you yourself do not see the solution to your problem. I would suggest that you use your influence to send this man back to his wife. It is possible that his unhappiness is due largely to his separation although he may not at this time realize it... At any rate, since his wife still loves him, she should be given another chance if only for the sake of the children. Persuade him to go back to her and then, after another trial, they are unable to get along they themselves may reach an agreement which will leave him free to accept your love. It may not be 'easy to give him up, my dear, but your letter leaves no doubt in my mind but that you will make a sincere effort to do this honorable thing and I can only hope that you yourself find happiness of your own.

RAYNOR BORROWED LARGE SUMS PAYING 20 PER CENT. INTEREST

Counsel Investigates Dealings With A. P. Hyatt Who Has Big Claim

PARTNERSHIP

John P. Williams Called To Tell Plans Arranged For Business

Toronto, Sept. 21.—H. S. White, K.C., counsel for the trustee in the bankruptcy of Ralph Harry Raynor, the Picton auto super-salesman, yesterday delved into the bankrupt's connection with A. P. Hyatt, who has a claim for $80,000 against the estate, who loaned money to Raynor in ten and fifteen thousand dollar lots at a 20 per cent. rate of interest.

Raynor is being examined before Geo. S. Holmsted, K.C., referee at Osgoode Hall in an effort to untangle his financial affairs.

Raynor said he borrowed $10,000 from A. R. Hyatt at the beginning of 1925. He gave him a note for that. He could not say whether or not that was his first borrowing from Mr. Hyatt, as he had borrowed several sums of $10,000 from Hyatt.

"What rate of interest was Hyatt to get?"

"There was no interest. He was to get the $2,000 as a bonus."

"Was he to get $2,000 a year for the loan?"

"Yes. He got his money back at the end of five years."

"In five years you would have paid him $10,000 and then you would still be owing him $10,000?"

"Yes."

"That was 20 per cent. interest?"

"Yes."

"How did you get in touch with Hyatt?"

"Through Williams, in general conversation in our own office."

First Borrowing

"These borrowings between you and Hyatt were more or less accidental? They were never the result of your needing money and going out after it?"

"They may have been, but not in that case, if that was the first borrowing."

"On the 1st of May, 1925, two months after you got the first $10,000, you made another contract with Hyatt under which Hyatt agreed to lend another $10,000, you agreeing to pay for use of same, $2,000 as bonus and interest each year, the contract to be renewed annually at the option of Hyatt up till 1930?"

"Yes."

"Who made the approach that time?"

"It would be me."

"Not Mr. Williams?"

"Probably through Mr. Williams. I never missed an opportunity of taking 10,000 at any time."

Mr. White—"Mr. Hyatt has filed a claim against your estate which totals $80,000. The first item in the claim for $10,000, due the 1st of March, 1926. The second item is for $15,000. Is that the third loan you had?"

Mr. Raynor—"I think that was the second."

"You don't mean to say you got $10,000 between the $10,000 you received on the 1st of March and the $10,000 received on the 1st of May?"

"I don't think that $15,000 was in 1925. I think it was in 1926."

Mr. White pointed out two other large items in Hyatt's claim, one for $12,000, said to be due on the 2nd of May, 1928, and another $12,000, said to be due on the 3rd of May, 1928. Witness thought the first $12,000 was also made up of one of the other $10,000 and $2,000 interest.

Mr. White—"At the 1st of February this year when the statement was made up you owed Hyatt $35,000?"

"Yes."

Asked as to how the amounts said to be owing the Industrial Acceptance Corporation and other creditors, were made up, Raynor said that they would be made up by the manager of the Royal Bank at Picton from information supplied by Fowler, information from the books and the finance papers.

"I told the bank manager that the liabilities would amount to $60,000 or maybe $70,000," he said. "It is pretty hard to remember."

"When you said that you would not have in mind the $18,000, owing to Industrial Acceptance Corporation?"

"No."

"Nor would you have in mind the $38,453, owing for autos to other corporations?"

"I have always said I could not give an accurate statement."

"There is an item here in the banker's statement of $84,505."

"Owing?"

"Yes."

"That would include all the borrowings from everybody."

"Had you any documents with you when the bank manager made out this statement?"

"No."

"Then how were these detailed figures arrived at?"

"I didn't know. I was not there at the time. The statement was not made up in a day."

"How was the Acceptance Corporation statement made up? It seems that the figures in their statement were divided up in a rough way, so as to fit the figure in the bank statement?"

"Yes."

"Was the Acceptance Corporation manager present when this statement was made up?"

"I don't know."

Raynor could not say when he made his last payment to Hyatt. He never paid any cash to Hyatt.

Mr. White produced a cheque for $838 made out to Hyatt in June of this year. Raynor could not recollect what that was for. Mr. Fowler might hand out a cheque like that for something owing without his knowing anything about it at the time.

"Did you have any trouble with Hyatt for not paying interest when due. Was that the reason for making a new note?"

"As may have been mentioned, but there was no difficulty."

"Did Hyatt ever attempt to find out anything about the business?"

"Not through me."

"Did Hyatt buy cars from you?"

"Yes."

"To many?"

"I think he bought two this year—a new Ford and a Chrysler 70. The Chrysler cost $2,350."

"Did he buy it or take it in lieu of interest due?"

"I don't remember how he paid the difference in the car, whether it was cash or credit on a note. If I had owed him $9,000 at that time I could have given it to him that way."

"Did Hyatt or Williams before July 1st, ever take an interest in running the business? If not, I didn't think your business?"

myself then that there was any chance of a breakdown."

"When did it first dawn on you that there might be a chance of a breakdown?"

"On the 2nd of July."

When the proceedings were continued in the afternoon before Geo. S. Holmstead, K.C., referee at Osgoode Hall, John Platt Williams, of Picton, was called by H. S. White, K.C.

Arthur W. Roebuck at once took objection and claimed protection from incrimination.

Mr. Williams said he entered into partnership with Raynor in February, 1922, on a 50-50 basis. The business was started on $5,000 cash and an equal amount of discount credit. Mr. Williams was to look after the financial end, and Raynor had charge of the selling. The partnership was known as Raynor and Williams.

Mr. Williams said he remained in the partnership until 1923, when he withdrew, because he was tired of it. While with Raynor he kept in a small book a record of the financial end of the business.

Explaining his reason for withdrawing, Mr. Williams said there were too many small debts, too many used cars coming in. They were not making enough to take care of their overhead, although he did not believe they actually lost money.

J. P. Williams auto account was produced, showing $400 cash, and cheques from Raynor for $1,700.

$5 Extraordinary

When Raynor wanted more capital it was arranged that he should get $10,000 from A. P. Hyatt, of Bridge Edward. Raynor was to pay Hyatt $2,000 a year for five years, and, then the $10,000 was to be due.

Mr. White asked if this did not seem an extraordinary transaction.

"It did not look to me as so much out of the way," said Mr. Williams. The Finance Corporation got pretty stiff rates.

"The idea was that he could pay more cash for cars and not have to discount so much paper?"

"Yes," replied Mr. Williams, "and not be crowded into deals that were not so good."

From time to time Raynor went to the Royal Bank assistance, said Mr. Williams. He always thought Raynor kept books.

When Raynor went to Williams to borrow $1,500 to buy a demonstrator the latter was said he demurred. He thought Raynor was spending too much money.

Mr. White read from a statement by Raynor that "in 1922 John Platt Williams became a partner with me in the automobile business in the town of Picton, and later in the City of Belleville. In that connection—"

"Raynor may have said so, but it would not be correct so far as Belleville business was concerned."

Could Not Understand

"What I cannot understand about this whole mess is that a man like you, dealing with these notes, where there was money to pay or should be paid, insurance to pay, there was no cash, so there had to be notes. Still you thought everything was all right?" asked Mr. White.

"I knew he held a great many notes on cars, and supposed they would be cleaned up in time. Some were being cleaned up," stated Mr. Williams.

"Did it ever occur to you to get any security for what you were doing?"—"No, sir."

"Did you or Hyatt ever have any interest in running the Picton business?"—"No, sir."

"In the Belleville business?"—"No, sir."

"I understand there was some discussion about the two of you carrying on the business after the first of July?"

"Yes, there was mention of forming a company and of our being directors."

Gave Inventory

D. H. Fournia, of Picton, started with Raynor in 1922. Their relations became more intimate, and for the past twelve months he probably knew more about the Picton business than did Mr. Raynor himself.

Mr. Fournia told Mr. White he was present in Raynor's office in Belleville when the statement for the bank was made out. He assisted by giving the inventory of second-hand used cars. New cars were on acceptance.

"When you valued a used car did you do it with or without knowledge of how much Raynor had taken it in it? You had that knowledge?"—"Sometimes, yes."

The cars were valued at what he thought they were worth," said Mr. Fournia.

"Did you satisfy yourself that the statement given to the bank was correct?"

"I did to the best of my knowledge. Mr. White, the manager of the bank was there and went through the books with Mr. Raynor."

Mr. White pointed out certain discrepancies in the statement to the bank and that given to the Finance Corporations. Mr. Fournia admitted it was more or less haphazard.

Signed on Instructions

"Apparently you signed this statement on Raynor's say so?"

"On his instructions."

"Without satisfying yourself as to the correct amounts?"

"I was not in a position to know details of the Belleville business."

Mr. Fournia said that all new cars were shipped to Picton and were were taken to Belleville.

"Did any cars not go to Belleville?"—"Those that were sold at delivery taken."

Mr. White wanted to know about deliveries of cars toward the end of June and early in July, not in the ordinary course of business. There were none, Mr. Fournia replied.

Identifies Cheques

"As far as you knew, no cars were taken out or delivered except in the ordinary straight way of business?"—"Yes, sir."

Mr. Fournia recalled a Chrysler car taken by Mr. Collier in payment of some officers that Raynor owed. He also identified several cheques signed by himself as attorney in June last. One for $3,000; June 24, $500; June 28, $500; June 30, $50.

The $1,000 was sent to Mr. Raynor in cash; 300 he knew nothing about; $500 was given to Mr. Raynor the day of his mother's funeral; $50 was a monthly bonus to himself.

The hearing concluded at four o'clock.

A sensible man doesn't care if he isn't good looking, he knows that there are others.

As a rule thieves display more discretion than honest men do.

AUTHORESS WILL LIVE IN CEYLON

DECORATED BY FRANCE

Paris, Sept. 21.—Commodore Herbert Hartley, for four years commander of the United States Lines flagship the Leviathan, sailed back to New York today with another decoration on his breast. At luncheon aboard the liner just before sailing Admiral Revault, commanding the Cherbourg naval base, presented Captain Hartley with the red ribbon of Chevalier of the Legion of Honor, awarded by the French Government to the American in recognition of his life work as a sea captain visiting French ports.

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 21. (C.P.)—Mrs. L. Adams Beck, the gifted writer of novels on historic and occult subjects, who left Canada for Europe last year, will not be returning to this city, where she has been residing. She has lately been in Switzerland after a stay in England. She will make her home in Ceylon for a long time, but expects later to live in Japan. Mrs. Adams Beck is at present engaged in writing a book on Oriental philosophy, and with Mrs. Maitwood, a noted sculptress, will explore the dead cities of Ceylon, incorporating the material in her book. She has also written an occult book, "The House of Fulfilment," and under her other pen-name of E. Barrington has published a book dealing with Napoleon, entitled "The Thunderer."

MANY VISITORS TO McGILL IN VACATION

Montreal, Sept. 16 (By Canadian Press)—During the time when the members of the various faculties of McGill University are enjoying the vacation season, the museums of the university are having their heaviest influx of out-of-town visitors. Museum statistics available show that since the first of May approximately 4,000 people have viewed the exhibits at the Redpath and the David Ross McCord national museums alone.

Interested men and women from all parts of the world have paid a visit to the museums during this period. B. Chambers, assistant curator of the Redpath Museum, states that the summer season is by far the most popular time of the year for out-of-town visitors.

BELLE THEATRE

The football game which is one of the high-lights in "White Flannels," the Warner Bros. production, featuring Louise Dresser and Jason Robards, was coached by Aubrey Devine, selected by many as All-American quarter-back in 1921.

Robards is cast as the heroic young coal-miner who becomes the football idol of the college, and leads the team to victory in one of the hardest battles ever filmed for a screen production. It arouses audiences to a high pitch of enthusiasm.

Featured with Dresser and Robards are Virginia Browne Faire, Richmond warner, George Nichols and Brooks Benedict. Lloyd Bacon has scored one of his biggest successes in his direction of the play.

A big coal mine disaster and a college football game are the outstanding spectacular features.

"White Flannels" comes to the Belle Theatre tomorrow for a run of 3 days.

REGENT THEATRE

John Ford picked an all-star cast for "Upstream," Fox Films feature, which opens a 3 day run at the Regent Theatre tomorrow. The list includes Earle Fore, Nancy Nash, Raymond Hitchcock, Jane Winton, Judy King, Ted McManamara, Sammy Cohen, Emile Chautard, Lilian Worth, Harry Bailey, Grant Withers, Lydia Yeamans Titus and others.

ATHLETICS WIN DOUBLEHEADER

Ruth Has Chance To Equal Last Year's Home-Run Record

New York, September 21.—The Athletics finished the season's series with the St. Louis Browns yesterday by winning a doubleheader by scores of 4 to 1 and 7 to 5 at Philadelphia.

Crowder blanked the Athletics in the opener until the ninth inning, when passes to Cobb and Cochrane and a single by Fox tied the score. Al Simmons followed with a home run, behind Cochrane and Fox.

Milton Gaston was solved for six runs in the first inning of the second game and made three wild pitches, each of which allowed a runner to score from third base.

Detroit won both ends of a double-header at Boston, 4 to 3 and 5 to 3, closing the season's series between the two clubs. The Tigers won 17 of their meetings with the Red Sox this year and lost five. Regan's hitting and the fielding of Ruble and Rue featured yesterday's contest, while the relief pitching of George Smith pulled out the second game for the visitors.

Ruth Has Chance Today

New York, Sept. 21.—Starting today in the series against the Tigers, Babe Ruth will swing into action again in his attempt to catch up with his outstanding 1921 record of 59 homers. The Babe and his mate, Lou Gehrig, were forced to mark time today, by an error only for the Yanks. Ruth's total of 44 includes six off Bengal hurl

PIRATE LEAD IS CUT TO 3 GAMES

Pittsburgh Suffered Second Straight Shut-Out Game

New York, Sept. 21.—The Robins handed the league-leading Pirates their second consecutive shutout defeat at Pittsburgh yesterday, 3 to 0, as Bill Doak veteran flinger of opinion, held the Corsairs to two hits. Only one Pittsburgh player reached second base. The reversal cut the Pirate margin at the peak to three games. The second place Giants, enjoying two off-days on their schedule, saw the contest from the stands. They are slated to open a four-game series here Thursday.

Lee Meadows allowed seven hits in the pitching duel, three of which were grouped in the fourth for two runs. With one out, Carey, tripled and scored on a single by Hendrick. A double by Herman sent the second run over the plate. The other Brooklyn tally came in the seventh on successive singles by Butler and Hendline and Doak's sacrifice bunt, which permitted Butler to score. A pinch-hitter went in for Meadows in the eighth and Doak twirled the final session.

Doak yielded three bases on balls, all going to Paul Waner. The only hits made off him were a double by Cooch in the third and a single by Lloyd Waner in the sixth.

Incidentally, the Pirates have not scored a run since the club started making applications for world's series tickets yesterday.

Successive homers by Frisch and Hafey in the seventh inning enabled the St. Louis Cards to make it five in a row over the Phillies and win the final game of the St. Louis series yesterday, 5 to 4.

The victory put the Cardinals into a tie with the New York Giants for second place and put three games behind the Pirates.

Ulrich, the Philadelphia pitching ace, allowed the Cards only seven hits, but the grouping of the hits produced the single with a walk and a sacrifice in the first inning, which netted the Cards three runs, together with the seventh inning homers, proved his undoing.

Sherdel allowed the visitors five safeties. He had one bad inning, the fifth, in which the Phillies got three singles and a triple to score three runs. A ninth-inning rally fell short with one run when Cooney doubled, advanced on Fribers's single and came home on the opposite play.

The Cubs made it four out of five from Boston at Chicago yesterday, and 15 out of 22 for the season by taking the final game, 8 to 5. The visitors got a four-run lead on the Cubs in the first inning by divine Letty Weiner off the hill. Jones, who succeeded him held the Braves safe with the exception of the second inning when Morrison hit a home-run.

Chicago tied the score in the first two innings by successive hits, including a home-run by Hesthorst, with three Boston errors. They forged ahead in the seventh on English's double and Stephenson's double, and scored two more in the eighth on Jones' hit, Adams' triple and an error by Farrell. Welsh also poled a homer in the Braves' first inning with two men on base.

POLICE ESCORT FOR TUNNEY ON CHICAGO TRIP

Champ, Heavyweight Went Through Final Exercise Before Small Crowd

Lake Villa, Ill., September 21.—Gene Tunney danced the gloves yesterday for the last time before he enters the ring at Soldiers' Field in Chicago, Thursday night, to defend his world's heavyweight title against Jack Dempsey, in a ten-rounder bout. The titleholder spent the afternoon in a chilling winter atmosphere for five rounds of bag punching, starting with two rounds on the light bag and following with three rounds on the heavy bag. The rounds on the light bag were of five minutes' duration, and those on the heavy bag were clocked at four and one-half minutes each, giving Tunney about twenty-five minutes of exercising making allowances for the extension of time beyond the signal to cease five in each round.

Bundled in lightweight, full-length woolen winter under suit, with trousers and a warm woollen sweater, which buttoned up to his throat as further protection against contracting a cold, Tunney went through his final training paces while a small crowd of writers and a few friends shivered in the role of onlookers.

In the morning Tunney was on the road for a jaunt of about five miles. Today he will take to the road and will rest through the remainder of the day. He announced a change today in his plans for going to Chicago from the camp here, declaring he had decided to make the trip early Thursday morning. Tunney will go to Chicago by auto with a motorcycle police escort. He will repair immediately to the Hotel Sherman, according to his present plans, where he will remain until summoned to the ring, and to which rendezvous he intends to return right after the championship battle.

Dempsey Eager to Fight

Chicago, Sept. 21.—Dempsey's camp was a hotbed today. The only incident which served as a substitute for the buzz and hum of conversation was a surreptitious tattoo of a boxing bout bag bounding back and forth on a board. The challenger for the crown which now reposed on the broad brow of Gene Tunney, surprised his few remaining attendants by taking a short workout.

Otherwise, the chirping of crickets and the breeze in the trees were clearly audible. Leo P. Flynn, the challenger's manager, had departed for Chicago to confer with various officials, appear in court and attend to several other little matters in connection with the coming conflict.

Frankie Garvin and Jack went out on the road this morning and took a five-mile jog together through the crisp air of the early hours.

That was all anyone expected Dempsey to do to the way of exercise during the day, but in the afternoon he surprised everyone within sight by appearing in his ring togs and going through a couple of rounds of shadow boxing following this with a round of bag punching.

During these frivolities one thing stood out. Dempsey is keen and eager for the fray. His greatest difficulty was in keeping quiet. He battered and beat the bag as though he had some personal hatred for the inanimate object and he stepped about the ring during his session of shadow boxing as though he were going somewhere in a hurry, though he remained inside the roped square all the time.

There may be a lot of things radically wrong with Dempsey. Some observers point out that he has lost his punch, some harp on the thought that he has slowed up like a freight train coming into a siding, some insist that he was through as a champion a year ago. But there is no question that Jack still is keen and eager and loves the fight racket with the same zest as when he wore the crown.

DISAGREE ON EBONY BOX

Dublin, Sept. 21.—The famous ebony cabinet once owned by Boswell, biographer of Dr. Johnson, and containing a number of valuable Boswellian manuscripts, is declared by Lady Talbot de Malahide to be in New York in the hands of Lieut.-Col. Ralph Isham.

Lord Talbot de Malahide, however, asserted last night that the cabinet had not been sold but some of the papers had been disposed of to Colonel Isham. Lord Talbot is Boswell's great-great grandson.

KIDNEYS NEED LOT OF WATER

When you wake up with backache and dull misery in the kidney region, it may mean you have been eating foods which create acids, says a well-known authority. An excess of such acids overworks the kidneys in their effort to filter it from the blood and they become sort of paralyzed and logy. When your kidneys get sluggish and clog you must relieve them, like you relieve your bowels, removing all the body' surinous waste, else you have backache, sick headache, dizzy spells; your stomach cours tongue is coated and when the weather is bad you have rheumatic twinges. The urine is cloudy, full of sediment, channels often get sore, water scalds and you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night.

Either consult a good, reliable physician at once or get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts; take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine. This famous salts is made from the acid of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help clean and stimulate sluggish kidneys, also to neutralize acids in the system, so they no longer irritate, thus often relieving bladder weakness.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

MR. RUSSELL CARMAN EXPLAINS HIS POSITION

"Why does not Belleville progress" is to be the subject of an article I propose to write in the near future. Belleville is a beautiful city, well located and few cities have been more favored by nature. The Bay of Quinte district is a garden. Generally speaking, a more kindly people do not exist. What is the matter? Balmoe, the great statistician speaking before the Canadian Club in the City of Regina a few weeks ago said, in "what made a city was the spirit of its citizens." There is nothing truer whether you speak of a city or a nation. Small citizens make small cities. There has always been here a small element that are a detriment to the City, not necessary malicious, possibly thoughtless, or through ignorance, but at any rate it gets us to the same place.

We had a way in the west of letting that element referred to above know that they could not get away with it. A knocker in the early days did not get anywhere. I remember a case in one of our cities where a lawyer, perfectly within his rights as a lawyer, was blocking certain works that were a public benefit. A number of the citizens went to him and told him if he did not cease operations against the city interests they would see it cost considerable in business and even went as far as to mention the solicitorship for different companies which he had that they thought they could get taken away from him. He continued to operate nor do I know of any one else that took the hint.

I came here three and a half years ago at a considerable sacrifice, especially if I have to have before getting my affairs settled up, hoping to benefit not only myself and family but my father's family. I had hoped to take my place in business and assist in the general advancement of the city. Somehow, wherever I turned, I seemed to be blocked in whatever I tried to do and about six months ago I was practically given my walking ticket. There have been some really big men here given the same treatment in the past and the city suffered considerably as a consequence. Fortunately for them they could in most cases pick up and go leaving no trace behind them. I was in a different position. I have to leave very substantial interests unprotected. I left the west with a good reputation as well as a good name. There was no one in the west that could say a word with truth that I had even been small in business. I have heard numerous and innocent lies as well as false, do not know where they originate nor do I care but all I can do is to place the situation by coming out in the open and publishing the facts, dislimited as it is to me. One of the rumors was to the effect that I had lost considerable money in my brother and sisters in investments in western Canada. In fairness to the west, as well as myself, I will say at once that I invested for a number of people and in every case where they took my advice they made a considerable profit and in most cases over 100%. There was one unfortunate instance where through my brother being out of the City when I wired him a sale of real estate the deal of it was put through (this I will relate later). I owned 70% of the property and my brother 30%. I figured that directly and indirectly it had cost me nearly five times as much as it has cost me. This article is not written in the nature of an attack. It is a defence and I am hoping it may be made positive. In order that you may grasp what I am driving at in my former article I am going into a number of tiresome details which I do not enjoy writing about any more than others will enjoy reading but I have an objective and I must arrive at it in my own way to the best of my ability. This whole article is distasteful but what is said is unanswerable.

Early in 1912 I had a chance to buy for $120,000, 45% of which I am not responsible for, and then cannot get his interest even to discuss the situation, give a Quit Claim Deed, thy that I mean throw up the property or make an offer of payments of a small amount which the Mortgage Company refuse or get a deficiency on property which he is entitled to at that a payment can be made, it is time that something was done.

In 1903 after graduating from Toronto University and Osgoode Hall I went to New York. My father had given me $1000 in February to start out with, subsequently I made money invested in United States Steel. There was a slump in stocks and when the time came for me to make a start my money was tied up. I do not doubt for a moment but that my father would made a further advance but that is not the way I do business so I did what thousands of our best men have done and went to the other side, tramped the streets and got a position in the Claims Department of the Accident Insurance Company. The Claims Agent of New York Life Insurance between a detective and a lawyer and about as popular as the former. My work was among the criminal element (50% were fake cases) and poor working classes. I could not help get admitted to law in New York City so after about eight months I went to St. Louis and from there to the North West. After eight months' work among the slums of New York I came away with certain impressions that have never left me. In any trouble among the working classes I am always ready listener on the side of the working classes. Conditions now are better in New York I know. The slum was a valuable chattel and the most cases was fed and well looked after. There is not much in freedom when a man cannot get stead enough to move out of an unhealthy environment.

I went from St. Louis to Winnipeg, worked there a short time and then to Regina where I went to work as an under the name of Carman and Hewitt. We also opened a branch office in the small village of Balgonie. Business was poor in Regina and in the branch office it was good, so when my partner left in September of that year I stayed in Balgonie which was a fortunate settlement.

The first real estate transaction that took place between myself and my brother was in 1904. My brother sent me out $200 with which I bought a small interest in the Arcola Annex. He more than doubled his money in a short time. The same year I wrote my brother and said I could buy either 400 or 800 lots at $12.00 each and that the payments were half cash and the balance in a year. I think, "that you never have to pay any more money on account of these lots as sufficient lots can be sold to pay the balance which we owe. Regina is growing fast and should make from 300% to 400% on our money." I got a letter back in which he said he did not want to go in the deal and that was all there was to it. I have no complaints or regrets. It turned out that instead of making 300% we would have made from 3000% to 5000%, in money value by $200,000.00 Thus, $4,000.00. By 1906 they were worth from $300.00 to $350.00 apiece and could have been sold at that rate. By 1911 if there were any lots they were worth $1000.00. This sounds like a fairy tale but it is not. Regina then had one of its booms—how about as far out as John Street from Front in Belleville. By 1911 it had grown and was fairly well started in its growing town in the east lots well situated are worth anywhere from $500.00 to $1,000.00. Building lots in Regina sold from $1000.00 to $3000.00.

In 1907 I purchased the east half of 5-26, 26 West of the Third for my brother. This was 160 miles from a railway and within two years it was less than ten miles. I traded this in 1909 for a half section property and brother owed money on and put up the $2000 cash myself which made the $4000 mentioned. I sold in the same district (which I will lose for taxes unless the situation is cleared up within a short time). They have got a good crop in that district this year and it will be settled and like to see some real money with first mortgage as security they might communicate with the Mortgage Street. I might say I sold the adjoining 240 acres to the same party for $4000 cash in 1909 or 1220 for $4000 cash and I also sold this 760 acres to the Soldier Settlement Board for $12,000 in cash. The soldier put up the required settlement and is now one of the most efficient farmers to farm the land. In fact he had been foreman of a large farm and knew what he was doing. In fact he had been foreman of a large farm and knew what he was doing. tions, that is 1280 acres, near Moosejaw. There was something peculiar about this deal. It may be a coincidence but it is a peculiar one. About the time I wired my brother to sell they would not go on with the deal. I had spoken before the Army and Navy Veterans and had made use of the expression "Union Government was the most pusillanimous, puppy-dog policy that had ever been in control of this country." An old friend of mine, Major Cockburn, of the 21st Battalion at Pembuert, and of whom Sir Jas. Aikens speaks of in his book, was present at the meeting. He was very much in about fifteen places and some of his friends were in the audience. After three hours spare, Sir Sam Hughes spoolined him District Officer Commanding and he made good in every thing. Shortly after Union Government got in they fired him without giving him a reason and that has never been on the matter. Union Government got in they fired him without giving him a reason and that has never been settled up

TWENTY DIE IN LONELY MISSION HOUSE HOLOCAUST

Trans-Continental Fliers Lost To View But Drop Messages This Morning That All Is Well

TRANS-CONTINENTAL FLIERS GOING STRONG ACCORDING TO MESSAGES

Notes Were Dropped At Stratford, Ontario, And In Michigan

TWO PLANE RACE

Third Man Started a Day Late But Is Making Trip

Garden City, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Telegrams received today by the Rogers Air line forwarded from points where they had been dropped by 'Duke' Schiller and 'Eddie' Bohn, in their nonstop cross-country flight indicated that all is well with the fliers. The messages forwarded from Stratford, Ontario, read "Still going strong. All's O.K. Just eating. Weather clear now but had some rain." Signed, Duke and Eddie."

These messages were dropped from the plane in envelopes of which both fliers had a good supply. Long distance airmen mark their descent from the plane and on the face of the envelope is a request that the finder relay the message.

Started Day Late

Roosevelt Field, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Steve Lacey, Lamont, Illinois, delayed starter in the non-stop flight division of the National Air Derby, took off at 11.53 a.m. eastern standard time for Spokane today. Lacey was temporarily eliminated yesterday when he damaged his plane in attempt to take off.

In The Rocket Today

New York, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Four men in two huge monoplanes today apparently were speeding westward over a new non-stop trans-continental air trail, with flying fame, a share in fifteen thousand dollars in prize money and Spokane, Wash., as their goal. Their course lay over a 2300 mile "bee line" to the western city from New York, where they took off yesterday in the last and most exacting of the Spokane air derby races.

If the airmen were on schedule, they spanned the Rocky Mistes yesterday and last night passed over the middle west during the night and headed for the vast Rocky Mountain territory today.

The trail was over land almost throughout, across hills and valleys in the East, plains in the Middle West and mountain near the Pacific Coast. It was four hundred miles longer than the ocean jump of Lindbergh, Chamberlin and Byrd and a hundred miles shorter than the course of the Dole trans-Pacific fliers.

Only Two In Race

The rival pilots in the non-stop derby event were Edward Stinson, considered one of this country's greatest stunt fliers and Duke Schiller who recently abandoned his projected trans-Atlantic flight in the Bellanca Windsor, of Windsor, Ontario, when a storm of public opinion arose as the result of loss of life. They were flying almost identical planes, both designed and built by Stinson. Both carried about four hundred gallons of gasoline.

Although nothing has been heard from them during the early stage of the race, the route was felt to have had planned to avoid large cities in following a route that would provide the shortest distance.

Third Plane Returned

Roosevelt Field, N.Y., Sept. 22.—Steve Lacey, Lamon, Illinois, who started for Spokane in the non-stop flight division of the National air derby returned twenty minutes later with a skipping engine. He said he would take off again as soon as the motor expert repaired his engine.

PRIMATE RETURNS HOME

Kingston, Sept. 21.—Most Rev. S. Matheson, Archbishop of Rupert's Land, left on the C.N.R. internatiqn al flyer at 1.44 p.m. en route to his home in Winnipeg. He has been confined to the home of Col. C. F. Constantine, at the Royal Military College, for several days suffering from an abdominal complaint. He is much improved and it is felt wise that he hasten to his home.

CANADIANS WIN

Two Women From This Country May Fight Out U. S. Golf Final

Garden City, N.Y., Sept. 22.—An all-Canadian final in the United States womans golf championship was heard larger today when Mrs. Addo Mackenzie, Toronto, Canadian Champion, and Mrs. W. G. Fraser, Ottawa, won their quarter final matches and entered the semi-finals.

Miss Mackenzie came from behind to down Miss Virginia Van Wie, Chicago, one up, while Mrs. Fraser, who, as Alexa Stirling, was the champion locally in 1914, 1919 and 1920 eliminated Mlle De Lachaumette of Paris, champion of her own country and England, three up and two to play.

PAID $650 BUT NEVER GOT FOX

So Sanford Hayward Languishes In Jail Waiting For Trial

Wellington Davidson of Consecon Lake, bought and paid $650 for a female black fox in the summer of 1924 but since that time Mr. Davidson has waited patiently for the arrival of the thoroughbred. He has communicated with the man to whom the money was paid, but each time he was greeted with the same answer that the fox would be shipped within a few days. Finally Mr. Davidson received the conclusion that he had said for something that didn't exist.

He complained to the local Provincial Police and as a result Sanford Hayward, of Toronto, an ex-Provincial Police Officer, was arrested under arrest by the Toronto authorities on Tuesday of this week. He was apprehended on a charge of fraud and misrepresentation. The local Provincials have been investigating the case for some time and finally this week a warrant was sworn out for his arrest on the advice of Crown Attorney Allison, of Prince Edward County.

Hayward was arraigned in Picton Police Court yesterday and was remanded for a period of eight days. He is held on $1500 cash bail or $5000 property security. Up to the present he has been unable to raise bail.

FORKE ANSWERS CHURCH CRITICS

Ottawa, Sept. 22.—Hon. Robert Forke, Minister of Immigration and Colonization, today replied to certain criticisms of Canada's immigration policy made at the Anglican Synod at Kingston recently. Referring particularly to the employment of Roman Catholic priests, eleven of whom receive an annual salary of $600 and the remaining $1,440, who are not employed as immigration agents, but rather as representatives of the Canadian agricultural Repatriated Canadians, whether French or English, are not classified as immigrants. For many years this repatriation movement has been looked upon as highly desirable and various methods have been tried to bring about the return to Canada of an increased number of French Canadians, who have been employed for probably twenty-five years by successive governments as one of the most effective ways of bringing about the return of French Canadians.

LIVELY CORN ROAST HAS SEQUEL IN POLICE COURT

Henry Smith., a young man of 17 years of age and Gerald Clement, 18 years of age appeared at 2.30 this morning on charges of driving a car while drunk and drunkenness respectively. The two boys were brought before Magistrate Ponton this morning and both pleaded guilty. Smith's sentence being deferred until Monday and Clement getting the usual fine of $15 and 37 costs. One of the boys told a strange tale of a Corn-roast on the banks of the river Moira tastigishi, at which little party the two attained their state of 'happiness.'

When a youth fell on Pinnacle Street last night and cut his left thumb badly, who was with him, took him to Dr. Connor's office for treatment. Instead of fixing the injured one's thumbs Dr. Connor locked the two youths in her office and telephoned the police, having a keen suspicion that they were "tight". The boys were taken to the police station and were locked up overnight to answer to a charge of drunkenness before Magistrate Mikel today. On this count they pleaded guilty and were assessed the usual $15 and 37 costs.

READY TO BATTLE THE RUM RUNNERS

These Vessels Designed To Stop Smuggling Of Liquor

Two swift motor boats with 290 horsepower engines and a speed in the open sea of 38 miles an hour, have just been put into commission by F. W. Cowan, chief of the Canadian customs preventive service. In the indented coast of Nova Scotia there are many shallow bays in which the rum runners have run their motor boats with impunity, the revenue cruisers being unable to follow them in the shallow waters. Hon. W. D. Euler immediately ordered that the rum runners be beaten at their own game and ordered two fast motor-boats, the first of six. Mr. Cowan superintended the design which follows the lines of the famous Thorneycroft sub-chasers which stood the terrific pounding of the North Sea during the war and kept the seas in all weathers. These boats were built at Gravehurst, Ont. They cost about $10,000 each and are armed with a Maxim machine gun and searchlight.

ATTENDANCE RECORD IS SMASHED BY SURGING CROWDS LAST NIGHT

The Idol Of Birds Eye Centre Proves To Be Great Attraction

All attendance records for the Kiwanis Karnival in the three years of its existence were broken to atoms last night as the crowds surged the streets four in an effort to get a glimpse of the famous "Pig Skin" Peters of Bridgeye Centre, the defeated candidate in the world's champion ship swim who was brought here as a special attraction under the exclusive auspices of the Toronto Daily Star. Young and old alike strained every muscle to get a peep at the famous water marvel as he threaded his way through the mob. Fully three thousand people occupied nearly every available inch within sight of the platform where the aquatic wizard delivered a short pithy speech and received the "cup" for his splendid showing in the afternoon race off Victoria Park.

Arriving in the city shortly after four o'clock, "Pig Skin" was met on the outskirts of the city by a committee from the Kiwanis Club who escorted a waven and escorted him to the Park where Kiwanian "Billy" Mikel introduced the idol of "Birdseye Centre" to the crowd who surrounded the car. Travelling in a "Lizzie" of antiquated vintage he was the subject of admiration as he sat in the rear seat with his derby perched aside his head and the ever-present cigar. After receiving Magistrate Mikel's hearty welcome to the city "Pig Skin" dismounted and posed for photographers who snapped him in his gaudy raiment of green and white.

Acting against his physician's orders he consented to plunge into the cold waters of the harbor to dispell the doubts of the skeptical ones as to his being the real original "Pig Skin". He had suffered from a severe attack

HALDIMAND FAIR WELL ATTENDED

Colborne, Sept. 22.—The combined Fall Fair for Colborne and Haldimand Agricultural Societies, with Cramahe Township uniting also, was held at Colborne yesterday and was a great success. A large attendance was drawn from the surrounding country. There was a largely increased prize list, with entry lists well filled. Horse races and a concert in the opera house at night featured the program.

EPIDEMIC NOW SEEMS ABATING

Edmonton, Alta., Sept. 22.—While only one fresh case of infantile paralysis reported and the epidemic now definitely on the wane, it is expected that the city board of health will permit Edmonton's schools to re-open on September 26. Dr. Whitelaw, Medical Health Officer, stated today that he will recommend lifting of the ban next Monday if favorable conditions are shown. All recent cases reported in Edmonton have been of a mild type.

IT'S A LONG FLIGHT YET TO NEW ZEALAND

Detroit, Sept. 22.—Capt. F. Grills, Australian aviator, took off from Wyandotte, Mich., near here, at 6.43 p.m. today, bound for Lansing, Illinois, the first step on his proposed flight from Detroit to Wellington, New Zealand. He will remain in Chicago for a day, to have his plane thoroughly inspected before starting his westward flight.

NEW PROGRAMME ON FOR TONIGHT

Kiwanians Working Hard To Provide Amusement For Public

Tonight's to be another big night for the Kiwanis Karnival—that's a fact and not fancy. First of all there is to be an entire change of programme, new vaudeville acts including "Tony and his Kids and Monte', the original Bay Carnes. The Style Show tonight is by Sinclair and each year at the Karnival the display from this store has always been a feature of the Karnival. At 7.45 sharp the Victor Orthophonic will render a selection that created widespread comment, it is the Hallelujah chorus by the Mormon choir. Be in your seats before that time.

Two valuable Door prizes will be given tonight one to the ladies and one for the gents. These are a "Permanent Wave" and an Alemite Lubricating Job. Then to top off the evening one would think that the Dempsey-Tunney fight had been timed to suit the Karnival committee for immediately after the programme on the stage—the big fight will be broadcasted. This is being arranged on a large scale by William Doyle and Carl Reid and its success is assured. All told it looks like a big night for the Karnival.

THE WEATHER

Light to moderate westerly winds, fine today and Friday, stationary or little higher temperature.

HEROIC SISTER RUSHED TO HELP BOYS AND PERISHED WITH THEM

DEMPSEY 192½

Ex-Champion Weighs Four Pounds Less Than Expected

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Jack Dempsey tipped the beam at 191½ pounds this afternoon when he weighed in officially before the Stadium Athletic Commission for tonight's ten round battle with Gene Tunney. This was nearly four pounds less than experts figured the ex-champion would scale and was accepted as an indication of excellent condition.

DRIVING SANITY TO BE ENFORCED

Campaign Of Education To Accompany Firmer Pressure Of The Law

At a meeting in the office of Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways, yesterday afternoon a campaign of education, instruction and strict enforcement of the Highways Traffic Act was launched. The meeting was attended by Mr. Henry, who acted as chairman; W. G. Robertson, Secretary of the Ontario Motor League; J. P. H. Wyse, Secretary of the Ontario Safety League; S. J. Dickson, Chief of Police, Toronto; T. Marshall, Secretary of the Ontario Boards of Trade; J. P. Bickell, Secretary of Motor Vehicles and Mr. M. Smith, Acting Deputy Minister of Highways.

"We discussed this question of maintaining safety on the highways from every angle," said Hon. Mr. Henry. "And we are meeting again next Monday to make definite arrangements. Each of the gentlemen present pledged the organization he represented to assist and co-operate in every manner possible. It is just possible that we may set aside a certain week-end period for the intensive campaign in the direction of greater safety. We are already assured of co-operation which is a big step in the direction we want to go."

Midnight Blaze Swept Isolated Mission And 20 Die In Flames

GIRLS ALL SAVED

Cause Of Fire Unknown—Nineteen Charred Bodies Await Recognition

Saskatoon, Sask., Sept. 22.—Charred bodies of nineteen boys, ranging in age from seven to twenty years and the remains of a heroic sister, rested today in an improvised morgue while investigators sped to Beaural, Sask., the scene of the most tragic fire disaster in the history of this province.

Details of the midnight fire which destroyed the Roman Catholic Mission at the isolated village Monday are drib bling in by courier and according to reports received, fire enveloped the structure so rapidly that the adult members of the Mission were powerless to aid the boys trapped in one of the dormitories. Forty-six children were led to safety by Sister Lea, who lost her life in a valiant effort to reach the other helpless boys.

The Sister Superior of the Mission was the first to give the alarm. Awakened by the roar of flames and crash of falling timbers, she rushed to the alarm bell, then went to the boys' dormitory by way of the outer stair. She called the name of each room occupants to escape by the way she had come, but they crowded to the main stair case and were faced with a rush of flames which poured from the floor below.

Caught between two sheets of flames the boys became frantic. Screaming with fear therefore they sought a way to safety but most of them collapsed under the dense smoke and flames enveloped them. It was in this corridor and at the foot of the main staircase that all each of the pensioners were recovered.

Try to Identify Bodies

Laid side by side in an improvised morgue the bodies of the nineteen boys were in many instances burned beyond recognition. Their anxious parents were witnessed as mothers and fathers accompanied by constables and detectives huddled over tiny forms examining charred bits of clothing in the hope of identifying their own. Through all the brief, emergres a note of glowing praise of the heroic efforts of Sister Lea, teacher at the Mission, who sacrificed her life in an heroic attempt to rescue the lives of the trapped boys. She vanished through a cloud of smoke and did not emerge. Found unconscious at the doors.

The cause of the outbreak is still unknown. The furnace which had been idle since last winter had been carefully inspected and was found to be in good order before being put into use. Five, however, escaped and they are attended the Mission House was a roaring furnace and within an hour only a smould ering pile of ashes remained to be the human toll. The property loss is heavy.

DUCHESS OF YORK BROADCASTS SPEECH

London, Sept. 22.—The Duchess of York broadcast for the first time yesterday, when her speech, which was delivered at the unveiling of the cenotaph of the freedom of Glasgow, was put on the air. The Duke and Duchess were recorded at a considerable reception, marched, however, by abstention of the Labor group of Glasgow Councillors and their wives from both granting the freedom and the civic lunch which fol lowed.

TWO KILLED IN CRASH

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Pilot and a woman passenger were killed and two other women passengers seriously injured in a crash of a commercial aeroplane near Bleckenburg today.

KILLED BY TRAIN

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 22.—An unidentified motorist was instantly killed when his automobile crashed into a Canadian National freight train here early today.

FUGITIVES STILL ELUDING POLICE

London, Ont., Sept. 22.—Police are compelled to admit that they have put in another day of fruitless search in the hunt for Edward Harrison, alleged murderer, and Frank Marrom, said to be a dangerous criminal from Virginia who, with three others, broke jail and escaped, escaped from Middlesex County Jail on Sunday night. Reports continue to come in from all parts of Western Ontario that the fugitives have been seen in many places, but nothing tangible has resulted from the alleged clues.

When a Strathroy police officer recognized a man who had taken into custody a man who was said to resemble Harrison and who had escaped from a restaurant, running away when questioned, an officer was rushed from London to identify the prisoner, but he soon found that the stranger was not the much-wanted Middlesex murderer. This upset was, however, brought to London and placed in jail on a charge of vagrancy.

WATERMELONS EXPENSIVE WHEN FINES ARE ADDED

Eighteen sheepish-looking young men were notified by Mr. Morrow that boys had been raiding his melon patch, when Constable Weekes investigated, resulting in the arrest of the eighteen culprits.

The gang took as many melons as they could carry, besides destroying many others by trampling on them.

The boys come from the best families in Stirling, and one of them, Ralph Barrett, is a minister's son. The gang included, Ellis Heard, C. Acre, D. Thompson, J. Grant, G. Potter, A. Munroe, L. Anderson, Wallace Lawrence, J. Hulin, H. Green, J. Loomis, James Moore, Carl Cooke, Ralph Barrett, Donald Morton, A. Cain, Jack Barlety and Harry Cooke.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

The web of our life is of mingled yarn, good and ill together.
SHAKESPEARE.

THE ANGLICAN SYNOD

That the Anglican General Synod should this year have been convened at Kingston, Ont., where the first Anglican Church in Upper Canada was established, is in accord with the fitness of things, for then the assembled delegates could look back upon the development of church work in Canada and take a comprehensive survey of the achievements already wrought and also the changed conditions which today confront all religious bodies in their special vocation of ministering to the spiritual needs of the community at large. It is gratifying to note that the second held during the past week were marked by a large attendance, and the business throughout was conducted with a dignified earnestness that bespoke the vigor and high purpose of a growing organization; and the addresses delivered by the various speakers, followed by open discussion, were such as comport with the best traditions of the Anglican body. It is especially noticeable that the subjects brought to the attention of the synod had slight connection with matters of doctrinal controversy, but turned for the most part upon the practical aspects of church work, the marshalling of its forces alike of financial means and man power in behalf of a general forward movement, giving the creed "hands and feet," and foremost, seeking the application of Christian principles to the urgent problems that confront civilization. If the tone of debate makes it abundantly clear that the Church is awake to its opportunities and responsibilities; and that in this land of magnificent distances and growing population there is plenty of scope for the utmost efforts of church workers, both clerical and lay, a broad field of inestimable promise, itself the virtual summons to the Church to lengthen its cords and strengthen its stakes.

P. E. POLITICS

The political pot is commencing to boil in Prince Edward County. The Garden County takes its politics seriously anyway and ever since Nancy defeated Prince Edward as the choice spot in Ontario and won the seat on a dry platform by the noble majority of thirteen, the Conservatives have been in a fighting mood.

This feeling has been much aggravated by the guillotining of Conservative civil servants during the past month. The Liberal Government at Ottawa has superseded postmasters at Picton, Consecon, Bedenfield and other places for no apparent reason except that they were Conservatives. A few innocent lighthouse-keepers have also suffered the loss of their livelihood.

Now that Raney has resigned his seat to enter the Judiciary, Conservative stalwarts are out to get revenge. Hon. H. S. Gulfrey they have a standard bearer who can easily redeem the riding from any man that the Liberal-Progressive - Prohibition - Independent crowd can dig up to run.

There seems a good possibility of Drury trying his luck in Prince Edward this time. The scheme seems to be to unite the Progressives and Liberals of Ontario under a Drury leadership, and to do this it is necessary to eliminate Raney and Sinclair. Raney has been given a choice political plum but it remains to be seen what Sinclair will get. Probably he simply will be dropped as he never added much strength to his party. With these two men out of the way the Liberal leaders figure the Progressives will fall in behind the band-wagon, providing Drury is the man selected to whistle them on. Drury was never anything else than a free-trade Liberal, even though he has been in and out of the Official Party on several occasions.

This seems to be the Liberal plan, but it is due for its first bump if Drury is sent down to run in Prince Edward County. We do not believe there is a Liberal anywhere who can carry that County at this time, certainly not the ex-leader of the Progressives.

There is also the suggestion that Nelson Parliament be the Liberal standard-bearer, but Nelson is very well fixed as a paid Liberal Organizer and scarcely will give up an easy sure thing to carry the Grits forlorn hope at a By-election.

THE EDITOR SAYS

If the Kiwanians, individually, chased dollars for themselves as energetically as they do for charity, Belleville would have about forty new millionaires.

It is a pity pedestrians would not watch our low stop-light at the corner of Bridge and Front. By obeying it they would avoid a serious danger of accident and save a lot of wear and tear on drivers' nerves.

We wish incidentally that the police would make a ruling as to whether motorists are permitted to make a right hand turn when the light is against them at the main corner. Some do and some don't.

A New York lawyer suggests that Uncle Sam send a battleship to bring Levine back home to avoid international complications. Would not a keeper with a strait-jacket be cheaper and more appropriate?

Picton has had to sit up late of nights recently to get time to discuss all the choice scandals which have disturbed the ancient serenity of the country town. And with a hot by-election in the offing the old days of quietness and peace are yet far off.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

"Yes," said the eminent specialist to the poor man who had called upon him. "I will examine you carefully for 10 shillings."

"All right, doctor," said the man resignedly. "If you find it I'll give you half."

Beautiful said the Sunday School superintendent, deeply moved. "And does every little girl and boy here want to be an angel?"

On which one little girl said to all: "I don't. I'd rather be a monkey and swing by my tail."

HEAVENWARD

Would you be young again?
So would not I—
One tear to memory given,
Farewell I'd fly.
Life's dark flood forded o'er,
All but at rest on shore,
Say, would you plunge once more,
With home so nigh?

If you might, would you now
Retrace your way?
Wander through thorny wilds
Faint and astray?
Sadly retrace the roads fled,
Morning all beaming red,
Hope's smiles around us shed,
Heavenward—away.

Where are they gone, of yore
My best delight?
Dear and more dear, though now
Hidden from sight.
Where they rejoice to be,
There is the land for me;
Fly time—fly speedily,
Come life and light.

THE PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 20 years ago)

Mr. R. T. Mussen has eight Russian sable skins, which were sent as a present to his sister from a friend in Russia. This is one of the rarest furs known, and very few skins ever find their way out of Russia, where they are extensively used by the nobility.

Edward George Ponton, second son of the late Lieutenant Colonel Archibald Ponton passed away yesterday evening at his mother's residence on Charlotte street after a long illness.

Mr. Behan, the newly appointed assistant Inspector of Weights and Measures for Belleville district and Gas Inspector for Kingston, arrived in the city yesterday.

Rev. Newton Hill and Mrs. Hill entertained the young people of the Tabernacle at their residence last evening. The young folks spent a very enjoyable evening.

Tom Nash gave W. Carnew five minutes start on the bicycle run to Shannonville on Monday afternoon and won by scarcely a hundred yards.

A most successful operation for appendicitis was performed upon George Morrow, aged 16, on Thursday, Sept. 16th by Drs. Faulkner and Mettlejohn. The last report of the case is that he is progressing favorably. This is the first case of the kind that has ever been performed in this vicinity and great credit is due to the doctors.

The five thousand dollars, which the late Mr. L. W. Yeomans provided in his will for a library for Bridge St. Church reading room and Sunday School, has been handed over to the trustees of the Church.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

It may be only a coincidence, but it is worth remarking, that the man who is strongly against the bestowal of imperial titles upon Canadian is usually one who tries to make Canada a replica of the United States—to standardize all Canadian institutions and customs on American models.—Hamilton Herald.

English has since the war, become without any fuss or trumpeting, the world language, its adoption by Russia as their second language, having finally settled the matter. Whatever political and economic fluctuations may do for the best thing that England has produced is now certain to go on increasing in power and influence. But it becomes a duty for us to do what we can to make the English which will in the future be spoken in different parts of the world as favorable as possible to English poetry.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.
Dear Sir,—
I am asking through the columns of your paper if I have any right in Belleville?
According to the practice in other cities where I have lived, when tenders were called for supplies for public institutions, I could tender.
I don't see why I should not get a chance as a stranger coming here; a right to tender for public institutions in this city.

E. J. HIEATT.

WANTED AT PICTON

Constable Welchard of the Ontario Provincial Police Force yesterday went up to Toronto to bring a wanted man to Picton for trial. S. Hanson, who is alleged to have committed fraud in Consecon was the prisoner the constable brought down.

BACK AGAIN

Mr. F. W. Reed, District Manager of the Manufacturers' Life Insurance Company, has arrived back in the city to resume his duties at the local office. Mr. Reed has been absent for some weeks owing to the illness of his wife who is very much improved at the present time, although still confined to Kingston General Hospital. They will reside in Belleville as soon as Mrs. Reed's condition warrants her removal from the Hospital.

MASSASSAGA NOT SOLD.

Massasaga Park has not yet been sold and the owner Mr. Shelley Anderson, now of Toronto, says the property is still on the market. Some weeks ago Mr. E. J. Butler, acting for Mr. Anderson, told The Intelligencer, that negotiations for the sale of this valuable land were practically complete and that a United States syndicate were going to make an up-to-date summer resort out of it. Pacific rumors arose and the sale never went through.

ALTERATIONS ON WAY

Alterations started on the store until recently occupied by Earl Bruce, Ltd., this morning, which the Montreal Bank officials have leased in order to enlarge and lend their property to suit the needs of the ever-increasing business. This store was over-run over some years ago but operations have been held up. The work of tearing the partitions down has been started and it is believed that within a few weeks the new addition will be sufficiently ready to accommodate the Bank staff.

NOT THIS MR. FAIRMAN

Thirty years ago last Tuesday a man by the name of Fred Fairman laughed himself to some few articles which did not belong to him and in due course appeared in police court to answer for his sins. The little item of news was reprinted in The Intelligencer of last Tuesday under the heading of "The Passing Years" and unfortunately caused some little embarrassment to Mr. Fred C. Fairman, of 97 Cedar Street. Of course this is a different man—a different family altogether. The Fairman of thirty years ago left our realties in this city, so far as The Intelligencer knows.

MOHAWK FAIR

The Mohawk Fair was acclaimed "the best ever" by those who attended yesterday. The livestock and poultry exhibits were far ahead of those of other years and the speeding events were all well contested. Mr. G. H. Kingsley of Belleville acted as starter and program was completed in good time. The Argyle Light Infantry band supplied the music for the afternoon.

VETERANS AT RINGSIDE

Through the courtesy of Atwater Kent Radio which is installed by the John Lewis Co. of this city, the members of the Canadian Legion, their wives and friends will be able to listen in on the big broadcast of the fight in Chicago tonight. The best set that this firm makes will be set up at the Memorial Hall and every blow of the Tunney-Dempsey fight will be heard. The Legion is deeply indebted to Mr. Doyle for his part in securing the set. All veterans, their wives and families are invited.

FRACTURED ARM

Nelson Jones of Yeomans Street, caretaker of the Sinclair Company's store, fell from the roof of his home yesterday and fractured his right arm three inches below the shoulder while engaged in tarring the roof of his house. He was taken to the General Hospital where an X-ray examination revealed the fracture. Mr. Jones is still confined to the hospital.

FRACTURED WRIST

Mrs. James Rose of Brighton sustained a fractured wrist while mounting the stairs leading to the factory of The Consolidated Rubber Co. The lady was taken to Dr. Robertson's office where the injury was attended. She was able to be taken home this morning.

INJURED AT WORK

Clayton Darragh, an employee of the Aluminite Company residing at 201 Bleecker Avenue, tore the ligament of his left leg when he fell from a ladder while at work this morning. He was taken to Dr. Robertson's office and later to the hospital.

CHILDREN'S DAY AT KIWANIS KARNIVAL

Tomorrow Afternoon a Special Matinee for the children of the city schools will be furnished by the Kiwanis Karnival after then classes are dismissed for the day at four o'clock. This is an annual event, and a small admission price will be charged. The show will be practically the same as that given for the grown-ups in the evening. The parade will be arranging to take care of a host of kiddies at this special matinee.

AGED SINNER GOES DOWN

Inspector Lougheed of the Provincial Police is in Toronto on a business trip.

BRADSHAW—MAUNDER

An attractive wedding was solemnized at the home of the Rev. Fredrick and Mrs. Maunder, 119 Pinnette Street, Hiawatha, when their eldest daughter, Beatrice Sophia, was united in marriage to the Rev. Harold Clayton Bradshaw, Fernwood, B.C., eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. Wesley Bradshaw, Curbyville, Canada.

The officiating clergyman was the father of the bride assisted by the Rev. W. E. Broadley, Frankford, N.Y. The bridal arch was decorated with asparagus fern and gladiolas, Presiding the ceremony, "O Perfect Love" was sung by the bride's sister-in-law, Mrs. Sydney Maunder. Lohengrin's wedding march was played by Miss Walter Long, close friend of the bride.

The bride looked charming in a gown of white crepe satin with white kid shoes and wore a wreath of orange blossoms which held her bridal veil, and carried a shower bouquet of white roses and baby's breath. The maid of honor, Miss Elizabeth, sister of the bride, was dressed in powder blue crepe-de-chine and wore silver slippers and carried a bouquet of Columbia-roses. Little Miss Stella Maunder, niece of the groom, made a charming flower girl and wore pale pink crepe-de-chine and carried a basket of pink gladiolas. The Rev. J. W. Redmond of Pennellville, acted as best man.

After the ceremony a dainty luncheon was served to about forty guests. The bride's cake was daintily decorated in pink and white. The waitresses were Misses Neville and Beatrice Syracuse University. The happy couple left on an extended trip through New York State and Canada.

Mr. Bradshaw, of Syracuse University, is pastor of the Methodist Church in Fernwood, B.C. Mrs. Bradshaw graduated from Syracuse University last June. During the summer she has conducted Daily Vacation Church Schools in Danby and Jacksonville. The esteem in which the young couple are held was testified by many beautiful and handsome gifts. Their many friends wish them every success in their good work.

SILVER WEDDING

A Silver Wedding anniversary was celebrated in Point Anne on Friday 16th of September when John Mosier and his wife commemorated 26 years of happy union. Over 150 guests were present from Trenton, Belleville, 2nd Concession of Thurlow, Napanee, Toronto and many other points.

For twenty years Mr. and Mrs. John Mosier have lived in Point Anne, and the beautiful silver wedding gifts bear testimony to the esteem in which the couple were held. Cards and dancing were the order of the evening, to be followed by refreshments. Mr. Mosier is a carpenter at the Canada Cement Works, Point Anne.

PREMIER LEAVING ON HOLIDAY

Quebec, Sept. 22.—Premier Taschereau will tomorrow leave for a vacation of about ten days. He will go to Lake Edward Fish and Game Club and will be accompanied by Mr. Chas. Lanctot, K.C., Assistant Attorney-General, Hon. P. J. Paradis, and Dr. J. D. Rousseau.

GERMAN TRADE BALANCE BETTER

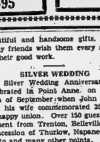

Berlin, Sept. 22.—Germany's August trade balance shows a marked improvement over that for July. Imports exceed exports by 392,000,000 marks, as against an unfavorable balance of 430,000,000 in the preceding month.

FLOOD WATERS SUBSIDING

Mexico City, Sept. 22.—Flood waters throughout the inundated areas of the Lerma Valley, Guanajuato state, are subsiding and railway and telegraphic communications are being rapidly repaired.

REGISTRAR DROPPED DEAD

Senator, who declares Canada's status is unchanged by the new membership of a seat on the council of the League of Nations at Geneva. He denies that the League has taken action recognizes Canada as a foreign state.

TODAYS MARKETS

Prices All Sag

New York, Sept. 22.—Despite strenuous efforts to stem the selling wave by marking up selected shares two to four points, prices gave way on the stock market today. The discouraging feature character of recent buying, coupled with disappointing nature of some of current trade reports afforded a bearish pretext for extensive selling in which prices of many stocks melted away at steadily. Substantial signs of liquidation were evident in spots.

New high prices for year were made by Pathe Exchange, Briggs Manufacturing, National Bellas, Hess and Foundation Company shares. Persistent selling of United States steel, which dropped more than 1-2 a share during part of week had considerable weight in discouraging buying of other shares.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New York, Sept. 22.—Foreign exchanges steady, demand rates in cents Great Britain 4.86. Canadian dollars 9-64 of one per cent premium.

Wheat and Corn Down

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Weak early line front reported as rule today in the corn belt and weather generally favorable to corn prices took an early fresh downturn. Wheat went lower on account of rains in Australia and fine weather in Canada. Opening unchanged to 1-2c lower, subsequent later suffered decided set back all around. Wheat started at 3-4c decline to 1-8 cadvance and subsequently underwent material early flurries easier. Provisions likewise lended downward.

DRIVING SANITY

Campaign of Common Sense

It is understood that, efforts will be put promised on the campaign to prevent accidents are preventable by the exercise of care, courtesy and common sense. The campaign is not to be directed against motorists alone but also to pedestrians. It is understood that it was pointed out that a large proportion of accidents in Toronto recently were caused by pedestrians carelessness.

The proposal in the mind of the Minister of Highways is to plan the co-operation of the press, municipal police throughout the Province, local Boards of Trade, public service bodies, garage owners and employees in connected effort to brand the exercise of care, courtesy and common sense upon the consciousness of the public, whether motor drivers or pedestrians. In other words Ontario is to be impressed with the fact that many accidents can be prevented. Co-incident with this drive will be the strictest possible enforcement of the Highways Traffic Act.

312 Licenses Cancelled

Figures are now coming into the Department showing the extra amount of traffic on the Ontario highways during August. At some periods the number of tourist cars in the Province equalled the number of cars registered in Ontario. Considering this increased traffic it was stated that the record in Ontario compares very favorably with that of any other Province or State. No fewer than 312 drivers' licenses were cancelled during the same month for varying periods.

Subjects discussed at yesterday's meeting were those of headlights, great caution at intersections, dangers of passing on curves or at the tops of hills, it was suggested that pedestrians be urged to walk against the traffic when using country highways.

Department officials stated emphatically that as a result of the province-wide campaign by Hon. Mr. Henry, Ontario is in for the greatest drive in motor history and safer highway travel that the Province has ever seen.

HIDING THE TRUTH TO AVENGE A WRONG

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Revenge! How we long for it some times when we have been deeply hurt but what a dreadful boomerang it proves when we once loose it on its way.

"Hazel Eyes" had her revenge. But now revenge has her!

DEAR ELSIE:

Please advise me, as I have no one in whom I feel that I can confide, for my girl friends believe in me thoroughly and to break their confidence would nearly kill me.

My conscience hurts me so much that I cannot sleep at night. Is my reputation worth more than a clean conscience? My pride tells me to do one thing and by Christian spirit another. I have deceived a boy friend, and have done a great wrong to a girl in my efforts to get revenge on him. I have broken his friendship with that girl, with whom I can now see that he was deeply in love.

If I confess the truth, to whom must I confess? Should I go to the girl and ask forgiveness, or to the boy? Since I no longer care for him, I don't feel that I could have the courage to let him know the truth. For revenge I lied about the other girl and then went with the boy myself, for I had known him a long time and he be lieved me.

Now my conscience hurts me day and night. What shall I do?

HAZEL EYES.

Go to both the boy and girl and tell them the truth, little girl. That is the only way.

Do not deceive yourself with the thought that this bad deed will lie hid den if you do not tell it and that you will retain your popularity with your friends. Bad deeds do not lie hidden. They are like the germs of dread ful sickness. They spread their in visible poison even while we feel that we are quite safe. And sooner or later our secret wickedness is revealed.

You can't conceal a wrong by continuing that wrong, dear. But you can heal a wrong by doing a right. If you go to this boy and girl bravely and tell them the truth and say that you are sorry, they may be angry for a little while, but in the end they will respect you and you will respect yourself. And you will feel proud and free and clean again because you have done a noble thing.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Darn the worn carpet with a rug wool, being careful to match the color perfectly. It will greatly reduce the shabby appearance and it will wear much longer if mended before very far gone.

Dry enamelware and granitewar with a towel. If allowed to dry over a hot fire the outside is apt to scale from the expansion caused by the heat.

Pure candy is not injurious to children when given in moderation and directly following a meal. The harm comes when the child eats the candy and loses his appetite for the meal. Form the habit of giving him a piece or two after his lunch or dinner and he will not crave it later on.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a young girl and am engaged to be married.

I would be very happy were it not for my future mother-in-law.

Although she is an ideal mother -in-law to her other son's wife, I do not feel she can ever be that to me.

I do not believe she is satisfied with me. She is very fond of her other daughter-in-law, who is very fond of her One reason I believe they are so happy with each other is because their ideas are so much alike while mine seem to be just the opposite.

My fiance thinks the world of his mother and expects me to do the same, which I can afraid I never can.

Please do not think me foolish and say that I am imagining her feelings toward me, for I feel quite sure of them. Another thing that makes me feel that she is not satisfied with me is that she is always telling her son about some other girls and saying what nice daughters-in-law they will make some day—but I do love her son and cannot give him up just because of his mother What shall I do?

FUTURE DAUGHTER-IN-LAW.

FUTURE DAUGHTER-IN-LAW, must caution you very strongly on the advisability of changing your attitude before you spoil your chances for happiness If the conditions are really as you say, and I am afraid you are imagining a state that does not altogether exist, you must make every possible effort to be so charming and sweet as to win your mother-in-law over completely. It is very possible that your mother-in-law feels your attitude and is therefore somewhat antagonistic and displeased with her son's choice It is up to you alone to prove your ability to make her son happy and one of the first ways you can do this is by trying your very best to make her a good daughter-in-law. Make a sincere effort, my dear, and I am sure you will find her more than ready to accept you cordially.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Transparent velvet in tones of blue beige and brown was a medium chosen at the opening of the Belmont Park autumn racing season. Velvet appeared also in combination with crepe in trimming details, and frequently in hats to complete the velvet costume.

Miss Viola Tree, the actress, has one of the most novel bungalows in England. Her seaside home near Bognor has been built from the saloon formerly used by the King and Queen, and sleeping cars of the royal train have been turned into honeymoon in these cars when she married Viscount Lascelles in 1922. The saloon car is now Miss Tree's dining room. It is decorated with inlaid wood, while the sleeping coaches are of satin wood with bright blue blinds. There are three carriages in all, painted white, and has three sides of a square, forming a court. Here Miss Tree has planted a flower garden which she tends herself.

CURSE OF LOVE
...by Mildred Barbour

One man said to Cynthia, who was still holding the baby. "There's an ingenious chap aboard—he's been in another coach with some Frenchmen —who's rigged up an aerial on the baggage-car and has managed to report the attack to Tien-Tsin. We may get relief soon."

"I'm glad there's one man on board with a head," thought Cynthia. "Is he French?" she asked.

"No, an American, I believe."

Cynthia smiled thankfully.

After a time, the train began to move slowly backward. This occasioned a chorus of questions and a fresh panic. Cynthia was becoming weary of the Chinese war. She was likewise hungry. She mentioned the fact to her neighbor.

He shook his head.

"Not much hope of dining. I understand we were to have picked up a fresh supply of food at Tien-Tsin, but there's no chance now."

Cynthia was silent at this discouraging news. After a time, there was a fresh burst of shrapnel, and the train stopped again. Most of the men left the car to investigate this new demonstration. When Cynthia's informant came back, he said, shaking his head:

"That fool who rigged up the wireless has gone ahead with a little party of Frenchmen and a flag of truce to find out what Li-Ching-Ling intentions are. He must be mad."

"I think it's very brave of him!" declared Cynthia indignantly. "Nobody else seems to want to do anything. If I were a man, I'd be ashamed—"

She stopped suddenly, for she saw a dull red flush creep over the man's face.

"We can't all be spectacular!" he said shortly, and left her.

Reports came later that the Americans and his small party had been stopped by machine-gun fire and fore a return to the stalled train.

The night came on quickly, and violent dust storms whirled across the plains and eddied mournfully around the coaches. The dust drove in through the shattered windows, and the passengers began to sneeze and shiver. The coaches became increasing ly cold as the darkness descended.

There was no dinner, and a fresh panic ensued when it was discovered that the water supply was alarmingly low. Shrapnel had struck the tank and the precious fluid was slowly seeping into the thirsty sands.

Per the first time, Cynthia heartily repented her rash decision in attempting the trip to Shanghai alone. She wished herself back in her luxurious suite at the Pekin Hotel, with Norma. She wondered whether Basil Harcourt had returned from his pilgrimage to the temple.

But here she was, marooned on a cold, sandy Chinese plain, with fighting ahead of her and behind her, with out food, or water, or heat, without a place to lay her weary head, and with a strange child clinging to her hand.

Finally she took the child in her arms and walked down the corridor. The dust in the coach was stifling, and, after a moment's hesitation, she went out on the platform.

Suddenly, she came face to face with a young man whose face and clothing were smudged with grime, but he was a very personable young man, for all that. He stopped short at the sight of her. For an instant, they stared into each other's eyes, and the clouds of dust swirled about them.

CHAPTER 6

THE RESOURCEFUL YOUNG AMERICAN

The young man stared at Cynthia and at the child in her arms.

"I'd not advise you to go out, Madam," he said crisply. "There's still a lot of firing."

Cynthia looked at him haughtily, be cause she didn't resent his glance and somehow, she felt that she should.

"I'll risk the fire to be free for a moment of that wretched coach. It's all dust and cold and panicky people."

He shrugged.

"We're cutting up some railroad-ties for fuel, and we'll soon get up steam and there'll be heat in the cars. But, if you step out for a bit, keep to the right of the coach. The firing comes from the other side. Here, let me carry your child."

"It's not mine," said Cynthia, gladly handing over her heavy burden. "It's mother's in there somewhere having hysterics. I think she's forgotten all about it."

It struck her that he looked immensely relieved.

He helped her down the steps of the car and walked by her side, carrying the sleeping child.

"Cute little beggar, isn't it?" he mur mured, as he looked down at it.

Cynthia was staring up at him. He was tall and slim and broad-shoulder ed. He all at once, he wore no coat, and his sleeves rolled to his elbows, showed muscular, though grimy, forearms.

"You're not the engineer?" she ques tioned.

He threw back his head and laughed "No, I'm not the engineer. He's Chinese— and wishing at this minute that he was somewhere else. He's had a bad case of cold feet, poor fellow. You can't blame him."

"Then," declared Cynthia triumphantly, "you're the American who fixed up the aerial and afterwards went out with a flag of truce."

He stared at her curiously.

"Yes," he admitted, "but what about it?"

She flushed.

"It's — it's nice to see some one with courage to do everything—some one who won't let a handful of Chinese troops dictate to us."

He smiled wryly.

"I'm afraid we have more than a handful to cope with. But, well—we'll do the best we can to get out of this jam." He paused and looked down at her. "You don't look like the sort who'd stand for much yourself. What are you doing here anyway? It's a dangerous time to be traveling around China."

"I think you're rather impertinent," she told him, but her smile belied her words, and he laughed with her. "If you must know," she added mocking ly, "I'm on an important mission."

He answered daringly:

"I'm rather glad the mission was important enough to make you take this particular train."

She flushed and bit her lip and tried very hard to be offended. But she couldn't. His good humor was infectious. She found herself chatting with him as they strolled up and down beside the coach.

When she was ready to go inside, he said hopefully:

"I'll see you again shortly?"

INVADE CHICAGO FOR BIG FIGHT

Chicago, Sep. 22.—For a brief space of 20 minutes, or less, Gene Tunney and Jack Dempsey, fighting for the heavyweight championship in a ten-round decision match at Soldiers' Field, will hold the eyes and ears of the sporting world tonight.

For that short span of time, close to 150,000 pairs of eyes, paying upwards of $2,500,000 for that privilege, will focus upon the most expensive, most talked-of, and most spectacular drama the ring has ever known. Millions all over the world will hear or read about the details of this gigantic spectacle through the greatest concentration of radio, telegraph and cable facilities in the history of communication for any single event.

Today as the time for the battle neared an inrush of fandom from all parts of the country reached its peak and as the last minute hubbub increased, it seemed that nothing short of a great war would cause at one time as much commotion, as much hectic debate and as universal interest as this duel of padded mitts between the scholarly, scientific young champion of 29 and two-fisted, rip-tearing slugger of 30 trying to batter his way back to the top of the pugilistic ladder.

The principal actors in this biggest of boxing dramas, heavily guarded, were near the scene of the combat early. Dempsey spent the night in a Chicago hotel, while Tunney was to arrive early this morning to go into seclusion preliminary to the ceremony of weighing-in early this afternoon. Dempsey expected to scale around 196 with Tunney around 191.

The big battle was to start at approximately 9.45 p.m. Chicago daylight time, under the last minute agreement but this is subject to change. In the event of threatening weather, Tex Rickard said, it would be moved ahead of schedule. Preliminaries were to start at eight p.m.

James J. Jeffries, one of the heavyweight champions who tried to come back and failed, thinks that Dempsey will shatter tradition and regain his crown tonight, he said.

Celebrities entitled to places among the chosen 108 in the real first row and lesser lights in the vast numbers to be sprinkled around the sides of Soldier's Field bowl back in the rim, the former one of the greatest throngs of visitors today Chicago has ever entertained.

Almost one third of 150,000 or more who have tickets for the great spectacle in the stadium came by train, boat, automobile and aeroplane.

The gates to the fight were to open at five o'clock and Grant Park was to be cleared of every pedestrian and vehicle an hour earlier. Eleven viaducts lead into the park and none but the ticket holders may cross after four p.m.

EVEN MONEY BETS PRECEDE BIG FIGHT

Chicago, Sept. 22.—General concensus of opinion among the betting fraternity is that tonight's Tunney-Dempsey fight is a toss-up. The betting odds after a drift of several days toward Dempsey were largely on a basis of "even money" and "take your choice." Odds on a knockout favored Dempsey, conceded to be a harder puncher of the two, but the majority of newspaper experts have gone on record in support of Tunney.

Such strong support for the challenger, in the face of ring history that has always made champions pronounced favorites, was itself unprecedented but it was only one of record-breaking angles.

The clear weather, as is usual for Tex Rickard shows, has been predicted by the weather man.

al tonsilitis for the past three days and his icy bath did not help matters any. After paddling about for a few minutes the effects of the water and was taken directly to his hotel. Martin Sherrer, a promising young native of Albert County was declared the winner of the race with Donald Roe, another local boy, following closely behind.

Oswald There Too!

With Oswald, his clever pal, in tow "Pig Skin" arrived at the armouries shortly after eight o'clock and immediately all eyes were turned on him as he beat his path through the almost solid mass.

Following the fashion show Colonel E. D. O'Flynn introduced him and he stands complete platform specialist to the audience his failure to win the swim marathon. He attributed unsuccessful attempt to Oswald the duck whom he said had become waterlogged after having been bitten by several eels which infest Lake Ontario. As his pal was unable to continue, "Pig Skin" turned his efforts toward saving the life of his favorite chum. His ability brought down the house. He claimed to have passed one hundred and forty swimmers in the first mile and a quarter, although he was eight minutes late in getting started.

Oswald the educated duck was the prize given in a waltz at the dance later in the evening and was won by "Tommy" Montague.

"Pig Skin" visited the dance floor and rendered two solos to the delight of the dancers, afterward bidding farewell to Belleville folk with regrets that he could not remain longer.

A Noted Athlete

"Pig Skin" is of the athletic type with strong well-rounded shoulders and muscles that testify to his previous training. He is a football player of ability having played with "Red" Craig's team i nthe U.S. professional league and with "Ernie" Nevers recent star on the Stanford University. He is the A1 Schat of the ball diamond and has been offered a contract with the Toronto Leafs for next season to act as a comedian coach.

"Pig Skin" was the subject around which "Jimmy" Prise of the Toronto Star Weekly staff wound in the pre-swim dope and his slow even strokes while in the water stamp us an acquatic genius. He attended the Rotary Carnival in North Bay on Tuesday night and has visited Oshawa and Barrie in similar roles. At the present time there are dozens of cities and towns angling for his services through out the Province of Ontario.

Tonight's Fight

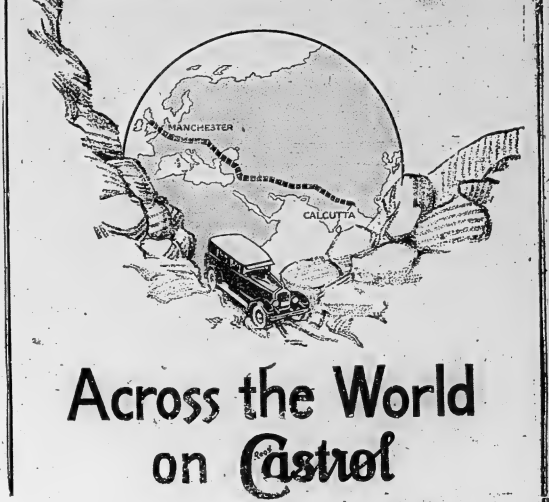

The officials in charge of the Kinsmin Karnival have arranged to receive the fight returns by radio tonight at the armouries and a set was installed today for this purpose. The largest radio hook-up ever attempted will be in service tonight and followers of the ring will have the opportunity of hearing a report of the progress of the titular battle blow by blow. The radio was set up on the platform at the armouries this morning.

"Doc" Cook and Company, vaudeville experts, entertained the crowd again last evening with a fine program consisting chiefly of sleight of hand tricks.

Miss Jean Henworth "Spirit of the Victrola", the charming little toe-dancer, introduced a new novelty dance last evening when she stepped from a huge paper covered shoe-box supplied by Woodley and Murdoff. Her other dances were a source of admiration to the crowd.

The "Boy Caruso", one of the best young male soloists on the stage will be the chief attraction tonight and he will be assisted by several other artists of equally reputable note.

The door prize won by Miss Elsie Cole last evening and she proudly carried away the large floor lamp.

Across the World on Castrol

A FEW MONTHS AGO the Calcutta representative of the Wiiiys Overland Company, stepped into a new Overland car at the English works of that company at Manchester and without further ceremony drove off, his destination being Calcutta, India—halfway round the world!

The crankcase of the car was filled with a standard grade of Wakefield CASTROL Motor Oil, the very same oil now available for you in Canada.

Not for one moment of his exciting and perilous trip did his CASTROL fail him. Across the old Roman highways of Europe; through sinister Balkan passes; over endless deserts; through steaming jungles and over rickety boulder strewn roads across the world!

No matter how severe the heat or stress Wakefield CASTROL is invincible. Millions use it. There is a grade for every car. Ask any good mechanic. He will recommend it, just as has ROLLS-ROYCE and over 200 other famous manufacturers. If your garage does not stock it, advise

PRESBYTERY MEETS

Campbellford, Sept. 22.—The Peterborough Presbytery of the Presbyterian Church in Canada met yesterday at St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church here. The Rev. James Grier, Campbellford opened the morning session with devotional exercises. The Rev. D. A. Toonman, Hastings, as clerk of the Presbytery, assisted Mr. Grier.

CYCLISTS FINED

Peterboro, Sept. 22.—Much to the amazement of three local bicyclists, they found themselves brought before Magistrate D. A. Langley in Police Court this morning, charged with failing to stop before entering or crossing a through street. They all pleaded guilty and were fined $5 without costs.

SECOND PAYMENT

Oshawa, Sept. 22.—City Treasurer Blackburn is busy this week preparing for first of October on which date Osh awa's second tax instalment for the current year falls due. It is predicted that something over $250,000 will be due for payment on that day and that most of it will come into the tax collector's hands before the day ends.

FIRST FROST

Oshawa, Sept. 22. —Autumn's first undeniable frost was general in Oshawa and throughout the district Tuesday night. A cold rain accompanied by a nipping wind gave place to cloudless skies of a very cool night. The evening rain gave travellers in the Kingston Highway to see one of nature's most superb marvels at sunset which was a double perfect rainbow arching over the blue waters of Lake Ontario.

Visited Penitentiary

Kingston, Sept. 22.— A number of delegates attending the General Synod of the Anglican Church, took occasion on Monday and Tuesday to visit the Portsmouth Penitentiary, being shown through the various departments. They expressed themselves as pleased with the improvements made and the cleanliness which was seen on all sides.

News Of Movies

BELLE THEATRE

Lloyd Bacon is successful as a director because of his peculiarly sensitive understanding of the "in and workin's" of the minds of the players. He has a gift of bringing out the best in people responding to Jason Robards' method with Louise Dresser in Warner Bros. "White Flannels," now at the Belle Theatre.

"Bacon is one director who doesn't rub people the wrong way," the actor added. "And that means a lot to people sensitive as actors have to be. Bacon creates enthusiasm where others kill it. He's not one of the kind that damns with faint praise. And another director would damn without even the courtesy of faint praise. Bacon manages to get over his criticism and correction without, even letting the actor feel that there has been any cause for criticism.

REGENT THEATRE

Earle Foxe, popular comedian, has the leading masculine role in "Upstream," a John Ford production for Fox Films.' Nancy Nash plays opposite Foxe i nthis drama of American theatrical life. The scene is laid in New York and London. The plot centres about a presumptuous young actor who achieves temporary greatness.

In addition to Foxe and Miss Nash, the cast includes Raymond Hitchcock, Emile Chautard, Judy King, Jane Winton, Ted McNamara, Sammy Cohen and Lydia Yeamans Titus.

The film is now at the Regent Theatre.

New Equipment Added

Kingston, Sept. 22.—New Brideck Light Baths have been installed at the Kingston General Hospital, these being the very latest in design and the same as used in all the larger hospitals throughout Canada and the United States. Considerable other equipment has been added to the X-Ray department desiring to keep abreast of hospital progress.

WEST FEELS FROST WITH LIGHT SNOW

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 19.—Some parts of Manitoba and Saskatchewan shivered this morning in temperatures that hovered around the freezing mark. Last night and early this morning there were light snow flurries in Regina and Saskatoon districts, a biting wind, freezing the melted snow on the city streets. Weather is variable in Alberta and gloomy periods being interspersed with moments of bright sunshine.

DELORO LOST TO CIRCLE SIXES

Play-Off Game Of Intermediate Semi-Finals Here Saturday

Kingston Circle Six having defeated the Deloro team 7-1 in the Limestone City yesterday the play-off game was arranged for Belleville on Saturday afternoon of this week. The Sixes were all over the champions yesterday and more than made up for their defeat last Saturday.

Joe Daley has a hustling, bustling troupe under his wing who will make things interesting for the Smelters and it would not be surprising if they were eliminated from the race altogether for this year. The Circle Six were out-hacked last Saturday but came into their own yesterday and smothered the northerners with a barrage of base hits which set Frankie Leal the veteran slabsman scampering to the dugout.

Saturday's game will get away promptly at three o'clock.

George Sullivan of Kingston and Walter Cerow, of Belleville, umpired yesterday and they were agreed upon as they officials in the deciding till here.

It's either do or die with both teams and a great battle is assured.

MASCAGNI HAS NARROW ESCAPE

Grosetto, Italy, Sept. 22.—Pietro Mascagni, operatic composer, nearly lost his life in an automobile accident yesterday when his machine plunged into a ditch ten feet deep, but because of the narrowness of the ditch remained suspended half-way from the bottom.

PIRATES GRAB LAST GAME FROM BROOKLYN, 4-2

Pittsburgh Jump 3½ Games Ahead Of Giants In Pennant Race

New York, September 22.— Pittsburgh closed out the home series with the Robins with a 4 to 2 victory yesterday and thereby regained a three and one-half game lead in the National pennant race, as the Giants and Cards, who are tied for second place, were idle.

John Miljus, former Brooklyn player who was purchased in mid-season from Seattle of the Coast League by the Pirates, yielded only five hits against nine gathered off McWeeny, of the Robins. The Corsair attack was concentrated in the fourth inning when four singles and McWeeny's wildness allowed four runs to cross the plate.

After one batter had been retired, Grantham singled and reached second safely when McWeeny made a bad throw on an attempted force out on a grounder by Harris. Gooch drove Grantham home with a single, putting Harris at second. Harris romped over the plate on a field pitch and Gooch went to third. Miljus struck out. Gooch scored as Lloyd Waner beat out a hit. The latter stole second and after Barnhart was given a pass Paul Waner scored his brother with a single.

Lloyd Waner established a new modern record when he singled in the first inning for his 40th one-base hit this season. The old mark for singles in a year was made by Johnny Tobin with the St. Louis Browns in 1921.

The Corsairs require only eight triumphs in 11 remaining games to clinch the pennant in the event the Cardinals make a clean sweep of 10 of their schedule. The crucial series between the Giants and Pirates starts today with a double-header. Should the Giants win seven of their games left and the Cards a like number the Pirates would need to win only five to nail the flag.

ST. JOHN EX-ALDERMAN DEAD

St. John, N.B., Sept. 22.—John C. Ferguson, aged 87 or 88 years, widely known in the Maritime Provinces, died today in hospital at Westerly, Rhode Island, after an illness of some duration, it became known here late today.

Mr. Ferguson, until a few years ago, had been connected with the Federal Department of Inland Revenue at the Customs House here, and was a former alderman.

RAILWAY WORKER KILLED

Quebec, Sept. 22.—John Pichette, an employee of the Canadian National Railways here, who resided at 157 First street, Limoilou, was crushed to death beneath moving freight cars while at work in the Limoilou railway yards at 10.30 this morning.

There were no actual eye-witnesses of the tragedy and no details as to how the accident occurred are available.

RUTH GETS HIS 55TH HOMER; WAS ONLY RUN MADE

Babe Just One Homer Behind His 1921 Victory

New York, Sept. 22.—The Yankees are still one game behind the American League for games won, but Babe Ruth gained another notch in his home-run drive as a result of the skirmish with the Tigers at the Yankee Stadium yesterday. The hard hitting visitors aided by some very erratic work of the champions walked away with 6 to 1 decision in the opening game of the four game series.

The game was punctuated by some of the weirdest fielding of the season. During the afternoon the two teams contributed ten errors, the Yankees leading with six. It might be added that these generous efforts by the Yankees helped to make the work of the Tigers much easier. It remained for the ever obliging Babe to make the afternoon at least a partial success for the schittering of fans who turned out. It is true that all the boys were having much trouble solving the curves of Sam Gibson and it was not until the ninth inning that Ruth finally caught one on the outside and lifted it into the bleachers in deep right.

Now we find that the Babe is just one homer behind his 1921 record year at this time in the race. Today he recorded his fifty-fifth which came in his 147 game. In 1921 he made his fifty-fifth in his 138 game and his fifty-ninth in his 149th game. So if the Babe cracks another this afternoon he will be all-square with his 1921 running schedule. While the game was an erratic one it served to keep the good-natured few amused. The sudden form reversal on the part of the Yanks at first shocked the loyal gathering, and later the same crowd derived much mirth from the strange performances of the champions. If the Yanks should happen to get a couple of days more of real it does not seem likely that their game will be helped very much.

Within the last forty years Canada has become the dominant factor in the nickel industry, and now supplies 90 per cent. of the world's requirements of that metal from the mines in the vicinity of Sudbury, Ontario.

SCHOOL FAIR PROVIDES A HAPPY TIME FOR STUDENTS AND FRIENDS

Prince Of Wales' Annual Exhibition Grows Bigger And Better

Another successful School Fair was handed down to posterity yesterday in the annual Fair held by the Prince of Wales School. The weather was perfect and bright and early in the morning judging of school work, vegetables, fruits, home cooking and art was commenced. Stopping only a short time for dinner, the livestock was judged early in the afternoon, to be followed by sports and a Baby Show. In the evening a concert was held, with a debate, songs recitations and a general good time completing a wonderful day. Hundreds of proud children took their little friends by the arm throughout the day to show them some object with a red "First" ticket pinned to it. Parents, teachers, mere onlookers and the children themselves all helped to make yesterday's school fair a complete success.

Evening Concert

The programme for the concert in the evening is as follows:

A Debate—Resolved that City Life is happier than Country Life. Affirmative, Fred Adams, Bernice Garrison. Reg. Lickford. Negative, Luella Chambers, Frank Miles, McGill Vandervoort, Adams—Sam Thrower, George Evlins. The negative won.

Duet—Grace and Annie Sligh.

Recitations—Gordon Grover, Daisy Pedder, Dorothy Lucore, Anita Short and Elizabeth Pedder.

DRAGGING-DOWN PAINS RELIEVED

Woman Suffered Nearly a Year. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Brought Her Health

Moose Jaw, Sask.—"I am going to try to tell you what Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound has done for me. I suffered very badly with dragging-down pains and inflammation, also pains in my right side over my hip and down my whole side into my leg. I had it nearly a year when I went to a doctor and he said I would have to have an operation. But my mother wrote to Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound as it saved her life years before. I took two bottles and I found I was better, so I kept on taking it and also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash. I have had two more children since then and am perfectly well. I used to have to lie down two or three times a day, and now I do all my housework without trouble. I always keep the Vegetable Compound in the house and I find a dose now and then helps me. I am willing for you to use this letter any way you see fit, and I will answer letters. If I can help any other woman I'll be only too glad to try."—Mrs. Ermine Hougerou, 414 Home Street, Moose Jaw, Saskatchewan.

Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is a dependable medicine for all women.

SULPHUR WILL CLEAR SKIN OVER NIGHT

Any breaking out of the skin, even fiery, itching eczema, can be quickly overcome by applying a little Mentho-Sulphur, declares a noted skin specialist. Because of its germ destroying properties, this sulphur preparation begins at once to soothe irritated skin and heal eruptions such as rash, pimples and ring worm.

It seldom fails to remove the torment and disfigurement, and you do not have to wait for relief from embarrassment. Improvement comes quickly shows. Sufferers from skin trouble should obtain a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur from any good druggist and use it like cold cream.

BOTH MACHINES FORCED TO QUIT

Duke Schiller Ran Out Of Gasoline In MonAma And Landed

RACE IS OFF

Stinson Broke Rocker Arm And Developed Engine Trouble

Feltz, Field, Spokane, Wash, Sept. 23.—Failure met the efforts of Eddie Stinson of Detroit, and C. A. ("Duke") Schiller of Windsor in their projected non-stop trans-continental air derby from New York to Spokane.

Stinson was forced down at Missoula, Mont., by a broken rocker arm and a stuck valve. He was persuaded from continuing in the plane by Fred Koehler, his mechanic, who said it would be dangerous. Stinson then hitched the flight in the plane of R. A. Dake, of Pittsburg, and landed early tonight at the airport.

Forced to Land

Billings, Mont., Sept. 2? — C. A. ("Duke") Schiller, of Windsor, Ont., brought his Royal Windsor aeroplane down on the Billings landing field late this afternoon, when a low gas supply prevented him from finishing his New York-Spokane non-stop flight.

Loses Consciousness

Roosevelt Field, N. Y., Sept. 23. — Steve Lacey of Lomax, Ills., returned a few minutes after his second takeoff for Spokane today and was unconscious from gasoline fumes when his plane was reached on the field.

The plane landed at 2.15 p.m. Eastern standard time. Lacey was lifted from the cockpit. After a few minutes he was revived and taken from the field by automobile.

L. A. Yancey, Lacey's co-pilot, was not affected by the gasoline fumes. He explained that they had got over New York City when motor trouble developed. They decided to return to the field. In order to land with less danger it was decided to dump the gasoline. The gasoline valves were opened and the gasoline was allowed to pour out over New York City.

It was at this time that Lacey began to lose consciousness.

Another attempt was made tonight but the machine had to return because of engine trouble.

GENE TO LECTURE ON HOW TO LIVE

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Gene Tunney will abandon the squared circle of pugilism for the lecture platform of North America's Young Manhood, former Governor James Cox, or Ohio, once presidential candidate, said here today.

"I happen to know that Gene Tunney, perhaps the finest, yet the most misunderstood man in sports, will devote his future to lecturing young men on how to live," Mr. Cox said. "I have known him for years, as the best son any father could hope for, the finest kind finest."

COMPTON WINS FINAL

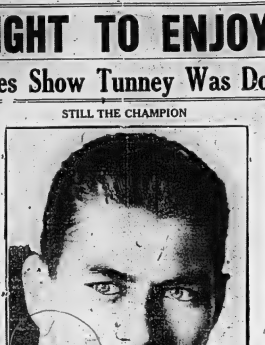

Walton Heath, Eng., Sept. 23 — Archie Compton, veteran British golfer, today defeated Jim Braid in the final of the thousand pound sterling tournament which he regained as the professional golf championship of Great Britain. Compton won by 8 to 7.

2 LONG FLIGHTS PLANNED TODAY

New York, Sept. 23.—Capt. Rene Fonck, noted French Ace, proposes to take off on a non-stop flight to San Francisco at five o'clock this afternoon, Fonck's plane, "Ville de Paris," Lieut. L. Curtin and six passengers booked as Capt. Fonck's passengers. Meanwhile, Miss Ruth Elder, and Capt. George Haldeman, her co-pilot, of "American Girl" announced their readiness to start today on their project-ed flight to Paris. Haldeman setting the time as probably between "four and six p.m."

LEVINE FAILS IN LAST ATTEMPT TO ACHIEVE SOME KIND OF RECORD

The "Columbia" Forced To Land Early In Planned Distance Flight

Vienna, Sept. 23.—Attempt of Charles Levine and Capt. Walter Hinchliffe to set a new non-stop distance record ended today when the monoplane "Columbia" landed here at 5.58 p.m. in a pouring rain. The plane landed safely.

Cranwell, England, Sept. 23.—Baffled by bad weather in his oft' expressed desire to fly back to North America, Charles Levine, stormy petrel of the air, took off with Capt. Walter Hinchcliffe today after many postponements in an endavour to best the long distance non-stop record in an easterly direction. Their goal was understood to be Delhi, capital of India, approximately 4,700 miles from Cranwell, or, with good luck, Calcutta, eight hundred miles farther.

Sighted over Germany

Cologne, Germany, Sept. 23.—An aeroplane believed to be the Columbia, carrying Charles Levine, was sighted over here at 1 p.m. It was flying in a southerly direction. Cologne is approximately 275 miles from the plane's starting point, Cranwell.

BEER CONSUMER SUES W. C. T. U.

Muskegon, Mich., Sept. 23.—Mrs. M E. Hunt, in whose ice box the police seized bottles of home brew, is seeking $75,000 damages from the Women's Christian Temperance Union, of which she is a member. Officials of the organization said she had read herself out of the union by keeping home brew, but she says she was taking it on a physician's advice.

BOY DROWNED IN OTONABEE RIVER

Peterboro, Sept. 23.—Thomas Chapman, 14, was drowned at Lakefield last night when he fell into the swift waters of the Otonabee at the Canada Cement Company's dam. The boy was playing with schoolmates on the way home from school. The body was recovered .

SIR ARTHUR SHIPLEY PASSES

Cambridge, Eng., Sept. 23.—Sir Arthur Everett Shipley, master of Christ's College, Cambridge, died today. He had been in indifferent health for some months.

Sir Arthur Shipley, born in 1861, was widely noted for his work in the field of natural sciences and was the author of many reports and articles on zoological and mechanical subjects.

GIRL DIES WHEN HOME IS BURNED

Three Rivers, Que., Sept. 23.—Ongirl, Alpire Staid, eleven last her life and Amanda Girard 31, was severely burned in a fire which partly destroyed the Staid home here today. The father of the victim, Wallie Naud, and another member of the family, eight-fourteen had a narrow escape from the burning building. Fire is suspected of having been started by an insendiary and an unknown man has been taken into custody as a material witness.

YOUNG INNOCENTS HIKED TO CITY'S BRIGHT LIGHTS

Tiring of Kingston, and wanting to see the bright lights of a larger city two young girls from Kingston, aged 14 and 16 respectively, although they look much older, set out for Toronto on Tuesday evening. According to their story they were picked up by two American tourists and put up at the Waverly Hotel in the Queen City but when the tourists tried to get to their room they got frightened and telephoned for the night police.

Toronto police, these two youthful innocents decided to "risk the highway" back to Kingston, and at Cobourg were picked up by Mathew's truck and brought into Belleville. But instead of keeping on heading for Kingston, the two travellers accompanied the driver of the truck and a friend of his on a little party, which was held at the local headquarters of the Mathews Truck Company on Front street. Constables Evans, and Izzard saw the quartette in the store at an early hour this morning and promptly went in and arrested the girls, locking them up in the police station overnight. This morning, bright and perky, the two youngsters cheerfully awaited whatever was coming to them. They were not brought up in court as they probably will be sent back to their homes in Kingston.

WELCOME HOME

Estelle Greele Her Husband—Glad He Was Not Hurt

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Jack Dempsey went back to his wife early today without the "bacon" he promised to bring home.

"It's all right," said Estelle Taylor, his actress wife, when she had taken one good look. "I thought from the radio story you had been hurt."

"It's all over, Jack said, "I guess I am through fighting."

"Whats the difference?" Estelle asked.

BIG SHOW KEEPS CROWDS COMING

All Records Surpassed For Attendance With One Night To Go

After four successful nights, the most successful of any year in the 1927 Karnival will pack up and be no more after tonight. Better than ever this year, better in every way the Karnival will be indeed one worthy that such a feature attraction is over. Tonight will see the winner of the Hope Chest announced, the winner of the guessing contest on the scale number of the Star Car, for which Mr. Fred Lee has donated a $10 gold piece and the winner in the potato contest.

Last night again the Armouries was packed with eager humanity, eager to hear the fight which was broadcast by a special wire, eager to see the show given by Sinclair's Style Show, in fact eager to see anything and everything that the Karnival could produce By 7.45 every seat in the main auditorium was filled and the standing room was quickly being monopolized.

The curtain rose on Miss Jean Hems in a Spanish toe dancer, as billed by Bellevillians, doing her now-famous "Doll Dance," to be followed by Sinclair's Style Show.

After the Style Show had drawn to a regretful conclusion, Lavoy and Hill Kidd pleased the audience with their act, replete with lovely music Particularly entrancing was Emile Monte in the "Boy Caruso," who in a medley of popular songs numbers merited round after round of applause from the appreciative audience. Solos, duets by the "Boy Caruso" and a masterful handling of the guitar by the boy's father all tended to make this act a complete success. And incidentally, the afore-mentioned "Boy Caruso" was one dandy Christian dancer.

Fight Broadcast

And at ten o'clock, the most popular number of the evening was commenced the broadcasting of the world's championship heavyweight fight between Champion Gene Tunney and Challenger Jack Dempsey, the Manhasset Express.

The results "came over" clearly, but not quite powerfully enough for everyone in the room to hear.

Dancing Floor Crowded

Last night saw the dancing floor the most popular "hang out" at the Karnival. From opening until closing the floor was filled with dancers and the ticket sellers had their hands full trying to supply the eager "steppers."

SEAMEN HONORED

Boston, Mass., Sept. 23.—The United States Government will honor the Norwegian seamen who risked their lives to save those of an American crew off the Virginia Capes last March 8 it was announced here today.

28 DAYS IN JAIL

Indianapolis, Sept. 23.—Mayor John J. Duvall of Indianapolis was found guilty last night by a jury in Criminal Court of Judge Dewey Bingaling for Corrupt Practices Act. The verdict calls for a fine of $1,000 and, a sentence of 30 days in jail.

THE LEAGUE OF NATIONS WILL STUDY ALCOHOLISM

Geneva, Sept. 23—Resolution introduced by Finland, Poland and Sweden that the problem of alcoholism be seriously studied by a special commission, to be appointed by the Council was adopted unanimously today by the assembly of the League of Nations. The question of appointment of the committee is to be taken up by the 1928 assembly. Proposal was backed by Belgium, Danish and Czecho-Slovakian delegations.

EXPERTS AGREE THAT TUNNEY GOT BENEFIT OF EXTRA 'LONG COUNT'

GOLD MEDALIST

Helen M. Mellow

of Port Perry, who won the gold medal at Whitby College in plane in 1925 and this year is winner of the silver medal for the highest standing in the dominion intermediate organ grade. In 1927 she won the gold medal for the dominion in the A.T. C.M. organ examinations.

SINCLAIR'S SHOW SMART COSTUMES

Women Delighted With Style Parade At Last Night's Karnival

When the curtain rolled up last night at 8 p.m. for the Style Show the huge crowd awaited eagerly the surprises in the shape of "creations" that were the satisfaction of the previous night's offerings, people wondered if the magical hands of the Orchardson could result still more creations to delight the eye and quicken the cravings of many feminine hearts. It did all of that. Sinclair's fit to be congratulated on the subtle aura of quality that surrounded each garments—one instinctively felt "this is good."

There is nothing like velvet to give colour sart richness to a dress. The wholesale use of the material this season tends to produce frocks that are soft and luxurious looking. It gives a promise too of cosy warmth for chill fall days when combined with jersey—and allows the velvet bat to return with great favour to add chic and charm to milady's wardrobe.

Dame fashions laws for these combinations of velvet with preferably angory wool are carried out to the letter. Some exquisite gowns of georgett, satin and jersey with velvet were shown. Velvet being the prevailing colour.

Coats featured black too. These were of broadtail, broadcloth, genuine Sa andown, camels hair, point neuf and needlecloth. Long shawl collars featured these models and most of them intruded the line so new this season. Reversed stripes of the same material and tuckings made to form de sigans were the simple trimming to many of their costumes.

Outstanding Costumes

Some of the outstanding costumes were:

A beautiful black georgette afternoon dress worn by Miss Vera Blaind, with cape effect on back, caught into belt and smart bow at the back of the collar, metallic trimming on cuffs relieved the austere dignity of the black dress. Miss Blaind also wore a geau-

Thirteen Or Fourteen Seconds Elapsed With Gene Off His Feet

CHAMPION WAITED

Counting Could Not Start Until Dempsey Went To Far Corner

Chicago, Sept. 22.—Moving pictures of the Dempsey-Tunney fight show that Tunney was down in the seventh round for fourteen seconds, officials of the Chicago film laboratory company which developed the pictures made by Goodart Company of New York announced today.

For part of that period, however, the pictures showed Dempsey standing over the champion or he his own corner before he was waved to the far cor ner by the referee. The pictures showed Tunney went down after a right to his jaw. Slow motion pictures of the contest, officials said, revealed no low blows by either contestant.

Experts at the ringside agreed the champion got the benefit of "a long count" in the seventh round but the majority also accepted the view that Gene would have gotten to his feet whenever "time" was reached. Referee Paul Beeler, knockdown timekeeper, told several newspapermen that, children seconds actually elapsed during count but that the surplus of four was due to the interval of getting Dempsey to "the farthest corner", prescribed by the rules.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

I Strove with none, for none was worth my strife.
Nature I loved, and next to Nature Art;
I warmed both hands before the fire of life,
It sinks, and I am ready to depart.
—Walter Savage Landon on his 75th Birthday.

A DRIVER'S VIEW

There is no better place than the driver's seat in an automobile from which to survey motor traffic and to contemplate the sins and errors of the other fellow. We are facing new problems on our crowded highways and strides towards their solution through trial and experiment. In the present season the people of Ontario have been shocked and horrified by the ghastly toll of killed and injured in highway accidents and they are not in a mood to tolerate an indefinite continuation of recent conditions. Something has to be done to restore a decent degree of safety on the public roads, and there is no doubt Premier Ferguson and members of his Cabinet are giving the subject very thorough consideration.

As a result of a motor trip or more than one thousand miles, most of it on Route No. 2—which runs from the Quebec border to Detroit by way of Toronto and Hamilton and carries a very heavy tourist traffic, the motorist has come to certain conclusions which seem to him inescapable:

1. There are not nearly enough traffic officers on the road.

2. Speed in itself is not a slight factor in whatever element of danger exists on the highways.

3. The driver who "cuts in" perilously is the outstanding menace of the road and he is the cause of most accidents.

4. The cautious driver almost always can keep out of trouble.

In this thousand-mile trip there were seen in motion probably ten thousand motor cars—and exactly four traffic officers were encountered. Fortunately the vast majority of drivers are careful and law-abiding citizens, but at that it would seem the regulation of this mighty volume of traffic is left far too much to the good sense of individual motorists. If all drivers were imbued with a proper sense of their responsibilities there would be no need for any officers, but as there is one class which is stupid and another which is criminally reckless it is too much to expect that this tide will move along without the occasional catastrophe when the official guardians of life and property on the highways are scores or hundreds of miles apart. It is to be noted, also, that all drivers put on their very best behavior on the appearance of any motor cycle, on the theory that it may carry an officer. If constables turned out occasionally in automobiles they would be more likely to catch the "cut-in" gentry doing their stuff.

The great majority of drivers keep well within the speed limit of 35 miles—probably nine out of ten of them. Almost without exception the speeders are in powerful, heavy cars which can travel a paved roadway at fifty miles or more an hour in reasonable safety, and most of them observed in the course of the trip chose clear, unobstructed pieces of road with light traffic for their bursts of energy. It is doubtful if general traffic would move much faster, if any, were speed restrictions removed.

Reformation or extermination of drivers who cut in ahead of cars in front of them without having positive assurance that the way is clear would remove the most serious menace to safety. Time after time one sees a car leave the line with the intention of cutting in ahead, only to be forced back by the pressure of opposite traffic. On a slippery road, or with a careless hand at the wheel, the possibilities of collision are obvious to all but these reckless gamblers with human life. A contributing factor to this element of peril is the driver who dashes along at fifteen to twenty miles an hour, perhaps holding back a mile-long line of cars. He is strictly within his legal rights, but the desire to pass him is almost irresistible, and in not all cases can it be done in perfect safety. The fifteen-mile driver on a busy road is far more of a menace to safety than his fifty-mile brother who has a clear way.

The difficulty of enforcing traffic rules is intensified by the fact that an exceedingly large proportion of the cars on the highways during the tourist season are of United States registry. Between Toronto and Hamilton on a busy Sunday by actual count there were five American cars to three bearing Canadian license numbers, and these proportions seemed to hold fairly steadily anywhere on the highway. The drastic penalty of permit suspension cannot be imposed on a foreign driver, but a few days in jail might be considered a reasonable substitute in the case of an offense which would involve suspension or cancellation of an Ontario motorist's permit.

But it is useless to make rules unless there is provision for enforcing them, and the most perfect set of traffic regulations in the world is not automatic in its action. In one way and another automobile owners pay a heavy tax for the use of the roads, and they are entitled to the reasonable degree of protection likely to follow a more adequate police system.

MISUNDERSTOOD

I wrote a little rime one day
To help mean people on life's way;
I sang in lyric inspiration
Of sacrifices for the Nation.

But, thriftless toil, I lost the verses,
And sought them with impassioned curses;
They had been stolen by a mouse
Who'd used the sheet to line his house.

And strange result of art and craft—
That mouse became supremely daft;
His feeble head my lines so fired
That he grew solemnly inspired.

And when the household slept at ease
And there was none to guard the cheese
He mounted on my Sunday hat
And preached plain duty to'ards the cat.

"How lovely is self-sacrifice!"
He squeaked to all his brother mice.
And soon my tale is nearly ended:
The cat grew shamefully distended.

The watch-dog barked his indignation
At so much squandered inspiration.

DRUG STORE

THE EDITOR SAYS

We wonder if any of the local court officials had any guilty memories of boyhood days when eighteen lads were lined up yesterday and fined about $11.50 each for "swiping" watermelons.

Hon. Robert Forke may think his answer to the Anglican synod is clever but it will scarcely enhance his popularity with adherents of that church.

By-election in Prince Edward cannot be brought on too quickly to suit H. H. Colliver or the Conservative stalwarts of that riding. And they are hoping that it will be Drury they have to beat.

Some motorists it is said, are asking that it be compulsory for pedestrians to carry number plates for identification purposes in the event they attempt to run away after being knocked down.

Kiwanis last chance to get your stray dollars in tonight and they will doubtless try hard. But it's all for charity and you can have a lot of fun losing at the Karnival! And then, of course some people do go home with an extra five bann or a new blanket acquired by the expenditure for a single dime.

With the fight over we can spare time to talk about who will be next Mayor. With His Worship Mayor Wilmot practically sprinting almost every member of the present Council thinks he has a chance. One or two of the really good looking ones are counting on a heavy woman's vote if they run.

THE PASSING YEARS
(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mrs. Sankey, of Toronto, is in the city to attend the funeral of her brother, the late E. G. Fenton.

Last night an old lady known as Doctress' Orr, died at the House of Industry, Kingston, at the age of 112 years.

The attendance at the Frankford Fair yesterday was not large, owing to the rain in the morning.

Mrs. E. G. Fenton and children, of Mount Vernon, N. Y. are in the city to attend her late husband's funeral to-morrow.

Belleville has a "Peeping Tom." Last evening he was discovered at the residence of Mr. Robert Fenwick peeping into the windows.

The ladies of Christ Church held a very successful "At Home" Tuesday evening at the residence of Mrs. Wm. Colling, Mill Street.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Intelligencer.
Dear Sir,—
I am asking through the columns of your paper if I have any right in Bellevile?
According to the practice in other cities where I have lived, when tenders were called for supplies for public institutions, I could tender.
I don't see why I should not get a chance as a stranger coming here, a right to tender for public institutions in this city.

TAKES BACK BOAT

Raymond P. Clarke, President of the Clarke Sisk-o Corporation, arrived in Trenton yesterday to take back to Rochester a motor boat of his that had been stolen from that city earlier in the week.

REMEMBERS NO CASES

"There have been no cases of Infantile Paralysis in Belleville the eight years I have been here as I can remember," stated Dr. Cronk to The Intelligencer today. "But you can never tell when something like that is going to strike a city. That disease is not like diptheria as we can always count on having a case or so of that disease every year."

NO APPOINTMENT YET

No word has been received here as yet as to who will succeed Joseph M. Oakes as manager of the Government Fish Hatchery at Northbrae Avenue. Mr. Oakes was transferred last week to Sault Ste. Marie. The appointment is made through the Dominion Government and it is not expected that a new official will be named for some weeks yet. Preparations are now being made for the Fall fishing which will commence about the latter part of October or the 1st of November.

TRAMPS HAD MEAL

A house owned by Mr. Frank Kelly who resides in Thurlow Township was broken into some time during the night while the family were away. The thieves gained an entrance through a window at the back of the house. When Mr. and Mrs. Kelly and the family returned home they discovered that the pantry had been raided and a quantity of pastry and meat taken. Nothing else in the house was disturbed and it is believed to be the work of tramps. The Provincial Police are investigating.

ADDING BUTCHER SHOP

Mr. Cyril McBride who has been conducting a grocery store on Charles Street for some years past is building an addition to the property for the purpose of opening an butcher shop. Mr. Charles Jeffery Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Jeffery, Victoria Avenue, who has been engaged in the meat business in Detroit, Mich., for the past two years arrived home yesterday and will take charge of the new department as soon as it is ready for occupancy. "Chuck" hung up quite a record in baseball ranks around the Border City and he will, no doubt, be a valuable acquisition to the local pitching corps next year.

ARREST WIFE DESERTER

Robt. Thompkins, of Point Anne, was arrested by the immigration officers at Lockport, N.Y., yesterday afternoon on a warrant issued at Belleville. Thompkins who was a former employee of the Canada Cement Company is charged with wife desertion. He is alleged to have left here in company with another woman and in attempting to cross the border he was stopped and placed under arrest. He is now in jail at Niagara Falls, N.Y. They both were the arrival of a Provincial Police officer from Belleville who will return them back to Belleville to face his trial. Thompkin's wife is residing in Belleville at the present time.

Social and Personals

Mrs. W. S. McTavish, West Moira street, left this morning for Toronto, where she will visit friends.

Mr. William Pollwell left for Lindsay last night where he will be employed with the Canadian National Railways.

Miss Barabra Ponton from Victoria, B.C., will reside with her grandfather, Col. W. N. Ponton, K.C., and Mrs. Ponton for a year at Bishop College.

Mr. and Mrs. John Lawrence and Miss Lawrence, of Berwick, Penn., are visiting Mrs. C. A. Bonisteel, 29 Chatham Street.

Police Court

Clifford Duby, on a charge of assaulting his wife, was given a two year's suspended sentence by Magistrate Ponton in Police Court this morning.

A second charge, of having liquor in his possession in a place otherwise than his own home, he will face later.

Assault Charge

On a charge of assault against the young son of W. E. Michaud, George Graham, 27 Dowell St., was fined before the Magistrate in Police Court this morning. The fine was laid over until Friday morning, the 30th of September.

WILL SAVE THOUSANDS BY FEW INCHES

New York, N.Y., Sept 23. (C.P.)—Because the loss of a jury to constitute a case has been found by a jury to constitute partial evidence, a Bronx style shop will save $48,750 from rent for the next seven and a half years.

The shop sued, alleging repairs were made against its wishes, although the landlord contended the alterations were provided for in the lease. The jury found for the plaintiff and the judge suspended payment until a recently signed lease expires.

RUTH WITHIN 3 OF 1921 RECORD

Bambino Breaks Up Game In 9th With Terrific Blow

New York, Sept. 22.—The doorkeeper of the private office at the Yankee Stadium and a youngster in knickerbockers were among the happiest persons in New York. They both were at the death when the Yanks beat the Tigers, 8 to 7, at the Stadium yesterday, but they were both in a very special manner.

Our friend the doorman has been in exterior darkness all season; as he must watch the door and not the game. Rent from the office to the dugout with a message in the last half of the ninth yesterday afternoon, he stuck his head on to the Stadium field for the first time this season just in time to see Babe Ruth smack his fifty-sixth homer into the right field bleachers.

The homer drove in Koenig, who had been on base, and won the game. It certainly emerged like the style of the Tigers, who, after trailing all during the game, had tied the score and then some when, in the first half of the ninth The youngster in knickerbockers had been implicated in all of his four previous trips to the plate to do something, and the Babe hadn't done it.

It was a great day for a ball game and jerked the handful of spectators who remained from the stands out of their seats yelling and cheering. In addition it was a ball game that had a lot to do with records.

Ruth's homer leaves him only three behind his great record of 59 made in 1921. There are six more games for the Yankees to play. When Ruth made his 1921 record he hit his circuit homer in the game equivalent to yesterday's, so that the Bambino is only a jump behind his best stride.

The Athletics took a doubleheader from Cleveland at Philadelphia, retaining the first game by a score of 4 to 3 in 11 innings and the second by 5 to 2 margin.

Chicago lost its twelfth consecutive game yesterday when pinch-hitter Carlo Sukeforth singled in the tenth, scoring Myer from second with the run, that won for the home team: Boston, 2 to 1. Up to that time veteran Faber and the youthful McFadden had stopped a pitching duel. In the fourth Metzler hurt his hand while attempting a sacrifice bunt and was forced to retire from the game.

Although St. Louis batsmen forced the veteran Walter Johnson to cover with only one out in the fourth inning, they failed to do much with the offerings of their short fingered opponent, enabling Washington to capture its second consecutive home-game, 10 to 7. Before retiring, however, Johnson took revenge by pounding out a circuit drive.

Some men are known by the friends they fail to make.

TODAYS MARKETS

Motor Stocks Active

New York, Sept. 23.—The stock market, which has been rather sluggish all week, pointed upward today on heavy buying for both accounts. Speculative activity centred largely in the motors. Wash was up to a new high for the year on buying presumably influenced by the declaration of an extra dividend of 50 cents. General Motors and some of the other dividend paying issues of that group also were well supported but Pierce-Arrow preferred sank two points to a new low for the year at 61. General Motors new stock was traded in for a regular basis for the first time.

Pools were again active in a number of issues. New pool prices for Case, or longer, were established by Dudley Parking. Bethlehem Steel Preferred, Home Motor, Warren Bros and Ivory Springfield eight per cent preferred, had a few offerings.

Sterling exchange touched parity of $4.86.03 in New York foreign exchange circles today for the first time since June 30, 1925. Sterling cables changed hands at $4.86 at 11-32.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New York, Sept. 23.—Foreign exchanges steady, demand rates in cents Great Britain 4.86 3-16. Canadian dollars 9-64 of one percent premium.

Grain's Irregular

Chicago, Sept. 23.—Unexpected strength of quotations at Liverpool together with renewal of drought reports from sections of the west threw wheat values into a sharp upward turn today in wheat prices here. Full cure of frost to develop over much drought about a general salting of corn. Starting at 1-8c to 1 1-4c advance wheat displayed firm. Corn opened 1-2 to 1 1-8c off and subsequently under further pressure from Argentina, declined steadily. Provisions were irregular.

OLD STEAMSHIP TO BE RENOVATED

Washington, D. C., Sept. 24 (By The Canadian Press)—Another page is to be written in the already colorful history of the Steamship Yapura, first vessel to navigate the waters of Lake Titicaca in the Andean Mountains, the highest steam-navigated lake in the world. Growth of the oil industry, now in the commerce department say, brought her out of retirement.

Many years ago, before the Southern Railway of Peru was extended to Lake Titicaca, the Yapura was brought from England to Mollendo, Peru, completely dismantled, mounted on flat cars and shipped to the railhead of the Southern. From that point the vessel's parts were carried by mule and llama to Puno, on the lake, and reassembled, and she then was placed into service as a 45 cubic foot of 12,545 feet above sea level.

Natives became greatly excited when the vessel, of nearly 600 tons, made her lofty maiden voyage, belching forth clouds of black smoke as she churned the waters near their bastel boats.

After many years of service, during which time two steamers and a tanker with a capacity of 1,200 barrels

PRATT—In loving memory of our dear wife and mother, who passed away two years ago today, Sept. 23rd 1925.
Dearest Mother how we miss you,
How our hearts are stilled with pain
Oh, this world would be Heaven,
Could we hear your voice again.
We are gone but not forgotten.
Tears can never ease the pain.
In the hearts of those who loved you,
Will the dear be ever slain.

THD GRINDING STONE VS. THE KITCHENETTE

As you turn southwest on the trail along the mesa, you will find it, half hidden now by the yellowing grass. It is a flat topped, gray stone, fully twenty feet long by ten wide. Here and there about the smooth surface are many bowl-like depressions, worn deep into the rock. It is an old grinding stone of the California Indians.

To this stone the squaws used to come in companies at certain seasons of the year. Overnight they would appear like migrating birds, carrying their goods on their backs or on weather-beaten ponies. As the sun set they made camp, babies and dogs swarming around them, boys lolling leisurely in the warm, golden syrup of the sunset light. The smoke of their camp fires would rise in thin silvery lines against the darkening sky. Like the chatter of many birds their voices would rise and fall and die away into sleepy murmurings.

By dawn they would be scattering over the plains, gathering roots or seeds or the acorns from the low oaks. Then they would collect about the great stone and do their grinding in the rocky hollows which each generation of squaws deepened a little. Always they came like that, chattering groups, to work together, making of their simple tasks fiestas and adventures.

That was the first housekeeping. All over the globe the first housekeepers foregathered like that, shaking their bones.

That housekeeping resulted in more than scorn-meal or seed cakes. It resulted in contentment. Women liked doing things together that way. The competition, the gossip, the savor of human contact. And there was something else—some vital vibration which passed from one to another, stimulating and refreshing them. Women liked doing things together on the camp trial. It was the normal, healthy way to do things.

Civilized women have no grinding stones. They prepare their food in little kitchenettes or buy it ready cooked. Their kitchenettes are incomparably cleaner than that grinding stone and their food is better balanced and more varied. Yet spirits sicken in those small, clean kitchens in the preparation of that dainty food.

Spirits sicken because they work in vacuums. Civilized housewives work alone, in vacuums. The smell of the air and the earth and the sun baked grass and not the vital contact with other bodies has gone from the work. It is denatured. It has lost the essential vitamins.

Civilized women are getting tired of keeping house. They are getting tired because civilized housekeeping does not fit in with the normal, healthy plan of man's life. Our homes are in a transition period and it is an unhealthy period.

We will have our grinding stones again in another form. We will not gather about our great rocks but we will gather in community nurseries and community kitchens and community hospitals and community work rooms and recreation centers. Then this present fever of restlessness and discontent will gradually leave women and they will feel excited and important again as the squaws used to feel about the grinding stone—as our own women felt during war time.

Human beings must be able to feel excited and important in their lives or they will not thrive.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

Alcohol will clean cloudy glass.

Dampened ashes will successfully clean steel knives.

Wax paper wrappings from bread are nice cleaners for the hot iron.

A slice of lemon in the boiler on washday will mean beautifully white clothes.

Rub a little salt on the rooms or forks tarnished from eggs and then wash in soap and water, drying on a soft cloth. All tarnish will be removed without the aid of silver polish.

CURSE OF LOVE

by Mildred Barbour

She answered with a shrug, but, at the door of the car, she looked over her shoulder and laughed softly. He took a step forward—angrily. But she shut the door primly in his face.

"Idiot!" she told herself, when she had restored the child to its distraught mother, who never even thank ed her for caring for it.

"Idiot!" she repeated, but whether she referred to the ungrateful mother or to the audacious young man, or to herself was not quite clear in her own mind.

She thought about the young man for a quite a time and wondered how he became so begrimed as he could still be so good-looking. She also admired him for his courage and activity and at a time when the others seemed to have lost their heads. She wondered if she would see him again. In fact, she thought a great deal about this stranger.

In her reflections, she almost forgot the plight in which the train was plunged, and, when warmth began to seep into the coaches—the result of the reckless firing of the railroad-ites —she scarcely noticed it.

Presently the train began to move slowly — still retreating toward Peking. Before it had proceeded far, however, there was a fresh burst of shrapnel. The engine was fired on and hit once more.

Word went through the coaches: "The engineer has quit cold. Now what are we going to do?"

CHAPTER TO

A NIGHT FOR ROMANCE

When the firing recommenced, there was a wild scramble for the barricade that the men had rigged up for the women and children in the rear of the coach.

Cynthia alone remained in her seat. "It's too ridiculous!" she thought illogically. "I won't make a spectacle of myself by running to cover like a sacred rabbit, every time there's the crack of a bullet." She re-opened her book and tried to read, but the light was too dim.

There seemed to be a great deal of shouting and running about outside the train. Finally, however, the steam whistle sounded mightily and the train began to move backward again.

Cynthia's earlier informant came into the coach breathless and excited.

"What's happened now?" Cynthia asked wearily, as he stood beside her.

"It's that idiot American. He's taken the post of the engineer and is going to run the train back to Yang-Tsun, where we're instructed by wireless to go on a siding and let Feng-Yu-Hsiang's troops through."

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

After an absence of two and one-half years, Ballet's Chauve-Souris is to return to America this October.

A green Kasha costume recently shown in two-piece mode was worn with a green glass flower and dark green velour hat. The bag carried with this costume was tapestry in green and tan, in pouch style with back strap.

At the recent international polo games at Meadowbrook tweeds appeared in dresses and suits with both the three-quarter and the seven-eighths coat, as well as in cardigan types and in the ensemble compriaing frock and coat.

Cynthia's eyes sparkled.

"Good for the American!"

"Just isn't as good for us," he shrugged wistfully. "He's likely to kill us all What does he know about running a locomotive?"

"Probably a good deal more than you or any other man aboard," she respond ed crisply.

He gave her a look of pure disgust. She heard him mutter something about "these Yankees" to another man and then she heard some one say that a truck was being sent out from Pekin with food and water for the famished passengers.

The train made slow, but sure, progress. Feng-Yu-Hsiang's cars were directly behind it, proceeding slowly. At length, the siding was reached, and the borrowed, rather badly damaged, backed the coaches on it. There was no longer any sound of firing.

Cynthia, rubbing the mist from the window-pane, saw the troop-trains going toward the station in which the fighting had taken place.

A few minutes later, the young American came into the coach. He was wearing a coat, and some of the grime had been removed from his face, though he was far from immaculate. Congratulatory passengers flocked about him, but he brushed them aside and came straight to Cynthia.

"Care to come out for a bit? It's safe enough now, and you must find it rather stifling in this car."

She rose with alacrity.

"You've been wonderful," she remarked, as she followed him from the coach.

"Jove, I've been in less worse jams than that! This was really nothing! Here, let me get you my overcoat and hat. We can sit on the steps of the car until that truck from Pekin gets in. Heavens, I'm starved, aren't you?"

Cynthia confessed to a sensation of emptiness. She was chilly, too, and grateful, when he wraped her in his topcoat and spread a steamer-rug over her knees.

"It looks as though we'd better make up our minds to spend the night like this. There are no facilities for sleeping. Not that I mind," he added boldly, smiling down at her.

Cynthia rested her pretty chin on her gloved hands and stared out into the darkness.

"It is an adventure, isn't it? Something we can tell our grandchildren about."

He nodded and lit a cigarette, regarding her quizzically by the light of the match. Then he said:

"It's a curious thing, but I think Fate made me take this train. I hadn't meant to at all. I believe in Fate."

She was silent.

"Don't you?" he questioned.

"Of course," she answered petulantly. "But I don't think it was very kind Fate that set us down in the mid dle of a dusty Chinese plain, with out food or water and with a couple of armies fighting around us."

"I think it was Fate's nicest gesture for me," he said softly.

"I suppose," thought Cynthia to her self, "that he wants to pass the time by flirting with me. All right, I'll show him a thing or two, and maybe he won't be so conceited."

They talked on for hours on the chilly platform; while the dust clouds eddied through the darkness, talked as only two young people, strangely and desperately attracted to each other, can talk under conditions that make a mockery of time and convention. They talked about every subject under the sun, except themselves. They had sharp clashes of opinion, arguments that spurred them gleefully on.

Cynthia forget Basil Harcourt and her promise to him. She forgot Norma, probably anxious and fearful in the Pekin Hotel, forgot Therese, undoubtedly convinced that her mistress had fallen into the hands of bandits. She even forgot King Carson, the bus band she was seeking, and Philip Ken dall, supposedly dead at Shanghai.

"Good night," he said softly, as they reached the door of her room.

"Good night," she answered, and then, with a little laugh, "Good morning, rather."

"Sleep well," he added, and then, with a little laugh, "Good morning, rather."

"I will," she promised, and then, with a little laugh, "Good morning, rather."

"I will," she promised, and then, with a little laugh, "Good morning, rather."

"I will," she promised

CHAMPION WON ON POINTS BUT WAS ALMOST OUT IN THE SEVENTH

Dempsey Floored Gene For Count Of Nine — Tunney Better Boxer And Had Challenger Pretty Groggy At The Finish

Chicago, Sept. 23.—A stiff sniff of smelling salts and a little bell" settled the heavyweight championship for Gene Tunney. The titleholder said so himself today.

A whiff of aromatic spirits and the strong language of Jimmy Bronson, Gene's chief second, sent the champion out from his corner in the eighth round "fighting mad" to whip Jack Dempsey, the punching menace, who had floored him for the count of nine in the seventh and taunted him to "come on and fight."

In a general format that took place at Tunney's hotel quarters after one of the greatest heavyweight fights in history, Bronson admitted that the arousing of Tunney to such a pitch that he met the tiring Dempsey at his own game and punched out a victory when the heavyweight crown seemed lost was not the object of calm and the tirade. But it was for Tunney.

"Just a few minutes before, Jimmy told me to keep working towards Dempsey's right side to avoid a left hook," said Gene. "I did that all right until Jack wobbled. Then I went in to get him, give carriage with the first thing I knew I was on the floor. "My first thoughts were what is this? How did I get here? I began to be ashamed of myself." That smash stunned me but I could have gotten up all right at the count of five.

"But instead I looked across at my corner and there was Tommy motioning to me to stay down. So I did until the count reached nine. Then I made very certain that I would be hit with no more punches like that, at least until my head cleared."

Jack Dempsey had no further comment to make today concerning the "long count," given Tunney when he floored the champion in the thrilling seventh round with a left bang to the jaw. He said that was one of the breaks of the game and Tunney got the breaks that was all." Dempsey never has been a "squawker." Last night he accepted the decision with a smile, refusing to add anything that might detract from Tunney's victory.

Leo P. Flynn, his manager, however made the accusation that Dempsey was robbed, that Tunney had been knocked out and that he intended to appeal to the Illinois State Athletic Commission to have the decision reversed.

Round One—Dempsey mined a left lunge, falling into a clinch. Jack piled in again with two left hooks to the rib. In the clinch that followed he clipped Tunney four times with a right on the back of the head. They sparred cautiously, Dempsey preferring to feint for openings while Tunney lay back. Gene snapped a left to Dempsey's chin and followed with a solid right smash to the chin. Jack fell into a clinch, taking another right to the head as he came in. Jack backed away while the champion followed him across the ring with a volley of left and right hooks to the head close to the ropes. Gene missed an overhand right as the bell sounded.

Round Three—Again they bored carefully, slowly, in the centre of the ring. As Dempsey was apparently trying to initiate Tunney into leading and making an open fight of it, Tunney mocked every jerky left jab, but took a half dozen on the back of the neck. Gene took the offensive, driving Dempsey into his corner, where Jack tied him tight. As they both led in the centre of the ring, Tunney shot a left into Dempsey's straight right smash to the body. Gene held while Jack cleared in the mid-section a right smash to the heart that drove Tunney back. As they fiddled about, Dempsey shot a close range left to the jack of Tunney's head, with his right hand and his left twice to the champion's ribs as the round ended.

Tunney Misses Opportunity

Round Four—Dempsey took the offensive, but Tunney's right cracked on his chin. Gene's left at the same mark. Jack's head snapped two lefts to the body. Gene claimed that the blows had no sting and fought hard desperately as they fell against the ropes. Gene mined with a right and took shocker left to the body. Jack was leading again, short lefts to the body, while Tunney countered just as lightly to the head. Tunney now trying to nail Jack coming in, missed with both hands, and waved himself by falling into a clinch. Two right smashed to the chin stung Dempsey. Tunney lifted two more left hooks to the head and nailed Jack to the ropes. A right and left hook to the corner. A left hook nearly floored him. As Dempsey lay stunned against the rope Tunney mixed with both hands and the bell killed his opportunity.

Round Five — Dempsey's handlers worked furiously on him during the intermission while Tunney's handlers claimed that stimulants were unnecessary. Tunney missed a right and left into a clinch. Jack came in, close pounding to the body, when Tunney ever anxious missed again. Jack backed away now, falling into the ropes as Tunney took to the attack. When Jack tied him up they sparred out to the centre of the ring. Dempsey bobbed out of trouble. He sent Tunney's head back with a stiff straight left. A right high on the temple drew Dempsey's ire. The champion backed away, however, content to jab and wait. In another clinch Jack rapped again on the back of Tunney's neck. Gene dug two nice lefts into Dempsey's body at the bell.

Round Six—They boxed carefully several seconds before coming together for a flurry of body punches. The crowd bellowed as Dempsey's right hand "old iron sides" smashed under Tunney's heart. The champion came back, rapping both hands to the chin. Dempsey, letty fell into a clinch, after the blows, bobbing in through a stiff attack. Jack turned the champion away around with a right hook to the head. Tunney coming back strong. Two more left hooks and a straight right stung the champion. Missing a long left, Jack took a right under the heart as they fell again into a clinch.

Tunney Down for Nine Count

Round Seven—Dempsey's handlers pleaded with him to keep his chin down as he came out bobbing. Stepping under Tunney's right Jack slapped a soft right to the face. A volley of rights and lefts took to the head floor for Tunney for the count of nine. Dempsey was on him like a wildcat as Gene sped backwards. Dempsey hammered him at the ropes and smashed a left and right to the body. Gene came back weakly, jabbing a left to the head. Dempsey laughed, sneering Gene to come in and fight. Losing his temper, Jack smashed Tunney with a left and right, driving him to the Gene, dazed, grabbed Dempsey with both hands and still was holding fiercely by at the bell.

Round Eight—Dempsey came out in a rouch. Apparently somewhat recovered, Gene stabbed with his left and clinched. As Tunney backed away for lourly Dempsey made no effort to atch, merely walking after him and tauntine him to fight. Tunney did fight, whipping a left and right under cut to Jack's chin. As he missed rights, Dempsey lifted his left to the jaw in a clinch Jack again rapped Tunney's head. A smashing left to the body drove Tunney back, and a right to the heart made him drag Jack back. As Dempsey dodged a right his slipped to one knee. No count. Gaining courage, Tunney flew at Dempsey, pumping both hands to the head. Again Tunney nailed Jack with both hands to the chin as the former champion bounced on the ropes. They were boxing cautiously, both tired, waiting for openings, as the round ended.

Round Nine—Tunney's retreating tactics drew boos from the crowd between rounds. Jack grabbed the champion and smashed him half a dozen times on the back of the neck. They both had slowed up from the fierce pace. Tunney, standing in the centre of the ring, held Jack off for a few moments with three straight left jabs, but Jack bore right in to close quarters. Coming to Gene's right, opened a cut over Dempsey's right eye. The champion went after the latter fiercely, snapping out both hands high to the head, Jack tried to jab, but two solid rights bounced off his jaw. Dempsey was wobbly, but as he cocked his right Gene ran away. The champion came back, the referee, and rocked Jack again with swing, ing punches to the head. Dempsey came to his corner a bit wobbly as the gong sounded.

Round Ten—They shook hands in the centre of the ring. Jack floored Tunney again with a left hook to the chin. Gene was up before the time keeper could start counting. Jack's right smashed into Tunney's head again and the water from Jack's hair splashed over the stupids writers Jack, the tiger again, whaled in with both hands but Tunney tied him up in a clinch. Dempsey tried to land an uppercut over his hands Tunney whipped left and right hooks to the Manassa mauler's face. Gene came into his attack, ripping both hands to the head. While Dempsey measured his man and tried him on the ropes, but the champion's two-handed attack was a bit wild. Dempsey gave several rights to the body. Gene countered with a left. Badly staggered, Dempsey shook about the ring as the bell sounded.

Round Eleven—Dempsey, still groggy, sparred dimly after the gong.

KEEN BATTLE IS PROMISED FANS

Deloro And Kingston Invade Belleville Tomorrow In Play-Off

Baseball fans in the city will get another opportunity to see two fast teams in action when the Deloro and Kingston clubs clash in a return game here tomorrow in the third and deciding game of the intermediate semi-finals at the Belleville Exhibition Park at 3 p.m.

The Deloro Club opened the series with a win in their own ballpark last Saturday but the shoe was on the other foot Wednesday when Howard Reid flinging them over for the Dairy-men. Clubs took honors five hits while Ralph and Les had difficulty in limiting the Delorites to two safeties. Six batted five runs in the first three frames and after that they played about even. Whole the Deloro Club were as meek as lambs. It was a sore touch for Manager Elliott's boys who had to walked over all and sundry this year with little opposition from the rest of the Belleville team in the series for the championship of the Quinte League. Tomorrow's game will be a battle to the last ditch as both are struggling to get into the O.B.A.A. finals.

Manager Elliott is almost certain to start his young shaloman "Jinky" Woods while Joe Daley is sure to shoot Howard Reid the elongated young right-hander in against the smelters.

The umpires have not yet been announced and two outside officials may be dicleated to handle Le tit.

It is reported that both teams will bring along a host of rooters and a lively time is sure to result. Don't forget the time and place. Belleville Exhibition Park at 3 p.m.

LOCAL INTEREST IN BIG FIGHT

Dempsey Favored To Win —Reception Was Fine

More interest was shown locally in last night's heavyweight bout than in any previous ring battle in years. Every private home, store and hall where a radio was installed, proved a mecca for boxing enthusiasts of every walk of life. The reception was heard clearly and distinctly and even the words of the announcer in the ring could be clearly understood. Both fighters had an equally strong number of backers but a round of the sporting rendezvous previous to the start of the big battle showed Dempsey to be a slight favorite among the betting fraternity. Dempsey's neat knock-out in the seventh drew a round of applause from the listeners, but Tunney, it was shown had a goodly number of supporters when he hammered Dempsey unmercifully in the closing chukker. In this frame the ex-champion was a target for a barrage of body blows and hard lefts and rights to the jaw. Jack was undoubtedly on the verge of collapse and had the bout gone to fifteen rounds it would have no doubt resulted in a knock-out. Both Graham McAlonee and Philip Caplin who were announcing in the giant hook-up gave the most realistic and thrilling account of theb attle and one could almost imagine that you were sitting in a ring-side seat instead of thousands of miles away.

The veterans and their families heard the fight through the courtesy of the John Lewis Company who installed a special set in their club rooms. Another radio was set up for the benefit of the Oddfellows in their Front Street rooms. Many others gathered in the armouries and at E. A. Thomas' store where an equally good reception was heard.

It was the sole topic of conversation on the streets during the past week until the final blow was struck last night.

Sport fans will now have a breathing space for a couple of weeks when the World's Series will open and occupy the limelight.

One was met by the usual gang of "I Told You So" boys this morning who knew all about the whole thing before it started but strange to say few of them were willing to back their opinions.

KARNIVAL ENDS WITH TONIGHT

Drawing For Hope Chest And Valuable Door Prizes The Feature

The 1927 Edition of the Kiwanis Karnival will be brought to a fitting close tonight and there should be a large crowd on hand to bid farewell to one of the finest weeks of entertainment ever produced in Belleville.

There will be no change in the programme with the exception that Wotten's Limited will display the latest modes in dresses and coats in the Fashion Show and this promises a real style treat.

Tony and His Kids will again entertain after the vaudeville and the singing of those Kids was really a revelation to the large audience last night and they should draw a bigger crowd tonight. Tony says he has something up his sleeve to present to the Audience tonight.

Two valuable door prizes, the first a $10 Gold piece and second a $5 Gold piece.

Hope Chest Drawing

Who will win the Hope Chest? This question is on the tongues of the several hundred who have bought tickets for this beautiful prize. This year there are 3 prizes. The Major one of course being the Hope Chest and contents and the 2nd prize a $50 set of dishes and the 3rd a beautiful lamp

The drawing for this will take place tonight at 10.15 from the platform. This is a much coveted prize and those who hold tickets should if possible be present in person so that the presentation can be made on the platform.

PIRATES DIVIDE DOUBLE HEADER

Crucial Series Starts On Corsair's Field—Hornsby's Two Homers

Pittsburgh, Sept. 23.—The Pirates fired the first shot in the four-game series that is virtually to decide the National League pennant. Unleashing a sharp, decisive offensive against Larry Benton that operated through a momentarily faltering New York defenders, the Buccaneers trounced the Giants in the opening game of the double header, 5 to 2, while a capacity crowd of 40,000 Pittsburghers bowled themselves into hysterics. In retaliation, and in order to enable the crowd to regain some of its poise, the Giants knocked Vic Aldridge all out of shape in a couple of agonizing moments at the outset of the second game, and thumped their way to a 7 to 1 victory in the night-cap.

The second game was started by Aldridge—for the Pirates, but he was driven from the mound before the first inning ended. With Two down, Hornsby lifted his second homer of the day on top of Wanda's single. Terry doubled and counted on Jackson's single. Dawson replaced Aldridge and retired the side. Dawson was replaced by Perry in the ninth. Pittsburgers are giddy sic hits. One of which was a home-run by Joe Harris in the fifth.

Charley Root registered his 26th victory of the season when Chicago bunched hits behind Pruett's wildness to take the first game of the Chicago series from Philadelphia, 8 to 4. Hack Wilson tied the count for the Cubs in the sixth inning after the visitors had taken the lead, by smashing out his 28th homer of the season. Pinky Cy Williams, of the Phillies, in the National League circuit-driving race.

The Reds downed the Robins twice 1 Cincinnati, 2 to 1, in 11 innings, and 4 to 3. Donohue winning his own game in the light-cap with a single in the fourth that sent what proved to be the deciding tally over the plate.

DOUGLAS G. H. WRIGHT

An announcement of considerable importance in Canadian mining circles is the retention of Douglas G. H. Wright, by the mining brokerage firm of R. O. Denman & Co., in the capacity of consulting mining engineer and geologist.

This is the first time a member of the Standard Stock Exchange has secured the services of an outstanding mining engineer to assist in the intelligent selection of mining securities for investment and is an outstanding indication of the growing importance of mining and the mining exchange in Canada.

Mr. Wright was formerly Government geologist in the Ontario Department of Mines, chief geologist and field engineer of the Dome Mines, manager of Howey Gold Mines, Ltd., and is at present consulting mining engineer and mine manager of Jackson-Manion Mines, Limited. Mr. Wright is a graduate of Queen's University and is a member of the Canadian Institute of Mining and Metallurgy. He is also a member of the Society of Economic Geologists of America.

ine Swansdown coat of sand colour with wide slash pockets and a natural mink crush collar. Another beautiful coat Miss Bland displayed was of Ivyrona black velvet with wide shawl collar and cuffs of black wolf; with this she wore a smart black velvet hat with a metallic ornament.

Miss Rainbird exhibited a delightful little afternoon dress in printed flat crepe. The skirt consists of tier of narrow frills piped with silk braid of the same shade. A chic bow at back of neck and wide fichu collar made this a dress of distinction. With this was worn a cappy hat of green and camel velvet.

The first coat Miss Rainbird displayed was a cozy caravan sports model in brown and white ivory plaid, the latest coat for chilly autumn days. Another caravan coat of soft camels hair in tan and shade with narrow brown stripe, fastenings as the only trimming with small collar and cuffs of same material made an acceptable offering.

A striking dress of black crepe over canary yellow georgette was also worn. The georgette showing thru rows of tag gistery or spoke stitching that centred at the waist with a huge bow of satin. A velvety yellow rose on shoulder completed this unique model.

Miss Goodmurphy appeared first in a charming sport model with fancy red and black plaid skirt and black velvet, with white silk cuffs and vestee, stitched in matching red.

Sport Outfit

A powder blue wool sport outfit was greatly enchanced by a hat of Napoleon blue velvet brim and sand and powder blue felt crown.

A navy blue broadcloth coat with novelle panel in the back and navy rich looking offering. This had a shawl collar of mink and wide pointed cuffs of mink with a narrow band of the broadcloth thru the centre.

Miss Gibson wore a dainty ensemble of rose flat crepe with pleated skirt, one had and over this a coat of rose-wood duvetyn with ornamental trimming of tucking, the indispensable flare collars and cuffs of gray Thibetine. The same fur was used as partial trimming to the flare.

An exceptionally attractive dress was the black georgette and velvet dress Miss Gibson wore. This was a Nile York model with a transparent, unmutable, pleated velvet skirt and flowered velvet motifs on the georgette bloused top.

A very smart gown of gray georgette was shown by Mrs. Cain. This follows the resulting mode for frills, having three rows of them on each side of the dress. Soft shirring gathered two hanging panels in at the front of the dress was a particularly novel feature. A coat of wine-brown needlepoint, deeply flared on bold rides, made a splendid showing. This was trimmed with rich looking shawl collar and cuffs of sable opossum. Another particularly chic gown Mrs. Cain exhibited was of navy georgette made in bolero style over yellow georgette. Heavy embroidery in contrasting colour lent this gown richness and distinction.

Miss Verna Rainbird wore a charming gown of rose velvet and georgette, the skirt made in three full rows of the fashionable velvet. A velvet rose the same material on the shoulder, completed this attractive model. Miss Rainbird also showed a beautiful coat of soft black broadtail with sable shawl collar and cuffs as well as a luxurious brown coat of soft caracul with crush collars and cuffs of dyed martin. The latter coat was lined with gorgeous figured orange coloured silk.

Miss Hallam exhibited another one of the genuine Swansdown coats with a crush collar of Siberian squirrel. A navy blue georgette dress was very striking. This was embroidered at neck and sleeves in powder blue and white and metallic braid. Three rows of frills and tiny pleats finished this tailsy offering. A deep blue velvet hat in helmet style with powder-blue felt added greatly to the charm of this ensemble.

The audience were very enthusiastic over a bouffant period evening frock Miss Hallam wore. This was of orange dust taffeta made with a fairly high waist and insert in front of skirt of heavily imitable embroidered georgette and cut-work. This panel was shorter than the rest of the skirt and was topped by a flat bow of silver ribbon.

All the dresses were greatly enhanced by the beautiful shoes of red and black and white fox.

At the close of the dress display beautiful fur coats of seal, seal and squirrel, brown persian lamb with cinnamon fox collar and muskrat were shown

KING VIDOR'S PRODUCTION

The World's Greatest Picture

For the first time at popular prices, the world's greatest picture is here now. The epic of love and war that more than five million people have marched to see! In its second year in New York, it is breaking all world's records for attendance at any motion picture! Think of the greatest picture you've ever seen! "The Big Parade" is so much finer, more truly thrilling and big, that there is no comparison! It is a film that you will see again and again!

The Big Parade, one of the most remarkable of all great screen productions, opens a 4 day run at the Capitol theater on Monday, and indications are that it will live up to its reputation as a record-smashing box office attraction of recent years. The picture is just finishing a two-year engagement at New York at $2 top prices, and has enjoyed unusually long runs in all the important cities of the States. It packed the Royal Alexandra theater in Toronto to capacity for three solid weeks. The music of The Big Parade is a feature of this remarkable super-picture and the Capitol augmented orchestra will provide the musical accompaniment.

Palmer Hall, famous critic of the New York World, said of The Big Parade:

"The Big Parade is splendid. It moves with the power and sweep of a tide and has a grip like the undertow. It is one of those rare achievements in picture-making that is all good and grows progressively better with each reel. The Big Parade is infinitely more than a war play. It deals with humanity in war, the bitter and the sweet, the lightness and the heaviness, the friendliness and the hate. It is utterly free from sentimentalism and hokum, but full of sentiment. It is so different from other war plays that there is no comparison.

"The picture is simply packed full of humor, of pathos, of wit, of comedy and of drama that is profoundly moving. Renee Adoree, left crouched in the mud after Jim had gone off in a motor truck, simply typifies the best of the race of women. A scene in the shell hole where tobacco-chewing fellow-pilots at target and a Jims the chance to save his two pals from almost certain death is without heroics. The long train of trucks carrying men —always more men—to the front matched by the train of ambulances returning after the 'parade' is profoundly moving.

"In lighter vein are the successful effort of the American boy and the French girl to make love by gesture and with a phrase book, the girl learning to chew gum, and later chewing gum with a faraway look in her eyes, the horseplay and the camaraderie of the soldiers, the invasion of a wine cellar, the sharing of cigarets and a cake from home, the ribald army songs, and the improvised shower bath sequences. And these are only samples. The film cannot be described. It must be seen.

"This film is a picture for everybody. I cannot think of any person who would not enjoy it, unless it might be some one with a weak heart who would dread the effect of alternate hilarity and heart-break."

THREE BIG FIGURES AT THE COMING CONSERVATIVE CONVENTION

Here are three of the Conservative leaders who are regarded as likely candidates for the leadership of the Conservative party in Canada at the

Will One Of This Trio Be Winnipeg convention in October in succession to Rt. Hon. Arthur Meighen. From left to right they are Hugh Guthrie, who is temporary leader of

The New Leader And Next Premier? the party; Premier G. Howard Ferguson of Ontario, who has said he doesn't want the leadership but whose name will be put forward by Ontario Conservative members, and R. B. Bennett, Calgary, Alta.

RAYNOR IS HELD ON 12 CHARGES

All Cases Go Before Next Sitting Of The Supreme Court

WILLIAMS INCLUDED

Conference This Afternoon May Eliminate Count Against Partner

Ralph Harry Raynor was committed for trial on 12 counts presented by the Industrial Acceptance Corporation of Windsor at the hearing before Police Magistrate Williams at Picton this morning. The counts were of fraudulently converting funds from/the sale of cars to his own use. Raynor Court ref, P. L. Ward did not ask that evidence be taken and the ex-garage magnate will face a judge of the Supreme Court at the next sittings in Picton.

He was also committed on a charge of the fraudulent conversion of the proceeds of the sale of a car owned by Mrs. Ida Yerex of Picton, who entrusted him with the sale of it on the 1st of December of last year. Raynor was instructed to accept nothing less than $1350. All that she received out of the transaction up to the time of Raynor's arrest was a note of $500 on the intended purchase of another car. Evidence was offered in this case. It will be remembered that the charge preferred by Mrs. Yerex was the first laid against Raynor.

Charge Against Williams

The only outstanding count was the one of conspiracy to defraud the Industrial Acceptance Corporation of $1800. This charge is laid jointly against J. P. Williams and Raynor. Late this morning the Court adjourned and Mr. Williams went into conference with the Corporation's attorney G. L. Fraser, of Windsor. Should agreements be made this particular charge may be withdrawn, which will mean that Raynor will be dismissed on this count as well as Williams.

DO NOT EXPECT ANY OPPOSITION

Conservatives Of Prince Edward Believe Collver Will Get Acclamation

Conservatives of the County of Prince Edward declare that no opposition will be offered to H. S. Collver to fill the seat left vacant by the appointment of W. E. Raney as Judge in the Supreme Court of Ontario. Things are stirring in political circles around Picton and the Liberals have called a convention meeting for today when the situation will be thoroughly discussed. It is probable that in case of an election an independent having the endorsation of both the Liberal and Progressive parties will appear. Mr. Collver who is almost certain to be the Conservative standard-bearer.

Fred Newman, ex-Mayor of Picton, and a life-long Liberal, is being prominently mentioned as opposition to Mr. Collver. Another new name has also been suggested in the person of J. H. Porte of Picton, who was one of Mr. Raney's staunch supporters in the last election. More developments may be announced within a few days following the gathering of the Liberal forces tonight.

Show Closed In A Blaze Of Glory With Record Crowds

"Finis" was written on the Kiwanis Karnival and Style Show for 1927 last evening and amid a blaze of glory the curtain was rung down for another year. One of the largest crowds of the week turned out for the final evening of the spectacle and Kiwanians after counting the receipts have declared that the show "went away over the top". Every cent over and above expenses will go toward some charitable work. Charlie Herman officially closed the Karnival at 10.30 following the drawing on the ticket for the huge chest and he thanked every one who had helped in any way towards the success of the venture.

The armouries is today a scene of actually torn down booths and re-echoes with the ring of hammer and saw as the scenery and bleachers are packed away for another year. Merchants have until well after midnight transforming the exhibits back to the shelves again.

The Karnival has eclipsed the previous efforts of the Kiwanis Club in this direction and a total of over ten thousand people passed through the doors during the five nights. Kiwanians certainly entitled themselves in this year's Karnival and to about a dozen in parti cular goes a lion's share of the credit for the financial success which it enjoyed. It is difficult to realize the amount of work entailed in such a venture but even the smallest detail was not over-looked in providing a real show for the amusement of the people of Belleville and surrounding district.

Hope Chest Winner

The drawing of the ticket for the forty winner of the hope chest was the last event of the week and the holder of the ticket holders remained the extra hour after the Style Show was over

RECORD MARKET FOR THIS YEAR CROWDS CITY SQUARE

Today's market was perhaps the biggest of the year, the market square being so crowded with cars, rigs and pedestrians, that it was nearly impossible to force a way through. Flowers and fruits predominated, and a quantity of honey was on sale in many of the booths. Apples sold for 25 cents a peck, pears for 30 cents a peck, and tomatoes for 25c a peck. Some fine peaches were to be seen, selling at graded prices. Peaches No. 1 were $1 a basket, selected $1.10 a basket, No. 2 large, peaches retailed for 75c a basket, No. 2 for 125 a basket and grapes sold for 60 cents a basket.

Eggs ran in price about the same as last week, with a few cents down. In the vegetables, some beautiful corn was offered at fifteen cents a dozen. Carrots, celery, turnips, radishes and beets all sold for five cents a bunch.

Honey was another attraction this morning, selling at $1 a pail for the light, and 85 cents a pail for the dark. Cauliflowers were 10 cents each and potatoes 40 cents a peck. Cabbage sold for 10 cents each and onions by a bushel. Peppers, sweet, were 20c a box, red 20c and green 15 cents. Chickens sold at $1.25 a pair.

Actress Started For The Great Fight But Never Got There

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.—Ranchers and prospectors in California and Arizona have been asked to search for the missing monoplane "Spirit of Hollywood" in which Miss Marion Mack, motion picture actress and her pilot, Capt. Frank Tomanick, army reserve officer, took off from Santa Monica Wednesday for Chicago. The actress carried messages of good will from the Hollywood film colony to Jack Dempsey and intended to arrive in Chicago several hours before his fight with Gene Tunney.

FASHION PARADE PLEASING SIGHT

Wotten's Maintain High Standard Set At Previous Evenings

WOODLEY'S HATS

Millinery And Coats From Well-Known Furrier Attraction

Something new and novel was added to the smart display of fashions at the final Style Show of the Kiwanis Karnival last night when Wottens Ltd. in their most attractive offering made a specialty of metallic and colored embroidery trimmings. To the sombre richness of black, premier colour of the mode—is added a dash of brilliancy—and warm colouring that is most gratifying to the eye. Velvets, satins, georgettes and taffetas were lavishly trimmed. Another outstanding feature of the smart exhibit were the many evening dresses, favouring crisp taffetas in all shades.

The hats from Woodley's last evening were particularly smart and pleasing, ranging in all shades and combinations of shades, as well as combinations of materials, to give that finishing touch to the beautiful gowns and coats. These ranged in sizes from wide-brims to small helmet-shaped and cappy hats—velvet of course prevailed—but charming combinations of velvet and felt were shown while many large velour hats topped swagger sports outfits.

Miss Goodmurphy displayed a luxurious evening dress of soft black pan velvet with tight bodice relieved by small side pleats and slightly bouffant skirt. A novel feature of the skirt was the pointed sashes faced with watermelon pink silk, harmonizing with the large flat pink rose on the shoulder.

Another charming costume in long coat style was of sea-deep green charmeen, generously embroidered with silk stitching on pockets and yoke. The short skirt has a split placket in front, forming a contrast with the rest of the skirt done in box-pleating. A narrow suede belt—slit edged—and a single row of buttons down the centre of the dress gave an effective trimming to this chic autumn dress.

NOW THAT THE WOODS CUT 4 DARKIES ARE RELEASED

The four little "black" boys who were brought up in court last week on a charge of "riding the blinds" and remanded to jail for a week, appeared once more this morning and were discharged. The Walker Brother's Shows, which the negroes said they were going to join has rent train fare to Chatham, where the Shows are now playing, at the close of the boys. The three, who received the money were Rosavere Moseley, Napoleon Fisher, and James Carsell. William Moore, the fourth member of the quartette was evidently forgotten by the Shows, but he will be taken care of.

It is alleged that the Wallace Shows had put these negroes in the baggage car, evidently with the intention of saving their travelling expenses. Speaking to the Intelligencer today, Napoleon Fisher stated that one of the boys "got lost of wood" while he was in jail.

Sterling Rate Of Exchange Stand Highest In Years

London, Sept. 24.—The cable transfer rate from London to New York crossed par early today in dealings on the exchange market today. The rate of the pound sterling was quoted at $4.86 21-32. The rise was attributed to a demand for sterling for remittance of funds through London, in connection with foreign loans floated in United States also the transference of money here for utilization at higher rates of interest.

BELIEVE VISITING PASTOR MELLOR

Canadian Minister Preached In Ogdensburg Alleged To Be Culprit

Ogdensburg, N. Y., Sept. 24.—A Canadian minister, believed to have been Rev. J. J. Mellor, spent last week-end in Ogdensburg. He stopped at a tourist house on Canton street and attended services Sunday morning at the Methodist Episcopal Church, where introduced himself as a visiting minister from Canada. The church officials understood him to give his name as Rev. J. Miller, of Trenton, Ont. He was presented to Rev. S. E. Johnson, pastor of the church, who invited him to preach a few words at the service in the evening. He accepted the invitation and spoke briefly on "The Cross of Christ."

He left next morning for Syracuse. He said he intended making a tour of the Adirondacks and would stop at North Jay near Lake Placid, N. Y. Immigration officers said that Mr. Mellor said he intended to return to Picton, Ont., soon to settle up his affairs, preparatory to moving elsewhere.

League Assembly Binds Members To Use Every Pacific Means

Geneva, Sept. 24.—League of Nations Assembly today adopted by an unanimous roll-call vote the recently introduced Polish resolution outlawing wars of aggression

The resolution solemnly declares that "All wars of aggression are and always will be prohibited and that every pacific means must be employed to settle disputes of every description which may arise between States."

It binds States which are members of the League to respect the principles thus enunciated. M' Sokal, Polish delegate who introduced the resolution declared it took "not an international instrument but so a strong recommendation by the Assembly."

DOLLEAU POST OFFICE ROBBED

Chicoutimi, September 24.—A mail robbery was staged at Dolbeau Wednesday. It is reported that three men. Thieves entered the post office during the night and made away with $1,000 in registered mail and several Quebec Liquor Commission parcels awaiting delivery. The estimated amount of the loss has not been announced but it is not believed to be great.

NINETEEN BODIES IN ONE CASKET

Beauval, Sask., Sept. 24.—Closing chapter of the tragic conflagration the destruction by fire of the Catholic Mission in this remote settlement last Monday was staged yesterday with the burial of the twenty victims who were trapped in the building. Two coffins sufficed to hold the cremated remains, one containing the ashes of nineteen people who died in the corridor of the upper storey, while the second encased the charred bones of a child found in an heroic attempt to rescue the inmates. Only a few of the bereaved parents were present at the funeral, the greater portion of the native population having departed on their annual pilgrimage to the to the Northern wilds in search of furs.

ANOTHER FIGHT? PROMISED FOG STOPPED PLANE FROM GETTING MAIL

Quebec, Sept. 24.—Owing to heavy fog, it was impossible to carry out further experiments in carrying of the mail by aeroplane from Rimouski to Montreal last night. When the Canadian Airways plane arrived at Rimouski on Wednesday with mail to be put on board the outgoing Empress of Australia it was arranged that the machine stay there to meet the incoming Empress of Scotland and take off about five hundred pounds of mail for despatch to Montreal. However, the Empress did not arrive at Father's Point until eight o'clock last night and at that time there was a heavy fog. The mail was sent on a fast train to Montreal.

NINE MEN JUMP FROM AEROPLANE

But They All Had Parachutes Which Were Working Properly

Washington, D.C., Sept. 24.—Nine men with parachutes leaped one after another today from a navy transport aeroplane soaring high over Anacostia Flying Field and all landed safely. The performance was arranged as a test of the parachutes with which a large airship might be emptied in case of emergency or for military purposes. The last of the nine freed himself from the plane eighteen seconds after the first had jumped.

The nine parachutes dropping simultaneously to earth over an air station is said to set a record, both for men jumping from one plane in a short interval and the number of men dropping through the air at the same time.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

Hope of all ills that men endure
The only cheap and universal cure!
COWLEY.

WOMEN TAKE PART

Eight hundred hands that used to rock the cradle, or that hope or intend to rock it some day, are going out to see if they can't rock the Tory party at the Winnipeg convention. This is history made. A decade ago a woman at a political convention would be regarded as a freak, a misfitting and perhaps short-haired busybody who was sometimes "queer" and invariably an infernal nuisance. Even the Liberal convention of 1919, when the party was supposed to be on the march toward all sorts of fresh ideas, was exclusively a matter of males. There was not, as we remember it, a single woman delegate.

Now, and as the reflection for the old-fashioned ward heeler, women delegates may well decide who shall be the leader of the historic Tory party. And if they do, they won't make the decision in the way the orators and the cynics among men have pretended to believe. Mr. Bennett has been described by a society editress as "Canada's most eligible bachelor;" but that won't help him. Mr. Guthrie, who, if he would only learn to control his compulsour property, would still be eligible for the movies, will find his looks an asset; and Sir Henry Drayton will have to make his chances by something more than gallantry. For women, whatever else may be said against them, haven't thus far pudged their political gods as they judge their mates' souls. They have been much more stern. If, as is claimed they haven't purified politics, as some optimists predicted, neither have they fulfilled pessimistic predictions that they would be swept off their feet by sentiment and sentimental schemes.

Today, all over the English-speaking world, women are in the thick of practical politics. They are coming home in the committee rooms, upon political platforms, among political audiences, in legislatures and Parliaments. More than a dozen women have found their way to the "Corner of Parliament," and some have made their mark there There are 139 women in the various legislatures of the United States. There is one woman in the Parliament of Canada, and several others have sat, or are now sitting, in our legislatures. They have their representatives on all sorts of national bodies and boards and committees.

Who shall say that public life is not better democracy not more just, because of them? True, they haven't brought the Millennium. Man is always to be, but never blessed. But at least women haven't played favorites from the school of politics. They have been educating themselves to the responsibilities of government; and as the process goes on, who can doubt but that they will yet play a high part in the greater tasks of democracy.

HEALTHIER GIRLS

Statistics compiled at a co-educational college disclose the fact that the girls of that institution are taller, stronger and heavier than their mothers and grandmothers. If these statistics apply to Canadian women in general—and we believe they do—then certain self-confessed scientists and some individuals who view with alarm stand corrected.

The tests were begun in 1886 and so provide the requisite records for successful comparison. The comparison shows that the average girl in college today is two inches taller than the average co-ed of 1886. The 1927 freshman co-ed weighs 118 pounds while her predecessor of 1886 weighed only 112 pounds. In strength and prowess the modern girl also approaches nearer the Diana ideal than did the girl of forty years ago.

Local explanations are at hand for such evolution in physical womanhood even though the tests were made in one college. There might be some chance for contrary to or exaggerate the situation elsewhere. Exercise, out-door life and recreation are recommended by the physical culturists as body builders and growth promoters. None will deny that the modern girl is much more active and oftener out of doors than was her mother and grandmother. Modern styles for women, because they permit greater freedom of movement, should aid in evolving a taller, heavier and stronger womanhood.

THE EDITOR SAYS

If Tex Rickard had only installed a few "reserved speakers" in the stadium some of his "ring-side" seat patrons could have "heard" the fight even if they could not see it.

This Karnival was bad medicine for husbands and fathers. After a poor man has spent all his spare change trying to win a basket to keep warm these cool nights, he is up against a demand to buy some of the lovely clothes shown on the Fashion Parade.

It is announced that "Gene" Tunney will now give lectures to young men on "How to Live." He would be a good man for our local "Y" to secure, but we imagine would be more useful on the gym floor than on the platform

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Lita Grey Chaplin, aged 19, and with $650,000 alimony, says she is through with men" forever. How unGrateful—to kick away the ladder by which she rose to fortune!—Hamilton Herald.

Accidents do not always come to the other fellow; they will come home some day. They are coming home in increasing numbers, to every section of the country today. That is why we are having so much attention drawn to them in the papers. And it is a good thing. Strict enforcement of the laws, backed by the support of the general public, will put an end to the evil, and make the highways what they are intended to be—lines of convenience. Nonconvenience not death traps.—Huron Expositor.

Motorists without drivers' licenses are being greatly admonished by the provincial police that they really ought to have one. This action was made necessary by the apparent impression of many motorists that the taking out of a permit was purely optional. Now that the regulation has been in force for two months it is time t olighten up even more. A simple but useful expedient would be to require all vendors of gasoline to record the serial number of a driver's license before making a sale. An automobile can be operated without a permit but not without petrol.—Toronto Telegram.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Dr. Moran and wife, of Trenton, were on Wednesday evening the victims of a runaway accident. They were thrown out and Mrs. Moran sustained a fracture of her collar bone. The doctor escaped with a few bruises. The vehicle was badly smashed.

Dr. and Mrs. Goldsmith have been visiting Mr. and Mrs. W. H. O'Flynn at Madoc during the past week.

Mrs. J. Sprague, of Foster Avenue entertained a number of friends last evening.

The crews of the ill-fated trains which had the pitch-in at Trenton Sunday gave their evidence on Wednesday at Montreal before the G. T. R. officials, and were laid off, pending decision.

Mr. Thomas Hanley, of this city, yesterday shipped to Madoc a fine lot of counters for use in Mr. A. F. Wood's new block.

Mr. J. P. Thomas reports that considerable fruit is being stolen from his garden on Charlotte street.

Mr. Wm. Reeves, Sen., has recovered from his recent illness.

Darkness was falling over the picturesque Scottish highlands, and the three girls who were enjoying the view from the top of the creaking stage-coach began to shiver in the night breeze.

"I say!" called the driver to the passengers below, "is there a Mackintosh down there big enough to keep three young lads warm?"

"No," came an eager voice from a head poked out of the window, "but there's a big MacPherson down here that's willin' to try!"

U. S. SAFE FROM AERIAL ATTACK

El Paso, Texas, Sept. 23 (By Canadian Press).—Failure of several recent trans-oceanic flights has proved that the United States is comparatively safe from long distance aerial attacks, in the opinion of Curtis D. Wilbur, secretary of the navy.

"Look at what has actually happened in the last few weeks," Secretary Wilbur said here recently. "No one has made the crossing from Europe to this side. And the planes that have made the attempt were not carrying bombs. They were stripped down to the last ounce and carried every drop of gasoline possible.

"It might be possible for a three motor plane to cross and drop a few small bombs on some city but such a raid would be ineffective from a strategic viewpoint."

Mr. Wilbur predicted that within five years the United States navy would have one thousand aeroplanes equal if not better than any in the world.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

To the Editor of The Intelligencer,
Dear Sir,—
I am asking through the columns of your paper if I have any right in Belleville?
According to the practice in other cities where I have lived, when tenders were called for supplies for public institutions, I made a tender.
I don't see why I should not get a chance as a stranger coming here, a right to tender for public institutions in this city.

GERMAN CITIES MAKE COMPLAINT

Convention Bitterly Assails Tax Scheme Blaming Dawes Plan

Madgeburg, September 24. — The cities convention, which opened here yesterday, attended by Chancellor Marx, a number of present and former Cabinet members, mayors and chamberlains from practically all the large cities of the Reich, immediately voiced a demand for a revision of the present taxation system. The combative spirit of the assembly became evident from the start because the Chancellor's address was repeatedly interrupted by a small group of fascist and Communist representatives. Chancellor Marx stressed the necessity for tax equalization and the largest possible measure of self-government for cities, but this did not suit the radical opposition.

President Mulert, in his opening speech, bitterly attacked Dr. Schacht's loan policy, accusing the Reichsbank head of ravaging the great industrial combinations at the expense of municipalities. As usual Mulert and other speakers blamed the Dawes plan for the present unfavorable situation in the cities, holding that the system under which the Reich collects all tax es and redistributes them robbed the towns of large revenues. All speakers completely ignored the fact that the taxation system in operation was not forced through by one of the first Governments after the revolution long before the Dawes plan was even thought of. Speakers also failed to mention that the agent-general had comparisons payments. Parker Gilbert abruptly criticized the distribution system in his last annual report as tending to encourage extravagance.

POLICE LOOK OUT FOR STOLEN MOTOR

The Provincial Police have been notified to be on the look-out for an Ford touring car, licence number 127-671, and serial number 162-151. This car is reported to have been stolen from London and there is a strong suspicion that the two men who escaped from the county jail there are responsible for the theft and which aided them in their attempts to evade the authorities. The local District Inspector's office have notified every officer to keep a sharp lookout for the car and the men.

The stolen car was only recently equipped with a new top and bumper on the front.

It is not believed that the men would travel far in the Ford but would probably abandon it in favor of another larger car.

Y's MEN MEET.

The members of the Y's Men's Club heard Newton Thompson deliver an interesting talk on the International Convention at Memphis, which he attended as a representative of the local club at their weekly luncheon last night. Mr. Thompson brought back several worthwhile suggestions which were endorsed by the Club members. The Convention which occupied a per iod of four days brought delegates from every corner of the United States and Canada. The question of helping the Kingston Club to reorganize was brought up and steps will be taken in this direction in almost the immediate future.

Chairman "Army" Armstrong presided. Ed. Sally acted as Song Leader and Roy Clarke as Sergt-at-Arms.

RAILROAD STRIKE MENACES REICH

Other Unions Expected To Join In Fight For Higher Wages

Berlin, September 24.—The general strike by the railroad workers for higher wages, which was predicted when the Reich Government decided to increase the salaries of all public officials, threatens to become a fact on October 1. The railroad workers' employees at a meeting held here, passed a resolution declaring the refusal of the Reich Cabinet's proposal to raise low wages despite the high cost of living and the advance of salaries in the "art of open prosecution." The organization demands shortening of working hours, and pay commensurate with the labor performed While yet threatening to strike, the railroaders have appealed to the trades unions to support them in their battle, and it is expected that all organized trades will join the movement to wring more money from employers.

The situation is most dangerous here. Thousands of thousand street car and subway employees will vote on a strike pro position next Tuesday and may quit if their demands are not granted the first of next month. Should the threaten ed strike materialize, there is little doubt that two thousand chauffeurs, conductors of autobuses, and six thousand employees of the elevated roads will likewise walk out.

SOVIET SEEKING FURTHER CREDIT

Ask Nearly Twice As Much As They Will Pay Off Debt

Paris, September 24.—The Soviet proposals on debt payments and mercchandise credit upon which the decker ations was made, to discover that the French and Soviet, delegations had reached a deadlock in Paris tonight

The proposals show that the Soviet times as much credit as it pays on the Government wants one and two-third debts during the first six years, while the Soviet argues the Russian needs indicated that their limit was credits equal to payments during a five-year period.

Credits Not Settled

Paris, September 24.—When Max Litvinoff announced in Moscow that a complete accord has been reached between the Soviet and French delegations on the matter of the Russian debt to France he apparently intended to say that an agreement had been practically reached as to how much Russia was to pay. What he did emphasize was that the French are still very far from agreeing to the amount of new credits which Russia thinks she ought to receive in return for her promise to fulfill old obligations.

TODAYS MARKETS

WHEAT GOES UP

Chicago, Sept. 24.—Unsatisfactory weather in Canada, where harvesting trade with Liverpool quotations higher than due, brought about a sharp upward movement in wheat prices here. Colder conditions exist over the corn belt save strength also to the corn market. Opening at 3-8c fractions, Chicago wheat quickly scored further gains. Corn started off lower but higher and then continued to climb. Oats were firmer. Provisions likewise went upward.

Market Reverses Tone

New York, N.Y., Sept. 24.—The reverse in the tone of the stock market yesterday was continued today. Net gains in many of the active issues ran from one to two points. There were a few soft spots here and there but they failed to exert any appreciable influence in the general list.

Public Utilities gave the best demonstration of group strength, new peak prices being attained by American and Foreign Power, Commonwealth Power, Peoples Gas, Pacific Gas, American Waterworks and Electric, Standard Gas Edition. Heavy buying of United States Leather, class "A" stock which proved an unsatisfactory feature, International Silver, up seven and Kelly Springfield, up five, reached new high prices.

On Saturday, September 24th, at 12 30 o'clock, quietly, at the home of the bride's parents, 191 Charles St. Belleville, the marriage was solemnized of Marjorie only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John Kerr, to Mr. Arthur Ernest Fisher, only son of Mr. and Mrs. Sidney J. Fisher, Trenton. The ceremony was conducted by the Rev. John Lyons, Rector of St. Thomas Church. The charming bride looked in a smart French serge ensemble costume of gray and blue. After a wedding breakfast the happy couple left on a motor trip through New York State.

BODY BELIEVED TO BE SUICIDE'S

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Sept. 24.—The body of a woman was taken from the river there before the Falls at Goat Maid of the Mist landing today. Authorities believe the body may be that of Miss Jessie Bigger, Buffalo, who was reported to have jumped from the Niagara River Gorge Bridge and was being swept to death over the Am Falls. Police said Miss Bigger was married that Mrs. Mary Pitass, Buffalo was missing from her home and that she had left a note saying that "she'd be woman who took her life yesterday by leaping into the river from Goat Island" two hundred yards above the merican Cataract.

OVER TEN

in order to be present when demure little Jean Hemsworth pulled the tickets from the hat and handed to Mayoress Hanna for announcement.

Miss Kay Lang of 247 Station Street, was the winner this year. It is reported that Miss Lang is about to become betrothed and to her fiancee she will fly to suitable hands. Miss Long was not present to receive her prize and consequently the presentation ceremonies were dispensed with. The dinner set, valued at $25, was won by Miss Laura M. Meadow, of 16 Charlotte Street who lives at 16 Charlotte. The floor lamp 2nd prize, sent to Mrs Arthur Abrams, 156 Bridge Street East, with ticket No. 1,000,000. The 3rd prize, a Toaster to Mrs Murney Street, won the electric curler. Ruth Herter, a ten-letter was captured by Mrs. M. J. Hall, 328 Foster Ave.

Miss Long who was declared the winner of the dinner set had ticket No. 511

Miss Callery's Door Prize

The door prize of $10 was won by Miss Annie Callery, of Canniffton. Second prize went to Alberta Rogers, 76 East Moira Street, who received $5. Ruth Herter, a ten-letter winner, of 328 Foster received the $10 gold piece for having guessed the nearest correct serial number of the door prize which was on exhibition.

Patain Contest

In the Spring of this year each member of the Kiwanis Club supplied some 1,000 Patain seeds to be grown in boxes which he planted and cared for himself. Entries numbered 47. At the Karnival twenty-five of the best individual samples of their products on exhibition in the Bridge Street Store. As a result of the ing contestants, Orville Bell was awarded first prize, Bonisteel 2nd, and Mrs. Old 3rd Brenton 3rd.

The next potatoes for government record are to be grown under the direction of the Ry Askin Agricultural representative. Each boy gets two bushels back to the Kiwanian who supplied them with the seed. The boys who exhibited were Stanley Poor, Bruce Perth M. Moorman, A. McGowan, Albert Bonisteel, Orville Bell, Lloyd Bonisteel, Don Williams Norman Hunt, Cameron Bunnett, Percivan Tumbleson, Gerald Bonisteel, Jack Parrott, Ed. Jarrell Bernard Smythe, David White, Allan Bell Everett Bonisteel, Kenneth Ketcheson, Wesley Gray Pat Brennan, Clifford Rial, Cross Bonisteel, Harder Bonisteel, Donald Lewis.

These boys ranged in ages from 12 to 16. Mr. Gerow Bonisteel was in charge of the exhibit.

The Vaudeville

The Vaudeville was the same as that furnished on the previous evening with the Flow Brown Revue being the greatest ovation. He sang from the audience in the balcony stage and the last auditorium re-echoed with his Crepe, mellow voice and the crowd called for more time after time. His clever ness as assistant and the director with the guitar cost him for an equal amount of applause. He sang several popular songs for the crowd and certainly brought down the house. He was one of the head-line attractions of the whole show.

Little Miss Jean Hensworth who has danced every evening has a brilliant career ahead of her on the stage. She certainly made a hit in Belleville with her delightful rendition of the different dances and with her little smile won her way into the hearts of the audience.

Jimmy dancing and the games drew a great deal of applause and is difficult at times to get a place.

Yesterday was "Kiddies day" and hundreds of them invaded the armouries after school and were enraptured with the strains of the giant orchestrophonic and the dancing of Miss Hensworth. A small admission price of 5 cents was charged and nearly all of the kiddies in the city were there. Prizes chairs were occupied by the multitude of excited youngsters.

With this, Miss Goodmurphy wore a large velour hat of pitchpipe green. Over the costume mentioned above was worn a cony blanket coat in fancy plaid of brown, sand and green. The deep fringed edge of the blanket cloth on shawl collar and around the bottom of the coat added a novel feature to this attractive offering.

Miss Gibson wore two dainty taffeta evening dresses, both beautiful style. The first was of crisp black taffeta with tucking and a front slit of sea green. Little clusters of metallic flowers gave a touch of brightness to the black and green. The second dress was a charming period frock of orange shot taffetta with narrow shirrings and bias of skirt. Reminiscent of Colonial days were the tiny drop puffed sleeves and strands of narrow black velvet ribbon.

A fine suede point coat in the popular shade of brown was worn next, with shawl collar and cuffs of persian lamb.

An elaborate gown of black georgette with touch metallic embroidered and coloured embroidery of wine, red, rosada green and gold was worn by Miss Ruth Rainbird. This was a most effective dress. Over this was worn a wine berry-of needlepoint cloth, deeply flared at sides with natural wolf collar and cuffs. A large black velvet hat with metallic embroidery completed this costume.

Miss Rainbird also wore a tangerine red afternoon dress with waistline of narrow velvet ribbons. A wide flared skirt was bound with velvet. A white saucy cavalier cuffs had several rows of the same material. A flat rose, metallic-edged, on one shoulder allowed folds of picot-edged ribbon to fall gracefully along the left side of the gown.

Mrs. Cain displayed a beautiful brown velvet afternoon frock with use of reversed material, diagonally placed as trimming. An unusually wide pearl grey thinestone belt was extending to base of coat, made a very pleasing effect. Under the coat was worn an attractive frock of and georgette whose circular neck band of brown velvet harmonized with velvet ribbon bordered the base of blouse. Wide silk fringe falling from the belt gave a graceful air to this costume.

Something a trifle different to the demand for georgette and velvet, and made more appealing by its rarity was a combination of georgette and taffeta. Each has been given two bands in watermelon shade of pink, having a plain georgette top, while wide rows of picot-edged taffetta trim made the skirt. As finishing touches a huge bow of taffeta on a shirred georgette belt was used, while copen blue flat violets gave a sharp contrast.

Miss Hallam in the premier colour for the day—black—showed a rich figured broadcloth with shawl collar and cuffs of natural black wolf, while pointed. The lining was an unusual feature of this coat, being three quarters lined with gray georgette and then tof a lavish display of Oriental embroidery in silk and metallic threads.

Under this, Miss Hallam wore a chic black velvet dress, tailored style, with a jester scalloped collar of canary yellow georgette, which was elaborated flower motifs in vivid red, green and yellow, made two magnificent bands on the front of the skirt on black background.

Another dress that was popular was a fluffy evening gown of black French net—metallic edged. Rows on rows of narrow fetid made up the skirt and gathered into tight bodice. A bright silver ribbon belt and vivid red rose was a striking feature of this dress.

Miss Vera Rainbird exhibited an afternoon dress of black velvet ribbon and two materials. The tight bodice of shell pink was heavily embroidered in metallic gold and silver with rows of black French net frills made a delectable skirt. Taffetta flowers at the neck completed a most unique costume to fall in folds to skirt.

The most unique georgette combined with bottle green velvet was a striking model of an afternoon gown. This was carried out in short bolero and bonded with velvet while full skirt was banded with velvet also. Over this was worn a luxurious sea drep green needlepoint coat, heavily embroidered in front in gold shade with three cunning circles of dyed coney to carry out design. This made an altogether unique ensemble. Bonded several other of the beautiful coats shown this featured the three-quarter lining of georgette with a bottom row of Oriental, embroidery.

Miss V. Bland wore a rich black needlepoint coat trimmed lavishly with black about base and side of coat. Another appealing coat model of cocoa brown Kenrne was shown with shawl fox. This had a novel and very new collar and cuffs of cinnamon brown a lining of the smart imitation calf-skin in brown and white. Under this was worn a black georgette gown with long tunic. This was featured in metallic embroidery of silver and gilt in arrow design. The skirt consisted of two rows pin-pleated black georgette.

As usual, the finale of magnificent fur coats from Woodley's with their gorgeous figured silk linings completed the show. The coats were of broadtail skin, gray and brown, Persian lamb, muskrat, and seal and sable.

This was the closing night of the Karnival, before the models left the stage, Mr. Bill Woodley presented each of the girls with a beautiful bouquet of American beauties. Miss Jean Hemsworth after her concluding dance was presented with a bouquet also.

"HIGHER EDUCATION" NEEDS COMMON SENSE

Little Dennie Baker is very nervous. He's ten, but small for his age and extremely frail.

"Every little thing upsets him," says Dennie's mother. "Since the day he was born it's been just one thing after another. Half a dozen doctors told us we'd never raise him. They said his heart wasn't any too good. And maybe any minute——"

Dennie's mother goes on to tell what tragedy may happen to Dennis any minute. She tells it with elaborate detail and at great length. Dennis has a great many unpleasant symptoms and mama omits none of them in her report. And all this while little Dennis listens.

Dennis listens with morbid interest. He is an intelligent, sensitive, little chap, shut off by his frailty from normal play with other boys. Also he has developed a dislike for the play in which he could participate and a morbid interest in the conversation of grown ups. Grown ups say such terrible, shuddery things—things about his bad heart—things about operations.

He hears all about Mrs. Howell's terrible operation and what an awful time Mrs. Stevens had when baby came. Mama whispered when she talked about that but he heard most of it, just the same. And all about the frightful accident to the Evans family and how they all looked when the police found them.

Shuddery things!

They make Dennis a little sick all over. They make him afraid to go out, afraid to be left alone with the little night burning in the hall, the room suddenly becomes peopled with Horrors.

He can see the Evans family just as plain—blood n' everything—he can hear Mrs. Howell's groaning and he tries to imagine how it would seem to be cut up like that. He feels that knife slipping along his flesh—the shadows leap and leer—a terrible clamminess seizes him—he longs to cry out but his heart is rocking back and forth with great, sick leaps.

At last the cry tears loose and mother comes running up the stairs with his medicine. And next day she tells Mrs. Brown how little Dennis had another one of those Terrible Nervous Spells last night.

Mrs. Baker is a good mother. She works very hard for her children and is devoted to them. She is also an intelligent woman. She belongs to a fine Parent Teachers Association, reads good books, attends lectures and is up-to-the-minute in every progressive movement which may benefit the home. And, yet, she doesn't use any sense whatever, in handling young Dennis.

Nor is she alone in this failing. The doctor who attends Dennis is quite as remiss. The doctor is a very wise man. He specializes in stomach troubles and he believes that Dennis's trouble is a matter of diet. He is full of wise discourse on diets and the proper diets are disregarded. He stands beside the bed and gives Mrs. Baker all the horrible details in order that she may safeguard Dennis's diet. And while he gives them, little Dennis's imagination and nerves run amuck.

Yes, the doctor is a very wise man, but he absolutely lacks common sense. Whole volumes are criticism applies to a lot of our modern culture.

CURSE OF LOVE

By Mildred Barbour

The truck arrived, and food was distributed to the famished passengers. Cynthia and the young man shared sandwiches and sardines, cheese and pickles. It tasted to them like an Olympian banquet.

When a faint tinge of dawn began to streak the east, they were still sitting on the steps of the car. The young man turned to Cynthia, his laughing eyes suddenly serious.

"See here," he said abruptly, "it's no use pretending any longer. I've gone and fallen in love with you."

To the young American's reckless declaration: "You gone and fallen in love with you," Cynthia attempted a frivolous retort, but it was rather ineffectual.

"Any man who will tell a girl whom he's known only a few hours that he loves her, and, especially, when he has a smudge of dust on his nose deserves anything that can happen to him," she said.

His fingers closed over hers.

"The thing I want to happen is—that you'll marry me."

Cynthia was left breathless speechless.

"Of course, you're only joking," she managed toastammer, after a while.

"Look at me," he commanded.

She raised her eyes mutinerstatly, but they faltered under his.

"Do I look as though I were joking?" he demanded.

"Why, no," she took a deep breath, "but, I'm already married."

He uttered a sharp exclamation, then:

"So am I," he admitted grimly.

She laughed nervously.

"There you see! But we've had an amusing flirtation, haven't we?"

"It's no flirtation on my part," he told her shortly. "Do you love him—your husband?"

"No." She shook her head. "I—I married him in a moment of sheer folly. A fine little joke on him—and ever," she whispered.

He put his hands on her shoulders and forced her to face him.

"What do you mean by that?" he ask ed huskily.

Sh felt the tell-tale red creeping up in her cheeks and found that she was trembling absurdly.

He drew her into his arms and kissed her deliberately on her soft red mouth.

Sh freed herself, trying to pretend an indignation that she couldn't feel.

"There, you've mussed my hair," she laughed shakily and reached for her vanity-case. "And my cheeks! I'm ravaged."

He stared out over the plain, already growing lighter in the dawn; while she repaired the damage with a miniature powder-puff.

"What are you going to do about it—about your marriage, I mean?" he asked her.

She looked and countered with a question.

"Aren't you being very disloyal to your wife?"

"No. She never cared a rap for me. I can't tell you the story, because I gave my word—and it wouldn't be playing the game. Where is your husband?" he demanded.

"In Shanghai. I was on my way there to find him when——" she hesitated "and asked Him to free me," she whispered.

His face rightened. He took her hand again and raised it to his lips.

"Then let—have I a chance?"

Cynthia answered truthfully.

"I've promised to marry another man, if I get my divorce! Oh, isn't it all frightfully complicated?"

"Not a bit of it," he answered cheerfully. "The other engagement's off—

WHAT'S NEW

Cherub's latest models accentuate flared and diagonal lines.

For her wedding to Louis Calhern, the well known actor, Mrs. Julia Lydig Hoyt selected an untrimmed frock of gold colored crepe satin flared at the hem and belted with the same material and with it was worn a long cape of black velvet with hat to match.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

I am in love with a young man one year my senior. A few months ago we broke up, much to my grief I have heard several times that he still cares for me and as far as I know he does not go with other girls. If he did care, why wouldn't he come back? Will you tell me what to do?

DIMPLES.

DIMPLES: There is nothing you can do, my dear, but seek out the companionship of other friends. If this boy was still interested in you he would come back. He may still do so, but don't put too much importance on that possibility. Go out with others, and try to forget him.

understand. You're going to marry me."

"But——" she protested.

"I know it sounds fantastic, but we'll find a way. It has to be."

Cynthia was thrilled to her fingertips.

"It's all perfectly ridiculous," she told herself. "I can't be sane. It's the adventure, the romance of this idiotic journey of mine. Or perhaps it's the influence of the East, where one does crazy things. I can't be in love with this man. And yet, I am. I'd run off with him this minute, if he'd ask me."

The impetuous young man was saying:

"I've got to get through to Shanghai on a very important errand. I'll steal a ride on a troop-train. If there's no room for you. But you must return to Pekin when the relief-train comes this morning. I'll come for you the moment my business is finished in Shanghai. Tell me your name and where you're stopping."

Cynthia managed to laugh helplessly. Tears of mirth came to her eyes and she wiped them hers cheeks.

"It's t-o-p f-u-n-n-y—not even knowing each other's n-a-m-e-s!" she gasped.

He grinned, too.

"Cupid's a tricky little cuss—isn't he? He has an infernal sense of humor."

Cynthia looked her eyes with a scrap of a handkerchief.

"I really must get to Shanghai, too, if I'm to catch up with my husband. I've already followed him half across the world and I've just missed him at every stop."

"Tell me his name—I'll find him, if I have to comb Shanghai with a fine-tooth."

"You should be able to find him at the Astor House on the fifteenth, at the very latest. Perhaps he's there already. His name is King Carson."

The young American flung back his handsome head and laughed. Then, without warning, he gathered Cynthia into his arms.

"You don't have to go to Shanghai, sweetheart. Here is King Carson—kissing you now."

Cynthia and Norma were having tea in their private sitting-room in the Pekin Hotel several days later. They greeted Demetrios to make conversation though each was abstracted, each wrapped in her own thoughts and forebodings.

Cynthia, in relating her experience of the night on the besieged train, had kept to herself the fact that King Carson was going to Shanghai only to find that his friend, Philip Kendall, was dead. She didn't dare tell Norma, didn't dare drop the slightest hint, to prepare her for the Ordeal that might be in store for her. She was excited, reckless—and afraid.

Suppose Philip Kendall were really dead? Suppose King Carson had been caught in the fighting between the Chinese troops and the Rebels? Would he found him again—and loved him—only to lose him in this cruel way, after all!

Norma was anathetic in her misery, but Cynthia found inaction almost unbearable.

There was Basil Harcourt is worry about, too. He had not returned from his pilgrimage to restore the opal to the temple. Cynthia shuddered when she recalled that its theft was said to be punishable by death. Suppose Harcourt had been seized and made to pay the penalty for his Chinese friend Lucretia's crime?

This afternoon afternoon wore on. Twilight came, and Cynthia drew the curtains.

It was then that Therese, still fearful of this foreign land, and more than ever disapproving, came to the door and announced:

"Mr. Carson and Mr. Kendall."

Cynthia gasped and flushed rosy red. She took a step forward—and was swept into Carson's strong arms.

Norma went white as death. She rose and stared her husband, her eyes mutely asking a question.

He came to her, took both her hands in his, and looked down into her blue eyes that were swimming with tears.

"Norma, Carson has told me everything. It is true? Do you want me back? Is it I—and not Stokes, after all?"

Her head went down on his shoulder and her arms reached up to encircle his neck.

"It was always you, Philip. There was never any thought for any one else."

He kissed her tenderly, but he said, speaking so that the other pair could not hear—a useless precaution, since they were completely absorbed in each other.

"But, I saw you once with him in your car. In the afternoon of the day you left home. And it was that night that I found him with you at the beach, and you had me to go away."

She laid a soft hand over his lips.

"I'll tell you everything now," she promised. And she did.

"I was heart-broken, Philip. I believed you'd married me only because you owed my father money. Oh, I know now how all that came about. Daddy told me. I understand what a terrible position it was for you. But I think I believe—you see I'm——"

"I'll spend the rest of my life proving it," he told her gravely. "My poor little Norma. What a mess I made of it!

"No. It was my fault. I should have trusted you. Then this awful misunderstanding and separation would have been impossible."

"And you're through spooning, you two," interrupted King Carson, from the room, "you might give us a moment. I'd like to be congratulated on my unerring good taste in falling in love with your sister—it isn't every chap who marries a veiled lady and later meets her face to face and falls in love with her again—which recognizing her."

"You were always a fool for luck, King," laughed Kendall. "It was pure, unadulterated chance that put him on my trail in Shanghai," he explained to Norma. "He'd come to identify my body, you know. There was a rumor that I'd been bumped off—"

Norma gasped and turned reproachfully to Cynthia.

"You knew—and you never told me?" Cynthia laughed.

"Now, aren't you glad I saved you that extra worry?"

Therese tapped at the door.

"Mister Harcourt has returned," she announced to Cynthia. "He wishes to know if he may see Madomoiselle?"

Carson's face darkened.

"Harcourt?. Who is he?"

Cynthia found herself answering weekly:

"He's the man I'm engaged to."

"What the——" Carson was beginning, but Cynthia silenced him with "Wait a minute, King. I've got to explain something."

"I rather think you have," he muttered grimly.

She told him quickly about Basil Harcourt, about the black opal, about Harcourt's departure for England on the eve of their wedding.

"That's how it happened to marry you, you see."

Carson was grinning now.

"Bring him in. I want to shake his hand. I guess I owe him a lifetime of gratitude and—and I'll be glad to."

"But—" stammered Cynthia, "I'd promised again to marry him, if he restored the opal to the temple."

"I'll settle that in short order," said Carson grimly.

But, after all, there was no need for anything to be discussed or settled. When Harcourt, looking tired and travel-stained, entered the room and saw the two couples, he smiled. He understood perfectly, and he bowed himself to the inevitable.

If Stomach is Sour

Hereafter instead to soda take a little "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" in water any time for indigestion or acid, gassy stomach, and relief will come instantly.

Better Than Soda

For fifty years genuine "Phillips Milk of Magnesia" has been prescribed by physicians because it overcomes three times as much acid in the stomach as a saturated solution of bicarbonate of soda, leaving the stomach sweet and free from all gases. Besides, it neutralizes acid fermentations in the bowels and gently urges this sour-ing waste from the system without purging. It is far more pleasant to take than soda.

THIS GREAT TONIC RENEWS STRENGTH

Simply Because it Enriches and Builds Up the Blood

In no trouble is delay or neglect more dangerous than in anaemia, which means poverty of the blood. It is very common in young girls and in those women who are overworked confined within doors. It make its approach in so stealthy a manner that it is often well developed before its presence is recognized. But taken in time there is a tonic that so enriches and purifies the blood that good health and strength soon comes to the former weak, anaemic sufferer. This tonic is Dr. Williams' Pink Pills which for years have been the most successful blood-builder known, and have credit for restoring to good health thousands and thousands of people who have suffered from some of the thin, with King Carson beside her, lead ills which first manifested themselves in weak, watery blood.

The correction of anaemic conditions by Dr. Williams' Pink Pills is as certain as anything can be. As proof of this Miss Margaret A. Smith, Bur-goyne, Sask., says: "After having a severe attack of jaundice I was left very weak and run-down condition. I was pale and my nerves on edge. I could not sleep at night and would toss and turn for hours at a time. I finally decided to try Dr. Williams' Pink Pills, and soon began to feel better and after taking a few more boxes of the pills. I felt so strong as ever, and could thoroughly enjoy my rest at night. Now I always recommend these pills to any friends who may be ailing."

Better sleep, steady nerves, improved appetite, increased vigor—all these can be yours by taking Dr. Williams' Pink Pills. Begin them today. Sold by all medicine dealers, or by mail post paid at 50 cents a box from The Dr. Williams Medicine Co., Brockville, Ont.

CAPITOL THEATRE

Heralded as the greatest war picture ever produced, "The Big Parade" famous production of King Vidor, commences a four day run at the Capitol Theatre Monday. This great film has enjoyed record breaking runs wherever it has been shown, and has been seen by more than five million people. After considerable effort and expense the management of the Capitol Theatre has secured its picture for the approval of local theatregoers and it promises to be a real treat. John Gilbert and Renee Adoree play the leading roles and the story is by Laurence Stallings. Come early Monday to the Capitol to get a seat. The film will be shown afternoons and evenings at popular prices.

REGENT THEATRE

Dorothy Gish stars in "London" the Paramount importation to be shown Monday at Regent Theatre. The story is an original for the screen by Thomas Burke, author of "Limehouse Nights." Herbert Wilcoxdirected. It is said that the film is of exceptional interest because of the authentic London backgrounds seen during the story's action.

BELLE THEATRE

Victor Seastrom'ster's sixth production for Fox Films' "The Return of Peter Grimm," comes to the Belle Theatre next Monday for a 3-day run, with Alec B. Francis in the same role in which David Warfield won international renown.

Leading romantic roles were assigned Richard Walling and Janet Gaynor.

The cast includes John St. Polis, Elizabeth Patterson, John Roche, Florence Gilbert, Lionel Belmore, Mickey McBan, Sammy Cohen and others.

The screen version of the Belasco play is by Brandon Fleming.

The stage play was produced by David Belasco and raved to be an outstanding success.

GIANTS WALLOP PIRATES BY 6-5

Champions Dropped To Third Place Following 3 To 2 Defeat

New York, September 24.—The New York Giants jarred a full game out of Pittsburgh's lead on the pinnacle in the hard baseball relief yesterday with an exciting 6 to 5 victory at Pittsburgh over the Pirates, while Cincinnati and McGraw men back in second place as the Cardinals went under to the Braves 7 to defeat rendered the Giants' vanquished foe and one half-game. The attendance was 15,000.

The Pirates carried a five-run lead into the seventh, but Carmen Hill, who had defeated the Giants five times previously, weakened and four runs crossed the plate. With the bases loaded and two out, Lindstrom dropped a Texas League single that brought in two runs and another one came home when Lloyd Waner and made a bad peg to third.

Training by one run in the ninth, with one out, Muller walked and Lindstrom's hit to center took a high hop that turned it into a three-bagger. Rowdy Jem a short sacrifice fly to Lloyd Waner and scored Lindstrom from third on a very close play. The Giants seemed to get the best of the umpire's decision, for it looked as if Smith, in taking Lloyd Waner's throw, put the ball on Lindstrom a second before he reached the plate.

Norman Plitt, who did rescue work in the seventh and eighth, got credit for the victory. Benton hurled the ninth. Barnhart, batting for Hill, walked Lloyd Waner singled and stole, and, running for Barnhart, took second. Comorsky's bunt was grabbed by Benton to force Brickell. Paul Waner grounded out and with a man on third and second, Wright was called out on strikes.

The pennant hopes of the Cardinals were given a setback when we bloody Braves won the second game of the St. Louis series, 3 to 2, on Powell's home-run in the ninth. The Cardinals thus dropped to third place, three games behind the Pirates.

The game was a pitching duel between the veteran Grover Cleveland Alexander, who had won 20 games this season, and Joe' Benewich. Each allowed seven hits.

Cincinnati divided a double-header with Brooklyn at Cincinnati, winning by 8 to 3 in the first clash and losing the other till by 4 to 3. The Reds landed on Elliott for four runs in the fifth inning of the opener to tuck the game away. Ray Moss, recently obtained by the Robins from the Memphis Club of the southern League, hurled the Brooklyn victory, although Clark came to his rescue, in the ninth when the Reds threatened.

Hal. Carlson held Philadelphia to seven hits yesterday while the Cubs hammered the offerings of Ferguson and Willoughby to shut out the Phillies, 10 to 0, in Chicago. In one big inning the Cubs got five runs off six hits, which included three doubles, two singles and a triple.

"GOLFER'S FEET" A NEW AILMENT

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press) — Mr. Golfer, do you have sharp pains in the instep and calf of the leg? If you do, the chances are that you are afflicted with the latest ailment, commonly called "golfer's foot."

Dr. Frank Purch, president of the Illinois Association of Chiropodists, declared recently that orthopedist specialists throughout the country have been called upon to give relief to this new condition. The ailment is caused by extreme exertion of the feet while the golf player is in the stance preparing to strike the ball. This puts the weight of the body on the arches of the feet, resulting in unnatural strain, tending to break down the arches and throwing the feet out of alignment, stated Dr. Purch.

EASY TO DARKEN YOUR GRAY HAIR

When you darken your hair with Sage Tea and Sulphur, no one can tell, because it's done so naturally, so evenly. Preparing this mixture, though, at home is musty and troublesome. You can buy at any drug store the ready-to-use preparation, improved by the addition of other ingredients called "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound." You just dampen a sponge or soft brush with it and draw this through your hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning all gray hair disappears, and, after another application or two, your hair becomes beautifully darkened, glossy and luxuriant.

Gray faded hair, though no disgrace is a sign of old age that as we all desire a youthful and attractive appearance, get busy at once with Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound and look years younger.

FORMER RECTOR APPOINTED

Kingston, Sept. 24.—Rev. Principal A. H. McGreer, at one time rector of St. Mark's, Belleville, has been appointed as a member of the Protestant Committee of the Council of Public Instruction to fill the vacancy caused by the resignation of Hon. H. Mr. Marler, this appointment being made at the quarterly meeting of the committee held this morning in Quebec City.

MALICIOUS DAMAGE

Oshawa, Sept. 24.—Andrew Calogeorge of the Olympia ice cream and confectionary parlor, Oshawa, was arrested by warrant yesterday afternoon shortly after 4 o'clock and charged before Magistrate A. P. Hind with doing malicious damage to property. No evidence was heard and the accused was allowed out on $2,000 bail. He will appear next Thursday morning.

THIEF CAUGHT

Port Hope, Sept. 24.—Succumbing to the pangs of medicated invalid port wine, two foreigners answering to the names of Mike Kuzyk and Ivan Perstram, became highly intoxicated yesterday afternoon. While their merry revelry was on an officer arrested them on King street west. No limited was the knowledge of English that it was with great difficulty that Magistrate Hind got them to plead guilty. They were fined $10 each and costs, with the option of 14 days in jail.

The next time it will be a fine of $200, said the bench.

GIVES DENIAL

Port Hope, Sept. 24.—John Stacey, Conservative candidate in the last provincial election gives an emphatic denial to the story which appeared in the Oshawa Daily Times last night to the effect that he would be a candidate for the Mayoralty in order to secure a liquor store for Oshawa.

"A statement in the Oshawa Daily Times" called upon me yesterday and asked if I had anything to say regarding as to my selling upon the Ontario Liquor Commission and I told him I was through with it long ago."

Mr. Stacey told the "Daily Times" this morning. "I told him I had carried out my promise to the Reform er at the council meeting and I had nothing more to say than what I had already said at the council meeting and in the "Daily Times."

SCHOOL ENTERED

Oshawa, Sept. 24.—King Street Public School was entered sometime during the night according to a report made to the police. While nothing of any value was taken this is the second occurrence within a short time. Quelled the Daily Times today, as to whether the doors or windows had been left open by the Principal, Miss E. M. Holmes, stated they were all closed this morning. She is at a loss to know how the entry was made. The police are investigating.

RAN INTO HORSES

Petrolea, Sept. 22.—Driving in a car along the Keene road, before daybreak yesterday morning, a farmer named Wilson, living near Keene, ran into a number of horses belonging to Benny Barrett, also living on the Keene road, and injured one of the animals so badly that its destruction was called for. The unfortunate horse had one of its legs broken, the bones being completely shattered. Other horses were badly cut.

Humane Society Inspector R. C. Smith, of Peterboro, put the injured animal out of its agony by shooting it.

HIT BY TRUCK

Campbellford, September 22.—As a result of being struck by a light truck the six-year-old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William Grieves, Bridge street, is suffering severe injuries. About ten minutes past five yesterday afternoon, Edward Plummer was driving his service truck around the corner of Bridge and Front streets, when three men on the crossing temporarily blocked his path. He slowed down to allow them time to pass and did not see the little girl step out in front of his truck until he was "right on her." Instantly Mr. Plummer reached for the emergency brake and the switch, and in doing so thinks his sleeve must have caught the gir lover under the wheel.

15 DAYS IN JAIL

Kingston, Sept. 23.—Fifteen days in jail, was the sentence Magistrate Pat ell meted out in the police court on Thursday morning, to Ernest Robinson, a young man who gave his address as Bay street, when he pleaded guilty to a charge of driving a car while intoxicated.

Robinson ran amuck about 2 o'clock this morning, on Barrett street, when he drove his car into another auto parked on the curb and damaged it.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Dear Mr. Editor:

The Wild Geese are at Belleville's door, knocking to come in and be friends with us just as they do for Jack Miner down at Kingsville, but after giving them an invitation, we have shut the door in their face.

The editor in charge, in an outstanding editorial of September 17th, has called Belleville's bluff. The title of this article about Belleville's bluff. The title of this article about Belleville is "Bird Lovers Lethargic", and it goes on to say that Belleville invited Jack Miner down here and gave him the big talk about appreciating his hopes and aims, and that the big-hearted conversationalist took us at our word and so on and so on.

What a pity it is that the citizens of Belleville would let their name into print in such a way.

Where are the enthusiastic men who proclaimed their deep appreciation of Jack Miner's work and declared they dedicated in or near Belleville? They were very anxious about their visit to the Kingsville Sanctuary?

These and many other similar questions, Mr. Editor, will make happy reading in the supposed city of the dreadful. Let us not dwell upon what we have failed to do, but rather let us quickly take the bull by the horns and the Toronto people have handed to us, and let us awaken to what we can do without spending a cent or time, if we will only arise and do it. We are very apt to record our failings when pointed out to us. That is natural, but isn't it also natural for us to correct those failings after we have time to think it over? We must just realize that no Toronto paper or people will be given another chance to call attention to Belleville in anything but a progressive light.

So, let's do what we promised to do. If we did not promise to do anything, we convinced Jack Miner that Belleville wanted a Sanctuary, and he did his part, so let's do ours.

Now, here's the situation: Jack Miner sent down five Canada geese to Mr. Walter Turner, President of the Jack Miner League. These geese are held waiting for enclosure over in the Don Bleecker Sanctuary. It is impossible to put them in the open pond of the Sanctuary until some sort of an enclosure is provided. Once the geese are there, the Jack Miner League has hopes of Federal aid and has reason to believe it will be received. The captive decoy geese are in Mr. Turner's yard, and even now there are many wild geese flying over this yard and honking a message, but they are afraid to come down, naturally, as they go over to the Sanctuary and come down there for a brief spell. If our decoy geese were in the Sanctuary we already would have it an accomplished fact.

I understand from conversations with Mr. Turner, that it would take not more than one hundred and fifty dollars to put up an enclosure for only one hundred dollars would do it, these geese in the Sanctuary. Possibly Mr. Charles Hanna and Mr. Turner figured it out quite similarly.

The Jack Miner League is just starting, and cannot be expected to have members or money enough to do this work before it has really had a chance to get going. Its very life depends upon the interest which Belleville takes in it.

Are there not ten men in Belleville who will become interested and help Mr. Turner? Just a little help and Belleville will be giving the wild geese the chance which the inviting decoy geese promise them. I understand that Mr. Turner has many more who have been to his yard this summer to see and admire the geese. I am told that several gentlemen interviewed wanted the geese for show purposes. In all this there must be real desire on the part of Belleville to see more geese and know them better and let them visit the farms and their generous and lovable friend Jack Miner.

Can we not get this fence for Mr. Turner?

Mr. Turner loves the work for the joy of it. He has given his time and his personal enthusiasm. He is doing all he can, and is willing to do more to try and measure up to the wonderful faith which Jack Miner has placed in him as the personal keeper of these birds. The whole venture really depends on the man behind the gun, so to speak. He is the man on the ground, the one who feeds and watches and knows the birds, in whom rests ultimate success with the Wild Geese. The spirit and soul of the sanctuary dwells in the man on the job. It is by him that the wild life look as their friend. We must centre our love and appreciation of Jack Miner in his human duplicate here in Belleville, if we are to build support for the great naturalist's ideals and practical aims. And Mr. Walter Turner is cut out for the role. He is here and on the job. It's Belleville's turn.

If that fence is put up now, and the geese given a chance to become acquainted with the layout this fall, we may see some nice sights next Spring, for if wild geese are even now birding with the back yard, what will happen when they see a secure enclosure with their friends here in it?

And last of all: The only permit, Federal and Provincial, to keep wild geese in the county of Hastings, is that which Mr. Turner has and hopes to honour for the joy of the work and the benefit of Belleville.

Thank you, Mr. Editor, for the space in your valuable column. I hope it will bring Mr. Turner and The Jack Miner League the support they must have if they are to serve Belleville in this matter.

The New Magnificent Special Six Sedan $1475 Delivered

THE high-compression engine principle may be new to some cars now making a feature of it, but to Chandler it's as old as balloon tires or 4-wheel brakes!

Chandler's Cross Peak Motor needs no special cylinder head—it is, and has been for years, a complete high-compression motor in itself.

And if you want to feel how high-compression power really feels, get inside any one of Chandler's two dozen new models, either a Six or a Royal Eight, and step on the gas!

Another thing Chandler is the one and only car in its price class with a chassis that lubricates itself the moment you press a plunger.

Is it any wonder that Chandler is making whirlwind gains in sales?

Why Firestone Dips the Cords of the Carcass in a Rubber Solution

In the old Fabric Tire, internal friction was excessive, and mileage low, the square-woven construction of the fabric being impossible to insulate with rubber.

Then came the Cord tire, with cords in each ply laid parallel—no interwoven cross-threads—permitting greater insulation of the cords, one from another, but the cords were not insulated with rubber.

After much research, Firestone chemists found a method of insulating every fibre of every cord with rubber and called it "Gum-Dipping." This process reduces internal friction and gives thousands of extra miles.

Your local Firestone Dealer will gladly explain the many advantages that only Firestone tires can give. See him today.

INFANTILE PARALYSIS IS CONTAGIOUS

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 21 (C.P.)—"There have been outbreaks for several years in various [illegible] but never have the authorities been able to [illegible] y themselves as to the cause of th outbreak," commented Dr. C. J. Hastings, M.O.H., in regard to the epidemic of infantile paralysis reported in Kingston. "Undoubtedly it is contagious," said the M.O.H., pointing out that cases were ineligible in Toronto at present.

PRINCESS ILEANA CLOSE TO DEATH

Adventure In Black Sea More Serious Than First Reported

Bucharest, Sept. 20.—The eighteen-year-old Princess Ileana is the survivor of an almost fatal adventure on the stormy Black Sea, adding another chapter to the story of the princelings of the royal house of Rumania whose escapades have aroused or annoyed their subjects over a score of years.

The newspaper Universal carries an account of a trip the Princess made with five naval officers from Constanta in a small open boat, which was caught in a storm and toured about for several hours before the occupants were rescued.

The party left Constanta early in the day and when out of sight of land were caught in a heavy storm against which the boat was helpless. Waves continually swept over the little craft, drenching the occupants and forcing them to work feverishly in bailing out the water.

Six hours later they were sighted thirty miles off shore by the German boat Arta, which rescued them when they were almost exhausted. The Rumanian patrol boat Fugitia was hurried to the Arta and brought the Princess and the officers back to Constanta about midnight, when she returned to the palace, where she is in residence with her ladies-in-waiting.

Her royal mother and Premier Bratiano did not learn of the affair until the boat day, and it was not its way into print before the court could make any attempt to suppress the news if it was so inclined.

The public seems to view the affair as one of those escapades which annoy more than they amuse and the exploit, which has become an important bit of conversation for Rumanians inclined to gossip, is generally frowned upon, as were most of those of the exiled Prince Carol.

It is understood that Queen Marie intends sending Princess Ileana on a tour, probably to England.

MANY FEATURES OF CENTENARY

Delegates Of Many Nations To Attend Celebration At Varsity

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 20 (By Canadian Press).—On March 15, 1927, the University of Toronto completed the first century of its history which began in 1827, when his Majetsy, King George IV, gave official approval to the Charter of King's College, an educational centure which was then gradually becoming a reality in the back-woods Province of Upper Canada.

Arrangements have now been completed for the proper celebration of the University Centenary, and the days of October 5th to 8th have been set aside for suitable celebrations in connection with that occasion. Invitations have been issued to every important University and learned society throughout the world and it is expected that there will arrive in Toronto in response to these invitations 215 delegates, representatives of many nations. Besides these official delegates the student body of the University of Toronto have also invited students delegates from various colleges throughout Europe, America and Canada and it is expected that twenty-five of these will be the guests of the University Body during the Celebration.

Wednesday, October 5th will be set apart for student activities in connection with the Centenary and that evening Hart House will be the scene of the Undergraduates' Centenary ball, which promises to surpass anything yet held in that building. On Thursday and Friday mornings lectures on some aspect of Canadian history since Confederation will be given in Convocation Hall by the Prime Minister of Quebec, Hon. Taschereau and the Prime Minister of Ontario, Hon. G. Howard Ferguson. The opening ceremony and reception of delegates will take place on the afternoon of Thursday in the University Arena. Immediately following that there will be the dedication of the carillon which is being at present erected in the Soldiers' Memorial Tower. On Friday evening the 6000 graduates of University who will be returning for the Centenary Celebration will hold their Centenary Ball in Hart House.

The rugby game between McGill and Varsity on Saturday and the Interfaculty Track Meet on Friday will be the chief sport events, while a Undergraduates' parade with floats on the campus and through the city will form one of the spectacles for the entertainment of the guests and others.

The Celebration will conclude with a divine service on Sunday afternoon in the University Arena conducted by the Rt. Hon. and Rev. Cody, to which everybody is welcome. Music will be provided by the Mendelssohn Choir.

MORE TWINS ARE WANTED IN B.C.

Vancouver, B.C., Sept. 21. (C.P.)—A plevring cry for more twins has been raised in New Westminster. The Provincial Exhibition has just made the discovery that there is a lamentable dearth of entries in the twins class of the Better Contest. It must not be assumed that the success of the Provincial Exhibition is jeopardized by this shortage of twins. Seme people would patronize the fair even if there was no baby show; all the same, the Exhibition officials can not be held altogether blameless in the predicament that has arisen. They should not have waited until the 11th hour before sending out their SOS for twins, says Pr. W. Lunn in the Province.

CANADA GREAT HUNTING GROUND

Various Game Plentiful In Respective Haunts In Dominion

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 22 (By Canadian Press).—Canada is rapidly becoming one of the leading big game countries of the world. With each province offering its characteristic attractions, sportsmen from all corners of the earth are from year to year, manifesting a growing realisation of the plentiful supply of original stock to be found in the many hunting parties of the Dominion.

Moose, caribou, deer, bighorn sheep, Rocky Mountain goat, bear, grizzly bear and lynx are the chief big game animals which may be taken in Canada. For those whose fancy leads them to pursue small game, duck, brant, goose, woodcock, rail, pheasant, prairie chicken, ruffed grouse and Hungarian partridge may be shot.

In the Maritime provinces, Quebec, Ontario and the Prairie provinces, moose, deer and bear may also be hunted; while, in most of these provinces, caribou may also be killed in season. Throughout the game centres of the three Prairie Provinces of Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, and in British Columbia on the Pacific slope, buffalo and antelope are protected at all seasons. In Alberta and British Columbia, where the open season for bighorn sheep and mountain goat.

Wise laws, close seasons and sanctuaries account for the efficient conservation of the Dominion's large original stock of big game. Climatic and soil conditions, which have given Canada her wheat fields and her timber lands, have also provided grazing grounds and winter shelters for a great variety of big game.

Canadians have become seized of the fact that game is a great natural resource. In early days, settlers, striving to clear lands for cultivated fields, looked upon the forest and the game it contained as a phase of developments that must pass away. In 1825 it was predicted that the moose would make her early disappearance from a certain district. Today, one hundred years later, moose are much more plentiful in that section than they were then. People today, value big game too highly to run any risks of its extermination in Canada by poaching and pot-hunting.

Hunting in the Dominion is not carried on at the expense of any other interest—a marked contrast to many parts of Europe where in old times arable fields were turned into forests to make hunting grounds for the wealthy. To great stretches of land suited mainly for the growing of timber and to the forests scattered throughout parts of the various provinces, regulated hunting is not an injury. On the other hand this contact of town dwellers with the great outdoors is really a benefit since it makes them conscious of the value of the woodlands.

ELECTRIC CLOCK SHOWN IN CITY FOR FIRST TIME

Single Dry Cell Will Run It For Five Years

Have you ever seen an electrical clock? During the past few years almost everything around the home has become electrified and a great deal of energy saved thereby, and now the newest in Belleville is in electrical clock.

At th store of J. J. Newtree, Jeweller of Bridge Street East, you may see the first clock of its kind in the city the French Made "Bruno" clock, one which keeps perfect time for a life time.

Gone are the winding and settings, for this one requires no setting, or winding, a single dry cell operates the clock and saves al winding and attention; and just imagine this cell need be changed only every five years! And the clock requires no upkeep of any kind.

With the clock self contained as it is there are no connections at all necessary, no wiring is required, and attached to every sale of a clock of this kind is a five year guarantee. That sounds fair enough doesn't it

Mr. Rowntree whom is himself an expert English Watchmaker and Jeweler regards the clock as about the most accurate timepiece yet constructed, stating there is not the slightest reason why such a clock should not run for years with absolute exactitude.

Be that ait may, the clock is most and not the slightest variance unique, and well worth inspection on your part. And it retails for about $35.00, not any more than the price of anlother good clock, it is a beautiful any home. See this remarkable clock by made timepiece and anornament in athe store of J. J. Rowntree on Bridge Street East.

USED IN CHINA MANY YEARS AGO

Some Chinese still hold spectacles in superstitious reverence and it is considered correct to remove them when greeting a friend or social superior.

The reason Chinese etiquette demands the removal of glasses before a ward of greeting is spoken, is the belief that there must be no obscurity of vision between friends. Theoretically, this is quite a charming gesture of respect, but as a matter of fact, it defeats the very object it is supposed to accomplish. Instead of being corrected glasses—clear the vision instead of obscuring it, while their removal makes objects and persons appear indistinct to the wearer.

Spectacles were used in China hundreds of years ago, but they were not fitted with the accurately-ground lenses available to wearers of glasses today. Our system of eye-examination is thoroughly modern and scientific and it will be to your very decided advantage to let us take care of the proper fitting and adjusting of your glasses

WINTER FRONT PREVENTS MOTOR REPAIR BILLS

This One Is Automatic And Fits Any Car

With the coming of colder weather in the none too distant future, the thoughts of the motorist naturally will soon turn to the matter of the cold weather attention necessary to be given the car. It is a fact, automotive experts agree, that cold is the cause of fifty to seventy five per cent of all costly repair bills to the motor.

Every spring finds repair shops overtaxed—motorists paying for the damage wrought by cold. Many authorities agree that it's the warming up period in chill and cold weather that causes greatest damage. The "choke" period when, to get your motor operating smoothly, you drive miles with the choke out.

Unconsciously you are flooding your motor with raw gasoline that will not vaporize until the motor is hot. It washes cylinders and cylinder walls clean of the oil film of protection, bringing metal to metal contact that scores and pits metal surfaces. Excessive crankcase dilution and corrosion follow. Gasoline consumption is increasing at a great rate.

This is the danger period that Winter front eliminates. The inter-Front on any car, eliminates the need for excess use of the choke. It keeps cold out and heat in hermetically. It shortens the warming up period and keeps motor temperature always at the highest efficiency.

Pines Winterfront is the only automatic radiator shutter on the market. There is nothing to get out of order and nothing to remember. You put it on and forget it. It will improve the appearance of any car and will outlast the car itself.

Asetisfied and Sons of Moira St., E. Agents for Reo and Wolverine, are exclusive local Pines Winterfront Dealers and will gladly demonstrate this remarkable front to you at any time.

WILL MINIMUM SPEED BE NEXT?

Danger Of Accidents Is Increased By Slow Driver

Next, a minimum speed law?

"From several different sources, notably the Pennsylvania State Highway Commission and the Traffic Committee of the Chicago Association of Commerce, comes information that tends to indicate that the problem of keeping automobiles from going too fast, once the chief concern of traffic operators, will shortly be confronted with the problem of keeping them from going too slowly," says Mr. Aseltine, local Reo distributor.

Mr. Aseltine went on to say that both reports stated that the high "slow poke," as well as the speeder, is responsible for accidents, and that safety is best achieved when uniform speed in the traffic lane makes it unnecessary for the fast driver to "cut around" the slower one.

"Recent investigations by the Chicago Association of Commerce's traffic committee cites the 'ten-mile-an-hour-danger' as the chief cause for roadways as the cause of traffic delays and accidents," he continued.

In explaining the data, Mr. Aseltine said: "Capacity of a highway, these investigations tend to show, is materially decreased, while the likelihood of accident is greatly increased, by the exceedingly slow driver. A uniform speed of 20 to 25 miles an hour in the traffic lane has been found to reduce the greatest road capacity, or, in other words, a highway can accommodate more automobiles when all are traveling at this speed. The driver who goes more slowly than this, lowers the efficiency of a highway, it is claimed."

Commander Motor Is Economical

Performance and economy are combined to an unusual degree in the Big Six motor that owns Studebaker's Commander models. A series of tests made under the supervision of motor clubs officials in sixty-two cities proved the Commander's gasoline economy with a average of 20 miles to the Imperial gallon. And the Commander is the car that set the world records by traveling 5000 miles in less than 5000

SHOES PROPERLY REPAIRED GUARD KIDDIES' HEALTH

School season again and the kiddies are back on the job. Likewise it is Fall once more and wet rainy streets will soon greet the feet of the pedestrian. One of the very best means to ensure health for that child of yours is to make sure that he or she has shoes that are kept in proper repair and which will keep the feet dry. Wet feet is it agreed by practically all who know are the direct cause of many colds, and in many cases resulting in pneumonia, so why take any chances with the childrens health.

Send the shoes around to B. W. Brown and Campbell Street and have them repaired as only the most up-to-date equipment on the market and experienced shoemakers can do the job. Then the little feet wil be protected from the wet and all la attendant evils.

CANADA'S NATIONAL MUSEUM

Long before the days of confederation, in 1844, the first Director of the Geological Survey, Sir William Logan commenced a natural history museum which has existed continuously since then and is now known as the National Museum of Canada. Each year this institution sends out field parties to widely separated parts of the Dominion to make investigations in natural history and ethnology, and to augment the already vast collections of specimens housed in the Museum at Ottawa. Eleven parties are in the field this summer, five for anthropological work, five for biological, and one for mineralogical, in addition to the field parties of the Geological Survey, whose work is so closely associated with that of the Museum.

CHARGES AGAINST WINDSOR POLICE

Alderman To Bring Matter Up In Council Meeting To-night

STAGE RAIDS

Alleged Blind Pigs Receive Visits Over The Week-End

Windsor, Ont., Sept. 26.—When Windsor City Council meets tonight, Alderman C. Curry, first year member of the council, will bring up definite charges of irregularities centering around Daniel Thompson, chief of Windsor Police, he said today. These charges will call for a complete report no less and "either" which Alderman Curry says, certain officials of the department pocketed in 1926-27 and his resolution calling for a report will also demand a Provincial inquiry into the police administration.

Sergt. T. James Wilkinson, of the city's finger print bureau is also named in the alderman's list of complaints. Chief Thompson has been head of the local force since 1920. His cards here from Peterboro, Ont.

46 Arrests Made

Windsor, Sept. 26.—Staging spectacular raids on alleged blind pigs at 457 Ouellette Avenue and 327 Albert Street, Windsor City and Provincial Police Saturday night attracted big audiences. The crowds that gathered in front of the Ouellette Avenue address, situated in the heart of the city's business district, was dispersed by some undisciplined person sprinkling them with water from a garden hose.

During the week-end no fewer than forty persons, including several women were arrested. The city police successfully raided six places, arresting six men who are charged with either the keeping of liquor for sale or having liquor in places other than private dwellings and one alleged gambling house operator. Provincial officers raided a house on Roseine Road, Sandwich East, where arrests were made.

STRUCK BY ENGINE AND SERIOUSLY HURT

Richard Cole, 207 1-2 Front street, a yardman in the employe of the Canadian National Railway is lying in the Belleville General Hospital in a serious condition as a result of his being struck by a yard engine in the East end yard shortly after seven o'clock this morning. He is suffering from severe injuries to his back and a badly lacerated head besides other bruises about the body.

Cole was apparently standing on the track and did not notice the approach of the locomotive which struck and flung him some distance. Workers in the yards picked him up and the Canadian National physician was called to the scene. The physician ordered him removed to the hospital and the C.N.R. ambulance was rushed into service.

Cole's right car was partly torn off following his fall and reports from the hospital state that his condition late this afternoon was still serious. Cole is not a married man.

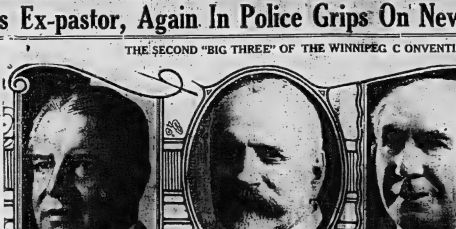

SHOT CHILD TO SPITE PARENTS

New York, N.Y., Sept. 26.—Seven year old girl was shot to death as the result today by a 25 year old man in revenge for the displeasure of his daughter, the police allege.

The girl, Angelique Constance, was asleep in her bed at her home when she was instantly killed by a shotgun discharged, according to the police, by Maggio Arcello who escaped over the roof tops. Relatives told the police that Arcello was enraged over the recent elopement of his daughter with a young man introduced by the slain child's parents.

PEACE REIGNED IN RIVAL CITIES

Visitors From Across The Line At Rotary Luncheon Today

Carthaginians and Romans were not flying at each other's throats today as they did in the good old times when "Hannibal Was A Man," but, in the most famously, for the modern Carth aginians and Romans only came together across the line, from two cities in the little old state of New York, Carthage and Rome. They were accompanying the Watertown Rotarians on a friendly visit to the Belleville Rotary Club.

About fifty strong and riding in two huge busses, Watertown Rotarians Romans, Carthaginians and the Mayor of Kingston, as well as a few others packed up along the line, swooped down on Belleville this morning to attend as guests the regular Monday noon Rotary luncheon.

After welcoming the visitors at the luncheon, President Owen Herity, of the local club handed over the chairmanship of the luncheon to the President of the Watertown Club, and that organization handled the programme most efficiently until the end of the luncheon.

This afternoon the visitors started back for their respective home towns, boistrous and happy.

FINISHING FLIGHT AT CAPE TOWN

Johannesburg, Africa, Sept. 26. — Lieut. R. Bentley, instructor for South African Air Force, landed here this afternoon in a De Haviland "Moth" which is flying from Hendon, England to Cape Town. He intends to leave for Kimberly and Cape Town tomor row on last the stage of his flight.

UNITED STATES ENTRY FORCED TO WITHDRAW—Italians Fail To Finish

London, Sept. 26.—Great Britain today captured the famous Schneider Cup from Italy, says an official message received by the British Admiralty from Venice, Italy, where the race was held today. The winning pilot was stated in the message to be Lieut. S. Webster. The race, which was for seaplanes of speed among aeroplanes, had been scheduled for yesterday but was postponed because of unfavorable weather..

U. S. Plane Disabled

Great Britain and Italy were the only entrants, the United States entrant having been forced to withdraw because of inability to get his plane ready in sufficient time for competition.

Lieut. Worsley, also of the British Naval Aviation Forces, was second, Lieut. Kinkead, Great Britain, and all three of the Italian competitors were forced to give up before completing the seven circuits marked out along the front of Up Lido bathing beach.

Famous Cup Trophy

The Schneider Maritime Aviation Cup, one of the most famous trophies of aviation, was captured by Italy from the United States last year, Major De Bernad, of the Italian Navy setting a new record for seaplanes averaging four and one-half miles a minute. The Major crossed the finish line with an average speed of 246.- 496 miles an hour.

Great Britain, which did not compete last year, made unusual efforts this year to capture the cup, her planes being developed and worked out in the strictest secrecy. Italy also preserved secrecy and little was made public concerning her entrants.

Broke All Speed Records

Lieut. Webster averaged 453.282 kilometers an hour, about 281.56 miles while Lieut. Worsley averaged 439.472 kilometers about 273. miles an hour. The course was 350 nilometers (217.483 miles). Plane used was super-marine Napier B. It consisted of a speed speed of 281 miles an hour broke all existing speed records.

Great Britain's victory today represented her third in Schneider Cup Continued On Page Three

RIGHT HAND TURNS Are Permitted Against Stop Signal At Bridge And Front

"When the signal light at the corner of Front and Bridge streets is against traffic," stated Sergeant Harman, of the local police force today, "a motorist can make a right-hand turn, only provided that there are no pedestrians on the crossing at the time."

This question has been perplexing local and visiting motorists for some time now and the ruling will clear up the minds of many. In the larger cities motorists are permitted to make a right-hand turn against the stop signal, and many have been following the same rule here while others waited.

TIDAL WAVE DROWNS OVER FIVE THOUSAND

Hong Kong, Sept. 26.—Exchange telegraph here announced the receipt of a report that five thousand persons perished when an immense tidal wave and typhoon struck Yqung Kong Kwangtung Province, on September 10. Twenty thousand homes were damaged and four hundred junks and sampans destroyed, the report said. Total loss is estimated at one million dollars.

FOUND MESSAGE ASKING FOR HELP

RELATIONS HERE ARE HARMONIOUS

Magistrate Mikel Does Not Believe Friction Possible With Police

COMMENTS ON CASE

Does Not See How Criminal Charge Can Be Withdrawn Once Laid

"The close co-operation between the city police, Provincial Highway traffic officers and the Crown Attorney in this County leaves little danger of such an occurrance here" stated Magistrate W. O. Mikel to the Intelligencer when interviewed this morning regarding the case which recently took place in Barrie when Magistrate Jeffs upbraided the police for allowing a charge of drunk in charge of a car to be withdrawn.

Magistrate Mikel said there had been nothing of the kind in his experience on the bench in the local court. Commenting upon the Barrie outburst he said that once a case is brought before the court it could not be withdrawn or amended without the consent of the Magistrate or Crown officer. "I cannot understand how any case once brought before the Court could be withdrawn without the approval of the Cadi" he opined.

May Not Lay Charge

"If a constable or other authority after investigating the facts find them not sufficient to justify a charge they force is laid and that is a matter of course over which the Magistrate has no jurisdiction." "As a general rule I find the officers are efficient and careful in investigating complaints and also so in gathering and submitting evidence."

"If after the Crown has examined the evidence before it comes into court or after hearing it in the court he is of the opinion that it does not justify the charge, he would no doubt apply for an amendment or a dismissal or he might have a new information laid" stated the Magistrate.

He was of the opinion that the state ments of Magistrate Jeffs may possibly have been misconstrued or misquoted in the first place.

Since Magistrate Mikel has not been placed in a position he did not wish to comment on Magistrate Jeffs statement that it was gross miscarriage of justice when the authorities failed to prosecute after laying a charge

SCIENCE CLASSIFIES GERM OF INFANTILE PARALYSIS

New York, Sept. 26.—Special despatch to "The Morning World" from Boston, Mass., today says: "Germ of infantile paralysis has been definitely classified, thereby simplifying the task of science in its attempts to overcome this disease," Dr. W. L. Ayrock, head of Harvard Infantile Paralysis Commission, said Sunday. The main problem now is to find a suitable animal to yield anti-toxin. "The only animal which takes the disease appears to be the monkey," said Dr. Ayrock, "and the latter's mortality is so high that it is an unsatisfactory subject. When we discover a proper animal for serum purposes, infantile paralysis will be controlled."

MARYSVILLE CHURCH SHEDS ARE BURNED

Worshippers at the Roman Catholic Church at Marysville on the Kingston Road about 11.15 on Sunday morning were startled when the church sheds were razed to the ground. No effort was made to extinguish the blaze.

No cars or rigs were parked in the sheds when it burned down, and it is not known whether the buildings were insured. The cause for the outbreak is not known.

OFFICIALS HOLD U. S. DRY AGENT

Accused Of Molesting Rum Runner While In British Waters

KEPT SOME LIQUOR

Possibility Of Case Becoming Another International Issue

Washington, D.C., Sept. 26.—Likelihood of new international complication arising out of the United States sea patrol against rum runners has developed in the Bahamas Islands as a result of the arrest of Charles Nestle, former United States prohibition agent for alleged unauthorized participation in the seizure of a rum smuggler by the United States Coast Guard in British waters.

Nestle, who is accused of not having been a member of the Coast Guard crew at the time of the capture, was charged by the rum vessel's crew with having appropriated a portion of the liquor cargo and of having had some of it in his possession at the time of his arrest. The rum runner is said to be an United States vessel.

JUMPED FOR HAT IN FRONT OF TRAIN

THIEVES SECURE LOOT IN GARAGE

Russel Smith's garage was broken into in the early hours of Sunday morning and electric parts and spark plugs to the amount of $50 were taken by the thieves. The pilfagers gained an entrance by breaking a window in the rear of the shop. The robbery was discovered on Sunday morning by the garage owner who immediately notified the police and Sergt. of Detectives Jack Trudeau was detailed to investigate the break in. It is believed that the theft was committed by the same gang that broke in on the men were about the premises until late Saturday evening.

Frank Brown who conducts a garage on Moira Street East also reported that his establishment had been entered but nothing of any value was secured by the thieves. They effected an entrance by the same manner by breaking a rear window

Joseph J. Mellor Held For New Trial On Same Offence

HEARING TODAY

Attorney-General Not Satisfied With Outcome Of First Proceedings

Joseph J. Mellor, former Pastor of Picton United Church who was fined 100.00 and costs and paid $1000 as set forward in Bertha Hauch upon pleading guilty to a serious offence against the young girl in Picton Police Court last week now faces a more stringent charges based on the same case. He appeared in Picton Police Court this afternoon.. The case was scheduled to proceed at two o'clock but owing to the late arrival of Inspector Miller of the Provincial Police, of Toronto, nothing had been done up to press time.

Mellor went to the United States following the trial of the former case and is reported to have preached in an Ogdensburg, N.Y. Church on Sunday the 18th. He returned to Picton on Saturday afternoon and upon learning that there was a warrant out for his arrest he promptly surrendered to the authorities and was placed in Jail. He appeared this morning but on hearing was adjourned until this afternoon.'

Mellor had been visiting in Ogdensburg N.Y., and on his return to Picton kept to the home of a friend who has persistently busied himself on Mellor's behalf since the first episode of the case. He was taken into custody a few minutes before six o'clock and was rushed through the streets in a car owned by Mr. Counsel, F. L. Ward. The blinds were closely drawn and by-standers did not get a glimpse of the prisoner.

Public Dissatisfaction

This second charge culminated out of a series of investigations instituted by Attorney-General Price, who interested himself in the case at the outset and was apparently not satisfied that justice had been administered. Mellor was arraigned on the previous charge on November 1st and was taken Mr. Price was incensed at Crown Attorney Allison's handling of the case.

The outcome of the previous decision was a storm of protest throughout the Province in the form of letters to the Press most of which upbraided Magistrate Williams, of Picton, for the light sentence which was meted out.

Attorney-General Price sent Inspector Thomas Miller to Picton to Police and several days were spent in gathering additional evidence which will like be presented at the trial.

RAYNOR WILL FACE THE SUPREME COURT

Ralph Harry Raynor, who was committed for trial on Saturday on three charges of forgery, will this afternoon before Judge McLean of the County Court and elected to be tried in the Autumn sittings of the Supreme Court in Picton.

Crown Attorney stated that he would not consider the question of bail in view of the serious charges facing the accused and that he would fight any bail plea.

The charges were preferred by the Industrial Acceptance Corporation Company and Mrs. Ida Yerex, of Picton.

EXPECT ARREST IN MURDER CASE

Hammonton, N.J., Sept. 26.—With developments moving swiftly in the investigation of the shooting of Dr. William Lillendahl, authorities said today they were nearing a "solution" of the mystery. Louis Repecto, prosecutor, predicted that at least one arrest on a charge of murder would be made during the day. Dr. Lillendahl was shot to death, his wife and both by two negroes who jumped on the running board of his automobile while she was driving him along Asbury Road on September 15.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

It is not goodness to be better than the very worst.

SENECA.

CIVIL FLYING

It is so generally accepted, flying is to be the common mode of transportation in the not distant future, the Dominion Government is taking a forward step in offering to supply plans for training purposes to any properly organized aviation club. The proposal is that two light aeroplanes will be issued free of charge to any approved and incorporated club which will undertake to provide a competent instructor and a suitable flying field and to engage a licensed air engineer to keep the machines in order.

Why should not Belleville take up the offer? There are enough daring progressive spirits in this city to make a good club and His Worship Mayor Hartley Wilson would make an ideal first President to get the organization under way. There are several other young men in this section who has good flying records in the war who would no doubt be glad to join and assist in the training. And there should be no difficulty about finding a flying field.

At the present time there are good commercial openings for aviators and these will constantly increase. Both the Federal and Provincial Governments employ many fliers for forest ranging, in the mail service, etc., and commercial opportunities in this field are opening up.

It would be good advertising for Belleville to be among the first of the cities to get started in this business or profession of the future. Incidentally it might occupy the attention of a number of young fellows who get the necessary thrills now by fast and reckless car driving, and so render the roads a little safer for the rest of the people.

CUTTING IN

On all roads and at all hours of the day and night the "cut-in" artist flourishes, but he is more deadly after dark for then it is a little harder to watch and forestall his manouvers. By the Grace of God and the skill of some drivers he escapes once, twice, perhaps scores of times, but finally the patience of others wears out and another ghastly tragedy occurs.

The pity of it is that all too often the ones to suffer are the innocent. The fool who leaves the line, crowds back in to avoid on-coming motor traffic and side-swipes front wheels of some motorist, forcing him into the ditch and disaster. Frequently the murderer can "step on the gas" and escape, as happened in the terrible catastrophe recently at the Niagara Gorge, for the victims are seldom able to get his number.

The difference between cutting-in and legitimate passing of slower traffic is altogether a matter of judgement. The difficulty is that so many with driver's licenses have no brains to form a judgment, as may clearly be seen by watching their silly impudent grins when they compel some other motorist to pull up sharply or leave the road to avoid a crash.

If specially built cars which need not fear injury to themselves could be provided to patrol the highways and refuse to avoid collision when challenged we believe the cut-in menace could be quickly eliminated and the rest of the world could more safely pursue their business and pleasure.

Lacking this, the only remedy seems to be for every driver to make it his or her business to get the numbers of all offenders and make sure they are prosecuted. It is impossible to provide enough traffic officers to watch everyone at once, but the owner of the guilty car will have to assist in the curbing of this great evil of the roads.

THE INQUEST

Although Miss Agnes Macphail stout by denies that the U.F.O. is dead, the inquest is in progress, and a large number of the House of Commons bet and is one of the star witnesses. The reference, of course, is to the U.F.O. as a political force, and not to the place occupied by the organization in the field of production and marketing. The post mortem inquiry is being held in the columns of the Farmers' Sun, the official organ of the United Farmers of Ontario, and it is being chairmanized by some hitherto. There seems to be a strong impression that the farmers' movement has been wounded in the house of its friends, or of those whom it regarded as its friends, and that the injury is a mortal one. Miss Macphail, as we have said, does not abandon hope, and is resorting to artificial respiration. She tells the readers of the Sun that "truth, crushed to earth, shall rise again," etc., and that the U. F. O. cannot be bought, bullied or ridiculed out of existence." This, she asserts, was proven in the North Huron election, where the "forces and resources of the machine and a very few in the union centres "saw the whole thing clear by, and stood firm in support of agriculture." Some details are supplied as to "the whole thing" which these observant champions dispersed. Godfrich, Miss Macphail explains, "fell for the harbor talk," while the farmers, to smooth speaches and "were captivated by the "delightful" whirling ways of the party politicians." Every known method, she says, was used to befuddle the electorate, many members elected by the U. F. O. had betrayed their trust, and, after all, there are only four hundred United Farmers in the constituency. There is not very much in all this that is complimentary to the North Huron farmers, and there is nothing at all to warrant the philosophic conclusion at which the lady member arrives. When however, it is recalled that Miss Macphail was the head and front of the U. F. O. campaign in North Huron, the key to her present complacency is found; she is endeavoring to comfort herself with the thought of a "moral victory," as other disappointed politicians, in like circumstances, have done before her. No victorious party has ever grudged this meagre consolation.

The bogey of the so-called "big interests" is, of course, very familiar. Originally, it was the creation of one of the parties which Miss Macphail accuses and condemns, and there is something singularly inappropriate in its use by group whose sole and avowed reason for existence is the promotion of a class interest. The Progressive movement is failing in Canada, not through the evil machinations of big interests, or because the United Farmers are restrictive, but because public opinion does not recognize its usefulness and is doubtful of its good faith; and the public have formed their opinion in the light of the evidence of parliamentary experiences. They have seen group representation in action, and they have seen enough.

THE EDITOR SAYS

It must irk the Yankees somewhat to pay above par for Sterling Exchange when they have so often, figuratively speaking, "arrested" Great Britain as a decadent nation.

If, as is alleged, the Rev. J. J. Meifor preached in Ogdensburg, posing as a Canadian Minister on a holiday and took for his text "The Cross of Christ" all the "Pentamills" of history have been outdone.

As the Raynar case unfolds it's fascinating episodes, the wonder is, not that that airy fabric of finance collapsed, but that, in this age of hard-headed business, any man could get money in chunks of ten and twenty thousand dollars to play with. Finance companies are not usually considered afraid of

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

Now since the result of the election in North Huron, the London Advertiser has been silent as to that part of Canada being the most intelligent and enlightened in the Dominion.—St. Catharines Standard.

The Free Press is very strongly of the opinion that quality, not quantity, is the greatest necessity today in regard to immigration. Would Ontario be the magnificent province it is today had it not been settled by the finest blood from the British Isles? We are building not for a few years, but for centuries, and the character of the Dominion a hundred years from now will depend entirely upon the type of settlers who are coming into Canada. It is not encouraging to say the least, to see every month hundreds of our best young men educated in Canadian schools skipping across the border, for, despite any statements that have been made, to the contrary, it is a fact that the drift continues southward. Their place are being taken apparently of British lad and British ideals. It is a difficult problem to deal with and it is easy enough to sit back and criticise.—London Free Press.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

Porter—"What are you doing here?"

Guest—"I—er, beg your pardon, I am a somnambulist."

Porter—"Well, sir, you cant walk about this hotel in your pyjamas, no matter what your religion is."

Little Girl (who has just arrived in Paris): "Mummy, must I say my prayers here?"

Mother: "Why, of course, darling."

"Well, I shall have to say them in English then."

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Police Magistrate Flint, who has been absent for two weeks out in the Northwest is expected home to-night.

The street cars are running again after a test caused by an accident at the power house.

Mr. A. S. Large returned home today after a three months' course at the Military School, Toronto.

Miss Lenora Morden, who has been visiting friends in Utica and Schenectady, N. Y., returned home this morning.

Medical Man: ..."You understand, doctor, you that this is only to be used externally?"

Patient's Wife: "Yes, doctor, I will make him get out o' bed to drink it."

At Trenton yesterday morning a young child of Mr. Benson Simmons, Wrag St., while playing with matches set fire to the curtains in the drawing room. The blaze was not extinguished until considerable damage had been sustained.

EXIT

Lastly to the old

Opens the hard ground;
But when youth grows cold.

And red lips have no sound,
Bitterly does earth

Open to receive,
And bitterly do the grasses

In the churchyard grieve

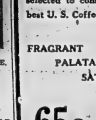

Cold clay knows how to hold,
All aged hand;
But how to comfort youth,

It does not understand.
Even the gravel rasps,
In a dumb way
When youth comes homing before its day.

Elizabeth's hair was made
To warm a man's breast;
Her lips called like roses
To be caressed
But the grim jester
Gave her hair to lie
On the coldest lover
Under the cold sky.

Whatever is may be true of the Liberal-Conservative Convention in Winnipeg next month, it will be fairly highly representative of th Party. All the outstanding Conservatives in the country will be present, together with an army of delegates sent up from the constituencies. The gathering will therefore be fully qualified to express the will of Conservatism throughout the Dominion. As a matter of fact, it will probably be three times as large as any political gathering ever held in Canada, and it is Major-General A. D. McRae, C.B., M.C., for North Vancouver, must go most of the credit, for organization of everything in connection with such a project.

As Chairman of the Organization Committee, the bulk of the work has fallen upon his shoulders and he surely has manifested an absolute genius for the undertaking. Starting in a few weeks ago with practically little straw with which to make bricks, he has in remarkably rapid order erected a Convention edifice that overtops all competitors in size and magnificence.

There was of organization at his command when he undertook the work and the results that he has obtained have put new heart into the Party.

To those who know General McRae's his achievement is not surprising, for he seems to have been an organizer from his earliest days onward. Born at Gilmour, Ontario, and educated in the neighboring city of London, he is one of the few notable Canadians who after winning fame by successful success in the United States, decided the greater opportunities existed in the native land, and so returned home to create extensive Canadian industries and acquire much wealth and prestige thereby. In the early years of the century he utilized his organizing talents in the colonization of enormous areas of Canadian prairie lands with British and American settlers, in developing the timber and mineral areas of British Columbia and in capitalizing the fishing resources of the Pacific coast waters.

When the war came in 1914, he with drew from active participation in these big businesses to devote his whole weight into the service of Canada, the Empire and civilization. As an experienced horseman and judge of horse flesh, he was first called upon to reorganize the whole Canadian Remount service, which in this field made him Director of Supplies and Transport, after which, with no more efficient of Quarter-Masters General, he made this Department of the Canadian Army a pattern for other armies everywhere. As the war drew towards its close, the British Government commandeered him to organize the Ministry of Information, the purpose of which was to keep the world, and particularly the British and American world, constantly stimulating new hope and knowledge regarding the conflict and the British Empire's major part therein.

For some reason or other he refused the offer of knighthood for his war services, contenting himself with the claim C.B., or Companionship of the Bath. On his return to Canada he spoke before the Canadian Club of Toronto and before other organizations across the country, emphasizing the enormous potentialities of the Dominion and predicting that by 1950 it should have a population of 25,000,000. His idea is that the Conservative Party should have a great part—a part in keeping with its splendid past—in developing a great future for Canada and British commonwealth. His latest exploit, prior to this year, was his capture of North Vancouver from the Liberals in the last General Election. To visit his constituency is to witness the finest felicity and flower of effective political organization. Those who have seen how the General handles his own riding, are convinced that if he can be persuaded to organize the Conservative constituencies across the Dominion, in the same way, the Conservatives will be returned to power in the next General Election. To this prediction most people will subscribe who have observed his quiet, effective methods in tickling the Winnipeg Convention into shape.

Management of the fair at Nazareth, Pa., received $5,000 rain insurance when 14-100ths of an inch of rain fell.

Here and There

The late John Oliver, who came from England and commenced his career as a farmer across the border and later rose to be premier of British Columbia, left an estate valued at $76,213.

The idea that the Scot will not spend money was dispelled this month so far as travel is concerned by the thousands of clansmen who came a hundred miles or more by train or motor to attend the Highland Gathering at Banff, Alberta, held in September.

A delegation of antelope from Canada to the United States is shortly to be made. Charles Blazer, rancher at Lake Newell, one of the men interested himself in the preservation of these animals, has contracted to deliver twenty-two head to Texas banker.

It has been announced that the representatives of the Cuban potato buyers have agreed to take nine hundred thousand bushels of New Brunswick potatoes this season. Negotiations are at present under way for the handling of 500 per cent. increases in the sales of these implements.

The 4,000 sportsmen who made returns to the Saskatchewan provincial gamekeepers department last year secured a total bag of 100,000 duck, 26,000 prairie chickens, 6,000 ruffed grouse, and 2,000 geese. In order to obtain some idea of the approximate bag of all hunters it is to be assumed that 12,000 who did not make returns secured the same average bags.

An unfailing indication of farm prosperity is the increasing sale of agricultural implements reported by nearly all dealers in the west this year. The demand for haying machinery has been especially heavy, while the sale of threshers, binders, combines and tractors has been exceptionally large, some firms reporting sales for 1927 per cent. increases in the sales of these implements.

When the Canadian Pacific Railway train bearing 125 delegates to the Trades and Labor Congress convene convention arrived at Craigelachie, B.C., recently, President S. R. Gundy requested that a brief stop be made during which the delegates paid tribute at the spot where the last spike of the Canadian Pacific Railway Transcontinental was driven linking for the first time the East to the West. Mr. Gundy spoke briefly of the courage and vision of the builders of the railroad.

Alberta's potential coal wealth is greater than all the known coal deposits in the rest of the British Empire put together, according to Sir Thomas Holland, chairman of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress, recently at Calgary. "If the present endeavors to change coal into a fluid fuel, capable of displacing petroleum and all its products, are successful, Canada will take the place of the United States as the World's provider of liquid fuel," he further stated.

MUST ATTEND CHURCH AFTER LOSING WAGER

New Britain, Conn., Sept. 26.—At least one regular church attendant has been made as a result of Gene Tunney's victory over Jack Dempsey. The Rev. Samuel Sutcliffe, pastor of St. Mark's Episcopal Church here, expected the match to end, and was willing to back his expectations with money. Harry Bieve, proprietor of a restaurant parlor, expected Dempsey to win, and had the time to back his opinions. So an agreement was reached: If Dempsey won, the minister was to spend at least five cents each day for 365 days in the restaurant parlor, while if Tunney won Bieve was to attend Mr. Sutcliffe's church each Sunday for 52 weeks.

REGULATION VIOLATED

Washington, Sept. 26.—Secretary Wilbur of the Navy, has under consideration the disciplining of one of the service's chief officers, Rear-Admiral Thomas P. Magruder, for a recent magazine article criticizing the navy's administration.

Admiral Magruder, who is command ant of the fourth naval district, is said to have violated a naval regulation which stipulates that articles on military affairs by persons in the service shall be submitted to the Secretary before publication. The article charged the navy was overorganized and failed to practice economy.

When his automobile crashed into a Biews was to attend Mr. Sutcliffe's train at Cornwall, Ohio, Robert Miller, 18, was killed.

DEGREE TEAM HERE

Kingston Oddfellows are coming here tonight to exemplify the first degree at the regular meeting of the local Lodge. The visitors have a first-class degree team and a large attendance of brethren is looked for.

HARVEST FESTIVAL

Christ Church was filled to overflowing yesterday for the annual Harvest Festival services. The church was beautifully decorated for the occasion with flowers of every variety, corn, apples and vegetables synonomous with these special services. The Rev. C. H. Clarke had charge of both services.

FIRST SOCIAL NIGHT.

The social side of Oddfellowship for this season will commence tonight when members of the Order in this district are attending Mizpah Lodge, No. 121. About 40 members are expected from Kingston and their Degree Staff is considered the best in Eastern Ontario. A record number of members are expected to be present.

FAIRLY SUCCESSFUL SEASON

The winding up meeting for the season of the Belleville C.N.I. Branch of Club has been held and while the season has not been quite so satisfactory as was hoped, the Secretary-Treasurer was able to report all accounts paid and that a balance of approximately thirty dollars remains in the treasury.

The prospects for next year are apparently very good and the team is looking forward to a very successful year.

BANKERS MEET.

Forty managers and officials of the Bank of Montreal will gather in the Quinte Hotel this evening for the annual banquet of the district managers and representatives of the head office. The district includes Peterboro on the north, Kingston on the east, Oshawa on the west and Picton on the south. Among the more prominent officials who will be present are D. R. Clarke Assistant General Manager, Montreal; Major M. H. Creighton, D.S.O., M.C., who is in charge of the Montreal staff, Major G. G. Mercer-Jones, D.S.O., M.C., Supt., for Ontario, with headquarters at Toronto, William McDonell, Assistant Supt., Toronto, and James Osborne and E. G. Foster, Inspectors.

WORK STARTED

The Waller Patterson Construction Company started work this morning on the new garage which will be constructed on the present premises of the Hastings Motor Co. J. B. Boyce, the local distributor of Hudson-Essex cars. The new building is estimated at $20,000 and will, when completed, be one of the most up-to-date in the city. It will be of all-steel construction, fire-proof, with the walls of concrete.

ATTENDS CONVENTION

District Inspector Lougheed of the Provincial Police has returned from Toronto where he attended a convention of the Provincial Police heads throughout the Province. They were addressed by General Williams on points vital in the administration of the law and many new ideas were discussed during the course of the convention.

PROCEEDS $2340

A prominent member of the Kiwanis Club has estimated the total receipts of the Karnival over and above expenses to be in the neighborhood of $2500. This is a considerable increase over the profits of the former years. A portion of this money will be set aside toward the Victorian Order of Nurses, to which new organization sponsor of the Kiwanians. It was intimated that next year's Karnival may take a somewhat different form with several well featured added.

SEED REPORT

Harry Parks, seed inspector for this district, has made the following report in regard to grain production at the present time:

Alsike—Market reported quiet. Few bids and few offerings.

Alfalfa—Acreage down and yield reported lower. The price of alfalfa will be up over last year.

Timothy—Large acreage and more seed in this area but only a 50% crop in Alberta.

Fred Marriet—Prices stationary with fair demand.

RASPBERRIES GROWING

Mr. Joe Tickell, Charles Street, brought to the Intelligencer this morning a branch of raspberries, taken from the bushes in his garden. The berries were large and ripe and Mr. Tickell states that they have been coming there all summer.

AWARDED TROPHY.

Mrs. Reginald Bumpstead, Bleecker Avenue, captured the Col. Cowper Cup for the competition among the lady bowlers of the city by defeating Mrs. Ronald Harris at the William Street Greens on Saturday afternoon. This trophy was presented by the local club by Col. Cowper, of Ottawa, on his recent visit to the men's tournament here last month. Mrs. Bumpstead won the cup only after a hard battle in which she met some of the leading lady bowlers of the city. In the semi finals she eliminated Miss Jessie McLean, on Friday. Mrs. Harris drew a bye and entered the finals. This cup will be competed for annually. Mrs. Bumpstead had to give Miss McLean a handicap of 2 and Mrs. Harris a handicap of 1.

SMALL ROOF FIRE

The fire department was called to 91 North Front Street at two o'clock this afternoon when a spark from a bonfire set the roof of Mr. Alex Foster's house on fire. The blaze was extinguished with little damage done. This is only the second call the fire department has had during September.

THREE ARE HELD FOR MAN'S DEATH

Well Known Newspaperman Said To Have Been Murdered

New York, N.Y., Sept. 26.—Denying a motion to dismiss three men charged with murder in connection with the death last Friday of Frank O'Connell, newspaperman, Magistrate Andrew Murray in the Homicide Court today held them without bail pending a hearing Tuesday. O'Connell was well known in St. John, N.B., where he was born.

The men held are Nicholas Arietano, Amerigo De Giovoni and Anthony De Lucia, all of New York. O'Connell was found dead Friday morning. There were no appreciable marks of violence on the body but Assistant District Attorney said that three witnesses would testify that the men had taken O'Connell out for a ride down at the Turkish Baths where O'Connell was found dead.

SUSPECT SUICIDE NEAR CORNWALL

Series Of Fatalities Occur In District In Past Three Days

Cornwall, Ont., September 26.—During the past three days Cornwall has experienced a series of fatalities unprecedented in its history in a similar space of time. Following upon the death of Arthur Seymour, Jr., in the General Hospital on Friday evening as the result of having both limbs amputated after he had attempted to board a freight train while in motion on the Canadian National Railway, an other accident on the same road occurred at Lancaster which cost Emile Rozon, of St. Lazare, his life. Mr. Rozon would not have attained his seventieth birthday until December the 28th next. He was acting as waiter boy for an extra gang of men who were pulling up the rails attended to C. N. R. at Lancaster.

He was struck by the Toronto-Montreal mail train at that place Saturday and was brought by the work train to Cornwall and taken to the Hotel Dieu Hospital. He was suffering from an amputated right leg below the knee and a fractured skull, and died three hours after being admitted to the hospital. He had only been in Canada for a month. He was a son of Paul Rozon. The unfortunate man is survived by a family of eleven children, six boys and five girls. Dr. Stewart coroner, will hold an inquest.

George Goulet, aged 21, of St. Jule, Stegastie County, Que., son of Simeon Goulet, has been a resident of Cornwall for a year and was a weaver in the Dundas mill. He left his boarding house on Monday, leaving a note saying not to blame anybody but himself for what was going to happen. The note was reported to Chief Seymour and the police searched for him, but as yet no nothing was heard of him until Saturday, when his body was found floating in the canal, apparently he had been raised by a passing boat. The body was taken to the undertaking parlors. On his person was found his bank book, showing a considerable balance to his credit in Montreal.

No reasons were given for his rash act. Another note left his belongings to his brother, Alphonse. The body was taken to St. John Baptiste, accompanied by his brother, Alphonse, who resided here. Rev. Stewart, coroner, will hold an inquest.

Another case of drowning was that of Edgar Cowell, aged 18, son of the 9th year old son of Clifford Terrier. The little fellow wandered away from home and was found floating in a raceway near the Dundas Mill. Dr. Hamilton coroner, disposed of the case by holding an inquest.

Another accident in which the pall cast in a serious condition occurred on Saturday on the track road, east of C. N. R. station, when Aderdes Bourdon son of Charles Corrier, of East Cornwall, was out with one of his cousins and was looking for nuts. He fell from a tree and fractured his spine and also had three ribs fractured. He was brought to the Hotel Dieu Hospital and is under the care of Dr. J. A. Hurteau.

MOTORISTS DUEL AS MOTORS MEET

Italian Count Wounds Opponent Twice When Refused Right Of Way

New York, Sept. 26.—The New York American says yesterday that Count Pantaleone Destito di Pasco, husband of the daughter of the wealthy Bertrand L. Taylor, of New York, was confined to bed in Rome with Count Alexander Pantaleone after an ordinary motorists' altercation. Count Destito was reported for some time because of the Italian Government's opposition to the "Americanization of the town," the paper says.

The two noblemen were motoring in opposite directions on the same narrow way near Rome, and when each declined to give the road for the other they stepped into the road where Count Pantaleone challenged di Prampo to a duel, the paper declares.

Pantaleone was wounded twice by his opponent's sword thrust, according to the next morning, the paper says, and the enmity of the men was increased the same night when the victor gave a victory celebration in a Roman cabaret.

Before marrying Count di Prasso, the Countess was the wife of Claude Graham White, the British aviator, who had married Ethel Levy, former wife of George M. Cohan. "Bert" Taylor, the Countess' brother-in-law, is rumored to be engaged to Gertrude Lawrence, English stage star.

Daily weather observations are made at about 5,000 places in U.S.

GERMAN FLIER NOW 48 HOURS OVERDUE

London, Sept. 26.—More than 48 hours had passed this morning without word of Capt. Carl Ritter Zeppelin, German long distance flier, and his companions in the biplane "Germania" who left Angora, Turkey, Saturday, for Spain, at the head of the Persian Gulf.

The distance between Angora and Bagdad the airline is approximately 1,000 miles and Lieut. Koennecke's estimate when he started was that he would make the Mesopotamian point in the same evening. This was not thought over-sanguine in view of the time in which he made the first hop as he covered 1275 miles from Cologne to Angora in something less than eighteen hours. Baara has radio communication with Great Britain, and Germany and the fact that the German airmen have not been reported has given rise to some anxiety.

BEER FROM SKY

Plane Delivers Case Safely On Alpine Peak

Munich, Sept. 26.—Beer delivered by airplane and parachute to high mountain peaks is the latest attraction for tourists visiting the Bavarian Alps.

Guests at the Brandenburg House in the Oels Valley, two miles above Mayrhofen, in the Tyrolean Alps of the South German Lufthansa which makes over daily glacier and dropped a large object attached to a parachute. When the parcel reached the ground it was found to contain a case holding 100 bottles of beer, not one of which was broken.

Several huts and inns situated in the highest altitudes regularly receive provisions and supplies by plane.

During the summer nearly 90 tons of supplies were carried to this small resort points not easily reached by other transport methods.

SPEEDERS LEARNING

Only Eight Licenses Had To Be Cancelled Last Week

Quebec, Sept. 26.—The campaign against auto speeders in this province is bearing fruit, according to Lt.-Col. L. A. Boulanger, Deputy Minister of Roads, Quebec. Only eight motorists were deprived of their licenses for exceeding the speed limit and driving in a manner dangerous to the public. At the beginning of the summer it was necessary to cancel 25 and 30 licenses a week. Officials of the Roads Department, believe that the drastic measures has taught motorists and the Deputy Minister pointed to the low number of accidents.

MEMORIES OF OLD YORK RECALLED

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Memories of Muddy York have been vividly recalled recently as Toronto folk have watched the demolition of a landmark more than 100 years old, and the first stone house to be built in Ryrie, situated at Church and Lombard streets.

Dr. Honeywell is improving nicely and is able to walk a little.

HOLLOWAY HELD BIG RALLY DAY

Dr. Charles Bishop Of Albert College Gave Annual Address

The annual Rally Day services of Holloway St. United Sunday School was held yesterday afternoon, when over 200 members and friends gathered together to take part in the specially prepared program and to listen to an inspiring address from Dr. Chas. W. Bishop, of Albert College.

The service took the form of an open session and practically every available seat in the large Sunday School room was occupied. The Sunday School orchestra under the direction of Mr. J. Jordan added greatly to the inspiring nature of the programme. Dr. Bishop spoke on "Power" using timely illustration to bring out the following points, (1): Physical power (2): Brain power (3): Will power (4): Moral power (5): Spiritual power. He also presented the banner attendance cup to the trail ranger class of which Mr. R. Prinds was the energetic leader. There attendance was 70 per cent. Chief Ranger Joe Anderson accepted the award on behalf of the class. The latter also gave a recitation entitled "We are Seven" by Mr. R. C. Woodley, the superintendent was in charge assisted by Asst. Supt. Mr. B. Vs. Fredenburg. A beautiful floral decorated the platform.

JEWISH PEOPLE MARK NEW YEAR

Religious Services To Usher In 5688 Will Commence To-night

Tomorrow the Jews will celebrate the festival of the New Year, or Rosh Hashanah. Religious services ushering in the year 5688 will be held on that day in all the Synagogues of the world. The Kingston services commence at sunset Monday evening, September 26th, and ends at sunset the following day. Orthodox Jews, however, observe two days.

The festival is distinguished by the call of the Shofar or ram's horn. In addition to its joyous and optimistic significance, it is of great solemnity and sacredness. On Rosh Hashanah the worshippers recall to mind the sin deeds of the past year with a view to consecrating themselves to a nobler life during the year to come. Also, religious service which marks the observance of the holy day emphasizes that the door to improvement and betterment is constantly open.

The Year 5688 is the beginning of the most sacred of the Jewish holiday periods. It is the time of the ten days of penitence, culminating in the day of atonement, the holiest and most sacred day of the year. Between the first ten days after the day of atonement, the Jew is surrounded by influences specially created during a period of eight days, in commemoration of the ancient Palestinian harvest festival of the wander ings of the Israelites through the wild desert.

The local services will continue throughout Tuesday and Wednesday and Rosh Hashanah will have change. Many are expected from Brighton, Picton and other points throughout the district. It is estimated that nearly thirty families will take part in the services at the Synagogue on Pinnacle Street.

DEATHS & FUNERALS

D. H. PRESTON, K.C., NAPANEE

The death of the late Preston in Addington County and one of the oldest citizens of Napanee, died at his residence on Sunday, in the person of David Hiram Preston, K.C. He was born in the Township of Mauvers, Ont., on December 25th, 1841, the fourth son of J.L.-Col. Alexander Preston, a well known pioneer of that township, and a grandson of Isaac Preston, one of the early settlers of Amherst Island. His wife, formerly Miss Janet Symington, of Napanee, predeceased him a few years ago, and he is survived by two sons and five daughters, J. W. Preston, attorney-at-law, Pueblo, Colorado; Dr. H. F. Preston, Toronto; Mrs. Russell, wife of Dr. Alfred Russell, Bailieboro, Ont.; Mrs. R. H. Day Lister, Lethbridge, Alta.; Miss Janet Preston, Pueblo, Colorado; Miss Ethel Preston, Napanee, Registrar of Agriculture, Ottawa, and Miss Alice Preston, at home.

MRS. HARRIETT KIZER

Harriett Hilton, married to Cleveland, Ohio, on September 22rd. The deceased leaves a husband, W. M. Kizer, one daughter, Mrs. Dorothy Perry, Cleveland; four sisters, Mrs. T. Tweedie, Carrollton, Mrs. R. Harris, Cauniton Mrs. Erwin and Mrs. A. Lucas, Belleville, two brothers, Stephen Kelder, Belleville, and William, of Canada.

The late Mrs. Kizer was a daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Donald Kelder, of Thurlow. She was a member of the Bridge Street Church. The funeral will arrive on Tuesday and will be taken to the home of her sister, Mrs. Erwin, Cemetery street. Death notice later.

MRS. ISOBEL LOCKWOOD

Is Jealousy An Inferiority Complex?

By ELSIE MARLOWE

Apparently this is "Open Season" for Jealous Wives. We've had quite a crop lately. Here's Joan today—Joan who by so jealous that she "can almost scream" sometimes—

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm one of life's queer creatures affected by the "Green-Eyed Monster." Oh, Elsie, will you try to help me?

I have been married just five months and my husband and I love each other very much. But, Elsie, I'm so jealous of him. He likes to flirt a little and sometimes he does. I get so jealous I could simply scream. I don't want to be jealous, because it is bad for both of us, and I know that sooner or later it will affect our love. Please help me, Elsie. I'll do anything.

JOAN.

Jealousy is a sickness, Joan. But it's a sickness that can be cured if you want to cure yourself. So dry your tears, keep up cheer and we'll get start that cure right away.

You say you DON'T WANT to be jealous. Keep right on NOT wanting to be jealous. And all the time you're NOT wanting to be jealous keep telling yourself that you WON'T be jealous.

Next time you feel a jealous fit coming on, do this. Go off quickly by yourself. Sit alone and reason it out with Joan. Realize that you are being hopelessly cheap and common and indulging in such childish tantrums. Make a promise to yourself that you will be strong enough to have the power to overcome this stupid, senseless malady that is causing you so much woe. Say over and over again to yourself: Then laugh a bit to your self. Ridiculous, when self applied in a merry spirit, is one of the most effective medicines. And be patient with yourself. Don't expect to overcome this fault in a day. But make up the treatments unceasingly and before you know it, you will have cured yourself.

As for your husband's flirtations, don't worry about it, my dear. You love each other so much," you write. What more surety do you want of his faithfulness? It's part of Youth to be light hearted and merry and fun loving. Add sometimes that fun includes a little harmless flirtation, that is forgotten the moment the person who indulges in it turns her back. Don't borrow trouble honey. As far as I can see your husband's love belongs to YOU.

Here's the letter from another girl who could have let her life be spoiled by jealousy. But she didn't. She faced the green eyed monster squarely and fought it bravely and intelligently and won.

They aren't handing out war crosses for heroines like Pat but she deserves one.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am so interested in the letters you get about jealousy. Jealousy almost spoiled everything for me once. I am a student of psychology and I know that jealousy is primarily caused by a hidden feeling of inferiority. I am not a complex—of which the sufferer is often ignorant. Because I know this I was able to conquer my jealousy and perhaps my story will help other girls.

Two years ago I fell in love with an extremely jealous boy. I tried to do everything I could to make him happy, but in spite of everything he would get suspicious and angry. In a moment of pique he started to go out with a blonde I knew and then it was my turn to be jealous. But I had seen how terribly jealousy could upset a life, so I determined to fight it.

I sat down and put myself under a rigid examination. I knew that I must be secretly afraid of, her superior attractions so I compared her, point by point with myself.

I was about equal in regard to looks, but though she came daintily groomed to social functions she was careless about her self at home and her hands and nails were never cared for except when she was going out. Here was one score for me and I determined to be more careful than ever.

By close study I found she did "not care to listen to the literary "not care to listen to the literary things which interested me. I realized that I was developing a one-sided interest in everything from motor cars to the potato crop. Last but not least, she was selfish and let him know it.

I thought it he cares more for me than for me, in spite of her faults, it will do me no good to be jealous anyway and I'll only cheapen myself. He came back to me.

Later on he went with another girl who was like a cold and dressed beautifully. I knew that I could not compete with her on this score, but I couldn't blame him for being proud to take her out. She was so pretty but like a doll for want of a when. I thanked the Lord for giving me patience.

Even though we've drifted miles which is more than can be said apart we're still the best of friends of the other two.

I have found that those who are jealous are usually not quite sure of themselves. Don't be egotistical or without reason, but if you haven't any qualities to be proud of, you had better go and have develop some. And then don't be jealous of someone who is not better than you are.

PATIENCE.

Isn't that a great letter? I hope you all up to fight your own gnawing devil, doesn't it?

TEA-TIME, bi-coal dinner time, the matinée or the club meeting—when does not a smart woman need a simple yet distinguished gown of this type? Reversible black silk crepe is always a wise choice, while heavy crêpe de Chine and the new sheer light weight wools are also favored by the discriminating. This slipover style features the new side-front circular flare, which is very easily effected, being cut in one with the skirt-front. The graceful jabot is similarly cut in one piece with the right-hand side of the upper part of the frock. The back may blouse slightly above the narrow tie belt. The V neck and the upper edge of the jabot are finished with the reverse side of the silk or satin crepe, or, if some other fabric makes the frock, narrow binding of self material are used.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

I am a girl seventeen years of age and I am very lonely as my parents will not allow me to have friends. What should I do?

VERY LONELY.

VERY LONELY: I would advise you to have a serious talk with your parents, my dear. Explain to them that you feel you are old enough to be permitted the companionship of young people. I am sure they have your interest at heart and do not mean to deprive you of any pleasures that are rightfully yours. In that event, ask permission to have them come up to the house that your mother might meet them and be guided by her judgment concerning them.

I am a young girl in my teens. I am in love with a young man When he asked me to marry him three months older than myself I told him I loved him and always would, but that I was too young to marry. He cut me and is now going with another girl. Please tell me what I can do to regain his affection.

SORROW.

SORROW: You are quite right, my dear; you are too young to be thinking of marriage, and your friend is too fickle for you to be concerned about him. Since his interest in you in you is so superficial I would suggest that you make no effort to renew your friendship. Seek the companionship of others and put this young man out of your mind.

A New-Type Hygiene

By ELLEN J. BUCKLAND
Registered Nurse

MODERN women with theobjects in new world to face, and a more intense social life to lead, demanded greater protection in meeting their greatest hygienic handicap. As a result, the old-time sanitary "pad" is fast disappearing.

Over 10% of better-class women now employ KOTEX—more than a sanitary pad; true scientific protection. Filled with Cellucotton wadding, the newly perfected super-absorbent, it is forty times as absorbent as ordinary cotton pads.

Kotex also DEODORIZES while it acts. Also, it is discarded easily as tissue. No laundry, no disposal problem.

JUNIOR FARMERS GUESTS OF FAIR

Judging Competition To Be Held In Month Of October

Ten fortunate young farmers from this county will spend three days in Toronto at the Royal Agricultural Winter Fair this coming November as the guests of the Ontario Department of Agriculture. According to the Government's plan, which has just been announced in its final form, the boys will be provided, free of charge, with railway fare from the home station to Toronto and return, with sleeper, berth and meals on the train for those from a distance of 300 miles or more, and also with accommodation involved in the tour of the stock yards, abattoirs, factories and other commercial concerns and public institutions which has been planned as part of the program during their visit to the Fair. They will also be free of any expense for lodging accommodation for four nights, or for their meals while in Toronto, this is the sort of thing that most boys dream about and seldom realize, and in this case the Department of Agriculture is laying the part of the fairy godmother.

All is fair that a visit to the Royal Winter Fair, which has in its show ring the finest livestock, poultry and dairy cattle that the stables and herds of nine Provinces and many States can offer, with the education in progressive agriculture. The boys will be able to see for themselves what the master breeders of the country have accomplished with their animals and they will have use of lots of live stock perfection to take away with them. They will also be able to make comparisons between their farms, and other districts from different parts of the Dominion. Normal country boys have a keen interest in all live things, and the foxes, rabbits, pet stock and dogs exhibits will show them the commercial possibilities of these specialties on Can adian farms. They will also have the thrill of seeing the finest amateur horsemen and women on the continent taking the jumps in the Royal Horse Show under the eyes of Lord Willingdon, the Governor-General, and many other visitors prominent in Canadian public life.

The boys are to be selected by means of special "Royal" Junior farmer judging competitions to be held during October. Conditions governing these competitions (high mark boys to be select ed) are as follows:

Contestants shall judge five rings of live stock and five classes of crop products ,such as grain, small seeds, potatoes, roots, fruit and vegetables. Special crops may be included where the production is general over the county.

The competition shall be open to all farmers and farmers' sons living on the farm between the ages of 16 and 20 on October 1, 1927 (must not have reached twenty-third birthday) and who have not previously represented the county or as a member of a stock-judging team at the Royal Winter Fair, or who are graduates of an agricultural college or agricultural school.

Prizes shall be awarded on aggregate scores only, 50 per cent. will be allowed for placing, and 50 per cent. for set reasons on each class.—When competing aggregate scores, live stock and crop products shall have a ratio of 3 to 1. The possible score, therefore, will be live stock, 500; crop products, 250.

DIVINE THOUGHT TO INSPIRE NEW BAPTIST CHURCH

Idea Came Directly From God Says Dr. Straton

New York, N. Y., Sept. 24.— (By Canadian Press) — Plans which he says had divine inspiration for a 25 storey "combination cyhcarper church and office building are regarded by the Rev. Dr. John Roach Straton as the basis for a new peace in Calvery Baptist Church.

The idea came to him directly from God, Dr. Straton said he believed, while praying a few days last week between 2 and 4 o'clock." The pastor submitted his plan before his congregation on his return from a vacation devoted to "much prayer, meditation and Bible study," during which he had determined to "turn away from the past" and forgive those who have made trouble here."

The new church project was proposed as substitute for the pastor's proposal for erection of a skyscraper church and apartment building for which the pastor had long battled with factions of his congregation.

Dr. Straton said the new building would cost several million dollars, but that it would be free of church over and above the cost of erection perhaps $1,000,000 after the return from the land sold for "four or five million dollars."

SUBURBANITES TO GO BY 'PLANE

Fairchild Company Has In Production New Type Of Amphibian

New York, Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press) — Commuting by airplane from suburban homes to Manhattan offices, hitherto confined to theory and conclusions of whimsical humorists, will become actuality next spring, it is learned from the Fairchild Aviation Corporation of Farmingdale, L. I., which is building "commuting expresses" at the rate of one a week.

The company has received a dozen orders from business men who have decided that fast motors and speedboats are not quite fast enough to compete with the ever increasing traffic congestion on land and sea in this vicinity, and so have turned their attention to air commuting.

The Fairchild Company has in production a new type passenger amphibian, capable of carrying six persons and which will cost $15,000. It will take a maximum speed of 100 miles an hour. The intention is to bring suburban resident from his home each morning to anchorage in either the East or North Rivers, and take him home as speedily in the evening.

The commutor will be able to smoke and have his breakfast cooked and served for him in the specially-enclos ed cabin of the aerial "hack," according to plans. The planes will be equipped with 220 horsepower Wright whirlwind motors.

BULBS, BUNTING MARK FESTIVAL

Money Spent To Make Centenary Celebration Success

Moscow, Sept. 21 (By The Associated Press).—Neither effort nor money is being spared to make the celebration of the tenth anniversary of the October Revolution an impressive affair. A special "October Organization" has been appointed charged with approval and completion of all preparations.

The centre of the celebration will be Moscow and the Red Square. The high Kremlin walls, facing the big rectangle with the Lenin Mausoleum in the centre and flanked by graves of several prominent Bolsheviks, Russian and foreign, will all be draped in red banners behind which huge electrically lighted numerals "1917-1927" will be placed.

High over the spacious building on the other side of the Square a 200 yard placard will be erected bearing illuminated inscription: "From ruins to reconstruction." Smaller placards with the usual revolutionary slogans will cover the walls. At the entrance of the building there will be a 50-foot Roman "X."

From end to end of the big square illuminated legends and various diagrams will be contrived out wires high in the air illustrating the growth of Soviet industry and the development of Communist parties all over the world.

Five large balloons, with illuminated inscription, will float at various corners of an adjacent square facing the National Theatre. The space between the latter and the Imperial Art Theatre will be occupied by gigantic letters "U.S.S.R." on the roof of the Lenin Institute. Hundreds of changeable electric letters will spell out during three days scores of Bolshevist slogans.

Special plays and cinema scenarios of a true Bolshevist ideological character are being compiled by prominent Soviet authors and playwrights for performance in the numerous theatres, movies and workers' clubs. Excursions are to be organized for workers and peasants from the country.

Moscow workers, employees and Red troops are to open the celebration with a parade through the city and to the Red Square. Leading artists on portable stages mounted on motor lorries will enact revolutionary scenes in the streets.

Numerous factories, workers' clubs new buildings, wireless installations and hydraulic stations are to be opened all over the Union.

Booklets and posters of a revolutionary character and postcards with pictures of Bolshevist leaders are being issued by the state publishers, to be sold or distributed free of charge to the population. Hundreds of thousands of brass and silver signs bearing the Soviet emblem, Hammer and Sickle, and the dates 1917 and 1927, are being stamped, and red banners embellished in gold and silver manufactured.

HOVIS

The Bread of Health

IT'S the Flour that makes the difference. No other bread flour is milled in quite the same way as HOVIS.

For it contains a large proportion of wheat germ, which is the most nutritious part of the wheat grain.

The result is that HOVIS Bread, baked by leading Canadian bakers, contains those precious, healthgiving vitamines and more of the true nutriment of the wheat.

That's why HOVIS Bread—"the bread of health"—is so different and so much better for you.

BETTER ingredients always make better bread. But there is one particular ingredient present in such abundance in HOVIS Bread as to give it a value no other bread possesses.

That ingredient is the wheat germ, scientifically combined in HOVIS Flour.

You have only to taste HOVIS Bread once, to realize for the difference this makes!

And you are certain to enjoy it—just as thousands of others do.

Costs a little more—worth much more.

Why the name HOVIS?
It is coined from the Latin words "Hominis Vis" and means "The Strength of Man."

HOVIS Flour is made by the millers of PURITY FLOUR—trade-mark protected.

SEA SCOUTS TELL THRILLING TALES

San Francisco, Calif., Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press) — Eight sea scouts, Chicago youths under 21 years of age, related humorous and thrilling tales of their experiences as crew members of the auxiliary yacht Northern Light which returned from the Arctic with specimens for the field museum here.

Each of the scouts kept a diary on the trip and from the pages of these came stories that rivaled the best of boys' adventure books, such as slaying of the giant polar and kodiak bear pursuit of the killer whale, struggles to reef a sail on waves that ran twenty-five feet high, swimming parties in northern seas and in a crater of a steaming volcano, and of defeat in a game of baseball at hands of Eskimos.

The boys were unanimous in the assertion that their captain and owner of the vessel, John Borden, wealthy Chicago explorer, "was a Prince," and that his guests, men and women, were good shots with the rifle. As testimony of this marksmanship the North ern Light brought back for the museum the skins of 11 kodiak bear, 15 walrus, one polar, (whitened seal), 8 polar bear and 135 birds.

OLD TIME DRIVER AGAIN AT THROTTLE

When "The Confederation," the largest locomotive, not only in Canada, but in the British Empire, left the Canadian National Railways terminal at Toronto, to take part in the "Pageant of the Iron Horse," at Baltimore, Maryland, John Ryburn Lydgrave, a pensioned engineer, who commenced his railway career 62 years ago, emerged from his retirement to take the throttle of "The Confederation," the oldest and heaviest in the Dominion, which was also launched from Toronto and developed for the event. Together the two "pensioners" accounted "The Confederation" out of the yards to take the rails for its trip to the big pageant which is to stand to depict the evolution of rail transportation.

"The first locomotive I fired weighed 22½ tons," Mr. McIntyre remarked, as he looked over the old timer and compared it with the modern Canadian product. "And when I retired on pension the Grand Trunk system was putting in service locomotives weighing 227½ tons." By comparison, "The Confederation" tips weighs 375 tons. Again, Mr. McIntyre noted that when he commenced his railroad career as a fireman the tracks could bear a capacity of eight tons. To-day many of the cars in service have a capacity of 40 tons.

Mr. McIntyre was born in Kilmarnock, Ayrshire, Scotland, in 1852. The family, like many other Scottish families, was attracted to Canada to share in the railway building of that period, and in December, 1865, at the age of 13 years, Mr. McIntyre began service with the Grand Trunk as a cleaner at Sarnia, continuing, except for a short interval, until he retired at the age of 62 years. Mr. McIntyre became fireman and then driver and his name service with the militia during the Fenian Raid—Canadian National Railways Photograph.

LOOKING FOR A NEW DEFINITION

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—Hy Canadian Press) — When President Coolidge announced that he did not choose to stand again for the presidency, and sent the country to the dictionary to study definitions of the word "choose," he joined the ranks of presidents who have made words famous.

President Harding gave prestige to "normalcy", President Wilson made "watchful waiting" fill a new place in the language, Roosevelt gave lasting vogue to "strenuous" and coined the term "nature fakers," and Grover Cleveland was responsible for "innocuous desuetude."

In some instances presidential usage has merely endowed an ordinary word with a popularized new meaning the key with new significance, but some words or pairs of party slogans, like Harding's "Back to normalcy," Wilson's "Too proud to fight" and Roosevelt's "Speak softly and carry a big stick."

BUSY WEEKS AHEAD FOR G. H. FERGUSON

Toronto, Sept. 26.—Hon. G. Howard Ferguson, Premier of Ontario, left for Northern Ontario yesterday, has an exceedingly busy programme for the next two weeks. Tomorrow he will lay the cornerstone for a new paper mill that is being erected at Iroquois Falls and will also inspect the power develop ment of the Spruce Falls Company at Smoky Falls.

Returning from the north, Premier Ferguson, on September 30, will attend a Conservative Association dinner at Brantford. On October 1 he will open the new high school in Saltfleet Township (Wentworth County). On October 3 the Premier will journey to Bowmanville to make arrangements for the taking over by the Ontario Board of Education of "Kiwana Lodge," which will be transformed into a boys' school.

On October 7 Premier Ferguson will deliver an address at Convocation Hall, University of Toronto, in connection with the centenary celebration of the college, and later in the week he will leave for Winnipeg, to attend the Conservative convention to be held there commencing October 10.

FIRE RAGED IN ARMY AMMUNITION PIT

Baltimore, Md., Sept. 26.—Fire which ranged for more than an hour in an ammunition pit at the Curtiss bay army ordnance depot, several miles from here, threatened early last Friday night to wipe out that district in a disaster similar to that at Lake Denmark, N.J., in, 1926.

Shells dumped into 15-foot pits for salvage purposes were detonated in the series of explosions heard and felt with in a radius of a mile. The number of explosions was variously estimated at from 20 to 100 by residents of the nigh borhood.

While army officials at the reservation would make no statement pending a report to Washington, it was understood that the first broke out in the pit. A slight farm accumulation filled more fire apparatus and contiguards men also were called to the scene.

DENIED FOR THIRD TIME

Quebec, September 24.—For the third time within the past year or so, the Protestant Committee of the Department of Public Instruction of the provinces refused at its meeting this morning to return the diploma to a teacher who has it through being convicted on a charge of theft.

The question of reinstatement of the teacher, P. X. Humphrey, of Valleyfield, was on the agenda for this morning, and Dr. Milton Hersey, of Montreal, immediately moved that it be refused. The motion was seconded by Professor Carrie Derrick, of Montreal. When the vote was taken the motion for refusal of the diploma was carried by the small majority of one.

NOTICE

Next regular meeting of Court Bloomfield No. 32 I. O. F. will be held on Monday, Sept. 26th. As this is the opening meeting for the season there will be considerable business to transact, and we request all members to be present.

CARILLONNEUR TO PRESIDE AT CLAVIER

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Percival Price, Dominion carillonneur, Ottawa, will preside at the clavier of the new carillon of the Peace Tower, being the gift of the soldiers' memorial tower, University of Toronto, during the celebration of the untrile's 100th birthday, Thursday October 6, to Sunday Oct. 9, it was announced here by Hugh D. Scully, president of the Alumni Federation and chairman of the carillon committee.

Mr. Price's programme has been submitted to Dr. Ernest MacMillan, dean of the faculty of music, and will be announced shortly.

Appointment of a permanent carillonneur for the soldiers' tower is under consideration by the Alumni Federation and the faculty of music, but, according to Mr. Scully, little has been done in this regard. It is expected, however, that following the dedication of the carillon on October 6 the post will be permanent with the presentation of possibly two programmes a week until twelfth night.

The carillon consists of 23 bells and were made by Gillet & Johnson in Croydon, England. The big bass bell with a 76-inch diameter weighs 7,240 pounds. At the smallest one has an 18-inch diameter and weighs only 140 pounds. Casting the bells, the carillon is made on the Simpson five-tone system. A curious feature of the installation is that the bells are being let down into the tower. An electric clock made by the same firm is also being installed.

BELLE THEATRE

Two of the most distinguished actors in the theatrical world have leading roles in the Return of Peter Grimm," now showing at the Belle Theatre. It is Fox Films version of David Belasco's pronounced stage success in which David Warfield won international renown.

One is Alec B. Francis, born near London, who plays the name role. The other, Lionel Belmore, was born in Wimbledon, Surrey, and for nearly ten years was stage manager for Sir Henry Irving.

REGENT THEATRE

What happens when a girl of the London slums is suddenly transported to beautiful Mayfair and a life of ease? No longer need she wonder where the next meal is coming from; whether there'll be a bed to sleep in; or if she'll have any clothes to wear the morrow. Instead, she finds herself in a land where fashionable restaurants and night clubs are "all the rage"; a soft downy bed is hers; servants galore; and as for clothes, why Parisian modistes will do. Is she happy? Does she find contentment or love?

See "London" when it arrives at the Regent Theatre today. Dorothy Gish enacts the fascinating role and only Dorothy Gish can. Herbert Wilcox, the man who made "Nell Gwyn" directed. British National Pictures, Ltd., are the producers. Paramount is releasing "London" on this side of the Atlantic.

DELORO BESTED LIMESTONERS IN DECIDING GAME

Entry Finals Against Leamington By Disposing Of Circle Six.

Deloro team won the right to meet Leamington in the next round of the O. B. A. A. play-downs by disposing of Kingston Circle Six in the deciding game of the series here on Saturday by the score of 11-6.

The Deloro team were the best throughout with the possible exception of the second inning who four runs crossed the plate and they were in the van temporarily. The champions retaliated with six in the fourth chukker and the balance of the game saw the winners in the driving seat with the fitxes unable to bunch their hits with any appreciable result. The Deloro team looked far the best on the day's play, outfeatured their more youthful opposition and the biggest percentage of the fans in the stands were by recognized this fact. The Circle Six were not nearly as good as in the last game in Kingston. They were only do little with the willow and were dangerous only in the fourth inning.

Manager Elliott of the fineller switched the signals and sent his regular starter Jack Jack, in the pitcher and the right-hander made a good job of it. The confident expected that Woods who turned in such a fine performance last Saturday would again be in the box but May, Elliott's judgment proved satisfactory and Jack lived up to the confidence placed in him.

Howard Reid was assigned to the hillock by Joe Daley but the big boy was not in his usual good form and he was relieved in the sixth inning in favor of Harold Buck. The latter' was one of the redeeming features of the whole performance and the Deloro ters were kept off the score sheet dur ing his brief stay. The Deloro pitcher went to work like a veteran and struck out four men during his short passage. The went practically cold and stood the heavy-hitting Deloro team almost on their heads.

Many were of the opinion that if Buck had been the original choice the score sheet would have been much different.

The game started off like a pitcher's battle with both Reid and Jack breezing along in the style but in the sixth inning, Jack grew careless and two walks coupled with a bad error paved the way for four runs. To Elliot, the "inky" Woods who was substituted at short stop allowed an easy roller to slip through with two down which cost his team three runs. Reid's infield pounded nicely to the outfield and then young Buck came through with a ringing two-bagger which scored two more.

Hughes Hitting

Jimmy Hughes of the Deloro team who as a general rule is regarded as a poor hitter broke down and hit the triples which aided materially in the scoring. The first was one of the longest hits seen on the local field all year, which went nearly to the race track in left field and had Hughes been a good fast sprinter he could have easily have made it a round trip.

The Deloro Six got a total of eight singles while their opponents nicked Reid and Buck for fifteen.

Art Quinn's double to deep centre in the fourth with the bases full unloaded every one of the cushion tenders caused a riot in the Deloro camp.

McPherson pounded the ivory pellet here when he went over to grab Reid's sizzling drive in the fifth to throw the batter out. Deloro engineered two smart double plays which had the effect of cutting off the Circle Six from scoring at the critical times.

The game dragged along slowly and it required over two hours and a half to complete it. After the sixth the interest lessened when it was seen that Deloro held the ace hand and were almost sure to win. Deloro's both teams played good ball in the field but Deloro's terrific hitting strength proved a thorn on the side of the Kingston team. They were the better team on the play and will be worthy contenders for the Ontario title.

Box Score to follow.

WATER FOWL TO BE COUNTED BY SURVEY

Alamosa, Colo., Sept. 24 — (By Canadian Press) — The one hundred million or so water fowl in North America are to be counted by the Federal Biological Survey.

Abolition of better protective laws and ultimate increases in the number of the migratory water fowls, is the aims of the census which will require a year to take, Harry C. Oberholser, of, Washington, chief biologist of the survey said.

Seven hundred stations are ready to start the census. It will be made in Southern Canada, Mexico and the United States, he said.

YANKS HUNG UP NEW RECORD IN WINS IN ONE YEAR

Saturday's Victory Over Detroit Was 106th Of Season

New York, Sept. 26.—The New York Yankees established a new American League record for championships in a single season by trimming the Tigers on Saturday by 6 to 5 for their 106th victory this season. The Red Sox had recorded 105 triumphs in 1912, but the Bugmen had equalled that figure this days ago.

Detroit closed its season in New York yesterday with a 6 to 1 victory over the Yankees, Earl Whitehill being master of the American League champions in the pitcher. Babe Ruth and all the other Yank assets, a fruitless afternoon's work, the complete discomfiture of some 9,000 fans who had turned out to enjoy the annihilation of the Tigers by Huggins and company.

Whitehill held the Yankees down without a run after the first inning. The White Sox pitcher was master of the situation at all times. Combs was the only New York player who gave the Detroit southpaw trouble. Combs got three singles, his last sending in the New York run in the fifth. The New York men were the season's series from Detroit, 14 games to 8.

Cleveland drew close to fifth place yesterday when they defeated Chicago 10 to 1, at Cleveland. The White Sox gathered but four hits off Hudlin. The visitors remained in the first division when Hudlin passed the first two men he met. His later control.

Heavy hitting of the home team coupled with loose fielding by the Browns, gave Washington its fourth straight victory over St. Louis yesterday 10 to 0. Zachary held his former team-mates' seven hits scattered.

NORMA TO BE MARRIED

Los Angeles, Sept. 24.— Norma Shearer, Canadian film star and Irving Thalberg, director, will be married at Thalberg's Santa Monica home next Thursday evening, the actress' mother announced today.

HIGH WAGES ON FARMS

Edmonton, Sept. 21.—Fifteen dollars per day for a man with grain binder and team is being asked in the Peace River district, some parts of Central Alberta where crops are still uncut. Harvest help is hard to get and much grain is being allowed to lie on the stubble, just as it is thrown out by the binder, until all standing grain has been cut.

Wheat is generally harvested in the Edmonton district, but there are still many odd patches to cut south of Wetaskiwin and in some other districts. Ideal weather conditions prevailed Monday for harvesting, and operations were in full swing after the rains of last week.

SLAVE LAKE AND RIVER NAMED BY CANADA INDIANS

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 21.—(By Canadian Press)—Owing to the fact that in a country like Canada, where slavery has never been an institution the words "slave" should enter into the names of prominent geographical features, such as Great Slave Lake, Slave River, and Lesser Slave Lake?

A statement, furnished by the Geographic Board of Canada, throws an interesting sidelight on the history of the Northwest and upon Indian customs. Indian place-names, it points out, may refer to physical characteristics, to the place, to incidents in the history of the tribe, or to associations of a game with a locality. Sometimes they may be seen in Saskatchewan river itself flowing. Battle river takes its numerous branches, and Ottawa river river frequented by the Ottawa tribe) Another point in this Indian lore generally had two names—the name they gave themselves, and the name given them by their enemies—and in many cases the names which have been set up by the white man have "enemy" names. This accounts for the very common appearance of the word some Indian tribes bear. The record then proceeds to the effect that the name Great Slave Lake and Slave river were named from a tribe of Indians which once lived in that region. These Indians called themselves Etchareottine which means "the people dwelling on the shelter of the (Rock)", mountains. In contradistinction to these northern Indians who were carbuy eaterand travelled widely in pursuit of game, the Etchareottine were largely fish eaters and kept to the lakes.

When the more warlike Crees went on the warpath against the tribes on the Peace river they came from the south in canoes to Lesser Slave Lake, and leaving their canoes there, proceeded overland. It is therefore readily to be understood how war parties of Cree, finding that the lake-dwelling Indians did not possess their own war-like attributes and ideas, should know that contempt in bestowing on the lake-dwellers the epithet "sawaka" or "slaves."

Lesser Slave while man to visit Great Slave lake was Samuel Hearne who made the southeastern portion of the lake in 1772. He did not meet any Slave Indians and the name he applied to the lake was "Athapuscow," meaning, possibly, the lake of the Athapascan Indians. It was not until the lake-dwellers the epithet "sawaka" or "slaves."

Fond that on the present name. On his maps, 1790, we find the name "Stochcinkee," another form of Etchecottine, "Great Slave," and "Slave."

Lesser Slave lake is mentioned by Sir Alexander Mackenzie, who learned of the lake in 1792 from Indian hunters, the latter stating that it was called Slave lake by the Crees after its original inhabitants.

FIGHT NOT YET IN PORT

Toronto, September 3 :—Alarm is again felt here for the safety of Captain Thomas Bradd and crew of the Scow Platmigan, which has been endeavoring to reach here from Amelia Beach, N.Y., for over a week It is now making a third attempt to reach here from Port Hope, approximately 60 miles east of here, where it put in during a storm encountered on its trip over. It was due here last night and no word had been received of it up to this afternoon.

PIRATES HAVE VIRTUALLY WON NATIONAL FLAG

Rallied After Losing Three Out Of Four To Giants

Brooklyn, N. Y., Sept. 26—The Giants pennant prospects went down for the count of nine yesterday when the McGraw men played a scoreless tie with the artful Dodgers at Ebbets Field while the Pirates and Cardinals were each winning two games.

This did the Giants' pennant hopes practically no good at all. The shifting and turning found the hunch of McGraw two and a half games behind the Pirates and a half game behind the Cardinals. In other words the boys are in third place with two games to go before they reach the run-clad heights.

Thirty-two thousand superheated fans, comprising the biggest crowd that Ebbets Field has housed since the record days of 1924 watched Jess Petty, the silver fox, and Dutch Henry, who is a fox but not silver, battle along in a 0-0 deadlock. The game was forty minutes late starting and darkness closed in on the gladiators at the end of seventh.

The artful Dodgers, it seemed, had developed enough trouble in Pittsburgh on the last leg of a thrilling date with Cincinnati. They didn't appear to be the gold mined team they were at home.

The game will be played off at Ebbets Field on October 4, providing the possibility that it will be made part of double header Saturday if the Giants and Dodgers are even in such numbers that they had to be parked along the right field foul line. This and other rules necessary but nobody smacked a ball even close to the stands. Petty pitched a great game for to that. The Giant left hander allowed only two hits and the silver fox only three.

The Giants drove the ball out of the infield only five times. On other hand, Mr. Henry was so slouch himself that he seldom did have to. Dodgers smack the pill into the outfield. The Giant Dutchman drew while one man was spared. He was in trouble less often than the silver fox, who loaned seven of the dread New Yorkers.

As the situation now stands, the Pirates have the edge as far as the leadership by winning four out of their remaining five games, which they are expected to by so doing. In case the Giants took all their remaining six games they would tie the New York by winning four out of five.

The standing of the leaders today:

Team	W.	L.	Pct.	P.G.
Pittsburgh	91	58	.611
St. Louis	89	60	.597
New York	88	60	.595

Yesterday's pace-making Pirates increased their lead in the National League pennant race to two games with a win and a double-header yesterday at Chicago from the Cubs by scores of 3 to 1 and 7 to 1.

Stellar pitching for the league leaders, coupled with timely batting and fast fielding was responsible for both victories.

Lee Meadows game was a pitching duel between Guy Bush and Vic Aldridge, the latter allowing the Cubs only five hits during the game, one of which was a homer by Hesthools saving Chicago from the shut out. Paul and Lloyd Waner brothers, Paul and Lloyd, Wrigh's sacrifice and a double play, Traynor to Wrigh, made their first run in the fourth inning. Harris' double and Aldridge's single drove the winning marker in the seventh.

The Cubs were unable to solve Kremer's delivery in the second game. Beck's double, a sacrifice and Cuyler's single in the fifth gave them only run of the game.

On the other hand, Charley Root, who after his 27th victory of the season, was unable to stop the slugging of the Pirates, Kiner and Traynor leading hitter. Root was freely batted in the sixth, the Pirates scoring three more runs. Singles by Barnhardt, F. Waner and Wright gave Pittsburgh its final run in the sixth with Jones on first ball.

The world's champion Cardinals swung a double play over Boston at St. Louis 6 to 1 and 6 to 5. Winning of both games enabled the Cards to gain a full game on the Giants, and kept the St. Louis two games behind the Pirates as before.

"Old Pete" Alexander, relieving Reinhart in the seventh, saved the second battle for the Cardinals by holding the Braves scoreless after they had crept up to one point of St. Louis. In the first game, Bill Sherdel pitched the Cardinals to victory.

Philadelphia stopped over in Cincinnati long enough to win a ball game, 8 to 3 from the Reds. They implemented Jimmy Reichman hand enough to drive him from the box.

And healed arguments are apt to come home to roost.

GOLD MINING PROSPECT BRIGHT

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 15 (By Canadian Press).—The development and future prospects of gold mining in the various provinces of Canada, was reviewed with optimism the other day by O. E. Cole, Inspector of Mines, South Porcupine, Ontario, in a paper read before the meeting here of the Empire Mining and Metallurgical Congress.

Although the Province of Manitoba in which the meeting was held, has not yet become an important producer of gold, there had been interesting developments in recent years in the Central and Northern Manitoba mining areas, said Mr. Cole, and some mines have now reached the producing stage. The ores occur in pre-Cambrian rocks similar in general way to those with which the gold deposits of Northern Ontario are associated.

Mr. Cole outlined the story of Ontario's rapid rise to the position of third largest producer of gold among the countries of the world, a story that was not to the end of a decade to the delegates from other parts of the Empire, stimulated the interest. The gold output last year from mines in the province had a value of approximately $30,000,000 and of this $25,000,000 came from the Kirkland and Larder Lake district into the province of Quebec, and a considerable part from the Porcupine district. Mr. Cole said that the rich and proved value have been developed in the Rouyn and surrounding districts during the past four or five years" in some of these the values run mainly in copper, but some of these are essentially of copper ores, with some associated gold.

Mr. Cole spoke optimistically of the future for both Quebec and Manitoba as producers of gold. In Nova Scotia, also, he pointed to the recent renewed activity in the old gold mining districts, which is largely a result of the amendments made during the last session of the provincial legislature in the Mining Act. British Columbia's present gold production comes principally from mines in the northern coast district, and here also there are great possibilities, as the Coast Range, Mountains extend into the Yukon, remains virgin ground for the prospector.

BETTER BUS SERVICE READY FOR OSHAWA

Oshawa, Sept. 2.—Oshawa Railway Bus service from the business and chief residential district to the G.T.R. station, operating on a ten cent cash fare basis in Minute Car, Bonds for which will be inaugurated on September 25, providing the City Council gives approval to the by-law which will be put to the people.

This was stated, permit an improved street car service between Oshawa and North Oshawa. The proposal, embodied in a letter from General Manager Cooper, was received by the City Council at its session Monday evening. It was referred to the Board of Works and Finance Committee on motion of Ald. Swanson, seconded by Ald. Harman, in order that the city solicitor might prepare the plans as regards the Oshawa Railway's franchise rights and the city's interest in its schedules and fares. It is probable, however, that a special Council session will be called as soon as the city solicitor and committee are ready to report, in order that the matter may be put through, if advisable, by the date mentioned on which the Oshawa Railway's 'all and winter schedules begin.

TREVELYAN HAS NOBLE RECORD

London, Sept. 26.—(C.P.) Rt. Hon. Sir George Otto Trevelyan, of Welcombe, Stratford-on-Avon, who was Chief Secretary for Ireland under W. E. Gladstone's premiership of Great Britain, has entered his 85th year. After a lengthy career as a member of the House of Commons and a Minister in the Government of the day Sir George resigned as M.P. Jan. 20, 1897, besides being a statesman Sir George Trevelyan is an author, among his published works being the following: "The Life and Letters of Lord Macaulay" "Selections from the Writings of Lord Macaulay" "The Early History of Charles James Fox," and "The American Revolution," the last-named being in four volumes.

Replying to congratulations on his 85th birthday from the Liberals of Leamington, Sir George wrote:

"Nearly 80 years ago (in 1849) I set myself studying my uncle's (Lord Macaulay's) 'History of England,' which seven a child might read with pleasure and some understanding, and Gladstone Bertie was my pride at knowing that Prince Albert had sent for him to Windsor Castle to urge him to accept the Professorship of History at Cambridge.

"And now I have lived to the year 1927 to read my son's 'History of England,' and to see him Professor of His tory at Cambridge."

The son to whom the aged statesman and author refers, George Macaulay Trevelyan, is also a Professor and author of several other works in addition to the "History of England," which was published in 1926, was recently appointed to the King regius professor of Cambridge University.

VETERAN OF '85 DEAD

Vancouver, Sept. 24.—One of the veterans of the North West Mounted Police who were connected with the Second Riel Rebellion, John Forbes, is dead here. He was one of two comrades who escaped the revolutionists in the scaffold.

Mr. Forbes remained in the force until 1889 when he took his discharge in Fort Saskatchewan. He had later acted as Justice of the Peace. For a number of years he farmed in Alberta and early in the century came to Vancouver.

Picton's Ex-pastor To Appear Before Belleville's Magistrate On New Charge Next Thursday

MAGISTRATE MIKEL WILL PRESIDE AT MELLOR'S PRELIMINARY TRIAL

Brief Hearing Yesterday Afternoon With a Short Remand To Thursday

HEAVIER PENALTY

New Charge Carries a Maximum Five Year Term On Conviction

Attorney-General Price is not taking any chances upon a repetition of a miscarriage of justice in the prosecution of Rev. Mr. Mellor, Picton, upon a new charge.

Police Magistrate W. C. Mikel, of Belleville, has been asked to preside at the preliminary hearing, and Col. Keiller MacKay has been retained as special Crown counsel to conduct the case for the Crown. Inspector John Miller, of the O.I.D., is being detailed by the Commissioner of the Provincial Police to secure evidence for the Crown.

The former charge upon which Mellor was tried carried a maximum sentence of two years. Under the new charge it is five years. Attorney-General Price also intimated that Crown officials may lay further charges.

Appear In Thursday

Yesterday afternoon Mellor made a brief appearance in court before Magistrate Williams at Picton and was remanded until next Thursday without any evidence being taken. Owing to the serious nature of the charge, bail was refused.

Mellor arrived at the Shire Hall accompanied by Chief Constable Riddle, at 2.30 p.m. He had doffed his blue suit and wore a grey one. He had also over the week-end discarded his ministerial white tie and wore a black one.

When the former United Church pastor arrived at the Shire Hall, several members of the church where he once ministered gazed curiously at him. Mellor did not exchange a single glance. He walked into the building with slow but steady gait. His physical appearance was better than at any time since first he was arrested at Trenton, two weeks ago.

Keen Public Interest

Evidence of the interest which the case has awakened in the district was forthcoming in the number of usually busy men who found time to hang around the court house.

Opening of the court was delayed by reason of the non-arrival of Inspector John Miller, of the Criminal Investigation Department. While waiting for the inspector's arrival, Mellor entered in consultation with his lawyer, Fred. D. Ward, and Hon. Hume Mc.P., in one of the rooms adjoining the court room. Mellor, who was in the best spirits he has been for some time, was very much annoyed when it was intimated that there actually was no chance of his being allowed out on bail. He is chafing under the bit at being detained.

Inspector Miller arrived at the Shire Hall exactly at 3.30 and his

PROJECTING SPAR SOLVES MYSTERY

Lunenburg, N.S., Sept. 27.—Mystery surrounded the fate of the crew of the four Lunenburg fishing vessels lost this season with their combined crew of approximately eighty men, was lifted when the steamer Arau arrived into this port the schooner's wreckage identified as being off the schooner Una E. Corkum. The schooner sailed with a crew of twenty-one in command of Capt. W. Andrews. The wreckage was found in the vicinity known as "O Pitcer Pathom Spit" at the middle banks. The spar was also sighted under water near there and may provide a clue to the fate of one of the three other missing vessels.

His plane was forced down in Austria, however, and he has given up the attempt.

LIBERALS PLAN TO FIGHT RIDING

Will Contest By-Election In Prince Edward Dr. Platt Says

Picton, Sept. 27.—Announcement of a Liberal candidate in the forthcoming Prince Edward by-election will be made early in October, it was said yesterday by Dr. Garfield Platt, president of the County Liberal Association following a meeting of the party executive. A special committee, consisting of Dr. Platt, Picton, A. E. Ponton, Bloomfield, Frank Delong, Ameliasburg, has been appointed for the selection of a candidate, and will report to the executive on October 7th. Their proposals will be submitted to a mass meeting of Liberal supporters.

"The indications are that we shall put a candidate in the field to run as a Liberal without any combination with the other prohibitionists party," Dr. Platt stated. "The present tempo of the situation is that we must have a candidate of our own in the field."

DRIVER GIVEN STIFF SENTENCE IN COURT

Toronto, September 27.—In sentencing John Cooper, found guilty of criminal negligence in connection with the death of John Hazelton, a passenger in his car when it hit a truck on June 2, Judge Coatsworth went to on the serious ness of the crime. "It is a matter in which previous good character is of no effect," he said. "Unless we are relapsing into a state of barbarism where human life was held very cheaply we must stamp out this growing offence of criminal negligence. It is my duty, therefore, to inflict in this clear case a substantial sentence.

"It will be six months definite and 15 months indefinite in the Ontario reformatory, and cancellation of the licence to drive recommended."

HEALTH OFFICERS ASSURE NO DANGER OF EPIDEMIC

Toronto, Sept. 27.—No alarm need be felt that the reports of infantile paralysis in Ontario indicate an epidemic of this disease in the province. This assurance was given today by Dr. A. L. McKay, of the Provincial Health Department.

Despite the death from this illness of a girl near Hamilton and reports of cases in other centres, "there is no epidemic," Dr. McKay said. "It is important to let people know this so that needless fear will not be aroused. These are isolated cases and we have investigated very on of them."

Dr. McKay remarked that this was the time of the year for the disease to make its appearance, which accounted for simultaneous reports from different points. Usually at this time of the year there were more cases than at present, he added.

LEAK LOCATED

Million Gallons Of City's Water Going To Waste In Storm Sewer

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 22. — A leak in the city water main which has been letting out a million gallons of water daily was finally located today. The leak allowed a high pressure called for through a small fire at a local cotton factory on Friday. A Board of Works employee heard the gush of water by chance today as the break made no surface appearance coming at a point where it discharged into a storm sewer.

ENGLAND FEELS NIP OF WINTER

Two Inches Of Snow Covers Northern Sections Of Country

ROUYN HAS SNOW

Bitter Cold Wave Sweeps Over Most Of Northern States

London, September 27.—Snow is the depth of two inches has fallen in the north of England and while there has been an abnormal drop in the tempera ture of 40 degrees, the mercury has left the shepherds in the Westmoreland hills predict an unusually severe winter.

The rainfall in Lancashire last week created surprise of the kind experienced in that county in the past forty years. The cotton crops in some districts already had been damaged considerably by the unusual rains this season and further damage was inflicted by the heavy rains last week.

As this district supplies practically the whole northern industrial area with potatoes, there are fears that there may be a serious shortage in consequence of the bad weather.

Snow Fell at Rouyn

Quebec, Sept. 27.—Snow fell early yesterday morning at Rouyn. It was the first fall of the season, but it was very light, and activity in the gold fields was not diminished.

Bitter Wave in West

Denver, September 27.—Indian summer, with its varied hues of red and gold, has been displaced by winter in much of the Rocky Mountain region. Temperatures were seldom above freezing and the lighter altitudes marked groups of thermometers and minimum readings recorded yesterday all was white.

The fall wave with its bundle of winter products struck the region yesterday. Automobiles carried an inch or more of snow on the paved roads in Denver and northern Colorado yesterday. Wyoming also came in for much of the snowfall.

The Government forecaster promised "fair and warmer" weather.

The cold wave struck Northern Wyoming Monday evening and rain to snow after one of the hottest days in weeks. The storm continued throughout the day and the mercury moved south and east of Denver where snow melted as it fell. The thermometer dropped in 34 degrees above zero here.

New York Editor Suggests Novel Plan Of Advertising Dominion

Kapuskasing, Ont., Sept. 27. — Marking the consummation of long standing plans for the development of this region, Premier G. Howard Ferguson, of Ontario, yesterday laid the corner stone of the 500-ton paper mill of Spruce Falls Pulp and Paper Company.

Officials of the company and citizens of Kapuskasing witnessed the ceremony.

The mill, the largest of its kind in the province, will be completed about July of next year, according to F. J. Sensenbrenner, President, speaking at the dinner in the company's honor. He declared the industry would eventually result in an annual pay roll of ten and a half million dollars.

Dr. John H. Pidgley, editor of the New York Times, representing the Ohio, remarked that if it were possible to put the watermark on every roll of Canadian paper, the words "Made in Canada" would be found in every home in the United States.

FEARS FELT FOR GERMAN AVIATOR

No Word Of Koenneckе Following His Arrival In Angora

Baara-Irak, Sept. 27.—Anxiety is increasing here over the fate of Lieut. Otto Koennecke, the German aviator, and his two companions who were due to arrive here Saturday night from Angora, Turkey. Inquiries are pouring in of the fliers have been sent out in all directions.

Berlin, Sept. 27.—Where is Koennecke? is the question on everybody's lips here today. Inquiries are pouring into the London into the Berlin office of the Associated Press from relatives and friends of Lieut. Koennecke and his two companions in the plane Ger many. Ninety-six hours have passed since it was reported that the plane took off at Angora, Turkey Saturday morning in the direction of Aleppo and the aviators were safe, beginning to worry. Efforts are being made by transatlantic interests here and the German representatives at Angora to ascertain the whereabouts of the fliers.

The belief that Lieut. Koennecke has made a landing at some inaccessible spot from which news would have difficulty in reaching Turkish authorities or the German embassy at Angora is gaining ground.

Picton, Ont., Sept. 27.—It was bargain day in Picton when some of the assets of Harry Raynor, week-end auction salesman, came under the hammer of Auctioneer Bobby Jones yesterday. All they realized was $188. And for this small amount were purchased six bargains, a horse, a cow, a calf, some harness and 35 chickens.

One buggy sold for a dollar and fifty cents while another fetched $36. The horse was sold for $31, the cow for $10 and the calf for $8.

FURTHER PLANS FOR BIG DRIVE

Safety Committee Executive Met Yesterday With Hon. G. S. Henry

TO STOP ACCIDENTS

Decided To Go Ahead With Part Of Executive Campaign

Toronto, Sept. 27.—Another meeting of the Executive of the Highway Safety Committee was held in the office of Hon. George S. Henry, Minister of Highways, yesterday when further arrangements were made for a campaign started drive for the prevention of motor car accidents. It is the intention to hold a drive during the first week in October if at all possible.

Instead of limiting the period to an intensive week or ten days, and then ceasing to function, it was thought best at to have a more or less standing activity committee.

Many offers of co-operation have been received since the publication of the news of the committee's first meeting last week. Some of them were from motion picture concerns and radio broadcasting stations. Some of these offers will be taken advantage of.

One suggestion that was made best which was laid before the Act days was the official publication of the names on every driver's license which had been cancelled. It was decided to go ahead with a portion of the educative campaign which was placed before the committee, a part of this to be undertaken next week if possible. In the meantime municipal officials, police officials, boards of trade and public service bodies and newspapers all over the Province are being asked to work with the committee.

Hon. Mr. Henry impressed upon the committee that a still more rigid enforcement of the motoring laws and regulations would accompany the first efforts made next week looking to more care in preventing accidents.

"While our traffic of late has been unprecedented," said Mr. Henry, "the law has foreseen the present condition and many of the first things we must do to speed up, and is constantly moving ahead. Ordinary police methods are impossible. The Province could put a traffic officer on each mile of road, but

SCORES DROWN IN FLOODS

London, Sept. 27.—Scores of lives were reported to have been lost in Alpine floods which inundated the Principality of Liechenstein, the east ern Swiss canton of Graubunden and the Upper Trentino, Italy, after tremendous rains over the week-end.

THREE WORLD'S RECORDS FALLEN TO OLD ENGLAND

London, Sept. 27.—Englishmen and Englishwomen swimmers today found three new world marks achieved for their country. Foremost, of course, was the Schneider Cup seaplane victory at Venice but while Lieutenant Webster was streaking through the air over the Lido to defeat the Italians, another speed record was made which has almost as much appeal to the average Britton.

This mark was made by the railway train "Royal Scot" which steamed from Carlisle to London, a distance of three hundred miles in five hours and forty-five minutes, establishing what is claimed as a world record.

The third world record, an odd one, was made at the London Coliseum Theatre yesterday by Mme. Vera Hemphinova, ballet dancer. Tossing she spun around forty times on one toe without touching the other foot to the floor, thus beating her own previous mark of 38. No other ballerina she avers, ever accomplished more than 32 such spins.

TO EXAMINE PATIENTS FOR CHEST DISEASES AT FOUR-DAY CLINIC

HEADS CONFERENCE

Medical Health Officer Points Out Values Of Tests

FREE OF CHARGE

Local Physicians To Co-Operate In Choosing X-Ray Subjects

Belleville is to have a four-day chest clinic conducted by three medical men of the Provincial Board of Health, at the Veterans Hall, Dr. Crook, Medical Health Officer, of this city, announced this afternoon that arrangements had been completed whereby, on his recommendation, the Clinic would be held. It will probably commence on Monday, Oct. 10th and continue for the three days following.

Though patients will be examined free of charge by the Doctors in charge of the Clinic it is by no means for the needy only that the X-ray chest examinations to be made by those in charge have been arranged. It was pointed out by the local M.O.H. that tuberculosis of the chest in its early stages and nature could readily be cured when detected in these early stages and that it is quite possible for a person to be suffering slightly from some such ailment in advance of its existence. One of the chief purposes of such a clinic, then, is to educate the people to consult their physician when the slightest symptoms of some possible chest disturbance is evident.

The Clinic will be conducted, of course, in cooperation with the municipal medical authorities locally, who will first determine whether, or not a person should be X-rayed at the Clinic shall undergo such an examination.

AFFAIR CLOSED SAYS ATTORNEY GENERAL

OFFICIALLY OPEN ROAD CONGRESS

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 27.—Nearly six hundred delegates greeted the Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Minister of Highways for Ontario and the president of the Canadian Good Roads Association when he opened the fourteenth annual convention of the Association today. The attendance is the largest in the Association's history, delegates being present from every province and from many states. "Safety on the Road" will add one highways," was stressed as key note of convention.

His Honor W. D. Ross Lieutenant Governor of Ontario, officially opened the gathering, welcoming visitors to the province. H. Stephens, Mayor of Niagara Falls, tendered freedom of the city.

Led by Hon. W. H. Climb, Minister of Highways of Manitoba, the official representatives of almost every province evinced keen interest of the government's in the progress of good roads movement, and their intension to keep abreast of the recent developments in the science of building and maintaining highways.

News of the world shows that yesterday British fliers took first and second place in the Schneider Cup race for sea planes, held this year at Lido, Italy, breaking all previous speed records to do it. The Italians who counted on winning failed to have a plane finish and the United States entry never got started.

Another Englishman, Major Seagrave set a new mark for automobiles at 200 miles an hour some months ago and that record stands.

The term "the New English" current in the United States and sometimes in Canada seems to need more than a little reversing.

TRAFFIC CONTROL

By the exercise of some patience and a little firmness administered with sound common sense the local police appear to have straightened out local traffic snarls, so that motorists drive now in reasonable safety on city streets. Even the diagonal parking, the subject at first of strenuous criticism is working well now that drivers have learned to park correctly and no one would think of going back to the former system. No one wants to come out of a store and find his car wedged in back and front and be compelled to spill some other driver's convertibles before he can move.

The "stop street" system too, is working well after a few persistent offenders have been fined for refusing to conform to it. It is seldom now that a car comes to Bridge or Front Street without halting or at least slowing down to a walking pace.

The police deserve credit for handling what to always a vexed question with good skill, that safety has been achieved with a minimum of friction.

MOTOR PRODUCTION

If there is a saturation point facing the automobile industry at some indefinite future there are no indications of its approach in this present year. It is announced that in the first eight months of 1927 there were manufactured in Canada 150,331 motor vehicles, nearly one-quarter of them being built for export. The total is short of the production for the corresponding months of last year by 5,000 cars, but their value exceeds the 1926 figure by more than $1,000,000. The virtual cessation in the manufacture of Fords, pending plant alterations in preparation for a new model, may explain the numerical decrease. It is probable new Canadian records would have been set had Ford production continued on the scale of recent years.

The manufacture of automobiles has become one of the country's leading industries, and production does no more than keep in step with the increasing public demand and the ever-extending market. Every mile of improved roads adds to the list of potential shoppers, and it is no longer expedient to fix an income below which the possession and operation of a motor car is an economic impossibility.

In the statement that the production of closed cars leads over the open models by almost three to one there is seen an interesting commentary on the change in the public taste brought about in a very short time. The family car nowadays almost invariably is of an enclosed type. A typical reversal is the way that wheel guards have gone out of use. The automobile is not any more a novelty, or a toy, but an all-weather utility.

PICTURE LESSONS

Pictures have played a vital part in the shaping of the destinies of the world and the individual. They are an inspiration either for good or evil according on the picture. Good pictures find their way into the cottages or castles of the thoughtful and the cultured. The thoughtful and the cultured bring good pictures into their cottages or castles.

We can not all afford to purchase the originals of the few immortal masterpieces but modern commercialism beneficently brings within the reach of the humblest home good copies. It is true that the rich buy "paintings" and the poor buy "prints" but no less true it is that there are millions of prints sold for each painting "worth a fortune." There is a wealth in pictures that is unknown to "wealth." The artist could wish for no fuller and finer appreciation of his art than the wish bestowed upon it by those without the means to own it. "In oils."

The value of the picture is known to those in all walks of life. Newspapers have long recognized the news value in the pictures, educators know its educational value, the church depends upon it for inspiration power. An advertising writer says "to unlock the average mind use a pictorial key." Sir Joshua Reynolds wrote "a room without pictures is a room without pictures is a room without pictures is

Mainly About People You Know

NO COURT.

No Police Court was held again today. The Police reported and absolutely clean blotter, not even a solitary "drunk" appearing.

WATER TURNED OFF.

Tomorrow morning the water on Front street will be turned off. This is because of the sewer work being conducted at the corner of Campbell and Front streets. The water will be turned off from six until nine o'clock in the morning.

BANQUET SUCCESS.

The Bank of Montreal Banquet held in the Quinte Hotel last night, was a complete success, according to Mr. G. A. C. Weir, No. business matters were discussed at the dinner, the gathering being of a purely social nature.

PAID FIGHT BET

On Friday evening last after the chair had gathered a fight bet was paid by a West end garageman's help er. The bet called for the boss to roll a peanut the distance of one block which he did with the help of a ruler much to the amusement of the witnesses who picked Tunney to win, and a score of onlookers.

PICTON FIELD DAY.

Several Belleville will take part in the sports at the annual Picton Field Day tomorrow. The four mile marathon is the event to watch on the card which includes races and contests for both the boys and girls of the different schools in this section of the country. The Hastings and Prince Edward County Band has been chartered and will supply the music for the day. A Jubilee Dance will be given in the armouries in the evening.

SMALL MARKET.

A small market greeted the farmer the meeting and business was a little slow. The cold black wind accounted for the small attendance. Prices ranged around the same figures as Saturday. Eggs were dropped at 50c a dozen, while the usual run of garden vegetables and fruit remained stationary. Musk melons were plentiful and brought from five to fifteen cents.

CONCERT POSTPONED.

Many local citizens, who had planned to attend the Edward Johnston Concert in Odessa this evening, were disappointed to learn this afternoon that the concert had been postponed indefinitely. Mr. Johnston is ill in the Guelph Hospital; no particulars could be learned as to the nature of the famous singer's sudden sickness.

RIGIDLY ENFORCE LIQUOR CONTROL

Toronto, Sept. 27.—With the state of the Ontario Liquor Control Commission now accustomed to their duties the Board will be in a position to devote its energies to the absolute enforcement of the Act, Hon. W. H. Price, Attorney-General, said today in commenting on the work of the Board. The Board, starting an entirely new business in the Province, had to train its employees, but with the organization completed, Mr. Price believes that the Board will in future be merely able to see that regulations by brewers and distillers.

The cancellation of the license of the Sandwich Hotel, Windsor, which was pointed out by the Attorney-General as a step in this direction, he was natural that much of the time in the first instance must be devoted to completing the organization," Mr. Price said. "Now that that has been done, there will be more time to see that the Liquor Control Act is properly observed."

MEDICAL ATTENTION SAVES WHOLE FAMILY

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 27.—Prompt medical attention perhaps saved the lives of a whole family who contracted ptomaine poisoning last week end night, but who were out of danger today. James McKay, his wife and two children, collapsed last evening after the father had managed to secure a doctor. A tin of pineapple

AIDED CONVICTS, GIVEN 2 YEARS

London, Sept. 27.—For their part in the Middlesex County jail delivery here on December 18th as a result of which Edward Hartlen and Frank Martin, murder suspects, made their escaped and are still at liberty, Hon. Agnew, 17, Ross McLeod, 21, and Byron Fraser, 24, were given reformatory sentences of from one to two years by Magistrate Crayton in the police court today. Agnew, who pleaded not guilty and fought his case, was accused to two years less one day; McLeod, who pleaded guilty, was given a like sentence which will be made to cover also the theft of an automobile; Brown, who also pleaded guilty, was given two years' indeterminate and second year indeterminate sentence, which also covers his participation in the McLeod car theft.

The three were transferred early afternoon in the custody of the County Court officers for trial on additional charges of robbery. Later they will be taken to Brantford and possibly Woodstock on further robbery counts.

The three were awaiting sentence for robbery and theft, when they escaped from jail. They were caught two days afterwards.

NEXT CUP RACES TO BE HELD IN ENGLAND

London, Sept. 27—Foremost hope expressed by officials of the Air Ministry today was that next year's Schneider Cup race, which will be staged in England as a result of yesterday's Mariton victory, will find teams from United States and European countries, entered so that the classic event will again assume a truly international aspect.

Until yesterday's victory has greatly cheered the Air Ministry and all aviation authorities in the country. Recently, they have been somewhat in considerable criticism because until yesterday Great Britain held none of the world's records of importance in aviation.

MAGISTRATE

mediately conferred with Magistrate Williams and Crown Attorney Allison.

Counsels appearing were: M. R. Allison for the prisoner; F. L. Ward for Mellor and Gordon Walmsley (counsel) for Bertha Houck and her relatives.

There was one lone lady in the court room when the case was called, she placed herself in an arm chair in that portion of the court usually reserved for lawyers. The body of the court room was well filled with men.

Asked For Remand

Mr. Ward—"I am asking Crown Attorney Allison at once asked for a remand until September 29.

Magistrate—"That's granted."

Mr. Ward—"That's satisfactory."

Mr. Allison—"Anything more?"

Mr. Ward—"I want to speak on question of bail. This man Mellor is here voluntarily pursuant to something he saw in a Syracuse paper. He came here Saturday and was arrested. He is acting honorably although in a way he is in the circumstances. I ask that he be allowed out on bail if that be consistent with your duty. I think you can assure you he will not be in the public eye so far as the town of Picton is concerned. I am willing to furnish bail in any reasonable amount."

Bail Opposed

Crown Attorney Allison—"Owing to the serious nature of the charge, and the circumstantiality of it, this man forfeited his bail. I must oppose bail. We are rushing the matter as fast as we can. The usual remand is eight days. We will be ready to proceed on Tuesday morning at 10 o'clock."

Magistrate—"As this case emanates from Picton and as a representative from the Attorney-General's department is here, I would like to know what evidence is, Inspector Miller."

Miller Satisfied

Inspector Miller—"I am satisfied with Crown Attorney Allison and then said: "I have no authority to make any representation," your Worship. The representation I express will be the opinion I expressed by the deputy attorney-general that owing to the nature of the remand no bail should be allowed."

Magistrate—"I rather think that is prudent. I don't think the accused wants to be in the limelight."

Mellor—"I'm satisfied."

Accused was accordingly remanded in custody until Thursday.

Returns a Surprise

The surprise of Mellor's first arrest was the assessment which greeted his sentence after the unexpected hearing in camera a little more than a week ago were as nothing to the shock with which the news of his re-arrest burst upon the town.

Not even the police knew of his return from the States until the moment of his arrest. Late in the afternoon, Chief Burton Riddel received a telephone call from F. L. Ward, Mellor's counsel, who asked the chief to join him in his automobile. By a devious route, Mr. Ward drove to the home of John Mubbe, the Conservative M.P., who furnished the $1,000 which was paid as reparation when Mellor was first sentenced.

Mellor, who was sitting alone in the house when the chief and Mr. Ward entered, sprang up and shook hands with the amazed chief.

"Well Burt, how are you," were his first words, then, "What do you want me for now."

"I guess they think you haven't had enough justice," was the only reply that Chief Riddel could make. "You got to answer to me."

"Well, I'm here and they can hang me now if they want to," the ex-pastor said.

FURTHER PLANS

cause the officer could not be everywhere at once. The only man who always present is the driver himself. Therefore if the rules of safety can be instilled into a driver, a great step will have been taken.

"Drivers have not yet become 'traffic conscious'. Some old drivers do not realize the changed conditions on the highways. Many of them conduct themselves as they did five years ago when traffic was not so congested as today.

"Some new drivers do not realize the necessity for care, because the auto has become so common.

"It is this campaign which we plan must essentially be one of education of old and new drivers and of pedestrians." By enlisting the co-operation of leading citizens occupying official positions we expect that a new and substantial step forward will be taken."

TODAYS MARKETS

New York, Sept. 27.—Frequent shifts of speculative sentiment took place in today's market, with reactionary tendencies predominant. Occasional rallies in some of the recent pool favorites were met with large offerings of stock although about a dozen issues, nearly half of them public utilities were lifted to new high records for the year. Trading was only moderate in volume due in part, to the absence of many customers over the Jewish holidays. An attempt to rally the general list shortly after midday by marking up U.S. Steel common following the announcement of a dividend increase in the corporation's mill operations, met with little success. Although no change in the credit situation is expected, for a month or so, talk of a huge increase in Government bonds as a result of the General Motors settlement, had a bearish effect.

Mask stocks was heavily bought, rising more than 2 points. General Motors sold ex-dividend from a high price of 134 to 264 1-2, but failed to maintain all its gain. Renewed discussion of ford competition tended to chill bullish enthusiasm for the motors. Expanding earnings and talk of new combinations continued to provide the background for the advance in the public utilities. Consolidated Gas and Foreign power and American water works reach ed new high records, while people gas and common wealth power were each bid up about 3 points. Industrials Chrysler, Allied Chemical & Dye, Seaboard Air Line, Clam A. Stock also attained new maximum prices. Strength of Van Sweringen issues featured the rail group, Chesapeake and Ohio common selling are cord high for all time at 196 7-8.

BAD GRAMMAR NEVER A BAR TO REAL LOVE

He says "They ain't," and "I come," and "he see."

He cuts his lettuce with his knife and shovels his soup from the end of his spoon and he has even been known to sop up the gravy with his bread!

So "Worried" is wondering if her love can possibly survive marriage.

DEAR ELSIE:

Please give me some advice as to curing my boy friend. I expect to marry him soon. I want to cure him, of bad table manners and the use of incorrect grammar.

I have been told that love will not stand the test when one is careful and the other careless of his or her table manners or grammar.

I shall indeed appreciate any help you can give me in this respect. WORRIED.

How can you cure him?

I'd advise you to cure yourself first, my dear, of your very strange conception of love. The love that can't survive the strain of a slight imperfection or a misused salad fork isn't worthy of the name. If you can't bring your husband a more husky affection than that you'd better break your engagement at once, before you wreck two lives.

You certainly cannot "cure" your lover of these defects if you continue to feel ashamed of him and conscious of your superior breeding, as you do at present. But if you can look beneath his superficial defects and feel an honest respect and devotion, then his "cure" will be very easy.

Simply put your arms around him, and tell him that he's the most wonderful man in the world but you wish he'd be just the teeny-weenie bit more careful about certain little things. Assure him that you, yourself, would never worry about those things but that you are so proud of him that you want everyone else to realize how bright and fine he is. Then laughingly and lovingly, point out the faults you wish corrected. And I'll wager anything you'll win your point.

"I'm sorry for him," Troubled, wondering how to rid herself of an unwelcome lover.

No, because he says she'll break his heart if she leaves him, she continues to accept his attentions, although she does not love him.

Many a generous, kind-hearted girl has drifted into marriage through just such pity, and then regretted it all her life.

DEAR ELSIE:

I'm a girl of twenty and have been going with a man of twenty-three. Now here is the problem:

This young man wants me to marry him but I feel that I'm too young and also I only like him as a friend. When we started going together I never realized that I would be going with him for a whole year.

We have had a few quarrels and when these happen I always want to break up. But tell me that I will be breaking his heart and a lot of other things and I feel sorry and we make up again.

He has been a very good friend to me but I never like to get the night man for me. I tell him this and he thinks I'm too bashful to accept it. What do you advise me to do?

TROUBLED.

DON'T DO IT, MY DEAR. For his sake, and for your own, don't take him into your life through pity. I know how sad it is for a man to establish such a claim on a woman's sympathy. Every good woman is a teacher at heart, and cannot bear to see suffering. But if you allow yourself to drift into marriage through pity, you'll cause infinitely worse pain than you could possibly cause by an immediate break.

Try to see this thing clearly and coolly. Remember that no real man wants a girl to love him unless she gives it to him freely and happily. It is unfair and unmanly to try to hold you by threats or whimperings; if he makes you marry him by such methods you will eventually hate him for it. Stop now before it is too late.

For Young Members of the Younger Generation

Worst that inevitable moment comes of a Friday afternoon—when one has counted-ed to a schoolroom full of giggling classmates, bored visitors and prostrate parents and has launched into a recitation of "The Village Blacksmith" (with gestures)—and simply cannot get past the spreading chestnut tree, then one's loss of memory is quite overlooked in the stir of admiration caused by one's frock, if this be the frock. It is of pale, pale yellow crepe de Chine with the charming scalloped berths and brief shirt bound in turquoise blue. It would be chic also in gleit pink organdy with rose colored edges, or in any other harmonizing color combination of georgette, voile, silk or cotton crepe or taffeta.

The most frequent footgear noted on smart New York promenades are: Black suede oxfords with narrow trims of lizard or patent leather; brown suede oxfords combined with plain kid of reptile; an occasional blue shoe worn with the sapphire blue costume; gun metal with self-color or black heels.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

So often the pins will not stay in the hems of net curtains and one must baste it back to any sort of restness. This can be avoided if small wire hairpins are used instead of pins; they will not slip.

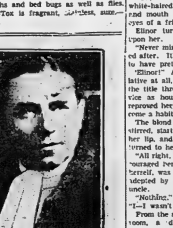

A large cork will surprise you with the uses to which it can be put. It is a splendid thing to use as a duster to apply polish on shoes. A little sand on a cork will polish aluminum beautifully. A cork dipped into silver polish and applied to the egg-stained or tarnished silver is a very simple and easy method of cleaning.

Use of Fly-Tox Reduces Disease

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am in my teens and I met a girl at a dance. I took her home after the dance at her home. Recently I saw her go out with another boy. I don't think that's right, do you?

We are not engaged, but are planning to be soon.

BLACK BOTTOM.

BLACK BOTTOM: Until the time that you are engaged, it is proper for you as well as this girl, to go out with other people. However, if you intend to become engaged very shortly and feel that you would rather not go out with other boys, why not talk it over with the girl and decide what to do?

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a man thirty years old and am married to a beautiful girl nine teen years old. I love her more than life itself. We have been married about a year now and have broken up twice. She insisted that her mother live with us as she has no means of support.

We have only lived alone about a month in the end that's the only time we got along. She will not have her mother, who does nothing but sit around and cry and point out my faults and nag me, about them.

It's true I've lied to her, but it's my business worries that I was trying to keep from her. I've been true and given her all in my power when I found her indifference because she nagged me she left me and said I mistreated her.

Please advise me how to win her back.

J. You must have a long and serious talk with your wife. Don't me impatient. Show her you understand and wish to make her mother comfortable. After all, you must realize, my friend, that your wife has a real problem on her hands. It is natural and right that she should wish to take care of her mother. If she felt otherwise she would not be quite as worthy of your love.

When discussing the matter with your wife make it clear to her that the early years of married life are ones of compromise and adjustment. Point out that two young people are confronted with enough difficulties in adjusting their interests and tastes, without adding a third person to the household. Why not suggest to your wife that you make arrangements for her mother to live elsewhere? Tell her that you want to make her mother as comfortable and happy as possible, but that having her with you is jeopardizing all your chances for happiness together.

When you discuss the matter I want to caution you against making any accusations about her mother. It would be pointless to antagonize your wife, since she could scarcely permit you to say bitting things about her mother, without resenting them. If I were you I would not go into that aspect of the matter at all.

JEALOUS HEARTS by MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER 2

THE WILL OF THE DEAD

Anthony Deering lounged on a stile in the hawthorn hedge that separated his own home, Lynnwood, from Carver Hall, and ruminated gloomily. The June afternoon offered its lure in vain. Blue sky unflecked by the slightest cloud, lush meadows scented with clover and sprinkled with ridiculous daisies; the call of a cuckoo from a clump of poplars; the drowsy whirring of insects in the long grass that gave forth the scent that is warmth and sun and earth and summer in one indescribable blend—all this went unheeded.

Tony Deering was deeply in love. He was pondering what he was going to do about it.

Meanwhile, all unknown to him, his destiny was being settled for him in the library at Carver Hall.

Mr. Courtenay, the solicitor for the estate of the late Daniel Carver, folded the document he had just read and surveyed the little handful of people gathered in the library.

There was a tense silence—an astounded silence, as the old man knew. But the beginning of his expression didn't change while he waited for comment upon the amazing will of Dan Carver—the will that so neatly and sarcastically disposed of the future of his heirs and survivors.

The tall, slim girl with copper-colored hair, who sprawled gracefully in a big chair—Dan Carver's niece and adopted daughter—was the first to speak:

"Well, that was a hot one!"

"Oh, Elinor, remonstrated a little white-haired woman who had the nose and mouth of an aristocrat and the eyes of a frightened bird.

Elinor turned her gaze carelessly upon her.

"Never mind, Aunt Het, you're looked after. It's the rest of us who seem to have pretty well got the gate."

"Elinor!" Aunt Het—she was no relative at all, but who had come upon the title through twenty years of service as housekeeper at Carver Hall, reproved her mildly, because it had become a habit.

The blond young girl beside Elinor stirred, stared at the speak, flushed, bit her lip, and then was silent. Elinor turned to her.

"All right, Millicent, spill it," she encouraged her cousin, who like herself, was an orphan and had even adopted by their eccentric bachelor uncle.

"Nothing," said Millicent hastily. "I—I wasn't going to say anything."

From the shadows in the rear of the room, a distinguished white-haired man spoke. He was tall and erect, with a commanding dignity.

Said Colonel Deering:

"My dear old friend's last will and testament is, I confess, a surprise to me, though I was always cognizant of the desire nearest to his heart. His wishes are my law, and I dare say that I need not assure you that my son Anthony will consider it an honor to—er—carry out—" here even his supreme poise deserted him, and he took refuge behind the pretext of a cough and his silk handkerchief.

"It's pretty raw for Tony," remarked Elinor, with a low laugh. "Who'll break the news to him?"

"That," Colonel Deering emerged from behind the handkerchief, "will be my pleasure."

"You know, you're taking it very nicely," Elinor told him coolly. "But I wonder what the poor boy'll do?" She turned to Millicent: "Do you suppose he'll draw lots for us—or flip coins?"

Crimson flooded Millicent's pleasant face, and Elinor covered her mischievous eyes with her hands. Everything about Elinor was exhibiting bravery—her amber-colored eyes, with their black fringe of lashes, her red mouth, her slim, exquisite shoulders, her white rounded arms, her slender shapely hands.

She turned abruptly to the lawyer: "Have we got this straight?" she ask ed lazily, her eyes flickering with a certain amusement, as if she were thoroughly enjoying the situation.. "Sharn of all its 'whereas-es,' the idea is that, after Aunt Het's provided for, one of us two girls is cut off without a penny—and it's up to Tony Deering to say which one? Am I right?"

"Well," the solicitor coughed slightly, "I wouldn't quite describe it as 'without a penny,' Miss Elinor. There's a provision for the—er—"

Elinor interrupted him with a gesture that indicated their sumptuous surroundings.

"After Carver Hall, that's only a pittance. But it's no matter. The point is that the entire estate goes to the girl Tony marries. It's up to him to choose between Millicent and me, and the one who gets left gets out!"

"Precisely, Miss Elinor," agreed the lawyer dryly.

"I think Mr. Carver must have been mad," commented Aunt Het. He was always eccentric and, in his last years I thought—"

"Nonsense!" cut in Elinor. "He was a bright boy with a sardonic sense of humor, that's all. I'll bet he's chuckling in his grave this minute. He wanted his little joke, even after he was dead."

"Elinor!" gasped Aunt Het and Millicent, in the same breath, and the former added, with mild severity: "And your poor uncle buried only yesterday!"

Colonel Deering spoke from his corner:

"Daniel Carver was not unbalanced," he said slowly. "I can understand why he made such a will. But what I am going to tell you I need not ask you to regard a confidence." He paused a moment and then continued: "As you know, Carver and I were boyhood chums, and our friendship remain ed unmarred up to the night of his death. There was a time, however, when it was put to a severe test.

"I had been sent to Italy on a diplomatic mission, and there I met the Italian lady who afterward became my wife and the mother of Anthony. She was very young, and her family, which was of high estate, refused to consent to the match until she had lived for a time in America to see if she would bear transplanting. Accordingly, her parents accompanied her here and, for a full year, she resided with them in Baltimore. During that time, our engagement remained a secret to most of my friends. Carver knew of it, however, and had knowledge kept him from wooing Blanca. For he loved her from the first—a love that was more like the adoration one would give a saint than the love one would feel for an earthly being. She never knew he cared, of course, but I knew, and, when she died at my son's birth, his grief was as great as mine. I think he must have confessed to his heart, for he never married. When Tony grew up he took very much the place he gave him as a nephew in affection. You knew Dan Carver as a taciturn, stern old man. But I knew the heart of gold. He had a keen, unfaltering instinct for the right, and, whatever was the underlying motive for this curious will of his, I know it was good. So far as I can judge, the colonel continued in a lighter tone: "it was merely the desire to unite the estates Carver Hall—with my estate; to have one of his nieces and adopted daughters, whom he loved in his own strange way, married to the son of a woman he loved."

Elinor was silent with a curious constraint, after the colonel's confidence—every one, except Elinor, who whispered to Millicent:

"Ha, hat! off to the old boy! I never knew he had enough red blood to love another man's wife."

"Ehh!" admonished Millicent; but, after a moment, she whispered back: "Which of us do you suppose—"

Elinor smiled. It was no secret to her that Millicent was in love with Tony Deering.

An interesting situation, this, thought Elinor, who dearly loved drama and treated it wherever she could from the most common-place and every-day incidents.

It was nearing sunset that afternoon when Tony crossed the meadows between Lynnwood and Carver Hall to fulfill his part of the conditions of the will. He hadn't needed his father to counsel him. He swung along with a confident stride. All the world looked good to him.

Elinor and Millicent, sitting on the veranda at Carver Hall, saw him coming toward them.

GIVE FIRST WASH IN 2 CENTURIES TO WESTMINSTER

Great Nave Not Cleaned Since Days Of Christopher Wren

London, Sept. 27.—The western wall of the nave of Westminster Abbey is at present a mass of scaffolding, half hiding the brilliant glass of the great window. The reason for this is that the Abbey is being thoroughly cleaned

Nothing of the kind has been attempted for nearly 300 years, not, to fact, since the great restoration carried out by Sir Christopher Wren and those who came after him.

That restoration came to and end in 1735, in which year the glass of the window was inserted. It does not display the art of the craftsman in the glass as it is best, perhaps; but it is intensely interesting. It was carried out by Joshua Price, a noted artist of his day, who strove his best to maintain the old ideals which had come down to him, at a period when he could have received from his 18th century contemporaries but little encouragement. Spectators will be astonished when the work of cleaning is completed at the brilliant and beautiful coloring of Joshua Price's glass, which will shine like a great mass of jewels.

The will also see at the foot of the window a large and highly interesting Latin inscription recording the gifts made by Parliament to the restoration of the Abbey Church, and the warm interest displayed by George II. as the work neared completion. This inscription was originally painted on the sill of the window, and as to be visible nearly all over the nave, but dirt has obliterated them almost entire ly.

W. B. MILNER IS NEW PARTNER IN E. HARLEY & CO.

Announcement is made by the investment brokerage firm of George E. Harley & Co., members of the Toronto Stock Exchange that Mr. W. B. Milner has been admitted to a general partnership in the firm. The name of the firm has also been changed to Harley, Milner & Co., and larger and more convenient offices have been occupied on the ground floor of 304 Bay Street, Toronto, where excellent board room facilities and direct private wire connections with all principal markets will be maintained.

Mr. Milner is well known in Canadian financial circles. Mr. Milner was formerly manager of P. D. McCurdy & Co's offices at St. John, N. B., and enjoyed the management of the Toronto Office of Royal Securities Corp., with which Company he has been associated for the past eight years, to form the above partnership.

Associated with the firm will be Mr. J. S. Brown, formerly Toronto secretary of the Royal Securities Corp. Ltd., and Mr. Latham Burns, formerly with the firm of R. A. Daly & Co. for over five years. Messrs. Brown and Burns will be actively engaged in the investment securities department of the new firm.

Mr. Harley joined P. D. McCurdy & Company at Halifax following the war, and was manager at St. John, N.B., Moncton, N.B., and then at London, Ont., before which he headed his own investment house, George E. Harley & Co. of Toronto, London and Windsor.

Salada Tea Co. Opens New Building in Boston, Mass

Governor Fuller, Mayor Nichols and Leading Citizens Laud Canadian Enterprise in Expanding Business in United States

HON. P. C. LARKIN

One hears a great deal about the expansion of United States industry in Canada; therefore, it is interesting to note that Canadians can, and do, expand their business on the other side of the border. This was emphasized at the recent opening in Boston, Mass., of the magnificent new building of the Salada Tea Company—a Canadian enterprise with world-wide ramifications.

The building was opened by the Honourable P. C. Larkin, in the presence of Governor Fuller of Massachusetts, Mayor Nichols of Boston, and leading State and city officials. Referring to the imposing nature of the building, and the fact that it was the largest in the world devoted to the packing of tea, each speaker commented upon the success which had attended this great Canadian enterprise in the United States field.

Architecturally the building is a handsome ten-storey structure, and enjoys the distinction of possessing a pair of the finest bronze doors in the world. These doors, which are the work of Henry Wilson, an English sculptor, were awarded a medal by the French Salon, where models were on exhibition this spring. They are said to rank in beauty with the doors of the cathedrals in Milan and Mayence.

The interior of the building is notable for the remarkable collection of tapestry, carvings, cloisonne wear, metal work and ceramics. Great Buddhas, which have seen centuries pass, gaze patiently with folded arms upon a modern business. Richly colored Oriental rugs transform the floor into gay garden patches with aisles of marble. In the great windows some of the smaller and rarer pieces present themselves to the passing public. Throughout the building officials and employees will have daily, airy and most pleasant surroundings in which to work, with a luxuriant clubroom on the top floor for rest and relaxation. The clubroom is furnished with handsome lounges, and light, comfortable chairs upholstered in English red morocco, tables in color to match, Oriental rugs on the floor, and rare Chinese tapestries on the wals, with antique pieces distributed around the room, and on the inner wall a huge, inviting, open fireplace. Just below the clubroom is the cafeteria, to be maintained for the use of the employees.

Speaking about the beauties of the new building, Mr. Larkin said: "Of course, you know, we don't want to be beautiful about these works of art. The building is new, but we have been many years collecting some of the nicest things we have. All our buildings have the same general sort of surroundings for executives and employees. We started doing these things years ago—before we even had much money to spend in such ways.

"It isn't extravagance, really. Inbidding surroundings hinder production in any line of business. I know that it's good business. We very seldom have any one leave our employ. Sometimes two whole years go by without a person leaving the company either in Canada or United States. We have never had any labor disputes of any kind. Such things cost money. It is expensive to train new employees. It is expensive to put employes in a jail-like place and have them merely endure their work until the time comes when they can get out."

Mr. Larkin was asked about the report that the Salad Company paid marriage bonuses.

"Oh certainly; we've done that for years. It isn't much. When an employe is married the company presents a cheque for $100. And for every child born to an employee we give a like amount."

"How about twins and triplets?" chimed in a reporter.

Back came the twinkle: "It's never happened yet, but the custom stands good for that—shall we call it?—emergency, too—$150 for each. Those little donations for a 'sunny day' are in addition, of course, to payments made under the general policy of sharing profits with our employees to the extent that the business may permit year by year."

ELECTRICITY IS LATEST CURE FOR COMMON COLDS

Electric Current Made To Pass From One Plate To Other

London, Sept. 27. — A method of treating the common cold by electricity is described in the great medical journal, "The Lancet." The apparatus was devised by a French doctor, and consists of two small metal plates which are fixed to the sides of the nose.

An electric current is made to pass from one plate to the other travelling through the nose.

It is best to treat the cold in this way soon after it has begun. The patient lies in an armchair and the doctor regulates the supply of current.

When an uncomfortable sensation of heat is felt in the nose, the amount of current is reduced, and later, when the heat becomes difficult to bear, the current is turned off altogether.

Then, it is claimed, the patient reaps the reward; he can breathe freely, he ceases to sneeze, the nose no longer discharges, and there is no sign that he has ever had a cold except a faint intenasion of the voice which persists for a few hours, and is due to swelling which has not subsided. In most cases a single sitting of 25 minutes is said to be enough to complete the cure.

Though the Frenchman who recommends the treatment does not say just how painful it is, he is enthusiastic about its success. English authorities, however, are somewhat sceptical, as the heat produced by the current cannot be prevented for him the damages at the back of the nose, where the infection chiefly lies.

SAY LONDON BUS DRIVERS POLITE

Special Courtesy Test Required For Job With Great Company

London, Sept. 27. — A woman who set out recently to test the courtesy of London's omnibus and tramway men found them all models of politeness.

Glasgow, of whom an American visitor wrote, "The tram conductors are gentlemen who never once failed one."

Ridiculous and unnecessary questions were buried at the conductor's pound notes were proffered for penny fares; but by each man she was met with unfailing courtesy and a suave and ready reply.

Only once did she goad a conductor to a mild retort. During the morning rush hours in the city she offered him a halfpenny and two farthings in payment of a penny fare. He took the money, looked at it wonderingly for a moment, and turned it over on his open palm.

"Hm. You'll be asking us to take jam jars next," he said.

At the headquarters of the London General Omnibus Company, which also controls three tramway systems, she learned that the company is continually receiving letters praising the courtesy of its employees.

One man sent four dozen shaving sticks, with the request that they might be divided among the conductors and drivers on his route.

A woman wrote to thank the drivers on another route for slowing down when passing her house during her husband's serious illness.

"All our conductors have to go through a special courtesy test before they go on the road," an official said. They are taught how to deal with the hundred and one predicaments that arise during their day's work.

"They have to be able to change their manners. A conductor has to give Bill and Harry of the east end a cheery welcome in their own lingo, and then become super-polite to my lady of the west.

WOULD RATHER BE AT WOMEN'S MEET

Toronto, Sept. 26.—From the Women's Page of the Mail and Empire: Rather a pleasant story was told by a public man, in a public place, recently.

"If I were given my choice," he said, "of attending a man's or a woman's convention, I'd choose the women's show every time. I've found that the women know what they want to say, they say it and they sit down. You men have really nothing they're keen on getting across and they go on for an hour talking about nothing. You may not always agree with the women, but at any rate they don't bore sometimes, too," he added, gallantly, "they thrill you."

FIRST ATTEMPT 71 YEARS AGO

Bridgeport, Conn., Sept. 26. — (By Canadian Press) — Thumbing the pages of local history, Bridgeport has found that the first attempt at trans-Atlantic aerial voyaging originated here in 1858, when the balloon "Bridgeport" set out from here for Paris.

She trip was not completed. The "Bridgeport" got only as far as six miles from Bridgehampton, near the southern shore of Long Island, when it slighted, with its crew of five, little the worse for their hazardous adventure.

The projected trip was obviously hopeless. Their motive power was to have been the winds, which they hoped would waft them across the 3,500 miles of ocean. In their short trip the balloon ascended to a height of 23,000 feet, or nearly five miles, which was for some time an altitude record. Sheets of ice coated the bag and forced it down.

Archbishop Sebastian G. Messer, 80, of Milwaukee, Wis., returned from a three-month visit in Switzerland.

WORK BETTER IN QUIET OFFICES

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 24—(By Canadian Press) — Noisy conditions produce less work than quiet ones, Prof. A. L. Kornhauser, business psychologist at the University of Chicago, stated at the conclusion of a four-day test of noise on efficiency. Four stenographers working in the same office provided the means of determining the effect. The girls working in pairs alternated between noisy and quiet rooms.

At the conclusion of the test, Prof. Kornhauser made the rough deduction that girls working under noisy conditions turn out fewer lines of copy that stenographers of equal skill work ing where conditions are quieter. A careful check of the results is to be made.

MARRIED IN A HOSPITAL WARD

Pathetic Scene Follows Arrival Of Girl Bride At Institution

London, Sept. 27.—A pathetic blackclad girl of twenty-one who last week, hovering her flame was dying, became a bride and widow within five days, recounted the other day the story of one of the saddest and strangest weddings that can ever have taken place in London.

It was held in a ward of St. Bartholomew's Hospital, by special license from the Archbishop of Canterbury. The bridegroom, George Edward Hart, was a young workman of Nile street, N.C., who lay dying of pneumonia, and the bride was Miss Rebecca Talbot, of St. Bartholomew Buildings. St. Luke's, who had prepared her immediately for the ceremony.

The wedding was held on a Wednesday, the bridegroom died on the following Monday, and two days afterward the five-days' bride followed her husband's body to the grave. "Somehow and I have never seen each other since we were children," Mrs. Hart said. "We spent all our free days together, and every day he would come to my work place to take me home.

"His illness all came about quite suddenly. The hospital people told me he was gravely ill, so I left another and I went to watch over his bed.

Fight For Life

"He made a real fight for life, but he felt he was dying. When Mr. Douglas, the chaplain of the hospital, asked him if there was anything that troubled him he said: 'I believe I'm dying. Isn't it possible even now for me to marry my sweetheart?'

"Mr. Douglas comforted him, but he told us that the only way we could be married in hospital was by special license, for which the archbishop of Canterbury's permission had to be obtained. 'It costs £25 in stamp duty and £10 in fees,' he said, 'but I will see what can be done.'

"Mr. Douglas went to the authorities and he would not let us pay the money.

"The hospital nurses provided the stamp fee.

"George's mother and I received the license and went to the ward.

"A screen was drawn round his bed, and then the chaplain put my hand in George's, and I promised that I would love and obey him till death parted us. His voice was very low that when it came to the answer, 'I will,' Mr. Douglas had to bend down to his lips to catch the words. Then he put the ring into George's hand, and George slipped it on mine.

"As soon as the service was over George just fell back on his pillow with a smile and went into a deep sleep."

GEM ROBBERY REPORTED

Minneapolis, Sept. 27.—Herman Hamburger, New York jewellery salesman, told police that he had been kidnapped from his white en route from St. Paul to Minneapolis today and robbed of diamonds valued at $25,000. The men, who said they were, forced him to leave the bus while still in the city, drove him in an automobile, robbed him of the diamonds and pushed him from the machine in Minneapolis.

CHILD SAVES PLAYMATE

Munich, Sept. 27.—Ernst Hofmann celebrated his fifth birthday today by saving his two-year-old playmate from drowning and thus lays claim to being one of the youngest life savers in the world.

After a sumptuous feast on birthday cake and other dainties, the children played near a creek and the two-year-old slipped from a footbridge into the swirling waters. Though Ernst was unable to swim, he succeeded in dragging his companion to shallow water aided by the swift current. The other children ran for help which arrived, however, after the rescue had been made and the lads were wringing the water from their clothes.

BELLE THEATRE

Alec B. Francis, who plays the name part in the production of Peter Grimm," Fox Films version of David Belasco's successful stage production, was born in London sixty years ago. His father was one of the most prominent barristers in England. On his mother's side Francis traces his ancestry back to the celebrated Dougans of Ireland and the fighting MacDonalds of Scotland. A Van Renegal, of the fine old Holland strain, was one of his great-great-grandmothers.

REGENT THEATRE

To be quite frank, "London," Paramount's new British National Production, starring Dorothy Gish, is just a "Rags-to-Riches" story told in a delightfully new way. Yes when you come to analyze that phrase, isn't it true that stories of the "Cinderella" type have always been popular? Doesn't one usually feel happy when he knows that the heroine has come from the slums, risen to the heights, found her Prince Charming and stalined happioness?

CAPITOL THEATRE

Belleville got its first glimpse of that much talked of "Big Parade" yesterday, and the famous picture which five million people in several different countries have crowded to see drew a packed house to the Capitol last night—a crowd which was enthusiastic about this great film, and which voted it one of the best ever seen in the city.

While primarily a war story, the picture is not all of war, for, although it is suffering and death, but into it are interwoven all the tenderness which characterize human nature in all its phases, for, full of sentiment, it deals with humanity in war, its bitterness, its friendliness, its gallantry, its love.

The picture excels in its comedy, pathos wit and drama. An admirable caste, headed by John Gilbert, Renee Adoree; Karl Dane and others carry the story along with an interesting energy; and the theme of the three Americans buddies in France lack nothing in their gripping interest.

The film cannot be described properly; you must see it to appreciate it fully It is in fact everyone will enjoy, young and old and from the seeing gain a fuller understanding of war and of human nature. It is one of the first occasions on which the picture has been shown at popular prices. It will remain at the Capitol today, Wednesday and Thursday, with matinees.

The musical numbers accompanying the great film are especially good, and Joe Lopizzi Symphony Orchestra is heard at its best.

GIANTS' HOPES SLIM FOR THE PENNANT NOW

Flickering Hopes Received Final Death Blow In 9-2 Defeat At Philadelphia

Philadelphia, September 27.—In the subsistence cheese best known to the humorists as Baker bowl, the Giants' pennant hopes received a decent burial with full military honors yesterday afternoon. Philadelphia beat out the Giants, 9 to 2, and only a miracle can win for the McGraw men now. Inasmuch as they are three and a half games behind the Pirates, with only five contests to go, only a miracle can win for the Giants have run through their available supply of miracles. They have fought along and struggled and given everything they had against terrific odds for the past two months, now they have reached the end of the road, only to find a blank wall ahead.

The only thing that can save the Giants now is one of those long Chinese spouts, with Leo Flynn holding the match. The McGraw men started their quest for the pennant at Baker bowl on a hopeful day last April, they ended it yesterday with a handful of Philadelphians jerring while the gallant gladiators gave up the ghost.

The Giants must win all five of their games, while Philadelphia is splitting even in four to tie for the pennant, and while this is mathematically possible there is just as much chance of that happening as there is of Philadelphia going democratic at the next city election.

To be knocked loose from pennant hopes is bad enough, but to be given futile Phils do the knocking loose' represents the ultimate in anguish, humiliation and ignominy. The Giants looked very bad behind the weak pitching of Burleigh Grimes, and they were cracked under the strain of a superhuman race.

In the last two months or more the Giants have been the best ball club in the league. Despite injuries, bad weather and a hard schedule, they paced down the long lead of the Cubs and Pirates, until the whole country paused to watch the team's magnificent efforts to come from behind. It was a magnificent but futile—like Jack Demp sey's attempt to come back. Giants, winner of thirteen straight games, took a tumble yesterday and great was his fall. The Philadelphians knocked him down and out in the third with a four run batting rally and pried there nose loose from Norman Plitt in the fifth.

Pittsburgh gained another notch in the National League pennant race yesterday by shutting out the Cubs at Chicago, 1 to 0, in a game that sharp after the sixth inning because of rain. The Pirates scored the only run of the game in the second inning. Wright led off with a single to left and after O'Farrell popped out, Cuyler sacrificed to centre. Harris singled over second, sending Wright home. The Cubs' only scoring chance came in the fifth when Stephenson and Wilson led off with singles.

This photograph of the Tunney-Dempsey fight shows clearly the much-discussed incident of the big Chicago fight. Here is shown the 7th round knock-down, with Tunney lying on his back, his hand on the ropes, while Dempsey stands over him, while the referee orders him away. Under the rules, Dempsey should have retired to a neutral corner immediately, but he stood for some seconds before being forced over into a neutral corner, after which the nearly fatal count on Tunney was begun.

PIRATES MUST WIN THREE MORE GAMES

New York, Sept. 27.—Pittsburgh Pirates apparently had the National League championship safely stowed away yesterday by keeping up the two game lead by virtue of a victory over the Cubs, while the Cardinals downed the Reds. After a stern struggle to remain in the fight, the Giants, by some quirk of fate stumbled before the lowly Phillies to be practically eliminated from the contenders.

The Standing

	W.	L.	play	P.C.
Pittsburgh	92	59	4	.813
St. Louis	90	60	4	.800
New York	88	61	5	.591

The Pirates must win three out of four games remaining to clinch the flag should the Cardinals make a sweep of their four contests left to be played. The standing then would be:

	Won	Lost	F.
Pittsburgh	93	59	.617
St. Louis	94	60	.610

Stephenson was nailed at the plate when he attempted to score on Hartnett's fly to Barnhart. There was a slight drizzle when the game began and only 5,000 fans were in the stands.

Ornsti'n double with two out following Toporcer and Schulte's singles gave the world champion Cardinals a lead over the Reds at Cincinnati in 11 innings. The score was 3 to 1.

Luque's resistance fell away in the 11th after a series of six tight innings. Following Ornsti'n score Maranville beat out a bunt to fill the bases and Toporcer scored the third run when Ford booted Haines' grounder. The Reds rallied in their half of the 11th to place two men on base, but neither of them were able to score.

Schulte, Cardinal shortstop, gave the Reds their only run in the second inning when he threw the ball into the grandstand trying to catch a runner at first base. The Cards protested vigorously, but the umpires stood pat, allowing the run.

Luque had held the Cardinals to seven scattered hits up to the 11th inning, while the Reds had taken 13 from Haines. The Cardinals gathered four hits in the 11th.

OVER 6,000,000 IN AUSTRALIA
Melbourne, Australia, Sept. 27.—A statement issued by the Commonwealth statistician shows the population of Australia to be more than 6,000,000, as compared with 2,250,000 in 1881. Since 1921 the population has increased by 10.81 per cent. compared with an increase of 8.15 per cent. recorded by Canada in the same period.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer"

With the past two weeks a dull one, in the local sport field things are picking up with the announcement that the Beavers and The Ontarios are soon to renew their feud. Some weeks ago a challenge was flung to the four winds which was quickly snapped up but owing to the Kiwanis Karnival it was impossible to start the series at the armouries. Arrangements have been made to bring these two clubs together on Friday night of this week or Monday of next week. The Managers of the two teams are angling for the inside diamond on either of these dates. The final announcement will be made tomorrow. Alan Meagher says his team can trim the Ontarios any time and the Ontarios have retaliated to the effect that the Beavers will not be in the game at all. So the argument has waged on during the past several weeks and a keen battle is promised between them.

It is the general feeling among local fans that Peterboro are finding things rather soft in their quest for the Ontario title. The Petes are not nearly as strong as they were some years ago but they have met with little opposition thus far. St. George's are rated as one of the weakest senior teams to come out of Toronto in some years and the T. A. B. A. winners have as a general rule furnished the keenest opposition for the outside teams. The Petes with their present line-up are not as strong as the same team three or four years ago and Belleville walloped away with them as did the Kingston squad. "Shiner" Johnston who was regarded as a "has-been" is still holding down the red-light corner and the old guard is just about the same with the two Hall brothers playing bang-up ball in the outfield. The Central Ontario League broke up at the wrong time and the "Petes" did the right thing and drew a bye and as a result may bring home the championship although it is feared in many quarters that the Western winners will eliminate them.

The World's series with it's color and ballyhoo will hold the centre of the stage next week and although the National League flag is not yet decided it appears as though the Pirates are "in". The American League has resolved itself into a Ruthian battle with the Bambino trying to bust his 1927 mark.

Any one of the National teams will furnish plenty of opposition but the Observer believes the Yankees are good enough to trim any one of them. With Pennock and Hoyt in good form and Ockrip and Ruth hitting, Colonel Ruppert's boys bid fair to regain they lost laurels.

Eastern Ontarian fans are polling for Dr-lers to bring home senior championship to this neck of the woods and with only one more barrier to overcome they will make things interesting, to say the least. The winner of the Copper Cliff-Leamington on the baseball man Smelters in bone and bone games. The Leamington team is reported to be a collection of American stars who were imported in order to put Leamington o nthe baseball map but Dclora disposed of Bridgeburg things rather soft in their quest for the Ontario title. TEX'S PROFIT IS MERE $500,000

Rickard Willing To Give Dempsey Second Chance In Elimination Series

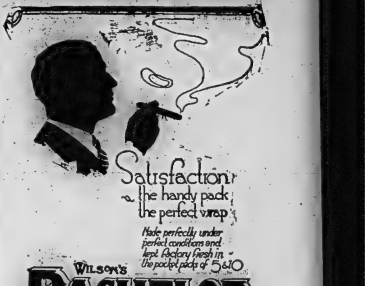

New York, Sept. 27.—Now that Tex Rickard's dream of the first $2,000,000 fight gate is ring history, has faded in the light of financial returns from the Chicago battle front, the promoter is considering a new record attempt with the third match of the Tunney-Dempsey series.

"Very tired," but happy that the champion's successful title defence in Soldier's Field was the greatest of his own financial triumphs to date, Rickard arrived in New York today with his promotorial teammate Geo. F. Getz, nominal head of the fistic extravaganza which was not heard of until four days after the event. Getz will sail for Africa tomorrow to hunt big game.

"Dempsey is still the great drawing card in the ring," Rickard said, "and is far from 'through' if he wishes to continue fighting. I have not heard a word from Jack directly on the subject but I certainly would match Tunney and Dempsey again if the former champion is willing to fight his way through the winter or spring campaign to prove his fitness above all other contenders."

Rickard announced the Madison Square Garden profit on the big match as "roughly $500,000" which is four times the $125,000 he whittled to that figure of profit by payment of 1,425,000 to the principal contestants, $470,000 in taxes and $250,000 for rent of the stadium and general expenses, he said.

Financial examination with the meagre figures disclosed by the promoter today brought to light the possibility that the gate totalled much less than the figures announced and that Rickard's estimated attendance of 140,000 was rather optimistic.

The governmental taxes amounting to $470,000 comprised twenty per cent. of the gate. Based on that figure the total paid attendance would have been but 23,250,000. The total seat sale at four o fthe seven listed prices—$40, $30, $10, and $5—amounted to 86,350, leaving the customers in the $15, $20 and $25 seats to boost the attendance to original estimates of 140,000.

Ringside admission amounted to 40,623, Rickard said, while only 16,000 cash customers squirted at the fight from the distant $5 section; 13,300 from the $10 seats, and 26,511 from the comparatively choice $20 benches. Approximately 29,000 ringside seats at $25 top were sold at Philadelphia.

HURTLES 150 FEET TO PAVEMENT

Winnipeg, Sept. 27.—While leaning out of a window, Charles Richards, 24, electrician employed by a local hotel, lost his balance and fell nine storeys, a distance of 150 feet, to his death on the street below. Richards crashed through the glass canopy at the entrance to the hotel as pedestrians watched with horror.

MONOHAN OUT OF RUGBY THIS YEAR

Kingston, Sept. 27.—When Queen's line up in their first game of the season with McGill at Montreal on October 15th, they will be without Vincent "Irish" Monahan, star middle wing, who will not play intercollegiate rugby this year.

Monahan had the misfortune to miss the examination, that of mathematics and though desirous of continuing his studies he was just as anxious to play rugby. The faculty and the athletic board of officials, however, felt that it would be better for all concerned if Monahan stayed out of rugby for a year. The big middle-winger went to his home in Brockville, but stated that he would return to the University this week, and continue his studies.

Monahan really made a fine showing for a first-year student, and it is felt that if he will stick to studies for this year he has a fine future ahead of him in the academic world.

IMMIGRATION INCREASES

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Immigration to Canada for the first five months of the present fiscal year amounted to 86,966, according to a statement made public today by the Department of Immigration and Colonization. For the same period a year ago the immigration was 78,477 showing an increase of 27 per cent for the five months in 1927, compared with the same months in 1926. The increase is distributed over all three general classes of immigrants, that is, British, from United States and from other countries.

In the five months under review—April to August inclusive—British immigrants total 36,306, from United States 12,387, and from other countries 31,271.

BYRD TO TRY A DASH FOR SOUTH POLE VERY SOON

Commander Will Establish Bases 200 Miles Apart From Pole

Washington, D.C. Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press) — In planning his flight to the South Pole, Commander Richard E. Byrd confronts obstacles that make his hazardous North Pole hop seem, at least, to the layman, like child's play in comparison.

In the Arctic he had a land base, at Spitzbergen, within 800 miles of the Pole. In the Antarctic his permanent supply base probably will be established 2,000 miles from the Pole on Ross Sea, on the coast land of the New Zealand group.

Since the distance prohibits a takeoff from his base, as was possible on Byrd's planning to use the plane in the North Pole flight, Commander New Zealand and from there into the ice, by land, to set up a series of bases 200 miles apart, toward the objective. From each of these, with two planes, Byrd would try a dash to the Pole, he said.

To reach the ice field from Ellsworth Island, he would have to sail through the little known coast of South Victoria Land and Ross Sea, wandered over explored by Captain James Ross, English explorer, in 1841. That coast is described by the National Geographic Society from available records as being a wild range of ice covered mountains, rising at times to a height of 16,000 feet, without vegetation or animal life.

A vast continent is believed to stretch beyond that range, Byrd said, where further south begins a great icy plain, 10,000 feet above sea level, windswept and pathless to aircraft. Within it lies the South Pole, unmark ed by any topographical feature.

CHILDREN LOST IN BUSH

Prince Albert, Sask., Sept. 21.—Lost while searching for cows in the bush country near Strong Pine, Sask., Mrs. Kosinko, aged two, and his sister, Ethel, eight years old, wandered about for several exhausted, and the boy because so ill that he died in his sister's arms. The girl was found next day by a search party, but her condition was such that she could not tell a coherent story until today.

The children went to search for the cows on Tuesday, but as they often spent the night at the home of a married sister, they were not missed until Wednesday when a search party was organized. The girl was found 24 hours later, and had wandered within the spot where her brother had died.

Pile Sufferers

Can You Answer These Questions?

Do you know why ointments do not give you quick and lasting relief?

Why cutting often fails?

Do you know the cause of piles is in dermal?

That there is a stagnation of blood circulation in the lower bowel?

Do you know that there is a harmless internal remedy discovered by Dr. Leonhardt and known as HEM-ROID, now sold by J. S. McKeown and druggists everywhere; that is guaranteed?

HEM-ROID banishes piles by removing the cause by freeing blood circulation in the lower bowel. This simple home treatment has an almost unbelievable record for sure, quick and lasting relief to thousands of pile sick sufferers, and saves the needless pain and expense of an operation. There is no reason why it should not do the same for you.

Who Is Your Skinny Friend, Ethel?

Tell him to take McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets for a couple of months and get enough good healthy flesh on his bones to look like a real human.

Tell him, it's the only way to take those gruesome hollows from under his cheeks and neck.

Tell him that thousands of thin, puny, peaked, scrawny men all over America have improved their physical health and appearance and ideas the day they first heard of these wonderful sugar coated tablets so full of weight producing vitamins.

Ask for McCoy's Cod Liver Extract Tablets, McCoy's and every druggist worthy of the name sells them — 60 tablets—60 cents. Any thin man or woman can put on five pounds of healthy flesh in 30 days or your druggist will willingly refund the purchase price.

One woman put on 15 pounds in six weeks. Children grow sturdy and strong—feeble old people feel younger in a few weeks.

VETERAN BROCKVILLE DOCTOR IS DEAD

Brockville, Sept. 26.—Dr. Robert Kinney, Inspector of Public Schools for East Leeds and Brockville for 40 years, until 1918, and previously a practicing physician, died here today after a long illness, aged 86 years. He was born in Prince Edward, County and after having received his teacher's certificate at Toronto, taught school in Deanville and Brockville, before studying medicine in Philadelphia and at Harvard. In 1890 he was an unsuccessful Independent candidate in Brockville against Hon. C. F. Fraser for the legislature.

SEVENTY YEARS QUEEN'S CAREER

Closed Doors On Sept. 11 After Breakfast Was Through

Toronto, Sept. 21.—Finishing an unusual career of 70 years, the last breakfast on Sunday morning, Sept. 11, the Queen's Hotel on Front street, Toronto, closed its doors for the last time, never to be reopened to the public. The historic hostelry was built in 1857 and has been a home to many notables and has hosted Royalty as well, it to be torn down to make way for the Canadian National Railway Company's hotel, the Royal York, now in course of erection on the site. The Queen's Hotel was one of the links connecting the present-day city with the Toronto of the past, and it is said that had an important place in the chain of events leading up to the hotel era in this city. In the stretch of years since the Queen's was built, practically what changes have been witnessed in Toronto. The city has grown from a comparatively small to a city of about 600,000 population. It has evolved from a municipality of limited scale to a city with the airs and ambitions of a great and rapidly growing metropolis, with a million population, and through it all the old Queen's Hotel has stood for the highest in the conduct of such an inn and has maintained an atmosphere of gentility at every step of the way.

Patrons of the Queen's are attached to it by a sentiment that is unique in Canada have known, and it was with a genuine regret on Sunday morning that they learned that the ancient building was to be razed to make way for the modern sky-scraping hotel. With its shuttered windows and immaculate cleanliness the Queen's, on Sunday, had a sad appearance, if not semi-exclusiveness, indeed. The Queen's for many years was a favorite resort by trees, but of late years the trees were only a memory.

The Queen's Hotel holds the four dwelling houses that formed the nucleus of the Queen's Hotel. Of these of the first Knox College, and in 1854 by the proprietorship of Mr. Sword.

In the winter time, before the old Union station was built, ice-boat parties stopped immediately in front of the hotel and sought warmth and refreshment inside. In those days there was no such things as a room with a bath, as a tin bath was provided. It is said, when asked for. On colder nights a tub was generally available in the house had to be emptied or the would freeze and the jugs split.

SHOPS CATER TO N.Y. STENOGS

New York, N. Y., Sept. 24. (By Canadian Press)—Business men may spend their time and money in Wall Street investing in figures and foundation of their fortunes, but their stenographers spend all but an hour of their time daily in Rector Street seeking the foundation for the figures that are their fortunes.

For a good two blocks; squeezed in between the white collared nigh finance of Lower Broadway and the burly stinging at the Hudson River, Rector Street caters to nothing but feminine beauty. Clerks and shopkeepers call Rector street as "no man's land," and there during the noon hour the angles of keyboards and switchboards devote themselves at the expense of their luncheons to sandwich study of the latest creations to make themselves alluring.

Many of the shops are scarcely larger than piano boxes, but from points of vantage purveyors of lingerie and cosmetics were literally thousands of eager customers every day. Each of the more pretentious shops announce "the latest importations," and somehow manage to fit prices to the week's pocketbook.

WOMEN ENVIOUS MAGAZINE COVERS

Toronto, Sept. 22.—They tell us that women are tired of the 'pretty girl' covers but that the men are not," said Mrs. H. E. Aitken in discussing magazines at the Exhibition just over.

"They are more virulent than ever," said a woman out in front. "Anyway we are sure of a decent type of girls on the covers of our Canadian magazines," said the speaker, urging her hearers to patronize the home industries in the line of literature.

SOVIET DELIVERS DEBT PROPOSALS TO THE FRENCH

Wants Credit To Almost Twice Amount Paid On Debts

Paris, Sept. 27.—The Soviet proposals on debt payments and merchandise credit upon which the declaration was made in Moscow that the French and Soviet delegations had agreed, were delivered to Paris last night.

The proposals show that the Soviet Government wants one and two-third times as much credit as it pays on the debts during the first five years, while the French, says the Russian note, indicated that their limit was credits equal to payments during a five year period.

Was Dated Saturday

The note, which came from Soviet Ambassador Rakovsky was dated yesterday, but, was only delivered at the French economic delegation last evening. It included none of the accompanying "Memo" by Max M. Litvinoff, chief of the Soviet delegations abroad, which was received in Moscow that a full agreement had been reached. The ambassador's note, however, indicated that the proposals were to be acceptable to the French Although there is a wide divergence in the amount of credits provided for.

The Soviet proposal is that 30,000,000 gold francs (about $2,000,000), be deposited in a French bank within six months as the offer and in a series of 60,000,000 gold francs on pre-war Russian securities held by French citizens and quoted on the Paris Bourse provided France grants a total of $120,000,000 commercial credits in the equally installments bearing interest with each instalment repayable in six years.

Interest Guaranteed

Interest on these credits would be guaranteed in manner yet to be determined and the merchandise bought with the credits "destined solely for economic purposes such as industrial equipment, agriculture, transportation and municipal purposes."

The Soviets, the note said, would agree to give to the French any advantages that might be granted to other nations under similar agreements.

The 61 annuities are classified in the note as follows:

Forty-one as the principal payment; 10 as back interest and 10 as "supplementary income."

Ambassador Rakovsky's letter transmitting the offer says that the Soviet Government desires in this way to show the French on three points such as the French demand of the favored nation commercial treatment. The 10 years.

note also reveals that the Soviets originally asked for credits of $225,000,000, one-third cash, in four yearly payments each payment repayable in

NOW BOOTLEGGING BIRTH CERTIFICATES

Washington, D.C., Sept. — (By Canadian Press) — Bootlegging of birth certificates is a mushroom growth that has developed under rigid provisions of the restrictive immigration law.

The practice stems from the fact that children of aliens born in the United States are citizens and, therefore, entitled to enter the country without reference to immigration requirements. Now alien fathers have their names may be, they can get the without difficulty for less than a dollar. born on American soil."

Both of the bootlegging of birth certificates is not a commercial, but a friendly act. A relative, or a friend of a relative, or an acquaintance of friends abroad wants to come to the United States, whether health is relative ly easy to obtain. But the quota law stands in the way, so a request is made for the loan of a birth certificate which will greatly simplify matters. And all too frequently it is granted in a purely friendly spirit, with a feeling of certainty that no harm can come to the United States from such an act and that, therefore, it is can not be a crime.

BANDITS GET AWAY WITH $85,000 CASH

Los Angeles, Cal., Sept. 26. — Two men, posing as three officials of the Los Angeles Water and Power Bureau just after the offices opened for the day today an escaped with approximately $85,000 in cash. The hold-up was staged just before the doors were opened.

SWEET SMELLING FERTILIZER NOW ON THE MARKET

Made From By-Products Of Cocoa And Chocolate

Washington, D. C., Sept. 26.—(By Canadian Press) — A perfumed fertilizer has been found for the 'electrical farmer.' It is made from the by products of manufactured cocoa and chocolate, and has the aromatic excellence of the parent substance.

Ordinarily the potency of fertilizer is judged by its content. It creaks for a gas mask, but the Federal Bureau of Soils has discovered the sweetly edifier ous content to possess a convenient and suitable plant food.

An analysis of the sweet meal, the department of agriculture says, can be made containing about four per cent. of nitrogen, which is the equivalent of 4.9 per cent. of ammonia.

BLAME FAULTS ON THE WEATHER

Port Worth, Texas, Sept. 24. — (By Canadian Press) — When things go awry, blame it on the weather, says D. S. Landis, poet, philosopher and for 18 years weather observer here for the United States Weather Bureau.

Temperature and humidity affect the human temperament, Landis finds stations, creating nervous activity, are reflected in the actions of people over a period of days.

A bright day cheers, raising the spirits of the people, making everyone more congenial and reducing likelihood of friction.

A cloudy day, on the other hand, while a sedative for people of a phlegmatic temperament, is the precursor of a more vital nature and causes unrest and irritability, according to Landis. He says that police records show that crime, especially murder, increases on gloomy days.

MEAT OR NOT, NO DIFFERENCE

Lexington, Ky., Sept. 22.—There is little difference between meat and vegetable diets for athletes, if a ten-mile race by about ten seconds, spoiling his opponent when the finish line was neared, but both runners in regard to the Government's offer in search as trained flyers or mechanics were available and the Canadian Air Services had a registered airport which could be transformed into a civic port. The speaker intimated that steps were being taken to organize the Aero Club.

CUP WINNERS

Campbellford, Sept. 27.—The baseball fans and the citizens generally have been praising their home town team for the splendid showing it has made this season on the ball diamond. By continuous hard batting and an average amount of luck, they wrested the Clark Cup from Hastings who have held it in their possession for two years. This trophy represents the baseball championship for the county of North-

Handsome Canadian Pacific Exhibits

(1). The Railway Building at the Toronto Exhibition. (2) A portion of the Canadian Pacific Exhibit, showing the model depicting the growth of the C. P. R.

Throwing the spotlight on all its reproduced "sodivities, the Canadian Pacific Railway last night achieved success! in its exhibit this year at the annual exhibition at Toronto. It is a busy spot for the visitor; for both the west and the east, after instruction and education from the C.P.R. exhibit, are agog with beauty and learning. Running from the ceiling down to a set of shelves four feet was a circular panorama of the Dominion stretching from the Atlantic to the Pacific Coast. This frieze was designed by Frederick Challener of Montreal and executed by four other Canadian artists. Its lowest point is gave an actual picture of the country through which the journey is made. " At the base of this panorama the famous all-steel palatial Trans-Canada made its run.

Spread out on a stage was a large model of the St. Lawrence River with the Atlantic Empress steamships and the docks. In the background were prosperous looking farms, and across the river the city of Quebec with its winding streets and the towering Chateau Frontenac formed an absorbing picture.

To link the East with the West there was produced a working model showing the Banff Springs Hotel in the Rocky mountains. Here were seen the Canadian Rockies and the New River Valley in holiday mood. This beautiful oasis of comfort in the heart of the mountains proposes the urge to see more of the Canadian Rockies by its use. The scheme bike tour the winding paths, trail pack horse tour with their pack horses for snow-capped peaks, and the Stony Indian with his square sand-bed outside their tepee helped to make a good picture.

The Company's latest achievement in Canadian hotels was also displayed in a model of the Hotel Saskatchewan, Regina. Covered wagons in the foreground tell the story of Canada's development since the days when wagons were the only means of crossing the prairies.

Special prominence was given to the new Canadian Pacific Hotel to be erected at Toronto. "The Royal York," which when completed will be the largest hotel building in the British Empire. Much interest is being displayed by the public in the new structure which will rise 25 stories above the street level and will be located directly across from the new Union station. Other exhibits showed models of the Algonquin, Place Viger and Vancouver hotels.

The Lands of Enchantment and Mystery discovered in the World Tours were grouped in one colorful setting, with the hint of a story-line, guiding through the vistas. All these scenes were reproduced on an 18 by 24 inch illustrated paragraph and lighted with such changing effects as the sun, the moon, sky, the ocean mood, the deepening dusk and darkness.

Indicating the immense growth of the Canadian Pacific Railway was a data on which was constructed a replica of the Company's present headquarters compared with a model of the original Express building in Winnipeg dated 1882.

In addition there was a wonderful collection of revolving transparencies in natural colors, the new ones of these were placed. wake high around the exhibit. Each transparency clearly told its individual story. In the centre of the building was a pillar around which are life-sized figures of natives of foreign countries in characteristic costume.

THE LOST RETURNS

Oshawa, Sept. 27.—Charles Goodson the Oshawa bricklayer who has been reported missing since Sept. 19th, returned to his home, 171 Prince St., Sunday night. Mr. Goodson is about 60 years of age and his prolonged absence caused his friends considerable anxiety.

Though one of her missing sons has returned, that fact seems to decree that there shall be someone missing from Oshawa, for Robert Drummond, Park road South, was reported Sunday to have been absent too long from town. He left Saturday to go to Peterboro and has not returned.

BROKEN COLLAR BONE

Oshawa, Sept. 27.—Floyd Dodd an employee of W. J. Trick, carpenter received a broken collar bone and other injuries yesterday morning shortly after nine o'clock when he fell from a plank while working at St. Gregory's Separate School building, Simcoe street north. The cause of the accident is unknown, although it is believed that the force of a high wind barrow knocked him off his balance. That the accident is rather strange is made by the fact that the workmen upon which Dodd was walking was several feet wider. He is in the Oshawa General hospital.

AERO CLUB

Peterboro, Sept. 27.—The formation of an Aero Club in Peterborough and the possibility of the use of the aerodrome by civil pilots for training purposes were foreshadowed in the address of Captain Ayres before the Peterborough Rotary and Club yesterday.

Captain Ayres whose talk dealt with the possibilities offered by Canada in the field of aviation pointed out that Peterborough was in an ideal position in regard to the Government's offer in search as trained flyers or mechanics were available and the Canadian Air Services had a registered airport which could be transformed into a civic port. The speaker intimated that steps were being taken to organize the Aero Club.

Terrible Backache

Hamilton, Ont.—"After my baby was born I had terrible backache and headaches. I could not do my work and the doctor said I was five months' old up. But worst of all were the pains in my sides when I stooped. I was so had to sit or lie down for a while afterwards. I could keep no house in order, but many things had to go undone at the time, because of my ailments. I was told by a neighbor to take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, as she said it would build me up. I was relieved before I had taken the first we bought and have used it in our home for five years."—Mrs. T. Markle, 60 Burton Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

SATISFIED WITH BOARD'S REPORT

French-Canadian Educational Assoc. Commends Premier Ferguson

ASKS CO-OPERATION

Urges French Speaking People To Help Apply Sane Principles

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 28.—In a statement addressed to the French speaking people of Ontario the French-Canadian Educational Association of this Province today expressed appreciation of the report submitted to the Government by the committee inquiring into the bilingual schools. It endorsed the action of Premier Ferguson in accepting the report. It asked French-Canadians "to co-operate in the application of the sane pedagogical principles contained in the report."

Referring to the proposed government body for bilingual schools, composed of the chief inspector of the Province, two directors and the local inspector, the statement said the Board of Inquiry had placed in the hands of this committee the fate of these schools. It was probably the best thing that could be done under the circumstances.

"According to the interpretation given, from it may result the most beneficent or most evil effects," the statement added:

"Hence, before giving final judgment, we must wait and see how the governing committee will interpret and apply those principles laid down by the Board of Inquiry. We hasten to add that the general trend of the report enables us to hope that notwithstanding the interpretation and application of pedagogical principles expressed therein will hinder its good effects." The statement is signed by Chouinet, secretary. The President of the Association is Senator N. A. Belcourt, who is at present in Belgium.

MAKING A GALLANT SIXTH ATTEMPT

Cap Gris Nez., France, Sept. 28.—Seven hours after entering the water Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist who has failed in five attempts to swim the English Channel was going strong at 4.40 p.m. She was fifteen miles northwest of Cape Gris Nez where she started her swim at 9.40 this morning and ten miles west of Calias. Conditions were still good although the breeze was freshening and the sea was growing choppy.

STRONGER AIR FORCE

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—To meet the increased activity in aviation, the Royal Canadian Air Force will be equipped with 26 new planes, it is reported here today. These will include 12 Fairchild monoplanes, 13 Avro land planes, two De Haviland planes and some other types. The order is said to amount to over $400,000.

FORCED VICTIM INTO MOTOR CAR

Toronto Man Taken From Radial And Badly Beaten Up

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 28.—Following the kidnapping from an east-bound radial car at Mimico, west of Toronto, last night, Wallace Dibbon is in St. Joseph Hospital with bruises about the head. Dibbon was taken from the car in which there were three other passengers, by two men who boarded the radial car from a motor car alongside, the electric car being stopped at the moment. Dibbon was forced into the motor car into which the assailants accompanied him and while immediately sped away. The victim was picked up later. The Mimico and Toronto police are investigating the occurrance.

PLACES BLAME FOR RUM-RUNNING ON HEAD OF KING'S GOVERNMENT

Minister Says Ottawa Could Stop Traffic Within Ten Minutes

St. Catharines, September 28.—Authorities at Ottawa can stop illicit rum running within ten minutes by refusing clearance papers to rum-runners, declared Rev. T. J. Meyer, of Port Colborne, speaking regarding the Liquor Control Act at the annual session of the Presbytery of Niagara of the United Church of Canada. "There was never a time within my knowledge, in the history of Port Colborne, when rum-runners were busier than now," the clergyman stated. He said there were twenty or thirty runners operating.

He had been told by one woman to let them alone, that King would clean it up. "He had had plenty of time to clean it up," was the remark of Mr. Meyer. "No action has been taken to stop the export of liquor to the United States and it has come time when we should express ourselves. The Government is making millions out of liquor exports. They stamp clearance papers at Port Colborne for Buffalo when they know the boats cannot land. It is time when the responsibility be placed where it belongs, and that is at Ottawa."

A committee was formed to frame a resolution at conference later and to draft a resolution which will be sent to Ottawa, and later to the Press.

TRYING SIXTH TIME

Cap Gris, France, Sept. 28.—Miss Mercedes Gleitz, London typist, who has failed in five attempts to swim the English Channel, entered the water here at 9.40 o'clock this morning for another try. Sea and weather conditions were good. She made slow progress for the first hour.

TWO WOMEN STILL CLAIM THEY WILL FLY ATLANTIC

New York, Sept. 28.—Women headed the two remaining expeditions in the trans-Atlantic air field today after Captain Rene Fonck's definite abandonment of his proposed flight to Paris, and his announcement that he would sail Saturday 1st France by steamer.

With the withdrawal of Fonck, Miss Ruth Elder, the Dixie pilot of the monoplane "American Girl," and Miss Frances Grayson, heading the projected European flight, of her Sikorsky amphibian plane, were left at Curtiss Field to complete preparations for take-offs which have been set back from day to day by test flights and adverse weather conditions.

FIER REPORTED SAFE AT BAGDAD

Mystery Of German Aviator Cleared Up With Receipt Of News

London, Sept. 28.—Lieut. Otto Kaemecke, German aviator, flying from Cologne, Germany, to North America, by the eastern route, has arrived at Bagdad, Irak, says a despatch from that city.

This clears up the mystery which has engaged European flying circles, since the reported departure of Kaemecke's plane. "Germany from Azores, Turkey, for Basra, at the head of the Persian Gulf last Saturday. The Bagdad despatch said Kaemecke would take off in continuance of his flight tomorrow. Bagdad is 700 miles from Angora on the route to Basra, which is 770 miles farther to the south east. Monday morning brought no news of the arrival at Basra, and cables and telegraph wires were set busy in all directions as it was feared the Germania had been forced down in some out-of-the-way place.

WIFE FACING A MURDER CHARGE

Mrs. Talley Remanded For Week At This Morning's Hearing

ARREST YESTERDAY

Accused Of Having Poisoned Her Late Husband With Strychnine

Brantford, Sept. 28.—Mrs. Emmet Talley, of Delhi, was remanded for a week in Simcoe police court today when she appeared before Magistrate Hutton. It was charged that "she did, in the township of Wyndham, on or about the 22nd of July, unlawfully kill and slay her husband, Emmet Talley, by wilfully administering poison, thereby committing murder."

Mrs. Talley was removed at once to be County Jail, for a week. Her husband who was a tobacco planter, died a great agony and an examination showed that he died of strychnine poisoning.

Arrested on Farm

Mrs. Bessie Talley was arrested on her dead husband's farm near the Village of Delhi, late yesterday afternoon, by Inspector Ward of the Criminal Investigation Department of Toronto, and lodged in the Norfolk County Jail at Simcoe.

Crown Attorney Kelly stated that Mrs. Talley's arrest would have follow ed sooner later by inquest, which was held at Delhi about two weeks ago, had she not been for Dr. Smirle, Toronto, the family doctor at the inquest, reported that he had attended Mrs. Talley for many years. He felt it was useless to ill to attend the probe. She is the mother of three children, the eldest being about 10 years old. Mrs. Talley is a good-looking woman about 32 years old, and came to Delhi with her husband from Leasington early last spring. She is a native of North Carolina, while Talley was a Virginian.

Suspected Strychnine

The husband died suddenly early on the morning of July 1, and both Dr. Ormsbee, who attended him, and Dr. Hare, of Simcoe, who was consulted told at the inquest that they suspected strychnine poisoning from the outset. The analysis of the contents of the stomach made by the Provincial Analyst confirmed their suspicions.

Henry Mustine, the hired man at the Talley home, testified that two pigs died in convulsions after he had fed them the contents of a pail of cold stiven to him later on the morning of Talley's death by Mrs. Talley.

Mrs. Talley's mother, Mrs. Tillotson, at the inquest, at first denied has had purchased strychnine in Canada, but upon the sales records from Willoughby's drug store in Leasington, being produced for Feb. 13 last, showing the woman's signature, she said that she had bought strychnine while there. She swore that she made the purchase at Talley's request for the purpose of poisoning a dog that was robbing setting hens nests.

Washington Despatch Says Canada Will Seek St. Lawrence Agreement

Washington, D.C., Sept. 28. — Co-operation of Premier MacKenzie King's government with the United States for the projection of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence waterway was predicted today by W. L. Harding, President of the Great Lakes-St. Lawrence Tidewater Association, after calling upon President Coolidge.

He said he had "heard rumors" that the Canadian Premier intended to head a commission to seek an agreement with the United States and he hoped these to be true.

Harding also declared that he saw no prospect of less grain than 200 million bushels of grain to the United States Great Lakes shippers as a result of the fixing of an eleven cent rate by Canadian Railways on grain from Winnipeg to Quebec.

Harding, former governor of Iowa, said that he saw some logging for Frank O. Lowden for President in his State and that in some sections, particularly the eastern part, Secretary Hoover seemed to be gaining ground for the Republican nomination.

ENGLISH BEAUTY HELD AT BORDER

But Mr. Logan Can Get His Wife When Papers Are Filed

Pressott, Ont., Sept. 28.—American consular authorities here expect early notification from Washington for permission to allow the entry into the U.S. of Mrs. William A. Logan, the 19-year-old Scottish bride of a few weeks who has been detained here for two weeks awaiting the requirements of the United States immigration laws now being enforced.

Mr. Logan has been required to file a petition for the admission of his wife as a non-quota immigrant. This petition has to be passed upon by the United States Department of Labor and the Department of State.

Mrs. Logan, formerly Miss Isabel Sutherland, of Dalkeith, Scotland, and winner of a beauty title as "Miss Great Britain" met Mr. Logan, aged 25, at a dance in Scotland four months ago. Following a brief courtship they became engaged. Mr. Logan a prominent Louisville, Ky., business man, had to return home on business but met his fiance on her arrival at Quebec. They were married there on September 2 but were held up by red tape when they attempted to cross into the United States at Ogdensburg.

Hon. John S. Martin, Minister Of Agriculture To Be Present

PLANS INTERESTING

Building Operations Advancing Rapidly And Up To Schedule

One week from today, Wednesday 5th of October, the Honourable John S. Martin, Provincial Minister of Agriculture, will formally dedicate the new Collegiate Institute by officiating at the laying of the corner-stone. Board of Education members, prominent citizens and others will all be present at the dedication of one of the finest schools in this province. Mr. John Elliott stated to the Press today that final arrangements had not been made.

"There is nothing much can be said about just what is to be done, yet, or what the plans for the dedication ceremonies will be, as the final arrangements have not been completed" stated Mr. Elliott, chairman of the Board of Education.

Work Progressing Well

Interviewed by "The Intelligencer" today, Mr. J. Ansel Thompson, designer and architect of the new Collegiate said: "Provisions have been made for the laying of the stone at the northeast corner of the building. The foundation work is practically completed, and the stone facing in place on three sides of the building and part of the fourth. The facing extends four feet in height above the grade level."

Architect Mr. Thomson said that the floor walls were now being erected by bricklayers and the windows of the south portion are in place and that they are being bricked in. "The entire area of the ground floor has the concrete slab poured in," stated the architect. "The steel fabrication of the institution is practically completed with the auditorium roof trusses in place. The bricklaying on the ground floor brickwork."

Need Bricklayers

The architect said that practically all the bricklayers in the district were being employed at the present time, but the contractors still are on the hunt for more, nearly twenty-four bricklayers being needed. There is plenty of material.

ESCAPED LAD SENT BACK TO MIMICO

Escaping from Mimico Industrial School a week ago Monday, Gordon Aseltine, 15 year old son of Turpen Aseltine, Front street, was picked up by the local police on Dundas last night, at the request of the Mimico authorities.

Aseltine was the ringleader in a jail break at Mimico on September 19th, when Harry Barker "got the drop" on with him. As far as can be learned, he came straight home, and the oldest Aseltine boy notified the police. Gordon has been living at home since he escaped.

It was about two years ago, when young Aseltine was "sent down" by Magistrate Ponton for a term for theft. The lad is in the local jail today awaiting his return to the Industrial School.

WOMEN WANT TO GO INTO SENATE

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 28.—Toronto women and probably Ontario women generally will support British Columbia's proposal of having women eligible to the Senate of Canada when the proposal is discussed at the meeting of the National Council of Women at Stratford next week. Toronto local council has already endorsed a similar resolution, Mrs. Patrick MacGregor, president, remarking today "I don't see any reason why women should not be in the Senate as well as men". Mrs. MacGregor said she thought it would be better for the country generally if there were more women in all Houses of Government.

ONCE MORE—A NATION

An Irish patriot once wrote a ballad entitled "A Nation Once Again." Some Canadian patriot should write one called "A Nation Again, and Again." For hardly a week passes now, let alone a year, without some blessed thing happening somewhere that makes us a nation—again. Sir Wilfred Laurier kept making us a nation year after year. No sooner had he given up the job than Sir Robert Borden took it on and nationhood came to us with be wildering fecundity. And now, not satisfied with the work of his predecessors, Mr. King is busy every month or so making us a nation all over again.

The Winnipeg Tribune, which has patriotically gone into the statistics of the matter, puts down the following occasions on which we became a nation:

"When Canada signed the Treaty of Versailles and became a member of the League of Nations.

"When Mr. Lapointe signed the Halibut treaty without the no-t ceremonial signature of the British ambassador.

"When Mr. Fielding signed the Franco-Canadian treaty.

"When the last Imperial Conference passed resolutions defining existing political relations between Canada and Great Britain.

"When Canada created an embassy in Washington in charge of Hon. Vincent, Massey."

And now, not satisfied with all of that, we have just been made a nation —again. Said Mr. Ernest Lapointe the other night, speaking of our admission to the League Council:

"Canada has come into full membership."

Well, let us hope that the nation builders will call it a day. For they're confusing us. More than that, they're suggesting that they weren't quite sure of their work before—and may not be quite sure yet. Are we sure as sating Sir George Foster who knows all about the League, has just observed this about our admission to its Council:

"In thus electing Canada, the League affirmed a like status for all Overseas Dominions, but it leaves the status of these Dominions in all their international relationships exactly as it was before."

FOREIGN CAPITAL

We shall of course, always have among us people who maintain that the investment of outside capital in Canada means selling out the assets of this country to foreigners. This is a delusion which afflicts some types of nebula, and politicians out of office are peculiarly subject to it.

There are many who believe that at present Canadian assets are largely owned by American capitalists, and Mr. C. Howard Smith, of Montreal, has done a public service in setting forth figures which prove that such is not the case. A careful survey of foreign investments in Canada, indicates that these may amount to $5,310-800,000, of which some $3,000,000,000 is accredited to the United States and the remainder mainly to Great Britain

On the other hand, according to the Dominion Bureau of Statistics, the total national wealth of Canada, production and income, is over $22,000,000,000, while of the national debt $1,-921,000,000 is payable in Canada as against $211,000,000 in London, and $260,000,000 in New York. In other words the great bulk of this country's assets and the great bulk of its national debt are owned by Canadians (to-day, Smith says: "We have benefited by the co-operation of foreign countries, particularly that of the United States, in the investment of capital, and we shall no doubt benefit similarly in the future, but the outstanding and important fact is that Canadians have been gradually, but steadily, taking over the commercial and financial control of their own country and its resources, just as they have received political control; and that while we will continue to need, and will be glad to receive for some years, the available capital of other countries, the proportion of Canadian ownership and direction of capital and resources will continue to increase."

JACK DEMPSEY

Jack Dempsey may be a "thug" and a "roughneck" and some of the other things some dilettanti paint him. But there were two moments last Thursday night when he showed himself a man. They were, when, bleeding and battered, with everything in him but his heart knocked out, he "never backed up," but called: "Come on, let's fight." The other was when, his dream of a championship gone, and his backers whining excuses, he simply said:

"I bow to Gene Tunney, a better fighter and a great champion. I have no excuses to offer; no alibis. I was beaten fairly and squarely by the man who mastered me in Philadelphia and again scored conclusively his supremacy tonight."

There's a lesson for all athletes here. Jack Dempsey, when the contest was on, "never backed up." His unquenchable flaming spirit, a fighting heart held to the last. And, in the end, when overtaken by defeat, he took it best that he could. "I was whipped fairly and squarely by the better man."

Pugilist or no pugilist, one must admire that. It's a great thing to know how to win. It's a finer, a far greater thing to know how to lose.

THE EDITOR SAYS

The selection of Mr. W. C. Mikel to preside at Rev. J. J. Maiko's trial is a striking tribute from the Attorney-General of the Province to Belleville's popular Magistrate. It will not be an easy assignment after all the public discussion of the case.

Raynor's assets seem to be shrinking like his reputation as a financier—at an auction sale in Picton of some of his goods, six buggies, a horse, a cow, a calf, some harness and 13 chickens he brought $185. We wonder what kind of car he traded for the lot.

Apparently Mr. Drury is not hankering after taking a chance in Prince Edward. He is wise. The farmers would scarcely vote for him, after the unkind remarks he has been passing out about the U. F. O. and moral reformers are not very popular in that country just at present.

DOWN THE ROAD

—By Bell.

"O, dear! O, dear!" she said,
And tottered quickly by with nodding head,
A woman crouch and old;
But whether it was just the bitter cold,
That made her mutter so,
Or some heart-piercing grief, I do no know,
Yet at that lone "O dear!"
I clutched my little daughter's hand in fear,
And all my heart went cold
To think of her one day forlorn and old,
Tottering with nodding head
Down a dim wintry road.....
And so I said,
Some foolish thing—to hear
Her childish laughter ring outloud and clear.

—Wilfred Gibson.

Almost every day the cables bring word that Charles A. Levine has started another flight across the Atlantic.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The increase in the production of tooth picks is attributed in part to their being frequently used for pickles and sticking three decker sandwiches together.—Vancouver Province.

Mr. Drury was not justified in dragging the group government hobby into the North Huron by-election. The U. F. O. has never endorsed group government and The Sun doubts very much whether there are a couple of dozen people within the movement sincerely, just as they have received political control; and that while we will continue to need, and will be glad to receive for some years, the available capital of other countries, the proportion of Canadian ownership and direction of capital and resources will continue to increase."

Mr. Drury's assertion that he entered the North Huron campaign on behalf of the Liberal candidate in order to save the farmers from making themselves ridiculous, seems somewhat inconsistent to say the least. —The Farmers' Sun.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From the Intelligencer of this day 30 years ago)

Mr. Jacob Dulmage, residing on Hillside street, ghillit walking on Henry street shortly after noon today was stricken with paralysis, and his condition is serious.

Mr. Geo. T. Gallinger, of Toronto, has taken over the Windsor Hotel, at the west end of the lower bridge, from the late proprietor, Mr. Jas. E. Ketcheson.

Mrs. A. O. Northrup went to Toronto yesterday to visit Dr. and Mrs. George.

Mrs. (Rev.) J. C. Ash and Master Morley Day, after a week's visit to the capital returned home last night.

The branch post office on the station road near the G. T. R. Depot, was entered by burglars last night. Cigars, money, stamps and other articles amounting to $100 were taken.

Mr. George Gorman left today for Madoc on a business trip.

Mr. W. L. Hamilton, District Inspector of Inland Revenue, went to Kingston at noon to-day to install Mr. Charles T. Dickson, Collector of Inland Revenue at Kingston.

John Hanley, a son of Mr. Thos. Hanley, yesterday afternoon captured a fine specimen of a black squirrel in a tree near Holloway Street Church.

HAVE YOU HEARD THESE?

The small girl was on a visit to her aunt and grandmother.

"Grannie," she said, after her aunt had left the room, "how old is Auntie Agatha?"

"I couldn't tell you, dear," answered the old lady, "without looking it up in the family Bible."

"Gracious!" gasped the child, "is she old enough to be mentioned in the Bible?"

Poor old Henpeck was very sick and ill. "It serves you right," growled Mrs Henpeck. "You should never take anything that disagrees with you."

"Well, Maria," replied the dying Mr. Henpeck, "if I had always taken that advice where would you have been?"

Angry Teacher—"Tommy if you don't behave I'll have to write a note to your father."

18 CAPTURED BANDITS SHOT

Nogales, Ariz., Sept. 28.—Advices from Tipic to the Nogales Herald today said that eighteen captured Mexican bandits were lined up in the public square and shot by a firing squad, the bodies then were hanged from trees with warning placards. A large crowd gathered in the plaza to witness the wholesale executions.

SEIGNEURESS IS TOURING CANADA

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28. — (By Canadian Press) — Daughter of an old world feudal seigneurie Miss Doucie Beaumont, who is touring Canada, is a daughter of Mrs. Sybil Beaumont, who inherited the Seigneurie of Beaumont, on the death of her father. Miss Beaumont talked to a Gazette representative in regard to the customs of the island over which her mother is sole governor. Just three miles long and noted for its caves and magnificent cave scenery, Sark seems like a forgotten backwash of time, and it is Mrs. Beaumont's ideal that the old regime shall in no way be broken.

An interesting title she receives is the "poulage" a tax under which "La Dame de Sercq" as the old French title of the Lady of the seigneurie goes receives one-life fowl in respect of every chimney of the island's homes. Twice a year Mrs. Beaumont holds a Court of Chief Pleas, combining the legislative and judicial work of the island in this one institution. In matters of justice, Mrs. Beaumont sits alone but each of the 40 tenants has a vote on questions regarding the general welfare of the island. The law is Anglo-Norman. "We have no laws and are the only country in the world without a national debt," explained Mrs. Beaumont.

MARRIED WOMEN NOT TO TEACH?

Winnipeg, Man., Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press) — Whether marriage should debar a woman from the teaching profession was recently debated by the North Winnipeg branch of the independent Labor party. Married women found their strongest defender in Married women should be employed only in special circumstances, he contended.

The consensus of opinion among those who joined in the discussion was that where the husband earns sufficient to support the family the wife should not be employed.

AGED WOMAN IS NEAT CARPENTER

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press)—A Woman's Page friends has just told us of a carpenter who, I feel, deserves a gold medal for energy in age. Mrs. Campbell, of Lindsay, now 83, who casually tells you that three years ago she built a kitchen to her house. Recently, she took down and made an archway where she wanted it, and a door somewhere else. She also built a china cupboard and a bookcase for her husband's books.

Mrs. Campbell is the possessor of a beginning wheel that came from Ireland in a feather tick and she is the fifth grandmother to own it.

IRON AND STEEL MARKET ACTIVE

Car Loadings And Bank Clearings Mount From Week To Week

DEMAND GOOD

Unsettled Conditions In Automotive World Caused Some Timidity

Toronto, Sept. 29.—In a summary of the iron, steel and machinery markets, Canadian Machinery and Manufacturing News makes the following comment this week:

Despite the fact that traces of the unsettling influences that have paralyzed in Canada's metal working industry for several months still exist, optimism is to be found on every hand for fall and winter trade. Car loadings, bank clearings and bank debits continue to mount from week to week. Failures are fewer and the balance sheets of several large corporations show larger earnings and best barometer of all there is less unemployment.

In the Ontario branches of the Employment Service of Canada, for example, there is such demand for skilled labor that there is a shortage of tool and die makers. It will be remembered that the curve of employment for 1926 was better than for any year since 1920, and it is, therefore, good news to learn that this year shows considerable improvement over last year.

The aggregate foreign trade of Canada has again increased being $1,000,-000 more in August than in the month previous, and $13000,000 in advance of the figures for August, 1926.

Demand for agricultural implements in Ontario is satisfactory and in the Canadian West, demand for farm machinery, is well ahead of that of last year, with a much larger production of the sales on a cash basis.

Much of the timidity in Canada's metal working industry in Ontario, as in the United States, has been caused by the unsettled condition of the automotive industry. While in the manufacture of parts is not a highly developed industry in Canada, as yet, quite a number of manufacturers in Ontario depend on this equipment for a considerable volume of business.

Reports from the Border Cities during the past week, however, indicate that the automobile industry there will soon be on a more settled basis.

The Border Cities are also looking forward to considerable prosperity, several new manufacturing industries already have contemplated for that district as the Canadian and American manufacturers in automotive lines are now busy with the same period last year.

The reason so many marriages are failures is because so many failures marry.

THE BULLETIN BOARD

Mainly About People You Know

NO COURT AGAIN

Once again today was the Police bitter clean and no court was held. This has happened twice in succession now and has nearly created a precedent.

LOOK OUT NOW!

Officer W. O. Price, Highway Traffic officer in this district, purchased a new motor cycle a few days ago. It is of the famous Henderson make, and sports a four cylinder job. Price ran his old machine about 12,000 miles and traded it in on Saturday for the new one.

HELPING OTHER COUNTIES

Mr. T. D. Ruston, Inspector of the Children's Aid Society left today for Kingston on business for the Society. Yesterday he motored to Oshawa and Whitby, also on C. A. S. business. An inspector has not been appointed in Ontario County and Mr. Ruston has been kept busy helping the authorities out there.

FAREWELL PRIZE

The girls' branch of the Womens' Auxiliary of Christ Church held a fare well party in the rectory last evening for one of their members, Miss Ethel Chumley who is about to take her departure for Whitby where she will enter as nurse-in-training at Whitby Hospital.

Miss Gertrude Ketcheson presented Miss Chumley with a fountain pen and the recipient although taken completely by surprise made a suitable reply. Refreshments were served and a social evening was spent by the guests.

ATTENDED SCHOOL HERE.

An article in the Toronto Daily Star of the 24th instant states that Stewart Jenks, K.C., of Halifax, has been appointed a Justice of the Supreme Court of Nova Scotia to succeed the Hon. W. D. MacKenzie, who died recently.

When just a young man, many years ago, Mr. Jenks attended Ontario Business College, coming all the way to Belleville from his home town in Nova Scotia to attend the college. Just his other success from Ontario Business College!

PARKS BOARD CLOSES SEASON

The Parks Board met last evening and in a short session settled up the summer's business. The reports were most encouraging and the Board members were gratified at the results. Nothing of importance was done and the matters discussed were the usual routine nature.

REPAIRED WATER MAIN

Users of water on Front and Campbell streets were handicapped for a few hours this morning when the supply was shut-off while repairs were being made on the mains at the Campbell Street corner. However, the work was completed in time to turn it on again this afternoon.

BOY SCOUTS PARTY.

The Second Troop of Boy Scouts of Christ Church held their weekly meeting on the Bay Shore, near the Deaf and Dumb Institute last night. After the meeting the boys gathered around a campfire for a sing-song and an apple and marshmallow roast, presided by the Scoutmaster Rev. Clarke and Assistant Scoutmaster George Brown.

MOVED TO KINGSTON

The giant Victor Orthophonic which was in operation at the Rivanda Arcadia' here last week was installed in the Capitol Theatre at Kingston this week and is drawing large crowds. The men in charge expect to travel through the country during the winter months exhibiting this latest invention at the theatres in the different cities.

B.B.S. ATHLETES COMPETE.

A number of girls and boys from the High School motored to Picton this afternoon to compete in the Field Day sports of the Picton Collegiate. Trenton Collegiate will hold their annual Field Day on Friday, September 30, and the local collegiate Field Day will be held Friday, October 7. Belleville will send a boys' and girls' relay team to Trenton and athletes from here are expected to compete in nearly every event.

K. OF C. OFFICERS.

At a meeting of the Knights of Columbus last night, officers for the ensuing year of 1927 and 1928 were elected for Belleville Council No. 1006. The following is the list of officers elected:

LOST FINGERS IN WIFE'S WORK BASKET

Leipzig, Sept. 28.—The propensity of German women to use war relics as work baskets for their sewing materials has caused another bad accident in the German Good Usage Association Convention which opened at Wagara Falls yesterday and continues today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pratt and Mrs. M. Lloyd and son Garnet, who were called to Peterboro owing to the sudden death of their brother, Mr. B. H. Bigham left Tuesday last for the late daughter Mrs. Howard Gardnes, Norwood, Ont.

Here are the Canadian triplets, six months old and doing fine. They are Margaret Muriel, Norma Mary and Betty Jean, daughters of Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Mills of Biddiford, Ont.

Social and Personals

Mr. Asa Lloyd and Mr. Ben Pratt motored to Northern to attend the funeral of their uncle, Mr. B. H. Bigham.

Miss Lottie Edwards, of Pittsburg, Pa., is spending a few days with Mrs. Crook, 315 Albert street.

Inspector Reynolds, of the Immigration Service, at Ottawa, was in the city on business today.

Little Kathleen Reid, 34 Ponton St. who was taken seriously ill yesterday was removed to the hospital where she underwent an operation today.

Sergt. Roy Clarke, of the Provincial Police, is in Cobourg today in connection with several cases being tried before Magistrate Floyd County Clerk Nugent is a delegate from the Ontario Good Roads Association to the Canadian Good Roads Association Convention which opened at Niagara Falls yesterday and continues today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. S. Pratt and Mrs. M. Lloyd and son Garnet, who were called to Peterboro owing to the sudden death of their brother, Mr. B. H. Bigham left Tuesday last for the late daughter Mrs. Howard Gardnes, Norwood, Ont.

TODAYS MARKETS

Bull Stocks Strong

New York, N.Y., Sept. 28.—The stock market gave an impressive demonstration of strength today under the leadership of the investment rails and public utilities, several of which attain record high prices. Chesapeake and Ohio, which recently published a favorable August earnings statement assumed the leadership of the rail group by climbing nearly 4 points on a new high record for all time at 204 1-2 Nashville, Chattanooga and St. Louis, another of similar size, while Bangor and Aroostock, Norfolk and Western, Texas and Pacific, Atchison Delaware and Hudson, New Haven and Pittsburgh and West Virginia advanced 2 to nearly 4 points.

Abbitibi Power and American Water Works were also in demand at sharply points each, led the advance in the Public Utilities.

Wheat Advances

Chicago, Sept. 28.—Wheat prices scored an early advance today after unsettling start that was associated with better weather in Canada. Selling lacked volume and in some quarters there was an evident disposition to regard all bear factors as having been well discounted. Opening at 1-8c decline to a shade advance, wheat soon rose all around. Corn started 1-2c to 1 cent off, weakened for more and then recovered. Oats were firm. Provisions also tended higher

DEATHS & FUNERALS

MICHAEL BURNS

Michael Burns, well known in Belleville for many years, passed away in the Township of Thurlow yesterday at the advanced age of 87 years. He had followed the occupation of a stonemason and helped to erect many of Belleville's buildings The funeral was held this afternoon from the Tickel Undertaking parlors to St. Michael' church, Interment was made in St. James Cemetery. Rev. Father Kinlar conducted the services both at the home and at the grave.

A woman recluse in California went her will on a corset and it was found to be binding. The garment still bears off obscurity.

OIL COMPANIES COME TO GRIPS

New York, Sept. 28.—An echo of the trade rivalry between the Royal Dutch Shell petroleum group of Europe and some of the Standard Oil interests in the United States reached the financial district in the form of a report that the Shell Union Oil Corporation, which are purchasing oil from the Russian Soviet Government over Sir Hurtu's protest. The Standard of California is regarded as one of the closest affiliations of the Standard of New York, although they are entirely independent. The Rockefeller interests are reported to have between 20 and 25 per cent. of the stock of the Standard of New York, the Standard of California, the Standard of Indiana, Standard, of New Jersey.

The Standard of New Jersey, while closely identified in the past with the Standard of New York, made it plain in the New York courts in the controversy over Russian purchases that its sympathies were with the Royal Dutch Shell and it agreed with Sir Henri that such purchases should not be made until Russia recognized private property rights." The Royal Dutch Shell and the Standard of New Jersey are heavily interested in oil properties that were confiscated by the Soviet Government under its "nationalization of industry" programme.

There have been many hints from abroad that the Royal Dutch Shell would invade the American market through its subsidiaries and would attempt to take business from the Standard of New York and the Vacuum. Oil executives here were wondering today whether Sir Henri had decided to strike the first blow in California with the idea of "working from the coast."

The Shell Union, according to reports received here, outbid the Standard of California for the Mexican Company's fuel oil business.

MISS MACKENZIE IN THIRD ROUND

Miss Smith Sprang Surprise By Eliminating Miss Virtue

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Miss Maude Smith, Toronto, provided a sensation in the second round of the Canadian Ladies Closed Golf Championship today, by defeating Miss Dora Virtue, Quebec District Champion, by a substantial margin, five and four.

Miss Virtue had tied for the leadership of the qualifying round on Monday.

Miss Virtue today was somewhat wild. Miss Smith was one up at lunch and then won four successive holes, ending match by halving fourteenth.

Playing fine golf, and sinking a four teen foot putt for a par four at long fifteenth hole, Miss Ada Mackenzie earned the right to enter the third round by cutting Mrs. Gordon Perrie, Hamilton, four and three. Mrs. Perrie battled gallantly but the title-hold er's steady par shooting gave her the match. Mrs. Perrie was a former holder of the title.

Besides Miss Mackenzie, two other former winners of the title entered the third round. Miss Beth Paget, Ottawa, who defeated Mrs. Victor Sifton, Toronto, and Mrs. P. J. Mulqueen, Toronto, winner over Mrs. H. Mackelcan, Toronto.

Miss Margaret Kirkham Montreal's seventeen-year-old representative, entered the third round by defeating Mrs Eric Phillips, Oakville, six and five. The best match was that in which Mrs. E. Whitcomb, defeated Mrs. W. Moore eight and six, Mrs. Moore being one under par up to 12th hole. Winner was out in 36.

MILLIONAIRE IS STILL MISSING

Blackmailers Suspected By Friends Of Holding Richard Reynolds

SEARCH PASSPORTS

Man Who Demanded $3000 Ransom For Information Is Arrested

New York, Sept. 28.—A possible clue in the disappearance of Richard J. Reynolds, president of the Reynolds Alloys, Inc., and an arrest in connection with mystery were reported here last night.

Leonard M. Holland, manager of the Hotel White on Lexington avenue at 11th street, said that a man named Richard J. Reynolds had registered at the hotel 10 days ago, but had not been seen there within the last five days.

Vid O'Farrell, head of the Burns detective agency, announced that a man had been arrested in St. Louis on a charge of kidnapping and blackmail after he had made an offer to O'Farrell's agents in that city to produce Reynolds for a reward of $3,000.

The manager of the Hotel White said that Reynolds was in the habit of with John Graham and Manuel H. Davis, two friends, September 13. He said that he believed that one of the baggage which Reynolds brought with him had left in his safety.

Passports Searched

Washington, September 28.—Active efforts to solve the mystery of the disappearance of Richard J. Reynolds, of Winston Salem, N.C., the missing president of Reynolds Alloys, Inc., were transferred from New York to Washington when Carter Tiffany, vice-president of Reynolds Alloys, came here to confer with the State Department and enlist its services in connection with the search for Reynolds. Reynolds may have gone to France to enlist in the Foreign Legion.

Mr. Tiffany who arrived in Washington from New York early today, made a hurried morning visit to the State Department at 9 o'clock. A search of the passport application files made at his request failed to afford any evidence that Mr. Reynolds contemplated a foreign trip prior to Friday, September 16 when he was seen last in New York. Reynolds' friends here say he was found overturned in shallow water off Chicken Point near Port Washington, Long Island, shortly after he disappeared. Details of his mysterious disappearance, which were printed in the New York Times yesterday, were given to the State Department officials by Mr. Tiffany and steps were taken by the department to use its machinery here and abroad in an endeavor to get information as to the whereabouts of young Reynolds, if he is alive.

Impressed by Picture

It was explained by Mr. Tiffany to officials with whom he conferred today that Mr. Reynolds had been greatly impressed by the motion picture of "Beau Geste" and had shown that he was enamoured of the romantic aspects of life in the French Foreign Legion which "Beau Geste" depicts. Because of this enthusiasm Mr. Reynolds may have gone abroad with the purpose of enlisting in the Foreign Legion, Mr. Tiffany explained to State Department.

After an intensive search of the past port division's files had failed to disclose that any passport had been issued recently to Mr. Reynolds, Mr. Tiffany explained the situation to J. T. Marriner, chief of the division of western European affairs whose jurisdiction covers France.

Mr. Tiffany also conferred with the American Embassy in Paris, describing Mr. Reynolds and requested that the French Government be called upon to ascertain if he had enlisted in the Foreign Legion, the French Foreign Legion.

Foggy Knows Nothing

At a local hotel, Mr. Tiffany found him Peggy O'Connor, of New York, a friend of Reynolds', who had tele graphed the young millionaire from Washington that the New Yorker had before news of his disappearance became known. She assured Mr. Tiffany that she had no knowledge of Mr. Reynolds' whereabouts and said that she had been waiting at the Washington until she read of it in yesterday's papers. Miss O'Connor is a member of the cast of "Bonita," a musical play which is appearing at a local theatre.

M. H. Reynolds, brother of the missing company, said that young Reynolds had left Winston-Salem Wednesday on the train with the company, but it was a special train and he was refused passage. Miss O'Connor, pretty and red haired, was in tears over the news of Mr. Reynolds' disappearance She said: "He is a very particular friend of mine, and I wish I knew where he is. She denied that she had seen him since the date he was last seen in New York. She had not seen him, she said, since the train on which the Bonita company came to Washington left the New York railway station.

Members of the Bonita company said that young Reynolds acted to call for Miss O'Connor in a large red roadster.

Heir to Big Estate

The impression obtained by those from whom Mr. Tiffany sought aid in his search was that Mr. Reynolds had encountered a temporary financial stringency which was more apparent than real and that his exaggerated worry over it may have led him to determine to go away under the impression that he was seriously involved. It was explained, however, that Mr. Reynolds has a large current bank credit sufficient to meet any temporary financial setback to which he may have believed himself to be involved.

In addition, he is one of the heirs to the estate of his father, who was the founder and controlling factor of the R. J. Reynolds Tobacco Company. The value of the estate has been estimated at $50,000,000. Young Reynolds, who was 27 years old in April, is entitled to get his share when he reaches the age of 30 in 1930.

Of the officials with whom he conferred, Mr. Tiffany explained that he respected the wishes of Mr. Reynolds that his disappeared purposely and was still alive, and that when he left the Hotel White, Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh street, where he spent a few days in the city last week, Graham, of Winston, Salem he took a travelling bag and a suitcase unmarked from a ready-made suit of clothes that contained no identifying tag such as would be found in a suit made to order suit.

It was explained also that further evidence to indicate that Mr. Reynolds was alive was furnished by the appointment of Mr. Reynolds' chauffeur to call at the Hotel White, Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh street, where he spent a few days in the city last week. Graham, of Winston, Salem he took a travelling bag and a suitcase unmarked from a ready-made suit of clothes that contained no identifying tag such as would be found in a suit made to order suit.

It was explained also that further evidence to indicate that Mr. Reynolds was alive was furnished by the appointment of Mr. Reynolds' chauffeur to call at the Hotel White, Lexington Avenue and Thirty-seventh street, where he spent a few days in the city last week. Graham, for $2,500.

In the total amount of $8,200 obtained through cashing the two cheques those with the names of Mr. Reynolds to have used $130 in purchasing railroad tickets for two servants who had been left behind when he had rented at Lone Beach and who were return to Winston-Salem, but there have been no evidence that he spent any large sum up to the time of disappearance. A woman from a night club to the Grand Central Station, whence she left on the train for St. Louis at six o'clock on the morning of September 17, but there was not seen with him by anybody who knew him.

Married Life No Bar To "Liking Other Men."

She adores him. She's sure of his love for her. And they're both crazy to be married.

BUT—

There is a deep, dark and dreadful secret in Alice's life. She has discover ed that HIM LIKES MEN! And she shakes in her pretty boots to think what would happen if she kept on liking them after she married Dan!

DEAR ELSIE:

I don't know whether I should enter a convent or go to Africa! What is the matter with me? I am engaged to a man I love. We plan to marry. I'm nineteen now. Everything is just fine, for we both love each other and our families are glad that we are to marry.

Else, in spite of all this, I come to ask you if I should marry my fiance? I really believe I'm lacking in will-power and moral principle. I work in an office where I am constantly meeting men. Why do I seem to be so attracted by them? There are a number that I like and really I'm sure that if they kissed me I wouldn't mind it. One of them was quite familiar once. Do you know that I'm sure I'd enjoy an evening with him? A year ago such a thought would have made me blush with shame.

What is happening? Is it lack of will-power?

What if I should marry and then not be faithful to my husband? I know I shall always care for Dan, but I might do something that would cause us both a heartache. I couldn't bear that. But, then, what will happen if I'm not woman enough to resist my masculine attention, if it should come my way after I have married? I haven't gone out much and I suppose the reason that I'm ready to accept their attentions, I'm not sure, is my inactive, either. I know you will say "snap out of it" and "forget it." I do sometimes but I'm never sure what will happen next.

ALICE.

Like men?

Why, of course you like men. What a strange, unhappy, morbid girl you'd be if you DIDN'T like men! And what a miserable home you'll make for poor Dan if you don't keep on liking them, and making them like you, after you're married.

Gracious, honey, what a stew you have worked yourself into over the hap pies, healthiest,' pleasure on earth! Men and women were made to like each other. They were made to be in terested in each other and thrilled and amused and inspired and helped by each other. And the more of such wholesome contact you have in your life, and continue to have in your life, the finer?sweeter woman you'll be and the better wife you'll make for Dan.

You think of them as something for hidden and mysterious and quite a little wicked. They're nothing of the sort. They're just the other half of the world, dear, and you need their clean admiration and their enduring friendship just as you need the admiration and friendship of women.

If you would try to get over your timidity about men and know them bet ter, you would soon stop thinking so much about romantic dangers.

Advice to Girls
By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl nineteen years of age and have a problem, I would be help me solve.

Two years ago I was visiting in a small town and the night before I left for home I met a charming young man and I fell in love with at first sight. He wanted to call on me, but I told him I was leaving the day after.

It was a year before I got to see him again. I was back in this same little town. As soon as he found out I was there he came to see me. He was a remarkable he seemed to think a lot of me and I am sure I love him now.

We are going all right, but after I returned home we seemed to drift apart. He has written me many times and came to see me a few times. But he broke several dates with me. He says he likes me very much, although it seemed that he was trying to find a reasonable excuse but I am not the type of girl that will take excuses. So I got mad and stopped writing to him. He came to see me and we fussed all the time he was here. He did not stay long for I had a date. I feel that I was to blame for most of the fuss and would like to know what would be best to do.

I have tried to get him by going with other boys, but I can't. It seems that he appeals to me in a way that no other person ever has. Do you think I really love him? If you do please advise me how to gain him back again, for I think it useless for me to try to forget him.

ELSIE.

Bands May Curve and Bands May Point

BUTTERICK 1620

One of the outstanding features of the new fall mode is the use of applied trimming bands in numerous interesting and unusual designs. This attractive slip-over frock of crepe de Chine or light weight satin has its bands pointed and button-trimmed bands at the neck and on the cuffs. Bolero like bands start down the front of the dress from the shoulders and then just above the belt, they curve toward the back of the frock to end with a point and button at the side-back. While rounding the curve they stop long enough to furnish a novel little pocket for a gay handkerchief. Plaits stitched part way down give fullness at the skirt front, while a yoke with a deep pointed outline matches the back of the frock interesting.

SLIM: Whether or not you love this boy is something you alone can determine. If you are to blame for the quarrel, by all means apologize and in the future, try to be more tolerant. Slim, for it sometimes does happen that a person is actually and unavoidably prevented from keeping an appointment! Why not make up and go along on a basis of friendship until you are both more certain of yourselves?

TO TEACH SMALL CHILDREN FRENCH

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28. — "By Canadian Press" — An educational experiment now being organized has as its object the teaching of small children to speak French. Dr. A. B. Chand ler, lecturer in pedatrics at McGill University and Dr. Guy Jobin, also of the McGill medical faculty, are sponsors of the movement, believing that if children are to speak French fluently they must be taught at an early age.

The ?enrollment of the special class will be limited to 15 children between the ages of 4 1-2 and 6 years. This will be in the nature of a French kindergarten, with an atmosphere entirely French. The tots will be taught French games and songs and learn French phonetics, under the instruction of a French kindergarten teacher There will be no formal instruction and nursery school methods will be followed.

WHAT'S NEW
(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Latest imports from Chanel include flared ensembles and the wrapy cape—

Black, brown and bronze velvet will be particularly good for afternoon frocks this season.

Net with an uneven hemline, short in front and longer in the back, is very modish for evening.

Moire is to be again smart for evening frocks and enormous bows poised at the hips are a favorite trimming.

Beige and bois de rose worn with red shades led all other shades on a recent ball at Grosvenor Park.

Lavish fur trimming is considered the keynote of the new season, with a preference for the long-haired furs expressed, and the irregular rather than uniform type of border is believed to be most promising in this connection, for various types of lynx and fox are cited as probable fur favorites.

New York observer says velvet, especially black velvet is being used in the newest costumes seen at the Ritz, and cream lace collar, yokes and jabots, as well as touches at the wrist, distinguish many of the black velvet frocks, while one printed crepe noted a combination of fine net at the cuff of a long tight sleeve, and again at the neckline.

JEALOUS HEARTS
By MILDRED BARBOUR

CONCERNING THE ACTION AND CHARACTERS:—

The situation is this—

DAN CARVER, decent-l, who adopted Millicent and Elinor when they were children, had been in love with Tony's mother in his youth. Becoming eccentric as he aged, he was obsessed with a desire to have one of the girls married to Tony. In his will he had stipulated that the bulk of his estate is to go to the one who becomes Tony's wife. The other is to receive a small allowance for life. And it is Millicent who is in love with Tony.

CHAPTER 3

THE CHOICE OF THE LIVING

Tony Decring was an extraordinarily attractive young man. He was tall and slim and graceful.

Elinor watching him critically from the shade of a tall white colonial pillar, vowed to herself that she had never seen a more handsome man. The sunlight shone on his black hair—it was always, much to his owner's disgust. It revealed the almost classic perfection of his features and the olive tint of his skin—both indicative of his eyes of dead-black eyes that flashed in a second from merriment to tenderness, that blazed in another second in anger. A perfect tornado of fury.

Elinor, who liked to experiment upon her fellow creatures—especially her fellow men—found much diversion in indoring these lightning changes in Tony.

"Behold, the human sacrifice approaches!" she drawled to Millicent, just before Tony reached the veranda.

Millicent,'s quickly-caught breath was her only answer, but Elinor knew how rapidly her cousin's heart was beating.

"Hello, Tony!" Elinor greeted the young man lazily. "Did you bring the car?"

"What ceiln?" Tony glanced from one to the other. He was undeniably flustered, and the fact annoyed him, because he was ordinarily a very cool and poised young man.

His eyes, meeting Elinor's, showed that he did not enjoy the situation.

"I came over to see if you wouldn't care for a game of tennis, after being cooped up in the house for three days," he remarked coolly, as he seated himself.

"I'd love it," said Elinor promptly, sitting up in her chair. "We'll go and change while you ring up Ned Kerridge—so we can make it doubles."

"Oh, Elinor," protested Millicent. "Do you think it would look well to play so soon after Uncle Dan—"

"Piddlesticks! Don't be medieval! It's own own court, isn't it? Who'll know or care? Besides, I won't be hypocrite. I'm not mourning for Uncle Dan the least bit in the world."

Millicent, the sweet, the gentle, who adored Elinor, flamed out in wrath suddenly.

"You're unfeeling and ungrateful! He took us in and gave us everything —" she stopped and bit her lip.

"Yes, and why?" queried Elinor coolly. "Because it amused him. That's why."

Millicent rose and left the veranda. "Good girl!" Elinor called after her. "Make it snappy. And bring my tennis shoes when you come. I'm too lazy to change. I'll play as I am."

She sank back in the comfortable chair, that, in her lovely form showed her head in a gesture of ease, and yawned daintily.

Tony watched her.

"When can I see you—alone?" he said abruptly.

She laughed softly, mockingly.

"I'm always now, Tony."

His quick glance went back to the wide colonial hallway.

"Not now."

"How particular you are," she murmured tauntingly. "Just what is it that you want to say to me, Tony, dear?"

His cheeks flushed a little under her mocking term of endearment.

"You know very well."

"Do I? I wonder." She gave him th full benefit of her lovely eyes, and smiled at him—a slow, sweet smile that made her beautiful all the more alluring.

He reached out suddenly and caught her white wrist as it hung indolently over the arm of the chair. She waited, and he, and he was about, to speak, but he checked himself at the sound of hysterical, half-suppressed and anguished sobs.

"What is it?" asked Elinor.

"Mis' Elinor," drawled the maid, "Mis' Millicent say to please excuse her from de tennis. She got a headache and sone ter lie down."

Dismissing the maid with a nod, Elinor turned to Tony, a faint sneer on her red lips.

"Wouldn't you know dear old Mil would do something mid-Victorian like that. Headache—coy withdrawal, until the suitor makes a formal declaration. Tony, are you going to propose to Millicent tonight?"

"No, I'm going to propose to you—right now. This makes the third time I've asked you—will you marry me?"

"Why, Tony!"

THE REFUSAL

For several minutes after Tony's proposal of marriage, Elinor sat silent and regarded him from under her full white lids. When those lids drooped, it was a though she drew a curtain between herself and the world. No one could guess what she was thinking when her face was that only too well. Often she wasn't thinking at all; she was bored and half-asleep. But she got the benefit of a supposedly intriguing and baffling personality.

Tony Davis, with startling suddenness, she sprang to her feet, as lithe and quick and graceful as Tony Decring himself.

"Come on, let's play tennis. I'll get my shoes and be ready in a jiffy."

"But you haven't answered me," he protested, his anger flashing. "I have asked you to marry me."

"I know. But I must think—and I can always think best when I'm in action."

"With most people, it's the other way around," he remarked sullily.

Elinor laughed softly, tantalizingly.

"Not with me. I'm likely to go to sleep, if I sit quietly in a chair."

Crimson flashed in Tony's cheeks.

"That's a nice way to treat my proposal!" he burst forth furiously.

But Elinor silenced him in her own effective fashion. She lifted her slim, graceful arm, and, for an instant, her fingers touched his cheek and lay across his lips, like the cool, fragrant petals of a rose. He kissed them savagely, and she laughed with satisfaction.

"Back in a minute," she called from the hallway.

Millicent wasn't lying down when Elinor noiselessly entered the suite the two girls shared in the west wing of the old colonial house. She was standing by an open window, staring down into the garden that drowned even under the warm June sun. She uttered a faint, startled cry when Elinor touched her arm.

"Dreaming!" queried Elinor with a smile. There was nothing unkind in the gaze with which she surveyed the younger girl. She loved Millicent as much as it was possible for one of her nature to love. But her love for Millicent couldn't equal Millicent's love for her. Millicent worshipped Elinor. Her admiration for her cousin bordered on idolatry. Elinor seemed to her that Elinor was the most beautiful, most charming, most talented girl in all the world. Elinor's air of assurance was a never-ending source of wonder to her, for she was inclined to shyness. Elinor's independence left her breathless. Elinor's success with men awed her, though in her better respect, she felt little envy because her heart was given irrevocably to Tony Decring—had been, ever since their childhood, when they had played games together—and he reciprocated her love.

It was just wondering—" Millicent began haltingly, flushing a little.

"Don't" advised Elinor. "You'll know soon enough."

With that, she went out, her tennis shoes swung over her shoulder, leaving Millicent breathless, torn between hope and fear.

She moved to the opposite windows—the ones overlooking the tennis-court and, from behind a curtain of chiffon, watched Elinor and Tony make their way across the lawn to the tennis-court that lay beyond a row of quivering Lombardy poplars. They walked slowly. Sometimes their shoulders touched—a sight that brought a little stab of pain to the heart of the girl at the window. But it was always Elinor's shoulder that touched Tony's.

When they reached the court, Elinor's air of boredom dropped from her like a cloak, and she always played a vigorous game. Tony himself was a crack player, but it took all his skill to beat Elinor, whenever they played together. She was light as a butterfly, graceful as an expert dancer; tireless, with a man's strength in her volleys.

After the first set, they wandered to the shade of a towering oak. Elinor sank herself at its foot, and Tony flung himself on the ground beside her and looked up at her face.

There was a silence. A blue-jay called shrilly, impatiently. The drowsy hum of unseen insects was all about them.

"Well?" queried Tony presently, his eyes fixed hungrily upon her.

She looked up, startled. She might have been asleep.

"Well?" she asked sweetly.

With a swift, unexpected movement, he sat up beside her. His dark eyes were blazing.

"I'm tired of this fencing," he declared angrily. Reaching out, he grasped her and drew her into his arms. Her head fell back on his shoulder. Her strange eyes gazed sweetly into his stormy ones. Her lips dared him.

"Are you tired of, Tony, darling?" she drawled.

His anger prevented him from accepting the challenge of her lips.

"Are you going to marry me?"

Elinor laughed in his furious eyes.

"I'm not!" she said, softly and deliberately.

He released her so suddenly that she was startled, but she continued to smile at him, maliciously and distractingly.

"And do you know why?" she questioned when he was still unable to find his voice. "It's because you've got to marry Millicent!"

HELPFUL BABY BOOK

We have just received a booklet, "Baby Welfare," which is one of the most helpful and instructive we have seen in a long time. It has chapters on pre-natal care, Feeding of Baby, Bottle Feeding Supplementary to Breast Feeding, Diet After First Year, Food Formula, Sleep, Fresh Air, Exercise, Bathing, Clothing, Baby's Weight and Measurements, with sundry hints as to safeguarding of baby's health against common ailments. There is also a page devoted to Baby's Biography, which should be an interesting record of the little one's activities when it is fitted in, and a Weight Record for Baby's Weight and Height, which the booklet can fill in. In the introduction the publishers say that they have purposely omitted suggestions relating to medical treatment, knowing that such information should properly come from the family physician when such advice is needed. Mothers desiring a copy of this most helpful book can obtain one, free, by writing to The Baby Welfare Department of the Borden Company Limited, 350 St. Paul Street West, Montreal, mentioning this paper.

Haven't heard any statements from Buckingham Palace to the effect "choose" to run for the throne of Rumania.

NEW TISSUES INSPIRE GOWNS

Fabrics Shot With Gold Are Choice of the Truly Chic

Manufacturers of tissues play a great part in the creation of new fabrics, and behold the line of the gown itself depends on the softness and quality of the fabric. This year the choice of tissues has been absolutely new and it has inspired the new cut of dresses.

We shall no longer wear only kasha in the morning and crepe-de-chine in the afternoon. As a matter of fact, crepe-de-chine has almost disappeared from the dressmakers' shows. Many of the old tissues, not seen for years, have been, on the contrary, come back to the surface. There are also many quite new materials with names we have never heard until now.

The great novelty of the coming season are the tissues shot with gold. There are crepes and satins, silk-and-or-made, afternoon coats and gowns made of wool, and silk interwoven with threads of gold interwoven. Thus, there is a kind of reversible kasha, with golden threads one way and in a quiet pale standing straight up and not having a definite direction. It is only on this velvet that some colored designs can be made and its effect is quite delicious and most charming for afternoon wear. But the great success of the winter will certainly be the return of moire, that had disappear ed for so many years. Black, pink, ochre and other models can be to be seen at all the leading Paris houses. Black moire is especially liked for afternoon coats and Lanvin makes broad bella-of moire for her day dresses.

Chiffon velvets with very long and soft pile are also seen everywhere in Paris. Tailor-mades, evening frocks and wraps. Taffeta is also very popular for the evening. Moyenne likes brocades and diamanting for the night; Worth uses much silk muslin and crepe romain; Lelong a lot of lace; Patou many artificial silks and stiff satin. Redfern has also an evening frock made of the satin used for evening shoes. Its pleats stand out stiffly and form an angle skirt. Some lace-queued silks can still be seen and—a merely-useless fashion gained in the war.

The furs employed by the dressmakers this year are rare and expensive. The gown dyed rabbit, no sleeves lamb or silken calf: they have entirely disappeared. Not much matter, a lot of fox of all colors, but especially brown and gray, silver fox, ermine and breadtail, mink, marten, sable, some black caracul of the best quality. Many sport coats are trimmed with lynx.

LARGEST LIGHT OFF CAPE RACE

One Of The Most Important To Navigation In The World

TOWER 70 FEET.

Gives Beacon Of 1,100,000 Candle Power Flashing Every 7½ Seconds

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 28.—(C. P.)—Every moment of every hour, day and night throughout the year, ships great and ships small approach, leave, and sail along Canada's 50,000 miles of seacoast and lake and river shore; and should a light be darkened a fog-horn silent or a buoy misplaced even for an hour, shipwreck is imminent, with all it means in loss of life and property. This is what makes Canada's lighthouse service so important and the discipline of the organization so rigorous.

Those who travel occasionally on steamers' ago, to imagine that the service manages a few lighthouses and fog horns at dangerous points, and places buoys in intricate channels. It will, therefore, be somewhat of a surprise to those who have not given the matter much thought to learn that the Light House Service of Canada of the Department of Marine and Fisheries has under its control 1,725 lights (nearly all of them lighthouses), 384 fog signals, 317 gas and signal buoys, 6 submarine bells 11 lightships, 49 lighted spars, and 2,365 unlighted buoys. This total of 11,227 separate aids to navigation, is distributed over 50,000 miles of seacoast, lake, and river includes 12 main coast stations in Newfoundland, established there for the benefit of shipping entering and leaving Canadian ports.

Of Cape Race

The largest and most important Canadian stations, and one of the eight or ten largest in the world, is situated at Cape Race, the southeast point of Newfoundland. A description of this light will give an idea of the character of the equipment which the nature and hazards of the work demand. The tower stands is 87 feet above sea level. The lantern, containing the lighting apparatus, is of the same diameter as the tower to the vane. The wood plane of the 100 feet above high water. The lantern, consisting of steel iron mounts 7 feet high, glazing 13 1-2 feet high and copper dome supported on steel framing, weighs 24 tons.

The optic or projecting apparatus consists of built-up lenses and refracting and reflecting prisms, mounted in gun-metal framing, and having four optical facts, the diameter being 3.66 metres or over 8 feet, and the weight of gun metal and glass 5 1-2 tons. This optic is caused to revolve by clockwork at the rate of one revolution in 30 seconds, and, in order to attain the requisite speed and steadiness, is mounted upon a round cast-iron float floated in mercury. The total weight floated is 9 tons and the quantity of mercury required to float it is, by reason of the peculiar design of float and bath, only 850 pounds. The pedestal and clock weigh 11 tons, which, with the weight of the optic and lantern, make a total of 43 tons on the top of the tower.

Electric Power

The source of light is electric power generated at the station; in addition there is a stand-by oil vapor apparatus. The latter is so designed that the oil is vaporized and the oil vapor is burned under a gas mantle about 3 1-8 inches in diameter. The mantle gives a light of 2,000 candles (as light generated by electricity is substantially the same), which on passing through the optic is collected and concentrated into 1,100,000 candle-power beam of light. These beams, by reason of the revolution of the optic sweep around the horizon and give the effect of one flash every 7 1-2 seconds. Under favourable weather conditions this light has been seen a distance of 28 miles.

The for alarm at Cape Race is of the diaphone type operated by compressed air. The instrument is arranged to give a blast of 2 1-2 seconds duration every 30 seconds, and has been heard a distance of 45 miles. The power required to operate the light and fog alarm is supplied by two 50 horse-power boilers and the coal consumption is about 500 tons per annum. The station staff consists of four light-keepers, and continuous watch is maintained day and night throughout the year.

The lights and other aids located at other points on the seacoast and along the great lakes are proportioned to the needs of the situation in each case but, whether large or small, the constant effort is to maintain a high standard of efficiency throughout the service.

NEW HOTEL AT HALIFAX

Halifax, September 28.—E. W. Beatty, president of the Canadian Pacific Railway, announced today in a telegram to H. R. Silver, president of the Lord Nelson Hotel Company, that the C.P.R. had decided to subscribe to the extent of $350,000 in financing the hotel. Mr. Silver stated that financing of the Lord Nelson was now assured and that construction would commence immediately upon selection of a site.

Scene from King Vidor's famous production "The Big Parade," acclaim by critics, the greatest war picture ever screened, and which is being shown twice daily at the Capitol Theatre, since opening a four-day run on Monday; packed houses are greeting the picture here. The musical score is an outstanding feature of the production and the Capitol Symphony Orchestra is handling the program. Above are Renee Adoree and John Gilbert, the stars.

STAG IS HUNTED BY 500 RIDERS

Vast Crowds Gather To See Event Featured In Exmoor

Dulverton, Sept. 27. — Five hundred riders of hounds, with another 200 foot followers and more than twice that number of motor-car spectators, showed the remarkable sporting interest which is taken in stag-hunting over the Exmoor country.

Recent indignant assertions that stag-hunting is cruel have had the effect of attracting rather than diminishing support for the famous Devon and Somerset Stag-hounds.

The meet in the delightful village of Winsford—a cluster of stone-built cottages planted on a moorland stream —was near to a record. The cars of riders and followers crowded the hill roads for miles. There were nearly 300 motor-cars. Charabancs brought parties from all the towns round Exmoor. There were more people in Winsford than Winsford could ever remember.

"People who preach that stag-hunting is a particularly cruel sport," said Col. H. C. Wiggin, the master of the hunt, "are just doing so without knowing the facts. It is no more cruel than any other hunting. The deer must be kept down.

"Our way of killing the stag is the most humane possible, far less painful than if he were shot and wounded. A clear stab is given with a long-bladed hunting knife straight to the heart. The suggestion that the stag's throat is cut is untrue."

Hounds found their stag, within a short time of the hunt moving off, where seven stags were reported to be from the meeting place, in Ash Woods.

The stag turned up was a fine big fellow, the size of a young bullock, and he was highly loth to leave his lair. He kept working forward and set off in the middle through thicket, scrub and heather, with the waiting field a patchwork of moving figures against the skyline.

At last he was induced to break over the hill-top, close through the down into the valley and the further medley of foot and car followers, away distance of wooded river and open moor. He was given "good law" of some minutes before hounds were "laid on," and the onlookers had the spectacle of the whole hunt.

One good excuse is better than a thousand poor ones.

CHANGE IN HUNTING SEASON

Deer and Moose

The Ontario Government have announced a change in the open season for deer and moose this year, in that either animal may be taken in the district south of the French and Mattawa Rivers from November 1st to November 30th, and in the district north of the French and Mattawa from October 15th to November 30th.

These periods are very much in favor of the Hunter; especially if the weather may turn cold, and it is trusted the action of the Government will result in a marked increase in the number of those taking to the woods. For their transportation, Canadian National Railways have provided with their usual care and forethought and printed copies of the Hunter's Train Service leaflet may be obtained shortly on application to Canadian National Ticket Agents.

AGED MAN FINDS TREASURE IN CAN

London, Sept. 27. — Buried treasure amounting to £98 10s. was the subject of an application when Henry Ballantyne, of Townsend Road, asked that the money should be paid over to him.

It was stated that Ballantyne's son, in February last, was digging in the garden behind his house when he unearthed a tin can containing £98 10s in notes. He reported his find to the chief constable.

His father had lived there for 30 years until a year ago. He then had a shed standing over the ground in question. The shed was removed when the old man was taken to another residence.

The father's memory failed, and he forgot all about the money he had buried until reminded of it by the wide publicity given at the time of the find.

Baillie Ward decided that the money should be paid over to the claimant less 10 per cent. the cost of the petition, and a reward of £10 to the son who found the money.

PRISONER ASKS LONGER TERM

Dope Fiend Wants To Get His Habits Cured In "Pen"

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press)— Making a tearful plea for a long term in prison instead of a one-year term at Dordoeur jail for threatening and neglecting his family Waldemar Nelson, a shrapnel-torn veterm of a local unit in the war, 40 years of age, drug addict, was sentenced by Judge Cisson to a two-year term in St. Vincent de Paul Penitentiary for which the unfortunate man thanked the judge, kissed his wife and was ready to go to prison at once.

In ord-r to meet Nelson's wishes for a longer term than a year in jail it was necessary for his wife to lay a more serious charge against him than threatening and neglect, so while the court was adjourned temporarily a charge of "attempted assault" was filed out and signed by Mrs. Nelson.

The judge told Nelson that as soon as the medical authorities at the penitentiary pronounced him cured of the drug habit he would ask attorney-general to give an order for the veteran's release.

2-DAY OCEAN MAIL SERVICE

Washington, September 28.—Within five years mail from New York will be delivered in London in three days by steamers and aeroplanes. Second Assistant Postmaster-General Glover, who has just returned from the International mail conference at Paris, predicted. He said the conference's discussion of trans-Atlantic air mail gave assurances of this service.

VARSITY MOST WIDELY KNOWN

Celebrates Centenary October 5th To 8th Next; 1827-1927

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 28. — (By Canadian Press)—The University of Toronto which celebrates the centenary of its foundation Oct. 5 to 8 next is one of the oldest and perhaps the most widely known of Canadian universities. Of English speaking institutions only King's College, Halifax, the University of New Brunswick and McGill University, Montreal can boast of a longer history. The granting of a Royal charter to King's College in 1827 marked the beginning of the present institution. The corner stone of the first building was laid in 1842 and instruction begun in 1843. In 1850, the name "University of Toronto" was adopted and it was made a non-sectarian institution. The provincial government assumed control in 1887, making it the Provincial University of Ontario. In 1906 the government established control to the newly constituted Board of Governors.

Born and nurtured in a turmoil of religious and political dissension it has evolved into a federation embracing sectarian colleges which has attracted the attention of educationalists the world over and has already been used as a model for several other institutions, notably the University of Manitoba and the University of Alberta. Until 1850 it was under the control of the Church of England and was established by people outside that communion on the ground that a state-supported institution should be free of a sectarian character.

Making it non-sectarian did not, for a time, improve matters much. It was then attacked as a "godless institution." Both sectarian and religious were springing up and the province was becoming over-burdened with facilities for higher education. The Methodists established Victoria University at Cobourg, the Anglicans, Trinity University at Toronto and the Roman Catholics, St. Michael's College, Toronto. Knox College and Wycliffe College were theological schools, the former Presbyterian and the latter Anglican. All these denominational colleges now form part of the university and dissension and strife have been replaced by harmony and toleration.

Classes were first conducted in the old parliament buildings on Front Street. The first university building, proper was erected on the site of the present parliament buildings in Queen's Park. This building later was used as a lunatic asylum, known as the University Lunatic Asylum, which led wags of the time to call the college the Lunatic Asylum University The genius of the present group comprising some 30 or more buildings was begun in 1856. It was the building now known as University College.

Hart House, a princely bequest of the late Hart Massey, was begun in 1911, and started the life of the students in 1919. It is a building unique among student unions in that it provides for every extra-academic activity athletics, the drama, social functions, and student and graduate organizations. In the building many of the functions of the Centenary will take place.

An 82-year-old woman in Tennessee has never seen an automobile. No wonder she lived so long.

Here's the theory of evolution shot to pieces again. Archeologists have found the skull of a stone age hairbrow.

FACES LIFE TERM IF CONVICTED NOW

New York, Sept. 17 — Anthony Simanski, Newark, N.J. offered a rendition of "The Prisoner's Song" on an accordion in court today as testimony which threatens to send Joseph Rosack to prison for life.

Rosack was arrested September 2 while attempting to sell the accordion for $5. Seventh avenue shop. Simanski identified the instrument as one which his home had last July 9 valued at $525.

"If I can only play it just once," Simanski told Magistrate Purrell, in Essex Market court, " I can tell for sure whether it is mine. No two accordions sound alike to those who know them, and I could tell the tone of mine in a million."

The magistrate consented. Simanski hunched into the strains of two sombre Russian songs, paused smiled grimly, and then struck up the "Prisoner's Song."

REGENT THEATRE

A story of those stirring days when savages massacred the white invaders of their wilderness, is told in "The Frontier Trail," the feature picture at the Regent Theatre beginning tomorrow Harry Carey, as a U.S. Army Scout fights, single-handed, to save his sweetheart and his Major

Big Indian battles—sensational skirmishes between blue coats and redskins.

The Scout accused of treason—a court martial—a death sentence—a thrilling escape—and a girl who believes him innocent!

BELLE THEATRE

Alexander Carr, of "Potash and Perlmutter" fame, who seems to have forsaken the stage permanently for the screen, will be seen locally again next week when his latest screen production "April Fool" will be the attraction at the Belle Theatre tomorrow.

Carr, who was a vaudeville and legitimate stage favorite for a good many years before his screen debut, seems to have found a broader field for his talents in the silent drama.

"April Fool," which is billed as a Canadian Film Division feature is Zion Meyer's adaptation of the play, "Arvil Showers," by Edgar Allen Woolf and Alexander Carr. The play itself was a gem, but much that was suggested or implied in the stage production promises a greater treat in its actual performance.

Baby Peggy, Pat Moore and Leon Holmes, three of the brightest kids of the screen, who appear in the earlier episodes, grow up into Duane Thompson, Edward Phillips and Raymond Keane, three juveniles who seem to be climbing rapidly toward stardom. SUPREMES MAY PLAY BEAVERS

Plan To Organize "Baby" Team To Foster Soft-Ball

In order to develop players for the Beavers, Senator Beavers are going to foster a team of girls known as the "Baby" Beavers. It is proposed to form a team out of players who are young and who do not play on City or Bay or Quinta League teams. Ambitious here is your chance to start to play the game. For this purpose the Beaver Club management is calling a practice for Saturday afternoon at the Bair Grounds for girls who like to play the game and who have not had a chance to line up with any of the city teams.

Any girl in the city is welcome out at this practice and the Beaver management would like to see as many as possible out for a try-out. 2:00 p.m. is the time of the practice, so be there early, girls.

Thanksgiving Day is some distance off but the Beavers have started arrangements to have either Supremes or Hamilton Cardinals here for the holiday for two games indoors. Supremes played Cardinals on both Senior teams. If Supremes come here more than like by Kay Flannigan, the Toronto girl runner, will give the fans a chance to watch her in some exhibition running. Supremes will know definitely shortly and if they cannot make the trip, Mrs. Cherrion, Treasurer of the Women's Softball Association, is very anxious to have the Hamilton Cardinals play here. If the games are arranged "Sally" Gray and "Babe" Vincent will likely pitch a game each for the locals. Miss Gray has been one of the best all-round pickers in these parts this year and we all know what Miss Vincent can do. So the Senior Team which invades Belleville had better watch their step.

DEMPSEY TRIED RABBIT PUNCHES

Chicago, Sept. 28.—The Illinois Athletic Commission in a formal statement today defended the action of the timekeepers and referee who officiated at the Dempsey-Tunney fight, declaring that the two timers and the referee acted in strict accordance with instructions they had received from the commission on the afternoon of the fight.

The commission's statement said that the wide discussion of the seventh round when Dempsey knocked down Tunney caused the statement to be issued, adding that the timers in starting the count and the referee in starting it over again when Tunney did not retire to a neutral corner as the first count was started, were acting on the commission's instructions.

Members of the commission said they had not received the report that Dempsey and Leo P. Flynn, his manager, said was being forwarded, and added that they did not expect to receive any protest.

George Lytton, Chicago business man and one of the judges, speaking before the Collegiate Club today, declared Dempsey could have been disqualified before the seventh round for repeatedly hitting below the belt and using the battle's rabbit punch despite warnings from referee and judges.

Dempsey said Lytton's charge that a big fight cannot be stopped except for very serious breaches of the rules and took advantage of the fact.

"When Tunney went down under Dempsey's savage attack in the seventh round," said Lytton, "Dempsey stepped into a near corner behind the referee for just one reason. He wanted to be on top of Tunney just as soon as the latter arose, in the same way that he struck Firpo while Firpo's knee was only a few inches from the floor."

RUTH SMASHED 57TH HOME RUN; TWO MORE TO GO

Blow Is Only Sixth That Babe Has Hit With Bases Full

New York, Sept. 28.—Sticking grim by to his task, which now calls for a homer each game, if the record is to fall, Babe Ruth collided violently with a well-pitched ball at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon and arched it high up in the right field bleachers for his fifty-seventh circuit clout of the season. It was an imposing wallop, came in the sixth inning with the bases full of Yankees and Letty Grove pitching, and contributed directly to the afternoon's downfall of the Athletics, who closed out their final appearance of the year in New York by running their customary good second, 7 to 4.

What left the Mackmen, of course, was of no great interest to anybody, but when the Babe connected there came a tremendous roar from 15,000 throats. Clearing the bases made it an even finer spectacle, for, strange to relate, the greatest manufacturer of home runs has not done this sort of thing often. To be exact, yesterday's swat was only the sixth time in all his career that he has been able to perform with thirds and only the third time since becoming a Yankee.

Last night found the Babe two down and three to play. The Yankees would be idle today and Thursday they open their final three games of the season against the Senators at the Stadium the last emazement fallire Saturday. The Babe, therefore, will have to connect for the phenomenal of 9 homer per game if he is to surpass his record of fifty-nine, made in 1921. Yesterday was Ruth's 151st game and for this our resounding number is the record year he had fifty-six, so that in addition to being two behind the mark, he also is one behind the schedule. But all this is more or less beside the issue for when the Babe means to get a homer he usually gets one.

There also was another homer yesterday. It came in the fourth inning and was made by Lou Gehrig, who out best-shortly tied he, too, is supposed to be a swatter of considerable proportions. It was Lou's forty-sixth of the season.

TORONTO ATHLETE ACCEPTS PRO OFFER

Toronto, Sept. 28.—Another of Toronto's amateur athletes has made the jump into the monied ranks. This time it is Harold Frost, Hockey fame and a great number of soccer fans will be pleased to know that Frostie" as he is known, is going to the Boston team of the Canadian-American loop. His contract was all sealed and settled with Eddie Powers over the week-end. October 15th is the date set for his departure.

Frost's hockey ability was well brought out when playing for the Kodak team out at Ravina Rink, besides playing senior O.H.A. for Toronto. The years previous to that he played for the St. Mary's Club as well as being a member of that crack Monee team of past years.

ONE KILLED, FIVE HURT

Riviere du Loup, September 28.—A man named Roy MacMillan of Edmundston and five others were injured by the explosion of a boiler which destroyed a butter factory at St. Clement, a village situated a few miles from this town. One of the injured men, who were brought to the Notre Dieu here is dying, while the others are also in a serious condition. Lack of water in the boiler is believed to have caused the explosion.

SportOgramS

By "The Observer"

"The Battle of the Century"- in local softball series will be staged on Friday evening in the armouries when the Beavers and Ontarios clash.

It is an admitted fact that there is no love lost between the two teams so anybody planning to call the games if they take our advice will be on hand early. The series arranged is the best two out of three and each game will start at 8.15 p.m. sharp.

A draw for Umpires was made and Colling and Weir will handle the first game with Colling and Woodley taking care of the second game.

Manager Walt Gerow of the Ontarios will likely send Hilda Adams to do the pitching with Aileen Williams on the receiving end. His infield will likely be composed of the smart outfit of ball tossers, namely Peg Holway at 1st, Audrey Wilkins at 2nd, Olive Adams at short, and Mary Adams at third.

For the outfield he has Audrey Wilkins one of the best outfielders in the business, Lorna Hadley and Dolly Canning Jennie Adams, who was recently operated on for appendicitis will not be available nor is Pat Jarrel a likely starter.

Allan Meagher figures on practically all his team with the exception of Stanley Ackland who has been confined to her home for some time through illness. Helen has been very able to get into the game. She was injured in Toronto and had not been playing since. Gray and Whalen will form the battery with Crucji on 1st, Mad Kelleher at 2nd, Happy Lee at short, Irish O'Neil at third, Tiny Warham, Marg. Mooney and Cook in the field and Innis Thrasher and "Red" Mills as subs.

Notes: Audrey Kelleher and Mad Kelleher on their respective clubs are sisters and it will be a real battle when sisters holding the same position on opposing teams. Reader if Mad or Audrey are out for Ontarios and Dad for Beavers A nice Sunday-ok, eh?

Both teams have good catchers each claiming they like their catcher best—their fans have much talk over their merits. This series should give the fans a great chance to look them over.

The pitchers will have a lot to say about the game. Serious Minded Molly Gray who is chocked full of confidence all the time will likely be opposed by, Hilda Adams. Hilda has been working hard to develop into a pitcher and has made good. She will be a real test for her.

ATHLETICS FOR ATHLETIC'S SAKE

Montreal, Que., Sept. 28. — (By Canadian Press)—"Athletics for athletic's sake." The slogan of the fans—upheld a narrow point of view in the opinion of Miss Jean Herriott the new physical director of Women at McGill University. "The educative programme of physical education should influence the entire life of the girl, not solely benefit the physical side.

"We are just beginning women's work in athletics and while we are anxious to adopt from the men the desirable qualities of their athletic program, we are anxious not to fall into the errors of the men's work, notably professionalism," she said.

On first, two of the best in the City will oppose each other, Peg Holway and Crucji. Both are great batters. At second the Kelleher sisters will battle it out. See them for yourself.

At short-stop, providing Happy Lee starts, Olive Adams and she, are both are nice short fielders. This should be a fine battle also. Miss Lee has played gilt edged ball all season for the Beavers and it is hoped that she will have a chance to show her class in this series.

At third for the Ontarios one of the best third sackers at the girls game in these parts will be Mary Adams. For the Beavers Irish O'Neil will not be far behind. Both are good hitters, base-runners and each have fine throwing arms. Just watch their smoke.

In the field, Audrey Wilkins of the Ontarios and Capt. Twila Warham will fight out the honors at centre. Both are real nice ball players.

In left Ev. Cook of the Beavers is probably the choice over the Ontario's left fielder whether it is L. Ridley or D. Canning. As far as we can remember Cook has dropped but one ball this year in a game for the Beavers and the same cannot which happened to Hagaene her all round work more than made up for it. However, it is a short series and either of the two outfield girls may startle the fans with their good work. Ridley or Canning can hold up their end of the game alright.

Marge Gregory of the Beavers who will play right field is a hard hitter, a good thrower and should furnish plenty or trouble to the opposition.

The umpires Weir, Colling and Woodley are real adept at calling them, so what a fine series it should be. The coaches, Meagher and Gerow be.

Maintained Two-Game Margin Over Winning Cards

New York, Sept. 28.—Pittsburgh was breezing along at full speed for the National pennant goal yesterday, holding the two-game advantage in the second place Cardinals by defeating the Cubs for a complete sweep of the four-game series. St. Louis stayed up close to the leaders by downing the Reds again. The Giants tripped up the Phillies but, they have only a slight mathematical opportunity of coming through on top of the heap.

RICKARD PLANS HEAVY TOURNEY

New York, Sept. 28.—Jack Dempsey has come to New York to talk over his boxing future with Tex Rickard. It may be that the Manassa Mauler seriously considers becoming a contender in the heavyweight elimination tournament that Rickard has planned for the winter and next spring.

A third fight between Dempsey and Tunney was one of the main topics of conversation in the metropolis. Very few professed the belief that Dempsey would be successful in an attempt to lift the title, but nearly everybody was agreed that he still is the biggest drawing power in the business.

Dempsey said he was willing to get into action in short order if an attractive offer was made, and that he would meet any man. He does not plan to retire from the ring.

"It wouldn't take me long to get ready", the former champion declared. "I have two fights under my belt now I feel fine."

With Dempsey, Sharkey, Paulino, Tom Heeney and George Godfrey standing out among the heavyweights, observers see opportunities for Rickard to build an elimination tournament, as other logical contender for the 1928 championship fight. A match between Sharkey and Paulino appears to be in the making, both fighters having asked for the chance in the ring.

YANKEE SUPPORTERS GRAB RESERVE SEATS

New York, Sept. 28.—Secretary Edward G. Barrow, of the New York Yankees, today announced that all the boxes and reserved seats for the world's series, to be played at the Yankee Stadium have been allotted. The only seats now available for the contests here are those in the bleachers and that portion of the grandstand unreserved. These, numbering 20,000 in the bleachers and 15,000 in the grandstand, will be placed on sale daily a few hours before game time.

Ford City authorized purchase of scale to be used at key factories.

NAME PLAYERS FOR BIG SERIES

New York, September 28.—Names of the 21 players upon whom the New York Yankees will rely in the world series were announced yesterday in an official statement by Commissioner K. M. Landis. Eligibility lists were announced also for the Pittsburgh Pirates and St. Louis Cardinals, leading contenders in the National League.

The Yankee roster for the series showed Miller Huggins will rely upon nine of his pitchers to hurl the Yankee victories while Manager Rogers Hornsby will name eight pitchers. Managers Huggins and Schulte catchers; Lester Bell, Rogers Hornsby, Pitch. Schulte. Thevenow and Bottomley, infielders; Blades, Clark, Douthit, Hafey, Holman and Southworth, outfielders; McKechnie and Sotheron, coaches.

SESQUI ATTENDANCE TOPPED CHI. CROWD

New York, Sept. 28.—Although the gate of $2,658,660 at the Tunney-Dempsey match in Chicago smashed all fistic record for receipts, the paid attendance, as revealed through the Internal Revenue Bureau today, fell far short of the throng that attended the battle of the Sesqui-Centennial in Philadelphia.

A crowd of 102,450 persons paid to see the match in Soldiers' Field, the revenue report showed, as compared with approximately 118,000 who bought tickets to see Tunney win the heavyweight crown last fall. The Federal tax of 10 per cent. amounted to $265,- 065.71. The Philadelphia gate totalled $1,850,732, with a $25 top price for ringside seats. The Chicago "top" was $40.

Crowds Flee In Scotch City Before Attack Of Sailors

Glasgow, Sept. 27.—Knives, revolvers, and clubs were used in a desperate scuffle in James Watt street, Glasgow, between colored men and Arab seamen over the question of signing on as an engine-room crew. Eight men were arrested, and four were taken to hospital suffering from knife wounds.

The trouble started outside the National Sailors' and Firemen's Union offices. The Africans resented the Arabs being given preference, and began an argument, during which an Arab is said to have attacked one of the colored men. The two grappled with each other, and one was thrown into the entrance of the union's offices.

Native Shot

A revolver was drawn and a bullet fired, which struck one of the natives standing in the street outside. The man ran screaming up the street until he collapsed. The two rival factions then entered the portion of the street, and attacked each other with knives and razors.

Another revolver was drawn and two shots were fired. The yells of the fighting men attracted hundreds of people, who scattered and fled when the combatants surged into the road fighting and hacking at each other.

All the seamen, it is stated, were armed. The Arabs were armed chiefly with knives while the colored men attacked their opponents with weighted canes.

An alarm call was circulated, and the police arrived in motor tenders. Eight arrests were made on the spot. An ambulance was also summoned and the four men who were most seriously injured were removed to hospital. The condition of three of them is critical.

All the arrested men bore evidence of the fight, the majority of them bleeding from knife cuts on the face and hands.

ACIDS MAKE KIDNEYS HURT

The American men and women must guard constantly against kidney trouble because we often eat too much rich food. Our blood is filled with acids which the kidneys strive to filter out; they weaken from overwork, become sluggish, the eliminative tissues clog and the result is kidney trouble, bladder weakness and a general decline in health.

When your kidneys feel like lumps of lead; your back hurts or the urine is cloudy, full of sediment, or you are obliged to seek relief two or three times during the night; if you suffer with sick headache, or dizzy, nervous spells, acid stomach, or if you have rheumatism when the weather is bad, begin drinking lots of good soft water and get from your pharmacist about four ounces of Jad Salts. Take a tablespoonful in a glass of water before breakfast for a few days and your kidneys may then act fine.

This famous salts is made from the juice of grapes and lemon juice, combined with lithia, and has been used for years to help flush and stimulate clogged kidneys, to neutralize the acids in the system so they no longer are a source of irritation, thus often relieving bladder disorders.

Jad Salts is inexpensive; can not injure, makes a delightful effervescent lithia-water drink and belongs in every home, because nobody can make a mistake by having a good kidney flushing any time.

The enlarged grain 'elevator at Owen Sound, which was doubled in size this year, giving a total capacity of two million bushels. The added storage is at the RIGHT of the picture. The steamer Scodoc is seen with the first grain being unloaded into the new extension. She carried a cargo of 360,000 bushels of rye from Duluth to Owen Sound. The original elevator was financed by the city of Owen Sound in 1925 and then sold to a local company which has been so successful that the plant had to be doubled in size.

GOVERNMENT TO GIVE AIRPLANES TO NEW CLUBS

Prepared To Assist Organizations When Co-operation Is Arranged

Ottawa, Sept. 27.—Announcement that the Department of National Defence is prepared to assist in the establishment of light airplane flying clubs in the larger centres of the Dominion was made by Hon. J. L. Ralston, minister of defence, on the opening of the house today.

The terms of the agreement entered into under the new scheme will be for not more than five years from the first of April, 1928, and it is further proposed that, should the demand for flying instruction exceed the capacity of the two aircraft so issued, the Department may issue in each year, after the first, one further light airplane, provided that the association or club has from its own resources purchased a similar aircraft of an approved type.

The minister stated, in announcing the scheme, that there have been few opportunities for young Canadians to learn to fly since the armistice. Aviation, he said, is each year playing a greater part in the development of many remote parts of the country, in forest protection, surveys, exploration, transportation and many other useful fields of work. In this work the Department of National Defence, through the Royal Canadian Air Force has done much pioneer work.

LEARN THAT 187 LIVES WORTH A COOL MILLION

All Are Residents Of Canada And The United States

New York, Sept. 21.—The lives of 187 persons residing in Canada and the United States are worth $1,000,000 or more each to insurance companies, according to a survey made public today by the Spectator Company of New York.

Rodman Wanamaker, merchant, leads the list with $7,500,000 in policies. Several proons including Dr. F. O. Banting, of Toronto, discoverer of insulin are insured for $5,000,000 each. They include "Babe" Ruth William Fox, Adolph Zukor, Jesse Lasky, S. R. Kresge, Frank O. Book, New York, Herbert V. Brow, Detroit, and James H. Reed, Jr., of Buffalo.

Sir Mortimer Davis, of Montreal, is in the $1,500,000 class, and O. F. Cowens of Montreal, is listed in the $1,400,000 and over.

A number of motion picture stars are by the $1,000,000 list, including Charlie Chaplin, Douglas Fairbanks, Mary Pickford and Will Rogers. Gloria Swanson is insured for twice that amount, as is Sig. John Barrymore, E. W. Marland and Clarence MacKay.

Other high figures are William Zeckler, New York, $4,500,500; Joseph-M. Schenck, New York, $4,250,000; Albert M. Bowman, New York, $4,000,000, and Pierre S. Dupont, Wilmington, Delaware, $4,000,000.

TOOK STRYCHNINE

Picton, Sept. 28.—An inquest was held into the death of Thomas Henry Lambe, of Picton, being conducted by Coroner Whitcman. The evidence was that Mr. Lambe came to his death on an overdose of strychnine. The deceased had been in a despondent frame of mind for some time and in poor health for several years. Mr. Lambe, it is said, had gone down town to purchase some medicine. On his return home he called to his mother, who whom he resided, that he was dying. The coroner, priest and medical help were summoned but were unable to do anything for the stricken man. Mr. Lambe was in his 45th year and had lived practically all his life in the county. His employers of a few years ago speak very highly of his work in their service.

BARN BURNED

Madoc, Sept. 28.—The barn belonging to William Demill, on the old Henderson property, was destroyed by fire of unknown origin on Sunday evening. The fire engine was called out but could not accomplish much. The fire having gained too much headway. Several hogs, two stacks of straw and ten bags of grain, besides several loads of hay, were lost with the barn. There was no insurance. The alarm, coming just at midnight, was the cause of considerable excitement.

FOOTBALL PRACTICES

Kingston, Sept. 28.—Cold, sharp breezes blowing across the gridiron at the Richardson Stadium did not deter members of Queen's football squad from getting into action on Tuesday morning, and about fifty candidates were on hand to be put through physical training and to engage in light football work.

MAGISTRATE BURIED

Napanee, Sept. 28.—The funeral of the late Mr. G. P. Ruttan, K.C., and public magistrate for the town of Napanee, who passed away on Saturday after a lengthy illness, took place yesterday afternoon from his late residence, Bridge Street, to St. Mary Magdaline Church of which he was an honored member for many years.

The service, which was largely attended was in charge of the rector, Rev. R. J. Dimbleby. Who was assisted by Rev. J. H. H. Colema, rector of St. Paul's Church, Kingston, and a former vicar of St. Mary Magdaline Church and Rev. Canon J. W. Jones of Kingston.

PARALYSIS EPIDEMIC

Kingston, Sept. 28.—Two cases of infantile paralysis, one occurring in the city and one in Portsmouth, have been reported to the Medical Health Officer, Dr. A. R. B. Williamson, and with conditions as they exist fail to even approach an epidemic, special care is being urged having in view the fact that such an epidemic is raging in Western Canada.

Speaking to reporters today, Dr. Williamson stated that there are usually one or two cases in this district each year and that while there was no cause for alarm in present conditions extra watchfulness was a justifiable precaution.

OYSTERS AREN'T SO DUMB AT ALL

Norfolk, Va., Sept. 24.—(By Canadian Press)—The old saying "mum as an oyster" has been proved a myth by hydrography and topography experts of the United States Coast and Geodetic Survey, who have been attempting to make underwater experiments with the radio off the North Carolina coast between Cape Hatteras and Cape Lookout.

The oysters made so much noise the work had to be abandoned at the first attempt. A second attempt to make the tests proved just as futile. The oysters were so noisy that no other sound but that of the bivalves opening and shutting their shell-covered mouths came through the delicate instruments with which the experiments were being conducted.

All that women's clothes leave to the imagination is what makes them so expensive.

Italy has put a tax on bachelors. In this country, only their ingenuity is taxed.

Electrical Detective Reveals Culprit

DR. A. P. LINK, psychotory linctuster, is busy fixing the guilt for a dear, dark "crime." One of his students, the girl at his left, is guilty of a pre-arranged "robbery." Mr. H. F. Hopkins (standing), of the Bell Telephone Laboratories, operates an electrical stethoscope which transmits to an audience of 1,000, the heart-beats of the subjects. As the baked pertinent questions concerning the "crime," the heart-beats of the witness quicken perceptibly.

The other apparatus shown provides records of other reactions caused by the tawdry emotions of the witness, no matter what control she exercises over voice or expression. The New York Electrical Society, before which the experiment was conducted, praised highly the work of the telephone scientists in developing the delicate instruments.

Sherlock Holmes to-day might find himself out-Sherlocked by Doctor Watson with an electrical assistant!

BIG STEPS MADE IN RUSSIAN ARTS

Visitor Says England Is Fifty Years Behind In Development

London, Sept. 27.—"The artistic life of Russia today is simply marvellous. The events of the last few years have deepened the character of the people and concentrated their energies in spiritual channels. England is, artistically, fifty years behind the Russia today."

This was the statement made by Mr. Albert Coates, the famous conductor, who was head of the Russian Imperial Opera from 1910 to 1919 and who has just returned from another visit to Russia. Mr. Coates is producing this autumn the Rimsky-Korsakov opera on Mozart which Mr. C. B. Cochran is producing in the Albert Hall and which will then be performed for the first time outside Russia.

"We have everything to learn from the Russians," said Mr. Coates. "Mr. Cochran has been so interested in what I have told him that he is going out with me next year to see what ideas he can pick up in the Russian theatre. We hope to start in April.

"In the course of two and a half months in Leningrad I conducted as many odd performances, and four one of them was packed. They were thrilling audiences listen the whole time. The opera and the theatres are all crammed. One of their favorite authors is Shaw—they are simply crazy on him.

"New forms of art are being tried out every day. There is one theatre in Leningrad which is wholly given over to artistic experiments, and for them being created it is crowded out regularly. The Russians have pushed symbolistic decoration to the farthest extent. You often see a stage absolutely bare of furniture, and decorated with great symbolistic designs.

"I saw the production of a new German opera in which the whole spirit of modernism was symbolized in the decorations which were made entirely of steel; there being a revolving central stage in the middle of the main stage to save scene-shifting.

"I hope to give some samples of the spirit of Russia to England in the Albert Hall—this year, before the opera itself there will be three choral and orchestral items from Mozart's "Requiem," which will be sung by a choir of 1,000. I think the largest trained choir that can have ever sung there will also be items from other Russian operas."

WHERE SHOULD SHE BE VACCINATED?

Walkerton, Ont., Sept. 26.—The Herald Times opines that there is gloom among the doctors of this town.

"One of the most perplexing questions Walkerton, Ont., have to answer is where to vaccinate a young girl. At one time the left arm was the favorite vaccination place, but short sleeves showed an unsightly scar, so the location was changed to the left. Then came a change in skirts and the question is where can the doctor vaccinate so that a scar will not be seen 20 years hence.

MELLOR ELECTS TRIAL BEFORE MAGISTRATE MIKEL

Good Roads Association Deals With Prevention Of Accidents On The Public Highways

WOMAN'S NECK WAS BROKEN WHEN CAR DROVE UP TO DOCTOR'S HOME

Ex-Police Officer Claimed Woman Was His Wife But Fled

HELD FOR INQUEST

Duncan Arrested After Ninety Mile Chase As Material Witness

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 29.—Mystery surrounds the death of a woman claimed by George Duncan, former member of the Brantford police force, to be his wife. It is known that last night Duncan and the woman were motoring from Hamilton to Brantford. About 11.30 last night, he drove to the office of Dr. Parks with her and the doctor declared the woman dead. Duncan then took the body to a local undertaker and left.

The police were notified and after a search in which they travelled hundreds miles, Provincial Officer Milligan and County Officer Blakney, arrested Duncan, who is held as a material witness, no formal charges being laid against him.

Duncan's statement, it is reported, was that the car had to be stopped suddenly and that the woman hit the steering wheel, this being responsible for her instant death. Examination of the body showed a mark on her chin and scratches on her abdomen. Her feet and ankles were covered with dirt and some of the understanding had been worn off when indications that there had been a struggle on the road. While it is rumored that the girl in question came from Hamilton, Provincial Officer Milligan stated that she is an Oxford county girl, her mother residing in Plattsville. An inquest was opened this morning.

In Trouble Before

Duncan gives his present address as 113 Lawrence Avenue, Toronto, while the woman's maiden name was Margaret Brash, Plattsville, Ont. While a resident of this city, some years ago, Duncan was concerned in a brawl on Pearl Street and was given eighteen years on a manslaughter charge, but he served only a small portion of the term.

LAST ASSASSIN REPORTED DEAD

Man Who Supplied Bombs For Sarajevo Crime Dies In Serbia

Belgrade, Sept. 29.—One chapter on the direct origin of the Great War was completed by the death at Skopje of Milan Ciganovitch, last of the plotters who killed Archduke Francis Ferdinand at Sarajevo in 1914.

Although Ciganovitch held only a small position on the Bosnian frontier it was he who supplied the bombs and revolvers with which the assassination was committed.

His name appeared in the Austrian ultimatum, which precipitated the war, as one of the conspirators whom Serbia was ordered to deliver to Austria-Hungary.

Before the war Ciganovitch was feted by his own people as a national patriot, but after the war he more or less retired. He was 40 years old.

DR. HERMISTON DEAD

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Widely known in fraternal circles in Ontario and United States, Dr. C. M. Hermiston died today in Baltimore, Md., according to word reaching this city. He was a native of Warkworth near Lindsay, Ontario, and was a graduate of Queen's University at Kingston.

The other conspirators are dead. One Colonel was shot by the Serbians themselves for plotting against the Serbian King in 1917.

REPORT FINDING FLOATING BODY

Thought Possible May Be Remains Of One Of Lost Aviators

Harbor Grace, Nfld., Sept. 29.—A report that the body of a man with a helmet on his head, similar to those worn by aviators had been seen, floating between Bell Island in Conception Bay and this town on the mainland was current here today. There was no early confirmation.

This story of the find here was that two men had reported that while going from Bell Island to the mainland in a motorboat they had seen a body and had tried to recover it with their boat hook but that a heavy swell on the ocean surface prevented this.

Rumor immediately started speculation among residents of Harbor Grace as to whether the body might have been that of one of the airmen lost on the several flights between New Foundland and Europe this year which ended in the loss or disappearance of the planes.

PEACE PALACE

Mayor Of Niagara Falls Suggests That City As Suitable Place

Niagara Falls, N.Y., Sept. 29.—Peace Palace at Niagara Falls, within the sound and view of the great cataracts, is recommended as the most fitting century of peace between the United States and Canada, in a letter received by Mayor H. P. Stephens, Niagara Falls, Ontario, in an interview today.

The idea of having a Peace Palace in Europe which has been the scene of so much conflict and war in parties of four, held bad mistakes in place of fire safety devices to receive any one failing. The sister suffered slight bruises. Mlle. Alice Guay, resident, suffered a bruised leg when she fell down in the rush. A few child ren suffered slight concussions.

DEACON GETS HOME BEFORE SEARCH STARTS

Fears were felt around the street last evening following the strange disappearance of "Deacon" Smith the well-known ice-peddler, but fortunately he turned up at his home not long after ten o'clock last evening.

Yesterday morning on coming with his Walter Allore left the cart for Massassaga Point to get a row boat to use in his duck-shooting campaign this autumn. The boat was placed on the truck safely enough but after wallowing a short distance through the mud the wheels refused to function and spun round in the soft ground. It was found necessary to enlist the services of a farmer living near by and horses and Smith set out across a swamp while Allore took the longer route of four miles around the road.

Allore arrived after waiting some time for his friend decided to come to Belleville. He visited the Smith home but finding no trace of him there he went back to Prince Edward County.

At ten o'clock last evening the police were notified and a search party consisting of Reg. Arnott, Walter Allore, Wilfred Rutian and Provincial Constable Weatherall prepared to set out from the Belleville Police Station equipped with ropes and poles. As they were climbing into the car a phone message from the Smith home stated that "Deacon" had arrived home after being lost in the forests surrounding Massassaga Point.

HISTORIC SCENE

Descendant Of England's Most Romantic Queen Is Married

London, Eng., Sept. 29.—Scene reminiscent of the sixteenth century were enacted in Westminster Abbey today when the possessor of one of England's most romantic names, Lady Jane Grey, was married in the Chapel of Henry Seventh to the Hon. Percelt H. Tyrrahell, rector of St. Croswith at Hedgerfield, Suffolk. The bride wore a gown of white velvet copied from a portrait of her illfated ancestor, who also was beheaded at London in 1554, with her husband on charges of treason after having been proclaimed Queen in 1553.

FORMER TWEED MAN APPOINTED

New Supt. Of Children's Aid For Ontario County Is O. M. Alger

Mr. O. M. Alger, of Oshawa, formerly of Tweed, was yesterday afternoon appointed local superintendent and Secretary of the Children's Aid Society for Ontario County by the Hon. Dr. Forbes Godfrey, Provincial Secretary. The appointment went to Mr. Alger over about seventy-five other applicants.

Mr. Alger with his father and brother conducted the Tweed Weekly newspaper for years. Later the family sold out their interests and started a daily newspaper in Oshawa known as the Oshawa Telegraph which flourished for a short time only. The Alger Press now confines itself to general job printing.

The new Secretary will continue to reside in Oshawa. He is a married man about forty years of age and has served previously as a member of the Children's Aid Board. The selection was made by Mr. Colclie on the recommendation of the Oshawa Board.

EXPLOSIONS IN QUEBEC SCHOOL

Courageous Teachers Save Situation When Furnaces Blow Up

Chicoutimi, Que., Sept. 29.—Quick thinking on the part of girl students and teachers and the fortunate absence of some 300 very young pupils at recess averted a dangerous situation when two furnaces in the St. Joseph D'Alma Catholic School exploded with a stunning terror into the hearts of some 600 child ren on various ages.

Smoke and steam spread rapidly throughout the institution.

Thinking the four-storey building was on fire, the panic stricken children rushed for all exits, including the windows. Several were prevented from jumping through the upper windows to certain death by the quick action of the teachers, who ordered them to march in orderly fashion down the stair ways to safety. In the excitement a ton full from the cellar floor, but in this time such a possibility had been foreseen by the citizens of the town who had recommended that doors open in parties of four, held bad mistakes in place of fire safety devices to receive any one failing. The sister suffered slight bruises. Mlle. Alice Guay, resident, suffered a bruised leg when she fell down in the rush. A few child ren suffered slight concussions.

GIRL VICTIM ON WITNESS STAND

Bertha Houck Gives Evidence Against Former Friend And Pastor

SUMMARY TRIAL

Rev. J. J. Mellor Elects To Be Tried By Magistrate Mikel

Pale, nervous and obviously embarrassed, little Bertha Houck took the stand this afternoon to testify for Rev. J. J. Mellor, formel United Church Minister of Picton, before Magistrate W. C. Mikel, of Belleville.

Mellor, who is charged with a most serious offense against the girl, who was of previously stable character and under the age of sixteen years, elected to be tried by the Magistrate rather than a judge and jury. Mellor's offenses were alleged to have taken place between May and August of 1924.

The Prosecuting Attorney, Colonel Kiellar Bell, wanted the courtroom cleared of spectators before the trial commenced, but Mellor's counsel, Mr. Ellis, overruled this motion. Some dispute arose also about allowing the Press in the room.

Victim Tells Story

Two certificates of previous convictions against Mellor were filed with the Magistrate by F. L. Ward, counsel for the defense. Ward objected to the charge against the former minister and the complaint taken on the 16th of August.

Bertha Houck, the alleged victim of Mellor, was the one and only witness called to the stand by press-time. In a faltering voice she told her story. She said she had lived in Picton since she was two years of age. Her mother died when she was but two and her father lived in Calgary. Bertha stated that she had been living with her aunt, Mrs. Phillip Haight, in Picton.

Her birthday was on the 24th of

IMPROVE DRIVEWAY OF GEN. HOSPITAL

The road crescent at the hospital has been reshaped for the Hospital Board by the City Public Works Department under the direction of Chas. Campbell, City Engineer. The East entrance has been closed and the exit moved up to a point near the nurse's home on the McDonald Avenue line. The western entrance is still open to motorists. The change was made to avoid congestion in front of the Hospital. Besides the work done on the road the trees and shrubbery were removed and the appearance of the spot is greatly improved.

The unveiling was done by Mr. Rinfret who in his remarks, paid tribute to the veteran statesman.

EXECUTE PRIEST AFTER COMBATS

Mexican Government Announces Details Of Conflict With Rebels

Mexico City, Sept. 29.—Thirty-four rebellious "Cristo" soldiers were executed, a Catholic priest, Father Sedano, was captured and summarily court-martialled and executed after two brisk combats with Federal troops in the State of Jalisco, according to a bulletin issued by the Presidential Bureau here today.

One corporal and two soldiers were killed and one officer and nine soldiers wounded.

The report of the affrays was received from Military Commandant Ferreira.

The first fight took place at Los Memulles, where 38 rebels headed by Sedano and another clhirchman named Plasencia were surrounded. This fight lasted four hours, and 14 rebels were killed and 24 captured and executed. The others fled, Sedano being taken by the troops, and later shot.

The second engagement lasted three hours, after 250 rebels, commanded by Maeta Hernan, Francisco Loza, Francisco Zaragoza and Jesus Munez, attacked Federal troops under Col. Ortis Sevilla at Portezuelo. The rebels were dispersed and fled to the mountains, abandoning 18 dead and many wounded.

LIGHTNING STRUCK BARN CAUSING FIRE

Owen Sound, Sept. 29.—William McNally's barn in Sydenham Township, his entire crop of hay and grain, and considerable stock and a new threshing machine, were all destroyed by fire last night, during a particularly fierce electrical storm which struck this district. Loss is estimated at between twelve and fifteen thousand dollars, partly insured.

SAFETY ON HIGHWAYS OCCUPIED GOOD ROADS CONVENTION TODAY

Final Solution Of Grade Crossing Question Is Grade Separation

RESOLUTIONS PASSED

Hon. Percy C. Black Of Nova Scotia Is The New President

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 29.—Safety on the highways was practically the only subject discussed at the Canadian Good Roads Association convention here today. Col. P. Masson, Vice president of the Royal Automobile Club of Canada, strongly urged the appointment of a commission in every province with the necessary authority to investigate accidents on public high ways.

"When the cause has been found, a remedy can be applied," he said. "Such commissions would gather statistics and all commissions should meet periodically. The grade crossing menace is growing," Col. Masson declared, "and the only ultimate remedy is grade separation."

J. A. Regin, Controller of Provincial Revenue of Quebec, urged a "regular periodical examination of important parts of automobiles and also urged that no drivers be given permits until they have passed strict tests under complex conditions."

Hugh Lumsden, Wentworth, County engineer, recommended "letting signs" instead of "keeping signs" on the busy motor traffic. The convention closed this afternoon, delegates were guests at inspection of the New Welland Canal.

Finish Today

Niagara Falls, Ont., Sept. 30.—The convention of the Canadian Good Roads Association will conclude today. Resolutions dealing principle to be dealt with are traffic regulation; and law enforcement, with an expression of the foremost thought in the country on accident prevention.

The epidemic of fatling against reckless motorists is anticipated, since the resolutions adopted by those among the delegates is that accidents with their awful toll of deaths can and must be prevented. Strong resolutions will probably be adopted with a view to making strong drivers more comfortable to existing laws and regulations and the enforcement of such other laws as may be deemed necessary.

CHINESE SISTERS TO WED RIVALS?

Chen, Though Claims He Is Not Yet Married To Sim's Widow

Moscow, Russia, Sept. 29.—Reports that Eugene Chen who was Foreign Minister of the so-called National Regime at Hankow, has married Madame Sun Yat Sen, widow of the founder of the Nationalist movement were denied by Chen himself here today. Chen said that he is travelling with his two daughters while Madame Sun Yat Sen is resting in the Caucasus.

New York, Sept. 29.—Love laugns not only at locksmiths, but in Nationalist, China, it even smiles at the face of political enmity. Two charming sisters of the house of Soong have affected for their husbands men who have been prominent in rival sections of the Nationalist movement. Miss Meiling Soong, petite Wellesley graduate, modestly informed her social friends over the teacups in Shanghai a few days ago that she loved the great general Chiang Kai Shek and that they would wed, provided her family gave the consent required by tradition.

Now Meiling's sister, Madame Sun Yat Sen, widow of the founder of the Nationalist movement, is reported to have become the bride in Moscow of Eugene Chen who was much in the news a few months ago as Foreign Minister of the old Nationalist regime at Hankow. Should Meiling's attachment for Chiang Kai Shek have such a happy friction, the sisters will be the wives of men who have been political enemies for some years. Chiang Kai Shek the modrate Nationalists in their break with the Hankow regime, and Chen, it said never to have forgiven him.

MAKING HOLES IN THEIR PROFITS FROM THE FIGHT

New York, Sept. 29.—The services of Jack Dempsey to the tune of $1,000,000 over the ninety days period. Dempsey has given Flynn a cheque for that amount under a blank contract in which the Manass Mauler was allowed to stipulate the sum at the expiration of the agreement. Flynn said at the outset he was willing to accept what Dempsey considered he was worth.

Next to O'Flynn's, the biggest cheque received by Dempsey was that of Jerry Luvadis known as "Jerry the Greek" for the fight. Luvadis' share was $75,000 revaled it is understood to be $25,000.

Definite information regarding the payment by Tunney for services of his manager, Bill Gibson, was lacking, but it was estimated at one hundred to two hundred and fifty thousand dollars. Leo Flnk, the champion's trainer, was scheduled to receive a bonus of twenty thousand. Bill McCabe and Eddie Eagan, two of Tunney's close friends, also were to share in the titleholder's Chicago purse of one million dollars.

DIED FROM BLOW WITH A SHOVEL

Barrie, Ont., Sept. 29.—Samuel Dennis, 61-year-old stationary engineer, died at the hospital here today as the result of injuries he had suffered a fractured skull from a blow alleged to have been inflicted by a shovel in the hands of Andrew Bonfast, 31, fireman, during a quarrel, at the mill plant at Cookstight, yesterday Both men were employed by the same firm and the altercation arose over some matter of their work.

Moffatt is in custody on a charge of manslaughter pending the result of death and it is probable that he will face a more serious charge in view of the fatal results of the injuries of the inquest has not yet been fixed.

TODAY'S THOUGHT

A fragile thing is beauty. For an hour.
The wine-glow crowns the peak, the perfect flower
Swings valiant in the sun, the golden thrust
Of song is shaken with its golden note;
Then wing by migrant wing, and rose by rose,
The mortal loveliness of summer goes;
And Dusk drinks up the splendor and the dream.

NO MORE A PEST

Some years ago, the newspapers brought tales of serious depredation of rabbits in Australia. So ruthless were they multiplying they constituted a menace to the crops and gardens of the entire continent. Then followed stories of great rabbit drives in Gladstone, Texas and other states in the Southwest. Still later ranchers and gardeners in densely populated areas complained of the depredations of the hare.

Suddenly there came an end to these news dispatches and the readers supposed rabbit hordes had been decimated to the point of innocuousness. The rabbit was no longer the subject for complaint because two highly profitable markets had been found for it. They are now being shot for profit, instead of for protection.

Australian rabbit flesh furnishes the principal ingredient of at least 25 per cent. of the "bonded" meat which delights the German palate and finds a ready market in other countries in Europe where meat is something of a luxury.

Moreover the rabbit skin is a very important adjunct of the fur business. In fact, without the skins in which Baby Bunting was wrapped there would be a regular debacle in the fur trade. So when the rabbit pelt becomes a fur coat or the fur trimming of a cloth coat it is known by another name.

On the fur market and in the fashionable shop and bargain basement rabbit fur has more allures than an international check artist. A few of them are Australian seal, Baltic fox, squirrel, electric beaver, electric mole, meadow ermine, sealette, coney, Baltic black fox and even Baltic lion.

The furrier can do more with a rabbit pelt than the famous cook who could make every known meat out of the carcass of one small pig.

THE UNEMPLOYED

The bank bulletins issued at this time of the year are taking cognizance of the situation as it is created by unemployment. Referring to workers in general, the Canadian Bank of Commerce, for example, observes that "the majority have been occupied in securing the greatest possible quantities of food, timber and minerals at the most productive period of the year." This implies that there is a relatively unproductive period, and that, unavoidably and inevitably, a certain number of workers will find themselves out of employment later on; and this is one of our constant social and economic problems. Cold weather always puts an end to certain classes of open-air work, and, while other forms of employment arise which are peculiar to the winter season, the net result is an unsettled situation for several months. This would be a serious business, if it did not happen that a considerable number of improvident and shiftless workers gravitate toward the centres of population and sometimes become a care to social organizations.

While there has been a gradual improvement going on in the situation as to seasonal employment, the obstacles in the way of a complete and satisfactory solution of the problem as a whole are more or less obvious. The workers who come within the sweep of the movement are for the most part unskilled. While they earn fair wages, only persistent frugality and self-denial make it possible for them to accumulate a surplus sufficient to tide them over the months of severe weather. Not all of them look ahead in that way, and it is men of that type who create the unemployment situation, of our winter season. The burden of that situation falls acutely on the cities. It is aggravated by the fact that the smaller municipalities have found it convenient, in cases of dire need, to pay the way of the needy to one of the larger communities. That has come to be an established practice. Happily, however, the generosity of the well-to-do has usually prevented anything in the nature of real suffering. At the same time, it is highly desirable that a corrective should be found in the shape of a plan which would widen the scope of available work during the colder months; and that means co-ordination among all the agencies looking ahead. Up to this moment there has been very little in the nature of definite planning, chiefly because it has not been anybody's business in particular to set the necessary machinery in motion. As has just been said, the situation is much less acute than it was at one time, but there is still room for improvement.

THE EDITOR SAYS

An evening paper concludes their account of an interview with a distinguished visitor like this:

"This finished the interview, the writer continuing on his way filled with a real respect for the scholarly attainments and the cultured politeness of this scholar, who still possesses something that many moderns have lost—a poise of quiet reserve."

Apparently the reporter was rather dazed by meeting an educated man.

Traffic officers are issuing warrants now for glaring head-lights. It does not pay to let one's light shine too brightly it seems—but one would get into still more trouble if it is hidden altogether.

For two days Belleville had no police court as to keep Magistrate Mikel in form they had him over to Picton to-day on a real case. It does not pay to keep a good man idle.

WILD GEESE

Tonight wild geese cry over the farm;
Through midnight-misting airs they are southward flying,
And restless sleepers toss in the night
And in their hearts is something crying.

The dead leaves drift from lofty trees
Above the gables, softly falling
Upon the shingles with no wind
To lift them where the geese are calling.

The farm boy, sick of corn-row walks,
Who planned to run away to sea,
Then found his roots too deep in soil,
Mumbles and tosses restlessly.

His sister, in her room where boughs
Against the gable panes have pressed
Sits up in bed, with flowing hair
Flung over longings at her breast.

The old ones of the farmhouse sleep,
So weary that the night's wild mood
Is like dead leaves in restless sounds
Upon a roof's grim fortitude.

THE PASSING YEARS

(From The Intelligencer of this date 50 years ago)

Mr. D. Harbager, who so successfully taught the First Aid Class stine Y. M. C. A. last winter received a letter from W. F. Ames, M. D. Secretary of Oregon State Medical Society, seeking information as to the best way of presenting the subject to the students.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

The suggestion, said to emanate from the Chairman of the Liquor Control Board, that drunken motor drivers would have their liquor permits cancelled is as sensible a proposal as yet made from the Board.

If the motorists prize this thing that gives him special privileges he might have the sense to observe the rules and regulations which permit him to keep it. If he prefers to drive without respect to the road regulations made and provided, then his permit to drive a car should also be cancelled, but how many motorists are ever stopped and asked to display their operating permit?

However, the suggestion of Mr. Hanna would be one of the helps towards effecting some measures of reform among those who are too apt to forget the rights of others.—Guelph Mercury.

SULPHUR WILL QUICKLY CLEAR PIMPLY SKIN

Any breaking out of the skin on face, neck, arms of body is overcome quickest by applying Mentho-Sulphur. The pimples seem to dry right up and go away, declares a noted skin specialist.

Nothing has ever been found to take the place of sulphur as a pimple remover. It is harmless and inexpensive. Just ask any druggist for a small jar of Rowles Mentho-Sulphur.

SAGE TEA KEEPS YOUR HAIR DARK

Gray hair, however handsome, denotes advancing age. We all know the advantages of a youthful appearance. Your hair is your charm. It makes or mars the face. When it fades, turns gray and looks streaked, just a few applications of Sage Tea and Sulphur enhances its appearance a hundred-fold.

Don't stay gray! Look young! Bring back your former self. Just get from any drug store a bottle of "Wyeth's Sage and Sulphur Compound," for only 75 cents. This is merely the old-time recipe improved by the addition of other ingredients. Thousands of fairs' reconstructed this ready-to-use preparation, because it darkens the hair beautifully, besides, no one can possibly tell, as it darkens so naturally and evenly. You moisten a sponge or soft brush with it drawing this through the hair, taking one small strand at a time. By morning the gray hair disappears: after another application or two, its natural color is restored and it becomes thick, glossy and lustrous, and you appear years younger.

Fly-Tox Now Used In Ninety Six Foreign Countries

People throughout the world have welcomed Fly-Tox to relieve the danger and torment from insects. It kills the damaging "silver fish" of the South Sea Islands; the treacherous tsetse fly that causes sleeping sickness in Africa; and the devastating bubonic flea of India. In nearly every civilized country Fly-Tox is in use, protecting mankind from the ravages of insects. Fly-Tox is safe, stainless, fragrant, sure—Advt.

Things that are easy to do are seldom worth the effort.

MAKING GOOD PROGRESS.

The work on the Bank of Montreal addition is progressing rapidly, according to Mr. G. C. Wyer, local manager, and will be completed in a comparatively short time, now.

SMALL MARKET.

Today's market was a scanty one, very few rigs being parked in the old market square. Tomatoes sold for 25 cents a peck as did onions and apples. Potatoes were 35 cents a peck, corn sold for 15 and 20 cents a dozen and pears retailed at 50c a peck. Crabapples sold for 25 cents a peck, carrots and beets, 10 cents a bunch and melons ranged from 10 to 20 cents each.

REAL VALUES

Belleville Motors have on hand right now a few exceptionally good values in re-conditioned, guaranteed cars. Also clear-out the stock completely before the arrival of the new Fords, these cars are being offered at sturnsive prices for the next few days. See them.

MARRIED BELLEVILLE GIRL

Mr. Stewart Jenks, K.C., who has been appointed a Supreme Court Judge for the Province of Nova Scotia, married a Belleville girl, a Miss Yeomans, nine years ago, immediately after graduating from Acadia University College, where he got his start in life.

GOOD ROADS

Never have the highways in Eastern Ontario been in such good condition as they are this Fall and even greater numbers than in past years will be able to enjoy in comfort the brilliant color effects Mother Nature will soon produce with the changing leaves. One of Belleville Motors, re-conditioned and guaranteed cars will give you an opportunity to inspect Fall's wonderful accomplishments and these cars were never so low as right now.

FINE NEW CAR.

Representative of the last word in automobile construction is the new Chandler Royal Eight Motor Car seen on local streets this week. The car is the property of Col. R. H. Greer of the Trenton Road, and the first Chandler Eight to be purchased in this neighborhood. The Royal Eight made by Chandler has achieved great popularity across the line, and in four larger Canadian centres; this model holds many records in speed and endurance.

NO BAIL ASKED.

Mr. F. L. Ward, of Picton, counsel for R. H. Raynor, has stated to The Intelligencer that no application for bail has been made on behalf of his client. Judge McLean, before whom Raynor appeared on Monday, made no reference to the question of bail and merely committed the accused for trial.

BIG GAME TOMORROW

Tomorrow night's big battle between the Ontario and Bayside should be one of the most interesting sporting events this season. One team is just as desirous as the other to be at it. Things have not been all-quiet too, as far as the two teams agreeing this season, and the feud tomorrow night will be a real firgument all tuff-way. There will be no mercy shown from either camp. The game will start sharp at 8.15, and no doubt one of the largest softball crowds of the season will be on hand. We would advise you to be on hand early to have a good place when the fireworks start.

EVANGELIST COMING

Belleville is to have a unique opportunity. Rev. Tom Sykes, of London, England, will conduct a special Methodist Mission in Belleville from Nov. 13th to 23rd under the auspices of the Bridge Street Church in Belleville. The city is fortunate in being one of the few possible places to benefit by the mission of this distinguished visitor. On Wednesday evening the committee of Management met and organized at the home of Rev. D. C. Ramsay as chairman. Rev. Dr. Ramsay as chairman. Preliminary arrangements for the campaign were discussed and publicity, Finance and Music Committees appointed.

POLICE COURT HAS NEW COAT OF ARMS

A framed copy of the Canadian Armorial Bearings was hung over the Magistrate's chair in the Belleville Police Court today. This is the first time that this badge has ever been hung in the local court room.

Some weeks ago Magistrate Mikel communicated with Thos. Mulvey, Under Secretary of State requesting a copy of the local coat of arms.

It was prepared by the Canadian Heraldic Authority, 1921, and adopted by the Herald's College of London, Eng., in 1923. It bears the signature of Sir Gilbert Parker, "King of Canada" who has charge of all armorial bearings.

PREMIER FERGUSON APPOINTS DIRECTORS

Toronto, Sept. 29.—A. J. Beneteau, French Master at the English-French training school here, has been appointed Director of the French Education branch, Dr. W. J. Karr, of Toronto director of English Education of the Bilingual schools in accordance with proposals made by the commission appointed to investigate the French-English schools in the province.

Premier Ferguson announced the appointments today. Mr. Beneteau and Dr. Karr will confer with the Minister of Education under the proposed supervision under the proposed scheme.

GIRL VICTIM

August, and she was just nineteen last month. She went to school in Perth and matriculated when she was seventeen years of age. As soon as she became old enough she identified herself with the Picton Methodist Church, later the Picton United Church.

Miss Houck said that the Rev. Mellor came to Perth about five or six years ago. She was associated with the Canadian Girls in Training and the Girl Guides, in which organizations Mellor interested himself. At first, Bertha claimed, the Rev. Mellor did not show any more attention than he did other girls. After a few months, however, he became friendly with her, but she considered him only as a "chum." Later he became more than a chum, as far as she believed, and went before press-time.

Not Many Present

Few spectators were curious enough to attend the hearing, and only the regular court hangers-on were present.

Bertha Houck is a little blonde girl and decidedly pretty. At the trial today she wore a blue hat and a navy blue coat.

TORONTO LADIES IN THE FINALS

Miss MacKenzie And Mrs. Whittington Play-Off Tomorrow

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Miss Ada MacKenzie, title holder, and Mrs. E. W. Whittington, both of Toronto, will meet in the final Canadian Ladies' golf club championship tomorrow. Miss MacKenzie defeated Miss Hinton Paget, of Quebec seven and six in one semi-final today, while in the other, Mrs. Whittington defeated Miss Ella Ross, Ottawa, three and one. Miss MacKenzie has been finalist four times in the last seven of the championships.

Today's semi-finals were eighteen holes each. Miss MacKenzie made the turn four up, while Mrs. Whittington, having a harder struggle extended her two hole lead at the halfway mark, by only one more hole. Miss Paget was the third former champion defeated by Miss MacKenzie in as many days. The match was close up to seventh when Miss MacKenzie broke loose and took the next six, ending the match on the twelfth green.

PLANE TAKES MAIL TO OCEAN LINER

Quebec, Sept. 29.—The Canadian Airways machine operated by Captain Mulcahy made another successful air mail voyage from Montreal to Father Point yesterday afternoon. The hydroplane left the metropolis with Western mail at 9.1 o'clock and last evening the mail bags were boarded on board the Empress of Scotland at Father Point.

The same hydroplane will return on Sunday with mail taken from a Canadian Pacific steamship liner at Rimouski to make connections in Montreal early next week. The experiment was made this fall under the direction of Captain Harry Quigley and the direct supervision of Panner Cunningham, superintendent of the Quebec division, have proved so advantageous that it is expected that the service will be operated during the remainder of the season and resumed next spring.

RUM-RUNNER RUNS INTO REAL TROUBLE

Port Colborne, Ont., Sept. 29.—Her rudder bounding off the water, the motor boat "Scout" loaded with Canadian Ale for Buffalo, was brought into Port Colborne Bridge Tuesday and for some hours the crew of four men were in a pitiable condition. Two of them were taken off by rescuers during the evening, but the remaining three were forced to spend the night in the open boat being taken off yesterday. The cargo was transferred to another craft, examination showing the Scout's export papers as being in order.

FIREMEN'S ASSOC. TO FIGHT OFF-DAY LAW

Kingston, Sept. 29.—At a meeting of the Fire and Light Committee today it was intimated that the Ontario Fire Fighters' Association would be sent to case in Kingston to prove the validity of the legislation recently enacted in this Province allowing each member of a fireman must receive one day in seven off duty with pay.

It is estimated here that it would cost $5,000 a year additional to make the legislation effective in this city, and as money was not provided in the budget for this extraordinary item, the council is seeking some method of carrying on the fire department as at present, constituted until the end of the year.

TODAYS MARKETS

Wheat and Corn Drop

Chicago, Sept. 29.—Slight knocked-for setbacks in Liverpool quotations together with Australia naid Argentina reports of rain, gave an early downward trend today to the wheat market here. Corn also displayed weakness not withstanding persistent unwelcome moisture over the corn belt, but then sagged lower than wheat. Opening 1-4 to 5-8c off, wheat rallied Corn started at 1-8c decline to 1-8c advance and subsequently underwent material drop. Oats were easier. Provisions likewise declined.

FOREIGN EXCHANGE

New York, N.Y., Sept. 29.—Foreign exchange steady, demand cable 60 cents Great Britain 4.86 3-16 Canadian dollars 9-64 of 1 per cent premium.

Banks Call Loans

New York, Sept. 29.—Extremely nervous trading characterized today's stock market which witnessed frequent shifts in speculative sentiment. Efforts of bear traders to bring about further reaction in the industrial materials disclosed good support but on the other hand the resumption of bullish operations in the rails and recent strong spots encountered large offerings.

Banks called about $10,000,000 in loans following the marking up of the discount rate to four percent. Special buying of the Van Swering Rails, particularly the Erie issues and subsequent rise in Baltimore & Ohio spread attention. Texas and Pacific and Pittsburgh and Western Virginia exhibited good gains.

SAFETY

President of the association, Hon. George S. Henry again referred to the primary importance of saving human life, and declared that if the association did nothing more than successfully advocate "safety first" measures its existence would be more than justified in the eyes of the people.

To Aid Safety

At the annual general meeting of the Canadian Good Roads Association which followed the ordinary business of the convention yesterday, a resolution was adopted unanimously in support of every effort of individuals, associations or Governments to aid in the safety of the highways. The Executive Committee was instructed to consider ways conditions with the view to assisting governing bodies to solve "this most serious of modern problems and obtain concerted action therefor."

Another resolution the association approved, as far as possible, the use of uniform highway danger and direction signs throughout Canada and further decided to impress upon responsible bodies in all the Provinces the desirability of signing all towns, lakes, streams and historical places in an attractive manner in the belief that it would greatly increase the safety and interest of highway travel.

Wasa Federal Aid

The association, by a further resolution, reaffirmed its belief in Federal aid to highways and requested that such aid be granted on the various Provinces at the earliest possible moment. It was also decided to make references to the very marked benefit accruing to Canada as a whole, because of the large investments in highway construction and maintenance by the various municipal and provincial bodies, and to the fact that the Federal Government had, during the last ten years, spent over $175,000,000, which could be directly or indirectly traceable to highways.

The meeting place for the next convention will be decided by the Executive Committee from invitations various cities have been received.

Hon. Percy C. Black, Minister of Highways for Nova Scotia, was elected President of the association.

Acknowledging the unanimous election, Mr. Black said he regarded it as an honor to Nova Scotia. He expressed his intention of endeavoring to make the work of the association even more effective than in the past.

Obligation And Love In Eternal Conflict

By ELSIE MARLOWE

"Yes, I know he's poor," thrills Lorna, starry-eyed, with the sweet, glimmery wonder of love's young dream, "and we'd have to work and save and shrimp ever so hard. But what does that matter as long as we're together? I can go on working. We'll manage. Love's the only thing that counts."

But poor mama cries out bitterly that Lorna is wrong. There are no starry in mama's eyes. Sickness has spread a film over them. She is blind. And age and suffering have spread a film of bitterness over her heart.

"Don't be a ninny," says mama. "When poverty sits on the doorstep love scoots out of the window. Wait for a man with money. Money is the only thing that's worth while. This youngster doesn't love you, anyway. No man really loves a girl if he'll let her work after marriage."

But Lorna won't accept mama's cynicism. Listen while she pleads her cause.

DEAR ELSIE:

I am in love with a fine boy, and he with me. He earns very little, and so do I. We have just $180 between us. We both give all of our money at home. My fiancee wants to wait until he has saved up for a beginning. He won't have his job and get a better one, for he can't stop work to look. His family depend on him for a living. But, Elsie, neither one of us can save money as we are now living. I propose that we get married now and save and work together.

My mother thinks this is wrong. She thinks a man shouldn't marry a girl he can't support. Mother never worked a day after marriage. She says it's terrible to get up in the morning and have to rush off to work like a man. She thinks this working shoulder to shoulder with a man is a lot of applesauce. She says if my fiance loved me he wouldn't want me to work—that she love begins to be had for me is all a sham.

Mother has had a serious illness and dad claims I should be happy to be at home with her. She is blind now. I have a sister who takes care of the house, so you see I'm really not needed at home Elsie, will I be doing a great wrong if I marry this boy?

LORNA.

Would you be doing a great wrong to marry?

No; you'd be doing the RIGHTEST thing that any healthy girl of twenty-one can do. Nature meant that you should be mother, wife and mother and that is your highest duty as well as your sweetest pleasure.

But don't forget your obligation to the old home in your longing to enter the new. You should not sacrifice your life for your parents, but you should carry your honorable responsibilities. That blind mother—she almost gave her life for yours once. What do you owe her now? Can dad afford to hire someone to give her tender care? If not you should help.

"But my sister is doing that," you say.

Your sister can't pay your debt, pal. She has as much right to freedom and happiness as you have. You must do your share as well as your sister and brother. If you all help, it will make love you for each other. And when you do marry, marry for love. Don't bargain your heart away, as if it were a piece of merchandise.

Work with him by all means. Mother is wrong in her attitude toward working wives. Thousands of young women are working shoulder to shoulder with their husbands and no wives are better loved.

But whether you should marry this particular boy—that's another question. Can two people live on $180 a month? They can. Thousands of them are doing it successfully. But that success is built on something besides romance. It's built on pep and patience and perseverance, unselfishness, loyalty, endurance, tenderness and a sense of humor.

Have you and your boy these qualities? If you have you can succeed in marriage, whatever the income. If you haven't, you wouldn't be happy on a million a month.

"But how shall I know if we have these qualities?" asks Lorna.

By watching how you treat your family now. Six months after you're married, when the first shiny glamour has passed, you'll no longer be mysterious to each other. You'll just be "regular relations." And you'll react toward each other and toward life as you react now in your own home with your family.

WOMAN COULD HARDLY WALK

Mrs. Horn Tells how Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Restored Her Health

Hamilton, Ont.—"I have taken Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound and would not be without it. When I had a female trouble so badly I could hardly walk and I was all run down and could hardly get around to do my housework. I would be in bed three or four days at a time. I was told by a friend to try your Vegetable Compound. I did, and by the time I took two bottles I was beginning to get around again. I took ten bottles in all, and now I am all right again and doing my own work. I have set grown-ups to work for me and have plenty to do. I also used Lydia E. Pinkham's Sanative Wash, and think it is good. But I owe my health to the Vegetable Compound, and I think if more of it was used women would be better off. I would not be without it if it cost much more."—Mrs. Neale J. Jackson, 206 East Cannon Street, Hamilton, Ontario.

If you feel broken down, nervous and weak sometimes? Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is excellent to take at such a time. It always helps, and if taken regularly and persistently, will relieve this condition.

JEALOUS HEARTS

By MILDRED BARBOUR

CHAPTER 5

WOMAN DISPOSES

Tony listened incredulously to Elinor's cool, mocking words: "You've got to marry Millicent, dear."

Then he said stiffly:

"I don't have to marry any one. I say you to be my wife—I have loved you ever since we were children. You know that."

"But Uncle Dan's will——"

"That had nothing to do with it. I already had proposed to you twice and had been refused twice—before your uncle even thought of dying."

Her slim hand ruffled the grass beneath the oak, and she smiled demurely at her own thoughts.

"Then this proposal today—"

"This proposal today came from my heart—like the others," he declared hotly. "I'll admit that I believed I had a ghost of a chance after my father told me the conditions of the will."

She lifted her eyes to his,her delicate dark brows raised in amusement.

"You thought I was mercenary enough to marry you, rather than face poverty?"

He flushed helplessly.

"Not mercenary, Elinor. But—but what could life mean to you without luxury?"

"Everything!" she told him coolly.

"But, you've never known anything but wealth," he persisted. "You were only five, when your uncle adopted you and brought you here to live. And as far as I know," both your parents and hers were wealthy, too, so you were born to riches."

She shook her head.

"No, you're wrong there. Millicent and I are cousins, but we both come from the black sheep branches of the family. Millicent's father gambled away his inheritance and then blew out his brains. The shock killed her mother. My dad had a wonderful voice. I inherit it. He had a career before him, but it went smash, for he couldn't let drink alone. After my mother died, it was worse. He finally was killed in a railway wreck. So there is the history of our families, Millicent's and mine, as it's been related to us. Not so good, eh, Tony? You oughtn't to want us in the family!"

"I love you," he said staunchly.

"But you're going to marry Millicent," she informed him again.

"Good Heavens, Elinor, why do you keep harping on the impossible?" he demanded impatiently. "I don't love Millicent, except as I love a child. Good playmate. Why on earth should I marry her?"

"Because she needs you—and I don't!"

He stared a her uncomprehendingly.

"Listen." She suddenly cast aside all coquetry. The mocking light disappeared from her eyes. With her number, shadowed eyes, her unsmiling mouth, she was a different Elinor. "Listen to me, Tony. Everybody's say ing Uncle Dan was a bit mad when he made a will that gives the bulk of his estate to the one you marry and cuts the other out with a mere pittance. But he wasn't, Tony. Uncle Dan was as clever as they come. He knew just what he was doing—and how it would work out. Maybe he took a sardonic pleasure in being the deus ex machina—maybe he found it amusing to have one last whack at us from the grave—he was like that—but he knew it.

"Knew what?" asked Tony sullenly. "That I loved you? And that I hadn't a chance? And that maybe you'd take me for the sake of the money?"

She smiled inscrutably.

"Perhaps. And he knew also that Millicent—she broke off suddenly. She had been about to say "that Millicent's love was genuine," but she substituted: "that Millicent isn't able to take care of herself as I am. Millicent's a darling—as sweet and loving and generous and happy. I'm none of those things—thank Heaven. They're qualities that would stifle me. I'm a gypsy—a wanderer, like my dad. And I'm fickle, too." She head lifted proudly. "I can sing! You know it, Tony. Even the great Lazowski told Uncle Dad that, when we were in New York. I need more training, of course, and I'm going to get it. After that, I'll set the world alire. You'll see!"

For an instant there was something in Elinor's eyes that recalled to Tony the picture of Saint Joan seeing visions of heaven. She had forgotten Tony, the time and place, the tragic undercurrent—

"Do you mind telling me what all this has to do with your ridiculous contention that I must marry Millicent, of whom I'm intensely fond, but not at all after the manner of a sweetheart?" asked Tony politely, as he lit a cigarette.

Reluctantly, Elinor came back from visions of herself in the center of a stage, with the world at her feet, singing to an audience that was mad with rapture and enthusiasm.

WHAT'S NEW

(From a Woman's Standpoint)

Newest material is a refined kasha, which is being shown under the name of kashatulla.

Taking their color note from the autumn leaves, the smartest costumes for the early winter are beige or brown, and there are whole costumes of beige, coat, hat, hose, shoes, bag and gloves, often accompanied by beige pointed fox scarves, while nut brown is particularly good now, and a charming shade is a combination of the tints—the gold of the popular leaf and the deep brown of the oak.

There is a vogue for circular flounce posed low, and frequently the tunic theme with a flounce similarly treated below the slim three-quarter length of the tunic is observed, but on the whole, however, the flared skirts are posed diagonally and brought in a number of instances to the hip.

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

When I was fifteen I married because noih my parents were dead and I was alone. I have a boy six years old, and have been divorced from my first husband four years. Recently I met a man whom I thought I loved, and we were married. We were happy for a few weeks. And then I found that he would not let me have my boy with me. He says he won't be a stepfather, and that he hates all children.

My first husband's mother has my baby. I am so miserable and lonely that I often wish I were dead.

My husband has changed, too. He has not taken me to any place since two months after we were married. He has a good job and I have nice clothes, and he says I ought to be satisfied with these things. But I am so lonely for the companionship and love of my little boy.

Can't you tell me what to do? I believe I hate my husband. He says he loves me. If he does love me why does he mistreat and prevent me from having my child?

I am desperate. I am only twenty-three. Must I spend the best part of my life with a husband I don't love?

LEE C.

LEE C.: I can appreciate the difficulty of your situation. And your crav ing to have your child with you is entirely natural and right. The woman who does not want her child with her is an unnatural mother.

It is very obvious that your duty is to have the child. Discuss the matter once more with your husband. Point out to him that it is your right to have your little son with you. Explain to him that you owe it to the child to give him the care and attention that he needs.

It is unfair and cruel for him to deprive your boy of a mother's love and care. Its tell your husband that you intend to have your child with you and make arrangements to have him be guided by his advice. Your husband should have realized when he married you that he assumed part responsibility of your child also. Consider this matter very carefully, and realize that if your husband should leave you, you will have to provide for your child as well as yourself. This last step may not be necessary, as I can inclined to think that you could actually bring your husband around to your point of view.

SPIRIT THEORIES ARE DISCUSSED

Psychic Congress At Paris Hears Champions Of Both Sides

WEIRD DATA

Study Strange Case Of Stigmata Woman At Closing Meeting

Paris, September 29.—At yesterday's meetings of the third International Congress of Psychical Research, Walter Franklin Prince of Boston, the "Doubting Thomas" of psychical mediums, divided the floor with champions of the two outstanding mediums of the day. Dr. Prince, who outside the conference room explained to newspaper correspondents that he had nothing to say regarding the psychical medium, confined his lecture to the mental side of spiritualism. Dr. Joseph Roehm of Norremburg on the other hand related in detail the case of Theresa Neumann's stigmata, and Dr. Walter Kroner of Charlottenburg, talked of Eleonora Zugun, known as "Poltergist," of unruly ghost. Dr. Roehm at the closing meeting of the congress will present a resolution calling for the appointment of an international committee to study Theresa's case.

Couple Troubling

Dr. Prince's paper was refreshing for its uninitiated, as it dealt with the couple. He presented data on two cases of spirit obsession he had cured. He gave his explanation of the cure and left it for other people to accept or reject it. The first case concerned a so-called Mrs. Latimer, who was troubled by a spirit voice, believed to be that of a dead cousin. Dr. Prince said he took the case as a pure experiment and, going on the hypothesis that it was a real spirit that was troubling the woman, he had a real man-to-man talk with it, leaving it for the hypnobitical spirit to respond.

He gave the spirit a good argument, why it should go its own way and mind its own business. At later sittings he put the woman to sleep and lectured the spirit, receiving replies by automatic writing. The spirit gradually ceased troubling Mrs. Latimer, whom Dr. Prince forbade to answer. At the final sittings the spirit explained when he died he was filled with resentment against Mrs. Latimer, which would have passed had death come at a particular moment. Since death it was surrounded by other spirits who egged it on. Since hearing the words of Dr. Prince resentment gradually died and henceforth it would go its way and be have.

Professional Jealousy

The so-called cure prescribed by Dr. Prince conferred a man, named for the occasion Terrill, who was prominent in a certain professional association. This man came to him telling that he was troubled by a spirit voice and automatic writing, and asked Dr. Prince if he was going to the "bug house." In this case Dr. Prince followed the tactics which had succeeded with Mrs. Latimer. The spirit, which responded by automatic writing, said it was a niece of Terrill's and frankly because Terrill was pursued by the spirit of a former professional rival of her uncle's. Dr. Prince consoled the jealous spirit, and Terrill wrote "What the Hell do you want." Dr. Prince pointed out the errors of his ways and bade him leave. Terrill during seances several times manifested the most abject terror, but was never able on waking to remember what frightened him. Due to treatments the spirit manifestations gradually ceased and finally disappeared leaving Terrill in a normal condition.

Dr. Prince, summing up, said that the experiments led him to believe it was easier to ascribe certain phenomena to spirit beings than any other source. While carefully withholding from saying he believed in spirits, Dr. Prince declared it would be no more unreasonable for life to exist in spirit form than for us, existing in physical form to communicate with them.

Captings Out Devils

When quizzed the conference hall that Dr. Prince was asked if he had done might not be described as "casting out of devils" he said he thought there was most probably some basic relation.

The performances of a medium who was able not only to displace objects, but also to displace himself without visible means of locomotion, were cited yesterday before the Congress by Dr. von Schrenck Notzing, of Munich.

This medium, named Willy Swoidonym Karl Weiser, related himself in the air without wings 25 times during June, July and August, 1924, according to Dr. Notzing. His position was generally horizontal, and he remained in the air at the height of four feet six inches for about 25 seconds, the doctor declared. On one occasion, this medium was said to have floated four feet from the point where he rose into the air.

Other phenomena recited before the Congress were a thinking doe in Poland which is promised to be brought to the Congress by aeroplane, and Theresa Neumann, a blind girl of Kanners-reuth, Germany, who recovered her sight suddenly in 1924 after a period of intence religious devotion. She was said to have since lived without drinking or eating, and to shed tears of blood every Friday, while red spots appear at the same time on her sides, the palms of her hands and her feet.

In front of any Loblaw Store at the busy hour, you'll find them—the little red wagon and the big, shiny limousine, each waiting to carry home what its mistress has selected at her leisure. Each customer helps themselves to what they want, free from suggestion or persuasion. One of the reasons for Loblaw's great popularity is 'freedom from "just as good suggestions." Each customer makes his or her own selection. On this basis Loblaw's have thrived and grown, and will continue to thrive and grow, for it recognizes that folks are just folks and always will be.

ONE OF THE MOST INTERESTING FOOD PRODUCTS SHOWN AT THIS YEAR'S CANADIAN NATIONAL EXHIBITION WAS—

RED RIVER CEREAL

Our consulting Dietician has pronounced this one of the most scientific blends of cereals.

A MOST NOURISHING FOOD—With its vital body-building, easily-digested nutriments, each spoonful is a spoonful of health, having tissue-building proteins, bone making mineral salts, brain, the natural regulator, flax, nature's mild laxative, healthful vitamines, and even the little golden hearts of the grain with their energy-giving carbohydrates—all are retained from the choicest kernels of Canada's finest grain fields.

We recommend this cereal to our customers—thoroughly convinced of its merits. This week every Loblaw window carries a display of Red River Cereal—each package makes 325 servings—includes a package in your grocery requirements.

Newsy Neighborhood Notes

MADE 40 FEET

Lobkaws, Sept. 29.—Bloor street east of Ritson road, has been made a 40-foot highway during the past few weeks, with a grade that meets the most exacting traffic conditions. Ald. Hart, chairman of the Board of Works, announced today. This section of Bloor street last year was one of the city's most vexing problems as it formed a sort of causeway through lowground 12 to 15 feet deep on either side of a 12 foot roadway. The hill there has been cut down and the section filled in.

Citizens that use Bloor street east declare that the Board of Works deserves great credit for a fine bit of engineering work which has solved a real problem.

The section concerned was, in winter, entirely dangerous particularly so during ice conditions when a car that happened to get into a side area almost sure to end up in a wreck over her side of the small precipices which bordered the road.

WILL FORM CLUB

Peterboro, Sept. 29.—Formation of a Peterborough Air Club, the first to qualify for the two light airplanes promised by the Dominion Government, to all approved organizations, is foreshadowed by the announcement of a meeting to be held next Tuesday, October 4, at 7.30 in the ante-room of the Chamber of Commerce in order to establish an institution on a recognized basis. The Mayor and members of the City Council have been invited and are expected to attend.

IS ASHORE

Kingston, Sept. 29.— The ocean steamer Dewatone, grain laden, on her way to Montreal, is ashore at Point Traverse, Prince Edward County, and is reported to be in an exposed condition.

The Donnelly Wrecking and Salvage Company was asked to send assistance and the tug Donnelly and the lighter Cobourg cleared for Point Traverse early on Wednesday morning.

WANT SUBWAY

Oshawa, Sept. 29.—Public opinion in Oshawa is rendering an almost unanimous construction of a subway under the C.N.R. tracks at Simcoe street south. Oshawa leaders of industrial, business and professional life have signed the petition being circulated in the city, and beginning today the lists are being sent out through the great industrial plants of Oshawa with a view to obtaining the name of every citizen who wants to add his name to the appeal which has a greater Oshawa as its ultimate goal. A. G. Storie, city vice president and general manager of Pilkins, Limited, gave unqualified endorsement to the subway plan when interviewed today.

NOT CLOSE SCHOOLS

Kingston, Sept. 29.—The Whig-Standard has had inquiries from parents regarding the reports of infantile paralysis in some districts at Canada, and after consulting the medical health officer this paper is able to say, for the information of parents that there is no cause for alarm necessitating action, beyond advising parents to observe the general health of their children and avoid delay in consulting their family physician.

Early potato crop in Dorchester district is said to be better than later varieties.

OTHER SEX WANT MEN'S PYJAMAS

New York, Sept. 28. — (By Canadian Press) — Purchase of men's pyjamas by young women has become the last important factor in the pyjama business, according to the statement of manager of a New York night-wear concern. He said that young women were buying men's pyjamas because the garments were ideal for lounging and smoking rooms.

"The feminine demand for men's pyjamas is especially noticeable in towns where young women's colleges are located," the sales manager continued "That trend is the opposite in stores however. The situation has reached the point where manufacturers are advertising men's pyjamas in colors which are especially designed to please women guests. For example, pyjamas are being made in black and white vogue in women's apparel. One model for the fall has a black collar, black facing and a black belt.

GRAIN WAGGONS BUSY

Winnipeg, Sept. 29.—The rattle of grain wagons over the dusty roads of the prairies has become almost continuous and marketing figures are steadily climbing. Tuesday saw the passing of the 2,500,000-bushel mark at points on the Canadian Pacific Railway, when farmers lodged a total of 2,513,034 bushels of grain in the elevators.

A total of 669 cars were routed to the head of the lake terminals, 502 cars being delivered at the waterfront and 961 unloaded. Shipments by rail amounted to 1,700,000 bushels.

The Canadian National reports 1,584,000 bushels of grain marketed Tuesday in the three Prairie Provinces, and 811 cars loaded. Storage in country elevators along the prairies in Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta stand at 3,982,000 bushels.

Both railways forecast harvesting operations to be in full swing all over the west, with ideal weather conditions prevailing.

ARCHBISHOP VERY WEAK

Regina, Sept. 29.—The condition of His Grace Archbishop Mathieu, who has been a patient in the Grey Nuns' Hospital since the 15th of June, is reported this morning to be very weak. No noticeable change, however, has taken place within the past 24 hours.

Throughout Tuesday, His Grace was not left alone and his pulse and temperature rose last night. Not a great deal of importance was attached to this fluctuation in the temperature, however, as it has been fluctuating throughout the past few weeks. A restful day was spent last night and this morning His Grace, though very weak, was much brighter than yesterday.

FIVE HOMES WERE RAVED

Glendale, Calif., Sept. 29.—A suddenly shifting wind yesterday afternoon was believed to have stopped a bush fire, which for a time threatened to become a serious conflagration, with scores of fine homes as fuel in the Sunset Canyon district of the Verdugo Hills.

GUEST AT SPENCER WOOD

Quebec, Sept. 29.—In honor of His Excellency the Apostolic Delegate, Mgr. Cassulo, who is spending a few days here, Lieutenant-Governor Taschereau and Mrs. Spencer Wood last evening. Several archbishops and bishops were present, and also Premier Taschereau and members of his Cabinet.

ADVANCE WAS CHECKED

New York, Sept. 29.—A sudden selling movement, believed to have been inspired by "bear" traders, swept through the stock market in the last hour of trading today, checking a promising advance in the rails and public utilities and sending a number of speculative industrials down two full points below yesterday's final quotations.

News Of Movies

BELLE THEATRE

Hollywood, that strange, mad city where the impossible is forever happening, has not changed.

It is still, from a distance at least, the Never, Never Land. As witness the story of Raymond Keane, who less than a year ago was a clerk in his father's jewelry store in Denver.

Now he is one of the principal players in "April Fool," a special Chadwick production, starring Alexander Carr, which comes to the Belle Theatre, beginning today, and under a five-year contract with another large film organization.

Keane is the discovery of Dmitri Buchowetzki, one of Hollywood's best known foreign directors, who spotted him while he was doing extra work on one of the large sets the Polish film-maker was directing. He was impressed by the clean-cut personality of the youngster—Keane is only nineteen—and the next day made a special effort to ascertain how he screened.

REGENT THEATRE

Nelson McDowell, who is Harry Carey's scout partner in "The Frontier Trail," the spectacular Pathe picture that brings the popular Western star to the Regent Theatre today, is an authority on the subject of character analysis. He modestly calls it his hobby, but has written several books on the subject—"Character Analysis for Screen Success," "Character Analysis at a Glance," "Telltale Acts" and "Success Thoughts."

Mr. McDowell studied medicine, but found the stage more alluring and studied for musical comedy—he had played the cornet in his college band! He played stock in Chicago two years, and, after four years on the lecture platform, went into pictures, where he has been happy in the portrayal of eccentric characters.

OLD STUFF!

GIANTS CLUNG FAST TO LAST PENNANT HOPES

By Beating Phils, Retained Mathematical Chance Of Tying Pirates

Philadelphia, September 29.—Mathematically the Giants kept themselves in the pennant race by spanking the futile Phillies in a ten-inning game yesterday, 4 to 3. For a time it looked as if old John J. Mathematical Chance would take leave for short and long stretch, but the Giants steamed up from behind tied the score in the eighth, went ahead in the ninth, was tied by the Phils in the same round and then won out in the tenth.

So if figures do not lie, the Giants still have a chance to be tied with the Pirates and Cardinals next Monday morning, and while there is life there is hope.

Cy Williams, the leading home-run hitter of the National League added another level to his crown in the ninth inning. Old Cy slapped his 30th of the season over the right field fence with a runner on base and put the Phils two ahead. But in the eighth Alex Ferguson weakened under the strain and the Giants tied the score.

It was still all square when the tenth inning dawned in Baker Bowl and most of the crowd were highly excited. Rogers Hornsby began the tenth stanza by laying a bunt out the third base line. Terry Moore out used Jacques Fournier out, moving Rogers to second. Harper drew a walk and then Devormer arched a terse temper in the form of Hornsby scored with the big run.

To the glory of Hubert Benton, let it be said that the Phils went down fighting. After one had gone out in the tenth, Bond singled to right and was forced by Thompson. Virgil Barnes, who had relieved Benton at the start of the seventh, didn't fan William-hooks and scored a hitch into the smash of Cy's back.

However, with the tying run on second Dutch Henry was rushed forward to pitch to the left-handed Mr. Wright one and succeeded in persuading Russell to fly to Mueller.

ROWING RECOGNIZED BY McGILL HEADS

Montreal, Sept. 28.—Official recognition of the McGill Rowing Club, following their fine victories in the Canadian Henley at St. Catharines, was made by the Athletic Board of McGill University at their meeting held at the McGill Union. First grade colors will now be awarded to members of crews who win two events at either the Henley or in the open events at the Eastern Regatta at Ottawa. First class colors will also be won by the crew breaking a record at either of these meets. The right to win the annual intercollegiate boat race against Varsity will also be awarded first grade colors, the Athletic Board decided.

Here's Speedy Relief For Tender, Aching, Swollen Feet

Moone's Emerald Oil Must Give Complete Satisfaction Or Money Cheerfully Refunded.

Your feet may be so swollen and inflamed that you think you can't get another step. Your shoes may feel as if they are cutting right into the flesh. You feel sick all over with the pain and torture and pray for quick relief. What's to be done?

Two or three applications of Moone's Emerald Oil and in fifteen minutes the pain and soreness disappears. A few more applications at regular intervals and the swelling reduces.

And as for Soft Corns and Callouses a few applications each night at bed time and they just seem to shrivel right up and scale off.

No matter how discouraged you have been with powders, footbaths or other applications, if you have not tried Emerald Oil then you have something to learn.

It's a wonderful formula — this combination of essential oils with camphor and other antiseptics so marvelous that thousands of bottles are sold annually for reducing welcome corns or swollen veins.

Moone's Drug Store, Schryver's Pharmacy, Dolan The Druggist, and every good druggist guarantees the very first bottle of Moone's Emerald Oil to end your foot troubles or money back.

In some of the energy produced by the body used in seeing?

Yes, the amount varies according to the condition of the eyes and the amount of eye work done.

If the eyes are abnormal they demand more than their share of nerve force?

Yes, and that is what causes headaches and other ills.

How can this be prevented?

By having the Optometrist furnish glasses and by wearing them as instructed by him.

The system of awarding colors to winning crews of the rowing club is the same as the rating for awarding laurels to victors in track competitions. Individual championships and record-breaking performances are awarded separately for track and rowing. Rugby men, while in senior rugby and hockey, players who figure in a certain number of intercollegiate contests automatically receive their big "M." The latter method is team-scoring, the former is by individual showing.

WHISKERY WON EASILY AT FIRST WOODBINE MEET

Second Prize Fell To Dactarius, Hutch's Pony

Toronto, Sept. 29.—Harry Payne Whitney's Kentucky Derby winner Whiskery invaded Canada and, successfully carried the light blue and brown colors of the New York sportsman to an easy victory, when he scampered for the historic Stanley Produce Stakes that was contested for the twenty-eighth time at the Woodbine Course of the Ontario Jockey Club yesterday afternoon. This event was the feature for the inauguration of the autumn term of racing at Canada's oldest track, and the number was bedecked by the ushering in of the sport. Whiskery was installed at 1 to 10 choice but justified his prohibitive price; when the contest only proved a gallop for the good son of Whisk Broom II-Pendulum, his triumph at a mile and a quarter added the imposing sum of $12,225 to the coffers of the Asbury Park veteran. Second part of the prize fell to Lactarius, which runs for Harry G. Hatch. He withstood a terrific drive to get a neck decision over the Basil Manor Stable's good pony Hutch Jr. which took down the third share of the purse without being pressed by either Perlapidon or Evermore, the two that completed the field of five.

The start for the big race was a good one and Evermore went out to show the way, but her lead was of brief duration as she gave it up to Lactarius as the field entered into the back stretch. At this point Whiskery was in third position full of run. Lactarius had disposed of Evermore, but before traversing the next quarter of a mile Josiah released a wrap on the Whitney starter, and frictionless strides,carried him to the front and from there on the result of the outcome was never in doubt. At the end Whiskery, under strong restraint, galloped over the winning line five lengths ahead of Lactarius, second amid the applause of the large gathering that witnessed the meeting from every possible vantage point. In addition to the prize of $12,225 the Whitney colors earned the sum of $500 for being the breeder of the winner.

FUTURE RESTS WITH ORIENT

Victoria, B.C., Sept. 28.—(CP) The future of the coast ports lies in the teeming markets of the Orient, according to Justice M. A. Macdonald, of the British Columbia Court of Appeal, in an address before the Pacific Trade Council here recently. He said:

"Every attention is directed to the Pacific Ocean, which is a great highway of commerce, but also as the centre of delightful problems which business men and traders can not ignore, interest in its strategic position as the gateway to the Orient," he said.

Visualizing the Orient a hundred years hence, Justice MacDonald foresaw a vast nation of diversified wealth and of abounding modernized activities, a nation probably 500,000,000 people, using motor trucks and western means of transportation, mining the great coal areas and with the development of iron, and its resources forming the manufacturing of many varied industries. "Does that suggest trade possibilities for you?" he asked.

"There are many signs of an awakening in China," he pointed out. "Already there are quite a number of modern cities and towns lighted by electricity, using the telephone and policed by a well-trained constabulary."

Justice Macdonald referred to Japan as the Great Britain of the East, and said: "We have much to gain in the way of profitable intercourse with Japan that we should entertain no mis conceptions about the characteristics of our Japanese neighbors." He admitted that there was a difficult question on the horizon, the question for immigration, and he admitted further that there was an economic prejudice on the Pacific coast against the Oriental, but he hoped that any racial prejudices that might exist might soon pass away.

EXHIBITION GAME WON BY DELORO

Locals Gave Champions a Fine Battle—Gibson's Pitching

Walter Gerow picked up a ball team composed of players from Belleville, Trenton and Point Anne yesterday, took them to Deloro and almost slipped a win over on Manager Elliott's Eastern Ontario Champions. The score was 3-1 and that just about indicates the play. The game which served the purpose of keeping the Deloro boys in trim for the next round of the O.P.A.A. play-offs was one of the best-played on the home lot this year. Mr. Elliott used three of his pitchers, Ralph, Jack and Wood letting them each go three innings.

Hoot Gibson was the main star for the "pick-ups" and twirled remarkably fine ball in preservation of his lone hit off since the closing of the Bay of Quinte League. Jack Casey of the Deloro team was also behind the bat and the names of the others who were also are well-known in local baseball circles. The Deloro team scored their two runs in the opening inning and that would have been during the balance of the fracas. The visiting team tallies the lone counter in the eighth.

Kerr, of Deloro, umpired.

The line-up of the locals was as follows:

Hoot Gibson P.; Casey C; C. Greiner 1b; Weir 2b; Harper 3 s; A. Weir 3b; Burley cf; Youngs f; Darragh c f.

STEPHANSON DIED IN COLD ICELAND

Calgary, Sept. 29. — (By Canadian Press) — Stephanson, Icelandic poet, whose farm was situated at the foot of the Rocky Mountains and where his surroundings similar in many ways to Icelandic scenery he wrote most of his songs, all in the Icelandic language, died on his farm recently at the age of 73. Stephanson emigrated to Canada at the age of 20 and for 50 years he was a prominent link between the numerous Icelandic settlers in the Dominion and their mother country.

EASTERN RUGBY OPEN SATURDAY

Many Old Faces And Familiars Will Be Seen On Gridiron

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 29. — (By Canadian Press)—"King Rugby," monarch of the world of sport during the fall months, scored his throne in just a few days and his subjects, be they ten years-olds worshipping on a vacant lot or the stars of the game performing in vast stadiums, are preparing for his coming.

Throughout Eastern Canada greatest interest centres during the rugby "march on towns" in the two-mile Interprovincial and Ontario Rugby Football Unions. The glew of floodlights in the Dominion championships for two successive years and the interest attaching in their efforts to "make it three in a row," Ottawa Senators, Interprovincial and Canadian champions, will again lead in the line light this fall. The club which swept through the rugby season undefeated with but one defeat — to Argonauts — bested Balmy Beach, the O.R.F.U. champions, in the Canadian semi-finals by a one point margin after an hour and-a-half overtime contest, and defeated University of Toronto in valiant manner on a cold December day, this year will be without three of the stars who helped them in this performance.

Joe Miller, sure-handed backfielder, who climbed to the middle rung in Rugby hall of fame when his team-mate Joe Ryan, now retired, is out of the game forever. He is now a professional hockey player. Another absentee is Harold Blair, quarterback, who is one of the best, if not the best, flying wings in the Canadian game. A leg ailment will probably keep Blair out of the game all season. "Chubby" Irvine, fleet-footed middle wing, is the third loss the Senators must withstand. He has left with Queen's in the Intercollegiate Union this year.

To offset inroads into their staff, Senators rely on Joe Tubman, whose injured knee kept him out of the game most of last season, and several youngsters who have shown good form in drill. Also they have Earl Smith to be thrown last season but is now former Colgate University star, who is said to be adapting himself nicely to the Canadian game and is likely to become a valuable gridder.

The champions have been rather slow in getting down to serious practice but most of the stars have been keeping in condition, in other sports and will not be long in finding their rugby feet. Among the old guard who will again be with them are Charlie Lynch, their brainy quarter-back, Don Young, Charlie Connell, Jimmy Humphrys, Louie Cole, Vince Currie, Tubman, McCallum, "Slow" Bruce McMillan, Eddie Kilmorean, who was said

FIRST CLASS EXHIBITS FEATURED STIRLING'S ANNUAL FALL FAIR

Attendance Estimated At 3500—Races Keenly Contested

BABY SHOW

Prizes Awarded To Youngsters In School Fair Competition

With ideal weather conditions prevailing the annual Exhibition under the auspices of the Stirling Agricultural Society held yesterday was proclaimed the "best ever". One of the largest crowds in the history of the Association passed through the turnstiles and the attendance was estimated in the neighborhood of 3500. They came from every nook and corner of Hastings County and were more than delighted with the program that was offered.

The long list of exhibitors and the various attractions on the grounds testifies to the aggressiveness of the officers and Directors of Stirling Fair which is rapidly coming to the fore as one of the County's leading Fall Exhibitions. Order was well maintained throughout, the entire afternoon and there was not one untoward incident to mar a perfect day.

The grand stand was filled to capacity and the crowd swarmed the infield where the schoolfair and midway held forth. The latter was one of the new innovations and the merry-go-round and booths were well-patronized. The main hall where the smaller exhibits were tastefully arranged was a centre of interest and the displays were a source of admiration.

The clean of live stock was of the finest and the judges spent some time in selecting the winners. Danford Brothers, of Harold, R. I., were awarded the cup for the best exhibition of live stock on the grounds. The draught and carriage horse section saw many entries and some fine specimens were awarded ribbon by judges.

Baby Show

The Baby Show drew five entries and all were healthy-looking youngsters. The contest was held in the Main Hall at 2.30. The ranking was: Ethel Mae and Rispely of Madoc Junction, was the choice of the Judges for first prize and was awarded the silver cup. Others in order were: Mrs. Hlarlow, West Huntingdon, Mrs. Orville Jackson, Havelock, R. N. 1, Mrs. Stewart Brady, Harold R. N. 2 and Mrs. Fred Thane, Harold R. R. 2.

The school fair which brought together the leading scholastic winners in the individual fairs in each community was a source of amazement to the hundreds who viewed the displays in the two large tents.

The parade of school children, each wearing raricusly-colored regalia, won by Bayside School. Miss Grills is the teacher at this section and she is to be congratulated on her success and originality. Others in the parade and the order in which they were judged are as follows: 2. S. 19 Rawdon, Miss Bethel, teacher; S. S. 8 Madoc, Miss Emma Brenner, teacher; S. S. 13 Tyendinaga, Miss Garrett teacher; S. S. 14 Thurlow, Miss Adams teacher.

The prize in the chorus contest was captured by West Huntingdon School with Miss Lillian Dickson as teacher.

The fifteen exhibits in the School Fair were arranged in the two large tents. Mr. Ray Aitkin, of Stirling, the County Agricultural representative was in a large measure responsible for the success of the school fairs, was in charge. Every phase of farm production grown by the children besides displays of poultry, vegetables, etc., were exhibited. Judging on the Town hall in the evening brought the day to a close.

The Races

Three races were down on the card for the afternoon speeding events and plenty of competition was furnished in every contest. All three were decided in straight heats.

In the three minute race Silent Todd led a field of four starters and came home to capture the money. The time made was exceptionally good in every heat.

One spill marred the afternoon's sport but fortunately no one was injured—Kilmer, of a present writer after the races had been completed, the cause of confusion being the eligibility of one of the horses.

In the 2.35 class Riverside Hal owned by Grant of Consecon, stepped in to lead the rest and was an easy winner. Seven horses started in this but the field was smaller after each heat.

Final Directum was the pacemaker in the Free-For-All and was an easy first.

Minnie Hall and Dick Sunday who have been close rivals all summer were entered.

"Fatty" Smith of Belleville was in the saddle behind the Trenton horse that captured second money for the owner.

The last-named was, of course, the favorite and was the favorite with the spectators were given a treat in every heat.

Extra Special Week-End Values

There are still some people who are skeptical about the effective ness of advertise from week to week. They say that such values are not genuine, that is catch line & nonsense, and so on and so forth. We challenge these to come and see for themselves—we know that the values ARE GENUINE, otherwise we would not spend our good money telling you about them. We also know that the Arnold Chain has grown from a small Grocery and Meat market store 18 years ago to the largest chain of its kind in Canada today, and that's only done by the sound merchandising methods of the company, which permit the advertising of real money-saving values.

We're sold on the merit of the system which has developed our chain and we're still growing. So why not investigate?

PRINCE EDWARD BY-ELECTION DATE SET FOR NOV. 11

Story Of Case Of Infantile Paralysis In Local High School Proves To Be Baseless Rumor

HOWE ISLAND IS POSSIBLE CHOICE

Committee Said To Favor Building Lake Terminal There

GOOD CHANNEL

Kingston, Brockville And Prescott Have Been Competing

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—The Department of Railways and Canals declined this morning to make any statement on the rumor that Howe Island, about seven miles below Kingston, will probably be selected for the lake terminal. No announcement with respect to the selection is likely to be made until Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways returns from the west. He is not expected until about the middle of October.

In the meantime the committee has looked into the various sites available and has prepared report for submission to the minister.

Rumored Favorable Report

Ottawa, Ont., Sept. 30.—Howe Island is the likely site for the lake terminal, according to a rumor in circulation here. It is claimed that the committee investigating available sites on behalf of the Department of Railways and Canals, looks with favor on the location and will so recommend to the Minister. This island is situated some seven miles below Kingston and is about eight miles long. It has many large farms on it as well as some fine summer homes.

According to reports here, the proposal will be to purchase the island, these farms and build a village as well as the terminals. The island lies just north of the main steamboat channel and at some points it would come to the Canadian mainland, although the water intervening is deep.

Looked at Many Sites

For months the committee has been investigating the many sites proposed for the terminal where the big grain boats, which now stop at the foot of Lake Erie, would unload their cargoes when the new Welland Canal enables them to enter Ontario.

Kingston, Gananoque, Brockville and Prescott have all urged their claims. If Howe Island is chosen it will be slightly nearer Gananoque than Kingston.

The department last year held up a proposal to build a bridge across the St. Lawrence just west of Alexandria Bay, N.Y., in view of the possibility that the Government might want to construct a bridge in connection with its terminal. This bridge to accommodate both rail and motor traffic may be built in the vicinity where the private company had planned to erect one.

Channel is Wide

One of the claims Kingston has advanced for placing the terminals there has been the possibility of widening the large lake boats in the narrow channel north of the Thousand Islands. The channel, however, to Howe Island would be ample for the largest craft. On the other hand many have argued that the Thousand Island route should be widened in order to enable the big boats to come to a port below Prescott.

The report of the committee will probably be dealt with as soon as submitted in order to have the terminals ready when the new Welland Canal is completed, addition to the elevators and wharves, railway connections will have to be made because the grain from this point will come out both by smaller boats and by rail.

FIREMEN MAY FIGHT BLACKBIRD EPIDEMIC

St. Catharines, Sept. 30.—St. Catharines has a queer epidemic—an epidemic of blackbirds. The birds have congregated in thousands in the trees on Edmond Street, for some reason, and by their noise have made life a misery to the inhabitants. As it is unlawful to fire a gun inside the city, the birds have things just about their own way. It is suggested, however, that the firemen be asked to drive the unwelcome visitors out with fire hose.

Bertha Houck On Witness Stand For Three Hour Grilling

NOTHING TO SAY

Ex-Pastor Listens To Sordid Story Without Comment Or Objection

Rev. Joseph J. Mellor defended pastor of Picton United Church will face a judge and jury at the next court of Competent Jurisdiction sitting in the town of Picton, Magistrate W. C. Mikel, of Belleville, who presided at the preliminary hearing yesterday found sufficient evidence to commit the accused on a serious charge against Bertha Houck, a former young choir girl and Sunday School teacher in his church.

Mellor, a picture of remorse and misery was aided if he had anything to say at the close of the hearing but in a voice which bore a trace of nervousness he replied in a low tone that he "had nothing to say". Mellor is likely to remain in the County jail until the next chapter of the case which pro bably will be heard in November.

Mellor's case has thrown the County of Prince Edward and the staid old town of Picton into a pitch of fever ex citement. Only the report that the public were to be barred from the court's room prevented a capacity audience yesterday but actually only a handful sat through the proceedings and listened to the unsavory tale as it was unfolded.

MONTH OLD BABY KILLED DURING A MARITAL ROW

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Charge of manslaughter against Harry Maskewyn and his wife in connection with the death of their baby was changed to one of murder today. Counsel Frank Callaghan resolved election when they appeared in court and the pair were taken to jail. Maskewyn and his wife had been arrested when the coroner's jury last night found that the baby had been struck by its father during a quarrel with the couple. Both deny the allegation.

According to the evidence, there had been trouble between the couple ever since the Toronto General Hospital gave as his opinion that the baby had died as a result of damage done to its brain by a blow. Whether the blow had been dealt with a fist or some instrument, he could not say.

TWENTY KILLED

Automobiles Establish New Record For The Month In Toronto

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Starting figures of automobile fatalities in Toronto this month were revealed today. Twenty persons met death on the city's streets, compared with four in August. This remark is the second worst figures for any nine months of this year up to 64. Altogether 75 people died suddenly in Toronto during September.

EXPROPRIATION IS FACILITATED

Ottawa, Sept. 30.—In expropriating property to make way for the new terminal building in Montreal, the National Railways has been given special facilities by the Dominion.

Usually expropriation proceedings, when on a scale as large as those now under way in Montreal come for final decision before the Exchequer Court of Canada.

In the present case it is possible that the management of the National Railways may take the final appeal to the Exchequer Court. If so, however, the court here has received no intimation of any such appeal.

Officials of the Exchequer Court stated today that National Railways had been empowered by order-in-council to take expropriation appeals to the Supreme Court of the province. Under these circumstances it is thought that, in case of a disagreement in the purchase price of property for the new terminal, the Supreme Court of Quebec will be called on to decide.

P. E. BY-ELECTION SET FOR NOV. 11

Nominations Will Be Held On The First Of November

CONTEST PROBABLE

Conservatives Are Ready With Colliver Almost Certain Choice

Toronto Sept. 30.—The by-election in Prince Edward to fill the vacancy in the Ontario legislature caused by the resignation of W. J. Ramsay, late Progressive member will be held on November 11, it was announced today. Nominations will be made November 1, Mr Ramsy resigned on his appointment to the bench of the Ontario Supreme Court. Candidates have not yet been definitely selected. The vote in the general elections last year was Ramsy Progressive, 4,278, H. S. Colliver, conservative 4,229.

Conservatives Confident.

With the announcement of the by-election date things are warming up in the political melting pot and guesses are being advanced as to the possible opponents.

The Conservatives are conceded to be almost certain to re-capture the riding following its 1926 overall majority in the last fight. Mr. Colliver who represented the County in the Ontario Legislature previous to the last election when away, one of the most prom inent of the Progressives managed to squeeze in is likely to be Conservative standard bearer.

Since the last election many of the electorate have assumed a different attitude, foreign sentiment that figured a mistake in sending an outsider who would be of little benefit to their cause as to their representation.

Independent Likely

The Liberals held a Committee meeting in Picton last Saturday night and it is reported that several names were mentioned as possible opposition to the Conservative candidate. Fred Newman ex-mayor of Picton will soon be one of the leading Liberals would no doubt enter the field if he is the choice of the Convention. J. H. Porte who was Mr. Ramsy's right-hand man in the last election is another name suggested. In all probability an Independ ent with the backing of both the Liberals and Progressives will stack up against the Conservative candidate.

Conservatives throughout the County are still smarting under the last election when Mr. Colliver came within all possible haste. Mr. Colliver's has been the only name prominently mentioned since Mr. Ramsy's resignation was announced.

Toronto, Sept. 30.—More than half a million dollars have been paid for permits to purchase liquor in Ontario, according to the statement of D. B. Hanna, Chairman of the Liquor Control Board, today. Mr. Hanna said 160,000 permits had been sold. He could not say what proportion of this figure representeed temporary permits for tourists.

WIDELY KNOWN EDITOR PASSES

W. J. Wilkinson Of Toronto Mail And Empire Died This Morning

Toronto, Ont., Sept. 30.—Walter J. Wilkinson, managing news Editor of the Mail and Empire and director o he Canadian Press was fatally stricken in his home last night and died early today. A severe illness, the effect o pneumia, which Mr. Wilkinson suffered some months ago was the cause o death. He had apparently recovered, and was in good spirits while in the office last evening. Mr. Wilkinson also had a wide circle of friends. He was 64 years of age.

For more than fifty years he was a practical newspaperman and for the last thirty years he was news editor of Mail and Empire. He came to Toronto after experience on the St. Thomas Times, Times, where he was printer, reporter and editor. His influence extended from coast to coast. Many Canadian editors were trained under the Dominion and some in the United States were trained under his direction.

Besides Mrs. Wilkinson, deceased is survived by two sons, W. N. Wilkinson, news editor of the Buffalo Times and Charles of Philadelphia and one daughter, Mrs. Gladstone Ghent, of Ottawa.

The funeral of Mr. Wilkinson will take place at two p.m. Monday next from his residence interment being in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

Chicago's School Superintendent Faces Trial For Favoring England

Chicago, Sept. 30.—William McAndrew, suspended superintendent of Chicago's schools, went on trial yesterday before the School Board on sixteen specific charges of insubordination and lack of patriotism.

In company with Mayor William Hale Thompson referred to McAndrew as a "stool pigeon" for King George of England, Britain and pledged that if his candidacy were successful he would oust McAndrew.

Mr. McAndrew's forceful and expressing confidence of vindication, went to the board room with two attorneys.

The allegations included:

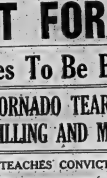

His recommendation to board on May 27 the use in the public schools of pro-British text books which would give a true representation of American history, and were introduced at the request of furthering propaganda of the English-Speaking Union.

"For the purpose of perverting the patriotic instincts of American children, he caused the removal from the schools of the picture entitled 'The Spirit of '76'.

"He refused to recommend to the board that the school children be allowed to contribute to the fund for 'Old Ironsides'."

PROMISE SCENIC DRIVE AT CANAL

Hon. Mr. Henry Impressed With Beauty Of The Whole District

St. Catharines, Ont., Sept. 30.—After visiting the Welland Canal with the delegates to the Good Roads' Convention just concluded at Niagara Falls, Hon. Geo. S. Henry, Ontario Minister of Highways, last night stated his conviction that the Niagara District should have a big scenic motor drive. "While going over the canal this afternoon your chief engineer, Mr. Grant, told me that with the completion of the canal there would be a roadway from Port Weller to Port Colborne and with the I see a vision of a great scenic driveway for the district," Hon. Mr. Henry said.

"We now have the Niagara River Boulevard practically completed and by joining up the ends to the Port Weller-Port Colborne Canal roadway, we would have a veritable scenic highway that would open to motorists the magnificence of this gigantic undertaking which we have witnessed this afternoon. We shall give the matter very careful consideration. I am very much impressed with the idea."

Mr. Henry was also greatly impressed with the Canal. "I had no idea it was so far advanced and that the lower section of it would be ready for navigation in 1928. It is certainly a massive work."

PLANE CRASHED BUT FLIERS NOT INJURED

Bagdad, Irak, Sept. 30.—Lieut. NO INFANTILE PARALYSIS CASE REPORTED IN CITY

A report was current about the corridors of the High School today that one of the pupils had been stricken with infantile paralysis, but an investigation of the facts by The Intelligencer spiked this rumor.

Helen Myers, a young student in the Third Form was unable to attend school this week owing to illness and from some unknown source the story arose that she had contracted the dread disease. Miss Myers who resides a mile north of Cortyville was attended by Dr. Ward of Foshore. The latter when spoken to by The Intelligencer today was emphatic in his denial that she had fallen a victim to the dreaded malady. He attributed her illness to an attack of sciatica which is fortunately of a mild nature.

St. Louis Dazed By Blow Mourns For 84 Known Dead

$75,000,000 LOSS

90-Mile An Hour Wind Wrecks Over Five Thousand Buildings

St. Louis Mo., Sept. 30—Mounting death list in yesterday's devastating tornado here reached eighty-four today when additional bodies were found and injured died. The body of a third girl was found in the ruins of the central high school and 11 Fire found two others were buried there. All but four of the dead were identified.

St. Louis, Mo., Sept. 30.—St. Louis awoke early today to a full realization of the appalling toll of the four-minute passage of yesterday's tornado, 74 known dead, 671 treated for injuries, five thousand homes and business structures destroyed or damaged over a devastated area of six square miles and an official estimate of damage running from ten million to one hundred million dollars.

Tabulation of deaths, injuries and damage mounted steadily through out the night and it was feared that further exploration today might increase the first two figures.

Meanwhile St. Louis escaped virtual by unscathed but sore of the citizes, fig ost homes along Lindell boulevard from Newstead Avenue to Grand Boule vard were lost today.

Looped Mississippi

The black, swirling funnel seemed to have spanned with unbelievable fury the vicinity of Forest Park, to have pivoted a ninety-degree course for six miles, to leap the Mississippi River and dissipate it's fury with a last twist at the Illinois bank ten-miles from the Missouri and Madison in which six persons were killed and scores injured.

Every St. Louis policeman and fireman was called out on special duty but their numbers were inadequate to patrol the stricken area and a regiment of state militia was ordered on duty. Orders to shoot looters were issued. Only two reports of looting were made last night, but neither was verified.

A citizens' Relief Committee of thirty eight, with Governor Victor Ayleas as chairman ,hurriedly was organized to direct relief activities. The Red Cross placed relief station in the centre of the stricken area and a hundred automobiles were impressed into use as ambulances. Mayor Miller issued an appeal for funds.

Property Damage High

Damage estimated of from ten million to one hundred million dollars was given E. Gritzpiker, building commissioner. Insurance men made a flat estimate of seventy-five million dollars damage.

Throughout the wilderness of crumpled houses, the official death fact-

ONTARIO'S FINANCES

Word comes from Toronto that Ontario is in a fair way to produce one of the largest financial surpluses in its history at the close of the present fiscal year. Revenue derived from the control of the sale of liquor will, it is said, reach over three million dollars, which means considerably high; yet more than the Department of Highways are considerably in advance of last year; while income from succession duties and the amusement tax are higher than was estimated.

The truth is that Ontario, rescued from the expensive fads and fancies of the Drury regime, is in excellent financial condition. Expenditure had been brought within the orbit of revenue; taxation has been kept within reasonable bounds; yet nothing has been done to interfere with measures of reasonable progress.

Information that the controlled sale of liquor will net the province $3,000,000 this year, is interesting. If the information be correct, it means that next year, when liquor will be sold for the full twelve months, the Government will have a profit of at least five million dollars. There are those, of course, who will say that a Government should not make profits out of liquor; but such arguments take no heed of realities. The real point is that liquor was being sold, anyway, and that, such being the case, it is far more sensible to have the Government control its sale and take the profits than to have them go into the pockets of bootleggers.

Good roads, for farmers are much more desirable than huge mansions and great bank accounts and high-powered cars for a few people engaged in selling bad liquor in defiance of the law.

CHANGING YEARS

The last member of the little group which plotted and carried out the assassination of Archduke Francis Ferdinand of Austria in 1914 and thus precipitated a war which threatened to ruin civilization is dead in an obscure corner of Serbia. Just thirteen years ago he was concerned in the greatest event in history but long before his death he was completely forgotten.

Practically all the men who held the reins of power during the mighty years of conflict have passed from the stage of the stage. Some are dead; some linger yet in the shadow of the street, grasping no doubt of the days when they were great.

Kaiser William, a broken old man, chops wood in a little Dutch village and tells his new wife of the time when the World listened to him—Hindenburg stays yet, but must soon pass, and Ludendorff is an embittered, retired army officer without prestige or authority. . . .

New men have taken the lead in Germany and that country is slowly struggling back to a place among civilized nations.

In England Lloyd George, the dynamic leader of men seems burned out and his force is gone. Northcliffe is dead and Asquith slumbers in the House of Lords. Balfour the diplomate has celebrated his eightieth birth day and has also gone to rest in the Upper Chamber.

Wilson, Taft, Bullock, Bonar Law and French, the idols of the British nation are now heard from only on State occasions and at anniversary dinners. Even their books do not sell.

Clemenceau the Tiger of France and the one man who held his country in the struggle is dozing his life away in a retired country home. He is forgotten while lesser men fight and squabble over the control of the land he saved.

In the dark land of Russia, Lenin is gone and his partner Trotsky is in disgrace. What is happening behind the veil of mystery thrown by the Soviet is hard to discern, but Russia is apparently reverting to semi-barbarism cut off from the world.

Thrones tumbled — Russia murdered her Czar and all his family—the German Kaiser and the horde of German Kings and Princes were dispossessed—Austria-Hungary is now dismembered into separate Republican states — Greece, Portugal, and other of the smaller lands followed their big neighbors and embarked on the sea of democracy.

In our own Canada, the Government which ushered in the War so brilliantly was dismissed by the electors and McKenzie King, returning from the United States, made Premier, Sir Robert Borden and Right Hon. Arthur Meighen go out of politics, Sir Wilfred Laurier and Sir Samuel Hughes are dead. Sir Thomas White the great Finance Minister is back in business.

Only nine years since the Armistice and so many of the gallant boys who fought are dead or scattered in the Republic to the South of us.

United States broke Woodrow Wilson's heart and he died, knowing that his country had repudiated his sincere efforts for World Peace. The tale unfolded at Washington since has been one of graft and corruption; of little men struggling for the spoils of office.

Fourteen years since the bomb was thrown which plunged the world on fire and nowhere are people better for all the blood and sacrifice.

OTHER MEN'S THOUGHTS

As to the drunkard in charge of a car, what excuse can be made by any magistrate for dealing leniently with him? A drunkard is no more fit to be trusted with a motor car and the freedom of the road than is a half-wit with a lighted pipe in his mouth to be trusted with the care of a powder magazine or an oil stove.—Toronto Mail and Empire.

The Oshawa Times sings sweetly of the coming of the season when the church supper shall once more make its appearance. John Punfrey, farmer, of Camden township, near Chatham, Ont., possesses a violin which experts have pronounced a genuine Stradivarius, and in which he places a value of 15,000. Mr. Punfrey is shown with the instrument, for which, he says, he recently declined an offer of $10,000. It is in an excellent state of preservation. The coloring of the wood which forms the back of the instrument is wonderful. Inscribed on the inside are the words: "Antonius Stradivarius Cremonensis Faciebat Anno 1713." The violin has been a family relic for many decades. It was brought to Canada by his father, when, as a youth of 16, he emigrated. Mr. Punfrey, who is 73 years of age, stated that he had heard his father say that it had been handed down from father to son. "My father treasured this instrument so much that he would never let any of us play it," the owner stated.

HAS DANGEROUS HIGH AMBITION

Quantico, Va., Sept. 30.—The administration of Corporal Richard L. Huffman of the U.S. Marines, a veteran of 23 parachute jumps, is to fall a mile through space.

"From a 10,000-foot altitude" he declares, "I could fall a mile before pulling the hook to open my parachute. It is a stunt I'd like to try if the marine officers would let me."

Huffman, 23, celebrated his twenty-third descent by inflating a rubber raft while falling toward the Potomac river. He did it to test the advisability of making collapsible rafts, inflated with carbon dioxide, the standard equipment for aviators flying over water.

After releasing himself from the parachute Huffman swam to the place the raft had fallen, boarded it, and rowed calmly until picked up. He was congratulated by superior officers for retrieving the parachute after releasing himself from it and while it was still above water. The trailing parachute he carried was valued at $700, and ordinarily would have sunk. It was said, in 5 minutes.

Huffman's home is in St. Charleston, S.C. He enlisted in the Marine Corps in 1923. So far the greatest descent he has made before opening his parachute is 800 feet.

"For a good distance," he says, "you have no sensation of falling. You can use your arms and legs normally. My highest jump was from an altitude of 1,200 feet."

GIVEN TEA SET

On Wednesday a very pleasant evening was spent at the home of Mrs. J. G. Galloway, John Street, when a number of lady friends of Miss Lillian Wray assembled and presented her with a beautiful silver tea set. The event was a complete surprise taken by surprise, in a few well-chosen words thanked the donors for the handsome present and invited them all to have a cup of tea with her in the near future. The remainder of the evening was spent with games, singing and music, after which a dainty lunch was served.

NO DANGER HERE.

"There is little danger of an outbreak here," stated Dr. Crook, M.H.O., when questioned by The Intelligencer this morning regarding the recent cases of infantile paralysis which have been discovered in Hamilton and King ston. He said that there had been no "scientific" cases for some time here. Dr. Crook stated that the disease was in sporadic form rather than an epidemic. Arrangements are being completed for the obser clinic which will be opened here next week when children will be examined free of charge.

A RING-SIDE VIEW.

Sergt. Roy Clarke, of the Provincial Police, is in receipt of a letter from his brother, who is assistant manager of the Chicago Athletic Club. Mr. Clarke had the pleasure of occupying a ring-side seat at the Dempsey-Tunney fight and stated that there was no question as to who was the better of the two, Mr. Clarke chatted with Tunney on the following the fight at the Athletic Club and found him to be a good sociable fellow. Mr. Clarke writes that he believed that Mr. Tunney could have arisen any time he desired after being knocked down in the seventh round.

PRIZE COLT KILLED.

A prize colt owned by Mr. Arthur Hamilton, "Ferniview," on the Foxboro highway, was so badly injured by a car yesterday that it was found necessary to shoot the animal this morning. Shortly after the colt took fright at a motor car following which it ran into a telephone pole, came up the road at what is said to be a rapid rate of speed and left Ferniview tried to warn him but the colt was struck and hurled up on top of the radiator. The radiator was damaged in the impact.

WANTED BY POLICE.

Two officers from Watertown, Jefferson County, N.Y., arrived in the city this morning with a warrant for Norman Andrew alias James Kelly who is wanted for a serious charge against a young girl and also for deserting and neglecting to support and leaving a sentence in the County jail there and along with several other prisoners was allowed to lay a pipe-line in the Fair Grounds and effected his escape. He is reported to be in this territory and the officers are conducting a thorough search. They wanted man is described as being 22 years of age, 5 feet, eight inches in height, and has red hair. He is also wanted for the escaped prisoner is a married man and formerly worked for at the Canada Steel Co. upon promise to his jail sentence.

CARS DAMAGED

A McLaughlin Sedan owned by Joseph Desbarats was badly damaged when two wheels were broken and the running board jammed against the after the limit here today on Highland Avenue. Mr. Desbarat had driven into a laneway at the Vallance Laundry for the purpose of turning around and just as he was backing out on the highway another car owned by J. W. Pearce came along striking the left rear fender with some force and the headlight and radiator on the Pearce car were damaged to some extent. The police investigated and the matter was settled between the parties.

CUP PRESENTED

At the tea given by Mrs. Dereche and Mrs. Arbuthnot at the bowling green on Thursday the Conger Cup for ladies' singles was presented to Miss E. Dolan, the president, to Mrs. R. Bumpstead. Beautiful plate given by Mr. R. St. Parrer were also presented to the cup winner and to the runner-up, Mrs. R. C. Harris, from whom Mrs. Bumpstead won by the close margin of two. Miss Edith Maclean also played to the finals but lost at the end.

STRANGE DEATH IS INVESTIGATED

Brantford, Ont., Sept. 30.—(Special)—Duncan, in whose motor car Margaret Ferguson Brash, of Whitefield, was injured dead early yesterday, appeared before Magistrate Blake today charged with vagrancy and was remanded for a week. No evidence was heard and Duncan has not yet secured counsel. The tongue filled other portions of the body of Miss Brash baby, being taken to the Provincial analysis at Toronto for examination.

RESTAURANT SOLD.

The Perfect Tea Room, which has for the past several years been conducted by Frank Lum and Him Lum, has been disposed of to two Montreal Orientals, Tom See and Hum Hue, who have assumed charge of the restaurant, have left for the city. Mr. Lum has left Belleville and expects to enter a similar business in London shortly. The new proprietors conducted a business in Montreal and with their experience will continue to give the same service as has been the custom of the Perfect in the past. Some new improvements may be made but none are contemplated at the present time.

Mr. Eldie Owen, a nephew of Mr. Arthur Harman is in the city for the first time on a visit. For three years Mr. Owen has been with the Imperial Engineering work in Spring Hondurus and is making his flight back to the Dominion, having gone direct from England to his present location.

Police Court

George Graham, a foreman for the Canada Steel Co., was charged with theft $25 and had to pay $27 cost in Police Court this morning for an assault upon a little child, George Michaud. Mr. Graham's son and little George Michaud, little son, Buddy, rushed into the house and told his father that young Michael had stolen a drink of water from him. Graham promptly went down to Michaud's home, met the boy and landed-taking the object and went down the street to a friend of his to report what the trifling lad had done to his own, and not Buddy Graham's.

He was after he came out of the young friends house that Graham grabbed little George Michaud, and grappling him tightly with both feet dragged him down the street to his (Graham's) house and then to the kitchen door where Michaud's screams were heard by neighbors, but Graham declared that he got the boy somewhat down and he did not like the trinkets.

Michaud claimed that Graham struck him in the face, kicked him and choked him. After getting what he wanted, Graham let the little boy go, and Michaud, as soon as he got outside swore at Graham, which started the trouble all over again. Graham started out of the house on the run, but Michaud succeeded him and ran into the home of Mr. Johnston, on Russell street, and Johnston took the matter in hand and came into the house.

This assault took place on the 22nd of September and was adjourned from last Friday. Many witnesses for both side were called.

Liquor In Car

Last night about 1215 Daniel Bird crashed into an automobile owned and driven by Mr. A. Jones, of Lakefield, at the corner of Bridge and Front streets. A few moments before the car owned by Bird under arrest.. Upon searching his car two cases of beer were found, and nearly emptied. Bird was fined $100 and costs by Magistrate Mikel in police court today on a charge of having liquor in a place otherwise than his home.

Crashed Stop-Sign

Walter Brown of Trenton, Ontario, smashed into the stop-street sign at the corner of Bridge and Charles streets today, breaking the sign off completely and turning up on the Wallbridge lawn, which is situated on that corner. The accident occurred yesterday after one o'clock this afternoon.

Answer Week

Jerry Hickerson who drove his car into an automobile driven by Jack Hanna, 211 Dundas street, about 8.30 o'clock yesterday evening, appeared before the Magistrate this morning on a charge of driving while under the influence of liquor and was remanded for a week.

Curtis Fox, on a similar charge was given a suspended sentence if he would promptly sell his car and take the pledge never to drink again in his life-time. He will appear before the Magistrate next week to see if he has complied with the conditions.

No Operator's License

Murray Smith, Sydney Township, aged 17 years, was fined $10 and costs by the Magistrate this morning for driving a motor vehicle without having an operator's license.

CHURCH OPPOSES TRIAL MARRIAGE

Question Of Solacious Books And Periodicals Was Discussed

Toronto, Sept. 30.—In making a pronouncement declaring its attitude toward so-called "companionate marriage" and urging the study of marriage relations, the Board of Evangelism and Social Service of the United Church of Canada, in session in the Wesley Building today, also approaches the question of salacious books and periodicals from the standpoint of family life.

Women's Club Life

The finding advocates promotion of the reading of the best literature and the provision of club life for young women away from home. Attention is called to the rapid increase of unlicensed dance halls in various parts of Canada.

The board is deeply concerned in such standards in family life as will contribute "most to family life and to the whole the highest possible spiritual, moral and physical stamina." Its members are "very much disturbed by many propositions being made in relation to marriage and the family both in current literature, much of which appears to be extremely salacious.

"Thoughtful Valuables"

"Utter opposition to the suggestions of 'trial and companionate marriage' is declared, and the board urges, instead a consideration of the complete functions of marriage, and, more particularly, the most thoughtful valuation of the child as a means of the enrichment of the members of the family.

"In contrast with this anxious outlook on current literature and periodicals, the board's Committee on Evangelism reports that 'numbers of the slightly diffused feeling after God," as an important consideration confronting the churches.

Instruction is given the board's executive to inaugurate a campaign to enlist the manhood of United congregations into one body, to be known as the United Church Men's Brotherhood, and "embracing all local organizations, now existing, which, under different names, seek to unite men for worship, fellowship and service."

BANDITS ESCAPED WITH $1000 ROLL

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Two masked bandits attacked John H. Trebilcock, cashier of the Dominion Canners Company, as he left the bank branch on Yonge street at noon today, overpowered and seized a satchel which he was carrying. The bandits escaped in an automobile driven by a third man.

TORNADO TEARS

series and business buildings and twisted wires men dog frantically in the darkness all night. Meanwhile, the four o'clock this morning explorers seeking the bodies of five missing children in the records of the Central High School found the body of one child, fifteen school boys and girls, and seven children were in the tornado swept area but only a few escaped with their lives a report of a fatality. Eighteen other pupils in that school were injured when the huge tower of brick crashed down on the auditorium. Hectic work was rushing into the ruins of the auditorium in the sight of men, women and children standing aout dazed and helpless while others dug into the mass of brick and wood for loved ones.

Fatal Twin City

That the death list did not soar high into the hundreds was attributed to the heavy construction of the homes in the devastated area. Newer homes were not spared and gaping holes where the wind wrenched off a wing or lifted a roof gave the district the appearance of a shell-torn city. Many homes escaped no favorites. Homes of classic design, lumber and concrete, modern apartment buildings, police stations all were racked and torn equally.

For an hour after the disaster struck the air was heavy and portentious with storm. The tornado approached, thunder of thunder was punctuated with lightning. The oppressiveness was dispelled by a rising wind that swept the entire black clouds appeared in the sky.

In a twinkling the crashing of glass and the singing of winds in the trees announced the approach of the tornado. Chimneys crashed heavier beneath and fell, while the air was dark with dust and flying missiles. Automobiles caught their stories late spoke of sheets of flame, their drivers in a panic that swept past and dissipated themselves by striking a building or a tree.

Automobiles careened wildly about overturning and wrecking themselves in the fury that engulfed children. Everywhere the thud of falling walls, chimneys and the tearing sound of plaster being wrenched from their foundations filled the air. Swift in it's coming the tornado was as swift in leaving. By the time news was flashed to the down town section, the storm was all over and soon the sirens of fire apparatus and police ambulances announced the coming of outside help.

North Waterloo Regiment encamped at Exon over week-end.

CHIEF REQUESTS OWN SUSPENSION

Police Head Denies Retaining Funds And Asks For a Probe

Windsor, Sept. 30.—Chief Constable Daniel Thompson, the storm-centre of charges preferred by Ald. Clyde Curry, was suspended last evening shortly before 5 o'clock at a meeting of the Police Commission by the Aldermen of misappropriating moneys. Inspector M. S. Wigle was named to take charge of the department.

The suspension came as a climax to the Commission meeting at which Magistrate W. E. Gundy bitterly assailed the attitude of Ald. Curry in addressing the Royal Commission to investigate the Police Department. The Magistrate almost shouted his accusation that Ald. Curry had insulted him in intimating that the Commission was not capable to investigate the charges.

After the Alderman's charges were read, the Commission went into session behind closed doors. It was during this time that Chief Constable Thompson sent in a letter to Secretary George H. Warlow asking that he be relieved of his duties pending an investigation.

HIGH PRICES AT AUTOGRAPHS' SALE

Berlin, Sept. 30.—Enormous prices were paid here at the auction of the famous Bachofen collection of autographs of great composers who during life time were happy while to earn money to support themselves.

The original manuscript of Gluck's "Orpheus" Lament sold for 2,000 seventeen thousand marks. The first sketch of Beethoven's Missa Solemnis brought thirty-four hundred marks, Joseph Hayden's original draft of four sonata, twenty-five hundred marks, two receipts by Bach, sixteen hundred and fifty marks, and dated 1785, fifteen hundred marks, and Bach's manuscript of the cantata "Were shall I Flee," nine thousand marks.

HONEYMOON PAIR DROWN IN POND

Marshall, Wis. Sept. 30.—With the groom clutching the wheel and the bride having her arms around him, a honeymoon has ended in a tragic automobile accident. The car in which Mr. and Mrs. John J. Pirkl of Marshall, Minn., were toiling plunged into a pond. Old shoes were dangling on the car when it was recovered with the bodies.

School Fair at Queenston was this year larger than ever before.

TODAYS MARKETS

New York, Sept. 30.—The stock market, freed from the restraint imposed by fears of gigantic increase in brokers loans, which proved to be unfounded, bounded upward today as buying orders poured in for a wide variety of stocks. Early gains ran from on to eight points. Good demand developed for seasoned dividend paying issues. Call money remained firm at four percent.

Houston Oil was individual feature soaring 7 1-2 points before profit taking sales checked the advance. International Silver, Dupont, Pittsburgh and West Penn, Commercial Solvents, Cass Threshing, Canadian Pacific and General Motors old stock all sold five points or more. Sales exceed day's fifth quotations.

Scores of other including General Electric, Al. Byers, General Motors new, United Drug, General Railway Signal and Standard Cement advanced two points or more.

Wet Weather Causes Rise.

Chicago, Sept. 30.—Wet weather in Canada, likely to delay harvesting, served to make wheat prices average higher early today. Month 'end deliveries also were helped by covering of corn contracts were followed by rapid fluctuations in the latter market. Starting with a decline to 3-4c advance, wheat later scored gains for all deferred delivery. Corn opened unchanged to 3-4c down but subsequently lifted upwards. Oats were firm, Provisions likewise hardened.

Men Not Chivalrous Now, But They're Fair

What's chivalry in 1927? Once upon a time gentlemen wedged themselves into tin pants, dressed up old Dobbin until he looked like the family daverport and cantered off to joust for some fair lady's favor. That was chivalry when Knighthood was in flower. And the idea continued to go strong right down to the beginning of the twentieth century.

Grandpa didn't have a tin ward-robe but he wore a pair of whiskers which were a good substitute, and he still went around protecting Grandma, whether she wanted to be protected or not. And Grandma sighed and frowned all over the place to keep up the illusion.

But now it's 1927. Grandma doesn't swoon any more. She does the Black Bottom instead. Mama goes in for golf and tennis and daughter holds her school's record in the hundred-yard dash.

Do ladies need protection in 1927? Ask 'em!

Yes, chivalry is certainly having a hard time of it with modern females. Yet, now and then, one of the girls sighs for the good old times. Mrs. X. did the other day.

"What has come over the men?" she cried. "They no longer take off their hats in the elevators."

"Why on earth should they?" cries Bostonian.

DEAR ELSIE MARLOWE:

May I put my car in the puddle right along with the rest of the gang? Relative to the lady who complains that men in elevators do not take off their hats. Back, back, folks, give me clearance. It's this way:

1. a mere he men, ask in all humility: "Why in heaven's name should a man take his hat because a lady enters an elevator?"

2. If a man accompanies a lady on a shopping tour (which heaven forbid) would he remove his hat entering the store? Or when stopping at the glove counter or in the handkerchief department?

Heaven Then why oh why, should he remove his hat in an elevator in any public building? The writer saw two birds standing for fifteen minutes in a heavy drizzle the other day, talking to a dame on the sidewalk. Can some intelligent being tell me why they did it? Why, with the thing that's had spotlicity, and after greeting the lady, didn't they again cover their heads instead of exposing themselves to the damp weather?

What does it all mean? I always respect the ladies, and show it, but not in an extreme manner like that. What sensible reason is there for it, anyway? Not to one has ever been able to tell me, either than it is "the custom." What a perfectly silly reason and what a perfectly silly custom!

I raise my hat to ladies, raise it entirely off my head, but I'll be horsewarzzled if I ever stand an hour at a stretch in the open with my hat in my hand. The lady surely knows I can show her as much respect with my hat on.

Why not abolish such meaningless, silly customs? By all means show proper respect at all times, but draw the line at silliness.

— BOSTONIAN.

That's a fine letter and I publish it with large applause. And while we're on the subject of chivalry I'd like to make a few comments. We have heard so much of the pedestals which ladies used to occupy, and the reverence and respect they received from their boy friends. But there's another side to the picture—a very different side. It is true that men removed their hats profusely, and twanged mandolins under balconies and wrote sonnets and made other delightful gestures. But there are a great many things they DIDN'T do.

They DIDN'T allow women to hold property, receive educations, vote, or even have control over their own children. Legally, women were raised with cattle, slaves, children and idiots.

That was the other side of chivalry. Pedestals came high, didn't they?

Advice to Girls

By Annie Laurie

DEAR ANNIE LAURIE:

I am a girl in my teens and very much in love with a fellow three years older than I.

The last time we were together we quarreled, because I had told someone I was going "steady" with him. I was madly in love with him, and I didn't really know what I was saying. I lied and told him I hadn't said it, and put the blame on someone else.

Since then he has not asked me for dates and has hardly spoken to me.

Please tell me how I may regain his friendship.

LOVE-SICK.

LOVE-SICK: Of course, it was very indiscreet to have permitted yourself to make the remark that occasioned the quarrel. And you muddled things still more when you added an untruth to the indiscretion. No doubt, the young man felt that you were taking entirely too much for granted. Moreover, you must frequently have shown him the extent of your interest in him.

It is very unwise to show a man that you care too much—until he has shown that he cares with equal intensity. It is one of the perversities of human nature that one rarely wants what is easily obtained.

If you have not already done so you owe him an apology for the little deceit that you practiced. You owe another write him a short, formal note, regretting the incident or you can either write him a short, formal him.

If he is still interested in you he will make an effort to patch up the quarrel. And I must remind you again that the less indication you give that you are eager to regain his friendship, the more he will be piqued and seek you out again.

JEALOUS HEARTS

By MILDRED BARBOUR

"Oh, Tony, you're such a dear, but sometimes so deliberately stupid!" she sighed. "Don't you see? You've got to marry Millicent, so she can get Uncle Dan's estate and be looked after and cared for all her life. I can get along on the 'pittance'—in fact, I'll not spend it for long. I'll be making millions on my own," she declared confidently, with her little, mocking smile. "But poor Millicent would simply curl up and die, if she were left to look out for herself. She was meant for the wife-and-mother role. . . . I was made for the whole world."

He stared at her, as if trying to gauge her mood. Was she serious? Reluctantly, slowly, he realized that she was in earnest.

"I'd be no earthly good! as a wife, Tony," she went on. "I'd run away from home the first time a hand-organ played. And I wouldn't love you. I want the love and admiration of many men."

He sprang to his feet.

"You don't know what you're saying!" he declared violently.

"Don't I?" She smiled at him provocatively, the mocking light dancing in her eyes. She was using Elinor's eyes for effect—and she liked the way he reacted to her words. "Anyway, I know I wouldn't want you for a husband, Tony," she told him coolly.

He stared down at her furiously for a moment, then he swung on his heel and left her.

She watched him striding across the lawn, slim, strong, graceful, handsome and she smiled to herself.

"He was amusing—for a beginning. But there are going to be dozens more Elinor. I hope the fool is angry and piqued enough to go to Millicent. She'll take him like a shot."

But would she? Would Millicent suspect that she was second choice—and reject him?

CHAPTER 6.

FIRST LOVE

Millicent was dressing for dinner, but Elinor still lingered on the tennis-court, dreaming dreams of the triumphs that she confidently believed were in store for her.

Millicent's heart was heavy. When she had seen Elinor and Tony Deering disappear behind the rows of poplars that hid the tennis-court from view, she told herself that her own dream was over. Tony was going to ask Elinor to marry him. And Elinor would, of course, accept him.

It never occurred to Millicent, in her infatuation, that any girl could refuse Tony Deering. He'd been her idol since childhood. Just as Elinor had been his Venetian counterpart, enshrined on a pedestal in Millicent's heart. As a child, she had never read a fairy-tale without seeing Tony as the Prince Charming and Elinor as the lovely princess to be rescued from tiresomely persistent dangers. When she grew older and reached the Lylia-of-the-King stage in literature, Tony was Lancelot and Sir Galahad and King personality exactly fitted Elinor. Millicent never was particularly ambitious, but she had to admit to herself, that she couldn't quite picture Elinor pining away and dying for love of any one. Somehow the character of Guinevere seemed to be more in Elinor's line, but, even in her innocent Millicent sensed that there was something a bit wrong about Guinevere, and she couldn't compare her idol to such a person.

While she dressed, she sighed, finding no comfort in the charming reflection that her mirror gave back to her. The dull silk of her mourning-frock was startling becoming, for it emphasized her fragile fairness. The soft, blond curls that outlined her small, shapely head glinted like pure gold—a rich gold that just missed the coppery of Elinor's hair; here eyes were blue, not velvety, like the petals of a pansy. They were rather wonderful eyes although they did not have the lure of Elinor's dark, mysterious ones so startling. Neither did they flash with an instantaneous change of mood. But they were steady and deep and very sweet. A youthful and adoring suitor once had told her, in a burst of what he believed to be originality, that a man could drown in such eyes. At that, he wasn't far off, as he was to be wounded. Millicent's eyes were like that.

They were very and eyes that evening, as she dressed for dinner, and they refused to look back at her. She told herself that she must hide her feelings. Elinor, no matter how she felt, could be gay and sparkling. No one ever could read Elinor. But then Elinor was not in love with Tony Deering.

Ever since she had seen them together that afternoon, Millicent had been haunted by the fear that Tony cared for Elinor. Curious that it had never occurred to her before. She always had been, all three of them, much friended and considerate that Millicent had never suspected Tony's infatuation for Elinor. Perhaps she had been too engrossed in her own efforts to hide her love for him. When ever he wasn't looking at her direction, she watched him; but, when his glance turned toward her, her own eyes fell, and her head drooped.

But it occurred to her, for the first time that afternoon, that Tony usually watched Elinor and that rarely ever seemed to see her—at least, that had been the case lately. The thought stabbed her.

Elinor strolled in while Millicent, a dull jet fleckface around her slim throat. It made her flesh look like white velvet. She smiled a greeting.

Elinor came over to stand beside her foster-sister and study their reflections critically in the mirror.

"I wish I had your white skin," she murmured contentedly.

Millicent's eyes opened wide.

"Why, Elinor, your skin is heavenly."

Elinor chucked her under the chin.

"Nice girl. But, you know, I'm not dead white—like you. I've a lawny tinge—my face, that is. Guess it's meant to blend with my hair, but, if I had your skin, I'd be a riot. Oh, we'd dare say ll can be got—in New York," she shrugged.

"New York?" echoed Millicent.

"Sure," Elinor yawned and strolled toward the door.

"You—you're going to New York?" questioned Millicent incredulously.

Over her shoulder, as she continued to walk away, Elinor called: "Why not?"

Millicent felt slightly dizzy. Tony? What?

"But — but the will — Uncle Dan's will?" she faltered.

BOUTLECK 1636

There is something of the gallant Cavalier in the slim grace and easy elegance of this smart frock with its deep lace cuffs flaring above tight cuffs, its fastening lace collar setting off the slender basque and its scallop-edged circular skirt swinging in unstudied lines both front and back. The scalloped outline in which the skirt is attached to the basque hints at a slightly higher waistline, a suggestion favored by the young girls and small women who will wear this frock. Its simple yet semi-formal style makes it most suitable for countless afternoon and informal evening affairs of the fall and winter, and it is particularly useful for the college or boarding school girl.

SINCLAIR'S

THE MYSTERY OF PARIS

By Lucie LeMare

Paris and Fashion are synonymous. The answer to every question of where does a Fashion originate is "Paris."—in the same breath with the names of Poiret, Patou, Worner, Chanel, Reboux, etc. That's supposed to satisfy all curiosity on the subject—but it never does—at least, not with me. One always wonders what Kings and Queens of Fashion enthroned in their establishments and creating out of thin air the fashions that are to revolutionize the mode with each successive season.

The little scene is almost true but not quite. The Queens do not stay at their courts but they and their envoys roam the world—for ideas. Paris is not the source of Fashion; rather it is the world we live in.

While in Africa, Reboux saw a comely African belle in her dress headgear, and with her infinite imagination saw an adaptation of this outlandish affair for the modern smart woman. Poiret in Russia was beguiled by a group of peasants working in the field. Their rabbit likeness fascinated him,—and so we have the present smart costume blouser because of his powers of vivalization.

All these inimitable artists travel constantly—from the lowliest object to the most exalted, they get their inspiration. From the Arabian desert at sunset came the colors that have been so much in vogue in hosiery for these seasons past. From the court costume of a lovely Spanish queen came the snitchery of the new cuffed gloves. And, yes, from the dancing girls we once more copy came the first brief underthings. Oh, and on and on, ad infinitum.

The making of a fashion is an absorbing task—but it takes its creators far afield into strange lands among strange people—oftentimes into the busy just just for that clearer wrld-the-way—so-to-do. It may interest you to know that Kayser was first with the new desert shades in HOSIERY—with the new GLOVE stitchery—and, the first heel styles in UNDERWEAR.

Some Helpful Hints For Busy Housewives

You will find the snap clothes pins very useful to hold up curtains and hangings on cleaning day.

When potting the plants put a layer of cinders in before putting in the soil—this will prevent dampness.

Chew a piece of orange peel before taking a disagreeably medicine, and you will not notice its unpleasants taste

Do not starch when stiffening articles made of organdie or dimity but try a weak solution of gum arabic. This will give just the right stiffness without making it hard like starch.

CITY AGHAST AS GUESTS ACCEPT

Boston Lamplighter Sent Out 7300 Invitations To World

TERCENTENARY 1930

One-Time Janitor Spent 4½ Years Asking Dignitaries To Attend

Boston, Sept. 30.— City officials faced the embarrassing fact yesterday that 7,300 countries, states and municipalities scattered over the face of the globe have been invited to participate in Boston's tercentenary celebration in 1930 and all without their knowledge.

When Soviet Russia hastened to announce its acceptance, and when Germany and Denmark made inquiries concerning the scope of this affair, city hall officials now plainly stirred, but the full extent of the potential influence of honored guests was not apparent until William A. Ryan, Dorchester lamplighter and sometime janitor, calmly admitted authorship of the invitations.

He told amazed inquiries that every city for the past four and a half years he had sent out at least four of them. In fact, he figured that the current invitations could not number a single one fewer than 7,300 and the figures might be higher.

Shock to Officials

News of the impending celebration was news to Mayor Malcolm E. Nichols and other municipal department heads, as well as to Soviet Russia, whose resolution to send a delegation here first brought Ryan and his letters to light.

A flock of reporters discovered the self-styled "organizer and president of the world league of cities" in his modest home, where his wife was busily engaged in trying to prepare dinner for their six children.

Ryan, who is about 40, is a thin, quiet, studious and bespectacled man, who evidently takes his self-appointed task of lighting the world to a "new freedom of peace beauty and happiness" with considerable seriousness. "You've got to like this," he told newspapermen. "Having been born in Boston and having made this great city my home all my life, I feel I have a perfect right to invite whom I please to the celebration three years hence which my city has been planning. Furthermore I owe no one an apology for what I have done, do it!"

Invited Moscow's Mayor

"Two months ago I extended an invitation to the Mayor of Moscow, asking him to carry the message of the great city to every corner of Soviet Russia. The fact that he has seen fit to accept is something to rejoice at."

Friendly say that Ryan is intelligent and well read, although admitted, somewhat erratic. He has paid the mailing cost of preparing and mailing dollars out of his meagre savings.

The lamplighter has a formidable stock of correspondence from personages celebrated and otherwise with whom he put himself in touch, and he believes the tercentenary in 1930 will be a huge success.

Meanwhile harassed city officials are busy disclaiming any connection with the plan and emphasizing in particular that no invitation has been sent nor is likely to be sent to Russia.

Through an unfortunate error in asking a long distance telephone message The Intelligencer yesterday announced that Mellor had elected to be summarily tried by Magistrate Mikel. This was exactly opposite to what our reporter was sending. The Intelligencer regrets the mistake.

On Stand Three Hours

For three hours Bertha Houck the alleged victim of Mellor's evil actions sat through a gruelling cross examination by the defending lawyer and nevertinched as she told the court the story of her relations with her former pastor since he became charge of the Pine on Church. She gave her evidence in a straight-forward manner which worked shine of pity from even the most hardened of her listeners.

It was the story of a girl who had placed every confidence in a man whom she believed to possess only the nobler and nobler instincts and whom he trusted as an "elder" who ministered. "Love" the greatest power the world knows was the one thing which he blamed for the whole affair.

Commencing with her early life she told a story of having identified herself with the Church and Sunday School and girls' organizations from childhood, winding up with the unpleasant episode which has resulted in a court case stirring the whole province.

Mellor sat stolidly throughout the proceedings and took no part whatever only conferring at intervals with his Attorney, F. L. Ward, of Picton. His face was drawn and he had the appearance of having spent many sleepless nights since his incarceration. It was readily apparent that there was little sympathy for him among the spectators.

Won Her Confidence

According to Miss Houck's evidence Mellor was a man who, by devious methods had lead a little fourteen-year old girl from the paths of rectitude-ness. Commencing with the usual inquisitions of love, Mellor took the girl into his confidence and with endearing talk and kisses, which had their desired effect, had accomplished his purpose, he testified.

Miss Houck maintained that she believed that nothing was wrong in these relations as Mellor had whispered sweet nothings into her ear and proclaimed his love through letters from his cache while he was away and even while both were in Picton.

During the entire three hours on the stand she glanced at Mellor but once when she was asked to identify him to the Crown Prosecutor, Col. Kellar McKay, of Toronto, who has become prominent through his methods of dealing with similar cases throughout the Province. Gordon Wamsley, of Picton acted on the girl's behalf and assisted Mr. McKay.

A dramatic scene at the outset due to the insistance of Jailer Croft that the press be excluded from the inner circle of the court room. Magistrate Mikel permitted the members of the fourth estate to remain but ordered a table a few feet from the witness box.

Graduated at Seventeen

Miss Houck stated that she had graduated from Picton High School at the age of seventeen years and had been employed at the home of her aunt Mrs. Hyde three days time. In reply to her tale she spoke of the manner in which Mellor had singled her out as a sort of sal in whom he confided.

As time went on she said she began to become more closely associated with him and they had long talks together and often met in the Vestry of the Church where they chatted and where Mellor expressed his love for her.

She often wrote his letters and he replied and always she addressed them as "Miss", a practice adopted by some of the girls for their favorite pastor. Expressions were often indicated by means of letters for instance I. L. Y. indicated I Love You.

Some of these letters were produced in court and identified by the witness. These were written on Church notepaper. "There was nothing improper in the letters," Miss Houck, declared. This correspondence started when she was fourteen and continued until a few months ago when the present trouble was brewing.

Mr. Ward:—"Did it ever occur to you that it might be improper to correspond with a married man?"

"I am not until lately because I had the greatest of confidence in Mr. Mellor and treated him as a pal."

"Even when you knew he had a wife and family" continued the Attorney.

"I did some as I grew older."

"Why didn't you stop?"

"I thought that was his place."

The witness clearly stated that no one had ever told her that it was wrong although she finally admitted that the fact revealed itself in a general way.

Never Went With Boys

The girl said that during her entire High School career she never kept company with any other boys and her acquaintance merely went so far as to walk to or from school with them.

It was at the first visit to the lodge when the first of the alleged offences took place. Her aunt was away and Mellor arrived about 7.00 and left shortly after 9. At that time she was fifteen years of age. It was at this time that Mellor grew bolder and his relations became closer. It was in her home that Mellor first committed the offence with which he is now charged.

Miss Houck stated that the accuses had her to believe that intimate relations were the usual thing between each other.

"Did you honestly believe him?"

"Yes, I believed anything he said."

Mr. Ward—"You were a teacher in Sunday School?"

"Yes."

"Would you like to have told your chelars under you that those relations were alright?"

"The witness would not give a direct answer to this query and it was dropped.

"Did you understand the Command-ments of the Bible?"

"Yes".

Bench—To Mr. Ward—"Do you."

"During your school association do you recall nothing pertaining to morals?"

"No."

"Do you mean to tell us that you, a girl of 18, thought these relations between Mellor and yourself were all right?"

"Yes, I did with him."

"Did you talked your story over coming what you would say here today.

"With no one outside my solicitor and Counsel."

Feeling the Strain

It was plain at this stage that the term of questions fired from the Defendant's Counsel were having a telling effect on Miss Houck that her composure was exceptional in view of her delicate condition.

Miss Houck stated that Mellor took part in the games with the girls of the C. G. I. T.

Mr. Ward—When did he become more friendly to you in particular?"

"Early in 1927."

"In June of 1923, four of us secretly resolved to call Mr. Mellor "Kiss", a Mine Houck said she had never been alone with Mellor previous to this time."

Nine girls before we went to Girl Guide Camp we kissed each other cum ing from the Sunday School rooms."

Miss Houck said that there were several others in the room at that time.

Mr. Ward—Did you meet at the Camp but there was nothing improper took place there."

The witness said that the Pastor and herself had a talk at the C. G. I. C. camp, both agreeing to be chums. Mellor kissed me on that occasion."

The witness maintained there was nothing improper in their meeting together at Camp.

"Mellor wrote me letters from his camp while he was away and after he came home that year."

The first letters she wrote were referenced to both Mr. and Mrs. Mellor. Further letters were answered by each member of the family individually."

Mr. Ward—"What took place next?"

"We decided to have talks together after he came home."

"These talks," said Miss Houck "took place in the vestry of the church." She said the talks were confined to affairs of the church, being chums, etc."

"There was nothing improper in our relations until the autumn of 1925."

The evidence showed that until Christmas 1923 there had been nothing untoward in their actions with the exception of kissing each other.

Mine Relations in 1924

In the spring of 1924 Mr. Mellor began paying more attention to her and the relations became more intimate. When asked why she did not bring a halt to Mellor's advances, Miss Houck said she never stopped to think.

At that time she was fifteen years of age.

On one occasion in May when her self was away Mr. Mellor came to the house at Miss Houck's request. She did arrangements were made to meet at the latter not found out her aunt was going away.

It was around seven o'clock when he arrived. At that time his attentions reached a climax and Miss Houck said he was ignorant of the impropriety of the improper relationship between them.

Similar occurrences took place in the vestry of the United Church after that in several occasions.

These meetings in the church took place in the Vestry after school and in the evenings. "They were pre-arranged," she said.

"Was Mrs. Mellor's name ever mentioned?"

"No."

"By whom?"

"By me."

A Kept Relations Secret

It was understood between them that their relations were to remain a complete secret. Miss Houck was firm in declaring that she did not believe that she was doing wrong owing to the fact that she believed she loved Mellor.

This completed the evidence.

Magistrate Mikel to Miller.

"Do you wish to say anything, Mellor?"

Around—"Nothing to say."

Magistrate Mikel—"Apparently from this evidence a prime facie case has been made against the accused and charged. One of the circumstances surrounding this case is the youth of the girl and I will therefore commit the accused to be tried before the next court of competent jurisdiction."

Mr. Ward stated that he had nothing to say at this time.

EARNS BIG SUM TEACHING BRIDGE

Chicago, Ill., Sept. 30.—A futile search for gold in Alaska brought Mrs. Virginia Tubbs smit her husband to Chicago twelve years ago. Six years later, widowed and inexperienced in business, she turned to bridge as her only means of support.

Today Mrs. Tubbs earns more than $1,000 a month teaching Chicago's gold coast residents how to play bridge. She had learned the game during the long evenings in their isolated Alaskan home. Her mastery of cards now causes leading men bridge experts to commend her as "the only woman who knows anything about bridge."

The first few years she taught for 50 cents an hour and often had to take long, cross city street car rides in order to obtain pupils. Now her lowest price is 10 dollars a lesson and she never lacks luxurious transportation, either in her own car or in the automobiles of her "students".

Teaching bridge, she says, is much like educating a child. It requires infinite patience, and ability to refrain from belittling the efforts of those who are learning.

PROHIBITION ASSET TO SHIPPING LINES

Washington, D.C., Sept. 30.—Prohibition is an asset rather than a detriment to United States shipping lines, in the opinion of President Dalton, of the Merchant Fleet Corporation, who has returned here from a European tour.

"Personally, I would not approve of again restoring bars on United States ships, even if authorized by law," he said. "Prohibition does not retard our bookings, and in many cases passengers with women and children prefer the American ships because there is no drinking at bars and there is no place on the ship that women and children cannot go."

IMPROVING THE HOME LIFE IN NEBRASKA STATE

Helping Woman To Save Her Unnecessary Labor Around House

Oakland, Neb., Sept. 30.—A Nebraska farm woman, with plumbing facilities available at her very door, carries water 400 feet for the family washing—200 feet from the well to the house for the purpose of heating it and 200 feet back to the wash house by the well.

This is one of a number of findings made to the people of Nebraska throughout the home demonstration which the General Federation of Women's Clubs has just completed. Nebraska was the first state to complete its survey. It was also the first to get under way its campaign for the improvement of conditions and the raising of standards of living within the state.

Mrs. William R. Minier of Oakland, president of the federation's interstate work, Mrs. Clubs, is the moving spirit in Nebraska's campaign for better homes. She has developed a programme into which she has drawn co-operation and assistance from public utilities companies, the state agricultural college and other institutions and organizations.

"The day is at hand," said Mrs. Minier, "when the conservation of woman power will become as vital a consideration as the piping of water to the chicken yard, the hog lot and the barn."

CASUALTY LIST OF CUT MOVIES

Hollywood, Cal., Sept. 30.—A casualty list of motion picture stars who have had subtitles shot away, emotional scenes amputated or plots taken apart by censors in various states, cities and foreign countries is being compiled at the Hollywood office of Will H. Hays, head of the Motion Picture Producers and Distributors of America.

Jason Joy, contact man and censorship guide of the Hays organization, who is organizing the card index of casualties, stresses the fact that the number of pictures rejected by the censors' shears is extremely small in comparison with the thousands of reels passed without change. Nevertheless, instances collected since January 1, when he began indexing the expurgations, are very interesting.

The index segregates the expurgations under such heads as crime, abduction, cruelty, fire, gambling, poison, hanging, robbery, profanity, gunplay, dancing, kissing and lack of clothes.

If a scene is eliminated by the New York state board of censors, for instance, because it shows all the details of a shooting, a red cross in the index under gun-play, with the name of the picture, the reel number, a description of the matter eliminated and the name of the eliminating censor's office is entered.

REGENT THEATRE

War-hooping Indians, foaming arrows, fearless fighting cavalrymen, flags bullet-riddled, a beautiful girl, a lowly Army Scout who loves her, a military captain who is jealous, and a vengeful half-breed—of such elements is "The Frontier Trail," Harry Carey's new thriller, made. Yesterday's audience at the Regent Theatre, where it remains until Saturday, followed its story with an interest intrigued by its swift action, its charming romance and its suspenseful adventurous plot.

Under the head of Kissing is filed a particularly interesting group of expurgations. For some reason, most of the kisses banished from the screen this year have been kisses on the neck.

VANCOUVER BUILDING MEMORIAL CHAPEL

Vancouver, B. C. Sept. 29. — (By Canadian Press) — A Canadian Memorial Chapel is being built in this city. The chapel will be of native granite in pure Gothic style. The main features will be 12 beautiful memorial windows. The chancel window will represent the exercises of Canadians in the war and the front window will symbolize the history of Canada from its early days. The others will represent the various provinces of the Dominion and the Yukon. The honor roll will be placed beneath the chancel window.

The corner stone was laid recently by Hon. W. C. Nichol, former Lieut.-Governor of British Columbia.

RUTH EQUALLED 1921 RECORD; 2 HUSKY SMASHES

Has Two More Games In Which To Hang Up New Home Run Mark

New York, September 30.—Arriving at the conclusion that he ought not to keep a ballplaying world in suspense any longer, George Herman Ruth crashed out two home runs at the Yankee Stadium yesterday afternoon, and with these powerful thrusts drew abreast of his own major league annual record of forty-nine, which he set in 1921. The Babe now has two more games, one tomorrow and another Saturday, in which to shatter the mark.

Third two blows helped to annihilate the Senators completely, although in the good fanatics no one gave much thought. So far as the crowd was concerned they were there merely for scenic effect. The fight long since has been knocked out of the contest, and before the devastating wallops of the Babe and sundry other members of Miller Huggins' rag collection of sockers, they fell 15 to 4 and the referee could have counted a hundred. Indeed, it shall seemed to be his highest pitch, Babe lost no time clicking in the record which he had forged most so relentlessly all through the past month. The fifty-eighth wallop came in the first inning and was made off Horace Lisenbee. There were two out at the time and no one on base. Horace had just struck two strikes over on the Babe and quite craftily was trying to cross him with when Ruth struck that one in the right field bleachers. It was a long, swinging drive that just went up only a few rows.

Then the fifty-ninth; that, countrymen, was a wallop. It came in the fifth with Paul Hopkins pitching and was an almost exact duplicate of the fifty-seventh made on Tuesday, delivered with the bases full. The ball landed half-way up the right-field bleachers and, according to some accounts, 7,000 eye-witnesses present, the roar they sent up could hardly have hit deeper out had the spacious stands been packed to capacity. The crowd fairly rent the air with shrieks and whistles as the bulky monarch jogged majestically around the bases behind the other batsmen. Yanks, doffed his cap, and shook hands with Lou Gehrig who was waiting for Babe his next turn at bat.

GIGANTIC SPOTS ON SUN

SportOgramS By "The Observer"

Tonight's big soft-ball battle should draw a capacity audience with two of the best teams in the district looking up in a crucial series for the city championship. The Beavers will be slightly weakened by the loss of a couple of players but Alan Meagher promises to send a strong team into action. Little has been heard from the Ontario's camp but Manager Walter Gerow has been saving wood all along and is leaving no stone unturned to give the fans their money's worth. Hilda Agnew who has developed into a right smart pitcher will be the choice for mound duty. Serious little body Grey who has performed on the fallock of the bulk of the season's games for the blue shirts will attempt to stem the heavy hitting ex-High School team. Ken Colling and Tony Woodley will officiate and they have promised to get the game away promptly at 8:15.

Baby Beavers

Alan Meagher has issued another call for candidates for the "Baby" Beavers' initial practice on the new Agricultural Grounds at 6 o'clock tomorrow afternoon. Any youngsters not identified with any team in the city at the present time will be welcomed. It is planned to get a bunch of youngsters who have not as yet had experience in softball ranks but who are desirous of playing and training them for next season.

Rugby Tomorrow

Belleville fans will be given their first taste of rugby football tomorrow when the Interscholastic teams will stage a double-header at the Old Agricultural Grounds. The first game will see the Albert College juniors hooking up with Trenton on at two o'clock. The visitors had one of the fastest teams in the district last year and it is reported that their squad is equally as strong this year. The Albert College gridders have been putting in some useful work in preparation for the annual Autumn grind and they are in fine shape for the battle.

In the night-cap affair the Belleville High School team will face the strong Picton aggregation and a battle royal is promised. Both of these teams are a big-game-bunch and no love lost between them. This double-header should attract a fine crowd as the opening game off to a win in the opening game will be in a more favorable position than the Collegiate team of Toronto, one of the foremost officials in the Province has been delegated to handle both games.

To Attend Series

Several Bellevillians will be among the thousands in the New York Stadium, New York, when the world's series opens next week. Vern Weir and Jack Armstrong, two prominent young athletes, will motor down to the metropolis to see the Yankees clash with George Lee and Gerald Lynch, two other rabid fans will be in the first-hand throng of the series from a seat in the grandstand. Interest in the series is running high in the city and it is a safe bet that those who are not fortunate enough to be a the games will be parked beside a radio somewhere. The question, "How do you like 'em up ever now and again and the opinions seem to be about even with the Yankee slight favorites.

GRUDGE BATTLE OPENS TONIGHT

Beavers And Ontarios Try Conclusions On Armouries Floor

Tonight's struggle for local softball supremacy should be a lively scrapping affair. The teams are ready for the Umpire to call "Play ball" and then the fireworks will be on.

After the smoke has cleared both teams have been severely shaken up on their shoulders all season, will know which one still has it there.

Jessie Agnew of the Ontarios will not be able to play in the series. She is a nice outfielder and will be missed. To offset this two of the regular Beavers will not be in the line-up. Happy Lee and Melcher are also not-likely to play either. This is the keystone pair of the Beavers but is not depressing their spirit a great deal Mary. Mooney will be moved from the outfield to short and Lizz Graham of the best of the Beavers, who was unable to play most of the season, may play second, and Mad Killeher in the field. Red Miles and Slim Thrasher will be ready to step in the game if necessary.

Oh, boy, what a series!

FERGUSON IS OPTIMISTIC

Toronto, Sept. 30.—Full of optimism for the future of Northern Ontario, Premier H. Ferguson returned to his office in the Parliament Buildings today after a four days' tour in the north.

Those New Fords will be here before long, but if you don't want to invest in one of them, Belleville Motors have some real good Used Cars, which they are offering way below actual value; they must have space for the new cars so this is your chance to pick up a good buy.

PIRATES NEED BUT ONE WIN TO GET FLAG

Reds Practically Shoved Pittsburgh Into Championship

New York, September 30.—The Pirates were practically shoved into the National League championship today without a struggle as the Cincinnati Reds went out down by the Cincinnati Reds 3 to 2 to diminish the league lead possibility in the event of a tie. The Ids Corsairs assumed a lead of two and one-half games on first place, which Cardinals defended the second rung by half a notch against the New York Giants, who were also without schedule.

Team.	W.	L.	To Play	P.C.
Pittsburgh	91	58	2	.610
St. Louis	91	61	2	.599
New York	89	61	2	.593

Pittsburgh Corsairs stand a chance of definitely capturing the bunting today by a victory over the Cubs. All Pittsburgh reds to take the banner is one triumph in three remaining games with the Chicago pacemakers drop the three, games and the Cardinals and Giants sweep all their encounters, the Ids will be tangled in a triple tie, as the standing as follows:

	Won.	Lost.	P.C.
Pittsburgh	93	61	.604
St. Louis	93	61	.604
New York	93	61	.604

Be Reds almost sank the Cardinals yesterday when they staged a ninth frame amid the cheers of the Pittsburgh Pirates, who were watching the game from the roof at Cincinnati. The Reds bunched four of their five hits in the inning to score three runs, who tasted his first defeat in the Cardinal uniform, and the first of the season. One error scored the three runs that meant victory.

Bingler and Bottomley singled and Frisch scored on an infield out in the fifth inning for the first counter of the game. Hafey hit a home-run in the sixth inning for the second St. Louis score.

Lee May allowed St. Louis eight hits, but kept them well scattered. The Cardinals while the outfielders navigated around small lakes created by the day and night rains that fell on the field.

Philadelphia won an easy 7 to 1 victory over Boston in the first game of a double-header at Boston. Ray Miller, young pitcher from Syracuse, keeping his hits well scattered.

BIRD SANCTUARY ON LONELY ISLE

Bournemouth, England, Sept. 28.—Brownsea Island, in Poole Harbor, has been purchased by Mrs. Robert Christie, of Marston for use as a refuge for protected animals. She has bought the island from Sir Arthur Wheeler for $625,000, and has built a wooden fence all of the tenants on the island had in a cage should act as bodyguard. She said she would not permit any birds to be enraged nor any animals or birds to be killed on the Island as long as she held possession.

Mrs. Christie, though leading a retired life, is well known in Somerset. is keenly interested in the Society of the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, is one of the leading members of the Bournemouth branch.

CADETS FIELDING A SMART SQUAD

Kingston, Sept. 30.—R. M. C. rugby hits are down for hard work in preparation for their exhibition game at Toronto on Saturday against University of Toronto and the squad is rounding into fairly good shape. The material this year is lighter than previous years however, and the cadets will have to depend largely upon tricks and speed instead of the ploughing route.

The R. M. C. rugby squad has been hard hit this year through graduation and the red and white will be without their mainstay of the past four years Ken Trousdale. However Trousdale not long last season earned him a repute with the best in the game. Trousdale is now with McGill and more than making good. Mallett, the sterling snag, is also lost to the cadets this year. But even without their main guards, R. M. C. will make a smart team on the field this season and should uphold their hitherto fine record. Last season they annexed the intermediate championship and they have hopes of repeating this year.

MGR. MATHIEU MUCH WEAKER

Regina, Sept. 30.—His Grace Archbishop Mathieu was much weaker today than at any time during his long illness, according to reports received from the Grey Nuns Hospital where he is a patient, and from the Archbishop's Palace. At times it was believed His Grace was nearing his end, and although he rallied somewhat his condition this afternoon was given as very weak.

NEW COACH IS POPULAR MENTOR

Orrin Carson Has Tricolor In Midst Of Severe Grind

Kingston, Sept. 30.—Little is being left undone that can be accomplished by the Queen's University football squad. Persistent practice, physical training instructions, etc., are all having their effect upon the squad and the coming down process has already started with the result that the possible first and second teams are much more in evidence now than they were some days ago when the one big squad was all the students.

Home products generally get the honour when they undertake a task but Coach Orrin Carson has proved the exception to the rule. The new mentor for la friendial capacity as chief coach of the Tricolor football squad and there is every reason to believe that his tenure of office as rugby coach at Queen's will be regarded with success. Whilst not a hard driver, he is getting results and results are what are wanted. He has been in particular with the players and officials and fully fits to fill his position as capably as those who have preceded him.

He is being given great assistance-in coaching by Chicks' Mondell Harvey Retalone, Dr. "Pres." McLeod, while the physical training end of the work is being taken care of by the popular Jimmy Bews. There is no lack of enthusiasm on the part of the coaching staff or the players and evidence of this is prevalent at the practices.

HENRI BOURASSA IN WEST

Winnipeg, Sept. 30.—Henri Bourassa, member of the Federal House for Labelle, and grandson of Louis Joseph Papineau, the fiery orator, statesman and patriot, arrived here today. Mr. Bourassa is on a tour of the west during which he will address a number of organizations.

WOOD CHOPPING NOW THE SPORT

Chicago Business Men And Educators Believe Golf Standardized

Chicago, Ills., Sept. 30.—Wood-chopping has been substituted for golf by a group of Chicago business men and educators.

With shining axes over their shoulders, they daily forth each week-end to match their skill against each other and making the chips fly.

They count strokes, as they slash through logs, just as the strokes are counted in golf, and they assert that an afternoon of chipping is far superior as a recreation to playing eighteen holes of golf.

H. C. Lewis, president of a Chicago technical school, founded the club. A wood-chopping "course" has been fitted up in La Salle, Ill., another in Michigan, and one is being prepared here. All that is needed to make a perfect afternoon of chopping is a lot of logs and plenty of room.

Lewis asserts golf is too standardized.

"It's in a fair way to ruin the conversation of Americans," he says. "All we ask each other is 'How's your game?' and 'What did you go around in?'

"Wood-chopping as a sport is wholly American. It takes more precision and skill to be an expert axe-man than a crack golfer.

"Golf is as standardized in costume, conversation and conduct as the business world from which the golfers are pretending to escape."

Tow in a game of wood-chopping, one must cut through a certain type of log and if log with fewer strokes than his opponent.

There is but one land where all men and women enjoy equal rights and that is Greenland.

A man seldom exhibits his temper until after he loses it.

Riggs Motor Sales To Start Business In Riggs' Garage

WELL KNOWN MEN

Have Taken Agency For Chrysler Cars—Service All Makes

Tomorrow, Saturday, October 1st, Riggs' Garage will formally, open under a brand new management. The garage, to be known as Riggs' Motor Sales, will be under the direction of two well-known local men, Messrs. Leo Riggs and Arthur MacConnell.

Back in 1914 in the pioneer days of the automobile industry, Mr. W. B. Riggs, father of Mr. Leo Riggs, established one of the first garage businesses in Belleville, and in the succeeding years achieved an enviable reputation here and throughout the entire district for fair and honest dealing in every transaction with a great and increasing number of motorist friends. Riggs' Garage, as it stands today, was built by him and is the finest in the city, with large attractive showrooms, ample room for car storage, an up-to-date ladies' rest room, and every facility for expert repair service work.

Under its new management, Riggs' Motor Sales will still but one make of car—the Chrysler—complete with expert service not only on Chrysler cars but on all makes. It will be available with a competent staff of trained mechanics for this purpose. A first-class garage service in every way will thus be maintained including gas, oil and wash-rack service.

Both Mr. Riggs and Arthur MacConnell, the new managers, are well-known in this city. The former is an old Belleville boy who grew up and was educated here; after several years residence in Indianapolis and New York he returned to his home city and now succeeds his father in the business established by him some fourteen years ago.

OSHAWA'S NEW RINK

Oshawa, Sept. 30.—Oshawa hockey teams will be playing on artificial ice surface this winter, according to an announcement made late today by Hambly Brothers who stated that the ground for the new arena will be broken this week and the new structure ready for occupancy January 1. The concrete and structural steel work will be up, according to the terms of the contract, six weeks from now. It will be located on King street west.

While Hambly Brothers would not divulge the proposed size and nature or name of contractor, it was de signed by A. W. Connee & Company, of Toronto, architects. They added, however, that it has been especially designed to meet the requirements of Oshawa fans and hockey teams. The new building will have a seating cap acity of 2,500 persons. There will be standing room of approximately 1500 capacity, thus making ample accommodation for 3,500 fans.

ASSAULT CHARGE

Kingston, Sept. 30.—Charged that they did assault Edward Thompson of Arden, and also that they robbed him, four men, Arthur Hayes, Ben Hayes Ernest Hayes and Clarence Peterson also of Arden appeared before Judge H. A. Lavell in County court at the court house yesterday morning. The case continuing all morning are through the afternoon.

Already the annual "tagging" festivities at Queens University are being "spotted" about the college. Last night the usual number of freshmen marks being now much in evidence.

Those who fail to be a member of Levana, who still hold to the theory that beauty needs no aid to display, the question of attaching a ribbon to the hair has become a perplexing one, but the annual rule every year is over and has been able to show the necessary green ribbon.

EXPLAIN SINKING OF MINE SHAFT

Quebec, Que., Sept. 27 (C.P.)—The Explore Mining and Metallurgical Congress held its final technicol session at Quebec on Sept. 23rd, when interesting papers by delegates from South Ayrica were presented. A. Job, resident engineer of the Geronton Gold Mining Areas, Ltd., Transvaal, described the sinking and equipment of the vertical ion shaft put down on the property a few years ago. This is a circular shaft, 22 feet in diameter, and is lined red with a fan on the surface capable of indraing a flow of 80,000 cubic feet of air per minute through the workings. This shaft was sunk to a depth of 2,656 feet in a little more than 12 months, probably creating a record. The plant was completed and put into commission in August, 1925, and it has been running perfectly since that time.

The tipping and skidding of vertical skips" was dealt with in some mathematical detail in a paper by C. Wyl. harp, Chief Draughtsman, New Consolidated Goldfields, Ltd., Johannesburg." Of special interest was the description of a new device introduced and patented by Mr. Sharp, and known as the 'rigid guide slipper.' Among other advantages over other types, it has been found that the wearing strips in the new device require less frequent renewal, and moreover the slipper may be quickly replaced while the skip is on the hoisting rope. Thereby saving considerable time as well as expense. The rigid guide slipper has been introduced at the Rudolph Deep, and other properties, and has given entire satisfaction.

In their paper on "Improvements in Drilling Efficiency with Jack-hammers," P. M. Newhall and H. Pryce, of the Central Mining and Investment Corporation, Ltd., Johannesburg, dealt with a subject which is of the first importance in mining operations the world over. At the time the investigations described in the paper were commenced, the ordinary way of operating the jack-hammer was with a hollow steel, with air only passing through the steel to the bit, water for dust alloying being supplied by a separate hose. The results of a very thorough investigation have shown that the most efficient method of operating is to supply the water through the steel, as the result of introducing this practice, and this of standardization of bits, and other improvements, a tremendous increase in footage drilled for ordinary shift has been effected—from 25 feet to 60 feet, or nearly 300 per cent. The authors suggest that further work along the lines of this investigation will greatly assist in prolonging the life of mines, and, by reducing costs of production, will make possible the mining of ore of lower and lower grade.

At the termination of this meeting, a concluding general session of the Congress was held for the considera-

BOARD REPRESENTATIVE

Edmonton, Sept. 30.—There is no immediate prospect of an Alberta man being appointed to the Canadian National board of directors, said Hon. C. A. Dunning, Minister of Railways, on his arrival here today on a tour of the west in company with Hon. J. A. Robb, federal Minister of Finance. In this connection he pointed out that there are a number of other provinces that are without representation on this board.

Hon. Mr. Dunning declined to express an opinion concerning the possibility of a federal Government subsidy to assist the marketing of Alberta coal in Ontario. He pointed out that the report from the railway commissioners had only been received just before he left for the west, moral tains again, and what further atrocities will be perpetrated on the new students has yet to be decided.

SOLVES PROBLEM

Kingston, Sept. 30.—Major Frederick J. Alderson, of the Kingston Tool and Engineering Co., Ltd., claims to have definitely solved the glaring head light problem so far as automobiles are concerned, and General Motors Limited have become so far interested in this invention that there is a possibility of it becoming standard equipment on their cars.

Directors of the company behind Major Alderson are most reticent regarding this invention owing to the fact that proceedings for the issuing of the necessary patent on this appliance have not yet been completed.

NO CROWDING

Port Hope, Sept. 30.—Those who expected to see a scene crowd scramb ling and fighting for admission to the Liquor Store opened for business this morning at Port Hope were disappointed as the street presented as quiet an appearance as on other week days. As a matter of fact there was no rush, a fact which reflects credit on the community. Port Hope people apparently believe in moderation and the opening of a liquor store is not going to unduly alter that mode of living. The doors a there for their convenience and if they desire a little refreshment with which to pass a sociable hour with their friends, or medicinal purposes they do now require to journey to "Buffa lo" or "Rochester" or "Toronto" or li; nor do they need to go to that most accommodating individual known as the "bootlegger" who will view this new development with alarm knowing that he will have to turn to other fields for a living.

TARIFF BOARD'S HEAVY PROGRAM

Have Inspected Canadian Industries And Carried Out Research Work

Ottawa, September 28.—After a very busy summer inspecting Canadian industries at first hand, members of the advisory board on tariff and taxation are again in Ottawa and an ambitious programme has been arranged for October and November sittings. Since the board began its function sometime ago slightly applications for tariff revisions upward or downward have been received and most sixty cases have been heard and disposed of. The recommendations of the board doubtless will be reflected in the next budget of Hon. James Robb.

While members of the board, accompanied by the secretary, visited factories in Ontario and Quebec, research work was carried on both in Canada and in Britain by three well-known authorities on economics: Professor Gilert E. Jackson of the University of Toronto, spent several weeks in Britain looking into the cotton and woolled industries, while similar researches were made in the Dominion by Professor W. C. MacKintosh, head of the department of economics at Queen's University. At the same time Professor H. Ormics at the University of Manitoba, proceeded with D. Q. McKeenth, one of the commissioners, to the Okanagan Valley to study the marketing methods of fruit growers in British Columbia in connection with the application now before the board for a seasonal tariff on fruits and vegetables.

CONSUMERS ASK FOR REDUCTIONS

Ask For Hearing Before Tariff Board On Oct. 27th

Ottawa, Sept. 28.—Thursday, October 27, has been fixed by the advisory board on tariff and taxation as the date for the hearing on an application from the Consumers' League of Canada for an investigation into the tariff on manufactured rubber goods.

In its application the League claims that Canadian consumers are paying excessively high prices for such commodities as shoes, rubber boots and shoes, rubber clothing and similar lines of goods. Decision to ask for the hearing contends that the present rates of customs duties practically prohibit imports, with the total annual consumption of $12,000,000, he declares, only a little over $2,000,000 of which manufactured rubber goods were imported. He claims the Canadian manufacturers are able not only to control the home market but to export more than $20,000,000 worth of products annually. He further asserts that the industry is largely controlled outside of Canada and that the profits go to garish stock holders in other countries.

When the representatives of the industry appear before the board in opposition to the application, they will probably endeavor to prove that they do not take advantage of the tariff in their Canadian selling prices. They will also argue that their plants are efficiently managed and that the protection afforded by the existing tariff is not excessive.

TOOK PATIENT'S TEETH FOR PAY

Vancouver, Sept. 28.—(By Canadian Press).—A local dentist, Dr. F. P. Edmunds, who was charged with having assaulted Charles Wood by taking his false teeth from him because the latter had not paid in full for them, was acquitted by police Magistrate H. been no evidence to show any undue C. Shaw, who held that there had force on the part of the dentist.

Brokland testified that he had been given his false teeth on the installment plan and as he had become delinquent on the last payment of $10.00 the dentist took the teeth from him one day when the latter was on the street. The witness proved him into a doorway, he asserted, and grabbed the teeth out of his mouth.

The dentist produced a paper in court purporting to be an agreement that the teeth were to remain his property until paid for.

Instead of proceeding through courses from soup to nuts, a Roman banquet advanced from eggs to apples.

It Pays to Keep Zam-Buk Always Handy!

Because it quickly soothes the pain of a sudden cut, burn or scald. ¶ Because it soon dispels inflammation and reduces swelling. ¶ Because it grows new healthy skin where injury or disease has torn or corrupted the tissues. ¶ Because as a first-aid it is miles ahead of common salves and ointments.

"Absolutely Unequalled"—"When my little girl badly burnt her foot," writes Mrs. C. W. Kitchen, of South Avenue, Wilkinsburg, "Zam-Buk healed perfectly, leaving no trace of the sore whatever. In a bad case of ulcers Zam-Buk was equally good, also for boils and skin eruptions. You cannot be without it for healing our cold-sores and chilblains Zam-Buk has proved absolutely unequalled."

Zam-Buk owes its superior healing properties to certain very active herbal extracts, and secondly, to its entire freedom from animal fats and coarse mineral drugs.

Zam-Buk commands the confidence of First-aid Experts and Professional Nurses. Its safe and ever-ready character wherever a healing, soothing and antiseptic agent is needed has led to the recognition of its indispensability in every modern home.
